THREE BIG DAYS OF FUN EASTLAND, JULY 2-3-4

UNITED PRESS BRINGS LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TO TELEGRAM READERS

EASTLAND, TEXAS, TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 28, 1938

PRICE FIVE CENTS

NO. 206

PENDING PLAN FURTHERED BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, June 28.—President Roosevelt today accelerated his $1,157,000,000 naval construction program, approving a second list of navy projects to be constructed with PWA funds. The list comprised 10 projects bringing grants of $1,995,000. Meanwhile Reconstruction Finance Corporation Chairman Jesse H. Jones offered the billion-dollar bill of the RFC to cities and states seeking to purchase the disintegrating lines of private utility companies.

PORT WORTH, June 28.—An assistance in a war on grasshoppers in North and West Texas sought today by Assistant A. Director Karl Wallace. Wallace prepared an application for $80,000 to employ 146 WPA men in mixing and distributing poisoned mash during the next days. The poison would be spread in counties, including Tarrant, land and Palo Pinto.

CARL CROWLEY MAKES SPEECH AT EASTLAND

Carl A. Crowley, former resident of Eastland county Monday as he discussed his platform at an address on the southside of courthouse square.

am not asking you to vote personally but because of cause," declared the candidate, whose voice from weeks of campaigning.

was introduced by Joe H. of Dallas, also former resident of Eastland, who stated that President Roosevelt has "loaned" back to Texas to serve as "armor." Crowley until his recent recently was solicitor general of the postoffice department at Washington.

Crowley stated in his Eastland address that he has been unanimously endorsed by the Committee One Hundred, representing "consolidated" Old Age Pension clubs of Texas, thus assuring already a total of over 200,000 votes.

Crowley, he outlined to his audience, proposed to pay $30 monthly pensions and the money to be raised by a two per cent transactions tax. He assured his listeners that the transaction tax would not be a "tax on poverty." Applause greeted his assertion that he would "fire every pension investigator" and place investigation of pension applicants before county judges and commissioners in Texas counties.

The short, vigorous candidate argued that Ernest O. Thompson and Bill McCraw, candidates also for governor, are "corporation" men.

Also he stated that McCraw is "the best tap dancer to ever have graduated from the Dallas Little Theatre." It was his contention that McCraw and Thompson have entered in the race by "big interests."

The candidate declared that big corporations control Texas and that earnings from the state's health are taken to the financial centers of the world. He deplored what he said are inadequate taxes on oil shipped from the state which he said would help pay a big part of the state's government. He explained, however, that he was for independent and small oil producers.

Crowley pointed out an adequate oil would greatly aid cities and counties in debt.

C. E. May, Jr., Named TAC Honor Student

STEPHENVILLE.—C. E. May, Jr., of Ranger was named an honor student at John Tarleton college today in a report released from Registrar Charlie S. Wilkins' office after reports of second preliminary grades were in. May was included on the semester honor roll. Honor roll students are required to make 30 grade points during the semester. E. May was a junior in chemical engineering.

To Guide Rotary During Next Year

New president of Rotary International for the next year is George C. Hager, top, of Chicago, elected at the annual convention of the group in San Francisco. With Hager will serve Rufus F. Chapin, below, also of Chicago, whose annual re-election as international treasurer has become almost a habit with Rotary. He has served in this post since 1912.

Arctic Trip 17th For MacMillan

BOOTHBAY, Maine, June 28.—Commander Donald B. MacMillan has sailed on his 17th Arctic expedition.

The 63-year-old explorer expects the 6,000-mile cruise will take him and his crew of 10 students within 12 degrees of the North Pole.

The 10-week expedition has five objectives:

1. To study the advance and retreat of glaciers.
2. To survey and map unknown harbors.
3. To study the location and nesting habits of northern birds.
4. To study the geology and botany of northern Labrador.
5. To make a series of photographs in natural colors, both movies and stills.

Before boarding the now-famous auxiliary schooner Bowdoin, expedition craft, MacMillan said he expected to return about September 10.

As on past expeditions, the student crew members will stand watches, take tricks at the wheel, do all deck work and handle the sails.

