Railroad Labor Seeking Aid From Congress In Fight

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 8.—Railroad labor sought to transfer to Congress its fight against a 15 per cent wage cut July 1, with a proposal for government operation of the railroads if mediation fails. The wage fight has thus far blocked legislation to aid the railroads in their financial emergency, although President Roosevelt was reported today to be bringing pressure to bear for some form of legislative assistance. Representatives of Railway Labor Executives Association conferred with senators today on a resolution to provide for government operating of the roads if the wage dispute cannot be settled. The alternatives, they said is a possible strike, involving 1,000,000 workers.

The time extension was granted, officials explained, because of the lateness of the cotton crop in many communities and because farm allotments for cotton acreage were delayed in some counties. "It is hoped that all interested communities will file their entries as soon as possible so initial steps may be taken to secure government classification for those communities that fill the requirements or organized one-variety cotton improvement communities," said Elmore R. Torn, agricultural director of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

HAMILTON IS REPORTED IN THREE STATES AT ABOUT THE SAME TIME

By United Press
DUBLIN, Tex., June 8.—Three armed bandits today robbed a bottling company, dry goods store and cafe after binding a night watchman and two others. They escaped in a new car stolen at a motor company. John Ray, nightwatchman, was held up by two men about 1:30 a. m. He was bound with copper wire and taken inside the Dr. Pepper Bottling company, where a third robber watched him while the two took about $300 from the office safe. The two then went to a dry goods store and took shirts and pants. A block down the street they surprised "Blackie" Rowe, operator of a cafe and robbed the cash register of $35 after tying Rowe with wire. A short time later Jess Sellers, Dublin citizen, was awakened as the two forced the door at a motor company. The burglars struck him with an iron bar and bound him, when he came to investigate. The pair drove away in a new Ford, picked up their companion, guarding the watchman, and a short time later sped away after abandoning a 1933 model sedan a mile east of Dublin on Highway 67 to Waco. Sheriff N. B. Thomas of Stephenville believed one robber might be Floyd Hamilton, who escaped a few weeks ago from the Montague County jail.

MINDEN, La., June 8.—Four men robbed the Minden Bank of an estimated $20,000 to $30,000 today. Entering the bank before daylight, two bandits hid until employees arrived and bound them as they arrived and fled with their loot about 8:30 a. m. Deputy Sheriff C. R. Davis said that Floyd Hamilton, fugitive from the Montague county jail and Charles Chapman, fugitive from the Texas penitentiary, were suspected. There was no definite identification, however.

SHREVEPORT, La., June 8.—Officers believed today that Floyd Hamilton fugitive from the Montague County, Texas, jail, was leader of a gang that robbed the bank at Bradley, Ark., yesterday and escaped with about $700. Officers from Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas searched the woods in the region today. The gang's camp was found at Bossier a few miles from Shreveport, and moneybags stolen from the Bradley bank were found. Three men participated in the robbery.

Two Have Unique Way of Financing Their Educations

By United Press
AUSTIN, June 8.—Harold H. Webber of Austin and Charles A. Watson of Hughes Springs have found an unusual way of financing their education at the University of Texas. They run an undertaking establishment for cats. Since they established their "Felix mortuary" in a garage, they have embalmed and sold 87 dead cats. Since Jan. 1, the business has paid the college expenses of both embalmers. Webber and Watson sell the dead cats to zoology students in the university. They have no trouble finding buyers; their only difficulty is finding cats. Prices vary according to the type of embalming. A cat embalmed for one laboratory purpose is not suitable for another. For instance, those used in studying circulatory systems are injected with yellow pigments, while those for other purposes are treated differently.

Prize Pointer Found After a Countrywide Search and Returned

By United Press
HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—An extensive search over several states—California to Arkansas—ended here when a bird dog was located. Spotter, a blooded pointer, was held in Garland county jail here two days before he was crated up and sent "home" to Arizona. The animal had crawled into the trailer of a horse car which had stopped for gasoline at his master's filling station in Walton, Ariz. The dog's owner traced the animal to the horse car and requested state police to help get the dog back. When the car drawing the trailer of thoroughbreds stopped here, police found the dog.

Too Much Noise Is Blamed for Decline in Bird Population

BEAUMONT, Tex.—Too much noise and excitement of modern life is threatening the roseate spoonbill with extinction. Game Warden Tom Fridell, employed by the Audubon Society to safeguard the birds on Vingt'une Island in Galveston Bay, reports that the roseate spoonbills are fast disappearing. He blamed the decrease in birds on commercial shell dredging operations in the vicinity of the sanctuary. "Noise of the dredging has so alarmed the spoonbill colony on Vingt'une Island that there is danger of adult birds killing or abandoning their young," he said. Sportsmen have asked the Texas game, fish and oyster commission to halt dredging operations in the vicinity. J. W. Haizer of Houston reported that the spoonbill colony in Florida had a bad season and did not reproduce well. The Audubon Society fears that the spoonbill, a specie of wading bird, will become extinct unless it is protected on Vingt'une Island.

