To Pleas for Peace the Nation Cries 'Amen'

When Teamster Jim Tobin got up at the American Federation of Labor convention and declared that labor's rank and file would vote for peace between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. by a majority of 20 to 1, if they ever got the chance, he wasn't saying the half of it.

It is not only labor's rank and file which would vote that way. The country at large would vote the same way. For labor's internal war has exhausted the patience of practically every body.

Underneath the bitter personal antagonisms and conflicting personal ambitions of the top labor leaders there is, of course, a fundamental row over a principle. The issue of craft union versus industrial union goes beyond personalities, and men who honestly believe that labor's salvation lies along one of these two lines will have a hard time in reaching a compromise.

Yet this basic principle is being overshadowed now by something more important.

Things have got to the stage where the principle itself is less significant than the fight which is based on it. For this fight, of itself, gives labor a crippling blow, then it ceases to make much difference which of the two principles prevails.

Labor has made tremendous gains in the last few years. It has reached a more influential and solid position than it ever before had. The principle of collective bargaining has at last been generally accepted, almost everywhere. Protection for labor's rights is written into federal law.

But the gains that were won swiftly can be lost swiftly, too. Already there are very clear signs of a reaction. In the far west especially there are now pending measures which would seriously limit labor's activities. If the reaction continues, these measures will pass and will be followed by even more stringent ones.

And the point to bear in mind is that such measures have been pretty largely provoked by labor's own internal quarrel. That quarrel has tried the public's patience; all too often it has canceled out the honest efforts of employers to adjust themselves to the new era in labor relations. If it continues, it will lead labor into something closely resembling a disaster.

"Peace at any price" is a dangerous phrase—as witness Mr. Chamberlain and Czechoslovakia. But in this case, peace at the price of compromise, peace at the price of submerging the ambitions of individual labor leaders—such a peace would be cheaply bought.

It is time for labor to settle its quarrel. If it takes the resignation of a few top labor leaders, deviation of certain basic programs, direct intervention and mediation by the President—well, okay. The one important thing right now is to get the fight over with.

What's 'Wetter' Than Water?—Oil!

Oil is "wetter" than water as far as movie cameras are concerned, so Movie Star Fredric March "soaks down" a cute member of the cast for his new picture, "Trade Winds," now in production in Hollywood. On the screen, oil drops look more like water drops than do water drops. A property man stands by to give aid should oil get in the young lovely's eye.

Wrong Answer to Right Number

"This is the detective chief; I guess you won't want any service." Thus did Louisville's Chief Joseph Stuart, seated among a battery of bell boxes, answer "incoming bookies" calls when he raided and stopped operations at the Cumberland News Service, which supplied information for 600 Louisville book makers. Acting in a reform drive, Stuart forced officials of the service to turn over the keys to their office and then made arrangements with the telephone company to curtail phone service.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

LET'S go nutting in the bread box. For breakfast, nut bread is welcome. It makes grand luncheon sandwiches with shredded pineapple and cream cheese, too, and it's an ideal in-between-meals snack spread with fresh butter. The following recipes are new this October.

Health Nut Bread (2 loaves) One cup rye flour, 2-3 cup pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 cup raw brown sugar, 1-2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1 1-3 cups buttermilk, 3-4 teaspoon soda.

Sift rye flour, pastry flour, baking powder and salt together. Dust chopped nuts lightly with flour. Add a little warm water to brown sugar, stir until smooth, then stir in buttermilk. Add soda to buttermilk mixture, quickly combine dry and liquid mixtures. Add nuts and stir well.

Pour into well-greased bread tins and bake in slow oven (350 degrees F.) for 3-4 hours. Do not serve until following day.

Nut Bran Bread (1 loaf) Two cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups bran, 1-4 cup shortening, 1 egg yolk, 1 cup milk, 3-4 cup sliced Brazil nuts.

Sift and measure flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Beat eggs and milk together.

Combine dry ingredients and add to wet mixture. Fold in nuts.

Put in buttered bread pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour.

Three-Way Race For Governor Seen For 1940 Primary

AUSTIN, Texas—It's looking a long way ahead, but there are indications already that W. Lee O'Daniel, Ernest O. Thompson and Bill McCraw will again be in a three-way race for governor in 1940.

Thompson practically has announced he will run again. Right after the first primary in which he finished second, Thompson remarked that it was a "good qualifying heat."

