Words on War to Give One Pause

The gravity of developments in Europe and the Far East as threats of a serious nature to our own security sometimes seems to increase or diminish in intensity according to the person one reads about the subject.

Little wonder that the public mind falls into the habit of skimming as lightly and casually over articles of significance on international affairs as it does over the various contradictory pronouncements on the real nature of the warfare of the future. Bewilderment of course leads to indifference, and ignorance lies only a little way ahead along that road.

On an exceedingly rare occasion a man whose personality and background are such as to compel exceptional attention to his words in that particular situation arises and gives a whole people pause with the thing he has to say.

It is likely that Senator George W. Norris' words on naval defense and the ambitions of other nations are commanding some attention. Senator Norris on another subject might not command it. His words in another man's mouth might not. But Senator Norris, who has expressed his violent opposition to a big navy as often as he has expressed his desire for peace, has now done what he describes as "modifying my position somewhat," not on the subject of peace, but on the subject of the navy.

"I feel bound to keep our country armed to an extent greater than Japan is armed or greater than either Italy or Germany is armed," he says, although he adds his opinion that the present pending naval construction bill is "unreasonably large."

Senator Norris, who was one of the six senators who voted against the entry of the United States into the World War, and who is no alarmist, says: "To me it seems almost as if these nations (Japan, Italy, Germany) have gone wild and have lost all sense of decency and honor."

It seems to me, no matter how we feel or what we think, we must make reasonable preparations, at least, to meet such a contingency.

The "contingency" referred to the bombing of civilian populations.

The electric horse on which Calvin Coolidge used to exercise now turns up in a health club for tired business men. This is in the nature of a Republican get-together.

As the Spanish war approaches its end, the only thing puzzling observers is who will be left to be taxed to reconstruct the country if there is anything left worth reconstructing.

H. V. Davenport Makes Statement Upon Candidacy

To the voters of Commissioner's No. 1, Eastland County:

Some time ago when I made announcement through the press that I would be a candidate to succeed myself in the office of county commissioner of precinct 1, I told you that I would have something to say relative to my candidacy.

In every instance, when one seeks public office, they are motivated by two interests: First for the financial remuneration the office carries with it; Second, that they may administer the affairs connected with such office in a manner that will be most efficient and profitable to those citizens who live within the prescribed area to which such office has jurisdiction.

Before reviewing some of the accomplishments of my administration, I wish to first express to my many friends and loyal supporters my deepest gratitude for their confidence and unstinted support.

Throughout my tenure of office it has been my earnest desire to render to all alike, both those who supported me and to those who conscientiously saw fit to support other candidates, an economical and businesslike administration.

As most of you know, when I was elected to this office, this precinct was in debt something like $20,000.00, which money had to be paid before any considerable amount of work in the way of building roads could be done. This money has all been paid, and with the assistance I have been able to get through federal agencies I have been able to build some very substantial roads in precinct 1, and at the same time furnish much employment for the unemployed of this precinct.

Under the projects coming under the head of WPA alone, I have furnished 357,234 man hours of employment for which was paid to local labor about $200,000.00, building 43 miles of substantial road, putting in 94 bridges. In fact, I have sponsored more projects and had them approved than any other commissioner in West Texas, having handled all projects to the perfect satisfaction of the state WPA officials, thereby enabling me to secure the approval of any future projects that may be available under government administration.

When you elected me as your commissioner I pledged you with my very best efforts to the best interests of the county, that as far as possible I would lend every effort to materially lighten the burden of your taxes, and as far as it has been in my power I have done so, trying at all times to equalize all taxes and lower them where at all possible.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson THE TEST OF LOYALTY

Text: Mark 9:2-10

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

THE story of the transfiguration of Jesus is very remarkable, even in a New Testament that tells us remarkable things. We have the portrayal of Jesus as He preached to the multitudes and as they thronged upon Him, not only to hear His words but also to see His wondrous works. We have the intimate account of Jesus with the inner circle of disciples, and we have the long discourse or series of talks, that we call Sermon on the Mount, which came out of this communion with Jesus as He met with His inner circle of disciples.

