Medals Are Late For Philadelphia Veteran

PHILADELPHIA—Joseph Ruben, 37, a Philadelphia policeman, has just been decorated for bravery in action in France 19 years ago.

Ruben received the Pure Heart and Silver Star medals from the War Department. He already held a Croix de Guerre received in France.

The bravery citations were given to Ruben because he carried a wounded comrade back to the trenches while he himself was wounded, during the battle of Cantigny.

The medals were presented to Ruben by the War Department.

Facing Music Will Cure Hit-Run Evil

A prime example of the manner in which a man may make a snap decision, influenced by fear, and regret it the rest of his life, occurred recently in Cleveland, O.

About 8:30 one evening, the unconscious form of a 24-year-old woman was found lying in the middle of a residential street. The motorist who struck her apparently had stopped to investigate, then, in sudden panic, had fled the scene.

Next morning, a local newspaper received a postcard on which had been printed these words in crude letters:

"DEAR SIR: PLEASE PRINT IN YOUR LETTER COLUMN AND TELL ME WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO ME. LAST NITE I ACIDENTLY RUN DOWN A LADY IT WASN'T MY FAULT OFF OF TAYLOR ROAD. I GOT A FAMILY TO FEED AND GOT A JOB LAST WEEK. I CANT LOSE IT. I GOT TO KNOW WHAT HAPPENED. SHE SCREAMED AWFUL. I BEEN WANDERING THREE HOURS"

The man who wrote that letter could have picked up the limp body of that girl, taken her to the hospital and reported to police with his explanation.

But he didn't. He had only a few seconds in which to decide a course of action. Blinded by panic, he ran away.

Now he is a fugitive criminal. Unless he surrenders he will be haunted by aching fear to the end of his life. The fact that the accident may have been unavoidable means nothing to him now. He broke the law by leaving the scene.

The newspaper and police officials published appeals to the driver to "step forward and be a man." They pointed out that the girl would recover and said they would listen sympathetically to his story. But up to the time this is written he had not made known his identity.

The lesson to be learned is, of course, that every person should prepare himself for just such an emergency by determining in advance to do the manly and decent thing in case of accident. Humans cannot always trust themselves to make correct decisions on a split second's notice.

How much better for this man if he had decided long ago that if he ever became involved in such an accident, he would scorn flight, render all possible assistance, and keep his conscience clear by facing the music like a man.

Americans have been all too prone, in the last couple of decades, to try to "beat the rap" every time they get into trouble, whether it be a parking violation or murder. Isn't it about time citizens took on another cargo of common decency and honesty?

A British expert predicts aircraft soon will be propelled by hot air. With the congressional elections coming on, the U. S. soon will have an inexhaustible supply of fuel.

Indian Mounds Are Charted After Study

ST. LOUIS.—A plat charting historic Indian mounds in nearby St. Clair county, Ill., and Madison county, Ill., has been presented to the Missouri Historical Society by George B. Higgins, St. Louis druggist.

Higgins spent two years completing the chart, covering the area inch by inch each Sunday.

The druggist became interested in the mounds in 1902. He visited them frequently, and decided to make the chart because he feared they would eventually be destroyed and lost to posterity. He completed the plat in 1922.

The accuracy of the plat is attested by Warren K. Moorehead, archaeologist, who has explored the mounds extensively. Higgins showed the plat to the archaeologist, who said it was the finest piece of work of its kind he had seen.

Although St. Clair county mounds are not primarily burial mounds, funeral pyres and cremated bodies of Indians have been found in them. The mounds are believed to have been on the Missouri side of the Mississippi before the stream changed its course.

Several mounds in St. Louis, long since destroyed, gave this city the nickname, "Mound City."

If you enjoy fruit, here's news for you. Orange supplies between now and May are expected to be the largest on record. During this period, both Florida and California will divide the honors. Fruit for dessert is not only good food, it is also now "highly fashionable." Especially when served with cheese, such as Liederkranz, Roquefort or Camembert. If you are not in the habit of serving a cheese and fruit dessert, begin this pleasant custom at your next Sunday night supper.

Preserved fruits as well as fresh fruits make tasty alliums with cheese. Preserved figs, dried and stuffed with a mixture of cream cheese and a dash of salt and cayenne are tasty novelties. Liederkranz makes a piquant stuffing for large prunes. Large black grapes, chilled, and seeded, are delicious stuffed with pimento cheese.

Baked Rhubarb and Bananas

Two cups rhubarb, 3 bananas, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-2 tablespoons butter. Wash rhubarb and cut into one-inch pieces. Peel and slice bananas, arrange in baking dish in alternate layers, add sugar, lemon juice and butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) two hours.

