TWO BIG WARS REACH CLIMAX STAGE TODAY

The world's two great wars reached climactic stages today in China and Spain.

In China the Japanese armies captured Hankow after driving retreating soldiers of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Blasts of dynamite under public buildings, flames sweeping through the three sister cities and many thousands of refugees fled toward safety marked the Japanese triumph after months of bitter fighting.

United States Bluejackets and other foreign troops landed to protect foreigners, including 12 Americans.

The Chinese declared that their armies would fight on. General Chiang was reported building new defenses westward from Hankow in the vast region where prolonged resistance might be continued.

Japanese expressed their determination to destroy the trend set up by the general. The war minister said in Tokyo that China would be destroyed if Japanese soldiers had to occupy every square inch of China.

Spain—The international negotiations for isolating the Spanish may be approved Wednesday by the British cabinet. France has indicated approval.

From the fighting fronts in Spain came reports of intense activity by the insurgents south of Madrid, creating belief a new offensive against the capital might be planned.

President Project In Ranger Operating Under the NYA

The National Youth Administration in co-sponsorship with the City of Ranger, last week commenced operation of an NYA Resident Shop Project. This project was approved by Mr. J. C. Williams, State Director for the National Youth Administration in Texas.

The youths participating in this project will be afforded the opportunity of receiving pre-employment training in sheet metal, automotive mechanics, machine work, electric welding, oxy-acetylene welding, painting and finishing, blue print reading and wood-working.

Hugh A. Gaunt, a graduate of the Ross State Teachers College and named Project Superintendent and H. A. Tillett, a graduate of Rice Institute is instructor in the shop.

A mayor, city council and chief of police were elected by the project workers in their first meeting and a constitution and by-laws was approved for the new government of the participants. This constitution could be amended by two-thirds majority and certain penalties were approved that would be assessed against those violating the existing laws.

The National Youth Administration in approving and aiding the operation of this project believe it to be a step in the right direction to in part furnish industry with apprentices that will not be a burden on industry during their period of learning a trade. It is hoped that this will in measure reduce the number of seasonal migrants that have burdened the industry in the past. This type project will furnish training to many that would not otherwise receive such an opportunity.

OIL SHUTDOWN WILL CONTINUE IN NOVEMBER

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—Saturday and Sunday shutdowns of Texas oil fields were ordered continued in November in a prorotation order of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Daily production was set at 1,709,272 barrels daily. The eight day closing will reduce this to an equivalent of 1,279,653 barrels on the basis of full time operation.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines estimates for market demands is 1,371,000 barrels daily.

A threat that Texas oil fields might be "opened up" to regain lost markets was issued recently by Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of the commission. He contended recent price reductions announced by oil companies were not justified.

In issuing the order today Thompson called on refiners for "a little showing of business statesmanship."

"The oil situation is working itself out," he said. "It would help greatly if refiners would work off gasoline and fuel oil stocks, rather than continually refining unneeded gasoline."

Cooperation Upon Wage-Hour Law Seen By Andrews

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer Andrews expressed belief today that employees thrown out of work by closing of law-wage industries would be re-employed "by decent employers" when the "chiseling minority quits business."

He did not indicate concern over scattered shutdowns. He predicted last week there would be such suspensions and asserted they were attempts to "intimidate" him from enforcing the law. Andrews was asked if the child labor provisions now made it unnecessary to ratify the child labor amendment to the U. S. Constitution. He believed the amendment is necessary, "than for no other reason than its moral effect."

The buying of peanuts, said Weekes, is probably at its height but will continue for 60 to 90 days.

Eastland will mark the cooperative's tenth warehouse. Others are at Fort Worth, Ranger, Rising Star, Cisco, Gorman, DeLeon, Comanche, Tolar and May. Total number of tons of peanuts bought thus far at all warehouses is 5,000. Last year, with only warehouses at Rising Star, Ranger and Brownwood, the season's total was 111 tons.

Weekes' and Gwaltney's headquarters are in room 302 of the Eastland National Bank building. The association is a cooperative, working as a division of the AAA, buying and storing the surplus peanut crop to stabilize the market.