But here, even from the inner circle of twelve, we have Jesus taking three of the disciples—Peter, James, and John—and bringing them up onto a high mountain, where they had an experience that must have strengthened their faith and in some ways changed their whole lives. Here on the mountain, Jesus became transformed as they observed Him. His garments glistening with a whiteness such as no linen on earth could attain. And along with Jesus there appeared two, whom the disciples identified as Elijah and Moses, who talked with Jesus.

Peter, always the ready spokesman, was so overwhelmed by the vision that in his eagerness, he exclaimed, "Master, it is good for us to be here; and let us make three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah."

We are told that he knew not what he said—which has been true of more than one who has had some extreme emotional religious experience. Moreover, the disciples were afraid; there was something appalling and overwhelming to their human spirits in this manifestation. But there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, "This is my beloved Son; hear ye Him."

It was then that the disciples found themselves with Jesus alone. As they came down the mountain, He told them that they should tell no man of the wonderful things they had seen until after His Resurrection, but they did not even understand at the time what He meant by His reference to rising again from the dead. How they must have recalled this experience after the crucifixion and the Resurrection! What confidence it must have given them and what strength of faith, in the early days of the church!

THE story suggests the place of such experiences in the lives of all of us. The disciples did not stay upon the mountain top. They did not even return to the mountain top, expecting to have such a glorious vision again. They came down from the mountain, reminded by the Master that they should not even talk about the wonderful thing they had seen. They came back to the earth and to their daily tasks with the vision in a sense removed. These tasks were just as real, their duties and obligations were no less urgent, and yet—what it meant to have above this daily life the sense of this triumphant experience!

We should not value such extremely emotional experiences too highly, but neither should we regard them too lightly. We should make sure that from all the experiences on the mountain top, we get back into the realities of daily Christian living. That is the real test of the Master's presence and of our loyalty to Him.

A. L. (Aaron) Stiles' Statement Upon His Candidacy

In announcing my candidacy for Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, I desire to state, in the outset, that I have never before asked for a public office, therefore, if elected, I will have no political pretensions to favor or political enemies to punish. In making this race, I shall do so solely upon my own merits.

In view of the fact that I have lived in the County and Precinct for thirty-one years, I am very deeply interested in the welfare and progress of both. During the last twenty years of my life, I have been engaged in business in Ranger during which time I have closely studied and carefully observed what I considered to be the needs of our county and precinct. Certainly, I would not solicit your support for this most important office if I did not firmly believe that I was well qualified to fill the position.

If elected your commissioner, it should be my constant endeavor, in cooperation with the other members of the Court, to conduct, at all times, the affairs of the county and precinct on a business basis. Furthermore, I believe that the business of the county should be handled on the most economical basis possible. Realizing that our precinct has an investment of hundreds of thousands, yes millions of dollars invested in our lateral and farm-to-market roads, I promise to put forth every effort to the end that these roads are properly maintained and this enormous investment be saved.

The precinct, also, has many thousands of dollars invested in road machinery and equipment which investment should be protected. In my opinion, this could best be done by employing operators who are conscientious, efficient and experienced, which I would earnestly endeavor to do. I would also favor the building of just as many new roads, and at such places where the best advantage would be served, as the funds of the precinct would permit. Furthermore, it shall be my policy to employ Eastland County men, and will insist that those so employed be sober, honest and courteous.

It is my purpose to maintain two crews, one of which will be located and work out of Eastland and the other at Ranger, thereby making it possible to give each part of the precinct the same consideration and service. I promise that I will at all times carefully guard and honestly strive to protect the financial interest of both the county and my precinct. Furthermore, in my efforts in equalizing taxes, I shall at all times strenuously endeavor to see that no unreasonable, or unfair valuation is placed on the property of either the small or the large taxpayer, and that each is given a square deal and the burden of taxation be properly distributed.

It is my purpose to see every voter personally in the precinct, but, in the meantime, I want to invite you to carefully investigate my character and qualifications. To those whom it is impossible for me to see, I want you to take this as a personal solicitation of your support and influence.

Yours for service,
A. L. (Aaron) STILES.

