Flying Fortresses Will Keep U. S. In Plane Building Competition

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The War Department today announced letting of contracts for $14,433,197 worth of fighting airplanes, the largest such order in the peacetime history of the nation. The order called for 98 airplanes. Included were 13 additional "flying fortresses" bombing airplanes, 78 two-motored bombers, seven attack planes and additional airplane motors and equipment. The new orders will give the air corps a total of 52 "flying fortresses" with a speed of above 250 miles an hour. They carry five machine guns and a crew of nine in addition to two tons of bombs.

"The flying fortress is definite proof America keeps her leadership in aeronautical design despite the fact that other nations are spending many times the amount of money available in this country for that purpose," Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson said.

Watts On Way To Face Old SLAYING COUNT

Sheriff W. T. Coleman of Bushnell, Fla., Friday arrived in Eastland to claim Dr. R. E. Watts who is wanted on a charge of slaying J. W. Prime at Willwood, Fla., on May 28, 1925.

Dr. Watts has been indicted on the charge. Mrs. Watts, who accompanied the sheriff to Texas, went to Pioneer, where a daughter was residing and they also returned to Florida.

Dr. Watts was captured this week by Sheriff Loss Woods, Deputy Sheriff Peterson of Callahan county and Deputy Sheriff A. D. Carroll, near Brad, Palo Pinto county.

R. L. Rust, aiding in arrangements for the all-day singing convention Sunday at the high school auditorium, a feature of Eastland's July 4 celebration starting Saturday, announced Friday that 50 song books for use at the meeting.

Plays Get Good Hand at Theatre Thursday Evening

Staff Writer
The Eastland Little theatre marked another milestone Thursday night as three workshop plays were well-received by a crowded house at the Connellee theatre.

Recently organized, the Little theatre in the past few months has presented a three-act comedy and the one-act plays.

Observers point out after seeing the plays that the organization promises to be one of the most outstanding in West Texas, capable of ambitious dramatic productions which are possible because of ample talent in Eastland.

Two of the plays, "A Wedding" and "12:15" were comedies. They were marked by catching lines and excellent interpretation of roles.

"Dregs," the other play, was a tragedy. Sam Morrison who played the part of the man in the production was possibly the standout of the evening. Also playing well a difficult role was Mrs. Joe Stephen in the same play. Mrs. Vera McLeer also was adjudged good in her part as well as F. S. Nelson.

Players in all the plays well acquitted themselves. Sets for the productions were well-assembled, it was the opinion of those who attended. Directors for the plays were Mrs. E. E. Lewis, E. E. Freyschlag and Miss Virginia Weaver.

Observers also pointed out after the productions that the organization widened its scope and interest widely because many took part and the general public was made acquainted with the little theatre's workings. There was no admission charge.

Tone-ing Up

Hollywood hears rumors of a Joan Crawford-Franchot Tone marital rift, but there is certainly no trace of it in the above photo. Here are the Tones—apparently in perfect harmony, stylishly dressed, and looking up at life—as they attended the races at a Hollywood track.

Donald Budge Is Tennis Champion For Second Year

By United Press
WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—Donald Budge, California, the world's No. 1 tennis player, won the All-England singles title for the second consecutive time today, defeating 32-year-old Bunny Austin of England 6-1, 6-0, 6-3.

Before a crowd of 20,000, including Queen Mary, Budge gave Austin one of the most severe lacerations ever seen in a Wimbledon final. By winning in straight sets the Californian went through the entire tournament without losing a set, the first time any man had performed this feat.

Vandals Blur the Old Cliff Writings

CUSTER, S. D.—Hieroglyphics on the walls of Red and Craven canyons in the Black Hills have been destroyed by vandals in many places.

Edges of the markings on the cliff walls have been chipped and bullets fired into them, making it impossible for archeologists to determine the origin of the writings, according to Mary Humphreus, manager of 12 Mile Ranch, at the canyon entrance.

"Many of the pictographs are intact, however, particularly the ones in the more inaccessible parts of the canyon," she said.