Former Mayor of Amarillo, where he hammered down utility rates including telephone costs, he is championing at the bit here in Austin because the city fathers have permitted a telephone rate hike without a fight. "Austin rates are not too low. The telephone rates now are fair. It is the other places that are too high," Thompson said. "The capital city should be an example in fair rates for other places."

McCraw remarked right after the primary in which he finished third that the people had elected him to private life. But he already shows signs of wanting to return to the hustings. He has kept a closer check on O'Daniel's doings and statements since July than he did while the last race for governor was on. He has a drawerful of material. Apparently he is not keeping it just to say "I told you so."

O'Daniel has made "one-term" talk. He is quoted for the statement that he is going to be governor for that term without regard to the effect on a second term. He may believe so now, but after once tasting the governorship, men do not give it up without a struggle for a second term. Many things can happen to change the picture. Here at Austin where people look ahead in politics like chess players chart future moves, the prophecy can be heard that O'Daniel really will really seek but one term, and then sneer at.

will try to go to Washington. This prophecy was based on a general belief that the government never will make a month for the aged. O then can tell the supporter gave him last summer's overing vote: "I've done all I can you as governor. The troops Washington. Send me the I'll do more."

MURDER TO MUSIC

ANNIE LESTER—Myrna's close friend.
DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

a chance to look at that past. Often, as Bob Tait sat figuring over the Dombey books, he'd be disturbed by the face of Myrna—Myrna's eyes or her moving lips, getting between him and the sheet of paper.

CHAPTER XV

"I DON'T want to make any promises," can't keep," Tait told "Torchy" Stephens and the band he had gathered inside his apartment. "Before Lud was killed he was riding for another kind of a fall. He was paying your salaries, all right, but it wouldn't have been long before you'd have been out of jobs—because Lud wasn't paying anybody else. I'm going to try to hold off the wolves and get things straightened out, but don't depend on it. It's a gamble, and nothing more. If there's anybody here that doesn't want to stick it out, we want to hear from him now."

Tait, too, was painfully aware of the situation, but he had never felt so utterly helpless. There was one right spot in the outlook—The Swingaters were doing well. Under "Torchy" Stephens they were as popular as ever, and nothing was hinted that the Pacific Plaza would try to break the contract. As the new manager, Tait had contacted the majority of more important creditors and convinced a share of them that they still had a chance to get their money. A few nights of pencil scratching told him that if Montgomery would give The Swingaters a chance to make some more records, even without Lud Dombey, he could get the corporation on an even keel again.

Tait didn't care for Macy's smile. "On the contrary, Tait, I'm interested in a number of things. Why not a band? I'm perfectly content to retain my share of The Swingaters, Incorporated."

"Good!" Tait exclaimed. "Then you're the fellow to talk to Hoskins—but only if he brings up the subject. I think the best hunch would be to keep showing up and doing your stuff, as if nothing had happened."

"I believe I can talk them out of it if they do try it," Stephens said. "There's a scandal clause in the contract that they might try to crawl out through—but once I did a favor for Hoskins, the manager. I took over Izzy Pico's band when Izzy got plastered on a night that Hoskins had advertised big."

"... as a tamale" is a good Western expression. It makes a fine dish to talk about, too. Several readers have recently asked me for "tamale pie" recipes, incidentally.

Tamale in Casserole

(Serves 8)

One pound round steak (unground), 3-4 cup chopped onions, 1-2 cloves garlic (chopped), 2 cups tomatoes, 1-2 cups broth, 1 tablespoon chili powder, 1 cup corn meal, moistened with water, 1-2 cups sliced ripe olives, 2 tablespoons salt.

Four boiling water over round steak and boil until tender. Strain the broth and chop the meat. Place broth in double boiler, add tomatoes, chopped meat, onions, garlic, chili powder and salt.

When hot, add the corn meal moistened with water. Stir until thick. Cook for 1-2 hours. Remove, add olives and pour into buttered casserole. Bake in hot oven until brown. Serve with cheese or tomato sauce.

Tamale Pie

(Serves 8)

Two cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup cornmeal, 1-1/4 cup all-bran, 2 tablespoons fat, 1

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Applesauce, waffles, honey, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tamale in casserole, escarole and parsley salad, canned fruit, spiced cookies, tea or coffee, milk.

DINNER: Pineapple juice, ham slice baked with brown sugar, baked sweet potatoes, buttered broccoli, sliced tomatoes, dried apricot upside down cake, coffee, milk.

finely minced clove garlic, 1 pound ground meat, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper, 2 cups tomatoes, 1 tablespoon chili powder, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-3 cup grated cheese.

