WESTON IS BLOCKADED AS CONVICTS FLEE

By United Press
WESTON, June 13.—Galveston Island was blockaded today in a minute search for three desperadoes who broke from the jail by killing the guard during another Sunday.

Assistant Jailor Ernest Goode, Texas, shot to death. William and then, 42, head jailor, was Dyer, who threw the head with an iron mallet, gashed hospital attendants said on the II was fractured.

Softball fugitives all had long criminal records. Sheriff Frank Baigwood fractured his ankle when at his home in answering a knock, said he feared the men would speed the blockade.

The fugitives were Peter John Adams, 32, Galveston fisherman and former Louisiana convict shot Goode to death.

and Tyler, 28, former Texas convict under a four-year sentence for auto theft.

Francis Sutton, 27, who received a prison sentence from a court for burglary and was on trial on a similar count.

King of Italy Was Her Cupid

Il Duce's frown of disapproval practically eclipsed the wedding plans of Tatinana Conus, above, pretty New York perfume salesgirl, and Prince Guido Colonna, Italian vice consul at Toronto, Canada. The dictator's thumbs-down gesture, which twice postponed the wedding, was reversed when King Victor Emmanuel, hearing of the couple's plight, cabled his royal approval.

300 JAPANESE PLANES READY FOR BIG RAID

By United Press
SHANGHAI, June 13.—Three hundred Japanese airplanes arrived today at Wuhu, Yangtze River port 200 miles from Hankow, and established a base from which the Chinese expect them to launch attacks on Hankow similar to the mass raids on Canton.

Chinese have their greatest concentration of planes at Hankow. Japanese claimed they had occupied Anking and the Chinese believed Japanese would attempt a drive on Hankow from the south and east instead of from the north, because of great floods along the Yellow River.

A disaster surpassing the one that was threatened by floods in Central China. The Yellow River was pouring through broken dikes on to the plains to the south and over the roads the Japanese must use in their new drive.

Military experts said if the river stayed out of bounds hundreds of thousands of soldiers and millions of civilians would be in danger.

Castor Oil for the Well-Oiled

The same old castor oil cure which keeps little Jimmy away from green apples is being used in Hutchinson, Kan., to keep a trio of regular police court visitors away from the bottle. After other methods had failed, Judge Albert S. Teed ordered administration of the evil-tasting stuff before an improvised bar lined with remindful bay rum bottles. With wry face, one of the trio, Sandy Lissenbee, above, who makes money for bay rum sprays by selling fish worms, receives the punitive dose from City Prosecutor Eugene White.

ADJOURNMENT BY WEDNESDAY IS EXPECTED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 13.—Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky announced after a White House conference today that plans to enact legislation to aid the railroads would be scrapped for this session, and he predicted the 75th congress would adjourn by Wednesday night.

Barkley said that no new rail legislation would be offered.

His announcement apparently represented scrapping of plans to enact a program to help the $26,000,000,000 rail industry.

Speaker William Bankhead of the House said it had been agreed there would be no railroad relief legislation at this session. He agreed that the adjournment goal is Wednesday night, but added the deadline may be Thursday night.

Barkley said that railroad bills not already on the calendar had no chance for passage. The only bill on the calendar is one to establish a federal unemployment insurance program.

Barkley said the only unfinished business is the lending spending bill, the deficiency bill and the conference report on wages and hours.

Fails to Veil Her Emotions

Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, pictured above as she arrived on the S. S. Queen Mary, intimated that her 14-year-old daughter, Gloria, might again be the center of a court battle. Visibility disturbed by a report that the $5,000,000 child-heiress would be sequestered all summer at the Newport estate of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the child's aunt and guardian, Mrs. Vanderbilt said she would consult her lawyer.

YOUNG WOMAN AIDS PRISONERS IN AN ESCAPE

By United Press
SUGARLAND, Texas, June 13.—A young woman engineered a daring break from Harlem State Prison Farm today and fled in a volley of gunfire with three convicts whom she helped escape in an automobile.