All Candidates In County Pay Costs

Every candidate for precinct and county candidate in Eastland county who had announced for office paid by Saturday the required assessment fee, Oscar Lyleria, chairman of the Eastland County Democratic Executive committee, announced Tuesday.

McCormick's Body May Be Recovered

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 28.—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms will decide today whether to lower men along the face of Sandia Mountain on great steel cables in an effort to find the body of her son, Medill McCormick, 21, missing since last Wednesday on a mountain scaling expedition.

Sunday Shutdown May Be Abandoned

AUSTIN, June 28.—Sunday oil field shutdowns during July and reopening of the fields for Saturday production was expected to be ordered as Texas Railroad Commissioners today prepared a July oil order.

Federal Poison For Hoppers Still Available, E. Cook

Government bran and poison for controlling grasshoppers are still available at the planing mill in Cisco, to Eastland county farmers although the state allotment of this poison has been issued out to the counties and some counties have exhausted their supply, according to the county agent.

It is emphasized that Eastland county farmers who intend to control their grasshoppers should do so at once as the surplus poison supplies on storage in the county will be released to other counties as soon as the shortage in other counties becomes acute.

Forty six thousand six hundred pounds of grasshopper poison have been mixed at the plant in Cisco and distributed to farmers and ranchers in the county.

Those applying the material according to instructions report that they have their hoppers under control.

C. C. McFadden of Dothan reports that he is successfully protecting his 31 acres of cotton and 45 acres of feedstuff by poisoning a zone around his fields in addition to sowing mash in the part of the crop already infested. He has also controlled wingless May beetles by poisoning fence rows late in the afternoon.

The zone which he is poisoning around his fields is about 70 feet wide. As soon as grasshoppers migrate into this zone out of adjoining infested territory, McFadden reports the zone, thus keeping the hoppers entirely outside his cropland.

Employment Office Functions Are Told by Maurice Harkins

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE 24 600 An explanation of the functions of the Texas State Employment service office at Eastland was given Monday by Maurice Harkins at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club on the Connelley hotel roof.

Billy Sue Bender named the books of the Bible as an extra program feature. Earl Bender was program chairman with James Horton as the other member of the committee.

The club adopted a resolution expressing sympathy in the death of Mrs. Sam Gamble, wife of a member. Members also voted to dispense with next week's meeting because July 4 is coincident with Monday, regular date for the session.

J. T. McKissick of Cisco and L. R. Pearson of Ranger, were other visitors. J. E. Lewis, vice president, presided in the absence of Carl Springer, president.

Candidate Must Take Rest After His Collapse

DALLAS, June 28.—Tom Hunter, who collapsed while making a radio address in his campaign for governor last night, must have "complete rest" for several days, his physician said today.

Hunter was in the midst of the campaign when his 12-year-old daughter Helen was stricken with pneumonia. Hunter rushed to Wichita Falls from Waco and was at his daughter's bedside almost constantly until she was out of danger.

Ernest O. Thompson made a bid for the support of school teachers in his campaign for governor. "All over the state teachers have carried on without their salaries or on part salaries in order that the school year might be finished. A sufficient equalization fund should be provided by meet the state's obligation in rural school operations without making the teachers come out on the short end of it every year."

Williams' Talk Is Termed Unfortunate

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The Senate campaign expenditures committee today characterized the address of Deputy Works Progress Administrator Aubrey Williams as "unfortunate."

The committee declared it had accepted an explanation offered by Williams. Sen. Morris Sheppard said the incident appeared to be closed.

He said he was obtaining a copy of the address in which Williams urged an organization of WPA recipients to "support your friends."

HELM-BENT FOR BERMUDA

Skimming over the water under a spanking breeze, with St. David's Head at its next stop, is the Actaea, with Owner Henry Sears of Boston at the helm. The Actaea is one of 43 yachts in the 635-mile race from Newport, R. I., to Bermuda.

Fire Chief Urges Cooperation In Keeping Losses of Year Down

A gift of $2,500 is awaiting Eastland property owners if they co-operate with the fire department for the remainder of 1938 and keep losses to the level of the first five months, Chief A. W. Hennessee said Tuesday.

"If people will help us keep losses down Eastland will be eligible for a maximum credit of 15 per cent next year," declared the official.

