FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (U.S.)—A pilot kept his crippled American Airlines plane aloft for more than 30 miles in a desperate bid for a safe landing yesterday but crashed just short of his goal.

All 30 persons aboard were killed. "Just a little more and he would have made it," said an eyewitness, Lt. A. J. Brewster of Ft. Leonard Wood. "The plane came in very low over a housing area, then banked steeply and headed for the post airport. "One engine was trailing flame and smoke. Then over a wooded area, the right wing fell off. "The airliner crashed on the edge of this sprawling Army post. "It was the second time within 10 months the pilot—Capt. Hugh Barron, Tulsa, Okla.—had tried for an emergency landing. Last Nov. 9 he was credited with saving the lives of 46 passengers on another crippled plane. "Most of the bodies in yesterday's crash were burned too badly for quick identification. "The twin-engine Convair, with 27 passengers and three crewmen, was only half a mile from the post's Forney Airport when it lost its right wing and plummeted into a heavily timbered gully. Hours later the wreckage was still smoldering. Numerous eyewitnesses at Lieber Heights, where some 6,000 people live, saw the plane streak overhead in sunny weather at an altitude estimated variously at from 200 to 500 feet. "Pvt. Beverly Streeter, a WAC from Asbury Park, N. J., said she saw the plane over the housing area seconds before the crash. "Flames were pouring from the engine, and the whole underside of the ship seemed swept by fire," she said. "It was terribly low but it was headed for the airport and we thought it might make it. "Then there was a series of muffled explosions. Sparks fell from the plane and it disappeared behind the woods. "Earlier, smoke was seen pouring from one of the engines at Lebanon, Mo., 30 miles away. Several other eyewitnesses reported seeing the right wing break from the plane. The wing was found on a hill a quarter of a mile from the main wreckage. "Army officials said the plane had been making a perfect landing approach to Forney Field's

FAST-MOVING SHOW

Muddy Arena Fails To Dampen Spirits At Big Spring Rodeo

A muddy arena failed to dampen the spirits of cowboy contestants Thursday night, and the second performance of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Rodeo came off without a hitch. A surprisingly large number of spectators crowded the stands to witness the exhibition, despite the nippy weather brought about by afternoon rain. People filled both sides of the bowl. Those who attended were rewarded with a fast-moving show which was sparked by hard riding and skill. Several of the opening night records were broken, and others are expected to fall in tonight's performance which begins at 8 p.m. Times set Wednesday by Big Spring's veteran champion, Toots Mansfield, fell by the wayside in Thursday's competition. Troy Fort of Lovington, N. M., tumbled in a 14.6-second calf roping performance to best Mansfield's Wednesday time of 16 seconds. And Nolan Fincher of Stephenville topped the Big Spring's cow milking time of 41.4 seconds with only 37.8. Fincher and the other wild cow milkers were handicapped by having to run in the four-inch mud of the arena, making his time even more remarkable.

The horse POCO MARIA, owned by C. C. Polien and ridden by Buster Welch, was able to rack up more points in the cutting horse contest Thursday night than had been made by any animal Wednesday. The horse's score was 148. D'Aun Young of Lovington, N. M., took top honors last evening in the cowboy's barrel race contest, rounding the clover loops in 18.6 seconds. Fastest time in the steer wrestling event went to Whit Keeney of Stephenville. Keeney downed his steer in 9.3 seconds. Times in this contest were generally longer than those Wednesday because the performers could not dig their heels into the mud for the three qualified in the Brahma bull riding contest. They were Roy Lee Wallace, Fredrick Brown, and Sam Armstrong. Brown also made a qualifying ride in the saddle bronc event, as did J. J. Like, Bill Watts, Bill Weeks, and Duda Smith. Six qualified in the bareback bronc riding contest. They were Bobby Cather, Neal Gay, Jess Ferguson, Clyde Frost, Buck LeGrand, and Fredrick Brown again. Places in the riding events will not be determined until all contestants have made one ride each. It was announced at rodeo headquarters this morning that all cowboys will have had one ride at the completion of tonight's performance.

Fast Slaughter, Jr. of Big Spring took second place last evening in the calf roping contest with a time of 16.7 seconds. Third place went to Mike Ward, with 17.8. Other times in the calf rope event were as follows: Johnny Leonard, 18.9; Ray Wharton, 25.5; Jack Riggs, 19.7; Louis Powers, 30; Sunny Edwards, 28; Clay Mann, 22.8; Elmer Carter, 24.1; Hardy Tadlock, 19; Dale Youres, 29.8; Dan Riggs, 18.7; Don McLaughlin, 20.9; Whit Keeney, 27.5 plus 19 for penalty; and Jim Bob Altizer, 17 plus 10 for penalty. In the Howard County calf roping contest Carl McKee had the best time of 21.2. Both the other contestants, Raymond McKee and Ira Rice, took a 10 second penalty for breaking the barrier. Rice's time was 32.9 and McKee's was 37.5. Second place in Thursday night's cowgirl barrel race went to Janelle McGilvray, whose 18.7 seconds was

Russians To Continue Study Of Blueprint Plan

Bulgarian Seeks Arms Compromise

MOSCOW (U.S.)—Premier Bulganin said today his government will continue to study President Eisenhower's plan would be ineffective "because our two countries comprise vast areas on which, if it were desired, one could hide anything one wanted to." The 1,500 deputies burst into laughter at this taken as a rejection of the plan. But President Eisenhower said later he did not feel Bulganin had closed the door to agreement on disarmament. Eisenhower said the United States will consider sympathetically Russian proposals along the same line with a determination to find a solution fair to both sides. Bulganin's remarks came during discussion of his report on the Geneva summit conference. In an address which would have been incredible a few years ago, Nikolai V. Tsitsin told the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) the Soviet Union has much to learn from foreigners and they could learn from the Russians. He rebuked those here who have expressed belief the Soviet Union knew everything and had "no need to learn anything from abroad."

Ike Plans To Offer Revised Inspection Idea

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—President Eisenhower plans to confront Russia soon with a new set of proposals for a disarmament inspection system. Soviet Premier Bulganin rejected yesterday Eisenhower's offer to trade military blueprints with the Soviet Union and to allow aerial surveys, but the President said he doesn't understand that the Premier closed the door on negotiation to end the arms race. And Russia's reported recent atomic test explosions do not necessarily mean any change in the Soviet's friendly attitude toward the West, Eisenhower said. He appeared at a news conference yesterday to be at least moderately optimistic that disarmament negotiations with Russia will eventually lead to agreements "fair ... to both sides."

"I see no other outstanding complaints which I have outlined time and again, and I have no idea that under existing circumstances there would be a change ... in our policy."

In this connection he said Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military information and mutual aerial inspection. Bulganin told the Supreme Soviet that Soviet Russia naturally prefers that its own disarmament proposal but nevertheless will not refuse to consider other sincere plans. "The Premier's proposal still is under consideration. The Soviet Union is trying to find ways to get the positions of the two sides closer together and find agreement," the Premier asserted. "Yesterday Bulganin told the Supreme Soviet President Eisenhower's plan would be ineffective "because our two countries comprise vast areas on which, if it were desired, one could hide anything one wanted to." The 1,500 deputies burst into laughter at this taken as a rejection of the plan. But President Eisenhower said later he did not feel Bulganin had closed the door to agreement on disarmament. Eisenhower said the United States will consider sympathetically Russian proposals along the same line with a determination to find a solution fair to both sides.

He spoke more sternly, however, on Red China and possible U. S. recognition of that country. He made clear he is not interested now in any future summit meeting on Far Eastern problems, and he said of recognition: "Several times I have stated that as long as Red China is branded as an aggressor by the United Nations, which it still is; due to the fact that its armies are in North Korea, we have no choice of our own (about recognition), and I don't see how the United Nations has a choice of its own. "There are other outstanding complaints which I have outlined time and again, and I have no idea that under existing circumstances there would be a change ... in our policy."

