Funeral services for H. C. Fox, 84, who died suddenly at his home, 616 South Oak Street, Ranger, Thursday morning, are to be conducted Sunday afternoon at Evergreen cemetery in Ranger, at 2 p. m., by Rev. T. E. Bowman, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Ranger, conducting the services. Final arrangements have not been made, pending the arrival of a daughter, who is now enroute to Ranger from Hartford City, Ind.

The deceased was born in Clarion County, Pa., Dec. 3, 1853 and came to Ranger from the Oklahoma oil fields in 1919 and had been a residence of the city since that time.

In his early manhood he became interested in the oil business, first working in the industry in 1872, and had followed it until his retirement a few years ago.

He was married to Miss Mary Ann Best on Feb. 18, 1872 and to his union four children were born, three being still alive. One daughter died nearly 25 years ago.

Surviving relatives include his widow, two sons, Perry Fox of Fortson and John Fox of Burkett and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Mansbury of Hartford City, Ind.

Mr. Fox was well known in Ranger and the surrounding oil fields for his very pleasant personality and kind disposition and his death, which was sudden, came a shock to his many friends.

Police officials here Friday urged a "safe and sane" observance Saturday night of Halloween eve.

"Have your fun," it was advised "but be sure that it doesn't include damage of property, malicious acts or anything that constitutes violation of the law."

Property rights of others must be respected, it was cautioned. At the same time officials pointed out that cooperation of parents and children has been received for several years.

SENATOR SAYS TAX SESSION WAS SCUTTLED

By United Press
AUSTIN, Oct. 29.—Sen. Frank H. Rawlings of Fort Worth today proposed a session of the legislature without pay, in reply to a statement by Gov. James V. Allred that the social security tax program was "scuttled."

Rawlings said that Allred, himself, "scuttled" the session and let legislators go home last Tuesday night without raising the money.

Rawlings proposed that Allred call a conference of members of both House and Senate who are "sincerely interested in solving this problem" to work out a bill. After it is prepared, he proposed an agreement be secured from a majority of both houses to pass it and that the legislature be reconvened again.

"I will serve without pay and I think the other members of the Senate will do likewise," Rawlings said. "Let's have a showdown and see who is sincerely interested in the old folks, the needy blind, dependent children, and teachers' retirement."

Rawlings renewed the statement that a majority of a House-Senate conference committee had agreed on a tax bill. Because of House refusal to withdraw instructions, he said, "the bill died in the House under the leadership of the young lieutenant of Governor Allred."

"During the last hours of the session," Rawlings said, "the Governor sat nonchalantly by on the floor of the House, saw this social security measure scuttled by his own lieutenant, and so far as I am informed, without one word of protest from him."

Fish-Eat-Fish Study Brings Chilean Award

SANTIAGO, Chile.—For his study of a fish which allows itself to be swallowed in order to eat the bigger fish from the inside, Prof. Ernest Gigoux, curator of the National Museum of Natural History in Chile, has been awarded the Order of Merit of the Chilean Academy of Natural Sciences.

Myxine dembeysii is the name of the fish which Prof. Gigoux has been studying in his private aquarium. When it has been swallowed, it hides itself in the organs of the larger fish and then begins to gnaw at it. Before long it has crippled its unwilling host and finishes by devouring it entirely.

NOLAN COUNTY JAIL TO LOSE FEDERAL RATE

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Justice Department today ordered U. S. Marshal J. R. Wright of the northern district of Texas, to remove federal prisoners from the Nolan county jail at Sweetwater, which has been placed on the disapproved list.

The action was taken because of escape of C. W. French, a federal prisoner awaiting trial on Dyer Act charges and four county inmates, Oct. 17.

The marshal will move five federal prisoners now in the Nolan county jail to other institutions.

Director James Bennett of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, said the marshal's office had notified the sheriff that a federal prisoner, upon being released from the jail a few weeks prior to the escape, had informed him that prisoners had tools in their possession by which they planned a release.

Bennett charged that despite the warning the five prisoners escaped.

Immunizing All Young Children for Diphtheria Urged

AUSTIN.—State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox urges all parents of children between the ages of six months and ten years who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to their family physician and have this done at once.

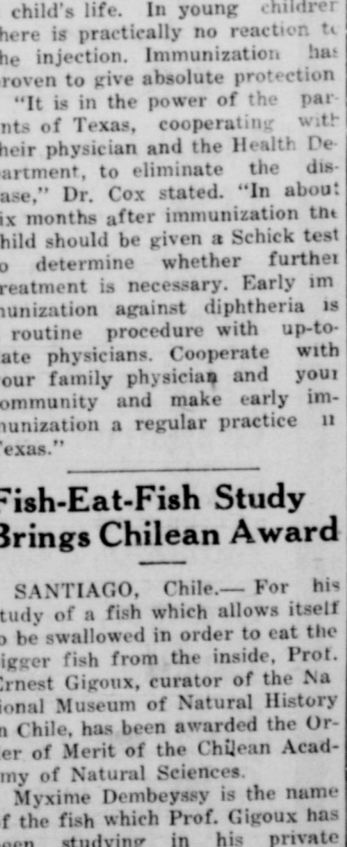

The first ten months of 1937 saw 1,635 cases of diphtheria reported to the Texas State Department of Health. This is an increase over 1936's figures, and shows the need of immunization of children in this age group.

It was not many years ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of inability of the medical profession to either prevent or cure the disease. But today when we know both the cause and the cure there is no obstacle but negligence which will prevent the complete elimination of the disease in Texas.

Diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, and it is especially important that immunization against it be given early in a child's life. In young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has proven to give absolute protection.

