The county commissioners' court, with all members, except County Judge Pritchard, present, convened this morning. Commissioner Cooper presided in the absence of Judge Pritchard.

LIONS PLAN TO AID YOUTH WHO IS PARALYTIC

Eastland Newsboy To Be Beneficiary. Herman Rosenthal Guest At Luncheon.

The Eastland Lions Club, at their meeting today voted to guarantee the expenses of Clyde Johnson, Eastland newsboy who is a paralytic, to St. Louis and return where he is to stand an examination with a view to giving him treatment if it is believed his condition can be improved. Clyde, although his speech is impaired and he walks with great difficulty, is always at his job of selling newspapers on the streets. He is a favorite of Eastland citizens who are more than anxious to help him in every way they can. Herman Rosenthal of the Dallas Laboratories, who has a contract for keeping Eastland's drinking water pure, is in the city today and was a guest at the Lions Club at noon. He told the club that the unpleasant taste the city water had had since the recent rains was due to decaying vegetation, etc., and that the treatment he was here for the purpose of giving the water would restore it to its usual pleasant taste by Sunday. Mr. Rosenthal stated that the water was absolutely as pure as it was possible to have lake water and that no one need hesitate to drink it. Miss Francis Cunningham, daughter of Judge Tom J. Cunningham, was present by invitation at today's Lions meeting and rendered several piano numbers for the club members.

Select Candidates For U. S. Senate, Governor and Other State Offices.

By United Press. FORT WORTH, Aug. 14.—Nominating T. M. Kennerly, Houston attorney, for United States senator, and W. H. Holmes, Amarillo oil man, for Governor, the Texas Republican convention stood adjourned Tuesday afternoon. Selection of candidates for state offices in which the party will make its only contest in the November election, followed passage of a platform which declared principally for the enforcement of the 18th amendment and for endorsement of the national platform in regard to agriculture. The high light of the convention was the address of C. B. Littleton of Fort Worth, who led a determined fight for Harry Wurzback for National Committeeman. "I don't want you to think that this is your party, it is our party, and it is going to take bigger men and women than you to run me out of the Republican party. I fought a good fight but now yield to the majority," Littleton said. His remarks were greeted with the largest applause of the convention.

Peaches and Grapes of Prize-Winning Rating Raised In and About Eastland

Peaches and grapes are being raised in and about Eastland in such profusion and of such superlative quality that measures should be taken to preserve them, if it be possible, with all their freshness when first taken off tree or vine. If they could be encased in wax or frozen in cakes of ice they would certainly grade 100 plus at the Dallas State Fair in October. Mrs. Joseph M. Weaver brought to the Chamber of Commerce a number of peaches produced on trees in her home yard in Eastland. The largest weighed 11 1/2 ounces and was 11 3/4 inches in circumference. The others are within one-half of its weight and almost its circumference. They are of the Elberta variety and have a delicious flavor.

Peaches from the orchard of L. M. Cook, at Bullock, several miles north of Ranger, are being exhibited by County Agent J. C. Patterson. Mr. Cook has an eight-acre orchard, many of his trees being young and bearing this year for the first time. He has about 300 Elberta trees, some being free stone and some being clingstone. The peaches average very large and very luscious and bring a top price on the market. S. B. Norton is producing grapes in his vineyard at Olden which he declares are the equal of any produced in Texas. He has eight varieties and says that each is producing splendidly. Mr. Norton says that grapes may be grown very easily anywhere in this section of the state and that they are very profitable.

Will Rogers Announces Acceptance of the Office of Candidate of New Bunkless Party For President

"Whatever the other fellow do, we will." In the foregoing words, Will Rogers launches himself as a candidate for President. Impromptu by a committee of fifteen famous Americans, Rogers has consented to make the race for the purpose of fighting "bunk" in both the old parties. "Your offer leaves me dazed," he telegraphed Life, the humorous weekly, which conceived the idea of running him for President and offered its columns for presentation of his candidacy to the country, "and if I can stay dazed I ought to make a splendid candidate."

"Any way, I chew to run," he added. Rogers' backers, each of whom has formally accepted appointment to this "National Committee" of the new Bunkless Party, are the following: Henry Ford, Harold Lloyd, Nicholas Murray Butler, Roy Howard, Glenn H. Curtis, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Babe Ruth, William Allen White, Clare Briggs, Grantland Rice, Gen. William Mitchell, Ring Lardner, Rev. Francis P. Duffy, Tex Rickard, Charles Dana Gibson. "I know after being nominated for anything," says Rogers, "in the first of a series of weekly appeals by which he will present his candidacy, 'tis customary to register modesty. Every candidate always says, 'Why, there is dozens of men that is more competent to fill this office than I am, Well, I don't feel that way about it at all, for after all it's only the office of candidate that I am accepting. You know, it don't take near as good a man to be a candidate as it does to hold the office. That's why we wisely defect more than we elect."

Rogers outlines some of his policies in his first appeal to voters. He says: "There is one thing there won't be in our party and that's party leaders. I think that what hurts our two big parties worse than getting caught in party leaders. No party is as bad as its leaders. "We are also going to try and eliminate slogans. Slogans have been more harmful to the country than Bo-Weevil, Luncheon Clubs, Sand Fleas, Detours, Conventions and Golf Pants." A word as to the woman vote is also given by Rogers, as follows: "Now we may alienate the entire female vote but there will be no effort for sex appeal. Of course if it unconsciously manifests itself why we can't help it but it will by no means be one of the planks of our platform. In short our platform will be: WHATEVER THE OTHER FELLOW DON'T DO, WE WILL."

After regretting that he will have no money with which to buy votes, Rogers declares: "Our support will have to come from those who want NOTHING and have the assurance of getting it."

Report of Shyck Ice Dam Breaking Proves Incorrect

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Exchange Telegraph Simal correspondent has wired that reports of the Shyck ice dam bursting are incorrect. The dispatch explained that the report of the dam breaking presumably started with natives mistaking fires in the mountains for beacon fires, which, by prearrangement, were to have been lighted if the ice gave way. Dispatches from Simla, reaching London indicate that an accidental fire near the Shyck dam may have caused the guardian of the next adjacent beacon miles away to light theirs on the presumption that the distant fire was the prearranged signal for the bursting of the dam. Once a line of beacons located on high points in the remote mountainous region had been lighted in one, two, three order, the populace hundreds of miles away without telegraphic communication with the scene of the supposed disaster would not have any way of obtaining confirmation for the event. Beacon fires dating from prehistoric time are still used in regions lacking telegraphic or radio communications. PERRYTON—Ochiltree county shipped more than 1500 cars wheat since beginning of harvest.