Hennessee explained further by stating that this year the city is enjoying a 15 per cent credit on rates. Last year the city had a flat rate, drawing neither penalty nor interest.

He stated that premium in Eastland ordinarily amount to $25,000 annually in explaining that $2,500 may possibly be saved should the present record be continued.

Interest In Eastland's Horned Toad Growing, Reports Indicate

Interest in Eastland's horned toad derby next Monday, a feature of the annual three-day July 4 celebration beginning Saturday, was apparently growing by leaps and bounds Tuesday.

Celebration officials had given notified the event had been given state-wide publicity through newspapers and radio.

H. J. Tanner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, stated the frogs, possibly 500, would be placed in a 20-foot ring and the first toad to cross the chalk mark from the center would be adjudged the winner.

E. E. Wood, who owned "Old Rip" and gave it to his son who had it placed in the cornerstone of the courthouse, will be one of the judges. All toads must be tagged and numbers registered with the judges.

Arrangements are being made for a photo-finish. That the event was attracting attention was shown by a news story from Abilene and a communication from Austin which were as follows:

ABILENE, June 28.—Cowboy, the horned frog that won second place in the Collegiate Center division of Coalinga (Calif.) World Championship horned toad derby, will be returned to Texas to challenge all racefrogs.

Particularly antagonistic will be his attitude toward all Eastland county horned frogs, said C. Herschel Schooley, Harbin-Simmons minister of propaganda. Eastland county folks, still balloon-headed because a horned frog pulled a Rip Van Winkle in their courthouse during the first third of the 20th century, have challenged the rowdy young frog of H-S-U's for-

Eastland County Farmers Urged To Attend Course

Eastland county farmers should be represented at the farmers' short course at A. & M. college on July 14-15 by at least 10 farmer delegates, according to County Agent Cook, who is prepared to enroll all those who wish to attend. Cook points out that expenses of the trip will run less than $10 per person and that the three-day course for adult farmers offers one of the best programs ever planned for Texas farmers.

Farmers interested in making the trip should contact the county agent as soon as possible so that bus transportation can be arranged and room reservations made. It is hoped that all reservations can be made not later than July 1st.

The first day of the short course will be devoted to discussions and demonstrations of soil conservation. County judges, county commissioners, farmers and tank-building contractors will discuss methods they have used in their counties to put over successful programs of soil conservation.

Conservation work in Texas will be reviewed by H. H. Williamson, director, Texas extension service, and M. R. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer.

On the 14th, discussions of cotton variety improvement will be held by those who have been leaders in this field.

On the 15th, a review will be held of the economic situation affecting Texas agriculture, led by Dean E. J. Kyle.

Each afternoon of the three days will be devoted to sectional meetings on various phases of agriculture, such as poultry, wild-life, field crops, horticulture, pecan propagation, disease and insect control, dairying, beef cattle sheep and goats.

Youths to Attend Annual Short Meet Named by Barnhart

Twelve youths who will attend the annual 4-H short course July 6-8 at College Station were listed Tuesday by Assistant County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart.

The 4-H boys and girls, accompanied by agents, will leave Tuesday, July 5, from Eastland in the Reagan school bus.

The boys are L. C. Love, James Dean, Jack Walker, Marvin Dupuy, all of Alameda; Neil Eaves, Elbert Bennett and Vernon Bennett, all of Kokomo; D. C. Jobe, Gorman; Louis and J. D. Pitcock, Eastland; Wilbourne Caudle, Flatwood; and Buster Wheat, Morton Valley.

Teams to be entered by the county are dairy judging, field crops, dairy demonstration, plant propagation, vegetable judging, poultry judging and livestock judging.

An Old-Fashioned Whipping Needed For Erring Boy

FORT WORTH, June 28.—S. L. Haggard, Fort Worth radio technician, promised today that if the law allowed his son, Roy, to come home from Houston the boy would get an old-fashioned thrashing for a loan office holdup.

Roy Haggard, 18, was captured, charged with robbing a Houston loan company yesterday, threatening to blow up the office with nitroglycerin.

"He just picked up a foolish idea somewhere" said the father: "What he needs is a hickory limb in the good old-fashioned way. And here he's going to get it. Why just before he left he attended choir practice at the church."