Sunday's Menu

BREAKFAST:

 Baked rhubarb and bananas, dry cereal, scrambled eggs with chicken livers, popovers, jam, coffee, milk.

DINNER:

 Grapefruit, roast leg of lamb, chutney, brandy gravy, roast potatoes, tomatoes stuffed with green peas, mold- ed green pepper and radish salad, Indian meal pudding with vanilla ice cream, coffee, milk.

SUPPER:

 Cold sliced lamb, creamed potatoes, pickles, celery, olives, cheese and fruit tray, tea, milk.

De Luxe Compote

(4 to 6 servings)
Six red apples, 6 eating pears, 1-2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup water, juice and rind of 1 lemon, juice and rind of 1 small orange. Peel pears and apples and cut into thin lengthwise strips. Make a syrup of sugar, water and orange and lemon juice. Cut rind of lemon and orange into very small pieces and cook in syrup. Add apples and pears to syrup and cook until soft. Place in individual glasses and chill in refrigerator. Top with whipped cream and a little candied peel or ginger or a cherry to make a richer dessert.

FORMER head of the espionage corps of the Department of the Interior, Louis R. Glavis told Senate investigators that tapping of Interior office telephones wires, "probably" included taking down incoming White House calls in short-hand.

Saga of Arctic In Ship's Log

By United Press

SEATTLE.—The rokish motorship Boxer of the U. S. Bureau of Indian Affairs returned to Seattle recently after an 11,000-mile cruise through Alaskan waters, during which she stopped at countless native villages and government schools dotting the coast.

The scarred little vessel ventured as far north as Hooper's Bay in the Bering Sea and Atka in the Aleutian Islands. The ship originally served Point Barrow, northernmost settlement under the American flag, before the motorship North Star was christened in 1932.

Eskimo hunters aboard the Boxer killed one of the largest polar bears ever seen in Alaska on one of the Arctic cruises. The bear, weighing 1,900 pounds, measured 11 feet. It was killed 25 miles off Wainwright on the Arctic coast.

Meat from the carcass provided natives of Wainwright with food for several days. The giant animal was found on an iceberg two miles square.

Since the North Star was commissioned and assigned to the Point Barrow run, the Boxer has been serving the small villages along the Bering Sea and the more southern districts of Alaska. In 1932 the Boxer brought back a gallon jar with water dipped from the sea off Point Barrow. The water was used in the christening of the North Star.

The ship's log is crammed with entries made during 14 years of Alaska service. Detailed and colorful, the entries tell of terrific battles with stormy seas, erupt-

DiMaggio Goes to Bat for Joe DiMaggio, 1937's leading slugger, is in the sports writers' most valuable player award race as far as he is concerned. He'll go to the plate for the Yankees in the big game against the Red Sox on Saturday night. DiMaggio's salary in 1938, an increase of $15,000, is the highest in the league. He is also the only player to bat out 46 home runs last season.

 state of confusion.
CHAPTER XV
 OLD YOU'D never let you run away from me! Bret or it was Bret, holding her
 looking down into her eyes,
 may have done that to some fellow—remember I told you that you'd run away from me?—but you're not going away from me!
 Presently she was not, as she near the rumble of the midwinter, shaking the little platform as it went on by. "How did I was running away?"
 asked.
 "I don't know," Bret said.
 "I've been plenty miserable last days, honey. So I couldn't stand it any
 I felt I had to see you I rode by, got Eloise to the door—and made her where you had gone. She your message, sweet-you came after me!" That that he was not afraid, that they did not matter, that her, regardless!
 have followed you to the
 the earth," he said. "I've big-headed, stubborn—and reckoned I did forget that the biggest thing in all more important than all of me about it. But you must away with me, it gave me quite a you really are."
 talked he had led her to his car; now he tossed into the back, held open
 for her with a flourish
 ow.
 "Are we going?" Connie Not that she cared. She delightedly happy that she care about anything. Bret given her for her depreciation of her. She had she had—was here at
 now, which was the most thing of all.
 "I turned to look
 her, so little and lovely,
 and said, at his side—the curve of her cheek, the beauty of her eyes. "I've understood why she had
 that we can't late in
 of the country, and at an outlandish hour. We're to rout him out of his nice warm bed, too, and tell him to get busy and change your name once more. For the last time, this . . ."

