Acid Test Reveals Human Shortcomings

One of the most disconcerting things about life is the way it will toss an utterly unexpected challenge in a man's face every now and then.

Consider, for instance, the thing that happened the other day in Mt. Clemens, Mich.

A young mother went into a store to shop, leaving her car parked at the curb with her 4-year-old son in the front seat.

Two young men were standing on the street. She screamed to them for help. They looked blankly at the moving car, said, "What can we do?"

Two other men heard her screams. They made for the river without asking questions, went right into it, and got the frightened 4-year-old out of the car unhurt.

The whole business lasted perhaps half a minute, from start to finish. When that half-minute began, there were four men on the street, all of them, presumably, reasonably well satisfied with themselves.

Now the point of this incident is that like most of life's tests, it came so unexpectedly that the people who were being tested had no time to make up their minds what they were going to do.

We could all be brave and noble fellows if we had time to nerve ourselves for the ordeal in advance; to marshal our "better natures," call up our reserves of moral and physical courage, set our teeth and plunge in with due resolution.

Most of us have a pretty sorry gap between ideals and practice. We know what we ought to be, and we know that we don't come very close to it in daily life.

Which is where we kid ourselves pretty badly. For life brings us these emergencies without warning, and they are past before we know they have come.

Japan's sole desire, says a Tokio spokesman, is peace in Asia. The peace of the dead?

If a Pilgrim Father Should Drop in on You This Thanksgiving—

Mexico Celebrates Anniversary of One Of Her Larger Revolutions Of 1910

BY WILLIAM H. LANDER United Press Staff Correspondent MEXICO, D. F., Nov. 22—

Mexico is celebrating today the 27th anniversary of "The Revolution" as President Lazaro Cardenas pushed forward his program to convert the nation into a "democracy of laborers."

Flags fluttered over all public buildings and foreign embassies and legations. It was a general holiday throughout the land.

Cardenas, during the three years he has been president, has given new significance and importance to the movement which began 27 years ago. He has firmly proceeded with his efforts to improve the lot of the Indians.

Cardenas, during the three years he has been president, has given new significance and importance to the movement which began 27 years ago. He has firmly proceeded with his efforts to improve the lot of the Indians.

Celebration of an athletic—instead of a military—parade is in accordance with the policies of Cardenas (himself a general who now rarely wears his uniform) of stimulating sports and education, and to relegate the military to a secondary position.

The revolution which started on Nov. 29, 1910—led by Francisco I. Madero in the north and in the south by Aquiles Serdan in Puebla and Emiliano Zapata in rural districts of the state of Morelos—had as its principal aim the overthrow of the dictatorship of General Porfirio Diaz.

In 1910 the motto was "Sufragio Efectivo—No Reeleccion," (meaning Effective Suffrage—No Re-election). It was aimed to stop the practice of Diaz, who had been president from 1876 to 1880, and then continuously from 1884 to 1911.

The original revolution, in its military phase, triumphed on May 10, 1911, when the border city of Ciudad Juarez (across the river from El Paso, Texas) was taken. Diaz fled to Paris, while Madero triumphantly entered Mexico City on July 7.

But the liberal democratic program of Mexico as planned by Madero did not become firmly established. General Victoriano Huerta, allegedly with the support of the United States Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, staged a counter-revolution, and from then on for many years Mexico was torn with bloody internal strife.

It was inevitable that in view of all these circumstances the revolutionary program should suffer profound transformations. Today, for example, more attention is paid to the Zapata emblem of "Tierra Y Libertad" (Land and Liberty) than the Madero motto of "Sufragio Efectivo—No Reeleccion."

Modern Pioneers to Re-enact 3000-Mile Trek

Pioneer plainsmen thought their journeys hazardous, but how about the dangers of whizzing autos and carbon monoxide fumes which will confront 36 doughty "modern pioneers" when they accompany the covered wagon and ox team, shown above, in a re-enactment of the 3000-mile trek of Northwest Territory settlers from Ipswich, Mass., to Marietta, O., and through the other five states of the Northwest Territory? Dressed in coonskin cap, leather clothing and carrying powder horns, the members of the 1937 caravan will be on the road several months, starting Dec. 3. Their wagon is an exact duplicate of the Conestoga wagons used by the original caravan. Some of the iron parts are even from the early caravan vehicles.

State Welcome To Industry Is Seen Necessary

Leaders Favor Program to Encourage Business; Laud Economy.

DALLAS—Belief that Texas could easily meet any "challenge" of other states in bidding for industrial growth by moderating its seeming official aloofness to industry—which at present contrasts with its unofficial but widely-evident sentiment for courting new business—was expressed today by Homer Mitchell, outstanding Texas insurance authority, and Hubert M. Harrison, manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

This was the general consensus of business leaders reflected in a survey by the All-South Development Council as to what the recently announced co-operative drive of nine southeastern states to promote their industrial expansion, individually and collectively, means to Texas' ambitions to become adequately industrialized.