The association uses RFC funds and operates through the community credit division of the AAA. There are no crop reduction restrictions, but association members must pay 7 1/2 cents for each acre in peanuts.

Lumber Dealer Has A Peculiar Hobby

FORT WORTH, Texas.—A 44-year-old Fort Worth lumber dealer has a most unique—and most treacherous—hobby.

He collects traffic tickets. Not just any old tickets, but the kind that they put on his automobile for illegal parking, speeding, and similar offenses.

Two amazed traffic officers, Cody Rodgers and J. K. Johnson, called upon the "collector" recently to find out why he hadn't answered a summons. They discovered that he hadn't answered 36 summonses issued him within the last year. Thirty-four were for illegal parking, one was for speeding and one for defective lights.

Besides that, the officers learned, the violator had about 50 other cases on appeal from the corporation court to the county court.

So the lumber dealer went to jail and was released again on $100 bond.

We Should Learn to Speak the Language of Europe

It is nearly a quarter of a century since the United States had its first great row over military preparedness.

When Woodrow Wilson launched a huge naval building campaign shortly before America's entrance into the World War, the drive received a very mixed reception.

Now we are coming up to a new preparedness campaign; and this time it is doubtful that there will be one-tenth of the opposition there was before.

It is true that we have been spending huge sums on our army and navy for several years. Both arms of the service are probably far more nearly ready for war than at any previous time in American history.

For international relations today are conducted, unhappily enough, over the sharp edge of a drawn sword.

So a program of re-armament does not mean that we are getting ready to fight somebody. It simply means that we are making certain that our voice shall be heard if it becomes necessary for us to speak.

The great dictator nations are compelled to look ceaselessly for new resources to exploit, new fields to penetrate, new areas to bring under their sway.

And with the world in its present state, a full measure of preparedness is the only valuable kind of peace insurance.

We have no wish to meddle in Europe's quarrels. But if Europe thrusts a quarrel on us, we should be ready with the right sort of answer.

Picture Cooking School entitled "Star in My Kitchen" will be the real community attraction for three days at the Connellee Theatre starting Wednesday, Oct. 26. This fascinating and different cooking school is open entirely free to every woman in town, and Eastland merchants extend this last invitation to join the home-making lessons and jolly entertainment for at least one day. The Motion Picture Cooking school will be a practical rally of home-makers to contribute fresh perspective for the "same old job," the monotonous day-in-and-day-out job, yet the most important business in the world. Just as men have their annual conventions, where they listen to lectures from specialists, local women will have their convention to consider home-making problems. Just as fresh inspiration for the old job is one of the by products of the familiar cooking school, which presents a lecturer in a model kitchen, so are new ideas and keen incentive born in the film class for home-makers, with its novel approach and modern setting. No "false-front" camera-beautiful kitchens satisfied these specialists. They insisted on working in complete, compact, modern kitchens, which actually reflect more scientific ingenuity and careful planning than any living room.

HALLOWEEN witches are in training for the night of October 31st. Prepare to entertain them. Halloween is about the biggest party night in the year, so plan a spook party now. Want a dessert with a goblin look? Then select something like this:

Hob Goblins
(Makes 8)

Two packages orange flavored gelatin dessert, 1 1-3 cups boiling water, 1-2 cup seedless raisins, 1 cup boiling water, 3 large oranges, whole cloves, 8 marshmallows.

Pour 1 1-3 cups boiling water over raisins. Let stand for 15 minutes. Cool and drain. Set oranges on stem end and cut slice off tops. With sharp knife cut around at edge of white skin and remove as much pulp as possible. Scrape out remaining pulp and juice with spoon. Put through strainer and press out juice. Measure 3 cups. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add orange juice. Chill until it begins to thicken and add raisins. Meanwhile notch tops of orange shells and make faces with cloves. Fill with thickened gelatin, set in the cups or muffin tins and chill until firm. Top each with marshmallow for cap.

