LOYALISTS TO START OWN AERIAL WAR

By United Press

The Spanish Loyalists thrust explosive new obstacle in the path of European peace today by threatening aerial attacks on bases of rebel planes bombarding undefended cities.

Importance of the threat lay in the fact that loyalists have blamed Italian and German planes for the bombardment of government cities and that the main base is in the Balearic Islands.

The rebels in Spain charged that government air squadrons had been transferred to positions for attacks on ships in rebel-held ports, particularly Italian ships. Official Italian newspapers declared there would be warlike retaliations by nazi-fascist governments if their shipping is bombarded.

Rebel planes from the Balearics are able to make the 170-mile flight to the loyalist coast with slight danger of attack and without giving the defenders advance warning.

Today's decisions of the loyalists to strike back was conveyed to the British and French governments without explanation.

A desperate campaign of reprisal against the rebel ports and air bases might easily upset the international movement to cut off outside aid to both sides in the Spanish conflict and force a crisis.

Elsewhere: United States—Agitation increased for supplying the army and navy with additional funds to guard America from foreign spies as suggested by the president.

Mexico—The most powerful Mexican labor organization demanded deportation of Jewish owners of small silk and rayon establishments.

$1,000 Repairing Program Started At Eastland Church

W. M. Bagley, contractor on $1,000 in repairs to the First Christian church at Eastland, reported Saturday that work will be completed the latter part of July.

Work on the church, now under progress, includes repapering and canvassing, construction of a new concrete baptistry, repainting of the interior and general overhauling.

The construction program is being carried out through direction of the board of trustees, composed of J. A. Beard, E. E. Wood and George Harper.

The church's annex will be used for services during the repair program.

WORK IS RESUMED ON DEEP DESDEMONA TEST AFTER LONG LAY-OFF

Good news to oil-minded residents of this area was the resumption of this week of activity on Gallagher-Lawson et al Mrs. Bobbie L. Terry, 5,500-foot Comanche county test near Desdemona, Eastland county, in the N. H. Kuykendall survey.

Work was abandoned several months ago when the test, to try the Hickory sand, was halted at total depth of 4,978 in Ellenburger lime topped at 3,404 feet. The No. 1 Terry was spudded in May, 1937.

Upon the outcome of the deep test, say some observers, rests much of the future interest in this territory.

Since similar projects have often proven highly successful, interest was attached to announcement of Morris and Everett of Fort Worth that they will clean out two and a half miles north of Ranger No. 1 D. A. Hestellow, Frances Harnes survey, which was plugged in the oil boom less than a year after it came in with an initial production of 1,000 barrels from the 3,000-foot vicinity.

Location is 150 feet from the south and west lines of the 100-acre Hestellow tract out of the Harnes survey.

Years that have elapsed since this area's oil excitement have shown that many wells, some capable of producing several hundred barrels, were plugged by operators

Barbara's Son, Kidnap Target?

Although a reported kidnap threat against 2-year-old Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow, above, was denied by Scotland Yard, a representative of the family admitted in London that "certain precautions" are being taken to protect the son of the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to the $40,000,000 Woolworth 5-and-10 fortune. Adding to the mystery were reports that a warrant had been issued for Count Haugwitz-Reventlow's arrest.

Thompson Denies He is Aided By Any Big Business

Ernest O. Thompson made answer today to political opponents who have said his campaign was being supported by "big interests." "I am getting and seeking no support from the major oil companies, utilities or foreign-owned chain stores," he said.

Thompson spoke at Big Spring, Colorado, Sweetwater and San Angelo, Saturday. Sen. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock claimed the support of union labor's political alliance at Dallas in his campaign for lieutenant governor.

Naval Expansion Program Pushed

WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Roosevelt today advanced his naval expansion program by approving 113 PWA allotments for construction in navy yards and stations. Non-federal projects included Texas, Brazos River electrification and minor improvements $56,150.

ors who wish to pull pipe and use it with the intention of finding gusher production. The Hestellow No. 1 was formerly known as the Prairie Oil and Gas company property.

