BRITISH SHIPS TO BE GIVEN BOMB RELIEF

By United Press
Nationalist Spain has taken steps to restrict the bombing of British vessels "wherever possible" when they are unloading in loyalist ports or navigating the seas, it was revealed today by a spokesman for Premier Mussolini.

The spokesman implied that Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist leader, reached his decision without Mussolini's advice. Diplomatic observers, however, believed Mussolini had suggested to Franco that in the interest of peace and British-Italian relations it would be well if attacks on British ships could be restricted.

Mussolini was expected to support the nationalist suggestion that "safety ports" be designated, to which British ships might go in safety under supervision of neutral observers.

Britain also was concerned over Jewish unrest in Palestine, where martial law was declared on account of demonstration over the hanging of Solomon Ben Joseph charged with firing on an Arab bus. Jewish sources claimed it was the first execution of a Jew in Palestine since A. D. 70.

In the Spanish war the Nationalists drive on Valencia was held up by stiff loyalist resistance. Barcelona correspondents reported nine were killed and 34 wounded when six rebel planes dropped 30 bombs at Blanes, north of Barcelona.

Japanese landing parties were blown from the river and Japanese warships damaged in a battle for possession of mud flats at Matang, first line of China's naval defense below Hankow on the Yangtze River.

Big Chinese guns scored direct hits on landing boats, the Chinese said. Entire Japanese units of 50 men each were blown into the air. Other launches blew up when they struck mines.

In Paris a decree was issued instituting the death penalty for espionage in peace time because of the growth of spy rings in recent years.

LAW STUDENT CHARGED IN KIDNAP CASE
By United Press
FORT WORTH, June 29.—A merry-making University of Alabama law student and his companion were in jail today as the aftermath of the kidnaping of a Dallas taxi driver.

The law student, employed here for the summer, and his companion, went to Dallas yesterday. Their funds were exhausted early today, so they hailed a taxi driven by J. B. Simmons, 29, to return to Fort Worth.

Simmons told police, although the youths denied it, that one passenger took $1.19 from him near Grand Prairie. When the youths alighted in Fort Worth, Simmons saw he had no gun and captured him.

Both "fares" were arrested.

Big Crowds Hear Candidate Speak
By United Press
W. Lee O'Daniel, candidate for governor, left Austin observers convinced today that he is the crowd-drawer in the governor's race.

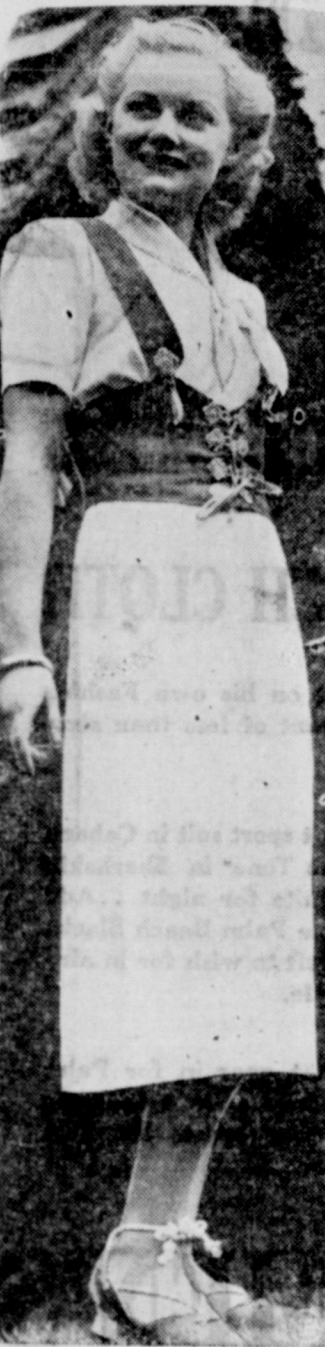

The Austin American called his crowd Austin's largest, next to Thanksgiving Day football games that packed a stadium built for 40,000.

Those present last night included Governor Allred.

"I'm gladder than ever I am not running," the governor said afterward.

O'Daniel called on Allred today before leaving Austin.

Swedish Charm

Lovely Kay Stammers, British net star who will be one of the favorites in the All-England tournament at Wimbledon, found her tennis shoes gave very poor footing on a court rendered slippery by rain, so she pulled a pair of black socks over her shoes to give her a better grip on the sod. The graceful action shot of the English beauty was taken during her Wightman Cup match with Helen Wills Moody, which she lost to the American star, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Groups Join In Plea for Safety On July Holidays

CHICAGO, June 28.—Twenty-seven national organizations with a total membership of 46,000,000 have joined with the National Safety Council in its country-wide campaign to reduce the annual Fourth of July massacre.