 "Oh, Bret!" It was all that she could say, but it was enough.
 He had not waited even for that much; he had switched on the ignition, grown the little car into gear; they were speeding back, almost as fast as he must have come.
 She gave a little sigh, nestled closer to him. Yes, that was all that counted. He loved her, because she was herself, just as she loved him because he was Bret Hardesty, no other. There was no rhyme nor reason in love; perhaps no logic. Yet she had been right when she had told Eloise it could surmount any obstacle, that it was greater than life itself.
 It was no easy task, as Bret had predicted to find a justice of the peace at that time of night. The first place they stopped it was impossible. No around anyone, but at the next, Bret pounded on the door persistently until finally he succeeded in getting a response.
 This was not the sort of wedding that Constance Corby, the richest girl in the world, should have had. Not the sort of wedding that Connie had dreamed of having one day. That would have been a gorgeous and lavish affair,
 with a thousand or more guests,
 flashlights flaring, reporters waiting for interviews, a crowd of the curious public pressing outside the canopy that led to the church,
 mounted policemen to keep them
 in order, an escort on motorcycles to clear a path. Connie would have worn white satin, fashioned by one of the leading Paris creators, a veil that would have stretched for yards and yards, a prayer book bound in white leather in her hands and a bouquet of rare white orchids. There would have been a dozen bridesmaids in rainbow colors; an organ
 murmuring "O Promise Me"; rice and old shoes, champagne, cake
 with white icing, tier upon tier.
 Instead, this wedding took place in the front parlor of a small frame house in a little mountain town. The parlor smelled strongly of mothballs. The light from the chandelier made a glistening mirror out of the round ball spot on the justice's head. His wife, acting as witness, her hair done up in curl-papers, yawned openly more than once. This was no out-of the ordinary occurrence to her,
 young people were so impatient;
 she and her good husband were often routed out of bed at all sorts of unearthly hours to "tie

Marriage Falls for Third Time

The presence in Reno, Nev. of Mrs. George Rand, above, of New York, was taken to mean that the cereal fortune heiress' third marriage since 1930 was on the verge of divorce. The daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Post Hutten Davies, now wife of the U. S. ambassador to Belgium, obtained an annulment of her marriage to playwright Preston Sturges, subsequently divorced poloist Etienne Gautier.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The wages one over ex-Senator Tom Helin, and hours bloc in the House, barely beaten in the special session when the House Labor Committee bill was recommended, is plugging grimly to get another wage-hour bill out of the committee without delay.

As the administration also moves to get action on a measure as nearly as possible like the Senate bill of last year, the outlook is considerably more hopeful than it seemed after the House had buried the committee bill by a vote of 216 to 198.

Events since Christmas have pepped up the wage-hour congressmen, progressives, New Dealers and White Houseers to a point approaching exuberance. They're all set for a drive to get out another congressional left-winger. The House rules committee again sits down on it, to start again on the task of obtaining 218 signatures to force the bill to a vote.

Holiday blasts by Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Secretary Tolson, despite the heavy return fire, have been hailed as evidence that the New Deal was fighting back against its detractors.

Roosevelt's message, reiterating his previous aims, thrilled the so-called congressional left-wingers. Everyone who had supported Roosevelt in his battle with the Supreme Court greeted the retirement of Justice Sutherland with delight.

Finally and most of all, the victory of Congressman Lister Hill in the Alabama senatorial contest brought new hope to the liberals. Not well known in Alabama, campaigning on a 100 per cent Roosevelt platform, and strongly endorsing the wage-hour bill, Hill won two to one over ex-Senator Tom Helin. Spousal of the wage-hour bill in such a southern state as Alabama had been considered to mean political suicide. Alabama is agricultural and its labor unions predominantly A. F. of L.

Wage-hour enthusiasts believe Hill's victory can be used to change some southern votes.

Some congressmen say they found during the holidays that although local A. F. of L. union leaders had obeyed President William Green's instructions to wild protests against the bill, the bulk of union members appear to favor a wage-hour law.

FOR the first time, bets are now being laid that Assistant Attorney General Jackson will be the next governor of New York.

Postmaster General Jim Farley has told friends that he would not be a candidate, although Roosevelt would have supported him. Farley needs to make money, he says.

It is reported that Farley, who is chairman of the New York State as well as the national Democratic committee, would prefer to have Senator Robert F. Wagner run. But it is practically certain, first, that neither Farley nor Wagner will stand in the way if Roosevelt tells them he wants Jackson, and second, that Roosevelt will tell them just that.

Selection of Jackson to appear as chief speaker at New York City's Jackson Day Dinner was engineered by the White House. Jackson's hard-hitting speeches against monopoly and the New Deal Big Business opponents will be held against him in some places, but he will be promoted as the small business man's friend and crusader.