Now, these are matters that take long examination by experts. I don't understand that the Premier (Bulgania) closed the door, and I merely say we are ready to accept and examine any kind of system that looks fair to us and to both sides."

He engaged her in the beginning of developing methods by which we can tell, we can have great confidence, that the other fellow is doing (in disarming) exactly what he said he would do, and secondly, we would hope that this would be an approach toward real disarmament.

"Now, these are matters that take long examination by experts. I don't understand that the Premier (Bulgania) closed the door, and I merely say we are ready to accept and examine any kind of system that looks fair to us and to both sides."

'Baby X' Finds Her Real Mom

CHICAGO (U.S.)—Two years ago Chicago's "Baby X" was just one of some 200 tots in St. Vincent's Home. Then, she got the first break of her life—a paid-up educational insurance policy as a gift. Today, this same "Baby X" is smiling, curly-haired Kathleen Cullison. She is 2½ and she also has something most of the St. Vincent's young babies don't ever have, a mother.

Kathleen now has her real mom, Katherine, 28, from whom the baby was taken at birth. Mrs. Cullison battled heartache, misfortune and tuberculosis to be reunited with her baby. On Aug. 15, 1953, Harold Cummings of St. Paul, and his 1,100 employees of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance Co. literally reached into a playpen at St. Vincent's and, with the help of Miss Bernadine Healy and Sister Mary Alice of St. Vincent's staff "adopted" Kathleen. She then was known only as "Baby X."

Cummings placed a $15,000 educational insurance policy in this infant's tiny fist and told his tuberculous to be reunited with her baby. Water District Willing To Work Out Service To Lamesa

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District have kept open a door for negotiations with Lamesa in event the municipality should look to Lake J. B. Thomas as a source of domestic water supply. The board, meeting here Thursday, received a report from Fresser & Nichols, the district's consulting engineers, to the effect that the district would have enough water in sight to meet the projected demand of present customers and of Lamesa. No action was taken, but Robert T. Piner, president, was instructed to advise Mayor Bob Crawley of Lamesa that the district would be willing to see if satisfactory arrangements could be made if Lamesa should be interested. Previously, the board had said it might be interested, provided the engineering study was favorable, to selling water to Lamesa as a customer at the lake. Currently, however, Lamesa is a member of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority which proposes to develop a multi-city water supply on the Canadian River. Directors authorized the issuance of a deed of 100-ft. right-of-way to Scurry County for the road from the Big Spring-Snyder highway to the dam on Lake J. B. Thomas.

This would traverse two sections. The president or general manager were instructed to file an application with the State Board of Water Engineers for an extension of time on its Deep Creek presentation for a period of 2½ years from Aug. 14, 1954. The CRMWD currently is making studies on the quality and quantity of flow in Deep Creek in southern Scurry County.

Resolutions memorializing the services of two deceased members of the board, George Mims and George White, both of Big Spring, were adopted. A sub-lease between Ned Sanders and Lem Gresham for a boating concession was approved, and the board also approved disbursement of pro-rata shares of commissions on the district's comprehensive liability policy to the insurance exchanges in the three member cities.

An Air Force spokesman said the dead were 2nd Lt. Conrad J. Zuhalk, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Zuhalk, 1810 Franklin St., Greensburg, Pa., and First Lt. Elmer C. Bybee, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bybee of Walden, Colo.

Sleeping Sickness Victim Gets Party

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (U.S.)—Debbie Ann Hadfield, who has suffered from sleeping sickness for nearly nine months, is 3 today. There are ice cream, birthday cake and party favors at her home in this tree-shaded Chicago suburb—and, for the first time in many months, the laughter of small children. Debbie cannot taste the cake. And it is doubtful that she will hear the voices of her playmates. The little girl fell ill with sleeping sickness last Nov. 13. Released April 29 from Billings Hospital in Chicago, she lies in a semiconscious state at home. She is cared for by her mother Mrs. Jean Hadfield, 24, and two nurses. Mrs. Hadfield and her husband William planned the party in the hope that the voices of Debbie's friends might reach through the child's coma. "Maybe my child will react to the other children. Maybe God will grant her the power to see the children," Mrs. Hadfield said. Although Debbie's eyes are often open now, she does not see. But Mrs. Hadfield thinks the party might awaken a flicker of interest.

Con Turns Tables On Cops, Makes Off With Bloodhounds

ALLEN, Okla. (U.S.)—A 34-year-old life termer apparently has made good his escape from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary and he now has six searching bloodhounds with him. Six carloads of officers thought they had Louis Jones, 34, Ponca City, Okla., surrounded early today in brush country near Allen in southeastern Oklahoma. The six bloodhounds, which had been on Jones' tail, rushed into the area and the officers closed in, guns ready. However, when they converged, Jones had vanished—and the bloodhounds with him. The handler of the bloodhounds from the prison then confided to officers that Jones, who was serving life for first degree rape, had been a trusty at the prison and was assigned to handling the dogs. Several farmers later reported that they had seen Jones with the dogs, apparently happy at his heels, moving out of the area. Officers said one farmer told them he had talked to Jones and the escaped convict told him "I'm looking for that Jones who escaped from the prison." The farmer said it looked authentic since the bloodhounds were going along with the man.

Hurricane 'Connie' Threatens Puerto Rico

MIAMI, Fla. (U.S.)—Connie, now a dangerous hurricane with winds of 125 miles an hour whirling around its center, moved toward the Leeward Islands today and brought rich and populous Puerto Rico under a hurricane alert.

Second Offenses Of DWI Charged

Two felony cases have been filed in Justice Court charging second offense, driving while intoxicated. William Ray Bobbitt was charged Thursday afternoon. He had previously been charged in county court with driving while intoxicated, a misdemeanor charge. The felony charge filed Thursday alleges that Bobbitt had been convicted of driving while intoxicated once before at Kermit in Winkler County. The allegation states the offense occurred in August, 1947. Luke William Cabbage, Odessa, was charged this morning with second offense driving while intoxicated. He was arrested by police officers about 10:30 p.m. Thursday at Fourth and Scurry. It is alleged that he was previously convicted of driving while intoxicated in Midland on Feb. 1, 1953.

2 Men Die In Jet Plane Crash

FORT WORTH (U.S.)—Two men were killed yesterday when their jet trainer crashed near Grapevine Lake. An Air Force spokesman said the dead were 2nd Lt. Conrad J. Zuhalk, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Zuhalk, 1810 Franklin St., Greensburg, Pa., and First Lt. Elmer C. Bybee, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bybee of Walden, Colo.

Cashword Jackpot Goes Up; Everybody Missed

Man, how that money's mounting! That's the best answer to give to Cashword Puzzle workers—just to look to the jackpot next week. It's possible for someone to win as much as $47,500—and that ain't hay. Reason for the jackpot going up again is that, sure enough, there were no winners again this week. Some close ones, but none to fit the full solution. The puzzle man's idea of the definitions appear on Page 2. Entries totaled 6,622 this week. The figure is due to jump sharply, as that prize offer gets bigger. Base prize next week is $275, with a $50 bonus to regular subscribers of The Herald. And merchants offer as much as $150, and there's that $2.50 offered if the puzzle is not in an envelope. The point is— the money increases until somebody wins.