Each of these organizations not only has pledged its collective support, but has asked its members to enlist individually in the drive which has as its keynote: "Let's Be Alive on the Fifth."

The campaign is designed to reduce the annual toll of lives lost in drowning, and in traffic and fireworks accidents over the Independence Day celebration and during the month of July, which annually tops all other months in accidents.

Last July, the council reported, 10,200 persons were killed in accidents.

Governors of 48 states, mayors of every American city over 10,000 population, chiefs of police, motor vehicle administrators, heads of state highway patrols and other public officials also are actively cooperating with the council. President Roosevelt has approved the campaign.

Every private citizen has been asked to drive with extra care over the three-day holiday, to exercise precaution in swimming and to avoid the use of fireworks.

At the same time Tanner again reminded that persons with entries in the horned toad derby should register their toad with the timekeeper at the city park Monday afternoon, time of the race. Visitor Loses Teeth And Hotel Room

By United Press
KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—Odd things happen when a person visits the "big city." A man came up to Klamath Falls from Keno to spend the night. The next day he appealed to the police to find the hotel where he had stopped, as both his false teeth and $41 were missing.

Police were unable to find the hotel, but in the small hours of the following morning, the visitor informed the police he had found the hotel again, with his $41 still tucked under the pillow and the false teeth in a glass by the bed.

Rice Millers Seek Outlet for Product

By United Press

"We have a starvation domestic market," B. C. Delahoussaye of Crowley, La., told 500 millers who met here to discuss the situation.

Directors Named, Officers Chosen At Peanut Parley

Directors of the Southwestern Peanut Growers association, one of four such organizations in the United States for the stabilization of peanut prices, were elected and officers chosen Tuesday at a meeting in the 88th district courtroom at Eastland.

Directors named were: J. D. Sargent of Tolar and R. E. Alexander, for the Fort Worth vicinity; Conrad Schaefer of Rising Star and T. D. Robinson of De Leon, for the Central Texas vicinity, and J. E. Bright of Pleasanton and G. R. Sanders of Pearland, for the South Texas vicinity.

Brining Pickles Is Explained to Girls At Kokomo Club

Fine table salt is not necessary in brining vegetables said Miss Mabel Caldwell, Assistant County Home Demonstration Agent to the Kokomo 4-H club girls at a meeting June 27, with Phyllis Donaldson presiding in the home of Mrs. L. R. Higginbotham, club sponsor.

Fine table salt is not a pure salt. A salt that will cake is best suited for brining. For brining cucumbers, you should use: 1 pint of salt, 9 quarts of water, which equals a 10 per cent or 40 degree solution.

For brining peppers and cauliflower you should use 1 1/2 pints of salt, 9 pints of water, which equals a 15 per cent or 60 degree solution.

For brining onions you should use 2 pints of salt, 9 pints of water, which equals a 20 per cent or 80 degree solution.

A demonstration was given on brining cucumbers and since they are put down in a 40 degree solution you can test them by the float of an egg.

Miss Caldwell also explained to the girls about the trip to A. & M. Short Course.

For the opening exercise the club prayer was repeated.

Those present were as follows: Phyllis Donaldson, Ima Timmons, Wanda Donaldson, Louise Eaves, Virna Mae Eaves, Mrs. L. R. Higginbotham, club sponsor, and Miss Mabel Caldwell.

1,000,000 Children Cast Aside

A state of civilization which permits the bombing of thousands of inoffensive civilians has become commonplace and accepted during the past 10 years.

But perhaps there is still a capacity to be shocked at a civilization that permits children to go homeless and starving down the path to squalor and disease and death.

When the history of this era is written, perhaps the blackest blot upon it will be treatment of children. When adults are bombed and massacred and driven by marching men from their homes, it is bad enough. But after all, it is their world, and it is as they order it.

But the children, brought into the world without a will of their own, living amid circumstances which they have not yet had a chance to affect—they are the blackest tragedy of all.

Such a picture comes back from Spain through workers for the Spanish Child Welfare Association, which, with backers like the Unitarian Church, the Quakers, and other humanitarian groups, is trying to help the children left helpless in the backwash of both sides of the Spanish civil war.