"It is in the power of the parents of Texas, cooperating with their physician and the Health Department, to eliminate the disease," Dr. Cox stated. "In about six months after immunization the child should be given a Schick test to determine whether further treatment is necessary. Early immunization against diphtheria is a routine procedure with up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in Texas."

Work of Italian Bombers in Spain

Seen from the air, it looks as though a grove of weird trees sprouts from the plain below. Actually each puff records the deadly explosion of a huge air bomb dropped by Italian flyers on loyalist positions in Spain. The picture is one of several released by the Italian Air Service in Rome.

Ohio Voter for 45 Years At Last To Cast His First Legal Ballot Nov. 2

By United Press
SPRINGFIELD, O.—When the November election rolls around, 69-year-old Mathew Meehan of Springfield, who for 45 years marked an "X" after the names of the candidates he preferred, will walk into a voting booth and cast his first legal ballot.

Years ago Meehan came to this country from County Mayo, Ireland. When he reached 21 he began voting. Not once in the following 44 years was he challenged at the polls.

Two years ago, however, Meehan was told that all of his votes should never have been counted, that every one he cast since his first one—that for Grover Cleveland in 1892—was invalid because he was not a citizen of the United States.

During those years Meehan had believed he was a citizen. His father became naturalized years ago, he told officials of the Clark County Old Age Pension Bureau when they informed him he had to prove his citizenship before he could be granted a pension.

The bureau checked old records and informed Meehan that his father had been naturalized, but not, they pointed out, before Mathew was 21 years old.

This fact changed everything as far as the younger Meehan's citizenship rights were concerned. Had his father become naturalized before the son was 21, the latter would have assumed his father's citizenship. But when the elder Meehan did not become naturalized until his son was past 21, Mathew still remained an Irishman in the eyes of immigration officials.

Meehan resolved that he would become a citizen. He took out naturalization papers and when the two-year naturalization period expired recently, Meehan passed the examination with something to spare and won the right to resume casting his votes at election time.

Red Cross Makes Final Report On New London Blast

By United Press
ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The American Red Cross has begun distributing to Texas chapters its official report of the gas explosion last March 18 which destroyed the school at New London, Texas. Thus, so far as relief work is concerned, the curtain has been drawn on the nation's most frightful school catastrophe of recent years.

The printed report shows that $32,067 was expended by the Red Cross. Of the total, $21,620 was contributed by individuals and other organizations.

Medical and nursing costs amounted to $21,380, while burial expenses assumed by the relief agency totaled $14,720. Rescue, transportation, mass shelter, food, clothing and maintenance were other major items of cost listed by the Red Cross.

Of more than 100 persons injured, the Red Cross cared for 77 cases. Follow-up work has included some plastic surgery and provision of an artificial leg for the only victim permanently crippled by the explosion. In addition, Red Cross nurses have made 451 home visits.

BRITISH POST IS WIPED OUT BY JAPANESE

By United Press
SHANGHAI, Oct. 29.—Japanese shells wiped out a British outpost at the edge of the International Settlement tonight and a high foreign official predicted swift action would be taken as the result.

Three British soldiers of the British Ulster Rifles were killed, and three others wounded by the Japanese shells that fell in the settlement and the French concession.

Entrance of the Japanese navy motorboat into the Soochow creek sorely aroused British commanders, who ordered the Japanese to get out of their defense sector. The Japanese complied.

British soldiers said the Japanese had informed British military commanders that they would resume the artillery barrage, which is endangering foreigners on the western boundary of the settlement.

The warning was given, it was understood, despite a British protest against the outpost killings.

Ad Valorem Tax On Oil Producers Increased In Year

DALLAS, Texas.—Property or ad valorem taxes levied upon Texas oil producers showed substantial increases last year, while levies on all other taxable properties were in many instances reduced, according to a report just issued by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

Analysis of ad valorem tax levies in 56 Texas counties for the year 1936, compared with 1935, shows that taxes paid by oil producers increased $1,395,172 while levies on all other property valuations showed a net decrease of $449,627.

The report shows that oil property in Brazoria County increased $169,000, while other property taxes decreased $3,000; in Pecos County oil taxes increased $146,000 while other taxes decreased $125,000; in Chambers County oil taxes increased $120,000 with other levies showing a decrease of $29,000. Additional county figures, taken from local tax records, showed a large number of similar comparisons.

In many oil producing counties of the State oil operators are becoming alarmed over the substantial increases being recorded in their local tax cost per barrel. Analysis shows that increased tax costs are due in many instances to continued increases in local tax levies, despite the fact that production of oil is being reduced through natural decline in productivity of wells. In many Texas counties this situation has cost oil operators from three to four cents per barrel, making the ad valorem rate in some counties as much as nine cents per barrel in addition to which they must also pay State and federal tax levies.

Buechel, assistant director of the bureau of business research of the University of Texas said today that the computed farm cash income in Texas during September was $101,000,000 compared with $87,000,000 during September last year, an increase of more than 15 per cent.

The average September farm cash income during the 50-month base period, 1928 to 1932, was approximately $114,000,000 so that the September index percentage of the base period income was 88.4 this year and 76.4 last year.

Reverse, Remand Case from Taylor

The 11th Court of Civil Appeals Friday reversed and remanded the case of W. P. Wright against O. D. McCoy, an appeal from the Taylor county court.

Wright was owner of a truck hit in a collision with a truck owned by McCoy and brought suit originally in the Taylor county court to recover damages. By cross action McCoy alleged cause of action against Wright for damage to his truck. Each alleged negligence.

In the answer of a jury to special issues in the trial court it was found the plaintiff's vehicle was damaged to the extent of $158.50. Defendant's damage was placed at $70.

