The Top of the World Gets a Little Cluttered

It would be interesting to find out just how Benito Mussolini is feeling right now.

He seems to be sitting on top of the world, his people are hailing him as a world-saving peace-maker (which is certainly a new role for him), as he has just taken a major part in a history-making event.

For what has been happening in the last few months is obvious enough, when you stop to think about it. Benito has been slowly but steadily deflated.

Hitler's Germany is the dominant power in Europe today, and there is every indication that it will become more dominant in the next year or so.

Look at what has happened already. A year or two ago, it was a cardinal point in Italian policy to keep Germany out of Austria.

Jugoslavia and the neighboring country were likewise marked down as a sphere for Italian penetration and expansion.

The Near East has also been a goal of Mussolini's foreign policy. But the famous old German "drive to the east" is going ahead now faster than ever before.

What is left? An arid empire in Africa and a half-conquered, poverty-stricken domain in Ethiopia.

There may yet be a few pickings in Spain—but even there, it is the German agent rather than the Italian who has been gobbling up the choicest commercial concessions.

So Mussolini can hardly be happy about the way things are shaping up. Already he begins to look suspiciously like the tail to Hitler's kite.

First and Second Grades Since we have been studying the grocery store, we have read stories about city life. Now we are building a city on our sand table. Lavon made a hotel, Joann Boyd made a department store, Clarence made a postoffice, Joann Weeks made a picture show, Billy and Charles fixed the Municipal Airport and Union Station, and Patsy Ruth made a furniture store. We have several houses in our residential section. A group is going to work on the streets this week. When we finish our grocery store, we are to study the work of each of the business houses which we have represented on our sand table. We will use the same house that we built for a grocery store and change the interior each time. Joann Boyd and Joann Weeks were store keepers this week. Miss Williams was given a fruit and handkerchief shower at the noon hour, Thursday. Joann Boyd went to Abilene during the week-end to attend a birthday party for her cousin, Marjorie Ann Horn. Pauline Williams, age 6, typed a letter to her grandparents. This is a great undertaking for so small a girl. While riding in the pasture Sunday morning, Joann Boyd and her daddy, E. T. Boyd, killed a rattle snake which was five feet long and had eleven rattles.

Third and Fourth Grades Our Book Shelf We have sixty-one books in our room. Mrs. Mills, our school librarian, has repaired those in poor condition. They are all bright and clean. Our wish is that we can keep them this way. We enjoy our room library very much.—Mary Kenneth Harris. The Third Grade pupils are keeping a weather record every day of this unusually warm weather. They find it an interesting and worthwhile project.—Elvie McCleskey. Gene Mills and I went fishing in the Colony Creek and caught six little cat fish for the third and fourth grades' pond on the sand table. My cats, "Boots," is the proud mother of two fluffy yellow and white kittens. If anyone wants a Persian kitten, see me at once.—Harold Smith. Halloween Carnival The spoons will soon be here. We are planning to help with the Halloween Carnival for Friday, October 28. Everyone be sure to come and have a big time eating and playing games.—Don Ford.

Diagnostic Tests Given Tuesday morning all high school pupils and the seventh grade pupils were given the Clapp-Young English test. The purpose of the test was to find individual weaknesses in capitalization, punctuation, word form, and grammar. Each pupil will be helped on that particular thing which is difficult for him. Form A was given at the beginning of the school year and Form B is to be given some time before the end of school.

Our Day of Rest

Text: Exodus 20:8-11; Luke 13:10-17. BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance OUR lesson properly emphasizes two aspects of the Sabbath, or the day of rest, which, as the first day of the week instead of the seventh, has followed out the same principle in Christendom.

We have, first of all, the Commandment concerning the Sabbath Day, emphasizing its holiness and enjoining upon all the duty of keeping it. A day of rest ought to be holy. If it is not regarded as holy and if various things are allowed to infringe upon its sanctity, for gain, pleasure, or convenience, the result is that before long it ceases to exist at all—as it has in large measure ceased to exist for great multitudes of people in this modern world.

The situation would be much worse than it is were it not that some remnants of sanctity still attach to the day of rest. The principle is recognized, even if it is not followed; and this fact has led to certain protective laws and regulations or agreements, apart from laws, which have had the aim of establishing for every worker at least one day in seven as a day of rest.

It is doubtful whether, in our modern world and under modern conditions, a day of rest could be observed with the completeness that was possible in the primitive life and organization of Jewish society. There are problems to be met today that could not be easily solved, even if the economic aspect were disregarded.

But there is nothing in the modern situation that in any respect affects the possibility of some weekly day of rest for every worker. In fact, it might be said that the conditions of modern economic life make this day of rest.

Our modern society well to bear in mind principles—that human a day of rest, and that there is something holy to it, it will not have man, and not man for man, but also that does not mean formal exacting regulations of the day a burden upon day of rest.

OPPORTUNITY IS HERE TODAY — MEET OPPORTUNITY!

Some would have one believe that Opportunity knocks at one's door but once in a life time, but how unfortunate this would be, if true. Opportunity, like the Heavenly blessings, is ever present around us and about us. But too often it is unnoticed, and most of the time unheeded, by the unconcerned.