Safeway Officials Plead Innocent

FORT WORTH (U.S.)—Kansas City attorney Elton Marshall yesterday entered pleas of innocent for two Safeway Stores, Inc., officials under federal indictment for alleged anti-trust law violations. The pleas were entered for Lillian A. Warren, Oakland, Calif., and Earl Cliff, Dallas, before U.S. Judge Joe B. Dooley. The firm and the two individuals were indicted by a federal grand jury last month. The three-count indictment charged violation of the anti-trust laws by selling below cost.

FARM TOUR Buss For Russ Is Agenda Item

BROOKINGS, S.D. (AP)—Alexander Tulupnikov, glamor boy of the Soviet farm delegation, didn't mind the least little bit getting kissed simultaneously by two beautiful skating stars.

He smiled and looked right at home with blonde Kay Serratus on one side and brunette Sonya Kaye on the other.

Tulupnikov did not say: "Russia was never like this."

But he could have very well indeed. Tulupnikov is a member of the collegium of the Soviet Ministry of Agriculture. In the Soviet Union, agricultural economists do not pose for cameramen being kissed by ice ballerinas or any other kind of ballerinas.

Tulupnikov and eight other Soviet farm delegates were guests last night in Huron, S.D., at the show Holiday on Ice of 1955.

The Russians were flown by special plane from Brookings, where they had arrived for the night, to Huron and back again.

Also at the show was South Dakota's war ace, Gov. Joe Foss. He had helped see that the Soviet guests got to the show. He met them in the intermission and later at a reception in his and their honor. He welcomed them to South Dakota.

But for Tulupnikov and his colleagues today was their last day in this state. They had been touring its farmlands and seeing some of its cities for four days. By day's end they were to enter Minnesota for a continuation of their tour of U.S. farming.

The Russians set out this morning to see the work of South Dakota State College at Brookings. The schedule for their tour provided for visits by them to see no-till sheep at the college farm, progeny testing of beef breeding cattle at the cattle feeding station, a rammed earth poultry house, agronomy research, isotopes research and other advanced studies.

But as things were working out there was no longer any one simple group of the Soviet farm chiefs.

Alexander Yeshevsky, farm machinery expert, and Nikolai Bogach, chief of a machinery and tractor station — were in Minneapolis to see machinery factories.

The chief of the delegation, Valdimir Matskevich — was scheduled to arrive in Texas. Several other Russians, headed by Yuri Goulbash, were flying to Wyoming to see an Indian pov-wow at Sheridan and to get a glimpse of a roundup, branding and rodeo.

The Boyles Are Heading Home

Rep. Charles Boyle (D-Ill), with the help of a photographer, organized this "safar" in Washington as the congressman, Mrs. Boyle and their eight children prepared to start for their Chicago home by auto now that the Congress has adjourned. The children are, from left: Catherine, 1; Larry, 5; Mike, 6; Irene, 8; Rose, 9; Tom, 11; Mary, 12, and Pat, 14. In background is the Boyles' Washington residence.

Russ Guest To See N. Texas

FORT WORTH, (AP)—Russia's deputy minister of agriculture will confine his inspection of Texas farms and ranches to the North Texas area it was apparent today.

An itinerary announced last night for Vladimir Matskevich showed that the Russian official would make his headquarters here during the visit.

Matskevich was due at Amon Carter Field today at 1:30 p.m. (CST). Ted Martin, district agriculture agent for the Texas A&M extension service, said in announcing the arrangements.

After a press conference, Matskevich will be escorted to the Northwood Stock Farm near Saginaw, in northern Tarrant County. The stock farm is owned by J. M. North, editor of the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Then he will go to the J. V. Hampton Ranch in Southern Wise County.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Several Senate Democrats challenged President Eisenhower today to line up Republican support if he wants Congress to pass programs he terms vital to the nation's well-being.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday, "It would be completely futile on my part to say that in this . . . domestic field . . . we have been as successful in this past Congress as we should have been."

He said he has not dismissed the possibility that a special session might be needed to deal with highway legislation, but that he has made no decision.

When Congress quit Tuesday,

Demos Warn Ike To Line Up His Own Party If He Wants Support

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Several Senate Democrats challenged President Eisenhower today to line up Republican support if he wants Congress to pass programs he terms vital to the nation's well-being.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday, "It would be completely futile on my part to say that in this . . . domestic field . . . we have been as successful in this past Congress as we should have been."

He said he has not dismissed the possibility that a special session might be needed to deal with highway legislation, but that he has made no decision.

When Congress quit Tuesday,

most GOP leaders were discounting the likelihood of a special session. Eisenhower's plans to be out of Washington for most of the next month or more, announced shortly after his news conference, indicated there would be none before fall if then.

He said it was "absolutely vital" that the legislators act when they do return to Washington on school construction, health, highway and water resources legislation.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) said that if the President had been able to enlist Republican support he already would have on his desk measures calling for an expanded highway program and for federal aid in construction of school buildings.

"Any time he will get half the Republicans on the line, Congress will pass a health program," Kerr declared.

Kerr and Senators Monroney (D-Okla.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) condemned yesterday's action of the Federal Power Commission in granting the Idaho Power Co. permission to build three dams which would flood the site of the proposed Federal Hell's Canyon project on the Idaho-Oregon border.

All three called this action a blow to water resource development and suggested in separate interviews that Congress may act to rescind the order.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) agreed with Eisenhower that the Democratic-controlled Congress did not act on the proposals the President made.

"There is no question that the Congress gave better support to the President on foreign policy than on domestic matters," Mundt said. "About the only foreign policy issue on which he was not supported was his request for construction of an atomic-powered demonstration merchant ship."

Eisenhower told newsmen there had been "a complete appreciation of the need for bipartisan approach" to foreign policy. He said he thinks the whole record of the past two Congresses in that field "has been commendable, and certainly I for one am deeply grateful."

As for the domestic picture, he declared:

"America is today enjoying almost unprecedented prosperity . . . Now, if we are going to keep that kind of thing moving, it means that there must forever be action, not only in the economic and industrial field on the part of the individuals in our system of free enterprise, but government as well. . . ."

Pulling out of his pocket a list he had read to newsmen a month or so ago, he noted that he had then urged Congress to act before it quit on 13 subjects. He said only four of these had been enacted—military reserves, housing, foreign aid and minimum wage.

Swedes Irritated Over Mystery Subs

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Irritation is mounting in Sweden over recent frequent visits by unknown foreign submarines to Swedish coastal waters in the Baltic.

Swedish officials have suggested privately that the mysterious submarines could only belong to Russia, which keeps the major part of its more than 300 submarines in the Baltic.

Observers noted that the visits coincide with fresh indications that Russia is placing increased stress on submarines armed with atomic torpedoes and guided missiles in an "atomic age revision" of her naval construction program.

In an editorial today the newspaper Stockholm-Tidningen lashed out at what it called the "tactless" and "clumsy" naval war games of "flagless" foreign submarines along the Swedish coast.

It said "the many visits of foreign submarines in Swedish coastal areas are causing wonderment and even unrest in some quarters."

The submarines have been seen navigating both inside Swedish protected areas and in waters where a sledge is permitted under international law provided the warship shows its flag — which the subs do not.

Local observers attached considerable importance to an article by Soviet Adm. L. E. Valdimirski in the Moscow newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

He said both the striking power and the operational tasks of the submarine fleet had been vastly increased by the advent of atomic warheads for torpedoes and guided missiles.

"The submarine," he said, "is now capable not only of conducting its traditional operations against the enemy's communications lines but also of attacking targets on the shore. It can become extremely dangerous to his naval bases, ports and other targets."

Cowboy Song Star Faces Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—A $50,000 damage suit has been filed against Jimmy Wakely, singing and guitar-playing cowboy, by the mother of 18-year-old Anita R. Hayes, charging an attack "with force and violence."