Theories as to origin of the markings vary. Indian students insist they were made by Sioux Indians, comparatively recently. Others believe they were made by Pueblo Indians who came from the Southwest into the Black Hills. Another group argues they were made by the Aztecs of Mexico.

Coronado Theory Advanced
Even more common than these beliefs, however, is the theory that Coronado, who is generally believed to have come no further north than Nebraska or Kansas, came to the Hills and left a map traced on the walls of Red Canyon. Coronado searched for the "City of Gold" and may have left tracings on the walls so he or his followers might again find the route, proponents of this theory argue.

The pictographs are of various sizes, kinds and colors. Some resemble figures found on Indian wigwams. Some are in the shape of a cross with one or more arms of five, ten, or more appearing at frequent intervals.

Borghlum Gives Opinion
Miss Humphreus said Gutzon Borghlum, sculptor, from experience in carving the national memorial at Mt. Rushmore in the southern Black Hills, expressed belief the pictographs were etched into the walls several hundred years ago.

E. B. Renaud, of the University of Denver, has done some work on the pictographs, but not sufficient to do more than describe them accurately. He has recommended that sufficient funds be provided to go into the matter thoroughly.

F. O. Baker, former history instructor at the Edgmont schools, contends the carvings were done by Coronado, basing his belief on his possession of a map allegedly drawn in 1540 by Coronado.

POWER MAY BE SWITCHED OVER EUROPE

By United Press
Two important developments affecting the balance of power in Europe, occurred today. The first was disclosure by Gen. Alfredo Kindelan, chief of the Spanish Nationalist air force, that the Nationalists plan a peacetime air force of 2,000 airplanes if they win the war.

Such an air force could virtually dominate the western entrance to the Mediterranean and threaten Great Britain's Gibraltar. The other development was the conclusion of France and Turkey of a treaty of friendship, which carried implications in the Eastern Mediterranean, Turkey controls the Dardanelles and, like France, is friendly with Russia.

Oil, Gas Dealers Required to Have License—D. Harp

In notices received here, D. Leon Harp, state securities commissioner at Austin, has warned that it is a felony in Texas to deal in oil and gas leases and royalty instruments without a license. Licenses are secured from the secretary of state at Austin.

All licensed dealers carry identification cards with the seal of Texas thereon and signed by the commissioner. Local peace officers have been advised to call on all securities traders to produce their identification credentials.

Phares has been inactive since April 1. He was notified then he had been relieved as head of the patrol and would be given a new assignment. Yesterday he received a department communication announcing his dismissal.

Wheat Estimates Are Much Lower

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 1.—Private crop experts today forecast a U. S. wheat crop of 979,000,000 bushels, almost 100,000,000 less than their estimates one month ago.

The estimates ranged from 1,003,000,000 to 929,000,000 bushels. The June government estimate placed probable yield at 1,045,000,000 bushels.

Damage from early frost, black rust and root rot caused by excessive rains, were factors responsible for the reduced estimates.

THREE DREW LOTS TO PICK BOY'S SLAYER

By United Press
WAYCROSS, Ga., July 1.—The slaying of a 10-year-old boy by one of two girls, who, directed by the child's father, had drawn straws to see which one would do it, was revealed today by Solicitor General John Gibson.

The girls, waitresses in the road house of Harvey Nelson, 40, father of the victim, and Nelson, were under arrest. Gibson said he had obtained a confession from Nelson which said he, Verna Mae Fowler, 19, and Mary Kent, 17, had plotted to kill the boy, known as "J. C." in order to collect $900 insurance on his life.

The confession climaxed two months of investigation into the slaying of the boy, last April 26. Miss Fowler, Nelson's confession said, fired the fatal shot. However each denied the actual shooting. Miss Fowler said the father fired the gun.

Ranger Youth Wins Second In Roping At Butman Rodeo

Zelma Herrington of Ranger won second place in the calf roping contest at the Butman Rodeo, 10 miles southwest of Merkel, his time of 17.1 seconds being one second slower than that of Monroe Marburger of Abilene.

Herrington also placed in the wild Brahma cow milking contest, with a time of 30.2 seconds. Best time was made by Alton Whitaker of Merkel at 29.2, while Jack Wagoner of Hyllon had a time of 30 seconds flat.