Auto Dealer Urges Safety for Holiday Motorists

The vacation season will be here soon and, as usual, many local motorists are going to suddenly realize the fact a day or so before they plan to take a lengthy trip that their cars need considerable service work or need new tires, before holiday driving is safe, according to C. T. Lucas, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company dealer.

"It happens every year," said Mr. Lucas. "Motorists put off until the last minute the very necessary job of having their cars checked over after the winter season. There are many items that should be attended to before a holiday trip is attempted.

"Of prime importance is a check on tires," he continued. "If tires are worn thin during the winter, they should by all means be replaced before any trips are taken. Roads are beginning to get warm, and heat is the greatest enemy of tire life. Naturally, an old, worn tire is far more susceptible to failure after it gets hot than is a brand new one with thick tread rubber giving protection.

"While danger of icy roads is past, there will still be plenty of rain, and a smooth tire on a wet, slippery road can cause plenty of trouble, especially if brakes must be applied quickly. Sharp, gripping tread designs, such as those found in the Goodyear tires we handle, give utmost protection against skidding. After all, motorists should remember that while brakes may stop the wheels, the tires must stop the car. When that small amount of rubber is worn smooth, chance of stopping quickly is poor.

"When getting cars checked over for holiday driving, motorists should by all means see that tires are in good condition. By so doing they may avoid not only inconvenient stops along the roadside, but possible danger of accident as well."

Entertainer

When the Harley Sadler Show appears here for two nights commencing Friday, April 22, under the auspices of Eastland Fire Department, they will present, as one of their vaudeville features, Lew Childre, "the boy from Alabama," who has gained national fame as a radio entertainer, and recording artist. Lew has appeared as a sustaining feature on various programs on the major stations throughout the south-west and east coast. Lew Childre is recognized as one radio artist that brings his radio personality to the stage, not only does he sing and play, but is an excellent dancer, and really presents a worth-while program.

According to his fan mail, he is one of the most popular entertainers of his type in the radio field. Childre will have with him several members of his famous "River Revelers," who gained fame under Skipper Childre's leadership, over radio station WWL, New Orleans. Among them will be radio star, Wiley Walker and his fiddle.

Lew will be seen and heard on each program given by the Sadler Show while here. He also presents his vaudeville revue and musical show as a concert with the company.

Overcrowding May Bring Night Classes at Texas University

By United Press
AUSTIN.—Night classes at the University of Texas have been suggested by Acting President J. W. Calhoun as a possible solution to the problem of overcrowding. The administrative staff now is making studies to determine what can be done by increasing the number of afternoon classes and adding night classes.

The largest class in the university has 500 students. It is a history class and does not worry the faculty as much as some smaller classes in courses that are more difficult to present through group instruction.

Statistics show that the institution has 308 classes with more than 40 students, and 63 with more than 100 students.

Comparing the University of Texas with other schools, Calhoun says Texas parents cannot expect the local university to do as much for the students at a cost of $261 each as Michigan does with $515, Minnesota with $421 or California with $434.

General Electric Has Door Slammer to Test Refrigerator

The door of the household refrigerator is opened and closed more than any other door of the house, according to Harper Music Company, local General Electric dealer.

"A door-slammng machine slams the door of each test model 500,000 times, the equivalent of 30 years' use, before the cabinet design is accepted by General Electric for production," Harper said.

Other interesting refrigerator facts revealed by Mr. Harper are as follows:

A jiggling machine shakes and jostles the test cabinet day in and day out to prove it sturdy. Finally the abused machine goes to the hot room where it is tested for cold capacity.

It takes 24 hours to manufacture a G-E refrigerator, and three-fourths of this time, too, is spent in inspection and testing. Parts are fitted to the accuracy of three ten-thousandths of an inch, or one-seventh the thickness of a human hair. The unit is operated under water. Women, as well as men, inspect each cabinet on the assembly line.

Years of research and experiment are required to perfect each improvement before it is incorporated in a new model. General Electric started experimenting in 1912 with various types of refrigeration units, but it was not until 1927 that this company introduced the first completely sealed refrigerating unit.