Mrs. Theima R. Hayes said the alleged attack occurred April 25 while Miss Hayes was "lawfully in Wakely's Hollywood office," that it was unprovoked, and that it caused serious injury and mental shock.

Wakely is away on tour.

Tellers On Alert For Confidence Girls

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Bank tellers are on the alert for a redhead with a pony tail hairdo and a brunette who ask for paper money in exchange for rolls of quarters.

Six banks here and one in nearby Walnut Park have discovered that rolls so exchanged contained 40 slugs instead of 40 quarters.

Police said the girls, with a smiling, smooth approach, so far have collected $700.

Atomic Health Study Asked

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States has proposed that the U. N. collect and publish information on the effects of atomic radiation on human health.

Presumably most of the data would come from the United States, Britain and Russia—the only nations known to have conducted atomic tests—and from Japanese scientists who studied the fishermen victims of the Bikini fallout last year.

In a letter and memorandum delivered yesterday to the office of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. urged that the next U. N. Assembly vote the study. Lodge had announced June 22 at the U. N.'s 19th anniversary meeting in San Francisco that his government would make such a proposal.

Fourth Of Local Fishing Licenses Sold To Women

"The women are crashing into the fishing end of this 'man's world' in a big way, locally.

According to four city stores who sell fishing licenses, about 1,450 licenses have been sold here since Sept. 1 of last year, and around 25 per cent of these were purchased by or for women.

One of the stores reported that their percentage of women fishing licenses probably ran as high as 30 per cent while the others said "from 20 to 25 per cent" of their licenses were sold to women fishermen.

Fishing license sales are beginning to slow down considerably, say local stores, because the new licenses will come out Sept. 1. Most people prefer to wait for the new ones because a license bought now would only be good for one month and it would cost the same as one for a whole year.

Indications are that the vacation season accounts for the boom for licenses and most fans of this sport prefer distant fishing havens to local lakes.

SOLUTION

CASHWORD PUZZLE NO. 26

Explanation Of More Difficult Clues

CLUES ACROSS:

- The kind of Porch embodying the Greek style of architecture could well remind us of ancient Greece. The only Torch people are likely to associate with ancient Greece is the Olympic Torch; but the association here rests in the occasion and manner of its use, and not in the "kind of Torch" it happens to be.
- Aiding relatives is something you do (which may call for self-sacrifice). "Aiding relatives" gives no indication, from the clue, that they call for anything from you. It is what you do for them, if anything, that may call for self-sacrifice.
- The clue is always true of a Snob (considered purely as a Snob). A Snob, on the other hand, is very often justified—some people deserve to be Snubbed.
- Revenue best suits the clue. The clue speaks of seeing that it is exacted (presumably by someone else). This favors Revenue, since some people undoubtedly will want to see that customs officials, etc. do their jobs properly. Revengeful people will themselves exact a full Revenge.
- Marred is more apt. Certainly it was Marked by heavy casualties but the clue in singling out the "Charge of the Light Brigade" points up a great epic of valor whose glory was "Marred" by heavy casualties. Here the word Marred is preferred over Marked which could apply to many an ordinary military engagement.
- "He's likely to regret it" implies that he's likely to have trouble with his wife. Rife, then, is favored. Regarding Rule, no such likelihood can be presumed to exist, because his wife may be quite content to be Ruled.
- Rot best fits the clue. Rat would be more usual in the plural. You usually refer to Rats in a house; not to a Rat. Dry Rot is easy enough to detect.
- Gun fits the wording of the clue which says "after a while". It's a Gun that gets hot "after a while" and only "after a while". A man may find the Sun hot immediately.

CLUES DOWN:

- Topic, yes; but many people hate taking medicine, even when they need it. Also, "stimulating" is unnecessary for Tonic since all Tonics are stimulating.
- Chin is preferred since a kick on the Shin is quite a common occurrence in any soccer game and a player expects the occasional one.
- Stupid to refuse to take a Chance, but surely generous to say "keep the Change".
- Rubber is best. The word "merit" is properly used in connection with something good; one "merits" praise, but "deserves" (not "merits") condemnation. Rubber, therefore, is preferred to Robber.
- Ogre is best. An Ogre must either frighten a little girl to some degree, or not frighten her at all. An Ogre, not being a real-life person, is more the sort of thing that may seem a bit frightening.
- Matter is preferred. Matters may be discussed, of course, but "discussed" is rather a high-flown word for the sort of small-talk that is apt to go on about a Master.
- Retort is best. Since he is wise he may well Retort or reply to the violent speech, presumably of his opponent, but, being wise, he would not likely Retort to a violent speech himself.
- Mule is more apt. "As a pet" is the key phrase. But surely it would be strange to keep a Mule at all. It is not so very strange to keep a Mule, as a working animal, but it is a strange animal to keep "as a pet".
- Pat is best. If the 'Pat' is "sympathetic", as the clue says, then he would help a little, not just "might help". A Pat might help, however.

Bandit Mazzella praises brave guard

Brink's Bandit Praises Guard For Bravery

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The guard who foiled a holdup of a Brink's armored car carrying half a million dollars in "too brave to be protecting just money," one of the captured bandits says.

Sylvester Mazzella, seized with a companion Wednesday after a dramatic gunfight, said yesterday that guard Eugene Cichessy "should be protecting lives, which are something you can't replace."

Cichessy, 37, alerted police despite a shoulder wound he suffered when a trio of masked men cut loose with a submachinegun at Brink's garage.

Mazzella, 46, of the Bronx, and Anthony Pattinato, 39, of Baltimore, traded shots with swarms of police but were caught within an hour.

Their loot of $150,000 was found abandoned.

The third bandit fled. A 14-state alarm was issued for Jimmy Sheridan, alias Jimmy Salerno, of New York City, Canadian police were alerted after a report that Sheridan might have fled across the Peace Bridge.

Detectives discounted theories that the gunmen were involved in the biggest cash haul in the nation's history. That was the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup in Boston Jan. 17, 1950.

"We wanted to hurt nobody," Mazzella told police. "It's ironic that we're here because of one man's courageous act."

Utah Man Gets Sheepmen Post

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Dr. John H. Seal, Cedar City, Utah, was elected president of the American Rambouillet Sheep Breeders Assn. last night.

He was named during the organization's 67th annual meeting. Clyde Thate, Burket, Tex., was elected vice president.

New directors are Doyle Matthews, Logan, Utah, and Harold Price, Eden, Tex. John Williams, Eldorado, Tex., was re-elected director and R. O. Sheffield, San Angelo, Tex., retiring president, automatically joined the board.

The association voted to hold its next annual meeting in conjunction with the National Woolgrowers Assn. sale at Ogden, Utah, or Salt Lake City. No date was set. The group also agreed to sponsor the San Angelo Rambouillet ram sale as an annual event rather than from year to year as has been the practice.

Why Some Men Never Marry

OMAHA (AP)—Postal clerk Joe Weber says nobody has to believe it but it did happen to him.

A woman walked up to his counter yesterday and tendered a $5 savings certificate to be cashed in. Weber told her it would cost a dime because the certificate hadn't been held for a month.

"I don't have a dime," the lady exclaimed and hurried away before Weber could tell her he could take it out of the $5.

"I borrowed it," she smiled. Weber took the certificate and the dime and pushed out a $5 bill. "Please change it. I have to pay back the loan," the lady said.

Real Friendship

It is impossible to place a proper value on a true friend. Friends are priceless, and are of the few remaining things which cannot be bought.

Not all people know this though. Everyone seeks popularity, and frequently those who seek it the most intensely have it the least. Some would say they try too hard. Actually their mistake lies in their notion that popularity can be bought at so much for a dollar.

Beth was an attractive and talented girl, but she was also shy. Being "accepted" was of paramount importance, so she made it a full-time job.