WAR TEMPO IS STILL THREAT UPON PEACE

By United Press
The mounting tempo of war today threatened a collapse in China and international friction in Spain endangering Europe's peace. Although devastation in China spread, the greatest danger centered around possibility that the Spanish Civil War would wreck Great Britain's new policy of guaranteeing peace by deals with Europe's dictators. The peace plan by Britain was based on quick victory by Rebel General Franco. A sudden stiffening of loyalist resistance now threatened to change the picture. Reports of fighting between Spanish Rebels and their Italian allies indicates a basis for loyalist claims that the insurgents are threatened with disintegration. In China the Japanese invasion reached a new high. Japanese planes bombed the American-directed Lingnan University campus at Canton, killing an estimated 200 persons and bringing the death toll to more than 3,000 in 12 consecutive days of bombardments.

Pitzer says he expects a better record from the cow this year and will continue to improve his herd with registered cows. Pitzer's herd is headed by Wake Up Masterman, a registered bull purchased last year from the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Shortstop Now Has To Play Position With Closed Mouth

By United Press
SAN ANTONIO.—San Antonio baseball fans are hoping that Sig Gryska's change in form at handling shortstop under the flood lights won't hurt his effectiveness. He's playing now with a mouth closed. When Sig collapsed near second base a few nights ago, clutching at his throat, Manager Zack Taylor and his teammates ran to him. They feared the worst until Gryska waved them back, got up and continued playing. At the end of the inning he walked to the bench and explained: "I tried to field one with my mouth open, and a moth flew in. I thought he was going to choke me to death."

Principles in Trial Flight Make Big News

We would be pretty fine people if we could live up to our professed principles. We talk very sensibly indeed, but there usually is a pretty big gap between the way we talk and the way we act.

For a sample, there is the capital-and-labor business. We are very fond of saying that there is no real, basic conflict between capital and labor, that their interests are in the long run identical and that the sensible thing is to recognize that fact and behave accordingly.

Yet so rarely do representative leaders of capital and front page news.

A good deal of attention has been drawn to the fact that in San Francisco on June 3 leaders of the business community and of the C. I. O. are going to hold a big mass meeting to see if some peaceable and mutually profitable way of getting along together cannot be found.

The background of that meeting is interesting. The last four years of San Francisco's "labor history" have been more than a little stormy; so this spring a group of industrial leaders appointed a committee to study industrial relations and work out a program to restore and preserve peace.

This committee, after a good deal of preliminary work, invited the labor leaders to join in creating a "parliament of public opinion" to minimize bitterness and strife. At first the labor people were suspicious; but after a time the unusual and highly gratifying spectacle of C. I. O. bigwigs sitting down with industrial bigwigs to work out some plan by which capital and labor can get along and prosper together.

What will come of this meeting is, of course, open to speculation. Maybe the whole plan will fall through, and San Francisco's valiant effort to obtain a fair peace will come to nothing. But the important thing is that the effort is at least being made.

Yet it is strange, when you stop to think about it, that the fact that this effort is being made should be news.

These San Franciscans, after all, are doing nothing more than acting on a principle we all give lip-service to—the principle that capital and labor are going in the same same direction and can help each other get there.

If that principle is true, as we all say it is, why aren't there more movements like this one on the west coast?

Wouldn't our national future be immeasurably brighter if we could just live up to our principles instead of merely talking about them?

A patent has been granted for a combination ironing board and breakfast table. Now if some body'll only come through with a combination electric iron and toaster.

The awarding of contracts for 340,183 square miles of aerial photography in 21 States was announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. This, with previous awards, brings the area contracted to be photographed in 1938 to a total of 449,037 square miles. In 1937, approximately 500,000 square miles were flown.

Social Security

Opening the question of extending coverage under the old age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act "as rapidly as feasible" to include domestic servants, farm laborers and self-employed workers, the Advisory Council on Social Security has requested the Social Security Board for data by September 15 to aid it in its study of methods of extending the coverage under this program. The Council has also notified the Board that it had decided unanimously to recommend the inclusion of employees of nonprofit religious, charitable, and educational institutions under the old-age insurance program.

Fewer Milk Cows, But More Milk

The total quantity of milk produced on farms in the U. S. last year is estimated at slightly more than 103 billion pounds. Production was about the same as in 1936, nearly 2 per cent greater than in either 1934 or 1935. The average number of milk cows on farms in the U. S. during 1937 is estimated to have been 23,710,000 head. This was about 1 per cent fewer than in 1936 and about 6 per cent below the peak number in 1934. Milk production per cow in 1937 averaged 4,353 pounds, which is about 1 per cent higher than in 1936 and the highest since 1931.