He brought home with him several pictures of cotton, grain and other crops being raised which shows them to be very good. "Prospects are more than favorable for a bale of cotton to the acre," Mr. Bean said.

LOVE OUT OF RUNNING AT OWN REQUEST

Says Has Slight Chance To Win and Prefers To Concentrate In Fight On Smith.

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—Thomas B. Love, candidate in the August 25 Democratic runoff primary for the Lieutenant Governor nomination, announced his withdrawal in a formal statement here today.

Love's name was barred from the ballot in several counties in the first democratic primary because of his announced refusal to support Al Smith, Democratic presidential nominee. The Democratic State executive committee at San Antonio yesterday voted to certify Love's name on the runoff ballot, amending its action with a resolution deploring its action.

Love was opposed by Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller for the lieutenant governor nomination. "Looking squarely at all phases of the situation I believe it most probable that I can overcome the substantial lead of my opponent and obtain a majority of the votes in the runoff primary," Love's statement said.

"To further continue the contest would serve no useful purpose but would result in a waste of time and effort on the part of my friends which ought to be conserved and utilized in defeating Al Smith in November. I want to see all the forces of good government consolidated and compensated on this objective as effectively and speedily as possible.

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—"Well, I'm a son of a gun," ejaculated Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller here today when he was informed that his opponent for Lieutenant Governor, Thomas B. Love had withdrawn. Miller had no further comment to make.

Anti-War Treaty To Be Signed In Very Short Time

PARIS, Aug. 14.—With the signing of the Kellogg anti-war pact less than two weeks away, foreign office officials expressed concern today because about half of the 15 countries invited to sign have not replied. Belief was expressed, however, that the failure to respond was due more to the absence of responsible officials on vacation rather than to lack of interest in the efforts of the American secretary of state to promote world peace.

The foreign office asserted today that neither Russia nor Spain has been invited, despite the insistence of Spanish officials that Spain's prestige demands she be given the position of an original signatory nation.

AUGUST 15TH. LAST DAY IN WHEEL CONTEST

Long Struggle for Supremacy in Bicycle Contest Now Almost Over.

A month has slipped by since the beginning of the contest among the boys of Eastland, conducted by the Eastland Telegram, was started, and tomorrow, August 15th, marks the close of a bitter struggle among friendly enemies. Every boy who entered the contest had the same chance as the next fellow—his score is exactly what he has made it.

There are a great many people who have taken a real interest in the progress of certain boys throughout the contest, some of them subscribing to the paper and some of them merely saving the coupons and not adding the substantial pointage their subscription to the newspaper would give the contestant they are supporting. Now is the time to give them—or him, we should say—the little boost it will take to put him over.

Publisher Here From Tennessee For Brief Visit

O. A. Porter of Jefferson City, Tenn., accompanied by Mrs. Porter and their two children, were in Eastland for a little while on Monday. They are spending a few days in Breckenridge, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Morris, formerly of Ranger, parents of Mrs. Porter.

Mr. Porter is publisher of two Tennessee newspapers, the Jefferson County Standard and the Granger County News, two newspapers he established more than two years ago and which he says are doing well. Mr. Porter is a combination printer and editorial man, and worked for the Fort Worth Record during the time it was owned and published by William Randolph Hearst. Later he worked in Ranger and Breckenridge, then went to Florida, but was scared away from the latter state by the impending break in the boom and went to Tennessee.

Western Railway Employs To Talk About Striking

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 14.—Committee meetings will be held tomorrow in Kansas City by conductors, trainmen and car men employed by the Kansas City Southern, the Santa Fe and the Rock Island railroad to determine if they will go on strike.

Representatives of the employees of other western railroads will meet at central points on the various lines to consider the same issue. Only the three railroads will be represented at the Kansas City meeting.

Committees representing the three classifications will commence their meetings at 9 a. m. This will be followed by a joint meeting probably in the afternoon.

Seventy thousand employees of railroad will be represented in committee meetings at various western points today and tomorrow. The union has asked wage increases ranging from 10 per cent for yard men to 18 per cent for trainmen and conductors.

OUT OUR WAY

LEE REPLIES TO CHARGES OF OPPONENT

have done the same thing. Gentlemen, there is a big difference in selling the physical assets of the road and selling a certain per cent of the stock. The contract which Mr. Callaway held in his hand and which he would have you believe called for the sale of the road, actually called for the sale of 51 per cent of the stock of the road. Gentlemen, it is that ignorance on his part or is it willful misrepresentation.

There is a wide difference between the sale of the road and the sale of any amount of the stock in that road. The sale of the road would have necessitated official action.

Trading In Stock It would have necessitated a meeting of the stockholders to authorize and empower officials of the road to transfer the physical property of the corporation. My action was not in an official capacity. It was no more official than was C. M. Caldwell's action when he sold my secretary 500 shares of his stock in the road. It was no more an official act on my part than had any man in this audience done the same thing I did, and I want to say right now that I paid par, 100 cents on the dollar for every share of stock I bought to make up this 51 per cent.

Mr. Callaway charges that I originally owned only 75 shares of $7,500 worth of C. & N. E. stock and that Mr. C. M. Caldwell owned 500 shares or $50,000. This is another untruth. Originally Mr. Caldwell and I each purchased $25,000 worth of the stock. If any of you doubt this statement you can verify it by reference to the original stock books.

From this same platform a week ago tonight, this perpetual candidate for congress, held in his hand what he would lead you to believe was a citation in a suit filed by A. J. Olson against me in the sum of $2,500 representing it to be a claim of Olson against me growing out of the sale of Olson's stock to me. He further stated or intimated that I paid Mr. Olson $1,500 to withdraw the suit. I brand that statement as another falsehood. I hold here a certificate from the district clerk of Eastland county in which he states that he has examined the records for 10 years back and that during that time A. J. Olson has never filed any suit of any character against me anywhere. I want to say further that I never bought nor had any part in the buying of the Olson stock nor did I share directly or indirectly in any profits that might have been made from the purchase or sale of the stock.

