If Peace Was Saved, Why Do They Re-Arm?

If the four-power settlement of the Czech problem was worth all it cost because it brought peace to Europe, it is mortally queer that the re-armament program should be enjoying such thriving health right now.

A full fortnight after Mr. Chamberlain's dearly-bought "solution" to the crisis had gone into the records, a United Press survey showed that all the powers involved were polishing their guns just as feverishly as if the crisis were still ahead of them.

London announces that Britain will insist on parity with the strongest air force that may be created in Europe. Sir John Simon declares that preparedness is even more essential to Britain now than it was in 1914.

Simultaneously, Berlin declares that Germany has the world's strongest air force and aims to keep on having it, and German spokesmen point to the British declaration as proof that Germany must continue to rearm at top speed.

At the same time France votes $62,000,000 for new weapons and plans to extend the Maginot line all along the Swiss border. Belgium, meanwhile, announces a plan to throw a chain of heavy forts along both the French and German frontiers. And Russia goes ahead with an expensive plan to arm and defend the Ukraine.

Now all of this does not sound precisely like the inauguration of an era of peace and understanding. Bombing planes, tanks, warships and new army corps cost money, and in the ordinary course of things a nation does not buy them unless it figures it may have to use them. This new wave of re-armament is the clearest possible indication that the war-danger is not past.

This hardly jibes with all the fine things that were said after Chamberlain's last talk with Hitler. Yet there is nothing particularly surprising about it, after all. The world was tremendously relieved when the Czech crisis passed off without producing an immediate war; in its relief it assumed that the problem had been settled instead of merely being postponed. Now it is beginning to see that it made a mistake.

If the Czech settlement had been achieved by a process of honest, straightforward negotiation, things might be different. But it wasn't. Force gained the victory there just as truly as if battle had actually been joined. Hitler got what he set out to get by threatening war. The settlement was a triumph for militarism and a clear-cut defeat for the theory that national quarrels should not be settled by force.

What is happening now is simply the logical sequel. The way the Czech crisis was "solved" served notice on all Europe that—for the immediate future, at least—might makes right. The inevitable result is that the continent's progress toward a catastrophic war has been accelerated.

The N. L. R. B. May Get a Little Breathing Spell Now

By HARRY GRAYSON

By JERRY BRONFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

THERE is a general renaissance in kicking this fall. More than ever the punt is being used as an offensive rather than a defensive weapon.

Booters the country over are hitting the coffin corner from 45 yards out . . . and better. Football certainly isn't a waiting game in this day of high explosive offensive fireworks, but a team with an accomplished kicker can afford to boot the opposition back on its heels time and again and wait for a break.

Good punters are found in every section of the country but particularly in the midwest have the results been outstanding. At this point there may not be another Harry Kipke, Elmer Layden, or Ollie Olson in sight, but the trend is to better kicking all the way around, rather than just a remarkable booter every 500 miles.

One midwest punter is so good, in fact, that he kicked his team into defeat. Mike Kabealo of Ohio State kicked 62 yards against Southern California, giving Granny Lansdell plenty of time to shove the throttle to full speed ahead on his 85-yard touchdown jaunt before Buckeye linemen could get close to him.

GEORGE RETTINGER, Illinois sophomore fullback, averaged 47 yards on his first seven punts this season.

Bernie Jefferson, Northwestern's Negro triple-threat, is the most consistent booter the Wildcats have had since Ollie Olson. Johnny Pingel, considered the greatest ever to toe the ball for Michigan State, not only gets them off far but in an amazingly short time. Few of his attempts have been blocked in three years of play.

Low Brock of Purdue, who does his kicking with his left foot, hits the coffin corner with unerring accuracy, and manages to get distance as well. Against Minnesota he got one away for 83 yards—70 of which were in the air.

The east has topnotch kickers in Steve Kazlo of Fordham, Torbert Macdonald of Harvard, Ray Carnely of Carnegie Tech, John McLaughry of Brown, and Lem Cooke of Navy.