A million children, whose parents are either dead, or lost, or fighting on one side or the other, deserted, underfed and sick, whimpering in terror of things they do not understand—that is the most terrible toll of war in Spain. Quaker relief workers tell their tales of mothers standing in lines carrying their hot, feverish children, everyone a hospital case, weak with dysentery or Malta fever. The three 50-bed Quaker hospitals in the Alicante region tried to serve 50,000 helpless mothers and children who needed help desperately.

Advancing or retreating armies have slaughtered the cattle; there is no milk for these Spanish babies. Practically no meat, and very little rice and wheat. If the brave Quaker volunteers can supply them with a bowl of cocoa and a chunk of bread in the morning, and a dish of beans at night, they have done what all Spain is now unable to do.

Such relief workers cannot forget 9000 refugees huddling in a single deserted factory building in Murcia amid indescribable filth, mere chattering animals with everything stripped from them that made life human and livable.

Even should the Spanish war end tomorrow, thousands of these deserted children would have to be cared for. Their parents are dead or missing. They have never had recent food or clothing. They have had nothing but starvation, and misery, and terror. What will they mean to Spain and to the world when they shall have grown up?

Let those who talk lightly of civil and class warfare consider what it has meant to Spain. It will take brilliant social results to repay Spain for these wasted and whimpering children.

Saturday night the Blues play in Graham and on next Tuesday Tiny Morris, Fay Ash and the DeLeon girls will try to repeat the win they scored over the Blues on their last trip to Eastland.

Eastland Church Revival Is Called Thorough Success

The house was filled Sunday night for the closing service of the two weeks revival at the Church of God. The colored chorus did not arrive, due to being hindered. It is probable they will sing for us next Sunday night, or in the near future. Rev. Loudermilk left today for Cisco, where they begin another revival campaign with the Church of God there. The congregation greatly appreciated the services of Rev. and Mrs. Loudermilk; in fact the entire community had nothing but good words to say for their service here.

Sunday night the evangelist spoke on the subject, "Bible Church." He emphasized the fact that modern methods of receiving church members was not scriptural. He declared that when the individual was converted or made Christian, then and there by virtue of the New Birth, he became a member of the Body of Christ, which is the church.

He referred to Acts 2.27 which states that the Lord added to the church such as were being saved. Man has taken in many who know nothing of conversion, and that is one reason why so many unbelievers aren't interested in the church. The church which Jesus built is a clean church free from hypocrites and all unconverted. Simple because they are inducted into the church by conversion, and by no other means can they find an entrance, regardless of what they profess or what they seem to be on the outside, said the evangelist. The local church extends a Christian welcome to all to attend our services.—Reporter.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

BY EDWIN RUTT Copyright 1938, NEA Service Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he was snatched into KILLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she was snatched into ED, THE WEASEL—villain; he thought he was headed for a good mixed up.

Yesterday, Joe sneaks into a chicken paddock and at the moment when they are backing away, the state troopers come zooming down the highway.

CHAPTER VI

STATE TROOPERS McFEE, CALLAHAN AND DANZIG

were returning to headquarters from having quelled a riot in a roadhouse. But perceiving two apparently disabled trucks, a flock of chickens littering up the highway and what looked like a heated argument, they paused in their homeward flight. Halting their motorcycles in the middle of the road but still straddling them, they gazed upon the recent deers with interest. State Trooper McFee, undeniably the strongest personality of the trio, spoke first.

"Now then," inquired State Trooper McFee, "What's goin' on here?"

"Deesa guy . . ." began Mr. Callahan, pointing at Joe.

He got no further.

"Shut up," commanded State Trooper McFee. "I'll do the talkin' here."

"You," he said at last, indicating Joe. "What happened here?"

Briefly Joe told him.

"And," he finished, "this fellow expects us to pay for his chickens when the accident was his fault."

"Hell," said State Trooper Callahan, who hated being left out of a discussion, "what's the sense of payin' for 'em? They're here, ain't they?"

"That's more or less what we old him," said Joe.

State Trooper McFee made up his mind to brook no interference with his cross-examination. He indicated State Troopers Callahan and Danzig.

"Examine that truck over there," he ordered frigidly.

Conceded by Mr. McFee's forcefulness, State Trooper Callahan and Danzig did as bidden. They returned presently to report the truck in fair condition, save for a slightly-dented radiator.

"I'll run, won't it?" asked State Trooper McFee.