She agreed with the group on everything. When an unpleasant task had to be done, she volunteered. When someone had to sacrifice, it was Beth. Everybody was nice to Beth; she seemed "accepted." Why not? She was the patsy—the yes girl—the door mat.

The showdown came when Beth was rushed to the hospital with an appendicitis. One day, two days, a week went by with only one card and no flowers or visitors.

Beth swapped her appendix for some insight. You cannot buy friendship, nor buy your way into the group. You may make yourself welcome because you come in handy, but when the chips are down and you lose your usefulness, these "friends" vanish, because actually you never were "one of the group." By Beth's own choosing, she placed herself in a class below.

Recently I said if you want to win someone's friendship, don't do something nice, but unexpected, for him; instead ask a favor. Several people have asked me why.

When you do a favor that is unexpected and untimely, the person becomes suspicious and realizes you are groveling for his friendship and he looks down on you for it.

When you ask a favor, instead, you give him a feeling of importance. His ego is inflated and he admires you for your good taste. There is nothing that makes us fonder of someone than to be able to show off in front of him.

Giving to another increases our sense of well-being; receiving too much from another puts us in that person's debt and makes us feel uncomfortable and inferior.

"To refuse my offering because I am poverty stricken is to beat me with the club of your superiority, murder the most noble half of me, and rob me of my greatest joy in life."—Christian Visitor.

Labs Working On New Polio Vaccines

CHICAGO (AP)—Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele said today that several laboratories are working on the problem of finding a milder but still effective antipolio vaccine.

He said the Salk vaccine used in five tests last year and given to larger numbers of children this year contains "the Mahoney virus strain, a strain of Type 1 virus that is highly antigenic but is also highly invasive."

A less invasive strain that still could produce sufficient antibodies to combat the polio virus would provide an additional margin of safety, he said.

At present, the polio virus in the Salk vaccine is killed by a powerful chemical. When dead, the virus still is capable of producing antibodies, without causing polio.

In the patient. However, any live virus present in inadequately treated vaccine is capable of causing polio.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Assn., Scheele said other problems under study for combatting polio are:

1. The combination of the Salk vaccine with other disease-fighting agents, just as diphtheria and tetanus toxoids are now administered together.
2. Development of vaccines based on different principles than those employed in the Salk process.

"Although we can expect further research and observation to lead to improvements, the vaccine is, at present, our most useful weapon in the prevention of paralytic poliomyelitis," he said.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, three scientists said they had discovered a safer, quicker and cheaper way to produce and test the polio vaccine.

They said that in this new process, polio virus is removed from the medium in which it is grown, producing a concentrate of 99.9 per cent of the virus. They said present methods do not remove most of the extraneous materials used in growing the virus and that manufacturers must work with large quantities of material, making production a complex and expensive project.

The report was issued by Dr. Arthur Greene, Dr. Lewis Cortell and Joseph Smolens, a bacteriologist, all of the staff of Children's Hospital in Philadelphia, in today's issue of Science, the official publication of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

In their process, the medium in which the virus is grown is treated with zinc lactate, a salt. The mixture is whirled about in a refrigerated centrifuge, removing the virus which combined with the zinc.

Pro-Red Mother Loses Commission For Honor Student

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says an honor student graduating today from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, Long Island, has been refused a commission in the Naval Reserve apparently because his mother was a member of the Communist party.

The Times said the student, Eugene William Landy, 21, was told yesterday he had been refused the commission and that formal notice of his rejection would come today from the Navy Department.

The Navy confirmed that Landy's commission had been held up, at least temporarily, but would not disclose why.

The midshipman told the newspaper that his mother Mrs. Deborah Landy, 54, of Bradley Beach, N.J., had carried a Communist card in 1944.

Landy was quoted as saying he was sure his mother had broken contact with left-wing groups in 1947 but that she still subscribes to the Communist newspaper Daily Worker although she "rarely ever looks at it."

Landy was second-ranking student in a class of 96. Trainees for the job of deck officers or engineers in the merchant marine.

All students usually enroll as midshipmen in the Naval Reserve and take courses preparing them for commissions.

The Times quoted Landy as saying he had sworn in writing before naval intelligence agents that he personally never associated with any subversive groups and that his political and economic views were "pretty conservative."

Riding Devices At Park Open Sunday

New children's rides in the City Park will go into operation Saturday afternoon, it was announced by owner James Skipalls.

Skipalls, an airman, installed his rides Wednesday at a site near the east entrance to the park, close to the San Angelo Highway. The rides consist of a merry-go-round, a ferris wheel and a pony cart.

The ferris wheel is enclosed to keep children from falling out, the merry-go-round is made up of small cars instead of horses, and the pony cart revolves around a platform.

Pro-Red Lectures Told At Ex-PW Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—A witness says he heard Sgt. James C. Gallagher lecture three or four times on pro-Communist subjects while a Korean War prisoner of the Chinese Reds.

Testifying yesterday at Gallagher's court-martial, Cpl. Vernon W. Clark, Brooks, Maine, said: "A couple of times it nearly became a fist fight. Some men were young and hadn't been around and it sort of put a doubt in their minds."

The tall, blond defendant is accused of aiding and abetting the enemy and of the unpremeditated murder of three fellow Americans in the POW camp. Maximum penalty is life at hard labor.

Another prosecution witness, Pvt. Harold Davis, described the 24-year-old Gallagher, of Brooklyn, as an intimate of two of the American prisoners who refused repatriation.

Davis told of at least one "party" attended by Chinese and pro-Communist prisoners at camp headquarters.

He said he saw Gallagher sitting at a food-laden table with "Venets, Rush and some others."

During the prisoner exchange a year later, Pvt. James G. Veneris and Sgt. Scott L. Rush were among 21 Americans who chose to go to Red China.

James H. Shartzler, 23, St. Louis, Mo., testified that the camp bulletin board carried pro-Communist and anti-American articles handwritten by Gallagher.

The Chinese rewarded such articles, Shartzler said, "with cigarettes, candy and better living conditions."

Cpl. George E. Walker Jr., Saint Albans, Vt., testified that when he joined Gallagher's squad in the early summer of 1951 the defendant asked him to cooperate with the Chinese Reds.

Walker said Gallagher, in a lecture, accused the U. S. government of being "warmongers."

The witness added: "I didn't feel any too good about G. Just the idea of an American giving it."

Less Than 25 Years Ago Saw 'Land Of Promise' In Despair

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Less than 25 years ago, legions of Americans were walking in the valley of despair through the great depression. Millions were jobless. The future was bleak and uncertain for a country known as "the land of promise."

Today the United States is prospering. Wages are good. The despair of the '30s is only a bad memory. And forces now are pressing hard to shape a future which will guarantee economic security for workers in their jobs and in their old age.

This surge from financial chaos toward a planned security for workers has been little less than a social revolution during the last quarter of a century—a revolution which had its beginning in private industry, was pushed forward by the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and then expanded by big labor unions.

Behind the move is the age-old yearning of people for security from hunger and want. Behind it too is a growing acceptance of the idea that business and government have a moral obligation as well as a financial stake in the workers' welfare—a responsibility that goes beyond the actual wages paid for work done.

Some people view the goal of economic security as a plain-the-sky illusion, a sort of welfare state mirage which eventually will shake business with unbearable costs.

Some question whether the American system can provide workers and their families with high and higher wages, shorter work hours, health and welfare benefits, paid vacations, higher unemployment compensation, and old age pensions without an eventual collapse and return to chaos.

But despite forebodings from some quarters the tide of the times is running in favor of more—not less—security for active and retired workers. The question no longer is whether this is the road the nation will follow, but how far down this road it will go.