Following his visit to Abilene last week Mr. Callaway spoke at Eastland but made not the slightest reference to the Olson suit. He knew that he was standing in the shadow of the district clerk's office where the records were available. There were men present to call his hand had he made the statement and there was a court stenographer present taking his speech word for word. Does this not explain the Olson matter?

I declare that any man who will make another false statement will make another equally as false and if he is found guilty of one misrepresentation then suspicion must be cast upon all his statements. Now comes the N. N. Rosenquest transaction. No more unfair charge was ever made against any man than in the charge made against me in this connection. After I had fulfilled my personal contract with Mr. Lancaster of the T. & P. railroad, Mr. Rosenquest came to my office and demanded to know why I had not put his stock in the deal. I did not know he had any stock and I told him so. The books of the company did not show that he owned a dime's worth of stock. He said he owned 300 shares and had it in his pocket. I asked him how he expected me to know that he owned stock if he failed to have it transferred to his name on the company's books. He wanted to sell me the 300 shares and asked me 75 cents on the dollar for it. I declined to buy the stock but finally agreed to take 150 shares of it at 50 cents on the dollar. I told him that Mr. Lancaster had taken all the stock from me he had contracted to take but that I thought that his stock might be worth 50 cents on the dollar, since at that time the T. & P. stock was selling at 57. Mr. Rosenquest did not sell me the stock but a few days later returned and offered to take 50 dollars a share for 150 shares. I bought it and at his request paid him in three separate checks of $2,500 each. This was in January, 1927. Sometime later I offered this 150 shares of stock to Mr. Lancaster but he declined to take it. More than a year later, to be exact on February 9 of this year, I sold the stock to Mr. Lancaster at par, and mind you the T. & P. stock was quoted at 118 when I sold this stock to Mr. Lancaster.

I will not undertake to tell you how or where Mr. Rosenquest acquired this stock. I will leave that for him to do. I now leave it to your own good judgment if I crooked Mr. Rosenquest out of anything.

Deal With Caldwell Now I come to the C. M. Caldwell matter. Probably you good people have heard more of this charge than any other. The charge is that I paid Mr. Caldwell $10 a share for 500 shares of C. & N. E. stock at a time when I knew I had it sold for $100 a share.

This was in January, 1926. The future of the C. & N. E. railroad looked very dark. A tax assessment of more than $39,000 dollars had been levied against the road and there was pending at Breckenridge a personal damage suit of $50,000. We were just coming out of the depression following the oil boom and the railroad had been hard put to pay the interest on its bonds and to finance its operations. At one time I had personally endorsed $329,000 of the railroad's obligations in order to save the road from receivership.

It was now that I sent my secretary to Abilene to see Mr. Caldwell to see if he would indorse some paper for the road if it should become necessary in order to avoid receivership and keep the road in operation. At this time Mr. Caldwell had acquired additional stock and held a total of 1,026 shares. That was more stock than I owned and I felt that the largest stockholders would get under the road's financial load.

On January 29, 1926, my secretary called on Mr. Caldwell in Abilene and discussed with him the financial status of the road. Mr. Caldwell said he would not put another penny in the railroad and wanted to sell his stock. My secretary told him we did not want to buy any stock that what we wanted was financial assistance, which Mr. Caldwell again refused. He offered to take 15 cents on the dollar for his stock but my secretary again said we did not want to buy any stock. After some further discussion Mr. Caldwell asked my secretary to make an offer on 500 shares. My secretary then said: "If you will not help us to carry the financial burdens of the road I will give you 10 cents on the dollar for 500 shares, and Mr. Caldwell said, "Give me your check," which he did. My secretary reported the transaction to me, and although I did not want any additional stock, I backed my secretary's judgment and gave him my check to complete the transaction.

Contract to Sell Remember, ladies and gentlemen, that was on January 29, 1926. At that time my contract to sell Mr. Lancaster 51 per cent of the stock of the road had never been discussed or even thought of. It was nearly eight months later, to be exact, on September 13, 1926, that I made the contract with Mr. Lancaster of the T. & P.

Mr. Caldwell is a good business man and at that time he made a good sale of his stock. And mind you this was not necessarily the stock for which Mr. Caldwell originally subscribed. He had increased his stock holdings to 1,026 shares, and I have never heard any claim that Mr. Caldwell paid par or any figure near par for this 500 shares of stock.

Here's another thing a short time after this transaction between Mr. Caldwell and my secretary, Mr. Caldwell was in Cisco and intimated to my secretary that he (my secretary) had beat him (Mr. Caldwell) out of $45,000. My secretary asked if he referred to the stock transaction and right then and there offered the stock back to Mr. Caldwell for $5,000, or the exact amount he paid for it.

Now, Mr. Callaway has seen fit to criticize me bitterly concerning some stock sold by Dr. J. H. Ball of Abilene, and Mr. Sid Curry of Abilene. I denounce as utterly false and without foundation, the statement that I purchased any stock from either of these men. I knew absolutely nothing of the transaction in which they sold their stock and I did not either directly or indirectly share in any alleged profits made in either of these transactions.

Copy of Affidavit With your permission I am going to read here a copy of an affidavit signed by J. W. Ray which will, I believe, make this matter thoroughly clear to all of my attention.

"It having come to my attention that certain citizens have made statements charging R. Q. Lee of Cisco, Texas, with irregular and crooked practices concerning the purchase of a part of the stock of the C. & N. E. railroad company by the T. & P. Ry. Co. In the interest of fair play and in order to refute any false statements that have come to my attention, I make the following statements of facts, concerning C. & N. E. railroad stock purchased by me the latter part of the year A. D. 1926, and possibly January of the year 1927.

"R. Q. Lee did not have any knowledge of, or any interest in, one share of C. & N. E. Stock purchased by me; on the contrary Mr. Lee was advising and urging stockholders to hold their stock. I bought from the following parties, in amounts indicated and the price paid for such stock: A. J. Olson, $5,000 stock at 50 cents on the dollar, $2,500. Dr. J. H. Ball, $4,200 stock at 50 cents on the dollar, $2,100. E. S. Curry, $5,000 stock at 50 cents on the dollar, $2,500. Eugene Curry, $500 stock, at 50 cents on the dollar, $250.