Report Attorney at Cisco Is Improving

Reports from Cisco at noon today indicated that F. D. Wright, Cisco attorney who apparently experienced an attack of cramps while swimming this morning at Lake Cisco, was showing improvement.

U. S. 'Fuehrer' Attacks Jews

Fritz Kuhn, sub-Hitler of the Nazi German-American Bund, told a New York state committee investigating Nazi activities, that both the Republican and Democratic parties are "dominated by Jews." Photo shows him on the witness stand. Although German-born himself, he declared, "The Jews we do not consider Americans," and defended the Bund practice of teaching the Nazi salute for the whole United States.

Nineteen years ago today the Versailles Treaty was signed, designed to end war, but today the peace of Europe was menaced by bombing of British ships in the Spanish civil war.

The British government fought for time, hoping the situation would solve itself. But it was predicted a showdown was imminent.

Either Prime Minister Chamberlain must take action to protect British ships or the government must admit the policy of cooperation with Italy has broken down.

The British government took issue with charges by Gen. Francisco Franco that British ships were trading with loyalist Spain in violation of the non-intervention agreement.

In the wake of yesterday's destruction of two British ships by Spanish insurgent bombers, came news from Valencia of a new destructive bombing of the British-operated port of Gandia on the east coast of Spain.

London declared there was no real military objective in the bombing of British ships and it was felt there must be some ulterior motive designed to cause international trouble.

General Franco said that the French government was making friendly relations with Spain impossible by releasing gold, which the loyalist government had deposited with the Bank of France.

Mussolini indicated that he was prepared for possible trouble when he consulted in Rome with his military advisers.

On the other side of the world Japanese shock troops against desperate resistance, gained in their drive toward Hankow, the provisional Chinese capital.

In Tokyo the government drew in its belt for a long war when the cabinet decided all government departments except the military must curtail expenses. Two new war measures were decided upon, involving conscription of labor for the munitions industry and prohibition of manufacture of cotton goods for and domestic use except military.

A third war was threatened in South America. Buenos Aires heard Paraguay and Bolivia were rearming for a possible renewal of their war over the Chaco.

Peanut Group In '38 Meet At Eastland

Election of officers was scheduled as the Southwestern Peanut Growers association began its annual meeting Tuesday morning at the 88th district courtroom in Eastland.

The program was as follows: Welcome: Judge B. W. Patterson, judge, 88th district court. Response: W. B. Starr, president, Southwestern Peanut Growers association. Recognition of those present: Emol V. Cook, county agent, Eastland county. President's report: W. B. Starr. Secretary-treasurer's report: T. D. Robinett, secretary-treasurer. Cooperatives in Texas: C. E. Bowles, extension cooperative marketing specialist. 1937 and 1938 peanut marketing programs of the AAA: A. M. Dickson, senior marketing specialist, marketing section, AAA. Relation of county agents to farmers' cooperatives: W. I. Glass, district agent, extension service. Relation of the Farm Security Administration to farmers' co-operatives: R. T. Fisher, district supervisor, Farm Security Administration. The Texas Agricultural association: Cliff Day, president, Texas Agricultural association. Announcements of the afternoon program: W. B. Starr. Adjournment for election of directors.

PEACE GETS A BIG SETBACK OVER EUROPE

SNELL QUILTS POST AFTER LONG ILLNESS

WASHINGTON, June 28.—House Republican Leader Bernard Snell, last of the boom-time GOP congressional commanders, took himself out of congress today in a maneuver which may test, in selecting his successor, the comparative strength of liberal and conservative trends in his party.

Snell, 24-years-member of the House, announced he would not be a candidate for re-election this year in upstate New York.

His announcement coincided with a meeting of the executive committee of the Republican national committee.

Meanwhile North Dakota Republicans decided today the political future of Sen. Gerald Nye, peace advocate, and one of the best-known members of the Senate. They will choose between Nye and Gov. William Langer for the senatorial nomination.

Death of Mexican Probed by Officers

SAN ANTONIO, June 28.—Officers investigated the death today of Jose Dorantes, 38, on the theory he was robbed, murdered and his body thrown beneath a moving freight train.