Critics chant the praises of North Carolina State's Art Rooney, a triple-threat whose punting kept mighty Alabama in a worried frame of mind. The Crimson Tide has quite a kicker itself in George Zivich.

LITTLE Davie O'Brien of Texas Christian is one of the better kickers in the southwest, with Dick Todd of Texas A. and M. also listed in the expert class.

Stanford would be worse off than it is if it weren't for Bill Paulman. California gets better than average results from Dave Anderson.

A good kicker who can keep the ball away from the opposing safety man can gain 10 yards on every exchange. Keeping the pigskin from the grasp of a speedy, slipper-shipped ball carrier is one of the tests of a punter. It doesn't do much good to kick 45 yards unless the safety man unless a club has a pair of ends fast enough to get downfield ahead of or with the ball.

Nor does it do much good to get off a 50-yard spiral from the 20-yard line. The net gain after being returned to the playing field on a touchback is 10 yards.

Trip to Dallas Fair Described By Four-H Boy

L. V. Mauney member of the Gorman Boy's 4-H Club, who with seven other Eastland County 4-H Club boys, that attended the 4-H Club Fair last week, writes the following account of his trip.

I might say in the beginning that this trip to the 4-H Club Boys encampment held in connection with the State Fair of Texas was one of the best trips that I have made since I have been a 4-H club member. I won this four day all expense trip to the Dallas Fair on my peanut demonstration this year which made an average yield of fifty three bushels of peanuts per acre.

I met the following boys at the Eastland depot on Monday, Oct. 17th: L. C. Love, Davigh Bryant, Neil Eaves, Vernon Bennett, Howard Himmen, Jack Walker and Assistant County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart. We got on the 11:59 train and left for Dallas. We are former Scouts of Ranger, are candidates for Boy representative to the Student Council of the Senior Class at John Tarleton College, Stephenville.

Mullin Members of Troop No. 46 of Mullin and officers of the Troop are erecting a flag pole on the high school grounds. Scouts will raise and lower the flag each day.

Blanket Rev. H. D. Christian, pastor of Blanket Baptist church, has taken the Scoutmastership of Troop No. 35. Rev. Christian is an enthusiastic Scouter and a tireless worker, therefore, we are sure that happy Scouting Days are here for these boys.

Comanche Mr. Noble Wright, teacher in Comanche schools, has accepted the Scoutmastership of Troop No. 21. He and his Scouts are working out a good fall program.

4:00 p. m. Saturday afternoon for an all night hike. They reported having had a worthwhile and profitable time.

The Boy Scouts of Breckenridge will have a booth at the Stock Show in that city Friday and Saturday, October 28th and 29th.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germy laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

That Old Man Winter Is Here Again

The first blizzard of winter wasn't fooling when it swept across Minnesota, Wisconsin and northern Michigan, paralyzing transportation and communication. This scene near Prentice, Wis., shows broken telegraph poles and wires down along the snow-covered highway. Snow was eight inches deep in some sections.

viewed in Dallas at 3:40 in the afternoon, where we were joined by several other 4-H Club Boys from other parts of Texas. We went to the 4-H Club building where we were met by Mr. L. L. Johnson, State Boys' Club Agent, and Mr. J. W. Potts, Assistant State Boys' Club Agent. We registered and were assigned beds to use while attending the encampment.

We were given our meals in the building which was formerly the Black Forest during the Centennial. On Monday night were given a picture show in the 4-H Club building on the subject 4-H Club activities in Texas.

The boys were lined up and groups were selected according to ages. Twenty five boys composed a group, and a county agent was assigned to each group.

After the organization work we went to the livestock department, where we watched them judge Jersey cattle. We saw some of the Eastland County 4-H Club heifers judged. From the livestock department we went to visit the agricultural building where we saw the many exhibits from the various counties. That afternoon we visited the Dallas zoo as well as a cotton manufacturing concern. Tuesday night was spent on the midway.

Wednesday Following breakfast we were allowed to visit the different departments until ten o'clock and then we went to the band shell where we had a 4-H Club program.