The young woman waited in the car at dawn when the convicts were going to work between here and Richmond. The three convicts ran to the car as the guards opened fire, and drove away.

The escaped men were: Claude Jett, 20, serving 15 years from Harrison county for criminal assault.

Ira McCoy, 19, serving two years and nine months from McCulloch county for assault.

J. Smith, 18, under two years sentence from Gregg county for felony theft.

Capt. A. N. Owens, farm manager, organized a posse and started a search. Guards believed one fugitive was wounded.

Meeting Schedule For 4-H Girls Is Listed by Official

Bringing and curing of vegetables will be discussed at girls' 4-H club meetings this week, Miss Ruth Ramey, assistant county home agent, announced Monday.

The Gorman club will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Baptist church. Wednesday at 11 a. m., the Carbon club members will meet with Mrs. W. J. Greer, sponsor. On Wednesday afternoon the Rising Star club is to meet at 2 o'clock at the Baptist church.

A meeting of the Alameda club is slated for Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Two hours later on the same day members of the Desdemona club meet at the 21 Study clubhouse.

Trading New Wheel For Beer Gets Two Youths In Trouble

Word was received here today from the constable's department at Abilene that two youths had been picked up on suspicion of theft and were being held at Abilene. The two had a new Buick wheel and a Firestone tire, serial No. A-58-26-40-C in their possession, which they were trying to trade for beer.

The two were arrested in a liquor raid by sheriff's officers in Abilene Sunday, the report said here. They gave their names as Curtis Couch and Raymond Adams.

It was believed by Abilene officers that the car from which the wheel was stolen was owned in Eastland or Ranger.

Ranger Police "Pickup" Five In Record Time Over Week-end

The Ranger police department took five people into custody Saturday afternoon and Sunday on "pickup" orders from other towns, all of the "pickups" being made within less than an hour after receipt of the messages.

No trouble was encountered in picking up Allen Barker, 24, wanted in Breckenridge.

Barker was in the jail, talking to another prisoner when the telephone message was received. Chief of Police Jim Ingram, who took the call, hung up the receiver, unlocked the jail door and pushed Barker into a cell, then walked one block down the street and took Troy Eaves, 21, into custody. Eaves, also, was wanted in Breckenridge.

Late Saturday word was received from Oklahoma that two girls had run away from home and were thought to be in this vicinity.

Police had seen the girls in town and had suspicions that they were runaways, and had been watching them. When the telegram giving their description was received, officers went to Main Street and apprehended the two. Bus fare was wired to the chief of police, who put them on a bus for home. Both girls said they were ready to return, as they had "had enough hitch-hiking." One was 15 and the other 16 years of age.

Sunday word was received in Ranger from Sheriff Jerome Demontesantau of New Orleans that M. C. Salmon was wanted in that city. Within an hour officers had located Salmon and notified the sheriff. A return wire was received stating that officers would be after him Monday evening or Tuesday morning.

Apathy Is One Defense Against Being Taken In

Once every year the world of adults bends a thoughtful eye on the boys and girls in the colleges, hands them a great deal of advice (which the boys and girls wisely ignore) and tries to figure out where the youngsters are heading and why.

That time is upon us once more; and before it is over you are quite certain to find some educated bigwig or other loudly deploring the fact that our collegiate generation is too frivolous and self-centered, too much absorbed in the trivia of campus life and too ignorant of the great problems of the outer world.

You are certain to hear that, because someone has been saying it every commencement season since John Harvard's day, or thereabouts, and there is no reason to suppose that this commencement season is going to be any different.

Now there is a great deal of truth in it, and the people who deplore our youth's failure to get all wound up about momentous issues know what they are talking about. The ordinary collegian knows plenty about the world of sport, swing bands, moving picture stars, clothing styles, slang and campus politics; he has a profound apathy regarding things like Fascism, Communism, the war in Spain, the labor movement, mass production and applied economics.

But it is perfectly possible that this is something to be thankful for, not to deplore.