R. Herrington of Ranger failed to catch his calf in the senior calf roping contests and did not place.

Brining Cucumbers Is Told at Meeting

A 10 per cent brine is necessary in brining cucumbers, Miss Mabel Caldwell, assistant county home agent, told members of the Bullock girls' 4-H club at a meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Henry Wilson, sponsor.

She further told members that cucumbers should be 1-8 to 1-4 inch stem and should be fresh and clean, and packed in a stone crock.

The following members were present: Dorothy Evelyn Hatton, Helen Dempsey, Mrs. Wilson, Emma Lee Wilson, Doris Lynn Wilson, Neva Wilson and Miss Caldwell.

Bankers Are Warned Of Pump Priming

GALLUP, N. M.—A critical attack upon the national administration's "pump priming" and a warning that they must help fight an "increasing government deficit" were offered bankers of New Mexico at their annual convention here.

"We have gone far enough along the certain road to bankruptcy," Falkner C. Broach, vice president of the First National Bank of Tulsa, Okla., told the convention. He bitterly attacked the administration's spending policies.

Duchess' Dilemma

Grand Duchess Marie, native of Russia, lives in New York City, vacations in Europe as a citizen of Sweden. She first became a Swedish citizen when she married Crown Prince William, then became Russian again when she divorced him to marry a count. Her Russian citizenship ceased when she fled the revolution.

Another mystery was injected into the Texas political picture today by a telegram, later branded as a hoax, which asked that the name of Pierce Brooks, candidate for lieutenant governor, be left off the Democratic primary ballot.

Brooks denied that he sent the telegram, addressed to Vann Kennedy, secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Brooks said he definitely was staying in the race and was in Temple making a speech when the telegram was filed in Dallas.

"There is no question but what this contemptible trick was done by someone interested in seeing my defeat," he said.

Ernest O. Thompson, candidate for governor, spoke at Crockett today, criticizing the administration of old age pensions.

Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul, candidate for attorney general, pledged his support to the Brazos river development project in a speech last night at Waco.

W. Lee O'Daniel, carrying his campaign for governor into the lower Rio Grande Valley, said it was time for politicians to "quit kicking business around."

William McCraw said at San Marcos last night that if he were elected governor he would maintain an "open door policy."

"During my two terms as attorney general," he said, "the door to my office has been closed. The only thing a caller had to do to gain admission was to say, 'I want to see Bill McCraw.'"

McCormick's Body Is Found On Ledge

By United Press
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 1.—The body of John Medill McCormick, heir to a Chicago publishing fortune, has been found in the wild Sandia Mountains, the U. S. Forest Service reported today.

The discovery ended a search started a week ago when Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, mother of McCormick, became worried when her son and Richard Whitmer, his 20-year-old companion, failed to return from a mountain climbing expedition. Whitmer's body was found last Friday on a ledge. The second body is on a ledge about a mile from where Whitmer was killed.

The canyon precipice is 1,500 feet high, and foresters said the body would have to be raised or lowered by ropes. In either case it will have to be carried 10 miles to the nearest road.

Frivolity—A Symptom of Basic Well-Being

Every time hot weather comes on, and the American indulges himself in his incurable interest in all of the active and passive sports, someone is sure to complain that this simply proves how very frivolous, low-brow, and generally light-minded we all are.

A prize fight draws a million-dollar gate, two hot big league pennant races set whole cities half delirious, golf courses and bathing beaches do a land-office business, swing music festivals draw enormous crowds, motorist set out on their annual hegira to cool breezes and inspiring scenery—and someone is certain to pipe up that we are heedless folk fiddling while Rome burns.

Now it is quite true that dire events are taking shape in this world, and that a man seriously given to worry could sit down and find food for steady, uninterrupted pessimism for weeks on end. Things are going badly at home and worse abroad, and no one knows what the end is going to be.

Yet this very frivolity of ours is probably one of the most encouraging symptoms we could possibly display right now.

Obviously, a nation which can suspend all its other business for a couple of days to wonder which of two prize fighters will beat the other one is not a nation which is living under the shadow of immediate disaster. A city which can go haywire over its ball team is still enjoying pretty robust health. And a country which can send its citizens out to spend $4,000,000,000 on the vacation highways is a long way from collapse.