Following this program we went to the Castle of Foods building where we watched the Eastland County and Dallas County 4-H Club Dairy demonstration teams give their dairy demonstrations, and then off to the Golden Jubilee Follies. Wednesday night we were allowed to visit the individual booths and take in the midway.

Thursday After breakfast Bozo, an educated dog, was presented to the boys. This dog could add, subtract, multiply, read a person's mind and many other things. After this program we went to see the things we had not seen before at the fair.

We left the fair grounds at 11:30 and caught the westbound train at 12:25. We arrived in Eastland at 4:38 Thursday afternoon, ending one of the most wonderful trips I had ever made.

Quacksmen Sought in Jewel Theft

'Twas a fine October day in New York, so Mrs. Marion Whitehead, Pierce, right, former wife to both a beverage millionaire and to a heir of a woolens fortune, strolled in Central Park and fed peanuts to the ducks. Of a sudden one ingrate of a quacker snapped at her hand, and when she looked down a $10,000 black pearl was gone from the ring, shown on her hand. Her cries brought park guards, police to the scene. A number of duck suspects, pictured at left, were arrested and held under observation.

14 Got Out Alive as Pilot Landed This Burning Plane

This charred wreckage was all that remained of an Eastern Airlines plane a few minutes after Pilot Dave Hissong landed the flaming ship near Montgomery, Ala., without serious injury to any of his 11 passengers, himself or two others of the crew. The plane, headed for New York, caught fire soon after leaving the Montgomery airport about midnight. In the searing heat of the control room, Hissong fought to control the ship as fuselage burned and one motor dropped out. In the dark and on a strange field, he brought the plane down, crew and passengers scrambling to safety as flames licked the ship.

ARCHIE MACKKEY, the gossip
columnist, returned and merry, collected Bob Tait cheerfully.

Archie Mackey shrugged. "If you insist. But in the Golden Bowl the Pacific-Plaza ice water costs most as much as a highball, but you insist . . ."

MACKKEY snapped the lighter shut, slipped it into his pocket. "You wouldn't kid an old friend in the newspaper business, would you? I have it straight from the feed box that you're in Lud Dombey case up to your ears."

"I won't print it, then, Mr. Tait.
I'd like having my neck broken,
but you can tell me off the record."

"I can't, though. I don't know anything," Tait fingered the frosty glass of ice water which . . .

"You know her then?"
"Of course, I know everybody."

"It's as good as done," Archie Mackey said.

"The blond head nodded almost imperceptibly. Mackey smiled at Tait. "There you are. In a moment you'll be acquainted with Nelda Starr. But I warn you . . ."

"Miss Nelda is what is known locally as dynamite. She is a spoiled, unstable creature who creates considerable trouble for the male of the species. May I inquire your interest in the lady?"

"I'm not going to buy her any,"
Tait said.

"What did Luden Dombey buy for her?"

"She must have considered Lud Dombey a fine young man."

"What was that?"

"A spot in his band. Nelda Starr wanted to be a swing singer, featured in Lud Dombey's Swingsters."

"Well . . ." he said slowly. "Progress isn't made in a straight line.
She might make it yet."

As he spoke, "Torchy" Stephens brought down his baton in a wide arc and the band lapsed into a sudden silence which left the "whackies" gasping in their erratic tracks.

"How are you?" Archie Mackey said. "Where's your handsome partner?"

Nelda Starr shrugged and the slight gesture disposed of the dark man with whom she had been dancing. "Archie—please let me have a Martini."

"Of course, Miss Starr, this is a very old friend of mine. Bob Tait."

AS he acknowledged the introduction and held the Starr girl's chair out from the table,
Tait caught that faint perfume.

"You see, managing a swing band isn't really in my line. I'm doing it only until—until Mrs. Dombey can find someone else."

"It's a lovely band," said Nelda Starr dreamily. "A lovely band,
. . . but don't you think it needs
a singer?"