"The foregoing list of stock was bought by me personally and so far as I know, R. Q. Lee knew nothing of my operations and further state, that he did not participate in any profits made by me, either directly or indirectly on any stock purchased. I never represented to anyone with whom I dealt that Mr. Lee was associated with me in any way and when I bought this stock I knew that R. Q. Lee was advising stockholders not to part with their stock. I know personally that Mr. Lee did everything possible to see that the stockholders got 100 cents on the dollar for their stock and I know personally, further that every stockholder who signed up the escrow agreement and held his stock was paid 100 cents on the dollar for it. "Signed, J. W. RAY." Subscribed and sworn to before me, a notary public, in and for Eastland County, Texas, this 8th day of August, A. D. 1928. Signed: J. E. SPENCER. (SEAL)

Speaking of Callaway So much for the charges Mr. Callaway has made against me. I have taken up each of these specific charges and I hope I have made full explanation of each of them to the satisfaction of every fair-minded and intelligent person in this audience.

Now, Ladies and gentlemen, let us look to the character of man who has made these charges against me. Let us turn back the pages of history for the past 18 or 20 years and see what we can find out about this man Callaway.

In the beginning I want to pay my respects to Mr. Callaway by saying he has one quality which I admire very much. That is his capacity for defeat. His career has been one of continual defeat. He was elected to congress in the old twelfth or Fort Worth district in 1910 and took his seat in March of 1911, and my friends, I charge without fear or contrition that it was the whiskey interests that put Oscar Callaway in congress for he defeated the Hon. O. W. Gillespie of Fort Worth who was an outstanding and outspoken advocate of prohibition.

Oscar never exhibited any particular ability as a statesman. Congressional records fail to reveal that he ever accomplished anything of a constructive nature while in congress and he was there six years and four of these six years under a Democratic administration.

In 1912 the Democratic party went into power in Washington under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson. It was then that he began to mess up things. It was then that he began to oppose, to obstruct. He was anti-Wilson, anti-administration, anti-prohibition, anti-Federal Reserve Bank, anti-war emergency revenue bill, anti-war risk insurance bill and anti-preparedness and national defense bill.

But, my friends, here is one measure on which Oscar was decidedly pro. He voted for the bill to allow congressmen 20 cents a mile in going to and coming from Washington instead of actual expenses, for if he could have gotten through the 20 cents per mile measure he would have made $500 net on each official trip.

I charge this, too, ladies and gentlemen, that Oscar Callaway appointed a member of his immediate family his secretary at government expense of $1,500 a year.

President Opposes Him My friends and fellow Democrats, our Oscar made himself so obnoxious in Washington that his removal was sought by your party leader. In 1916 President Woodrow Wilson, I am told, actually requested James C. Wilson, of Fort Worth to make the race for Congress against Mr. Callaway. Mr. Wilson, who is now Federal Judge at Fort Worth did make the race and defeated Mr. Callaway.

Since that time our Oscar has never ceased his efforts to return to Washington. Comanche county was soon transferred from the twelfth to the seventeenth congressional district and he ran again. He has been defeated for congress three times, once by Judge Wilson and twice by your own esteemed townsman, the Hon. Thomas I. Blanton, our present congressman. And, ladies and gentlemen, I want to warn Oscar now that on a week from next Saturday he will go home with his fourth consecutive defeat.

My good friends, have you forgotten so soon how this man Oscar Callaway tried to discredit his party leader, how he tried to discredit his country during the great World War? "On August 25, 1917, while we were engaged in deadly war, and a million of us soldiers were entering the trenches in France, Oscar Callaway spoke in Comanche and here are some of the things he said: "You people can determine whether or not you want to carry this war on or don't want to carry it on. The President says we are in it to make the world safe for democracy. You all cannot know how contemptibly fraudulent that sounds to us. Oh, but they say it is treason to talk now. You can determine for yourselves. Every citizen in the country has been pinched. Then talk to us about economizing at the table. Be cautious that you do not come in contact with Federal officials. Determine what you are going to do, and then reach for a lignumvitae club for those officers, loaded to scatter, and get everyone of them from constable to the President of the United States."

"Ladies and gentlemen, can we forget in so short a time such reasonable utterances? And that is the character of man who assails me."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

THE LOU WARD, on the wedding to Rod, feels a premonition of receiving a dagger from Lila. An ex-soubrette of the circus, she courageously resolves to be jealous, but she receives a blow to her pride when she suddenly overhears one of the bride's friends say she had asked a girl if she would like being a bride.

As in her heart vanishes and she whispers "My wife," she spreads an ideal honey-moon. But she forgets Lila until they enter and she is playing a trick on her because she "knows her."

Lila settles down in the place but too much she expects their honeymoon. This worries Bertie Lou, the persistent annoyance so she is happy when she gets a position in New York which has been offered by HANER.

She is anxious to make an impression, so she goes to the hotel until they can get their furniture shipped from the store. So expenses continue and MOLLY FRASER and Bertie Lou to buy "smarter" and entertains so lavishly they feel under obligation to return. Rod worries Lou by playing poker with her.

ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

LOU hit upon the truth she said that Molly did her. It would not have her, however, had Molly had to keep up the appearance of friendship.

She had surprised her to find the real reason for Molly's departure. It was partly, as she guessed, her half-joking remark about living on her income. It had irritated her when she learned from Bertie Lou would do that. She felt that Bertie Lou had been posing as choosing to trip home.

Molly saw the storm clouds on Bertie Lou's countenance. She knew that she had her on the toast fork. Of course she didn't realize that Bertie Lou had read her mind like a full page ad or that she hadn't any more ammunition to fire. She decided to shove Bertie Lou a little closer to the fire.

"If we wait until Thursday Lila will be here," she said sweetly. And was greatly disappointed that Bertie Lou showed no surprise. And with her eyes still on Rod's bride she missed Rod's expression. The complacency he had shown earlier in the evening instantly disappeared upon his hearing of Lila's coming.