Preparations were underway in Stephens county to test G. Willard Rich No. 1 J. W. Andrews, six miles east of Moran, which topped sand at 3,667 feet where oil string was landed. While pulling outside casing the latter part of the week the well made an unexpected unestimated flow. Indications are that the well, in section 39, block 7, T. & P. survey, will make a producer from the Lake sand.

Cleaning out was continuing on the Hayner, Reeves and Hose No. 1 P. C. Larkin, three and a half miles northwest of Rising Star, Eastland county, section 40, block 2, ETRR survey. Total depth of the test, showing as a producer, was reported 3,098 feet.

In Callahan county, four miles north of Putnam, it was reported shutdown orders had been received for Wittmer Oil and Gas Properties, Inc., No. 1 R. D. Williams, section 2269, TE&L survey, after it had been plugged back to 3,328 feet in the Caddo lime.

Stocks Waver In Early Hours But Overcome Loss

By United Press

NEW YORK, June 25.—Stocks wavered for a short time today and then resumed their advance with such vigor that tickers fell several minutes behind. It was the seventh successive rise and transactions were the heaviest since April 16.

Early irregularity was featured by a decline by steel shares, which were sold when traders got the impression from President Roosevelt's speech that the U. S. Steel Corporation had given assurance no wage changes would be made in effecting a price cut.

Today the corporation flatly denied any such assurance. The market advanced under the lead of steel shares, which substituted gains for early losses.

Body of Young Millionaire Is Seen On Mountain

By United Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25.—Two members of a searching party of 200 reported late today they had sighted the body of Medill McCormick, heir to a Chicago publishing fortune, 200 feet below a precipitous tip of Sandia Peak.

They said the body appeared to be wedged between several logs on an almost inaccessible ledge.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25.—Skilled mountain climbers came to Albuquerque by plane today to assist in the search for Medill McCormick, 21, of Chicago, heir to a publishing fortune, missing since he attempted, Wednesday to scale the Sandia Mountains, east of here.

The body of Richard Whitmer, 20, McCormick's companion, was found Friday at the foot of a steep cliff.

Search for young McCormick was renewed with Gov. Clyde Tingley directing hundreds of CCC workers, forest rangers, national guardsmen and volunteers.

Robert Ormes flew here from Colorado Springs, prepared to scale the peak. Other mountain climbers were enroute here.

RIFTS OVER ROOSEVELT'S TALK FEARED

By United Press

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Conservative democrats today countered President Roosevelt's declaration of war against anti-union dealers with warnings that voters would resent "goose stepping behind a leader."

In his latest address Mr. Roosevelt pointed the new deal toward new "reform" horizons and asserted his right to oppose democratic primary candidate who misused his name.

First comment among the democratic congressional group challenged some of Mr. Roosevelt's policy. They warned against outside interference in state affairs.

Sen. Burke said the president had full legal right to enter primary campaigns "but it questions the wisdom of doing that."

The present challenge "copperhead" defeatists among his opponents who would have him abandon the new deal.

The new deal program will go on, he insisted, under impetus of national will. Upon labor and capital he placed responsibility for the current depression, though conceding the government, too, had made mistakes.

BOSTON, June 25.—There are no rifts in the democratic party, postmaster General James A. Farley declared today, though admitting there are "some disgruntled members who are out of step and make more noise than a multitude."

WINNER OF CALIFORNIA HORNED TOAD DERBY IS ASKED TO JULY 4 EVENT

Secretary T. J. Tanner of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce last night challenged the owner of the winner in the Coalinga, Calif., annual horned toad derby Saturday to enter the toad in the "biggest event of its kind" Monday, July 4, at an Eastland holiday celebration. The Eastland celebration begins Saturday, July 2nd.

At least 500 horned toads will be entered in the Eastland derby, said Tanner, who added, "after all, wasn't it in Eastland that 'Old Rip' slept 30 years in the courthouse cornerstone?"

E. E. Wood, justice of peace who gave to his son, Will, the frog that slept will be one of the judges in the event.

"It's high time the world again recognizes Eastland as capital of the horned toad world," emphasized Tanner. "We feel like Coalinga and other cities are attempting to horn-in on interest in horned toads which rightfully belongs in Eastland."