These things are self-evident, to be sure. Yet they are worth repeating, if only because they are a welcome antidote to the cries of the calamity howlers.

We don't need to adopt a Pollyanna attitude about it. We have our troubles, they're big ones, and we're going to be a long time solving them.

But the basic fact, underneath them all, is that we are the luckiest people in the world today.

Our economic system is in bad shape—but it has more of the elements needed to restore it to complete health than any other system on earth.

We have much unrest and dissatisfaction among our people—but we have less than any other great nation, and we have a better chance to cure what we do have.

We face the danger of a world war—but if any nation can stay out of that war, we can, and no nation can be as confident of ultimate victory if war should come in spite of everything.

It doesn't hurt to remind ourselves of these things. They simply mean that although things are bad, they could be ever so much worse—and that they are probably going to get better faster than we sometimes suppose.

Villa Followers to Be Granted Land

By United Press

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico. —All revolutionists who served in the Pancho Villa revolt will be given lands by the Mexican government in the near future, Gen. Lorenzo Avalos told a gathering of ex-Villistas.

"The government wants to keep all revolutionary men together," he said, "and for that reason grants of land will be given to all the ex-Villistas now living in Juarez."

General Avalos, now connected with the department of agriculture, commanded the northern division of the Mexican army in the Villa uprising.

If many more spy revelations crop out, the time is foreseen when a man will brag to his grandchildren that he was the grandchild of the man who once went a year without wearing false whiskers.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he snatched into 'KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she snatched into ED, the WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was headed somewhere, too, but affairs somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday: The Weasel escapes the police and the trio moves on while Kelly hanks Ed for an "entertaining" evening!

CHAPTER VIII

WITH this remark conversation lapsed. For mile after mile Joe drove on steadily, with Kelly sleeping peacefully at his side. Two o'clock in the morning found the Ford west of Albany proceeding swiftly toward Syracuse. The Weasel had directed Joe as to what roads to take to his hideout across Niagara Falls. Shortly they stopped for gas and the Weasel obtained a New York tabloid from the all-night station. As they moved on again he searched for news of his robbery.

"Here it is," he announced. "Bank robber ee-ludes po-lice. Stop a second so's I can read it!"

The account was brief. It stated merely that the bank at North Colliston, Connecticut, had been held up by a lone bandit early that morning; that the robber was believed to have gotten away with approximately $20,000; that his car had been found abandoned, but the man himself appeared to have made a clean getaway; that there was no clew to his identity.

"Clew to his i-dentity?" the Weasel, brimming with satisfaction. "I'll say dey ain't. I pulled dat job clean neat. I . . . hey, wot da hell!"

The paper had been suddenly switched from his fingers. And Joe Sandham, eyes popping, was staring at the reproduction of a photograph that occupied almost the whole of the back page. Below the picture was the caption: SOCIETY GIRL MISSING—KIDNAPING FEARED.

The blurb read: "Up to a late hour last night nothing had been heard of Miss Caroline Archer who disappeared from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Archer of 895 Park Avenue, on Tuesday. Members of Miss Archer's family could not be reached by reporters today. But detectives in charge of the case fear that Miss Archer has been kidnaped."

The Weasel was leaning over Joe's shoulder breathing stertorously down his neck. Suddenly he emitted a low cry.

"Hey, dat's, dat's . . ." He broke off, as if at a loss for suitable words, and gestured first at the picture, then at the sleeping Kelly.

"Yes," said Joe composedly, "you've got something. It's the same girl."

"But kidnapin'?" The Weasel seemed unable to go on. He was floored.

All at once something bright raced across Joe's eyes. He glanced at Kelly, stirring a little in her sleep. He screwed his head part way around and looked at the Weasel, who sat on the candy case with his mouth hanging open. Then, very quietly, he started the car.

"Weasel," he said in a whisper, "punks like you sure hand me a laugh."

The Weasel stared incredulously at the back of Joe's head.

"You mean," he said, drawing a long breath, "dat you're kidnapin' dis baby?"