Like Bertie Lou, he thought he could escape Lila in New York. But Bertie Lou had known better for several days; since she had discovered that Molly was antagonistic, but unwilling to end their camouflage friendship. . . . and that she was keen for Lila. "She'll delight in throwing us together," she foresaw, but she did not mention her fears to Rod.

It came as a shock to him to perceive that Lila would loom large upon his horizon when she visited the Frasers. Having known it beforehand Bertie Lou was enabled to recover her composure much too soon to please Molly.

"That will be great," she said pleasantly. "I'm dying to go to a night club, but it will be more fun to have Lila along."

"Come on, let's go tonight," Rod urged.

"Certainly not," Bertie Lou objected. "We'll wait for Lila." Molly looked blank enough to bring satisfaction to Bertie Lou for her decision.

to enjoy the pretty things" what an.

Miss Virginia Root, who is a charming, clever and sparkling hostess, entertained at the family residence yesterday afternoon with an impromptu little bridge affair, asking several friends in to meet Miss Ellen Sue Gilliland, the house guest of Mrs. Joseph B. Leonard.

The tables were supplied with delectable chocolates throughout the afternoon, and at close of a dandy game, the honoree was presented a dainty lace kerchief, and Miss Helen Jane Angstadt received a bronzed dog paper weight with red jeweled eyes, for high score favor.

Mrs. Root showed the girls some delicious fresh peaches she had just preserved, and one cunning wee little bottle, was claimed by Miss Elizabeth Garrett, as sweet consolation for low score.

Those present: Geraldine Dabney, Helen Jane Angstadt, Elizabeth Garrett, Faye Burgamy, Marjorie Davison, Elizabeth Davenport, Miss Ellen Sue Gilliland, and hostess Miss Virginia Root.

MISS GILLILAND IS GUEST OF HONOR

The lawn of the Leonard home in Hillcrest proved an attractive place last night for an informal two table bridge party, honoring the Leonard's house guest, Miss Ellen Sue Gilliland, who arrived Sunday night for two weeks' visit. The tables were gayly arrayed with trays of candies. At close of the exciting contest, pretty favors were awarded, a doll head silk cushion for vanity, and a smoking tray on leather ribbon for arm chair use.

Miss Gilliland was presented a hand-embroidered kerchief bag, with doll head embellishment, containing a lovely kerchief.

Iced watermelon cubes were served on crushed ice, and dancing on the sidewalks of Hillcrest was a delightful innovation.

Music throughout the evening for both bridge and dancing was provided by a victrola.

Those enjoying this delightful evening were: Faye Burgamy, Virginia Root, Geraldine Dabney, Ellen Sue Gilliland, Frank Zelfel, Carl Adams, Poe Lovett, Joe Thiele and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Leonard.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

Mrs. C. E. Sikes and daughters, Belle and Madelle, are visiting Mrs. Hand in Weatherford.

Mrs. F. H. Blaine and Miss Anne Johnston of Abilene, with Mrs. J. D. Lawn of Colorado City, Texas, old time school friends of Mrs. Oscar Wilson, were her guests over the week-end.

New residents who have gone to housekeeping may be found at these addresses:

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Snyder, Court Apartment No. 1; Mr. Snyder is with the new highway department.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Tatum, Court Apartment No. 2. Mr. Tate is the new city manager.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pruett, Court Apartment No. 3. Mr. Pruett is in the monument yard business.

Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Williamson, of 405 East Sadosa Street, had as their house guests for dinner, Monday evening, the Rev. and Mrs. T. H. McNeil and their daughter, Miss Ivahope, and Miss Estelle Gray, all of Harlingen, Texas. Mr. McNeil, who was the first pastor of the Church of God in Eastland, occupied the pulpit of that church last Sunday morning. The visitors left late Monday for their home in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

L. A. Fodren of Surges, Miss. and Will Ray of Mart, Texas, are visiting County Commissioner V. V. Cooper. These gentlemen and Mr. Cooper were boyhood friends and schoolmates in Mississippi, and Commissioner Cooper is delighted with having them pay him a visit. Mr. Fodren and Mr. Ray are brothers-in-law.

Her problem was solved for her by a salesgirl in a store where she bought a pair of gloves. "Charge!" the girl said laconically as Bertie Lou absent-mindedly neglected to offer any money.

Charge! Why hadn't she thought of that? She made inquiries and was directed to the credit department. There she gave the name of Rod's employer and his address, as well as their own and was told the management would communicate with her shortly.

Bertie Lou thought she detected an expression of surprise on the face of the man she was talking with when she gave the name of her hotel. She knew enough about New York now to appreciate the incongruity of a person in Rod's position making it his home.

On her way out she was seized with a new apprehension that caused her to turn quickly in search of a telephone booth.

The Rebekahs held a large sized meeting last evening with at least twenty-five in attendance. With enthusiasm is expressed over the coming contest for the banner, the Rebekahs being determined to pull it down for the third and last time. For this purpose, a called meeting for drill practice is issued for tomorrow night, following the regular session.

HARWOOD-DOYLE WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED

Former Eastland Girl Becomes Bride of New York Man Now Making His Home in Dallas.

Miss Mabel Moss of Eastland, who attended the bride, wore a period frock of white taffeta made with scalloped skirt, the scallops being lined with black taffeta. A black taffeta at one side of the bodice and black satin slippers with white hose completed the modish color combination of her costume. Miss Moss carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

W. M. Jack, Jr., of this city attended the bridegroom as best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held. The wedding cake, a large ring-shaped confection, was placed at one end of the dining table on an antique silver tray while punch was served at the other end of the table from a green and gold porcelain punch bowl, and heirloom. It rested on a silver tray to match that upon which the cake was cut. The center decoration was an embossed vase and tray silver piece filled with white roses and fernery. The table was laid with a runner of Italian lace, placed diagonally, at the ends of which were three branch silver candelabra holding white tapers. The crystal chandelier above the table was entwined with white tulle.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle left for an automobile trip to Colorado and California. They will return to Dallas about Sept. 15 and will be at home at 4845 Swiss avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmick were in Dallas for the wedding, also Tom Morrissey and John Morrissey of Wichita Falls.

Miss Agnes Harwood of Eastland and Dallas was married last Friday to Rodger P. Doyle of New York, the ceremony being performed in Dallas, her home for the last several years.