Tanner said arrangements would be made for a photo finish. Anyone of the area may enter as many toads as they wish.

Meanwhile, said Tanner, other events of the annual celebration were shaping up splendidly. Inquiries from over the area, said Tanner, indicated attendance greater than last year's event.

SUSPECT HELD IN EASTLAND MAN'S DEATH

MONAHANS, Texas, June 25.

—Clarence Henderson was held in city jail here Friday night in connection with the death of Jess Barnett of Eastland, Wednesday night. Henderson is also formerly of Eastland county.

His wife was reported to be in Breckenridge, their former home, preparing $2,000 bond, set by Justice of the Peace A. G. Burton after Henderson had waived examining trial on a charge of murder.

An X-ray examination revealed two wounds and a fracture of the skull caused by hatchet wounds, investigating officers said. One wound was on the left temple and the other on the left side of the neck.

The 'Wealth Conscription' Would Scare Nobody

It would be very nice indeed if one could go along wholeheartedly with the Military Affairs Committee of the U. S. Senate in its pious hope that the recently-reported "wealth conscription bill" will be a strong force for peace.

This is the bill which, in time of war, would render all citizens liable to having their wealth "borrowed" by government draft. In place of the Liberty Loan drives of the last war, in which people were urged to buy bonds, every one would be compelled to buy bonds. The total a man would require to buy would depend on the amount of money he had, and the bonds he bought would yield only 1 per cent interest.

This would not be in the least pleasant, especially for the man of affairs who could find in the intricacies of a wartime boom plenty of more interesting spots to put his money. So the Military Affairs Committee reports jubilantly:

"When the financial tycoons and large manufacturers realize that they will have to lend the bulk of the money necessary to finance the next war at an extremely low rate of interest, they will hesitate to use the forces at their command to propagandize the general public into a war hysteria."

This is a pretty picture, but it demands a little further examination.

For one thing, it assumes that we go to war because the forces of big business propagandize us into it; and while there was some highly unsavory, expertly-financed propaganda floating around just prior to April 6, 1917, it is nevertheless true that the way we got into a war admits of no such simple explanation as that.

We get in, usually, because our emotions get stirred up, or because our interests are threatened. No one needs to reflect very long about the way we have been reacting to the troubles in China, Spain, Czechoslovakia and elsewhere to see how easily we could slip into war without the aid of any big business propaganda at all.

But there is more to it than that. For a loan, after all, is a loan; and to get your principal back with 1 per cent interest is a great deal better than not to get anything back whatever.

The new Jefferson nickel, somebody has figured out, buys only 7-10ths as much as the buffalo nickel did when it first came out. What the country still needs is a good 5-cent nickel.

A tax collector in New Jersey has been convicted of embezzlement. The proper charge to bring against him would have been tax-invasion.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Sunday School 9:45 a. m. Morning Worship, 11 a. m. Wednesday, testimonial service, 8 p. m.

Public cordially invited. "Christian Science" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 26th.

The Golden Text is: "The ransom of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." (Isaiah 35:10.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "In that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes; even so, Father, for so it seemed good in thy sight." (Luke 10:21.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As aforetime, the spirit of the Christ, which taketh away the ceremonies and doctrines of men, is not accepted until the hearts of men are made ready for it." (page 121.)

The candidate will be introduced by Joe H. Jones, assistant United States district attorney at Dallas.

Crowley and Jones are both former residents of Eastland. Jones at one time was district attorney in Eastland county and Crowley a practicing attorney in Eastland.

Representatives from over the county are expected to hear his speech at Eastland. Several old-age pension leaders also are scheduled to speak.

W. Lee O'Daniel Cancels Engagement

FORT WORTH, June 25—Due to brevity of time and distances to be covered between Monday, June 27 and Monday July 4, W. Lee O'Daniel, Fort Worth, candidate for governor, has found it necessary to cancel speaking dates at Ranger and Cisco for Monday. His only appearances on Monday will be at Stephenville at noon, Comanche at 4 p. m. and Brownwood at 6 o'clock Monday night.