One of Quadruplets Dies In Arkansas

DE QUEEN, Ark., June 28.—One of the quadruplets, all girls, born yesterday to Mrs. H. T. Valentine, 27 year old farm wife, died today. The attending physician said the other three appeared in good health and he expected them to live.

Woman Burns Self To Death at Elkhart

ELKHART, Texas, June 28.—The coroner recorded a verdict of suicide today in the death of Mrs. H. M. Hutzler, 45, who poured gasoline over her clothes, set them afire and burned herself to death yesterday.

Dumping Insane In Texas Is Deplored

AUSTIN, June 28.—County Judge Roy Hofheinz, of Harris county, today appealed to Gov. Alfred to protest against alleged "dumping" of insane patients from Illinois into Texas.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he was snatched into the air by a hoodlum.
KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the stars until she was snatched into the air by a hoodlum.
THE WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was headed somewhere, too, but affairs somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday, The Weasel heads Joe and Kelly northward and breaks the news that he will hold them until he is safe out of the U. S. A.

CHAPTER V

HARDLY had Mr. Ed (Weasel) Weynowski made his announcement when he came within an ace not only of getting out of the U. S. A., but of shuffling off this mortal coil altogether.

The Ford had been approaching a stable bend in the highway and Mr. Sandham, engrossed in his fascinating conversation with the Weasel, was hogging the road a little. But as a roadhogger Mr. Sandham was just a piker compared to Mr. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino, late of the wrong side of the tracks in Genoa, Italy.

Mr. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino had charge of a truck carrying a consignment of live poultry destined for the markets of New York City. All the way from the vicinity of Troy Mr. Tarantino's journey had been uneventful. The result was that he had become careless. His fingers were relaxed on the wheel. His eyes scanned the road ahead but cursorily. And, as he bowed along with Latin abandon, his powerful voice was raised in his own version of "Il Trovatore," which was accompanied by occasional symphonic overtones from the fowls in the rear.

Joe Sandham perceived this juggernaut roaring down upon him a fraction of a second before Mr. Tarantino became aware of the danger. He swerved the Ford sharply to the right. A split instant later Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino got wise to himself. "Il Trovatore" died unfinished on his lips. A short babbled prayer to his gods replaced it. With a quick heave he swung his wheel, also to the right.

THERE followed five separate events of more or less importance. (1) The Ford delivery truck operated by Mr. Joseph Sandham darted gaily off the road, nuzzled its front fender against a telegraph pole and stopped. (2) The truck piloted doubtfully by Mr. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino, some time Genoise, did a kind of ponderous version of the Big Apple off the other side of the road, crashed against a low stone wall and languished there. (3) Three crates of live chickens of the Rhode Island Red variety fell off the back of Mr. Tarantino's truck and broke open. (4) Miss Kelly Archer woke up with a forgivable start. (5) Ed the Weasel got off one of the finest, most fluent oaths within the memory of man. Then, for a second, there were no sounds on the Albany Post Road save a frenzied clucking from the rear regions of the chicken truck.

Kelly was the first to speak. "Nice going," she said. "It's a wonder we aren't all dead." Ed the Weasel began to fume. He was annoyed at the delay and he cast about to find someone upon whom to put the blame. Mr. Joe Sandham appeared as likely a prospect as any.

"Now look what you went and done," he said aggrievedly. "The injustice of this smote Joe. 'Me?' he ejaculated. "My gosh, but for me you'd be tuning up a harp about now. It was that guy's fault. Whoever's driving that truck."

Over on his side of the road Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino was coming to in the front seat of his truck. Not that Mr. Tarantino had been knocked out. It took more than a little motoring accident to knock out such as Mr. Tarantino. But he had been shocked and dazed. Now, however, what wits he had slowly collected themselves. He approached Joe's truck, loudly and menacingly, "wotta you t'ink dees ees, a tracka da race? Yo busta my truck and I losa da chickens. Wassa matta you, hey?"

"Shut up, you," ordered the Weasel sternly. "My hero," said Kelly approvingly. "You ain't gittin' outa dis car to catch no chickens," he grumbled. "Start her up, you Joe fella, an' make it snappy. An' as for you, you thick-headed Dago, beat it!"