"What else would I mean?"

THE magnitude of this idea so impressed Ed the Weasel that for a full minute he sat silent and wondering. Then he pulled himself together and gave vent to a subdued whistle.

"I tought dat wuz something screwy wid dis setup," said the Weasel shaking his head.

"Nothing screwy at all. I'm only doing what any other fellow with a brain between his ears would do. Listen, Weasel, I met this girl by accident. But as soon as I found out who she was, I saw my chance. She was on her way to Boston to marry some bird up there. But her car got wrecked so she asked me to drive her. Well, I had about as much intention of driving her to the moon as to Boston. And now I was just—just—figuring things out when you came along. And now"—he sighed regretfully—"I suppose I'll have to cut you in."

The Weasel grasped this. This was the kind of language he spoke. He thrust his gun against Joe's back.

"You're tellin' me," he said. "I'll say you're gonna cut me in—and how. 'Cause I got a gun, see? An' I'm runnin' the show, plenty."

"There you go," said Joe disgustedly. "Gettin' tough. You gun guys have no art, no finesse. All you know is rough stuff. First of all you might tell me what kind of a place you and this Cissy Jane have in Canada?"

"Ain't much of a place," the Weasel told him. "It's a kinda shack."

"Shack, eh? Well, that sounds all right. Where is it?"

"Pretty near St. Catharines."

"Ontario?"

"Hub?"

"Skip it. I guess it's Ontario, all right. Now then, do you think that Cissy can handle this girl? She's a redhead, you know. They're plenty tough."

The Weasel offered. "Handle her? Listen, Cissy can shoot da light outa . . . die at 50 yards, you know."

"Well, before you do anything else when we get there," said Joe decisively, "you'll take Cissy's gun away from her. We can't afford to have K—er—this girl hurt or anything. Not even scratched. They don't pay off on dead bodies, you know."

"Wot you gonna do," inquired the Weasel heavily, "write a ransom note?"

"Yup."

"Wot'll we say? I ain't much good at writin'."

"Don't you worry. Shakespeare," said Joe. "I'll do the literary work. Is this shack of yours decent at all? This girl's got class. We can't keep her in a rathole."

"Aw, da shack ain't so bad," said the Weasel. "It's good enough fer Cissy."

"That," said Joe, with imperceptible scorn, "makes everything okay. Well, how about going straight there? We better get out of the country before we fog around with ransom notes or anything. Time enough for that later. I suggest we drive like hell for Niagara Falls."

"Sure," said the Weasel. And he added: "Dis here's a natural, ain't it?"

"You spoke that time. By the way, we haven't said anything about the cut. How would fifty-fifty be?"

"Fifty-fifty," said the Weasel, "is okiedoke wid me."

Joe bent his attention on the road. Presently he reached over and switched out the dashboard light.

"I can see the road better without it," he explained. "We've got to make time now."

"Yeah," agreed the Weasel. And then, for a long period, a beautiful silence reigned. It was in two souls in perfect harmony and understanding shared the gloom that now pervaded Chandler & Sandham's Ford delivery truck. But, under cover of darkness, Mr. Joseph Herenden Sandham began to do things.

M. F. Manchester To Conduct Revival At Cheaney Church

M. F. Manchester, minister of the Caddo Church of Christ and former county evangelist for the Churches of Christ in Eastland County, will conduct a revival meeting for the Cheaney Church of Christ beginning Sunday, July 2, and continuing through Sunday, July 10.

Over-Grazing Is One Chief Cause Of Bird Decrease

COLLEGE STATION — Over-grazing and farm tenancy are two of the most important factors affecting wild life in East Texas. That was the conclusion reached by Walter P. Taylor and D. W. Lay to the Texas Co-Operative Wildlife Service at Texas A. & M. College after a survey which they directed in Walker county.

A census of quail was taken on 8,949 acres, or 1.72 per cent of the county, with bird dogs and CCC enrollees, and it was found that the sandy-land farms and pastures averaged one covey of quail to each 78.6 acres, and black-land farms had pastures averaged one covey to each 116.2 acres," the report said.