R. A. (Bob) Stuart Speaks in Ranger

Robert A. (Bob) Stuart of Fort Worth spoke in Ranger Saturday morning in interest of his candidacy for railroad commissioner. He denounced the perpetual office holder and the chronic office seeker as being a menace to Texas.

Stuart is a former member of the West Texas Technological College board of regents and is president of the board of regents of the seven Texas State Teachers' Colleges. He is a former state senator and served Tarrant County as district attorney.

Stuart declared he is in favor of abolishing the ad valorem tax and is in favor of paying the old age assistance in full. Both could be brought about by saving the oil and gas that are now being wasted in the oil fields, Stuart said.

When elected railroad commissioner, Stuart said he would fight for lower freight and gas rates. He said he believed the oil allowance should be raised to encourage drilling in West Texas. Under the present allowable, he said, it does not pay to drill a well.

POET'S CORNER

Composed by R. L. Rowe, Deceased

I think 'twas only yesterday, A nice kind letter we had, 'Twas addressed to my Dear Sweet Mama, And just common Plain Old Dad. But plain old dad remembers, When he was young and glad, How he trotted his babes on his knee, But now he's old and sad. He has traveled almost to The end of the Road, He has carried many a Heavy load. 'Twas for the sake of Dear Sweet Mother And the children that they had, But now he's tired and weary, He's just common plain old Dad. But plain old Dad may wander, To the poor house over the hill, His children gay and prosperous, But he will love them still. But poor old Dad remembers, His children should not be sad, For down the road not many miles, They'd be like plain old dad.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

BY EDWIN RUTT Copyright 1938, NEA Service Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he was smacked into KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she was smacked into ED, the WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was headed somewhere, too, but affairs somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday immediately Joe lays down the ultimatum that Kelly is to marry him. "Eh, Ed, he comments, 'This sure Gilbert would have lived high if I hadn't come along.'"

CHAPTER III
"CONCEITED thing," said Kelly. "Your coming has nothing whatever to do with Gilbert or how high he'll live. More cream?"
 "Sure. And it isn't a question of conceit. I'm a stickler for facts, that's all. And I repeat . . ."
 "Skip it," said Kelly. "How does your head feel?"
 "I haven't known I had a head for the last half hour."

"In that case," Kelly said, "you're starting for Boston right after breakfast." And they did. They stopped in a village a mile from Tyler Archer's house. Their paths diverged, temporarily. Joe bought a barber shop, Kelly the telegraph office to wire Gilbert to meet her and to buy sandwiches and milk. When Joe got back, neatly shaved, Kelly was calmly smoking a cigaret and reading a New York paper.

"I wanted to see if the family had kicked up any dust yet," she explained.
 "Expect a dust storm?" said Joe.
 "And how. My family are probably raising the roof. You see, I walked out cold."
 "Then they don't know that you were going to the arms of this wastrel?"

"They don't know anything. Because I told them exactly nothing. Therefore I am picturing consternation, the colossal kind, in the old Archer homestead."
 "But won't they get in touch with this twerp Gilbert?"
 Kelly pursed her lips. Evidently that possibility had not occurred to her. She reached for Joe's arm and dragged him into the car.

"That's a thought," she said. "And it makes it all the more important to get to Boston quickly. Come on, James. In and drive."
 "THERE'S consternation in these hyar hills as well," Joe said conversationally, as they got under way. "It seems that some yegg held up the bank at North Collierton early this morning. I heard about it at the barber shop. Got away with $20,000 in cash, they say."

"Well," said Kelly, "that's a lot of money in any man's league."
 "You spoke," said Joe. "But I doubt if the bird gets clear. According to the barber, who is a respectable gold mine of information, he's just about two jumps ahead of the state troopers. They found his car abandoned with a flat tire and they think he's taken to the tall timber. Excitement, eh, what?"
 The road was good and practically devoid of traffic. Despite its external injuries, the Ford purred along like an outside in contented cats. An hour passed. Two. Then Kelly came out of a dose to announce: "We're stopping for lunch soon. Pull off on the first side road, Joseph. I crave to eat in some glade or dell. It's the poetess in me."