This fact was heavily underlined when those two giants of the automotive world, Ford and General Motors, agreed to pay their workers increased unemployment compensation in addition to vested pension rights and other benefits.

In effect, the two companies accepted the principle that they have a continuing financial responsibility to their employees when those workers, through no fault of their own, are laid off and are idle in slack production periods.

The agreement calls for the companies to guarantee unemployed workers from 60 to 65 per cent of their take-home pay up to 26 weeks each year beginning June 1, 1956.

The companies agreed to pay 5 cents an hour for each worker into a fund which will be used to supplement state unemployment compensation of laid-off workers.

This agreement is a long way from the guaranteed full annual wage demanded by the CIO United Auto Workers. But it has established in mass production industry acceptance of the principle of employer responsibility for the unemployed above and beyond existing jobless pay.

How far this plan will spread through industry no one can say. But it is certain to be pushed by the labor unions in the big industries.

Some critics have called the so-called guaranteed wage plan "creeping socialism." To this criticism, Henry Ford II has said:

"A lot of people call everything we do 'creeping socialism.' They call social security that and they call pensions that. I don't really know what socialism is. If the critics will define the term, I'll tell them whether I think this is creeping socialism...."

"We have to keep up with the times."

The Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has found that since 1890 more than 340 plans have been adopted which guaranteed wages for three months or longer—and more than 190 of them still were operating in 1946. But these plans were in relatively small companies.

The great wave of pressure for job security and old age and unemployment protection came with the depression which wiped out financial security for millions as banks closed, businesses failed and industry crumbled almost to a halt.

Twenty years ago there were only about six million workers who could look forward to old age pensions and most of these were protected only because their employers voluntarily gave them this security.

A study of pensions for the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report says:

"An important part of the demand for pensions has arisen because many employers have felt that it is good business to have an orderly method of retiring older employees who have passed peak efficiency. Until recently, pension plans have been established primarily on the initiative of employers. It seemed inhuman to discharge without income those who had worked long and well for a company. Moreover, such a procedure was detrimental to the morale of the remaining employees and hurt the good will of the employer in the community."

Virtually all of the early pension plans were discretionary—to be given or withheld at the discretion of the employer. The employer paid all premiums, and the benefits thus actually amounted to a form of gift.

But then political, economic and moral pressures shifted emphasis to greater security. Congress enacted laws requiring in 1937 that millions of workers and their employers contribute to an old age retirement fund; the jobless pay program was set up. And thus the federal government's vast social security system went into effect. It now covers most workers outside the field of agriculture.

Today about 55 million workers or roughly 90 per cent of the nation's work force can look forward to federal, state or private retirement payments, or a combination of payments. All the 48 states cooperate with the federal government in the unemployment compensation program. Some have near 100 million people have some protection under voluntary health and hospitalization programs.

In addition, most companies provide some type of life, health or other insurance paid for either wholly or in part by the employer. Paid vacations and holidays are being increased. Emphasis has grown on health and welfare programs. For example, the United Mine Workers of America will open a series of hospitals in coal areas this fall to provide miners with good and cheap medical care.

Big labor unions in recent years have helped to spread the coverage of pensions and health and welfare benefits by making them issues in collective bargaining. These benefits have become workers' "rights" as much as the 40-hour week and extra pay for overtime.

How far can this security for American workers, particularly, the field of jobless pay, be extended?

Henry Ford II touched on this point recently when he said: "We don't want to reach the point where a fellow would be just as happy to loaf and draw unemployment compensation as he would to work. It could wind up the right way or the wrong way. That is one thing we have to watch."

Ford reflected misgivings that unemployment pay possibly could become so attractive as to have the effect of reducing the work force, thus cutting back production.

On the other side, almost 30 years of experience have shown that unemployment compensation reduces the economic shock on a community during periods of recession. The payments provide buying power that, even on a reduced scale, can keep business running. As in the case of pensioned workers, the jobless do not become economic ciphers during the period it takes them to get back to work.

To the economists, the answer to continued progress toward security lies largely in whether or not American industry continues to grow and prosper.

Actually, the percentage of the gross national product paid in wages has remained fairly constant over the years despite labor's successful drive for higher wages in recent times. The percentage has run about 75 per cent. But even though the percentage paid in wages has remained steady the workers' income has increased because the gross national product has climbed in the past 25 years from 104 billion dollars to more than 365 billion. Some economists predict that in another 10 years it will climb above the 500 billion mark.

In 25 years, prices have risen steadily but average personal incomes also have climbed—from $700 per person to about $1,800. The nation's work force has increased in this period from 51 million to more than 63 million. Even with work hours cut by 10 per cent on a man-hour basis, the man-hour production increase has averaged more than 2 per cent a year.

Some economists think continued intensive research and development may make it possible for workers by 1965 to increase man-hour output by almost 40 per cent, thus bringing more leisure and even better pay. The key to this achievement lies in an increased volume of production.

As the economy has grown, pressures have increased for a greater cloak of security around workers and their families, with perhaps the greatest emphasis being placed upon employers extending pension benefits.

2 New Names Enter Speculation Over Talbott Successor

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Two new names were injected today into the speculation over a successor to Harold E. Talbott as secretary of the Air Force.

The Kansas City Star said in a dispatch from Washington that David S. Ingalls' appointment to the post is expected before President Eisenhower leaves for a Colorado vacation about 10 days hence.

The Rocky Mountain News, published at Denver, said in a copyrighted story that former Colorado Gov. Dan Thornton, 44, can have the position "if he wants it."

Neither newspaper named the sources of its information.

Talbott resigned Monday, effective a week from tomorrow. He said he did so lest the Eisenhower administration be embarrassed by publicity about his outside business interests.

Ingalls, 56, is a cousin of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and managed Taft's unsuccessful campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in 1952. He was assistant secretary of the Navy for aeronautics in the Hoover administration.

Traffic Figures

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Nearly 1 1/4 million persons enter and leave downtown Los Angeles daily, the City Traffic Department reports. The exact figure, determined by a check from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m., is 1,380,421.

Chance Call Ends In Fight, 2 Deaths

GARY, Ind. (AP)—A telephone solicitor's chance call yesterday sent a Gary policeman on an investigation that resulted in a gun duel and ended in death for the officer and a 32-year-old steelworker.

Police Sgt. Ray Hahn said Patrolman John Moore, 37, although wounded three times, killed Arthur Wright with five bullets from his revolver at Wright's home.

Wright was dead when Moore's fellow officer George Vinchur, who was in the patrol car, reached the back of the house. Moore, shot twice in the chest and once in the head, died in a hospital 45 minutes later.

The solicitor, Mrs. Virginia Sofranoff, had called Wright's home by chance. She said she heard a young girl say, "Call the police to 655 Indiana Ave." The girl repeated the address and then hung up. Mrs. Sofranoff called police.

Vinchur said the house was quiet when he and Moore arrived. He said Moore went to the rear, and moments later he heard shots. He ran around the house and found Wright dead and Moore dying.

Two sisters, 15 and 8 years old, who were in the house, told police they were Wright's nieces. They said their parents were separated and they had been living with Wright and his wife.

Sgt. Hahn said the girls stated that after Mrs. Wright left for work in the steel mill Wright locked the younger girl and his 2-year-old son in a room and then tried to molest the 15-year-old girl.

The girl said she repulsed Wright and he beat her for about two hours, finally threatening to attack her sister if she did not submit.

The younger girl said she escaped from the locked room and answered the telephone when Mrs. Sofranoff called.

Mail Truck Driver Fined

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—When John R. Hill, driver of a government mail truck, found his vehicle ticketed for double parking, he appeared in court to argue the case with Municipal Judge James Demopolis.