"The average covey size on Dec. 1, 1937, on grazed and uned acres was 11.25 birds, and on ungrazed areas protected from hunting, the average was 16.8 birds. Taylor and Lay estimated that Walker county had 40,255 quail, or one to each 12.5 acres, but their findings indicated the possibility of substantially increasing the number through improvement of the habitat and better regulation of hunting.

The report pointed out that the density of the birds was closely related to the amount of timber cut. "In the open land left bare by loggers, it was found that quail increased slowly until the weeds and grass became established," it said.

OLYMPIAN WRECKED AGAIN

Overtaken by tragedy for the second time within a week, the Milwaukee Railroad's crack "Olympian" is shown above wrecked near Ingomar, Mont., after colliding head-on with an eastbound CCC train. One youth was killed and four trainmen and seven passengers were injured. The CCC train's locomotive rolled over the far side of the embankment and one of its cars was thrown across the rails in front of the "Olympian," as shown above.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS - By Blosser

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Boss Frank Hague has received at least a mild slap on the wrist from President Roosevelt with the promotion of District Judge William Clark of New Jersey to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

Clark has been hearing the suit for an injunction which would forbid Hague to suppress civil rights in Jersey City. His nomination was sent to the Senate at a time when it was generally believed in Washington that he would grant an injunction against Hague. Clark is a Republican and Hague wasn't consulted as to his nomination at any stage.

Subsequently it appeared the Hague machine wanted Senate confirmation held up until Clark had ruled in the injunction suit. Senator Ed Burke of Nebraska was the only one who seriously sought to aid that effort.

Ex-Governor Silzer, who came down here to protest Clark's nomination, is a Hague Democrat who owed his nomination and election to Hague, although dissatisfaction at certain Clark comments when he defended Ellis Parker and Dutch Schultz, the racketeer, may have been enough to inspire Silzer.

CLARK is a 47-year-old liberal whose decisions have seldom been reversed by higher courts during his 15 years on the bench. The most notable exception was his decision in 1930 that the prohibition amendment was invalid because it had been ratified by legislatures rather than constitutional assemblies.

He is part of an infusion of new blood into the Third Circuit Appeals Court sitting at Philadelphia, whose elderly conservative justices—three of whom recently resigned—consistently turned out anti-New Deal decisions, and all 14 of whose rulings to reach the Supreme Court at its recent term were promptly reversed.

Both Senator William H. Smather and Hague's personal senator, John Milton, are backing candidates to succeed Clark—the latter's man being his own son-in-law and one of Hague's lawyers. Chances now are about 50 to 1 that Smather's choice will get that district judgeship.

CONGRESS voted for investigations of phosphates, monopoly, TVA, taxation, forest resources, automobile distribution, un-American activities and campaign expenditures. But Senator Robert F. Wagner's bill for an inquiry into the problem of bringing health services to people in cheaper form didn't even get out of the Senate Finance Committee.

WHETHER the Senate might have done better with a little more prayer must forever remain an open question. Anyway, it didn't get much prayer. Chaplain ZeBarney T. Phillips, who gets $1680 a year for his Senate work, opened sessions only three times, Jan. 5, April 20, and June 7—at a compensation rate of $500 a prayer. That's because the chaplain prays only at the opening of each legislative day—and Senate legislative days, through a parliamentary device, often last for months.

And no doubt you wondered: "How fast are those hands traveling?"

Some of the best engineering minds in the country have supplied the answer by constructing an electrically timed measuring device which can tell how fast a boxer's hand moves from the time he lets the punch go until it explodes on somebody's chin.

Experiments with average fighters reveal a speed of approximately 40 miles an hour.

There have been devices for recording the pressure of a punch, but so far as it is known, this is the first apparatus developed to accurately measure the speed of a fist.

The contraption is a rather complicated affair, requiring a dozen or more various types of vacuum tubes, and two photo cells, or electric eyes. An electric meter calibrates the time required in intercepting the two light beams, which are about a foot apart. A chart interprets the time into miles per hour.

THE fighter merely swings his fist through the dual electric eye control and his speed is recorded.