"Whoops," said Joe, and aimed the Ford at a lane that ran off from the main road.
 Kelly found a likely-looking glade in no time. They got out, sat with their backs against the same tree and began consuming the sandwiches and milk. Then, as the sandwiches diminished, it developed that Kelly had brought an extra one for Joe.
 Joe grabbed the sandwich, a thing of ham and pickles.
 "Never shall it be said," he proclaimed, "that Joseph Harendeen

"Save that sangwidge," commanded a rasping voice.
 Sandham utouts his women. Since we have arrived at an impasse, we will toss this sandwich to the beasts of the field and the birds of prey. We will . . ." And right there Mr. Joseph Harendeen the boy."

 "Got any more?" he inquired.
 "Sorry," said Kelly, who seemed to have recovered her poise in miraculous fashion. "There's a tot of milk, though, for mamma's lit-

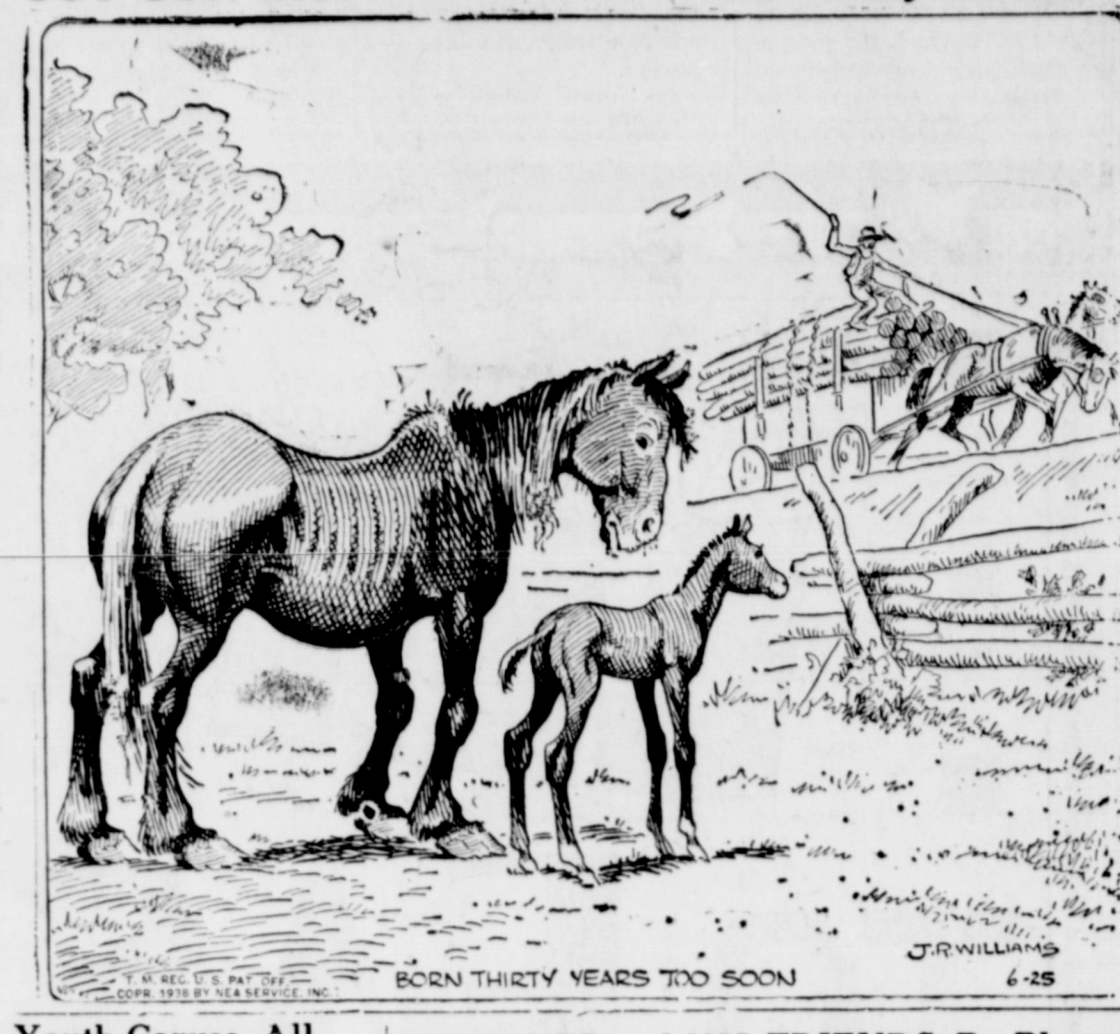

JOE glanced at her admiringly out of the corner of one eye. What presence of mind! What nerve! Generally speaking, what a woman!
 The behemoth seemed gifted with a subtle sense of humor. He grinned from ear to ear, a sickening sight.
 "Haw, haw," he said. "Milk huh? Gimme it!"

Kelly offered a bottle half full. The behemoth of the shoulders raised it to his lips and produces a sound as of a dredge sluicing away at a river bed. A second later the bottle of milk was just a bottle, nothing more. The gun-minded man tossed in away.
 "Hi!" he said, with satisfaction. "I feel better. I ain't et since dit mornin'."
 Joe thought it was time that he got in a word. He tried again along the same lines.

"Who are you?" he demanded.
 The behemoth reached in his vest pocket, brought forth a quill toothpick and set to work on the left upper molars in the back of the house.
 "Me?" he said, looking at Joe sternly. Evidently he wished to get things straight.
 "You," confirmed Joe.