European college students are all the other way. They are passionately aware of the great burning issues; they parade, hold mass meetings and make speeches, issue manifestos and go through all the other motions common to people who are on fire about something.

The trouble is that they are quite as likely to be heading in the wrong direction on these issues as in the right one.

Records fail to show that the awakened and passionate German students, for instance, did anything in particular to save their country from the menace of Hitlerism. The records do show, however, that in such a country as Poland it has been the students themselves who have been in the front ranks of the growing anti-Semitic movement. They have marched in the book-burning processions in all the dictator-led countries, and they have lined up with the oppressors whenever the right slogan has been chanted into their youthful ears.

In America we at least don't run that risk. Our lads may be a bit flighty and ignorant—but no enemy of our liberties is going to find their organized enthusiasm a handy instrument for his use. Their very apathy is in itself a defense against catastrophe.

GOOD intentions don't make a genuine Hungarian goulash. Elsa Jeromos, New York, writes objecting to my recipe of the 4th of May. "I shall endeavor to give you the one and only recipe for Hungarian goulash," Mrs. Jeromos states. She enclosed two recipes with this warning. "Any other recipe is false."

Mrs. Jeromos' Goulash (Serves 4)

Two large onions, 3-4 tablespoon lard or chicken fat, dash paprika, salt to taste, 1 slice tomato, 1 pound chuck beef cut in 2-inch squares, 1-2 cup boiling water, 2 large potatoes. Cut onions into small dice and brown very lightly in the lard or chicken fat. Season with salt and paprika, add tomato and stir in the cubed raw steak. Brown meat slightly, then add the boiling water. Cover tightly and simmer until meat is three-quarters done, almost tender. Now dice the potatoes, add and pour in enough boiling water barely to cover the potatoes. Cover and simmer over low heat, stirring occasionally, until potatoes are done. And here is the other "one and only" recipe.

As a smoker, you'll be interested to read what Miss Tucker, successful young office manager, said to Miss MacGregor about the difference between Camels and other cigarettes (below).

WELKER COCHRAN, who has won many important championships at billiards, voices his choice among cigarettes: "Camels give me real smoking pleasure. Under the strain of a championship match, Camels never make me feel jittery or unsure. "I'd walk a mile for a Camel!"

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS. THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA. Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

well. The past was dead; life went on. He was willing to face the decision. Life laid down a challenge and rendered him a job
to do, and he could do, at least,
his best. He could speak of love again. To the riddle of existence there was a plausible if still inadequate answer. He could do his best.

The rest was up to life.
The marriage was a neat little bombshell in the two families and in the neighborhood. It was perhaps the easier launched for that very reason. One clean cut and the past was severed, and no one to question or bid them pause.

They took up their jobs again,
both of them. They had a talk about that, and Terry concluded to keep on working. "There isn't enough here to keep me busy, darling, and my money we can put in the bank without touching it. I never had any of it before."

"I can make enough money," he said doubtfully, reserving agreement.
"We'll need all we can get later."

"What for?"
She laughed and said, "Oh, you can't tell what might happen."
She blushed, who was always so bland, and tossed his hair. "I love you so much. I can't be trusted. I might want to have a baby. One exactly like you."

He laughed and sat her forthwith on his lap. She suddenly grew solemn. "Maybe you'll understand why I want very much to go back to work? People . . .
poor people like us who get married at city hall . . . well, other people . . . their mouths hardened instantly. They'd better not talk so anybody can hear!"

"Where did you get these?" he asked.
"They belonged to my mother,"
she told him. "All those things belonged to her. They were put away. I guess she had lots of lovely things, but these are all left. I've always kept track of them, and I'd never leave without them." She got a faded photograph from her handbag, a photograph in a silver frame of a blondly gay and demurely pretty young woman in a high-necked waist and a halo of soft dark hair.
It was an intelligent, sensitive face. "That was mother before she got married. She died when I was ten."