From the jury's answers the trial court rendered judgment to the effect that neither should recover damages. Then Wright appealed.

O. C. Funderburk, associate justice, stated in an opinion: "It is our belief that this case was not tried and judgment rendered upon a correct theory of law, that the verdict of the jury in the light of undisputed evidence was conflicting in its parts, that the judgment should be reversed and the cause remanded, and it is accordingly so ordered."

JURORS GIVE WARNING ON FARM THEFTS

Apparently mindful of Thanksgiving and the approaching hog butchering season, members of the 88th district court grand jury of the September term Thursday in a final report warned that "misdemeanors and felony thefts are quite likely to occur from now on in the various farming communities."

The jurors returned seven true-bills Thursday, bringing the total for the term to 21 felony and one misdemeanor. Through R. F. Cox, Okra, foreman, and Vance C. Littleton, Cisco, secretary, the jurors in their written report stated they had been in session eight days and had examined 97 witnesses in the term.

Charged in the indictments returned at the final session were theft of edible meat (two), burglary, receiving and concealing stolen property (two), theft over $50 and petty theft.

The report of the group also commended cooperation of the district attorney office, sheriff's department, Department of Public Safety, Police Chief M. L. Perdue of Cisco, M. H. French, Cisco fingerprint expert, and bailiffs.

The suggestion on farming thefts was as follows:

"We desire to call the attention of the citizenship of Eastland county to the fact that misdemeanors and felony thefts are quite likely to occur from now on in the various farming communities and we request that prompt reports be made to the sheriff's department in order that a quick and thorough investigation might be made and proper punishment meted out to the law violators."

Other members of the jury were J. D. Guy of Carbon, H. C. Dyer of Cisco, Jack Blackwell of Ranger, T. Jay of Gorman, Dallas Jobe of Gorman, L. E. Herring of Ranger, G. S. Bruce of Desdemona, Wayne White of Route 3 Gorman, Herman Harrelson of Nimrod, and R. F. Bradshaw of Scranton.

Machine Gathers And Dries Hops

By United Press
YAKIMA, Wash.—Experiments are being conducted here with a device which, if successful, is believed destined virtually to revolutionize the hop-picking industry.

R. Langevin, of the White Bluffs district near here, has perfected a machine which not only picks the hops, but dries them as it works. Langevin said he has been working on the mechanical kiln and picker for nine years.

Thirty men, with the aid of the machine, can accomplish the same amount of work as 200 men in the same length of time working in the field, the inventor says.

"The machine turns out cleaner hops than hand labor and when the hops land in bales, they are dried and ready to ship," Langevin said.

Vines are cut in the fields and tied to sticks about 8 feet long. These sticks have 6 rings on them to hold the vines in place.

The vines are started on a chain conveyor into a long shed and move at about 7 inches a minute in double rows. The room in which they pass is kept heated by blower conduits from boiler rooms located in the basement. When the hops reach the center of the shed they are almost completely dried.

The vines then move through twin rollers, one of which looks in cross section like a four-leaf clover—the other a conventional cylinder. These rollers free the hops from the vine, drop them into a metal apron and onto a belt which conveys them to a grated shaker. The chaff drops through into sacks for disposal.

The hops stay on top and roll across the agitator into chutes, ready for baling.

The combination kiln and picker can handle 378 vines every four hours. When the heat unit is perfected, Langevin said, he will be able to speed the vines through faster than 7 inches a minute.

The contraption is equipped with multiple speed controls, however, so when the heat problem is improved, it can be increased to two feet per minute.

Installation will cost $1,500, Langevin said, and in most cases, pickers can be set up in the lower floors of buildings already available.

"If the machine proves successful, it will mean cleaner picking and will actually reduce overhead," Langevin said.

Actor Gives 'Don'ts' For Young Doctors

By United Press
LONDON—A long list of "do's" and "don'ts" to guide them to success and popularity among patients have been offered students of the Westminster Hospital Medical School by Sir Seymour Hicks, famous actor-manager, speaking as a "patient of 65 years' standing."

"I have enjoyed a great many very pleasant illnesses in my time," he said. "In fact, at times, I have almost been a professional patient. That is my only excuse for having the temerity to come here and give you a few scraps of advice to remember when you leave the hospital and embark on general practice."

Here are Sir Seymour's Do's and Don'ts for young doctors:

Don't keep your patients waiting.

Don't let your wife talk about medicine and surgery in private life.

Don't give us small talk in the consulting-room.

Don't try and impress on us that you're attending Lord and Lady Lipstick.

Don't allow scandal to be talked in your presence.

Don't back horses.

Don't go to the moneylenders.

Don't talk medical shop in mixed company.

Do always dress for the part. Do cultivate an easy, smiling manner.

Do employ a smiling parlormaid to open the door.

Do be definite, even if you're wrong.

A general practitioner's patients said Sir Seymour, are divided into four kinds.

"Fifty per cent of them are natural people — be very kind to them," he advised. "Thirty per cent are shy — treat them with tolerance. Ten per cent are snobs — give them a swift kick in the pants. And ten per cent are idiots. Get down on your knees and thank heaven for that last ten per cent — for they'll never find you out."

Blindness Ends After 20 Years

By United Press
DENVER. — A grandmother's determination to see her grandchildren, three of whom were born since she became blind 20 years ago, led to a delicate eye operation which restored the woman's sight.

It was in 1917 that Mrs. Mary V. Dunklee, wife of District Judge Geo. F. Dunklee of Denver, lost her sight. It was believed then that the cause of her blindness lay in some incurable ailment.