 An expression of pride seemed to cross the weak blue eyes of the behemoth.

"It's Ed the Weasel," he announced.
 Then it was that any lingering doubts as to the true worth of Miss Kelly Archer passed from Joe Sandham's mind forever.
 "Why, how nice," said Kelly. "We're all in the animal kingdom together. I'm Kelly the Kangaroo and this gentleman is Joe the Jaguar. Welcome to our city."
 Ed the Weasel peered at her suspiciously.
 "Hey," he said at last. "I ain't got time to stand here ribbin' wid youse." He brandished his gun. "Git up."
 It was clear that he meant business. Kelly and Joe got up. (To Be Continued)

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

Youth Carves All Furniture In Home
 By United Press
 CLEVELAND.—Frank Varga, whose hobby is wood-carving, has completed by hand nearly all the furniture necessary to furnish a home.

While a high school student, Varga became interested in wood-carving because this was the hobby of one of his teachers. He began creating beautiful wood-work pieces in his spare time.
 It was discovered that Varga's completion of many articles of household furniture signified his interest in a girl.

The piece of furniture he has carved are: a library table, with heraldic and other decorative designs deeply cut into its heavy white oak, an occasional chair and a tilt-top table, a bookcase, a sewing cabinet, a settee, an oak bench, a mirror frame and matching picture frames, a smoking cabinet, liquor cabinet, cupboard and antique type lamp.
 None of his work is done on a machine. Mortises and tenons and dovled unions are made by hand. This carving requires three or four hours a day over a period of six months for a major piece.

Varga does not wish to commercialize his work although other wood carvers declare his work is saleable.
 He asserts that he wants to complete all the pieces to furnish a house.