"Hm," said J. He looked at Terry. "She's nice. I'd like to have met her."
Terry kissed him gratefully and put the picture away without saying any more about her mother.
They slid gently and placidly
into a way of living that was full of peace and quiet pleasure. They had found the world hard, each in a different way, and they withdrew from the world because of the peace there was. They helped each other, and enjoyed one another, and they did not miss the world. They quickly found the simple diversions of young married people the world over: the easy escape of a moving picture,
the long slow interest in a trolley
ride on a warm night, the desul-tory absorption of double solitaire,
the satisfaction in long, detailed discussions about anything at all in the late darkness, side by side.
There was no tension, no cross-
purpose anywhere, no "nerves."

JOE had observed enough of marriage to know that this was unusual. He knew enough of women to credit Terry with uncanny judgment and skill in managing their moods and emotions.
It was a management in which no thought or effort showed, as if it were instinct alone once again.
She had a quaint and surprising perspective: meals, dishes, house, anything was forgotten if it were amusing for them to sit, she on his lap, talking and playing and laughing; and she was never cross
if the neglect cost reluctant pains later. She amused him, tickled him, stirred him, kept him constantly aware of her, yet never as if with the least calculation or design.

She might come and sit beside him when in her judgment he was silent and absorbed long enough in the newspaper or a book. When her presence, quiet and almost bated of breath, finally penetrated his consciousness and he looked up, the big brown eyes would be waiting, provocative and full of secret mirth and very accusing.

"Terry's bored," pouting.
"Yeah?" vaguely.
"Terry wants to be amused."
"Huh! Did you darn all your old man's socks and beat the carpet and bake a week's bread?"
"Well, I darned the bread and baked the carpet and beat the socks, and I'm bored and I want to be amused."
"Pest! How long is it since you've been kissed?"
"Whole half an hour."
"I see," resignedly. "Well, come to headquarters!"
And she always came flying,
chuckling, irresistible and well aware.

Friend and Enemy of Wage-Hour Bill

As the wage-hour bill kicked up congressional war clouds, Representative Mary T. Norton, New Jersey Democrat and author of the bill, is shown in a huddle with one of the measure's outstanding opponents, Senator Alvin J. Ellender of Louisiana. But Ellender, fighting mad after a joint conference committee voted to establish a 40-cent-an-hour minimum wage throughout the nation in 1945, called a meeting of southern states to plan a filibuster.

WASHINGTON—The National Bituminous Coal Commission, enjoying a period of happy ob-scurety after mulling up its job
about as badly as it could, is now proceeding with great care and good resolutions in the hope of redeeming itself.
The commission's job is to set minimum coal prices. It did set a schedule last year, but the courts began to decide the job had been sloppily done and the prices had to be canceled.

Now the commission hopes to have a new schedule of prices ready by September. That's a hope rather than a promise. But the new coal prices may be ready
by mid-October, about the time the bituminous buying season begins. Last year the board missed the boat, decreeing no prices until December.

A clean, careful job is the commission's aim, partly because of the Supreme Court decision in the Kansas City stockyards case calling for fair procedure by government regulatory or rate-making agencies, supported by the persistent demand of Consumers'
Counsel John Carson of the NBCC
for public hearings and findings of fact before action. Carson didn't need Supreme Court help,
however, as what he demanded
was provided for in the bituminous coal act. The commission, in its unregenerate days, just figured it needn't heed the law.

ONE of the things the TVA investigating committee may find out is that there isn't any rate yardstick in TVA, as is often supposed.
The yardstick appears in municipal power plants after TVA
sells electricity to the municipality
at the same rate it charges private power companies.

JOE DIMAGGIO is bearing the Bronx cheer, but he says, "Oh, let 'em boo. A few more base hits will straighten it out."
In the turmoil, and despite the fact that he reported late, and had no training, DiMaggio has striven to a batting average of .390.
"Are you satisfied?" I asked the picture hitter.
"No," he replied. "No more than you would be satisfied if you were writing stories and books worth $40,000 a year while you were collecting $25,000.
"And why should I be satisfied?
"The Yankees finished second for three years before I came to them.
"I believed I was worth $40,000, and I haven't seen anything since to cause me to change my mind."
DiMaggio, up from the ranks, understands the fans' side.
"Times being what they are," he observes, "guys sit up there and think: 'There's that big bum crabb'n' about takin' $25,000 a year, and we can't even get $1000.'"