So for 20 years, Mrs. Dunklee lived in a world of darkness.

Recently she became convinced in her own mind that an operation would restore her sight. A Denver doctor was equally convinced. Friends warned her of the hazards of such an operation at her advanced age. She believed it worth the risk.

"Do you realize," she would say, "that I have three grandchildren whom I have never seen? I don't think any risk too great that might permit me to see them."

Following the operation she saw them all, also a fourth grandchild, now a grown man, whom she last beheld as an infant.

"It's lovely," she said.

The faces of her grandchildren, the theatre, books, parks, trees, flowers, and the thousands of physical changes that take place in two decades in a fast moving world—all were as new to her as though they had just been created.

She described a talking motion picture as one of the most startling experiences of her life.

"Seeing people on the stage," she said, "somehow accentuated how unreal it was to be seeing at all. I've never seen a sound movie, you know, and that's the next thing on the program."

The operation was performed only on Mrs. Dunklee's left eye. Vision is not perfect, but with glasses she can see well. An operation on the right eye may be performed soon.

Big Splash Always Ends in Tiny, Fading Ripple

All stories are longer than they look. We seldom hear the complete story of anything, because every story is like a stone plunged into a lake...

Thus a tiny ripple passes across today's news, all part of a story that made a very big splash 35 years ago.

Richard Croker to a whole generation of Americans was a symbol. No child was too young, no man too old to have heard of Richard Croker...

Croker was the last of the colorful Tammany bosses, inheritor of the soiled mantle of Tweed.

And of what he left behind at his death, what remains today? The Tammany organization is badly on the run in New York City...

But Croker left behind a great fortune, the extent of which was never exactly determined.

And what happened to that? Long and bitter legal squabbles distributed much of it among lawyers.

"The Wikwam," it was called, recalling its Tammany origins, and for years though it was gradually falling to ruin...

The last little ripple passes almost noiselessly along, and all that Croker did, all that he got, is vanished.