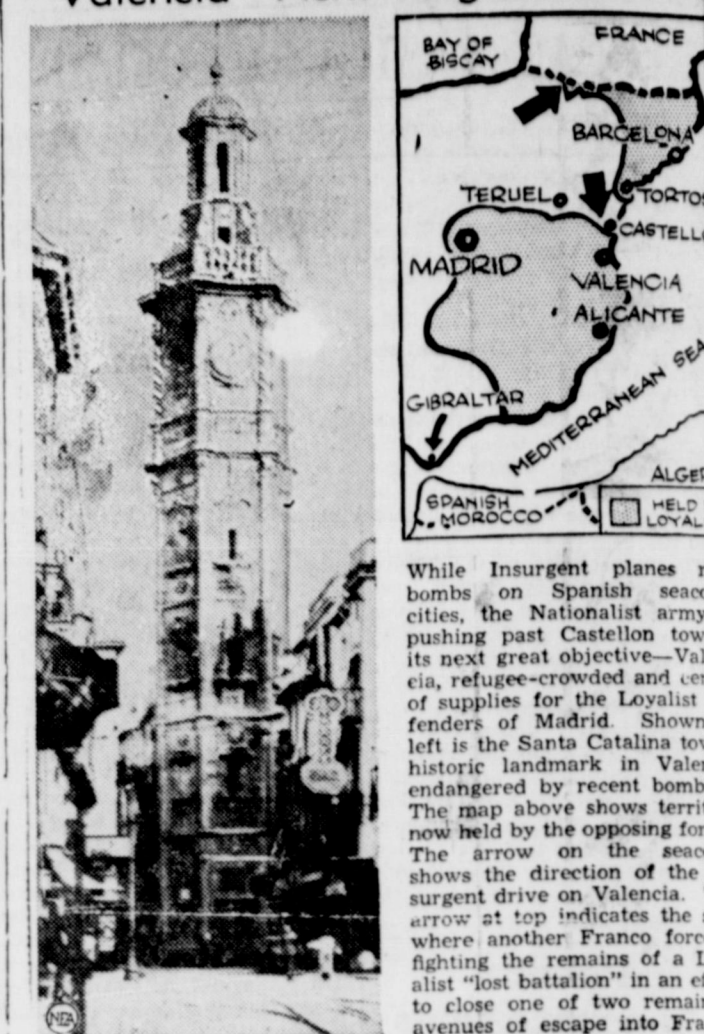

Robber-Salesman Meets His Downfall
 By United Press
 CLEVELAND, Ohio.—A burglar, finding no money in the Birnbaum Coal company office, turned salesman and did a good business until police interrupted his activities.
 He sold a bushel of coal to each of six customers. They paid 25 cents a bushel. Three more customers were loading their baskets when two policemen happened in.
 "I don't work here. I'm just leaving," the burglar said, preparing to make a hasty exit.
 The policeman prevented the departure of the pseudo salesman.

Joshua A Choice of Loyalties
 Text Joshua 1:2-6; 24:14-21

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D. Editor of Advance
 IN the dramatic story of the entrance of the children of Israel into the Promised Land and the conquest of Canaan, Jehovah is represented as calling Joshua in succession to Moses and commanding him to lead the people over Jordan.

It is easy for a man to say that he is called of God or that God has spoken to him, but what proof is there of the claim? The proof is in the evidence of a man's life and work, and in all history no man is said to have given clearer evidence of a divine call and the divine blessing than Moses, the great leader, and Joshua, his successor.

It was not by chance that the task of continuing the work of Moses, with all its honor and its responsibility, fell upon Joshua. We have the picture of him as one of the twelve going up to spy the land which the children of Israel were seeking to enter. Ten of these twelve spies returned with discouraging and fear-stricken stories. The land was peopled by great and strong enemies, and there was no possibility of the Israelites being able to conquer it. But two men, Joshua and Caleb, had a different report. They emphasized the richness of the land which awaited the people and they said, "We are well able to possess it."

It was in this clear faith that Joshua accepted his leadership, and it was in the expression of his own spirit that he passed on to the people the admonition that had come to him, to be strong and of good courage. But Joshua saw the people themselves weakened by their own lack of faith and by the immorality that prevailed among them.

The welfare of America—as much as the welfare of ancient Israel—depends upon clear, definite, and moral choice on the part of those who would serve God and the commonweal.

IT'S VACATION TIME — AND WHAT ABOUT THE IMPORTANT GUESTS?

This is the time of year when folks visit each other, and how important it is to have a place to entertain those who will come your way. The important business associate, the close friend, or just plain old Dad and Mother may drive up any time. So, look out! If you own the place, what a relief! No moving, no bother with the real estate agent who has a prospect to show thru the house while important guests are visiting you. And when you tell them, "We own our home," it means a lot. Don't delay buying a home. A day may mean the difference between success and failure to you. EARL BENDER & COMPANY Abstracts — Insurance — Real Estate — Rentals