"BUT they aren't playing ball, are they?"
"They say I'm too young to be getting $40,000, and that I haven't been in the league long enough. Well, Shirley Temple isn't so old, and she's doing all right. Jack Dempsey wasn't an old man when he broke into big money, and nobody beefed about what he collected. Joe Louis is still this side of 50, and he's done fairly well for a kid."

"Now, I'm not a child, and I'd like to get it while the gettin's good.
Nobody's going to give me a quarter to play baseball when I'm 40."
"What difference does it make how old you are when you deliver?
By the time I hit the second home run in St. Louis the other day, they didn't have a word to say."

"AFTER all, I've had two pretty good seasons.
"I'm the Yankee convincer, and everybody who knows baseball knows it.
"I told Colonel Ruppert when I signed that I wasn't satisfied.
"He looked at me, and asked: 'Well, what are you signing for?'
"Because I want to play ball," I replied, "and it looks as though I have to play for $25,000 or not at all. So here I am."
"I held out just so long, and then I figured that Colonel Ruppert could be as stubborn as myself. He's got much more money than I have. I decided that I had better take what I could get. I don't believe that it would have made any difference to Colonel Ruppert whether the Yankees had gone badly without me. He'd just made up his mind to let me sit."
You can't blame a bloke for trying to get all he can get.

Eastland Team Is Given 1st Defeat At Wichita Falls

The Royal Blues Girls' softball team of Eastland received its first setback of the year Sunday night when the Morrison Supply company's Rookies administered a 7 to 4 defeat at Wichita Falls. Playing on a new, rough sandy field under an inadequate lighting system, the Royal Blues were handicapped and the game was more hotly contested than the score showed.

Edith Rosenquest pitched the last four innings for the Blues and flashed a form that promises to surpass work she did last year. The two teams are matched to play again in the near future on the Eastland field.

Girls Encampment Held at Eastland Viewed As Success

The one day encampment for Eastland County 4-H club girls, held Friday at the Eastland City Park, is viewed as one of the most successful conducted.

The six girls who will represent Eastland county at the A. & M. Short Course which is to be held at College Station July 6, 7, 8 were determined Friday.

The two girls making the highest score in the wardrobe contest are Betty Jo Siekman of the Rising Star High 4-H club, first, and Verda Mae Eaves of the Kokomo 4-H club, second. Both of these girls will go to the short course in July, but only the first place winner will compete in the state contest. The third place was won by Hazel Day of the Okra 4 H club. The Eastland County Home Demonstration Council will award her with a prize. Seven girls entered this contest.

The best wardrobe cooperator or the girl that made the best slip, smock and dress will also go to the short course, and the winner is Verda Jean Spurien of Olden. Mary Francis Stubblefield of Gorman 4-H club won second place, and Nellie Anne Graves of the Rising Star Grammar 4-H club received third honors. Prizes will be given these girls by the council. 20 girls entered this contest.

The girl who won first place and will represent the county in a state Canned Product and Judging Contest for 4-H club girls will be Mary Norris of the Kokomo 4-H club. Verda Jean Spurien of Olden won second in this contest with three girls tying for third place, who were Helen Dempsey of the Pullock 4-H club, Margaret Grieger of the Flatwood 4-H club and Mrs. Jones met Elwood in Fort Worth on Sunday, when they also visited Leo Chesley, another son of Mrs. Jones, who returned to Tyler. Elwood is recovering from a spinal meningitis illness.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. LeClaire attended the T. P. Sunshine Singing convention at Breckenridge Saturday and Sunday.

Leading School

Jeanette Hensley of Santa Anna, grand chief for the Pythian sisters, who is leading the instruction school at the Eastland temple today.

