Eastland County 'Hopper Control Reaches Critical Point Says Cook

With at least 50,000 acres of field and pasture land in Eastland county badly infested with grass- hoppers and only approximately 2,000 acres adequately protected by poisoning to date, grasshopper control in Eastland county has reached its critical stages, accord- ing to County Agent Cook, who predicted Tuesday that if effec- tive control measures are not used within the next three weeks thou- sands of acres of crops and grass will be destroyed or badly dam- aged in the county.

Another alarming possibility al- so is that if the hoppers are not controlled before fall they will lay sufficient eggs for an even greater infestation next year, Mr. Cook added. Some people feel that this will be the last bad grasshop- per year for several years, but U. S. Bureau of Entomology insect specialists state that Grasshoppers increase and decrease in cycles unless controlled by poisoning and that they are just beginning on several years of an increasing cycle.

During the last few days grass- hoppers have been observed mov- ing from pastures and small grain fields into fields of cotton, corn, and other feed crops. They are also scattering over pastures where they formerly occupied small hatching areas.

Some farmers have remarked that the grasshoppers cannot be controlled as they will eat up the crops anyway. Farmers and ranch- ers should not become discouraged and stop using poison mash just because they have not been suc- cessful in the past and because their first poisoning this year did not kill all the hoppers. A few Eastland county farmers are ac- tually controlling their grasshop- pers and protecting their crops by following directions recom- mended by the county agent and the bureau of entomology. Hun- dreds of farmers in Panhandle counties used the same methods both last year and this year and got results.

These recommendations are that all the cropland harboring any grasshoppers be poisoned twice, four days between applica- tions, using 10 pounds of poison bran mash (dry weight) per acre each time. The important point being overlooked by most farm- ers is that the same treatment must be given a 75 yard strip of pasture land around each field at the same times. When this neu- tral zone around a field is ridged of five grasshoppers, this zone must then be watched carefully, and each time grasshoppers have migrated almost to the field, the neutral zone must again be re- poisoned.

A common complaint of all the farmers has been that the U. S. Government grasshopper poison does not kill their hoppers. They want some kind of poison with quick action to keep the hoppers from eating up their crops. Their error has been that they looked for dead grasshoppers the next day after poisoning and expected to find the ground covered with them. Dead grasshoppers are sometimes hard to find, as they are eaten by beetles, ants, birds, and other grasshoppers crawl into holes or cracks before dying. Sufficient sodium arsenite is added in the U. S. Government mixture to kill within three or four days. This is to prevent a poison hazard to livestock that might get a small quantity of the mash.

Poisoned grasshoppers do not eat, but die slowly. A few days ago a representative of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and the Eastland county agent witnessed the application of poison mash to a pasture. Twenty-four hours later they inspected and found no dead hoppers, but the hoppers were not eating and were almost lifeless. Two days later most of them were dead.

CONVICT TRIO IS CAPTURED AT GONZALES

By United Press. GONZALES, Texas, June 14.—Officers, aided by bloodhounds, captured three escaped convicts from the Harlem state prison farm today and a young woman who aided them in their break.

Capt. A. N. Owens, prison farm manager, who led a posse of 50 peace officers, came upon two men and their companion in a wooded sec- tion nine miles east of Gon- zales.

The woman, who gave her name as Lucille Warner, was dressed in men's clothing. She had climbed a tree to escape the bloodhounds.

Local deputies, part of a posse of 50 or more officers, came across the youth seated under a tree not far from where the convicts abandoned their car this morning.

CONGRESS IS DRIVING TO ADJOURNMENT

By United Press. WASHINGTON, June 14.—The 75th Congress moved a step nearer adjournment today when the House approved the compromise wage-hour conference report and sent it to the Senate.

Senate approval, sending the measure to the White House, was expected to fol- low later today.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Congressional leaders, driving to- ward final adjournment Wednes- day night, today reinstated on the agenda a bill to liberalize RFC loans to railroads.

Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley said an attempt will be made to pass the bill. The announcement complicated the adjournment drive, since shortly after Barkley conferred with the President the Railway Labor Executives Association failed to retreat from strong op- position to the bill.