He will be more favorably remembered as a member of the team "Lew and Wiley," the boys from Alabama. He has his own program as a sustaining feature over the radio station in Memphis, Tenn. He will appear at each performance of the Sadler Show, in conjunction with Lew Childre, and his vaudeville revue. The Harley Sadler Show will be here for two nights, commencing April 22 showing under the auspices of Eastland Fire Department.

Tallest Bridge to Be Dedicated at Port Arthur Soon

PORT ARTHUR, Tex.—Plans are going forward here for the dedication of the tallest highway bridge in the South and one of the highest in the nation.

The Port Arthur-Orange bridge across the Neches river on Texas Highway 87 will be opened to traffic between June 1 and July 1, depending upon the speed with which contractors can put the finishing touches on the $3,000,000 structure.

One of the greatest celebrations ever held on the Gulf coast is planned for the dedication of the mile and a half long bridge, which rises from a flat marshland on each side of the Neches river to attain a height of 230 feet—about that of a 20-story building.

The lofty structure has a clear height above water of 176 feet—43 feet greater than the Brooklyn bridge and 41 feet more than the Huey Long bridge at New Orleans.

Its horizontal clearance between main piers is 600 feet—the distance of two city blocks—and will permit the passage of 10 freight ships, moving abreast. The Neches river is a waterway for ocean-going ships.

The bridge forms a new link in the Hug-the-Coast highway and shortens travel distances along the Gulf coast, was financed by the Public Works Administration, Texas Highway Department and Jefferson County.

Four Days' Fishing Yields $600 for Each

GLOUCESTER, Mass.—Four days' fishing netted Capt. Peter Mercurio and his 12-man Santa Maria crew a year's pay.

Two trips to the Block Island banks yielded 100,000 pounds of mackerel that sold at high winter prices in New Bedford for 12 cents a pound—$600 per man.

The usual year's pay for seiners is $600, but the total 1937 wage for each member of the Santa Maria's crew was $2,000.

New York commission of correction says that unshaven jailors have a bad effect on prisoners. An overpowered guard might find his chin being used as a file.

Smelter Operations Depend Upon Mexico

EL PASO.—Brent Rickard, general manager at the El Paso smelter, said that unless the mining industry in Mexico is affected by labor troubles or government expropriation activities at the local smelter "should continue for some time."

Two lead and two copper furnaces all the units there are at the local smelter, have been operating for a year and a half. The smelter employs a force of 800 persons daily.

NAMES in the News

Names make headlines. Newspapers, today as always, are made up of what people say, think, propose, dissent from. Governments, institutions, businesses—and all their activities—are only the lengthened shadows of men!

What is true on the front pages is true, also, on advertising pages. Advertisements are simply signed statements of men, banded together to form a business who seek your patronage. They back their good name against the products they ask you to buy. They say, in cold black type, that theirs is a name you can trust.

People who get the most for their money in the market-places are people who know the value of familiar, trade-marked products. They buy with confidence. They buy by name—and save time, tiresome searching, and money! Are you doing likewise?

Does home need a "face lifting"?

Sometimes homes, like people, are taken for granted and signs of weariness go unnoticed. Homes, too, need beauty treatments. They come out of them renewed, refreshed, stimulating once more to all who meet them.

Early Spring is the time to plan the "face lifting" of the rooms in which you live. Carefully planned, a little money now can go far. Fortunately, authentic news of the latest, the best designed, the most economical in home furnishings and accessories is printed for you day after day on these pages. National manufacturer and local merchant advertise to help you.

Perhaps slip covers on davenport and wing chair will make faithful but a little weary pieces look like new. Perhaps summer draperies will make your living-room so fresh and gay that you yourself will hardly know it. A new rug may be the prescription that your home needs. A new lamp can light more than a corner—it can shine into the hearts of all who see it. Glassware, a new table, porch furniture, all can enter into your home's fact lifting.

Look about your home as if you had never seen it—and follow the advertising on these pages!

JOYCE WILKINSON, heroine; she is Sloppy Joe's girl.
DICK HAMILTON, hero; he is built into the hero's role.
ISOBEL PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday Mrs. O'Hara accused Joyce of cheating in a ship's game and Joyce only almost hear the curious whispers behind her back.