2-3 add cornmeal to boiling water. Cook until thick. Add all-bran and cook in double boiler 20 to 30 minutes. Pour in shallow greased pan and cool. Melt fat. Add garlic, meat, and green pepper. Brown slightly. Add remaining ingredients except cheese.

Simmer about 15 minutes or until juice from vegetables has partially evaporated. Line sides and bottom of greased casserole with strips of cool mush. Pour in meat mixture. Cover with grated cheese. Brown in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 10 minutes.

More Boys than Girls At Texas University

By Over Two to One

AUSTIN, Tex.—There are more than two men for every woman student at The University of Texas this year, 6,918 boys having enrolled as compared with 3,057 girls, it is shown by statistics on registration up to September 27, compiled by the Registrar's Office. A total of 9,975 students had enrolled up to that date, as compared with 9,266 on the comparable date last year. Total enrollment by October 6, however, including late registrations with loss of credit, totaled 10,064.

The largest percentage increase in enrollment occurred in the College of Pharmacy, which showed a gain of 17.9 per cent over last year. In actual individual enrollments, however, the College of Arts and Sciences showed the largest gain, 220 students, or 4 per cent.

A total of 115 students enrolled in the University's newest branch, the College of Fine Arts 25 men and 90 women.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The Roosevelt appeal for C. I. O.-A. F. of L. peace hasn't brought it a bit nearer.

There just isn't any peace in sight or even in the wind. The chief reason is that no one can devise a formula by which the two groups can reunite without giving one or the other an upper hand. A. F. of L. leaders would have every reason to expect an end to their control if they took C. I. O.'s millions in on an equal voting footing. C. I. O. leaders are sure many of their unions would be raided and carved up if they joined A. F. of L. on any other basis.

One important expected result is elimination of both Lovestone Communists behind President Hoover Martin and Stalin Communists, who worked with the group of suspended officials now reinstated, from the union's policy-making councils.

When C. I. O. Vice Chairmen Hillman and Murray went to Detroit few believed the break between Lewis and Martin over U. A. W. peace terms could be healed. They were threatened with physical violence and gunplay. Arguing C. I. O.'s millions in on an equal voting footing, C. I. O. leaders are sure many of their unions would be raided and carved up if they joined A. F. of L. on any other basis.

Lewis and William Green apparently can't work out a peaceful agreement like that because there's no higher authority to whom they would be willing to refer differences. Roosevelt can't do anything about it. Neither Green nor Lewis has any present intention of asking him to try.

ONE wouldn't expect the United Mine Workers to have much trouble getting coal to heat their big, handsomely renovated offices here. But there are some problems involved.

First they had to be careful where the coal came from. It must be union mined. Then the question of a fair price came up. Now the difficulty is in getting the coal delivered by union teamsters. Teamsters aren't organized in Washington.

NEW YORK—In saying that the Cubs need a couple of power hitters, among others, and explaining that Philip K. Wrigley is willing to pay handsomely but doesn't know where to turn, Charles (Boots) Weber, general manager of the National League champions, unintentionally places his finger on the biggest difference between the world series combatants.

the Brooklyn club, asked who would play shortstop were Frisch named. . . . It wouldn't be Durocher, who broke out in a bitter feud with Frisch when shipped to the Cards. . . . Frisch would fit in with the Giants if the front office would permit Bill Terry to devote all his time to it. . . . It looks as though Burleigh Grimes will wind up in Milwaukee. . . . where Al Sothoron is prepared to file civil suit unless paid in full for the third year of his contract. . . . Tom Sheehan will manage the Minneapolis Millers.

Every competent critic agrees that Keller, who in 1937 led International League batters in his first year out of the University of Maryland, will improve the New York outfield in 1939. The Rupert organization signed Joe Gordon while he was playing halfback for Jefferson High School of Portland, Ore., in 1930. That's how far ahead they work. . . . That's how far they are ahead of the Bruins.

THE strain to which these freshmen are put in a world series really is terrific. . . . Gordon was so nervous in the opener that all he could hit were singles and doubles. . . . He was so loose in the field I suspected he might fall apart at any minute. . . . Clark Griffith, head of the Washington Senators, who has been around, calls the play of the two second basing combinations in the first game the finest that he has seen.