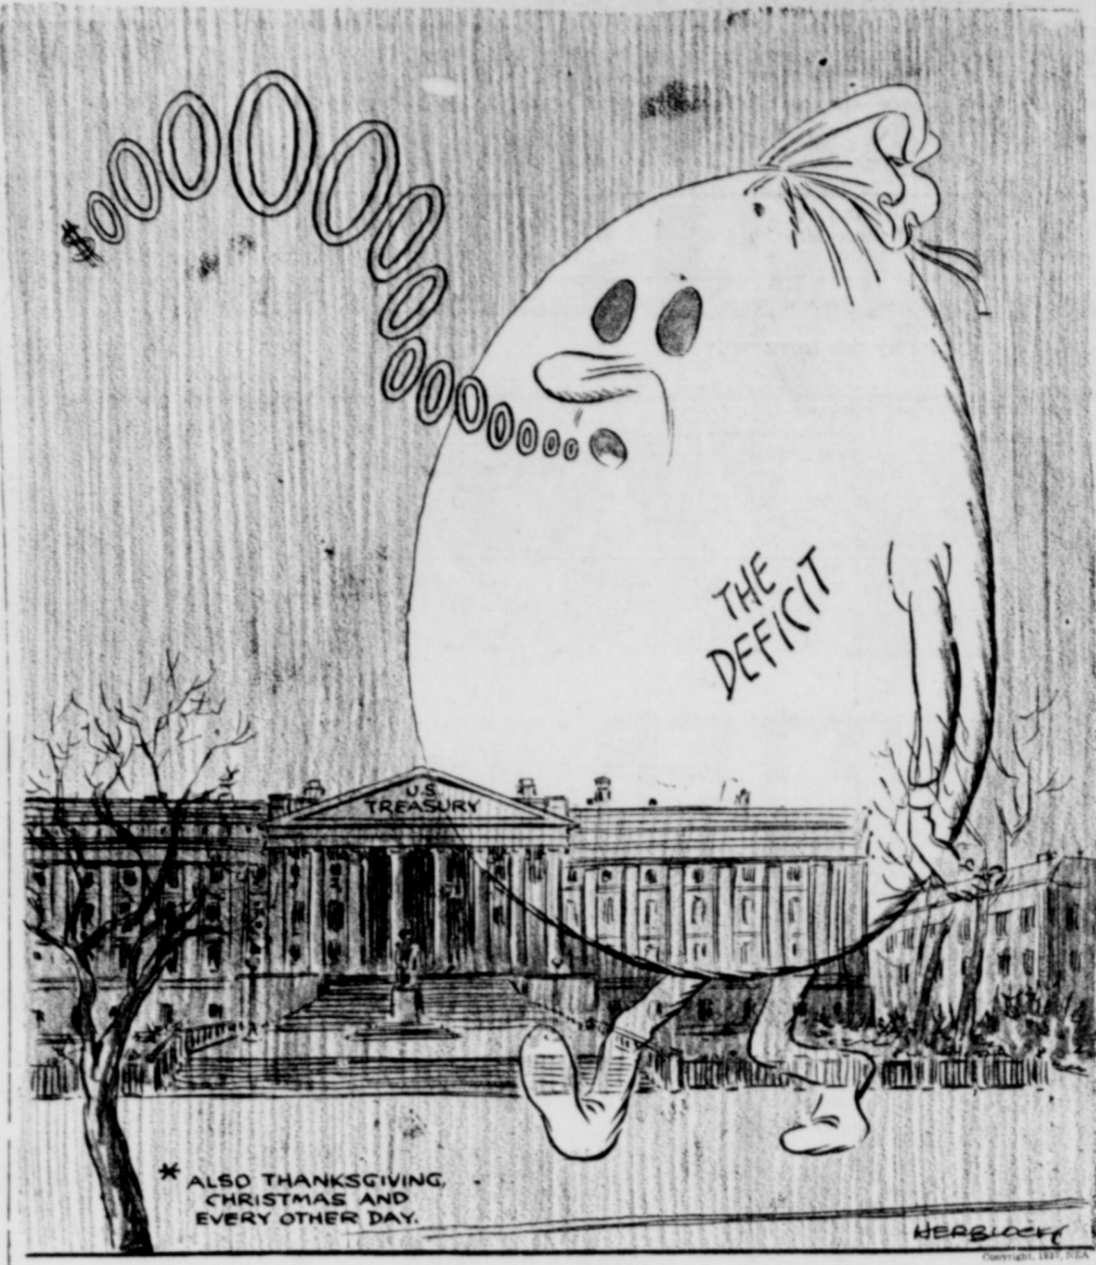

Croker died in exile, much hated and despised. Even the property he amassed failed to protect his widow.

Headline: "War Spirit Fed in Italian Children." They'd have enjoyed a hearty meal more.

Ex-WTCC Head Says Texas Is Not In the Dust Bowl

FARWELL—J. D. Hamlin, of Farwell, former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce...

"In only four West Texas counties—and only in parts of those—are there conditions which can be likened to a 'Dust Bowl,'" he said.

"For its area, Texas has suffered less from drastic drought and wind erosion damage than any other part of the nation."

Four counties have suffered only on their fringe. They are Dallam, Hartley, Oldham and Deaf Smith.

"For example, the eastern two-thirds of Deaf Smith County is well irrigated and more Hereford cattle are produced there than in any other part of the United States."

"Of our 300,000-acre holdings, 150,000 acres are in Dallam County and Hartley County and I am familiar with conditions there. I do not maintain that we have not been damaged. We have. The five-year drought has had its effects, and bad ones—but I do contend that it is a localized situation and that the term 'Dust Bowl' for all of West Texas, including all of the fertile acres that this year will produce their most beautiful yields, and to call it a drought-stricken wasteland, is grossly unjust and unfair."

Hamlin pointed out that Lubbock County anticipates a cotton crop of 100,000 bales this year, and that all of West Texas probably will produce 1,250,000 bales. Moreover, he said, the largest grain sorghum harvest in the section's history is in prospect.

Weather Man Gives Cats Credit For Being Forecasters

AMARILLO, Texas—H. T. Collman, weather man, who has been on the job for 28 years, places a lot of faith in cats, telephone poles, fiddle strings and in the weather.

"A house cat is a fair forecaster at times," Collman said. "When a cat puts on heavy fur in the fall, you can look for a hard winter. When a cat wants to eat all the time, it's a good sign a cold snap is on the way. But if the cat eats little or refuses to eat in winter months, it's a good sign of continued warm weather."

"You can go pretty far by telephone wires, too. If a telephone line sings, and sings loudly, you can look for a cold spell."

"That is true of other noises. If, for instance, you can hear trains or machinery a long distance, it's a good sign of damp weather."

Pre-Revolutionary Relic Destroyed

Modern improvements are blamed for the flames and smoke that lick the roof and spire of the 202-year-old Dutch Reformed Church at Pompton Plains, N. J. The fire was blamed on a short circuit of electric wiring. Many documents and historic relics were destroyed.

Cattle Shipments In September Are Above Last Year's

AUSTIN, Texas — Livestock shipments from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during September were sharply above those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Forwardings of all classes of livestock totaled 7,704 cars, compared with 4,247 cars during September last year—an increase of 81 per cent. Cattle shipment, 3,996 cars, compared with 2,529 last year, gained 58 per cent; shipments of calves, 1,830 cars, compared with 857 cars, increased 113 per cent; hog shipments, 638 cars, compared with 354, were up 80 per cent; and sheep forwardings, 1,240 cars, compared with 507 cars, gained 146 per cent.

Shipments of all classes of livestock to the Fort Worth market maintained a wide margin of increase over September last year; and forwardings of cattle, calves, and sheep direct to feeding areas in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, and other corn belt states were several times those of September last year.

Plane's Nose Dive Routs Stalking Lions

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia—While flying over the Kayama Pan, in the Victoria Falls district of Southern Rhodesia, Ted Spencer, pilot of an airliner, saw a pride of lions attacking a herd of eland, a type of large antelope.

The eland, about 200 strong, wheeled in a circle with the full-grown animals on the outside and some 80 calves inside the circle. Two lions and lionesses were charging the herd to try to cause a stampede and so capture some calves.

To save the eland, Spencer dived at the lions, and as he swooped over them they leapt at the plane, snarling and roaring. This interruption, however, gave the herd of eland time to escape.

When angry a skunk stamps the ground with its forefeet. And that's not all.

AIMS TO DO WELL FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

Casey Stengel, paid $15,000 not to pilot the Brooklyn Dodgers last season, probably will not get as much for bossing the Boston Bees next year, but the merry manager aims to do well in his new position. He succeeds Bill McKechnie, who moves to Cincinnati.

IT REALLY HAPPENED IN FOOTBALL!

DARKNESS cloaked the players of two southern prep school teams as they battled through the closing minutes of what seemed sure to be a scoreless tie. Finally one team desperately attempted a field goal from an almost impossible distance, and an absurd angle. Whether the ball had split the crossbars or gone wide the officials couldn't tell, as it sailed into the darkness. Only Dixon, safety man of the opposing team, could see whether the goal was good or not. "Goal!" said Dixon. "I'll say so! I never saw a prettier one." And he rushed to congratulate the opponent whose kick had beaten him.