The bride was formerly one of the most popular girls in Eastland and lost none of that popularity after leaving here to make her home in Dallas. She is a handsome and clever woman, has a trained soprano voice and sings beautifully. For years an amateur opera or other production in Eastland was considered complete unless Miss Harwood had a leading role. Her devotion to her aged uncle and aunt, Uncle Henry and Aunt Sinie Schmick, her foster parents since her babyhood, was a beautiful thing and a tribute to her character. Her friend, Mrs. W. K. Jackson, said of her: "Miss Harwood had all the graces and beauties that wealth, love, good looks and talents of many kind can bring in their train. Her Eastland friends wish her every happiness and congratulate the happy bridegroom over his good luck."

The Dallas News contained the following account of the wedding: The marriage of Rodger P. Doyle of New York City and Miss Agnes Harwood of Dallas and Eastland, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmick of Eastland, took place Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam P. Cochran, 3720 Cedar Springs road. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Carl C. Gregory, pastor of the First Methodist church, in the presence of about forty friends of the couple.

An altar was improvised before the living room mantel, palms and ferns of carved pedestals being used. Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Mrs. Thalia White of Eastland sang, accompanied by Miss Manna Louise Sauter.

The bride descended the stair with Mr. Cochran, who gave her in marriage. She wore a simple frock of white chiffon, made with close-fitting laque and full skirt, her slippers being of white satin. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses and lilies of the valley. The bride wore a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

"I'll never forget how delighted I was at John's greeting and his expression of surprise and pleasure, when he returned home from his last trip and found me looking strong and well.

"I had been losing weight for some time, had no appetite, was listless and weak, never felt rested after a night's sleep and had no desire to go out with my friends or do anything that required the slightest effort.

"John left home worried, after making me promise to do something about my health. I didn't believe there was anything seriously wrong with me; and several women friends told me I needed a good tonic. That's how I started taking St. Joseph's G.F.P.

"The first bottle of this delightful medicine seemed to stimulate and strengthen me wonderfully. I kept taking it faithfully and my appetite began to improve, my strength steadily returned, I slept better than I had in years and awoke each morning refreshed and ready for the day's work.

"By the time John returned I seemed like a new woman; and his cheerful greeting made me realize I not only felt great, but looked great, as he said I did. If other women knew what I know about St. Joseph's G.F.P. they'd try it TODAY!" Your druggist sells the big $1.00 bottles on a money-back guarantee.

Sports Matter

By STAN ERSKINE
United Press Sports Writer
Prominent among the young tennis stars participating in tournaments throughout the east, is Wilmer Allison, University of Texas star.

Allison was selected for the Davis Cup team after the Florida matches. He participated in the zone matches against Mexico. In the second trials in Kansas City, he was eliminated by the youthful Junior Coen, protege of William Tilden.

Shorn of Davis Cup honors, Allison was unable to defend his intercollegiate title, having withdrawn from school to play against Mexico. The Texas star, however, within a period of three weeks has won the Longwood Bowl title and the Canadian national championship.

One Long Duel

Finals between Allison and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., have become an institution in lawn tennis. Van Ryn, Princeton star, was runner up in both the Longwood Bowl and the Canadian national championship matches.

Julius Seligson, of Lehigh University has had his share of victories. The New York star captured the intercollegiate crown left vacant by Allison, and added to it the Metropolitan singles title.

The big upset of the season is John Does's failure to win a single major title. Does is from Stanford University and is the net sensation of the Pacific coast. His utter disintegration is one of the chief topics of discussion among tennis fans. The husky Californian has all the natural ability of a great player but seems to lack the will power to turn it to account.

Seligson is Brilliant

The rise in the tennis world of Seligson is perhaps the most spectacular of the lot. He has developed into a great shot maker. His best stroke is still the wonderful forehand upon which he has built his game. The player whom Big Bill Tilden lightly disposed of last March as possessing mediocre skill also has acquired a formidable backhand.

Allison relies chiefly upon his service. It is a difficult offering to return. Once Allison is permitted to return to the court, he is a Ossie Orwoll, formerly of Milwaukee and now a bright star in the constellation of the Philadelphia Athletics, is about thru as a pitcher.

Not that Orwoll's arm has lost any of its strength or cunning. He still zips the ball across with all his old speed. But Connie Mack has decided Orwoll is too valuable a man to work only once in four days, which would be his average if he remained a pitcher. That is it, that when you scan the Athletics box scores you find Orwoll down as a first baseman.

Ever since he joined Philadelphia, Ossie has been telling the boys he was going to play first base. They laughed at him and ran over the list of potential first sackers that Mack listed among his hired hands. First, there was Joe Hauser, a good hitter and a polished fielder; Jimmy Dykes, who played first a large part of the time last year; Tris Speaker, who has taken his turn at the post; Jimmy Fox, the all-around star, and Bing Miller, who can shift from the outfield to first base.

Orwoll laughed back at them and bided his time. Then came the day when Hauser's knee went back on him again. And Mack ordered Ossie to play first base in a double header against the Chicago White Sox. He did and the fans are still talking about it. There seems little chance for any one to dislodge him from the position now.

The chief thing that keeps Orwoll from being a great pitcher is his love for the game. The husky Scandinavian likes to play baseball so well that the idea of sitting on the bench and waiting his turn on the mound depresses him. Hits mean more to him than strikeouts. When he was playing for Milwaukee, he offered to work in the outfield and pitch, too.

Orwoll was a star in both positions. Blessed with one of the sharpest basing eyes in baseball, Ossie is a line-drive hitter. When he connects with the ball, it travels head high and as fast as a bullet. Seldom does he get off one of those looping hits that outfielders love to camp under.

Orwoll rivals Foxx as the handy man of Connie Mack's team. Foxx, who started out as a catcher, has played almost every place there is to play. First base, third base and outfield all look alike to this brilliant youngster, who threatens to become the Babe Ruth of the next generation.

When Foxx reported to Mack, the manager of the Athletics had Mickey Cochrane and Perkins, two of the sweetest catchers who ever pulled on a mask, there was little chance for a rookie like Foxx to break into the line-up unless either Cochrane or Perkins were laid up with injuries. They seldom were.

One day Mack was watching batting practice when he noticed that Foxx was taking a clean cut at the ball, driving it far into the outfield. "That boy is a natural hitter," Mack said.