Prepared for final action on the compromise report on the wages and hours bill and the $3,753,000,- 000 lending-spending measure, the House faced a jammed calendar. The rail bill authorized the R. F. C. to make an unlimited am- ount of loans to railroads for equipment purchases and for work which would re-employ men furloughed since last September.

Other action included: Congress sent to the White House a bill broadening civil ser- vice to include first, second and third-class postmasters.

President Roosevelt signed the $220,000,000 War Department civil functions bill.

John L. Lewis apparently lost his fight to obtain House action on far-reaching amendments to the government contracts bill, when the House rules committee defeated a resolution to send the measure to the floor for a vote.

The bill would establish a "blacklist" of violations of the National Labor Relations Board or- ders. They would not be allowed to do business with the govern- ment.

Concerning the High Cost of Being Stupid

Although there is little enough on the horizon these days to create optimism it might be a sound idea to inquire whether we are really as badly off as our home-grown Jeremiahs seem to believe.

You can neither turn on your radio nor pick up your magazine or newspaper nowadays without hearing someone complain that we are in dire danger. We are about to lose all of our liberties or we are slipping over the edge of the precipice into war or our economic system is indulging in the last labored breathing that precedes final extinction; and the implication is that we somehow are pretty stupid and unworthy people to let ourselves get into such a mess.

Now it is perfectly true that we are in a bad mess, and there is no use in pretending otherwise. But the thing isn't altogether our fault, and we might be quicker about the business of getting out of this mess if we could understand just where the trouble lies.

The principal trouble seems to be the fact that we have moved into a world that makes more demands on its human inhabitants than it ever did before.

It is a densely populated world which has added to the ordinary problems of over-crowding a brand-new set of problems arising out of speedy communications and an unimaginably complex and intricate set of economic and political relationships.

It is a world, in other words, in which the consequences of men's acts run farther and more swiftly than they ever did before. The rise of a dictator, the fall of a currency, the closing of an industry, the failure of a crop—all of these things send their effects winging around the world with unimaginable speed, and no man can get far enough away to escape the ripples they create.

Which simply means that it costs more to make a mistake now than it used to. Any error in our handling of human relations—and such errors are inevitable, for human relations themselves have grown infinitely more complex—exact of us a penalty such as our grandfathers would not have dreamed of.

In plain English, we live in the sort of world now which demands that we be smarter people than we used to be. The price of survival is higher; the tax on stupidity and carelessness has gone up through the roof.

All of which may not be especially encouraging—except that it does indicate that our troubles do not arise because we are more stupid or more perverse than our forefathers were. To put it more simply, we have not deteriorated, and our troubles are not a by-product of some mass disintegration.

The main thing is to realize that we need to be more alert, less emotional, more intelligent—and try to guide ourselves accordingly.

Parole Boards to Inspect Prison at Huntsville June 17

AUSTIN, June 13.—A special tour of the prison will be arranged for members of the voluntary county parole boards attending the second annual conference at Huntsville June 17 and 18, Governor Allred announced today.

The governor said that it was decided to hold the conference at Huntsville this year in order that the county parole board members might acquaint themselves with the system and see many of the men who later the boards will attempt to rehabilitate upon their release from the penitentiary.

"The county parole boards, in my opinion, have made remarkable progress," Governor Allred said, "in rehabilitating convicts paroled to them and who, without the guidance of the boards, likely would be tempted back to a life of crime. Jobs have been secured

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox

ON a recent visit to London, the writer enjoyed a typical British dinner—"Beefsteak of Old England," and all it was at the home of Marie Belloc Lowndes, as charming a hostess as she is an outstanding writer of mystery stories. Dinner in the early 18th century dining room began with bouillon, then came English sole with a mushroom sauce.

It may have been the cook or it may have been Marie Lowndes' warm personality, but that sole tasted like a food columnist's dream of heaven. A great roast of English beef came in after the sole, plus parsley potatoes and Brussels sprouts. Mrs. Lowndes is part French, which will explain the green salad course. It was the only dinner salad I met during my visit to England.