PATTY WENTWORTH, Jill's step-sister.
JIM WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.
SYLVIA SUTTON, oil heiress.

Yesterday Ardath hints to Alan that Jill maneuvered the $500 purchase of his picture. And Alan's bright world topside!

CHAPTER IX
ARDATH HOLM did not analyze her feelings. She had wanted to hurt Jill for some reason. From the moment she met Jill she had realized they were potential enemies.

Jill, with her beauty enhanced by expensive clothes, represented the type of people Ardath was accustomed to serving. In her heart she hated all of them, though she catered to their whims, as she must.

At Alan's studio, she had read Jill's love for him in her eyes. Ardath, too, had been stirred by his charm.

He had not really seen her during that half hour they were there. Ardath decided which was an affront to her vanity. Men were always aware of her the moment she entered a room. But Alan had been following Jill with his eyes, had waited for her approval. There might have been only the two of them in the room. Although he had talked a great deal with Patty, Ardath knew that she and Patty might as well have stayed at home. There was a magnetic current between Jill and Alan which no one could interrupt.

But currents could be broken. "Where have you been so long?" Patty asked, as Ardath came in. "Are you going out to dinner with me?"

Ardath tossed her small felt hat on the sofa. "I was busy," she answered, coolly.

"Well, hurry. I'm so starved I could eat two dinners." Patty surveyed Ardath, trying to read signs of trouble-making. She didn't know why, but she had detected mischief-making proclivities in Ardath. She was nobody's angel girl, that was certain.

Through dinner, the usually talkative Patty was unusually silent. Oh, why had she talked about Alan's good luck to Ardath? Tomorrow, she would call Jill and tell her what she had done.

It was just about this time at the Wentworth home that Mrs. Wentworth was saying to Jill: "There is a very rude young man downstairs in the drawing room. He practically broke in, over Perkins' protest. When he saw me, he demanded to see you. He looked like an anarchist, or something." Mrs. Wentworth ended vaguely. "His hair needed combing, and he didn't have a hat."

Jill's heart almost stopped beating. Alan, of course. Very rude! Yes, he could be very rude when he was not pleased. If either Perkins or mother had put on airs, it must be something like that.

He couldn't possibly have learned about the picture, Jill told herself, frantically powdering her nose. Her eyes looked scared in the mirror, and she made a little grimace at her reflection.

Nothing could have leaked. There were only three people in the world who knew about the picture. Dad, Mr. Felton, the dealer, and herself. The picture was now carefully stored, awaiting her orders.

Oh, of course! He had found out who she was. He probably believed she had been masquerading. But all that could be cleared up when she talked with him. He would laugh at her for being foolish. And that would be all.

But despite her sensible reasoning, with which she was bolstering her courage, Jill felt far from courageous, as she ran lightly down the great staircase. There was something of the frightened little girl about her as she reached the bottom step, and saw Alan waiting.

Jill's dark and troubled eyes met his. She was very pale. Alan had a wild desire to shake her, and then take her in his arms. But if he took her in his arms, he would be lost. Jill and all the things she stood for would win over the things he had set as standards.

"Please tell me into the music room," Jill spoke in a low tone. She had recognized the signs of avid curiosity in her stepmother.

The door closed behind them, and Alan burst out hoarsely: "I came to return $2600. Unfortunately $400 of your money is reposing in the pocket of the man who rented me his place, who, I understand, left town tonight—I don't know where. But I assure you every penny of the balance will be paid to you as quickly as the money comes in."

"Did anyone tell you I bought your picture?" Jill asked in a low tone.

"No," Jill said.

"Thank you very much," Alan said, unsteadily. "It happens

Q. Who was the first Texan killed in the Mier expedition?
A. Jesse Yocum of Liberty, who was killed accidentally on the eve of the Battle of Mier, Dec. 24, 1842.

Q. What pioneer Texas physician has been honored by a granite marker at Salado?
Dr. Wellborn Barton, who was born in 1821 and died in 1883. The marker was placed by the Centennial historic board.

Q. Where did Cox's men meet their first effective resistance?
A. At Gonzalez, where they were met by a small armed force, who not only refused to surrender the colony's only cannon, but with it drove the Mexican detachment that was sent for it, back in humiliating defeat.

Q. Why is there such confusion as to the route of the Chisholm Trail through Texas?
A. The Chisholm Trail proper extended from Abilene, Kansas, to Red River Crossing and was blazed in 1867 by Joe McCoy, who was employed by Chisholm. Texas drivers to Kansas markets started from numerous Texas points and connected with the Chisholm Trail at Red River Crossing, each one designating his route through Texas as the Chisholm Trail.

WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Postmaster-General James Aloysius Farley will be out of the cabinet "by the end of November."

Well, to be honest about it, this is just one more of those supposedly trustworthy tips from the so-called "inside." Washington correspondents with prophetic tendencies have been stiching their necks out on the basis of such tips for more than three years, every now and then.

Insofar as the last story concerning Jim's future intentions is concerned, it just won't come true. This was a very interesting yarn promoted by others than those who had a right to speak for Mr. Farley. The indication was that as soon as a certain reorganization program and a certain issue of securities taxation involved were okayed by the Securities and Exchange Commission, Farley would quit the Post Office and go to work for the company involved with a large bonus of stock.

That story left the inference, if one is to judge from the gossip about town, that the SEC might naturally be expected to act favorably. Diligent research reveals two facts. First, that the SEC has indicated no intention to act precipitately, if at all. Second, that Jim Farley has shown not the slightest sign to SEC that he believed it should.