Immediately the crafty manager began scheming how to get Foxx in the line-up and give the Athletics the benefit of the youngster's potent bat. He tried Foxx at first and the catcher made good there. Then Mack sent him into the outfield and again Foxx starred. Came the time when the manager decided to experiment some more with the youngster.

Third base was Foxx's next stop.

WASHINGTON.—The single annual contact with the source of their authority in far-away Washington is felt by 80 school teachers scattered along the shores of the Bering Sea and the Arctic Ocean to the northernmost point of Alaska during July and August.

The U. S. S. Boxer, operated by the bureau of education, Department of the Interior, sailed from Seattle, Wash., a few weeks ago for the long journey thru the northern seas that open during a short season each summer. Aboard the Boxer were several persons bound for the Eskimo villages where they will replace other teachers whose terms of service have expired. Through- out the summer, these teachers will be the Government's only contact with most of its 12,000 Eskimo citizens.

School supplies, reading matter, and mail to last another year is carried by the Boxer. In her cargo are also radio sets. Out of the North the returning Boxer will bring, besides teachers, numerous articles of ivory which have been carved by the Eskimos during the long winters. The bureau of education reports that there is prosperity among the Eskimos. "Already," it says, "many of these natives have supplanted the igloo, which was dirty, with houses built largely under the direction of these same school teachers. They are coming to live as do civilized peoples. The young Eskimos all speak English and read and write."

Texas Silver Mining to Be Vastly Larger

FORT WORTH, Aug. 11.—Shipments of silver-copper ore from the reopened Hazel Mine, in Culberson County, have been started to the El Paso Smelting company, according to Frederick E. Browne, vice-president and general manager of the World Exploration company.

The company expects to realize 500,000 pounds of copper and 300,000 ounces of silver in the first year of operation. Production of ore started at the rate of 1,500 tons per month and will be increased to 300,000 tons. The expected production will more than double the Texas output of silver and will amount to more in copper than the state's output to date.

United States Treasury ment figures indicate the World War cost the United States $35,119,622,737. Naval cost: $3,480,781,737 while operations cost $16,285,000. At one of the Frigidaria in Dayton, O., is the largest story factory building in the world. It is 500 feet wide and 240 long.

THIS COUNTY LEADING IN VOTES POLLED

Ahead Of Taylor County (Abilene) And Potter County, (Amarillo)

Eastland county is the heaviest voting county in West Texas between Tarrant and El Paso counties. A total of 6,513 votes were cast in this county in the governor's race. Taylor county, of which Abilene is the chief city, cast 6,207; Potter county, of which Amarillo is the county seat, polled 6,030; Lubbock county cast 5,481 ballots; Brown county, of which Brownwood is the capital, cast 4,785 votes; Tom Green, San Angelo being the main city, polled 4,162; and Stephens county, of which Breckenridge is the metropolis, cast 3,491 votes. That the 17th congressional district is entitled to a re-apportionment is demonstrated by the fact that this district is casting a much heavier vote than other districts in which there were races for Congress. Round numbers are: 17th district 57,000 votes; 1st district 40,000; 4th district, 30,000; 5th district 35,000; 7th district 27,000; 11th district 34,000; 14th district 36,000; 15th district 27,000; 7th district 27,000. Perhaps the oddest race disclosed by a study of the figures was that for congress in the 11th district, which is composed of six counties yet was defeated by Cross. The latter's majority in the one county he carried was only 704 votes. But the race was close in all the counties he lost and his majority in the district was 228.

OIL INTERESTS SEEK TO LIMIT WORLD OUTPUT

Leaders In Industry Will Discuss Ways and Means Of Solving Problem.

(From Christian Science Monitor) NEW YORK—Officials of leading American and foreign oil corporations, controlling the world's most important producing fields, are to meet here soon to discuss limiting the output of crude oil, it has just been learned from authoritative sources. The movement was said to be the first on record to bring competing companies together on a world-wide basis for a discussion of the problem of over-production.

The largest American oil companies, including the Standard Oil company, the Gulf Petroleum, the Texas Oil corporation, Sinclair Refining company and others were said to be interested in the scheme of international restriction of output. Officials of the Royal Dutch-Shell interests, the Anglo-Persian Oil company, the Turkish Petroleum corporation, together with producers from the South American fields, are the foreign petroleum representatives who will be invited to attend the conferences, which will be of an informal character.

A $1,000,000,000 Industry According to one authority, over-production in crude oil during 1927 cost the industry nearly $1,000,000,000 in cash losses and depreciation of stocks. Since the first of the present year a movement has been under way to obtain an agreement among the producing companies to limit the production

He Couldn't Wait Four Months for His Freedom; Now He Faces Hangman's Rope

By NEA Service. HOUSTON, Tex.—One of the slickest prison escapes ever devised by convicts anywhere would have worked perfectly, and two prisoners would soon be free men if Raymond Hall hadn't let his impatience get the better of him. Hall couldn't wait. So, instead of being free, he is confined on a charge of first degree murder, and may die in the electric chair.

Hall, who has a long criminal record, was sentenced to 99 years last winter for a holdup. He was tried at Wichita Falls, an I was ordered confined in the farm prison at Huntsville, near Houston. When he was sent to prison there was another convict sent with him—a young chap named Raymond Tucker, who was due to serve one year for violating the liquor laws. On the train the two got acquainted and cooked up this scheme:

They traded names and papers. At the end of one year, Hall, posing as Tucker, would be released. Then, when Hall had had time to get out of Texas, Tucker would reveal his real identity; and while he undoubtedly would be punished for aiding in Hall's escape, the punishment would not be very heavy and, having served his year, he, too, would be freed shortly afterward.

It probably would have worked perfectly if Hall hadn't got impatient. Huntsville prison officials never discovered the hoax; they listed Hall as Tucker, serving a one-year sentence, and put Tucker down as Hall, with 99 years to go. His year would have been out in December.

But Hall couldn't even wait to serve out his one year.

One day recently Hall and some other convicts were working in a field under the direction of guards. Catching a guard by surprise, Hall overpowered him and took away his pistol and shotgun. He and six other prisoners made a break for freedom. Sergeant Henry Ward ordered them to halt and Hall shot him dead.