"Really?" But, for the moment Nelda Starr said nothing more on the subject. She waited in silence for her Martini, sipped it delicately, and then said: "Tell me,
Mr. Tait. Why doesn't 'Torchy' ever play 'The Cat's Meow'?"

"I imagine that in deference to Dombey, he's giving it a rest. You like the piece?"

Nelda closed her eyes. "It was wonderful," she said. "When Lud got into the groove on that song it was like nothing human."

Watching her there, with her eyes closed, her head tilted slightly toward the ceiling, Tait heard her words re-echo in his brain:
it was like nothing human.

SQUASH the high cost of fresh vegetables. You'll find yellow, green, acorn, Hubbard and marrow squashes waiting to help you.

Stuffed Acorn Squash (Serves 6)

Three small acorn squashes, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon onion, 2 cups celery, 1-4 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup nuts, 1-2 cup grated American cheese, 6 slices sweet red pepper.

Wash and split squash in half lengthwise; scrape out seeds and pulp. Melt butter and with it brush the inside of each piece of squash, sprinkle with salt, pepper and nutmeg. To the remaining melted butter add the chopped onion and celery, brown slightly, add milk and 1-2 teaspoon salt and cook for 5 minutes. Add chopped nuts and grated cheese. Fill the hollow of each half of squash with this dressing. Place in a shallow heat resistant glass baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) for about 1 hour. Garnish with slices of red sweet pepper and parsley.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, dry cereal, scrambled eggs, nut muffins, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Escalloped cauliflower, crisp bacon, baked apple cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, broiled lamb chops, baked potatoes, stuffed acorn squash, plum pie, coffee, milk.

Baked Hubbard Squash with Pineapple

(Serves 4 to 6)

One medium Hubbard squash, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup crushed pineapple, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cut squash in half, remove the seeds and steam until tender. Peel it and cut into strips about 1-4 inch thick. Grease a baking dish. Arrange a layer of squash on bottom, sprinkle with brown sugar salt and pineapple. Dot with butter. Repeat layers until squash is used up. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 hour.

Zucchini, or Italian squash, is good sauteed in olive oil. Scrub but do not peel. Cut crosswise into thin cartwheels. Heat olive oil, add a little garlic, then saute the zucchini, turning frequently Season with salt and oregano.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—In 1630 the Pilgrim Fathers of the Massachusetts colony, faced with a labor shortage, passed a law providing that "carpenters, joiners, bricklayers, sawyers and thatchers shall not take above two shillings a day."

In 1938, on Oct. 24, in a period of great unemployment, a federal law will go into effect which sets a minimum hourly wage rate of 15 cents and a maximum work week of 44 hours, with time and one-half for overtime.

The law is the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Employers and employees still are asking which workers are covered and which are not. Aside from certain exemptions made in the law, the Wage and Hour Division in general classifies those covered as:

"1. Employees engaged in producing, manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting or in any manner working on goods moving in interstate commerce.

"2. Employees engaged in any process or occupation necessary to the production of such goods.

"3. Employees engaged in interstate transportation, transmission or communication."

Further interpretation by the division's general counsel says that except for the stated exemptions, "all the employees, in a place of employment where goods shipped or sold in interstate commerce were produced, are included in the coverage."

Employees in manufacturing, processing or distributing plants, "a part of whose goods moves in commerce out of the state in which the plant is located," are covered.

Employees of a plant which received raw materials from within the state and sells goods only within the state are not covered by the act.

Beginning Oct. 24, 1939, the statutory work week will be 12 hours and after the second year of its act, only 40 hours. The minimum hourly wage rate will be raised from 25 to 30 cents, a year from now, and will be pushed to 40 cents on Oct. 24, 1945.

Due to meager funds, less than half the division's 12 regional offices will be opened this fall.

Employees may bring suit for unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime, and employers violating wage and hour requirements are liable for such sums plus an equal amount to cover damages, court costs and attorney fees.

It will be unlawful to ship or sell in interstate commerce any goods produced where a person was employed in violation of the wage or hour sections, to violate the wage or hour sections, to discriminate against any complaining employee, to fail to keep the required records or to falsify any required record.