All of which reminds one that the well-conditioned human muscle, operated by an alert brain, is capable of remarkable things. A batter has only a half second to decide whether or not he wants to swing at a ball which blazes at him from the pitcher's hand. That's just about the time elapsing from the start of the pitch to its arrival at the plate.

Then if he makes up his mind to swing he still has to get the bat around. And it all takes place in a half second.

Just about the same time elapses from the top of a golfer's swing until the instant of impact.

The ebony legs of Jesse Owens churning the cinders of a 100-yard dash, whisk him along at the rate of 22 miles an hour. Broken down to the ultimate, based on the length of his stride, Owens' legs pound along at the rate of a striding every three-tenths of a second.

IN San Francisco they said Patsy Amoroso that she was the perfect golf swing.

Patsy is just 9, weighs 51 pounds, stands 54 inches, and whangs the ball straight down the middle for 125 yards.

At an age when other youngsters are more interested in their dolls' welfare, Patsy has decided that some day she is going to be national women's champion.

Little Patsy wears long pants when she golfs. She plays the game for keeps.

"I'm not after women's par," she snaps. "I'm after bigger game. I play for men's par!"

Men's par for her home course is 35 for the first nine. Patsy tours it in 47.

Her competitive spirit would do credit to a Walker or Ryder Capper. She loves to win... distasteful to lose.

In about nine years—say, in 1947—she expects to be national women's champion.

We wouldn't bet against it.

Balanced Meals Discussed: At the June meeting of the Parent's club of the WPA nursery school, a round table discussion of "Diets for Children" was conducted by the Supervisor and the Dietitian.

Recognizing the fact that the average child comes from a family of average income, it is necessary and important to bring about a nutritional and cost consciousness on the part of the members in the planning, purchasing and preparation of food served to the Nursery school children. If the Nursery school is to serve as a laboratory for the mothers and others interested in child development, it is essential that each individual demonstrates her ability in bringing about desirable results. The elimination of waste and extravagance must be demonstrated daily, were some of the facts under discussion at the session.

A copy of the following was given to each member present, as well as various other helpful bits of literature on child development.

Diets An adequate diet consists of the minimum essential food elements that will supply the body needs.

Blues Triumph In Thursday Game to Tune of 10 and 3

Royal Blues girls' team Thursday night at Fireman field in Eastland defeated the Street's Dairymaids 10 to 3.

For five innings the teams played a close contest with the Blues leading by 5 to 3. In their half of the sixth, the Blues mixed three-hits with two walks and two errors to put across five more runs to ice the game.

Edith Rosenquest had her strike-out ball working to whiff 10. The Maids showed they are improving over their previous games and, but for the lapse in the sixth, held their opponents about even throughout.

That Reminds Me (Continued from page 1) Of course everybody cannot get a prize out its lots of fun and folks will be there to give a big round of applause for every entry. But frankly, don't be backward, come on in and join the big revue and let's make it the biggest number of entries in history. Eastland girls should not feel any timid stroke nor take on an attitude of indifference. It's one time that we want to show the people that we have beautiful girls and that they are not afraid to get in the revue to prove it.

We know that we voice the sentiments of every person in Eastland for the unselfish support that is being given to our celebration this year and that there is unlimited gratitude to those who give their time and money to see that it will be the biggest even of its kind ever pulled off in Eastland.

No matter what kind of pleasure one may like the best in the manner of interest but the committee has thoughtfully placed nearly every kind of amusement on the program for them to see. There will be square dances, water fights, old fiddlers contest, band contests, bicycle contests, skeet shoot, water contests, in fact anything you may have desired. And don't forget that Sunday will be devoted to community singing and revue.

Both the Connellee and Lyric theatres will feature for the three days, special outstanding motion pictures for those who like to relax in the cool atmosphere of these modern theatres.

Grocery stores will close on the Fourth, but dry goods stores will remain open until 4 p. m. for the convenience of those who care to do some shopping while here, and by the way there are plenty of bargains waiting for folks who like thrifty bargains.

All in all the entire three days is for the good folks from everywhere... there will be plenty of free ice water both in town and at the city park. Every possible comfort has been attended to to make the three days happy, healthful and pleasant... and its all free.