Home made favors, with black cats, bats and witches add to the Halloween fun. Try these inexpensive ones to begin with.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Corn Grid-dle cakes, crisp bacon, syrup, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, baked beans, brown bread, cherry tartlets, tea, milk.

DINNER: Mixed green salad, chicken fricassee, steamed rice, string beans, hob goblins, coffee, milk.

Bat Box Lanterns

Box lanterns are evolved from any discarded boxes around the house. Cut eyes, ears and wings, to resemble a big black bat. Paste colored tissue behind the features and illuminate with candles or electric lights.

Witch Snapper

Make 6-inch cylinder of cardboard. Insert mottos, caps, and noise makers. Cover with orange crepe paper. Cut the ends with spool wire, and stretch to form a ruffle. Cut hands of white paper and paste to wires that run through the snapper protruding at either end. Use either seal witch head or cut face from white paper, drawing features in black ink. The hat is made of black mat stock and pasted in place.

Witch Whistle

Paste witch seals on the whistle and at one end wire on slashed end to the form of a broom.

Does your house run you? If so, why not accept the Eastland Telegram's invitation to join the neighborhood cooking school party, starting Wednesday, Oct. 26, 9:00 a. m. in Connellee Theatre. Remember the dates and opening hour: Oct. 26, 27, 28, at 9:00 a. m.

TRIPLE-CREAMED!

OLD FASHIONED CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE

1 1/2 cup Spry 2 cups sifted flour (cake flour preferred)
1/4 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar 2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder

W. K. Gordon and Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company Celebrate Two Anniversaries During October, 1938

1. Thurber, Texas, as it appeared several years ago, a friendly, busy little mining town.
 2. The famous McClesky well that came in a gusher, opening the Ranger oil field in 1919.
 3. An old Thurber landmark.
 4. The Texas Pacific Coal Company's first coal mine.
 5. The "old Opera House" presented leading road shows.
 6. W. K. Gordon of Fort Worth.

FORT WORTH, Texas.—"The Father of Ranger." W. K. Gordon who for fifty years has been an important part of the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company will observe two anniversaries this month—each with a hard days work. The beginning of the Ranger Oil boom twenty years ago marked the inauguration of the most dramatic era in the history of Texas commercial development. This month his company also is observing the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company at Thurber in October of 1888.

Gordon's persistence, determination and faith led to the discovery well of the Ranger field which opened up a vast source of wealth for the people of West Texas and contributed largely to the present proud position of Texas in the petroleum industry. That determination and energy is still evident in the "retired oil man" who fills every day with activity and accomplishment.

In October, 1918, the McClesky well drilled on a Texas Pacific Coal company lease was brought in—a gusher. And Gordon was a happy man.

As manager of the coal company, he had urged the officers to permit him to drill for oil but because of adverse reports from visiting geologists, he had not been permitted to follow through with his ideas.

"It was necessity that forced me into looking for oil," Gordon said in relating the trials and tribulations that preceded the discovery of oil on the Texas Coal company leases.

"Labor trouble brought on the organization of unions. Union wages ran the production of coal so high that the railroads were threatening to put in oil burners because of our prices. We just had to have oil and I knew where to get it," he said.

"As a mining engineer, I'd studied geology and couldn't help knowing what certain formations indicated. Geologists from out of the state came down, looked it over shook their heads and made adverse reports. They didn't have the nerve it takes for wildcatting but I knew the ground too well to give up, and besides we just had to have oil," he related.

"Finally Edgar Marston, then president of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company, a man who had confidence in me gave me an O. K. on a 'go ahead' program and I stepped out with a leasing crew headed by Luther Davenport."

"After some activity around the mine at Thurber, a delegation came over from Ranger. There was a preacher, the county officials and another leading citizen who asked me why we didn't come around Ranger to spend some money. They'd had a long drought and things were slow. We came to an agreement of twenty-five cents an acre lease price and a one-eighth royalty.

"I drove the stakes down my-oil to supply the railroads right at the time they were converting their coal burners into oil." With the discovery of oil the price of T-P stock went from $141.00 to the huge price of $2,040.00. At this time the company also changed its name to the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company.