"Sure. Ain't nothin' wrong with the engine."

"Then take it away," said Mr. McFee to Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino.

"Well, isn't this something?"

"We can't have no such thing blockin' up the road."

ANTONIO GIUSEPPE TARANTINO wrung his hands. Things were not going to his liking. It looked as if he were going to have to pay for the wandering chickens out of his own pocket.

"But da chicks?" he remonstrated.

"Cluck cluck," said a kibitzing hen, as if to help remind Mr. McFee that feathered folk were present.

State Trooper McFee gazed disapprovingly down at the hen. Then, with a sudden movement, he bent and scooped her up, much as Mr. Frank Crosetti is wont to scoop up a grounder.

"There you are," he said triumphantly, presenting the hen to Mr. Tarantino. "That's the way he catch a chicken. Why, gee, he added disgustfully, "I could catch these here chickens myself in five minutes. Without makin' all this rumpus."

At this juncture State Trooper Callahan took umbrage. For a long time State Trooper Callahan had been fed up with the overbearing department of State Trooper McFee. After all, he and State Trooper McFee were of equal rank in the force. And he was getting a bit sick of Mr. McFee's domination and general braggadocio. It was all right, he thought, as long as State Trooper McFee confined his dictatorship to police matters. But catching chickens was something else. And State Trooper Callahan had caught chickens on a farm, man and boy, for 22 years.

Wherefore State Trooper Callahan insinuated himself into the picture.

"I'll bet you a dollar," said State Trooper Callahan, eyeing Mr. McFee evenly, "that I can catch more of these chickens than you can."

"Okay," McFee said gratingly. "You asked for it. I'll just take that dollar."

"The hell you will," said State Trooper Callahan, rubbing his hands expectantly. He, too, parked his motorcycle.

FOR a second the contestants stood at the roadside, with the chickens ebbing and flowing around their feet.

"One, two, three—go!" barked State Trooper McFee, and they dived simultaneously into the poultry.

From the front seat of the Ford Kelly Archer looked on, exasperated.

"Well, isn't this something?"

she said, in a low voice. "Here we are being forced to Canada at the point of a gun and the law spend the golden hours chasing chickens. No wonder things are upset in this country."

Something hard struck the small of her back.

"Shut up," hissed the Weasel hoarsely. "Less you wanta stop a bullet."

His tones were the tones of a desperate man. Kelly subsided. Cornered, such as the Weasel would doubtless stop at nothing.

THE chicken-catching contest was ending. A number of the fowls had taken wing and fled to parts unknown where, presumably, there would be peace and quiet. Only a few remained, darting and fluttering about the road.

State Troopers McFee and Callahan swooped upon these. And in a whirlwind finish Mr. Callahan nosed out Mr. McFee by a pullet and stood forth triumphant.

"Pay me," he said, flushed with victory.

State Trooper McFee paid, but with very bad grace. His demeanor as he again approached the Ford was notably devoid of sweetness and light.

"Well, what are you stickin' around for?" he growled irritably to Joe Sandham. "Get goin'."

"Didn't know you were letting us go," said Joe, starting the motor.

"I'm tellin' you to scram, ain't I?" roared Mr. McFee.

State Trooper Callahan was inclined to savor his triumph.

"Catchin' chickens," he began, to the world in general, "is just sort of second nature to me. I mind a time up in Vermont when . . ."

He ceased abruptly. State Trooper McFee was gazing at him with terrible eyes.

"Another word out of you," said State Trooper McFee, in a voice like a file, "and I'll hang one on your jaw."

"Boys, boys," said Kelly, instinctively a peacemaker.

Mr. Callahan decided to abandon his savoring. In the force Mr. McFee was a noted hanger-of-ones-on-the-jaw. And Mr. Callahan had a fondness for his jaw as it was. He wanted nothing hung on it. He cloaked himself in stony silence.

State Trooper McFee, goaded, swung on the occupants of the Ford.

"I'm tellin' you for the last time," he shouted. "Get outa here."

And then, unexpectedly, another station tuned in.

Bathtub Mishaps Are Very Expensive
By United Press
CLEVELAND—Bathtubs are the cause of so many accidents that since 1929 insurance companies have paid more money in claims resulting from such accidents than the government has spent on relief. These accidents have cost insurance companies nearly $20,000,000 in death claims and claims, Claris Adams, of Columbus, O., told delegates to the National Accident and Health Association's convention.