GET it pretty straight that Ray Schalk, with Indianapolis during the campaign just closed will manage the Browns. . . . Ray Blades, Rochester manager, appears to have the inside track leading to the Cardinal job. . . . and Leo Durocher moved around during the world series as though he knew he was going to pilot the Dodgers. . . . although it may be that Jimmy Wilson is still being considered by both the Red Birds and Dodgers.

I like Dizzy Dean's definition of an expert. . . . "An expert," says Old Diz, "is a bloke who would rather talk than listen. . . . Which as an expert, I mean, by the way, was Lazerri's choice to start the series. . . . Rogers Hornsby also said that he would have started the incredible hick."

LOU GEHRIG gets off to another bad start next season Joe McCarthy plans to bench him and use Tommy Henrich at first. . . . Just to see if stopping Gehrig's continuous game record, which is a yaw to most people anyway, won't have a stimulating effect on the Iron Percheron.

Circus Elephant Is Playful at Her Winter Quarters

EL PASO, Texas—Horses, monkeys, elephants and a bear—part of the Tom Mix circus—are wintering in El Paso, and outstanding among them is Babe, five tons of pachyderm playfulness.

Babe, the elephant, has helped stow her last bit of lumber, and now is cruising about her winter quarters at the livestock show grounds here, getting into mischief as only Babe can.

Allowed to run loose over the grounds in the daytime, she turns on water hydrants, sticks her trunk into windows of the company wagons, and investigates almost everything.

At night Babe is chained, but that doesn't stop her when she really wants to play.

Babe loves white bread, but a two-bales-of-hay-a-day stomach is expensive to fill with white bread.

"Babe pulled her stake while we were asleep one night," said Assistant Manager Charles Warrell. "She picked up her chain in her trunk so it wouldn't make any noise and headed for the kitchen tent, where 18 men were sleeping."

They all were between her and the bread, but Babe, feeling her way with her trunk, stepped over and around the men and gobbled down 40 loaves without waking anyone.

Only the fact that she was loose the next morning and that her tracks led to the pantry tent explained the missing bread.

After eating bread, Babe loves her trunk and throws it up in the next best to play with her automobile tire.

"When she is not working, and feeling frisky," Warrell said, "she plays with her tire like a kitten with a mouse. She picks it up with

As the tail of the plane invariably remains intact in crashes they have designed a short wave radio device, to be placed on the tail of planes, and which automatically starts sending a signal when a jolt or crash starts the mechanism functioning.

Points of New Car Explained at Meets Of the Harvey Co.

Members of the sales force of the Harvey Chevrolet Company, who have attended three local meetings for explanation of points of the new Chevrolet to be introduced Saturday, were to be given a test of their memory Thursday at a meeting in Abilene.

Members of the sales force attending were Claude (Curley) Maynard and O. H. Dess. O. E. Harvey and John D. Harvey, owners of the company, also will attend.

The salesmen competed on their knowledge of the new car with those of other cities in the area. Prizes were to be awarded winners.

The series of local meetings, ended Wednesday night, were attended by salesmen, mechanics and other members of the Harvey force. O. E. Harvey was the instructor. Heretofore salesmen were acquainted with the new models at district meetings but this year local instruction meetings were initiated over the nation.

NEW LAMPS BLEND With Period Furnishings

By Jean Prentice

Completing a graceful setting, the new prize award lamps harmonize effectively with furnishings reminiscent of the past.

It has never been too hard to find old chairs and tables that fit into modern living. But finding table or floor lamps to harmonize with these pieces, and still give safe reading light, has been a difficult problem.

Now there is an answer. The American Institute of Decorators, the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Illuminating Engineering Society recently sponsored a nationwide lamp design competition. Lamps that would blend authentically with popular periods of furnishings, and at the same time, give scientific lighting, were what they wanted.

Designers, design students and artists throughout the country sent in two hundred entries, from which twelve were selected for awards. A number of manufacturers are now making lamps over these prize designs.

Models in 18th Century English, Early American, 18th Century French and Contemporary Modern designs are now appearing on the market, wearing a prize award emblem from the three sponsors of the competition. All of these lamps conform to the specifications of the Illuminating Engineering Society for good lighting.

Occasionally old original lamps are wired successfully. But too often lamps from the past simply cannot be made to deliver the right kind of light for the reading we do late at night. (When our ancestors would have been in bed.)

Our modern pace of living and the hard visual tasks we give our eyes demand the more advanced lighting that is available today.

Beware The Cough That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements found in many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote nicely blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside.

Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. Drug-