Obediently Joe kicked the starter. The Ford coughed. Joe backed it carefully away from the telegraph pole. And then, very suddenly, a shrill whistle pierced the blackness around them. A moving light appeared around the bend in the road. Another. And still another. Motors roared. An authoritative voice shouted something unintelligible.

The next instant that section of the Albany road was crawling with state troopers. (To Be Continued)

"That's telling him," said Kelly. "Guess he won't do that again." Mr. Tarantino perceived that the opposition was arraigned solidly against him. He began to plead.

"Deesa guy I worka for," he said. "Heesa one tough mug. He make me pay for da chicks, so sure like hell. So"—he indicated Joe—"you pays me. Den everasing fine. We shaka da hand. We go."

Joe laughed. "Got it all figured out, haven't you? But don't make a pass at me. I'm not running this picnic. I'm only the chauffeur."

Hesitantly, Mr. Tarantino turned his attention to the Weasel. "You pay?" he urged, wheedlingly.

"I won't pay you a damn cent," roared the Weasel.

"Oh, give the poor man a few dollars," said Kelly, softening. "What would it be to you? After all, you've got 20 thousand."

"Nuttin' doin'," grumbled the Weasel. "Whyn't he catch his damn chickens, 'stead of standin' here chewin' da fat. Fer two cents, I'd . . ."

An exclamation from Kelly stopped him. "There's a brilliant idea," she cried. "We'll all get out and help him catch his chickens. We'll have a sort of a chicken hunt. And I whacky you for a partner, Mr. Weasel. I'll bet you and I could catch twice as many chickens as Joe and—and Garibaldi here."

Even as she spoke Kelly realized that this attempt to trick the Weasel was weak. Her brain had been flitting with the idea of getting into the surrounding darkness. But she doubted if even such as Mr. Weynowski would fall for this thin ruse.

She was right. The Weasel made a gesture of annoyance. All this flubdub was getting on his nerves.

"You ain't gittin' outa dis car to catch no chickens," he grumbled. "Start her up, you Joe fella, an' make it snappy. An' as for you, you thick-headed Dago, beat it!"

Obediently Joe kicked the starter. The Ford coughed. Joe backed it carefully away from the telegraph pole.

And then, very suddenly, a shrill whistle pierced the blackness around them. A moving light appeared around the bend in the road. Another. And still another. Motors roared. An authoritative voice shouted something unintelligible.

Spending Plans Of Industry To Boost Business

DALLAS.—A summary of the actual spending plans of eight basic industries for the balance of 1938, running to $4,450,950,000, for expansion and production, is termed in a report of the All-South Development Council one of the most encouraging recession-fighting indices on the business horizon.

The flood of money put into circulation by these major industries to purchase new machines and equipment, raw materials for new buildings, and maintenance or increase of production must naturally find its way into new pockets, creating new business for hundreds of tributary industries and businesses, the report says, stimulating spending power over widely scattered areas.

As the "greatest spender" for raw and finished materials the world has known, the automobile industry, even in these times, will set the pace. According to the Forbes magazine survey, this industry will pour out nearly $1,000,000,000 for materials, tools, equipment, dies, parts and accessories during the last half of the year. An additional $140,000,000 will go for factory equipment alone.

Steel, though producing most of its own raw materials, is spending $165,000,000 for construction materials, expansion of new machines and equipment. Utilities plan to spend upward of $300,000,000. Chemical and chemical process industries—of special interest to the South nowadays—are scheduled for these tremendous expenditures: $50,000,000 for equipment and supplies, $180,000,000 for containers, $300,000,000 for fuel and power, and $1,350,000,000 for raw materials of mine, forest and farm.

Railroad, foods, textiles and petroleum are the other industries with prodigious spending programs for equipment, materials and buildings.

Not only as supplier of raw materials and fuels for these industries can Texas industry expect to benefit, thus transforming large shares of the industrial spending power of these forces into personal spending power for Texans, the report points out, but also these are potential gains for the state itself as a logical location for establishment of branch plants which the expansion plans, in many cases, embrace.