"I've been doing it for two years and have never received a ticket before," argued Hill. Besides, he declared the postal people, remember the axiom, "The mail must go through."

"The mail can go through without double parking," declared Judge Demopolis, ordering the post office to pay a $5 fine. Hill paid.

Texans Buy Flour Firm

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Stock control of Flour Mills of America, Inc., was bought today by a group of Texas investors for nearly two million dollars.

The company is the seventh largest milling firm in the country. Besides headquarters and mills here, it has plants in Great Bend, Kan., and Alva, Okla.

J. M. Ferguson Jr., Fort Worth, spokesman for the group, said the purchase was made in payment of a loan made by the company in exchange for executive personnel or policies.

The other investors include Charles A. Summons, Dallas; Ray Kimball, Phillip Norris and W. P. Dumar, all of Fort Worth, and A. L. Lelich of New Braunfels, Tex.

New Hampshire Passes State Sweepstakes Measure

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Despite opposition cries that it is "a sign of moral, political and financial bankruptcy," the New Hampshire Legislature has passed a bill which would establish a two-million-dollar state sweepstakes based on horse races.

Republican Gov. Lane Dwinell has indicated he will sign it.

Sponsors, estimating annual revenue at two million dollars, tacked it onto a $350,000 school construction bill but the Senate killed an amendment to earmark all income for education.

The proposal, defeated in the Legislature for the past three or four years, calls for two special horse races a year at Rockingham Park in Salem. The State Racing Commission would control operation of the sweepstakes.

No plans have been announced to show how the scheme would work, but its sponsor, House Minority Leader Laurence M. Pickett, a Democrat from Keene, suggested tickets be priced at $5 and that the top prize be $25,000.

The proposal was passed yesterday by the Senate 13-10. The House approved it Tuesday 166-141.

Opponents called the measure a "damnable bill."

The Rev. H. MacFarlane, of Concord, superintendent of the New Hampshire Christian Civic League, said he opposed further state dependence on gambling revenue and warned if the measure were adopted it would unite the anti-gambling forces in the state.

Others opposing it were the head of the State Department of Education, the secretary of the New Hampshire Education Assn. and the State Grange.

Unpaid Government Jobs Due Probe By Antitrust Division

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. Atty. Gen. Stanley N. Barnes says his Antitrust Division has started a new probe into the kind of unpaid government jobs held by businessmen.

He coupled the announcement to a House Judiciary subcommittee yesterday with disclosure that an oil company official had been removed as head of an Interior Department advisory group on foreign oil supplies. Barnes said such cases involve "a borderland of law and ethics."

Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission, appearing before the subcommittee, said three other businessmen on loan from their private companies had been found in "operating" positions where they should not have been.

He said these were the only three cases of the kind found under the Eisenhower administration and "all three were corrected voluntarily when called to the agencies' attention by the Civil Service Commission."

In related developments:

1. President Eisenhower, at his news conference, defended the employment of Brig. Gen. W. W. White as head of the Defense Department's Petroleum Logistics Division. He said the law permits him, as a reserve officer, to draw pay both from the government and from the Esso Export Corp., of which he formerly was vice president. Sen. Neely (D-WVa.) has criticized White's status.

"It would be idle," the President said, "to employ as a consultant anyone who didn't know something about the petroleum business. He is bound to come from the petroleum industry."

2. Barnes said the government is challenging the right of Secretary of State Dulles' former law firm to defend two oil companies against a 100-million-dollar suit by the government for alleged overcharging on foreign oil shipments. The firm, which Dulles left just before becoming secretary of state, is Sullivan and Cromwell, of New York, now headed by Arthur Dean.

Barnes contended an attorney for the firm, Garfield Horn, acquired specialized knowledge of the case while serving abroad from 1945 to 1961 with the Economic Cooperation Administration. In New York, Dean said he had assured himself Horn had acquired no such knowledge.

Young did not name the three men he said were removed from unpaid posts, but said they had worked in the Defense Transport Administration and the Small Business Administration.

He indicated the situation has been under long-continued study, saying that "in prior years there have been many violations reported by previous commissioners to the President. The general trend in the number of violations has been sharply downward from the time of the first report in 1951 to the present." Eisenhower took office in January 1953.

Barnes named the Interior Department official removed as Franz von Schilling, whom he identified as an official on leave from the Caltex Oil Products Co., a part of the Caltex group owned jointly by Standard Oil of California and the Texas Co.

He said his division has no criticism of the actions of the committee Von Schilling headed, but said the official was in the "unseemly position of policing, directing and reporting on the activities of the very companies on which his immediate livelihood depended."

The Interior Department said Von Schilling was released July 31 "because of the over-all situation." A spokesman said Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis felt there was no conflict of interest in the case, but had taken into account senatorial criticism of such situations during debate on extension of the Defense Produc-

The Lomax community has made a good comeback the last few weeks, says Paul Bulsterbaum, who runs the store there. During the last rains, he received three inches at the store, and a heavy shower fell yesterday afternoon.

E. W. Lomax got an inch of rain out of it, but the south side of the community had only a quarter inch. The irrigation wells were kept running even during the rain. Unless they get over an inch of rain, not many farmers will shut down their wells.

On the dryland farms, all the land is planted and a good stand of feed is up. The older cotton is scattering but some fields will make a fair crop despite a poor stand.

There is a big demand for cotton choppers in this area, says Bill Williams of the Texas Employment Commission. He needs two or three big crews right now. He says there will be some hoeing up until September and by that time some cotton will be ready to pick in Martin County.

"If anyone wants to do farm work," Williams said, "he should be able to stay busy from now till the first of the year. Some farmers intend to hoe the big weeds out of their feed after the cotton is finished, and this will prolong the hoeing season."

Some careless weeds are taller than the maize and twice as tough. One farmer had three hoe handles broken this week because of the big weeds. He might do like a farmer I once knew in Gaines County. After his boys broke several handles (on purpose, he said) he replaced the handles with quarter inch iron pipes. They were a little heavy to swing, but the boys never broke one after that.

For many years in Texas, every kind of crop has been studied except grass. Scientists developed better strains of cotton, maize and small grains, but no one bothered to study grass — still our most important plant. Now, the University of Texas Plant Research Institute is conducting experiments with native grass, trying to improve them so they will produce more forage. They are studying three strains of curly mesquite grass with 80 per cent fertility which have been found in Arizona. Curly mesquite is a close growing grass often mistaken for buffalo, but is not so widespread. The sterility of the seed has often kept it from spreading on the tightlands where it grows. The institute is also studying needle grass, brittle grass and several bluestem and wild rye. It is possible, they say, to improve grasses almost as much as they have improved crops. Wild maize would probably not make over 100 pounds to the acre; now it may produce over 1,000. If grass could be improved as much, pastures might support several times as many cattle and sheep as they do now.

A worm's gotta eat, the same as you and I. In Martin County the cabbage loopers can't find cabbage, so they have started devouring cotton. There is a big infestation of loopers around Flower Grove and Ten Mile Store, according to John Stirling, salesman for a Lubbock insecticide company. They are also getting numerous in West Martin County and around Midland.

The only thing that will kill them, says Stirling, is endrin. At Midland a feed store dealer put three loopers in a cellophane bag, then poured in some DDT. Two hours later the loopers were still alive and kicking, with no signs of dying.

Ed Slover of Pecos has moved two of his crop dusting airplanes to Stanton. He will move two more soon, and also three planes to be used in pilot training. The majority of dryland farmers are still poisoning with tractors, but this may be the last time before using the planes. The cotton is getting so big that a tractor won't be able to get through it much longer.