CHAPTER X

THE rain stopped early on Friday morning, and toward 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when the Empress sailed into the lovely harbor of Havana, the weather was perfect. Morro Castle, a gleaming white fortress, stood silhouetted against a cloudless sky of blue, and as the waves flashed up against the rocks the sunlight was caught in tiny rainbows in the spray.

Here in Havana the Empress was anchored nearer the dock than it had been in Bermuda, and the ride across the harbor was short. They found car No. 27, assigned to them, where a beaming young Cuban named Adolph offered himself as their chauffeur. Dick got in with the girls and Mrs. Porter. Neither the doctor nor Mr. Gregory planned to join the party, and Joyce watched absentmindedly whether Mr. Gregory had been successful in finding another agreeable companion.

"I suppose the first stop is Sloppy Joe's?" Dick asked merrily.

"Of course," Mrs. Porter's voice lacked enthusiasm. "That's the first place every American dashes for, as soon as a boat touches Havana. Unfortunately."

"Why unfortunately?" "It makes things so difficult for me, Richard. The drinks are strong, and Americans must always try new concoctions which they cannot stand."

Adolph drove expertly around the narrow streets, where sidewalks were more than two feet wide, every corner was a blind corner. But it did not matter; he had a good form and he enjoyed it. So apparently did every other chauffeur in Havana. The city was a bedlam of automobiles.

AT Sloppy Joe's they stopped, and Joyce stared in obvious disappointment. This place was famous from New York to Miami, not except for its size and its refreshments, it looked for all the world like an orange grid stand on a Broadway corner.

"What'll we have, Joyce?" Dick asked brightly, as they found a table.

Isobel answered for her. "Let's all have a Planter's Punch. They're fine here."

So Joyce, too, cast in her lot, and four Planter's Punches came along. Now other groups from the ship were arriving, and Sloppy Joe's faded into the familiar background of the ship's smoking room. It was easy to laugh and forget one's inhibitions and become a part of this gay, tempestuous city.

All too soon Mrs. Porter urged them on. "It's after 10 o'clock, and we should be at the Jai Alai games."

Isobel frowned. "Oh, mother, we don't want to sit there for hours! You run on along and we'll have one more drink and join you."

"Yes, why don't you, Mrs. Porter?" Dick encouraged, too. "Adolph can return for us."

She hesitated, but only for an instant. "All right, then," she conceded. "But only one more drink."

But it was almost midnight before they drew up in front of the stadium, and the last game was almost finished. Joyce glimpsed a quick vision of a sport that was a combination of tennis and handball, where the players used a long, curved racket, strapped to their wrists, and reminding one of the tenacious claw of some huge bird of prey. And then the game was over.

Outside, Adolph waited to drive them out to the famous Casino, where fortunes were made and lost on the spin of a roulette wheel.

Perhaps it was half an hour later, perhaps more, and her winnings were increasing steadily, but Dick had not returned. Now even her success at roulette was a bitter thing. Dick Hamilton, whom she had admired more than any other man she had ever known, was back there at the bar, drinking himself silly. And Isobel Porter, most likely, was with him!

A moment later, her suspicions were justified. One of the waiters from the bar came to the table and asked for her. In his broken English he tried to explain:

"Sorry. The senior, he is what you call sleeping. Too much— you know?"

Yes, she knew. She rose from the table and cashed in her chips. Dully she watched the bills counted out to her. Two hundred odd dollars! Well, sometimes it cost more than that to discover what a man was like.

She picked up her things and left the Casino. Adolph would drive her back to the ship. If she could not find him, there were other chauffeurs. Money did not matter now!

They played for many minutes, and Joyce watched the pile of chips dwindle slowly in front of her. It frightened her to see $10, $20, disappear in so futile a fashion, and she thought of Aunt Martha's frugal scolding. But when she tried to beg off, Dick urged her on, adding chips in his own pocket to her stack.

Then, quite astonishingly, she won. Dick patted her shoulder in spirited approval as the croupier swept the money toward her. Wide-eyed, she stared at the incredible pile. She'd won at least four times the number she had started with!