One may call the roll of the great men, both past and present, and when the source of their greatness is learned, it will be Opportunity. Opportunity and Greatness are inseparable—neither can exist without the other, and one makes the other and vice-versa.

No man can go upward very far without Opportunity. Grasping one Opportunity makes one stronger to take on another. The subject of Home ownership is an example. How many Opportunities are opened up thru Home Ownership? We never could count them. Home ownership is the maker of Opportunity, and it is no trifle!

Allowables, Taxes To Take Up Time of Oil Convention

SAN ANTONIO— Confronted with serious increases in taxes and drastically reduced allowables, Texas oilmen will devote a major share of attention to oil taxation at the nineteenth annual meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association here Oct. 27 and 28.

George H. Sheppard, State Comptroller of Public Accounts, was announced here Saturday as the chief speaker at a special tax session just added to the convention program and scheduled for Friday afternoon, Oct. 28. Sheppard will discuss the state gross production levy and other state taxes, Al Buchanan, local convention chairman, reported.

Another feature of the special tax session will be an address on oil and valorem taxes and their importance to local subdivisions, to be given by Merritt Gibson, county judge-elect of Gregg county, leading oil county.

Taxation will also come in for a report at the general session Thursday afternoon, Oct. 27, by Harold G. Neely of Fort Worth, chairman of the association tax committee. New and sensational material showing the increasing tax burden on the oilman in the face of two-day-a-week shutdowns will be presented by Neely.

Another addition to the convention program for Thursday was announced by Buchanan. E. B. Germany, Dallas independent operator who was elected chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee at the recent Beaumont convention will introduce Governor-Nominate W. Lee O'Daniel at the afternoon session. A reception honoring the next governor will be given for the visiting oil men by the San Antonio Club house. Mrs. Dan Childress, president, presided.

A report of the executive board meeting held earlier in the week was given by the secretary, Mrs. W. A. Wiegand.

Mrs. F. M. Kenny, parliamentarian, read the club constitution and by-laws.

Mrs. Victor Ginn, presented in a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. D. L. Kinnaird, opened the afternoon's program. Mrs. W. E. Chaney was hostess and leader with the subject on "The Food Industry Talks to the Consumer."

Mr. Grady Pipkin, who was scheduled as speaker, was unable to attend but sent a display of canned foods as illustrations purposes.

Mrs. Pipkin had the music appreciation period. Mrs. Ben Scott's talk was on "The Canned Food Label and What it represents."

In the absence of Mrs. Earl Connor, Mrs. James Horton, read her paper on from "Range to Range. Mrs. W. S. Poe discussed Milk for America followed by Mrs. E. E. Sikes on the topic, "Wheat and Its Flour," by Donald D. Davis.

Formal Ermine Has Casual Cut

The contrast between the elegance and formality of the fur of which it is made and the casual lines on which it is cut make this evening wrap one of the loveliest in current collections. Of snowy white Russian ermine, it has squared shoulders, wide sleeves and a small collar. DeIn Bacher designed it.

J. O. EARNEST ATTENDS MEET AT CLEVELAND

J. O. Earnest, who operates a Clover Farm store at Eastland, has just returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where he attended the 12th anniversary national convention of Clover Farm stores. Over 1,000 retail and supply house members of the Clover Farm organization gathered at Hotel Carter in Cleveland on Oct. 11 and 12 to hear General Hugh S. Johnson and other famous speakers, and to exchange ideas as to how they might better serve the consumer.

In addition to General Johnson who presented his views on the future of the independent retail grocer, there were addresses by R. C. Borden, author of books and motion pictures on selling; Gerritt Vander Hooping, president of the National Association of Retail Grocers; Tom Manning, NBC World Series sports announcer; Gene Flack, trade relations counsel of Loose-Wiles Biscuit company; and Agnes Reasor of Swift and company.

The principal talks were given at the opening session on Tuesday afternoon. Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland welcomed the visitors on Tuesday evening at the annual banquet. Prizes were distributed to winners in various company contests and an elaborate floor show was presented, starring Hal LeRoy, famous tap dancer.

A round table conference was to be the largest in association history, with advance reservations having set a record.

held on Wednesday morning, followed by discussion groups headed by department heads of Clover Farm national headquarters.

Mr. Earnest was one of 30 Texas Clover Farm store operators who attended the convention, traveling by special bus.

He reported that a dress parade contest was won by Texas operators. By winning the parade "The Clover Farm Store Flag," which goes to the winning state, was awarded to Texas operators. It was previously held by Pennsylvania.

Mr. Earnest reported that Texas is of great interest to grocers from over the nation. Scores of operators questioned him about the state and indicated they intend to visit Texas on their vacations next year.

"IT TAKES A HEAP OF BUYING TO MAKE A HOME"

"We need two tons of coal..." "Sally's got to have a new hat..." "A nice lounge chair would make all the difference in the living-room."

Every day of the year, you are buying things — necessities of life, food, furniture — all the things that really do "make your house a home." When you buy, of course, you want to know about the things you buy. And that's where your newspaper comes in.

The advertising columns of this paper give you the news about buying — what you can buy, where you can buy it, how much it costs. This service saves you money and time. Why not take advantage of it?