Phyllis Donaldson of the Kokomo 4-H club. The purpose of this contest was to encourage club girls to can and know better canned vegetables. The girls were judged on the quality of product each brought, their ability to judge good food and tell and give reasons for scoring the product as they did, their personal appearance while working, and their ability to work in a business-like way without asking questions and disturbing others.

The girl who will represent the county in a district contest to be reported to the Daily Star at the short course for boys and girls will be the winner in the reporter's contest which will be Lou Byrd of Flatwood 4-H club. Verda Mae Eaves of Kokomo also won second place in this contest.

The sixth girl to win the trip will be Glen Elaine Duncan of the Morton Valley 4-H club and she is the Goal Star Girl in Eastland county.

Evangelist Opens Eastland Revival At Church of God

Rev. Robert Loudermilk, evangelist at the Church of God revival, spoke Sunday morning on the subject, "Losing Christ." He stated that the parents of Christ lost him and were not aware of it. Many Church members and religious professors have lost Christ; some by following the customs of our day, going with the crowd, merely conforming to some formal religious belief.

The evangelist emphasized the fact that what he must have is a real work of Divine Grace in the heart.

He spoke to a large audience Sunday night on the subject, "Religion as Taught by Jesus." Both messages were declared inspiring and constructive. The special music consisting of the xylophone, saxophone and slide trombone with the piano make a splendid combination. If you enjoy good music we are certain you will not be disappointed.

The evangelist and his wife sang a duet, which was enjoyed by all. Special singing and music will be a special feature of the night services. Beginning Tuesday the day services will begin at 10:00 o'clock. Special prayer service each evening for both the adults and children at 7:30.

All Christians are invited to cooperate and help make this a great soul winning campaign. You will find a Christian welcome at all the services.—Reporter.

Members of Carrier Club Have Session

The members of the Fort Worth Press Carriers Salesman club met in regular session at the Nelson News stand Monday morning at 9 o'clock with Jerry Railey, presiding.

Plans for a trip to Fort Worth on June 24 were discussed by the club members and also a trip to Mineral Wells Tuesday. Anybody in the club who gets five new subscribers is entitled to the Fort Worth trip and the ones who obtain two new subscribers receive the trip to Mineral Wells.

The meeting closed with refreshments served by F. S. Nelson, circulation manager to those present: Jerry Railey, Harold Wellman, John Allison, Robert Wynne, Billy Kenny, Burton Clifton. The club will meet again next Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

"SUMMER IS ICUMEN IN"

So sang the Anglo-Saxon bard. And whatever you may think of his spelling, your heart must echo his joy as June again brings Summer in.

Memorial Day marked the real beginning of Summer for most of us. A glad season—and there are so many things nowadays to make it more enjoyable!

Take foods as a single item. On the household pages of this newspaper you will find advertisements of mouth-watering summer delicacies by the score. Fresh fruits and berries as they appear in the markets. Succulent new vegetables. Crisp ready-to-eat cereals. Cool, dainty, hot-weather salads. Delicious ice-box desserts. Bubbly drinks to fill tinkling, moisture-beaded glasses.

Yes, Summer is a delightful time of year if you appreciate the good things that come with warm weather. And if you read the advertisements day by day they'll bring you news of all that's new and desirable in the fine art of Summer living.

LADY OF THE Orange Blossoms

Just now, Bride of June, you're walking in a dream—a fragrant, half-real mist of romance and roses. But in a fleeting while the honeymoon will be behind you. You'll be facing a world of facts with a shopping-bag on your arm. Doing your determined best to be the practical little housewife.

Cheer up! It's easier than it sounds. So much easier than it used to be! You need no special training today to be a thrifty shopper. The long ordeal of education by trial and error that Grandma underwent is a thing of the past.

Why? Because you have a dependable guide to buying, right here in the pages of this newspaper! Everything you want for your home and your table is advertised by reputable merchants, ready to stand behind their goods. News of bargains, accurate descriptions, prices—all the information you need is here.

Sitting at home, you can compare values and make your selections. Then fare forth to buy with confidence. Lucky lady!