Penalties are a fine up to $10,000 and imprisonment for up to six months, the latter for second offenders only.

Specifically exempted from both wage and hour provisions are agricultural workers, seamen, employees of airplanes, street car, motor bus, interurban railways and of weekly or semi-weekly newspapers of less than 3000 circulation; persons in bona fide executive, professional or local retailing capacity, or outside salesmen, employer of any retail or service establishment, most of whose selling or servicing is in interstate commerce; those engaged in fishing and the fishing industry; persons employed in the area of production to handle, prepare or can agricultural dairy or horticultural products for market.

Employees of railway, motor bus and truck carriers regulated by the I. C. C. are exempt from the hour rules, as are workers in the first processing of milk or cream into dairy products, in ginning and compressing cotton, the processing of cotton seed and the processing of agricultural products into sugar or syrup.

There is a bit of sentiment attached to the living room of Wakefield's picturesque Old Florida cottage on a hill above the Florida at Austin. (As these lines are written, by the way, Major Wakefield is recovering in a Fort Worth hospital after undergoing operation for appendicitis.)

Wakefield— noted newspaperman and publicist—had been under fire for two weeks during the World War and when he and his men were relieved and given a reprieve in the peaceful surroundings of a French village, quarters were assigned to him in one of the larger cottages. After days of nights of mud, dugouts, barbed wire and shell-fire, Wakefield entered the living room. High ceilings were rafters; big comfortable chairs were about; a table was covered with immaculate linen and with beautiful chinaware gleaming silver; and, in the big, old-fashioned fireplace, a fire was blazing.

And so, when he was planning his own cottage in Austin, Wakefield reproduced—as nearly as memory would permit—the house he remembered so well from the war.

Answering A. M., Aspermont: "I'm not sure what Governor Allred's favorite song is; probably, though, it's "I Like a Parade."

J. D. Hedick, long in the service of the state at Austin, has many picturesque expressions. He described a skinny fellow: "His Adam's apple has an eight-inch plunge."

In Eastland a lone placard from last summer's campaign is still on an electric light pole which was used by a mob ten years ago in lynching the Santa Claus bandit.

One of my favorite stories (and it happens to be true): In the early days in the Mansker Lake community, near Hogtown, in Eastland county, an old justice of the peace tried a man for carrying a pistol and sentenced him to three years in the state penitentiary. The constable set out in a buggy with his prisoner. As they were eating lunch in Stephenville, a lawyer asked the officer: "What are you taking him to Huntsville for?"

"Three years."

"I mean for what offense?" the lawyer persisted.

"For carrying a pistol."

"Good heavens!" the attorney exclaimed. "That's only a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine and, at most, a jail sentence. If he was accused of something that would subject him to prison, he would have to be tried before a district judge in Eastland; your jurisdiction in a felony."

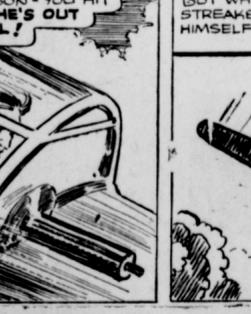

So the constable returned to Mansker Lake, released the man, and reported to the old squire:

"That lawyer said you didn't have jurisdiction."

"Jurisdiction, h—! It happened right here in my precinct, didn't it?" the old justice snorted.

"I'm going to resign."

ALLEY OOP

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

AIR AT THE SEASHORE CONTAINS NO MORE OZONE THAN THAT AT OTHER PLACES... IN SPITE OF A COMMON BELIEF.

WHY ARE VULTURES BALD-HEADED? ANSWER: It is a common rule that carrion-eating birds are bald, and this prevents the fouling of feathers as the bird reaches deep into the interiors of dead animals.

There may be nothing to it, but a cynical author tells that the recent blast from the Russian aviators at Col. Lindbergh was merely a publicity stunt to draw attention to Mrs. Lindbergh's new book titled, appropriately enough, "Listen, the Wind."