The movement for the stimulation of industry in Texas, rapidly gaining the endorsement of many leading citizens, is partly dependent for its success upon the ability of American industry in general to undertake new programs. The evidence set forth in this survey, therefore, of this ability and willingness to go ahead, provides encouragement and should marshal official support for the Texas drive.

LET New York talk of another nickel world series. Ohio has its own ideas about that.

Buckeyes aren't the only things blossoming there, although it took the amazing no-hit, no-run feats of Johnny Vander Meer to let the cockeyed world know that there were pennant possibilities at both ends of the state.

If Cleveland is hot, now that its Indians have again straightened themselves out in the tepee, Cincinnati is on fire.

The clubs would have something out of the ordinary to offer in a fall fashion show, too, with matches between the young fireball fingers, Bob Feller and Vander Meer, and Johnny Allen and Paul Derringer, and the war clubs of Earl Averill and Hal Trosky replying to the big guns of Ernie Lombardi and Frank McCormick.

There is considerable evidence that the Indians will not fold up this trip . . . unmistakable signs that the Reds are not spring daisies. Warren Giles didn't give the Phillies at least $25,000 and two players worth $7500 each for Bucky Walters to keep the Reds out of eighth place. One report has it that the Phils collected as much as $60,000 in that transaction.

BILL McKECHNIE didn't sacrifice Alex Kampouris to obtain his former empire, Wally Berger, and more hitting strength because he was satisfied with a combination that had lifted itself from the basement to within a masheshot of the National League lead.

The Reds are shooting for the long end of the swag. There is no mistake about that.

While the Dodgers treated Walters like a long lost cousin in his maiden effort in Cincinnati livery, most everybody believes that the addition of the reformed third baseman is likely to keep the Reds in the running.

McKechnie is confident that Linus Fry gives him capable protection at second base, and the St. Louis lad hits a long ball.

Cincinnati's pitching scarcely can miss taking the outfit some distance. Backing up Vander Meer, Derringer, and Walters are Peaches Davis, Gene Schott, Jim Weaver, and Whitey Moore. Leave it to the wily McKechnie to round out a Big Four with one of that quartet.

AND then there is Lefty Grissom, whose illness has been a vastly harder blow than it appears on the surface. By this time last season the tall Californian had established himself as one of baseball's premier southpaws . . . a strikeout artist from 'way back.

Lefty Lee is working out at home while the outfit is on its current trip. The club physician believes that he can be braced up within week or so, but there is no telling when he'll be his normal self.

But Grissom or no Grissom, the Reds are going places.

They had the money. They landed McKechnie. Vander Meer supplied the inspiration. They appear to have the required talent.

And they haven't much to beat.

There is even more confidence in Cleveland.

So Ohioans are planning to shuttle between the banks of the Cuyahoga and the Rhineland come early October.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—You may expect an immediate drive in several industries for a prompt raise of the 25-cent-an-hour minimum fixed in the wage-hour law.

Unions in the textile and garment industries, for instance, will begin demanding a 40-cent minimum as soon as the new administrator of the law is appointed. That's the top which may be fixed as a minimum after investigation and recommendation by a board for any industry.

Actually those unions will hope to get a minimum of from 30 to 35 cents. Under the new 40-hour maximum work week, that would mean a minimum weekly wage of from $13.20 to $15.40.

C. I. O. unions will open an information office in Washington, designed especially to advise unorganized workers of their rights under the bill and of reaching or approaching the maximum weekly wage of $17.60 which it is possible for the administrator to set after four months. (Few such minimum wage schedules—40 cents an hour for 44 hours—are anticipated.)

Although the hourly wage minimum is below the scale in most industries and depression curtailments make the hour maximum beside the point in many, Washington is looking forward to a period similar to the old NRA code days as hundreds of industry boards are created and their members and lobbyists for employers and labor start flocking to Washington.

The new law provides for a partial resurrection of the old NRA scheme as it was envisaged by labor leaders and liberals in Congress. Its big difference from NRA is the absence of provisions for trade practices and price-fixing agreements by industries.

The wage-hour board which the original administration plan and the Senate bill contemplated now becomes an administrator of a division in the Labor Department with power to approve or disapprove recommendations of industry committees representing employers, labor and public—or to set up new committees.