Born in Spotsylvania, Virginia, and educated as an engineer in Fredericksburg, he came to Texas in 1889, one year after Col. R. D. Hunter of the Hunter-Evans Cattle company of St. Louis had started the Texas Pacific Coal Mine at Thurber. Gordon was engaged as a civil engineer by the Colonel but his industry soon put him into the position of mining engineer. In 1900 he became manager of the mine.

For half a century he watched Thurber grow from a mining camp to a village, then to the most important town between Fort Worth and El Paso, only to drop again to almost a ghost town with the closing of the mines which came after the oil boom.

He is known as the best loved executive to work in the mines. His fairness, kindness and consideration endeared him to his people who rejoiced with him in his triumph of the Ranger discovery field.

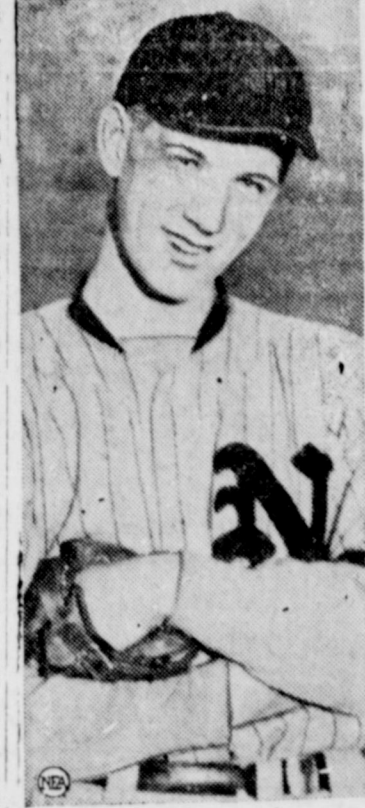

Today as chairman of the board of directors of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company, he is proud to have been a part in the company's pioneering of Texas natural resources. Other officers of the company are: J. R. Penn, President; John Hancock, Vice President and General Counsel; R. Seibel, Treasurer and Secretary; O. E. Mitchell, Vice-President in charge of Sales; C. E. Yager, Vice-President in Charge of Exploration.

Taxpayers' Revolt Against Deadheads Started Over State

By United Press
 FORT WORTH, Texas.—A revolt of taxpayers against "deadheads" who ignore their taxes is underway in Texas, State Comptroller George H. Sheppard of Sweetwater told the Texas Tax-Assessor - Collectors convention here.

"Seventy-five per cent of the taxpayers are now bearing the full burden of government," he said. "Recently I have heard many of them complain, at my office, that they are tired of bearing this burden."

"Nothing is undermining government more than non-compliance with the existing revenue laws."

W. Lee O'Daniel, non-voting Democratic nominee for governor was not mentioned by name, but Sheppard and two men who will be railroad commissioners urged stronger poll tax laws instead of abolition of the tax. Sheppard is G. A. (Jerry) Sadler, nominee for railroad commissioner, both ask for stricter collection of the poll tax.

Railroad Commissioner Lon Smith said he thought "that man should be allowed to hold office without a poll tax receipt."

CHAPTER XIX

THE Millbay district looked much less fantastic to Tait in the early morning than it had in the moonshadows when the taxi driver had almost given his life in the discord of a cat's cry...

"This is it," Tait said to Dannie Feeley as the latter drove his car alongside. Feeley eyed it with distaste. "A spot for murder, all right. You know, Bob, if you'd come here alone and they'd done you it might have been days before anybody found out about it. Nobody comes down here but the best of the bums, and it hasn't been on the patrol chart for five years."

"CAUTIOUSLY they climbed the narrow staircase, and Tait showed Feeley where the candle had been burning. The Irishman nodded. "I don't think it could have been your fancy blond, Tait. A woman doesn't usually carry the stub of a candle around."

"I don't," said Feeley. "At least not yet." He started clomping up the staircase with his machine gun. "These your tracks?"