Sport Glances.By Grayson

DETROIT—They say that the Detroit Tigers have a left-handed Bob Feller in Gene Hinrichs of Rockwell City, Ia., which is not far to the north of the farm homes of Feller and Nile Kinnick, the University of Iowa's fine all-around athlete.

After slamming the door in the faces of Hawkeye opponents last spring, Hinrichs went on to pitch brilliantly for the Farmers' Union of Des Moines, with which team Feller made his start.

Hinrichs yielded a total of 14 hits in bagging seven straight games for the Farmers' Union. He had one no-hitter, two one-hitters, one two-hitter, two three-hitters, and let Fort Crook, Nebraska state amateur champions, down with four hits. He has turned in three no-hit games, one in semi-professional ranks at Lytton, Ia., one at Des Moines, and the one in Des Moines.

Those who have seen Hinrichs assert that he had an opportunity to show his wares in the American League, Mickey Cochrane wouldn't have had to bring all that criticism down on his head by including Gerald Walker in the deal with the White Sox for Vernon Kennedy.

RAY FISHER, the former major league slinger now coaching baseball at Michigan, claims Cochrane wasn't nearly as badly skinned as Detroit bugs claim in the Gee Walker transaction, however. Fisher contends that Kennedy will give the Tigers badly needed pitching strength, and a pair of G. Walkers could not offset that deficiency.

Wholesale substitutions, a la hockey, would solve the complaints that basketball is causing athlete's heart with its incessant action. Frequent injections of fresh talent not only would relieve exhaustion, but also permit more boys to play.

Tom Harmon, the freshman football player who was the center of a subsidizing controversy at Michigan last fall, has expressed his intention of trying to earn 12 letters while at Ann Arbor. Nine has been the limit, but the Gary, Ind., youth possesses reputed prowess in basketball, track, and baseball, as well as on the gridiron.

IT is said that Bill De Correvont, Chicago's phenomenal high school back, was all sewed up and ready for delivery to Michigan when Harry Kipke's dismissal chilled his would-be benefactors.

Contrary to prevalent opinion, Fielding H. Yost had nothing to do with instigating the action against Kipke. Fearing criticism, the Old Man sat back and tolerated the general situation. Other members of the athletic board, following investigations some of them made privately, forced the dismissal action.

Kipke, if he doesn't land a suitable coaching post, probably will connect with the Ford Motor Co., with which he has close connections. These connections contributed to his downfall at Michigan, in fact. But that's a long and conjectural story.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

THE largest collected piece of the Arizona Meteorite, a 1400-pound stone, is in the Colorado Museum of Natural History. Several other museums have stones weighing more than 1000 pounds from this same crater area. In all, about 15 tons of stones have been removed from this one small spot.

Q. When was the "Battle of Conception" fought and what precipitated it?
 A. Austin wished to get his men as close as possible to San Antonio and while camped at Salado Creek about five miles away, he sent a detachment of 92 men under Col. James Bowie and Capt. James Fannin to select a site closer in for a camp. The expedition camped for the night near Mission Conception and on the morning of Oct. 28 found itself surrounded by about 400 Mexicans, whom it engaged in battle, compelling a retreat to San Antonio, with a loss of one Texan and a score or more of Mexicans.

Q. What action was taken by the consultation of Nov. 14, 1835, as to a Texas Declaration of Independence?
 A. The subject was discussed at length, but it was not deemed advisable to take immediate action and by a vote of 33 to 15 it was postponed.

Q. Where was the Old Preston Crossing?
 A. On Red River, northeast of Denison and a little east of the Katy crossing on that river.

Q. Where was the Old Yellow House Ranch?
 A. The Littlefield ranch in Lamb County was popularly known as Old Yellow House ranch, the name being given it because of the yellow headquarters house.

Q. What dissensions in Texas weakened the strength of the Texas forces and resulted disastrously to the Army?
 A. Although Houston had been elected Commander in Chief of the regular Army, the Council of the Provisional Government, without consulting him or Governor Smith, authorized an expedition against Matamoras, thus scattering the forces and weakening the defenses at San Antonio, dividing military authority and support, creating utmost confusion and destroying effectiveness of both the Army and the Provisional Government, but for which the disasters at the Alamo, Goliad, Refugio and San Patricio might have been avoided.

Q. When did the consultation of 1835 convene at San Felipe, what was its representation and what did it accomplish?
 A. A quorum was obtained Nov. 3 and it was in session until Nov. 14 with a full representation of 81 members from 12 municipalities. Dr. Branch T. Archer was elected chairman. Among the actions taken were: adoption of a