Within 20 years, according to a statistician, there will be no horses in England. That tittering you hear can probably be traced to the fox holes.

The group gathered at the park at 6:30 enjoying the swim followed with picnic supper spread on the camp tables. The menu consisting of assorted sandwiches, salads, fritos, olives, pickles, cookies, cakes, punch was served to honorees: Edith Rosenquest, Helen Butler, Earline Pitzer, Maxine Coleman, Frances Lane, Doris Lawrence, Ima Ruth Hale, Katherine Uitz, and members: Annell Bender, Mava Lou Crossley, Frances Crowell, Louise Davis, Betty Hyer, Glenna Johnson, Marilyn Lerner, Maxine O'Neal, Fannie Pitzer, Beverly June Smith, Nanett Tanner, Betty Wiegand.

Beverly June Smith will hostess the Saturday session with a swim and skate party at the Cisco lake.

Eastland Personal Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McKinney of Coleman are to visit Sunday and Monday in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Hugh F. Barnhart, and Mr. Barnhart. Mrs. Barnhart and daughter, Rosemary, will return with her parents for a short visit.

John Frost is attending a C. M. T. C. camp at San Antonio. Mrs. W. E. Collie and daughter, Kathleen, Eastland and Mrs. Marvin Collie and daughter, Doris from Amarillo, the house guest of Mrs. Collie, will spend the weekend in Dallas.

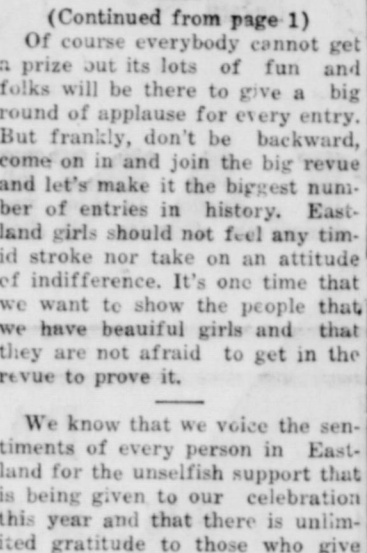

A monkey who arrived here from Europe the other day was immediately deported. He had threatened to lecture.

Mickey Rooney and Freddie Bartholomew Starred Again

Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney in "Lord Jeff" Mickey Rooney and Freddie Bartholomew in a scene from their latest picture "Lord Jeff" which comes to the Lyric Friday and Saturday. "Mutiny On the Bounty" knew no fiercer rebellion than this picture. "Captains Courageous" offered no greater battle of character... no grander adventures... than this heart-stormy drama of men in the making.

"A Gun Fighter Makes Love"

Bob Steele and Jean Carmen in a romantic scene from "Arizona Gunfighter" coming to the Connellee Friday and Saturday.

Choice Space Is Given Buick Auto For Annual Show

Buick's forward strides in sales during the past year have resulted in the award to this manufacturer of choice of third position in the allotment of space at the 1939 National Automobile Show in Grand Central Palace, New York, according to word received today by Muirhead Motor Co., local Buick dealer, from W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager.

"When the annual automobile show opens this Fall, the spotlight will be on Buick because of this distinction," Jack Muirhead said. "According to the information from Mr. Hufstader, choice of space is granted by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association which sponsors the New York show, on the basis of the dollar volume of sales by members of the association during the 12 months ended May 1. By virtue of having achieved the third greatest dollar volume during the period, Buick wins the right to one of the choicest display spaces in the great exposition hall."

Mr. Muirhead said the Buick shift to third position will constitute the major change in arrangement of displays at the National Automobile Show this year. Buick climbed to its present place from sixth position last year, he said.

In his letter to dealers, Mr. Hufstader praised the Buick retail organization for the splendid achievement.

"You will be proud to learn,"

he said, "that Buick has been awarded third choice of space at the National Automobile Show in New York this Fall, having achieved third greatest dollar volume of space granted by the Auto- for the year ended May 1. "This is indeed an outstanding record and congratulations are due Buick dealers and their salesmen, who accomplished it. It is a tribute to the entire dealer organization and to the splendid Buick car."