Farley would like to quit as postmaster general and jump into business for awhile. He has had no end of offers, but if one can judge the man at all from personal scrutiny, he is primarily anxious to take on a job, which his executive ability will be recognized and given full swing.

And to go even further, as far as this writer can learn, Farley would like to feel that he was being offered a job in recognition of his able administration of the Post Office Department and nothing else.

So perhaps Farley will quit by December and perhaps he won't. If he doesn't, you can be fairly sure it will be because he has a great yen to stick around long enough to be able to make a better approach toward his ambition of a postal surplus instead of the traditional postal deficit. Farley is a sentimental Irishman, more honest than many of the men with whom he has been willing to associate, and he always has taken that Post Office job seriously.

Farley hasn't told anyone yet, but it is widely supposed he wants to run for governor of New York in 1938. And some of the hardest-thinking depositors are convinced that he also has in mind the presidency of the United States. If he really has been bitten by the presidential bee, one can only call attention to the fact that it's a common affliction.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer

AFTERNOON TEA has come back as a standard American social function. At many of the smartest afternoon social gatherings now, neither cocktails nor highballs make their appearance. Tea takes the honors. So if you like the idea of gathering a few friends around a steaming cup and some neat cocktails, go to it. You have the blessings of the leading social arbiters of this country.

For informal teas you can invite your friends by phone or by note. Four or four-thirty is the accepted tea hour, but that can be changed for the convenience of guests.

For larger formal teas, the invitation is a visiting card with the date of the tea and the time written in the lower corner opposite the address. For example, on one line, "November 8th," and under that, "Tea at 4 o'clock." If the tea is in honor of someone, "To meet Mr. or Mrs. So-and-so" is written across the top of the card.

Friend of Hostess Pours
At teas of this type the hostess invites one of her closest friends to "pour." Wearing a tea gown and hat, she will sit at one end of a large table with tea service directly in front of her, and the cups, saucers, spoons, and napkins to one side. The hostess, dressed in a long, semi-formal gown, stands near the door where it is convenient for her to greet guests and introduce them to others. If she feels that the number of her guests may prove unwieldy she "stand" with her. They, like the "pourer," wear hats, and tea gowns.

At a large tea here in America, much tea is expected of the hostess in the way of food than at a small one. She should have at least one hot dish, such as gingerbread, or scones—and sandwiches, cakes and candies.

These are attractively laid out on the table with plates and forks. It is a good idea to have chairs along the wall close to tables so that guests who wish can sit there or take their tea and sit there to another part of the room.

Items for Large Tea
Among the fo. is considered with special favor for large teas are cinnamon toast, hot buttered crumpets, cucumber, lettuce, or olive sandwiches, slices of layer cake, assorted cookies, mints, and assorted nuts. The hostess is not limited to these suggestions but may choose, as her fancy dictates, from a large field. In most cases she will decide on one or two hot dishes, one or two kinds of sandwiches, plus the cakes and other "accessories."

The large table must be covered with a large lace cloth, or its highly polished surface left uncovered. Also, there should be an attractive centerpiece of flowers and candles—the arrangement left to the good taste of the hostess.

Four Games Go On Sport Glances. By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
NEW YORK—Perhaps it is the suspicion that a remarkable Cornell crew must suffer a let-down somewhere along the route, but I have a hunch that Yale will check the phenomenal comeback drive of the Big Red in the New Haven Bowl, Oct. 23.

There are other reasons for liking Yale, too. The Bulldog matches Cornell in manpower. Last year's guards are battling to hold their jobs, which gives you an idea of the line.

The Cornell club can't help but feel pretty cocky about their early routs of Colgate and Princeton, and the splendid back, George Peck, is on the sidelines.

Switching across the continent, we will obtain additional evidence as to whether the current California Bears can be mentioned in the same breath with the Berkeley wonder team of 1920. The Bruins rate an edge over Southern California, with corking backs like Johnny Meek, Sam Chapman, and Vic Bottari, but the Trojans travel north with Amby Schindler and the impetus acquired by nosing out Ohio State.

Ohio State's straggling line should repulse Northwestern in Columbus.

NOTRE DAME may rapidly be taking the No. 1 position in the Purity League, as is claimed on its home grounds, and as a result is lacking the material of past autumns, but the Irish still appear to have enough to repel Navy at South Bend.

Dartmouth will make it close, but Harvard continues to climb and should prevail at Cambridge.

Pittsburgh took a lot out of Fordham, no doubt, yet Texas Christian will find the Ram line too firm in New York.

Personable Harry Stuhldreher has made considerable headway at Wisconsin, but Pitt will be Pitt in Pittsburgh.

Temple's superior backs give the Owls a slight margin over Carnegie Tech in Philadelphia.

Marion Konemann in the backfield and the biggest and best ends in the south give Georgia Tech the jump on Auburn in Atlanta.

NORTH CAROLINA turned back New York University on passes and without showing everything it had in stock. Tulane is plenty tough, but it wouldn't surprise me to read of an upset at Chapel Hill.

Getting back into the Big Ten, Iowa hasn't been able to get up and go, while Michigan is stronger than most people imagine.

Missouri isn't likely to do what Minnesota couldn't do against Nebraska.

In the southwest, Texas A. & M. one of the country's finest, definitely is the choice over Baylor. Southern Methodist is noted for fancy stuff, but with Jack Robbins pitching leather, Arkansas has even more. Rice plays spotty football, and Hugh Wolfe, the most dangerous open field runner on the field, and others, give Texas a bulge.

Joe Gray and Oregon State really accomplished something in shading Washington in the last minute of play, but Oregon frequently manages to find a way against the Beavers.