But whereas administration brain trusters never dared write in a flat minimum wage floor and the Senate would have permitted minimum wages as low as its proposed board wanted to set them, the law writes in a 25-cent floor for one year, a 30-cent floor the next and virtually a 40-cent floor after seven years. The Senate bill exempted many more industries than the final House-Senate version.

Pending possible but unexpected invalidation by the liberalized Supreme Court, the law will be hard to beat. The administrator will have his own legal staff, co-operating with the Justice Department on enforcement. Criminal prosecution with a maximum $10,000 fine penalty for the first offense and possible jail sentence for the second is provided.

The administrator is entitled to seek court injunctions against violators, contempt of which would mean fine or imprisonment. Employers appealing wage decisions to courts must post bond to cover wage payments.

Finally, employees representing them are entitled to sue violating employers for damages amounting to double the wages involved plus court costs.

A BIRD'S TAIL ACTS AS A RUDDER IN FLIGHT; AS A BRAKE IN ALIGHTING; AND AS A BALANCER WHEN PERCHING.

FROM MARCH 4, 1361, UNTIL THE DEATH OF JOHN TYLER, JAN. 18, 1862, THERE WERE FIVE LIVING EX-PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

WHEN Abraham Lincoln took office, five ex-presidents were living . . . a greater number than at any other period in history. They were Martin Van Buren, John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce, and James Buchanan. No President elected between 1868 and 1860 had served more than four years, and this made the situation possible.

He was referring to the news stories appearing in papers throughout Texas recently to the effect that a horned frog derby would be held in Eastland on July 4.

"All Texans will object to California 'horning in' on the horned frog situation," Judge Yarborough humorously commented. "I feel a special interest in Old Rip because my friend, Boyce House, your former fellow countian, has told me the story."

Yarborough is candidate for attorney general and is a former West Texan. He visited twice in the county during his present campaign.

Vaccinate Now to Control Fowl Pox, Advised by E. Cook

Fowl pox (sorehead of chickens and turkeys and winter roup are best prevented by vaccinating in the summer instead of waiting until the disease appear and then trying to control them, according to the County Agent.

Vaccination with fowl pox vaccine not only prevents pox, but also helps control contagious winter roup as the two germs that cause these diseases are closely associated and control of one helps control the other.

Fowl Pox usually shows up as a small blister-like, yellowish growths on the comb, wattles, or skin of the head. Later these sores become dry and are covered with dark brown scabs. The birds become inactive, and there is often a nasal discharge. As the disease progresses, cankerous growths appear in the eyes and throat.

Although death losses from fowl pox are not as severe as might be expected death does occur in many cases due to stoppage of the windpipe. Even if few deaths occur, fowl pox is costly to any flock.

All birds that show symptoms of the disease should be isolated in a well ventilated room. The growths should be removed and the sores painted with tincture of iodine, a ten per cent solution of argyrol should be used the eyes are affected. It is well to give the confined birds a weekly flush of one tablespoon of soda for each gallon of water.

The method used is to pluck a few feathers from the thigh of the bird and to apply a very small amount of the vaccine to two follicles. Most laboratories prepare the vaccine in two containers, one with the pox powder and the other of glycerine water. When the birds are to be vaccinated, the powder is mixed with liquid to make the correct solution.

Poison Jackrabbits Now Urges Official

Eastland County farmers are urged by extension officials to poison their jackrabbits immediately so that a minimum amount of damage will be done to peanuts and other growing crops.

At this season of the year when green forage and weed seeds are abundant no single method of killing rabbits is always successful. Some will eat potato grain, others apples or potatoes dusted with strychnine, and poisoned salad placed in 2x4 blocks is sometimes effective.

Poisoned grain can be obtained from the County Agent at six cents per pound. Strychnine for dusting on baits made by quartering small apples or dicing sweet potatoes can be gotten at most drug stores.

Poisoned salt is made by mixing 1 ounce strychnine with 2 pounds salt. Bore 1 inch holes almost through 2x4 blocks. Fill these holes level with poisoned salt and dampen the surface to cause a crust. Place these or any other kind of poisoned bait a few inches to one side of regular rabbit runs or in crop areas being damaged.