Now, buoyed by her success, she played eagerly. She could lose lots of chips now and still be ahead.

WHILE she placed her bets, all her attention now to the numbers in front of her. Mrs. Porter came up quietly behind the crowd and beckoned Dick.

"It's that Mr. O'Hara again," she whispered tragically. "Won't you help me, Richard, please?"

"Of course," he leered over Joyce's shoulder, murmuring a hasty excuse.

Joyce did not look up until after the play. Then Mrs. Porter was out of sight, but she did see Dick disappear into the bar. She felt a quick and unreasoning disappointment that he would leave her, in a place like this, for another drink.

Perhaps it was half an hour later, perhaps more, and her winnings were increasing steadily, but Dick had not returned. Now even her success at roulette was a bitter thing. Dick Hamilton, whom she had admired more than any other man she had ever known, was back there at the bar, drinking himself silly. And Isobel Porter, most likely, was with him!

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The spring primaries are almost upon us and before now and late September the voters and the politicians will nominate candidates for the entire House of Representatives, a third of the Senate seats and governorships in 33 states.

Democratic primaries are exciting the most interest, since they involve Mr. Roosevelt's influence on Congress and to a large degree the control of delegates to the 1940 conventions.

The White House desire to chastise the conservative opponents, save the skins of its loyal favorites and replace anti-New Dealers with pro-Roosevelt men in involved in various contests and as the campaign year wears on one is likely to hear of sporadic attempts at Republican-Democratic coalitions.

Here's an outline of primary fights to be settled in the near future:

ILLINOIS, April 12: Gov. Henry Horner is backing Congressman Scott Lucas against U. S. District Attorney Mike Igoe, who is supported by the Kelly-Nash machine of Chicago, for Democratic nomination to the Senate seat now held by William H. Dieterich. The Roosevelt administration's most spectacular part in this fight has been its failure to back Dieterich, who has been loyal in the pinches.

Igoe is supported by Labor's Non-Partisan League and reports reaching Washington indicate he has the best chance. As for Republican candidates, Washington may or may not get to know more about them after the November election.

FLORIDA, May 3: Senator Claude Pepper, considered to be one of the few southern New Dealers in Congress, is opposed for re-nomination by J. Mark W. Cox and Dave Shultz, equivalent to Cox's James Roosevelt and son, recently made publicly and F. D. Roosevelt was partly behind him. Available reports indicate Pepper will not be re-nominated. In Indiana, Max Frederick Van Nuys for political death. Nutt machine long achieved fame by leader of the Coalition. Indiana picks candidates in party rather than party. It's certain the Democratic machine in West Virginia will name the Philippines Townsend.

The organization appears to be Sam Wayne lawyer, backed by McNutt and latter's supporters.

Pictureque example, Watson, long a Republican leader, seeking the nomination. So do the former Klan official, Willis, backed by the Republican faction.

SOUTH DAKOTA.—The first state in which Republicans are conceded to unseat a Democrat. The senator is Herbert E. Hitchcock, consistently with the man Fred Hillstrom, railway conductor, Republican faction.

Humphries, a North Carolina pitcher bagged 20 games for in 1937, has the position, including New York Giants, pitcher Milner, the left-handed consecutive inning leader.

McNAIR, a convicted had his finest season hitting 290.

His reporting last year on an opportunity better look at Bobo. San Diego caught up bench practically all the Doerr made the machine. Cronin believes ster merits consideration.

Elwood (Woody) former Chicago Cubs utility man, also is on the White Sox. Cronin and his chief business aid, Cy Slapnicka, have obtained a fresh slant on their material from Oscar Vitt, who isn't at all positive that he will be satisfied with Hale at second.

VITT definitely has given up on John Kroner, and Tommy Irwin, the prospect up from New Orleans, wants to play shortstop, where Lyn Lary is installed. Irwin, who batted .322 for New Orleans, might help the White Sox, by the way.

3. Saving Accounts: A well bought home is in this respect like a savings account. Among your friends, do you know those who can't save money in a bank, but who can and do accumulate wealth by buying valuable goods on the installment plan?