The seven ran to the road, commandeered a passing auto and made the driver speed toward the town of Richmond, but were captured by a posse after a gun battle.

So now Hall faces a charge of first degree murder.

When he was caught, however, he was put down on the books as Raymond Tucker. This was too much for the real Tucker and he promptly revealed the hoax. As a result, the entire prison system is being investigated.

Meanwhile, however, Raymond Hall awaits almost certain death in the chair.

And all because he couldn't wait for four more months to pass!

Ample Light and Proper Shading Helps the Eyes

Special to The Telegram. COLLEGE STATION.—In all systems of home lighting there are fundamental rules which it is well always to remember, and one of these is the elimination of glare. Miss Alice Schuetze, of the Central Power and Light company, San Antonio, told members of the girls section at the nineteenth annual farmers short course in her discourse on "Lighting the Farm Home."

"Every light in the house should be shaded and the light directed upon the objects rather than in your eyes. Another important matter is to have sufficient light. Trying to illuminate a room with one oil lamp is an impossibility."

Miss Schuetze discussed various forms of lighting that have been employed by man, from the ancient Roman pottery lamp of 1500 B. C. to the present day high powered electric lamp. Exhibit showed in connection with her talk contained various examples of lamps that have served the human race, such as the whale oil lamp of 1499 A. D., tallow candles, kerosene oil lamps, gas lamps, the carbon incandescent lamp and modern day lamps.

Whether it is in the home where kerosene or carbide gas is being used, or where electricity is employed, the same fundamental rules in obtaining correct lighting apply, she pointed out. "Since dark materials reflect only a small part of light falling upon them, it should be remembered that dark walls and ceilings will require a larger amount of illumination than rooms with light finish. Lamps with colored silk or glass shades will give poor illumination unless the shade has an uncolored lining."

As to lighting fixtures, the selection of these should, naturally, be in keeping with the style of the house and type of room and should be consistent with the needs of the room, Miss Schuetze added.

White ceiling finishes afford the best reflection, giving from 82 to 84 per cent reflection value, the speaker said. Cream ceiling has 74 to 78 reflection value and silver gray 70 to 72 per cent. Buff, light gray and light green were cited as good wall finishes, buff leading with 70 to 65 per cent reflection value.

Music Memory Contest Selections In the Interscholastic League Announced For Ensuing Year

AUSTIN.—Selections for the music memory contests in the interscholastic league for the ensuing school year have been announced from the League Bureau of the University of Texas by Roy Bedichek, chief of the Bureau.

"Rules of the contest for the coming season have been radically revised," Bedichek said. "Instead of being devoted exclusively to memory work, that is, simply identifying the selections and the composer, the contests this year will include theme recognition, recognition of types and recognition of instrumental tone."

"Heretofore, stress has been placed upon writing, the contestants having been required to write down legibly the names of the selections and the composer. It was a test in writing as well as in music appreciation. In response to a general demand from music teachers and supervisors, the test in writing has been abandoned, and the contest is now based entirely upon musical aspects. A new score-card has been devised, which, by means of numbering, checking, and underscoring, the test may be given without requiring the contestant to write a single word. Teachers are, therefore, able to devote their whole time to musical instruction in preparing their pupils for the contest."

"A new 100-page bulletin for use of teachers in this contest has been prepared by Dr. Leota Spell, and is now in the press. Two lists of selections have been prepared, one for the rural schools and one for the independent district division."

The lists follow: Independent district division: "Serenade" by Schubert; "Hark, Hark, the Lark" by Schubert; "Little Silver Ring" by Chaminade; "Surprise Call," traditional Zuni song; "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin; "Who is Sylvia" by Schubert; "Serenade" by Toselli; Sextette from "Lucia di Lamermeer" by Donizetti; "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore" by Verdi; Overture from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn. Scherzo from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn; "Dance of the Hours" from "La Gioconda" by Ponchielli; "Moment Musical" by Schtbert; "Kamemei Ostrom" by Rubenstein; "Dream of Love" by Liszt; "Finlandia" by Sibelius; "Cradle Song" by Brahms; ballet music from "Rosemunde" by Schubert; "Spring Song" by Mendelssohn; "Going Home" by Dvorak; "Humoresque" by Dvorak; "Caprice Viennois" by Kreiser; "Open thy Heart" by Bizet; "Spanish Dance" by Mosezkowski; "March Militaire" by Schubert. Rural Division: "Morning" from "Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg; "Ace's Death" from "Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg; "Anitra's Dance" from "Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg; "Lucia di Lamermeer" by Donzetti; "Juan" by Mozart.

"Anvil Chorus" from "Il Trovatore" by Verdi; "Narcissus" by Nevin; "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser" by Wagner; "Dawning" by Cadman; "Waltz Doil" by Poldini. "Song of India" by Rimsky-Sakoy; "Open thy Heart" by Bizet; "Cradle Song" by Brahms; "Votivo" from "Mignon" by Thomas; "The Cuckoo" by Dauphin; "Act" by Holzner; "Stars Stripes" by Sousa; "Waltz March" from "Lohengrin" by Wagner; "Mina" by Paderewski; "Blue Danube Waltz" by Strauss; "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Strauss; "Amarillis" from French air; "Spanish Dance" by Moszkowski; "Mina" from Karl (to sister who is a cake)—"Let us play at Zulu" will be the elephant." ### PROGRESS NOT JOY FOR ALL

Progress in any line brings joy to most of us, but to some it is fraught with apprehension.

Just now the musicians of the country are expressing alarm at the progress of the Vitaphone, or Movietone, or whatever name it is to go by. One orchestra where the Vitaphone is made can do all the accompanying for pictures shown all over the country.

And vaudeville actors, who have not had too easy sailing for the past few years, are also losing a little sleep. When the Vitaphone is perfected there will probably be places for only the stars of the profession, who will perform their act in one studio for millions of persons in thousands of theatres to view. Rapid progress has made insecure most vocations and even the professions.

The musicians' union insinuates the music film will lower the standard of music. We think the opposite may be true, for certainly the best talent may be commanded where one orchestra or one singer is to perform for millions. The result will depend entirely on reproduction excellence, and whoever wagers against science in this matter is taking a long chance in these days.—Houston Chronicle.