"Of course, we have plenty of outstanding physical advantages here in climate, resources, labor, fuel, population and purchasing power," said Mitchell. "But we can't feel really sincere about inviting our industrial friends to invest here, on the basis of these fine potentials, without warning them of their liability to having help carry the load of an unnecessarily expensive state government, and admitting frankly to them that the trend of legislation in recent sessions has posed grave problems for not only new industry, but for the industries which have contributed to the upbuilding of Texas to date. Obviously, the record as it relates increasing burdens placed upon industry may be credited with nullifying, in the minds of many potential converts to Texas, the state's other attractions."

Still Dishing It Out

Max Schmeling dons the chef's cap and samples the chow at Summit, N. J., where the German heavyweight has pitched camp to prepare for his warm-up bout with Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, Minn., farmer, at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 13.

"Drawing up a program of objectives similar to that of the southeastern governors group would be helpful, whether any special board—which would cost money—were organized to promote it or not; because just going on record, as they have done, would perform bring a realization that we would have to exercise sufficient business acumen and restraint, as a state, to make our claims stand up under test. But surely weas—a state—can't brag much about our business acumen right now." Harrison maintained that "Texas has been and is getting plenty of advertising, from its expositions and from commercial organizations and industries interested in attracting investors and 'population' here. And it looks as though we're starting on an 'economy in government' cycle. That, unquestionably, would be our very best publicity.

Pointing out that "we have no established policy affording industry that security which invites investment of capital and personnel, which is what these other

"Seeing Eye" Aids Blind Law Student

AUSTIN, Texas—A "seeing eye" German shepherd dog is enabling Lloyd Sparkman, Dallas law student at the University of Texas, to make his sightless way through the world without serious handicap.

Sparkman, briskly following the beautiful shepherd, claims such faithful guides are opening new fields for those handicapped by blindness. The youth is a familiar sight on the Texas campus. Often the dog has Sparkman and a blind friend in tow, taking them both safely through town.

Sparkman appeared recently to tell the Texas house of representatives the value of trained dogs in leading the blind. He was sent to the Seeing Eye institute at Morristown, N. J., by the state commission for the blind. His 22-month-old dog, trained at a cost of over $1,000, was purchased for $150.

To demonstrate for legislators, Sparkman's shepherd led him through the crowded chamber, past countless obstacles without faltering. The youth said the dog answered commands to halt, go ahead, or turn to right or left with such accuracy that he could find his way through a strange city if given the proper instructions.

The dog, said Sparkman, understands traffic signals and will not lead his master into the sidewalk, or even up a flight of stairs without first stopping. Sparkman then determines what is the matter, and gives the animal the command to turn or go ahead.

Pastor Jailed on Old Charge

Fighting extradition to Illinois as a parole violator, Rev. Harley Croucher, pastor of the Southern Baptist church at Alamosa, Colo., where he is pictured above in a jail cell, doesn't let his troubles interfere with his enjoyment of a baked rabbit dinner provided by the sheriff. The minister, who has admitted he was sentenced for forgery, declares he has led a blameless life since he became an evangelist seven years ago.

The dog, said Sparkman, understands traffic signals and will not lead his master into the sidewalk, or even up a flight of stairs without first stopping. Sparkman then determines what is the matter, and gives the animal the command to turn or go ahead.

Livestock Tick Eradication Program Continues In Texas

AUSTIN.—The Livestock Ticks Commission of Texas in conjunction with the Bureau of Animal Industry conducted a survey for the prevention and eradication of the fever carrying tick in counties in Texas for the month of October.

25 whole and parts of counties are engaged in systematic tick eradication work. 24 whole and parts of counties are released from both State and Federal quarantine but retain a small number of quarantined herds that are being systematically treated.

The remaining 29 counties part of one are also released from quarantine but are counties which inspections or dipping both are done in accordance with State or Federal requirements. 139,671 herds and 2,011,971 horses, mules, jacks and nets were dipped or inspected.

106 herds and 349 horses were upon inspection found infested with the fever tick. 36,373 herds and 437,145 stock are being held for systematic treatment.

IF ELECTED..

Dollar bills are your ballots in the stores. The offices the candidates seek are a place on your dining-room table... the privilege of clothing your body in comfort and style... of making your home more pleasant... of serving you in a thousand-and-one ways.

Yes... breakfast foods, clothing, furniture, rugs, refrigerators are public servants. Their campaign speeches appear the year round in this newspaper. The things they promise to do for you—if elected—are promises they will keep! For reputable, experienced advertisers know that nothing could do their business more harm than a broken promise... the failure to make good on a public statement.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper—today and every day. Use the manufacturers' printed "platform" as a basis for making your choice... for finding the things that suit you and your pocketbook best. Then vote your preference at your nearest store!

EXTRA EXTRA EXTRA. Here is good news—A WANT AD in the columns of this paper will sell some piece of furniture, will buy what you need, will help you find a job, will help you hire some one to do housework, washing, etc., the rate is very cheap. Phone today and a solicitor will call and help prepare your copy. EASTLAND TELEGRAM PHONE 601