Stanford will settle for a draw with Washington in Seattle, and may get it.

Boarding Sheep Is Profitable Business
HALE CENTER, Texas—Winter sheep pasture is a problem in the short grass area of West Texas, and farmers in this area make a nice profit boarding sheep for the winter.

It has been estimated that 18,000 head of sheep already are on pasture near Hale Center, and as many more are expected to be received before another month.

Camp Fire Secretary Speaks at Eastland:

Miss Catherine Lee Wahlstrom of New York City, associate national field secretary of the Camp Fire organization, was in Eastland Wednesday afternoon and spoke in the high school auditorium.

Miss Wahlstrom came here from Abilene where she addressed the Rotary club and presided at the Camp Fire Council Meeting held there Tuesday. Mrs. R. A. Larner, guardian of the Adahi group, introduced her.

Miss Wahlstrom opened her talk with two parables; one about the king and his three sons and the wise choice of the younger in preferring the faithful servant; and a group of Camp Fire girls stating their wishes and the wish of the wisest little girl, who chose Camp Fire because she could get all the things the other girls had wished for in the one organization.

She illustrated her speech with a display of Camp Fire regalia, the head bands, belts, and the ceremonial dress worn at Council meetings. She further explained that each girl chose a symbolic name for herself and this symbol was woven into her head band and belt. She also stated that the ornaments on the Ceremonial dress were honors of achievement; that each head and design tells the story of some task completed.

Miss Wahlstrom listed the seven crafts and explained the meaning and works of each; she gave the four ranks that a girl must go through; the beginner, the Trail Seeker; second rank, Wood Gatherer; then Fire Makers and the highest, the Torch Bearer. She gave the meaning of the three linked rings used on all Camp Fire ornaments, which means "Work Health and Love."

She told of the opportunities for better health, happiness, and the ability to discover oneself that the Camp Fire organization offers.

Miss Wahlstrom stated that there were over 20,000 Camp Fire girls in the United States, with groups in every state in the Union and that there were over 100 girls camps.

She closed her talk by repeating the vow that each Camp Fire girl makes on entering the organization.

At the close of the program Mrs. Robt. Gann sang song, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Waters," accompanied by Mrs. Donald Kinnaird.

Explosion Causes Only Minor Damage

SWEETWATER—Other than ripping a small hole in the roof of the building and driving all the customers into the street, little damage resulted when a steam cooker filled with beans exploded in a cafe in this West Texas town. J. W. Stewart, manager, was left holding the sack when the bean-pelted customers failed to come back inside to pay their checks.

Farm Equipment Exhibit by NYA Is Sent to Washington

AUSTIN—An exhibit of farm equipment made last summer by youths assigned by the National Youth Administration to a Resident Work and Agricultural Training Project which was operated at several Texas colleges has been sent to Washington for display this week at a conference of NYA directors of all states in the Union.

J. C. Kellam, Texas Youth Director, had the equipment shipped ahead and took with him several rugs which girls working in NYA sewing rooms in Dallas and San Antonio had made from cloth scraps. Among farm equipment made by youths on the Agricultural project were singletrees, halters, pruning knives, driving lines, and lariats. The articles sent to Washington were made under the supervision of M. F. Thurmond, associate professor of agricultural engineering at Texas A. & M. College, at which one unit of the resident training project was operated.

Mr. Kellam is scheduled to report at the Washington conference on the Resident Work and Training Projects conducted in Texas. Last summer nearly 500 Texas youths from rural areas were assigned for six weeks to work at an agricultural college. During their spare time they were given instruction in agricultural methods and practices by regular members of the college staff. He will also report on the recreational leadership training project conducted at Southwest Texas State Teachers College during the summer and on the domestic service training project for Negro girls which has been in operation at Prairie View State College since November 1935.

Skunk Family Causes Motor Jam On Road

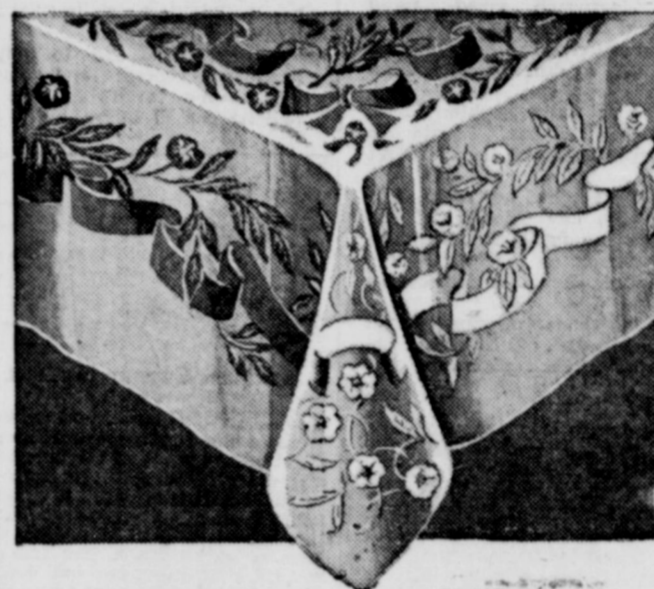

By United Press

FORT WORTH, Texas—Most of the time tourists are rather fussy about detours, so it becomes news when an entire highway is jammed because of a detour, such as happened on Highway 89 between Weatherford and Ranger.

Work on the highway has caused several makeshift detours. A party of Fort Worth engineers, coming to the top of a hill, found the entire highway blocked with cars, all waiting on something.

The something was a mother skunk and two baby skunks, contentedly eating in the middle of the road. A crowd of tourists waited from a safe distance. When the family had its meal, the tourists moved on.