Bank Loans to Farmers Show Increase

The commercial banks of the country loaned farmers increasing amounts of money last year. The total of such loans amounted to $1,289,801,000 by the end of 1937. Commercial bank loans to farmers increased 19 per cent during 1937. In the last half of the year there was an increase of 5 per cent over the amount outstanding on June 30, 1937. Ordinarily such loans fall off during the latter part of the year. The increase was made up of personal and collateral loans to farmers. Loans secured by farm real estate showed only a nominal change. The large volume of personal and collateral loans was a result partly of the Commodity Credit Corporation loan program on cotton and corn, nearly three-fourths of these cotton and corn loans being held for commercial banks and lending agencies.

Depreciation Puts Farm Buildings Beyond Repair

Repairs, remodeling, and new construction of farm buildings are not making up for normal depreciation. A few people realize how bad the situation really is. Many structures must be repaired at once or they will be worthless. Many have already deteriorated to such an extent that they are beyond repair. On most farms, buildings have not been properly maintained since the postwar drop in farm prices in 1920. Type and size of structures needed on farms also has changed considerably in many sections of the country, due to the change in the kinds and types of crops grown.

New Stamp

Printing of the special commemorative postage stamp, which is being issued by the Post Office Department in connection with the 300th anniversary of the landing of the first Swedish and Finnish colonists in this country, was begun at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Collector of Old Shoes Looks Into Old Garbage Cans

By United Press
ST. LOUIS—Treasure often can be found in a garbage can if the searcher knows what to look for, according to Charles E. Osterkamp, shoe company official, who has been active along that line for years.

Osterkamp is a collector of old shoes. It is a hobby he started years ago and because of it he has collected a wide variety of footwear representing almost every country and many periods of development.

He finds his hobby difficult, for shoes are not generally considered family heirlooms. They are not handed down from one generation to the next, but mostly end up at the city dump after a short life.

Shoe dealers in small towns have aided Osterkamp on several occasions. Sometimes they have discovered early styles of shoes with odd workmanship that served to swell the collection. These shoes are likely to come from neglected boxes which the dealer has not opened for years.

A dealer in Benton, Ill., once found a shoe in a brick wall of an old building being torn down to make room for a new structure. The shoe was handmade on a straight last. The leather upper was pegged to a wooden sole.

Osterkamp said the workmanship indicated it was probably 100 years old.

From a dealer in Colorado Osterkamp received a shoe that was torn into ribbons. It wasn't an unusual shoe in point of style, but it had been worn by a man who was struck by lightning. The lightning tore the shoe from his foot and left it a tattered mass of leather.

Some of Osterkamp's prize shoes are:
A pair of size 34's built for Robert Wadlow, giant Alton, Ill., youth when he wasn't as big as he is today.

A bearskin moccasin contributed by a pioneer family which an ancestor wore it on a trip with Daniel Boone in the tucky.

A Chinese woman's poppet slipper.
A wooden platform for a Ukrainian.

A coolie shoe of straw.
A hand-sewed moccasin from Ukraine.

WAR DECLARED

When London sets the stage a mock air raid, even the boys join in simulating air war conditions down to the anti-air raid demonstration. The vendor pictured walked through darkened streets wearing a gas mask and trying a placard shouting "Declared!" as sirens shrieked warning that enemy planes were "approaching."

Trapper Uses His Outdoor Lore In Trapping for Mice

MINNEAPOLIS—For five years through blizzards and freezing weather, Jake Frederickson, rifle couched in arm, followed his line of steel traps along the Canadian border.

Today his trap line contains 75 traps—for mice and rats—and Frederickson makes his living by keeping University of Minnesota buildings clear of them.

He considers 80 rodents a day a good catch. The library, he says, is the most seriously infested building on the campus. One day he caught mice in 26 of 29 traps set.

"If you were trapping game in the woods, you wouldn't use new traps," Frederickson explained. "You'd throw them in a river for three or four days until they took on smells a muskrat or beaver knows. Trapping mice is no different. Mice are smarter than some game animals, so you can't expect them to be fooled by traps that have a human smell." He refuses to disclose his method of treating mouse traps, however, considering it to be a trade secret. He does not believe the university will ever be free of rats and mice, but thinks continued trapping will keep them from becoming a serious menace.

He still makes the rounds of his "trap-line" clad in stocking cap, checked lumberjack shirt, coarse trousers and boots.

A woman in Boston got a divorce because, she said, her husband wouldn't give her a dime for carfare. They should have moved to New York, where the subway's only a nickel.

At Pekin Manslaughter Trial