"Sweet" Plus Dessert
Now for the "sweet." A bilberry pastry roll with hot wine sauce, fragrant and packed with the "do have more" spirit. That was the "sweet," remember.

Next came the "savory," a hot and fluffy cheese soufflé served with creamy mustard. Are you incredulous? A cheese soufflé with mustard after bilberry pastry? Yes, that's a grand old English custom.

But there's more—we haven't had dessert yet. It was a Georgian silver bowl full of beautiful fresh fruit.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Fresh apricots, English scones, fruit jam, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Cream of tomato soup, mixed vegetable salad, French dressing, baking powder biscuits, apple sauce, tea, milk.
ENGLISH DINNER: Bouillon, English sole with mushroom sauce, roast beef, parsley potatoes, Brussels sprouts, hot bilberry pastry roll, wine sauce, cheese soufflé, mustard, fruit bowl, coffee.

Lowndes told me, "You know America is really my spiritual home."

Marie Belloc Lowndes Soufflé

(serves 4)
Two tablespoons butter, 23-4 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cup milk, 1-4 pound Gruyere cheese, freshly grated, 4 egg yolks, well beaten, dash pepper and a few grains salt, 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten.
Melt butter, stir in flour until smooth. Slowly stir in milk and cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add freshly grated cheese, then stir in well beaten egg yolks. Season, then remove from fire and cool.

Fold stiff egg whites into cool mixture. Turn into baking dish and set dish in pan of water. Bake for about 25 minutes in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) and serve at once in same dish. Pass creamy mustard in mustard holder.

Fiddle Is Linked To Odd Legend

By United Press
VISALIA, Cal.—Isaac Vogle, who collects rare violins, prizes two of his instruments most highly. One is a genuine 1671 Stradivarius, the other is the legendary fiddle with which Dick Dodd, a Negro slave, charmed a pack of wolves and saved his life, a feat which many thousands of schoolboys have read about.

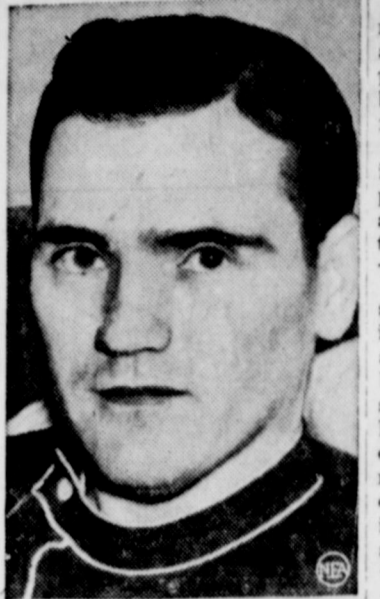

Vogle has been collecting since 1892, and owns 30 violins, most of them priceless because of their fame. Many date back hundreds of years to Europe's most noted masters of violin construction.

"Out of the 254 counties in the state, 243 counties have organized voluntary county parole boards, which I think is proof in itself that the voluntary county parole board plan is recognized as a success. The public-spirited citizens who are serving on these boards have written an important chapter in the history of Texas by their untiring, unselfish and praiseworthy efforts to mold forgotten men and women into useful citizens."

The governor was informed by Burkes P. Dougherty, his assistant in charge of the voluntary parole boards of Texas, that advance registrations for the conference indicated an attendance from the majority of the parole boards in the state, with far-flung sections such as Deaf Smith and Potter counties in the Panhandle planning to send representatives to the Huntsville conference. Many legislators have indicated that they would attend the conference, Dougherty reported.

Among those appearing on the two-day program will be Joseph F. Wearden, chairman of the Texas Prison Board; Bruce Bryant, chairman of the Board of Pardons and Paroles; Senator Gordon Burns; Col. O. J. S. Ellington, general manager of the Texas Prison System; Reed Cozart, federal probation officer; Brig. Wm. George Gilks of the Salvation Army.

God 'Ordered' Him On No-Limit Fast

because "God has ordered" him to do it, Luther Hill, above ex-hotel clerk and Bible student of Chattanooga, Tenn., undertook a no-limit fast recently entering his third week of abstinence from food. "There is nothing like a fast to take the worldliness and arrogance out of a person," commented Bible Student Hill.

His collection includes violins made by Amatas, Steiners, Grignierias and Clotz.

Vogle traces the history of his Stradivarius back to 1671, when it was shaped by the master in Italy for Gustave Minime, a professor of music. It passed to Minime's grand-grandson, Lum Minime, who came to America in 1861 and sold it to Louis Belfils.

Belfils went to Oregon and sold the violin to Frank Anderson who later became a jeweler in Tulare, Cal. Vogle traded a watch, another violin and a cornet for the Stradivarius.

The Dick Dodd fiddle came to Vogle from Ellen Dodd Goren, daughter of Thomas Dodd, Kentucky planter and owner of the slave Dick Dodd, through many intermediate hands. Its legend, which he says is documentally authenticated, was related in the Hoosier schoolmaster days.

Purse Has $9.70 Cent Bill

BOSTON.—A Bank rant manager notified an inebriated patron pay a 70-cent check, found $9.69 in his wallet. "You'll never have it if you part with it," said playboy solemnly, advised Maurice Murphy, a tione about not paying.

As the story goes, slave was walking to a party, when he was by a pack of wolves. Dick ran toward a windowed cabin and a door. As they leaped, he desperately drew the string across the string, which spired by terror, his wolves fell back, according to the story.

The wolves permitted and would leap at him came silent. He played the long hours of the rescuers found him dead in the morning.

398 Numbers Are Listed In Phone Directory of Firm

A total of 398 separate numbers are listed in the new directory just issued in Eastland by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

First name listed in the directory is that of W. S. Adamson, county judge, and the last listed is R. L. Young, employe of the Texas Electric Service company.

Under the "I" classification only the name of Dr. F. T. Isbell is registered. There is only one person—Guy Quinn—whose name is listed under the "Q" classification. E. W. Underwood is the only name listed under the "U" heading.

Dance Tonight Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tolbert will entertain with an invitation dance tonight, June 14, honoring their daughter, Jennie. The dance will hold forth on the Connellee roof from 9 p. m. until, and the orchestra of Jack Amlung will furnish the music for the occasion.

Miss Tolbert, who has been attending Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, just returned this last week for the summer holidays with her parents.

'Shadow' Plant Is Tried In Britain

LONDON—Six firms, five of which manufacture automobiles, will receive $1,500 management fees for each airplane that is produced under the government's "shadow factory" scheme, according to the auditor general, Sir Gilbert Upcott, under the appropriation account of receipts and expenditures for air services.

The government pays the net cost of the machines, a report revealed. "Arrangements were made in 1936," the report said, "by which six firms, engaged with one exception in the motor car industry, undertook as agents of the Air Ministry to build, equip and manage factories required first, for the immediate production of airframes and aero engines in supplement of the output of the aircraft industry and second, as a potential source of supply in an emergency.

"Five of the firms," the report continued, "are responsible for the production of different components of a fixed number of aero engines which are to be assembled by one of these five and by the sixth firm. Two of the firms are in addition producing a fixed number of complete airframes. The government contracted to repay to the agents the net cost, which was defined in the agreements as the actual net cost properly incurred, "having due regard to economy and efficiency and subject to all discounts, rebates, etc." The net cost was not to include any payment for services of directors or of the heads of departments.

"The agents are remunerated, the report said, "by management fees which take the form of a fixed amount payable in respect to the construction period a sum of $1,000 or $1,125 per airframe and $375 per engine produced. An incentive to economy in production is provided by a bonus scheme under which agents will receive a share (ranging from 12 1/2 per cent to 17 1/2 per cent) of the sum by which ascertained net cost is less than a basic price."

TOO MUCH SINEW COSTLY

OAKLAND, Calif. — Stanford Stanley really didn't know he was so strong. His automobile stalled; he gave it an encouraging push with his right arm and it went over the railing and fell to the bottom of a 300-foot canyon, a complete wreck.