The west part of Elbow community got another good rain yesterday. It was especially heavy from the creek bridge north to U. S. Highway 80. Along the Denver Yales place mudholes were almost deep enough to stall a car. Ted Fields got 3 of an inch on his young feed crop. He finally got all his land planted and most of it is up. He said he planted a little of everything in the grain sorghum and cane varieties.

The rumor has started in Howard County that the ASC at Stanton quit measuring cotton because the county was underplanted, anyway, and they were going to let everyone keep whatever cotton they had, regardless if it was more than the allotment. This is nothing but a rumor, and a wild one at that, says Charles Daniels, ASC manager of Martin County.

"Some sort of story gets out every year," he said, "but there is nothing in it. We're nearly through measuring but no word has come to us to disregard a farmer's allotted acres." Daniels says such a change would have to be in the form of a law that would apply to the whole state. So regardless of how much a county is underplanted, each farmer can still jeep just a certain acreage of cotton.

Resident Flies To Brother's Funeral

Carol Belton, control engineer for Cosden Petroleum Corporation, was flown Thursday to Kansas City, Mo., and thence to Bingham, Mass., for last rites for his brother, Lt. Col. William O. Belton.

The commanding general at Kansas City dispatched a B-25 here to pick up Belton so he could join with the widow of his brother and their two children to the family home in Bingham, Mass. Col. Belton, commander of a jet fighter squadron for SAC, was injured critically in a car mishap between San Diego and Yuma a week ago. He died Wednesday.

Mrs. Rainwater To Chicago Seminar

Mrs. Champ Rainwater, Big Spring organizer and music teacher, will leave tomorrow for Chicago, where she will attend a music seminar. She expects to be in Chicago for approximately two weeks. The seminar is for the affiliated teachers of the Sherwood Music School of that city.

Mrs. Rainwater has been teaching the organ for a number of years, and she is a local representative of the Shield Company of Fort Worth.

Draws Penalty On Guilty Plea After Accident

Charles Inman of Artesia, N. M., admitted in court this morning that he was driving while drunk when his car was involved in an accident here Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mary Bates, Gall Rio, and Mrs. Elsie McCutchan, Coahoma, required hospital treatment as a result of the accident, which involved three cars.

The mishap occurred at the intersection of Northwest Twelfth and Lamesa Highway about 4:30 p.m. Police said that the car driven by Inman was behind a vehicle operated by Alvin Bates at the time of the collision, and both were traveling south on the Lamesa Highway.

The front of Inman's car struck the rear of the Bates vehicle at the point where the highway intersects with Twelfth, officers stated. The impact knocked the Bates car into another automobile operated by Richard McCutchan, which was stopped on Twelfth.

Mrs. Bates was the only passenger in her husband's car, and she was taken to Big Spring Hospital for overnight observation. She suffered from shock. Mrs. McCutchan, one of two passengers in her husband's car, was treated at Cowper Hospital and released.

County Judge R. H. Weaver assessed Inman a fine of $75 and set a three-day jail sentence when he pleaded guilty to the charge of driving while intoxicated. The owner of the car which Inman was driving was fined in city court earlier for allowing a driver under the influence of alcohol to operate his vehicle.

friend, Chicago's veteran judge, Robert Jerome Dunn, "To watch over her and let me know how things turn out." At that time Mrs. Cullison was not expected to live. But, things turned out well. Today, little Kathleen and her mother, from whom the baby was taken when the mother lay critically ill in the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium—were set to fly to St. Paul to give another "Baby X" a break in life with an insurance policy that pays four years of college expenses and other benefits.

Cummings and his employees have got another pot of money together from voluntary collections throughout the company offices, so some unsuspecting infant in a Twin City "home" gets a break. Little Kathleen Cullison, with her mom's help, will present the policy tomorrow to the new "baby X," who will be sponsored by E. Irving Whyatt, chairman of the St. Paul Community Chest. Kathleen then will cut the ribbon across the door of the new Minnesota Mutual Life Building.

Mrs. Cullison was extremely happy as she prepared to take off from Midway Airport with Kathleen and Miss Healy. "I was in the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium for more than nine months," Mrs. Cullison told a newsman, "and the doctors and nurses thought I wasn't ever going to get out. I never even saw my baby, except for a fleeting glimpse when she was born, until I saw her on a television program getting the policy. I made up my mind then I was going to get my 'Baby X' back."

Mrs. Cullison entered the sanitarium two months before Kathy was born. As soon as babies are born in MTS they are taken from the mothers and placed in St. Vincent's. Her husband, Rudolph, died in a fire two weeks after Kathy was born Feb. 12, 1953. "The doctors say I'm well now," Mrs. Cullison said. "I'm going to stay well for Kathy."

Dawson Insect Damage Light

LAMESA — Insect damage in southeast Dawson County so far is comparatively light but poses a real threat, according to Assistant County Agent Byron Pierce. He said in the Midway and Ackerville communities, cabbage loopers were the most troublesome, tagging some fields pretty badly. Pierce spotted some bollworm eggs but said the infestation at this stage was widely scattered.

'Life' Staffer In Ruckus At Galveston

GALVESTON, Aug. 5 (U-P) — Two staff workers for a national magazine, on assignment here, were threatened and one was beaten last night after they had taken pictures outside a cafe and gambling establishment.

The staffers for Life magazine, Hank Snydan and Joe Scherschel, had taken pictures outside the establishment when three men came out and accosted them. Jumping back into their car, the photographers sped back to their hotel. The three men followed.

In the lobby, one of the trio demanded their films, saying he had been told they planned to write a story and run pictures denouncing Galveston vice, the photographers said.

When this was refused, Snydan, a writer as well as a photographer, said he was knocked down. Snydan said he was threatened again if the story was run and when he replied that it would not be withheld he was hit again. The Life staffers called Jim Kemp, Galveston correspondent of the Houston Chronicle, early today and told him of the attack. They said they planned to leave the city in a few hours but wanted Kemp to know of the attack, in case anything further happened to them before they could leave. They filed no charge.

Liquor Control Board Agents Cancel License

Liquor Control Board agents here served orders on two businesses today cancelling one beer license and suspending another.

The beer license of the Texans Bar, 405 NW 4th, owned by George Peuckert, was cancelled. LCB agents charged Peuckert with permitting a person who had his license cancelled within the last year to work in the Texans Bar. The cancellation will become effective today.

A 10-day suspension of the beer license possessed by Julia Huffman, owner of the Atomic Cafe, 1204 W. 3rd, was served by LCB agents today. The charge was selling beer to intoxicated persons and soliciting money to operate a musical instrument.

Auto Theft Is Reported

A 1950 Ford was reported stolen last night between 10 p.m. and 1:30 a.m. The car was taken from a service station on West Highway 80. Owner of the car is Charles Huey, a Webb AFB airman. Police said the keys had been left in the automobile.

Several other minor thefts were reported to police. R. O. Fields, 1313 Mulberry, reported that a tire and wheel was taken from his 1955 Ford last night while the vehicle was parked at the rodeo grounds. The theft was reported to police at 11:35 p.m.

Four hubcaps were taken from a 1950 Buick owned by Milas Woods, 1407 E. 15th. The missing accessories were reported to police at 8:24 a.m. today, but the time of theft was not known.

Jim Kinsey reported a car jack and chain missing from his car. Discovery of the missing tools was made Thursday about 1 p.m. Police were told that the theft probably occurred sometime between Sunday and Tuesday night.

Rain Shifts To W. Texas Again

Rains that have shuttled back and forth across Texas for days today. Thursday night in West Texas. But by dawn Friday the only concentrated cloudiness was in the Austin-San Antonio areas. Clear skies greeted early risers over most of the state, but scattered thundershowers and showers persisted in the forecasts for every section of Texas.

Heavy showers and rowdy winds ripped West Texas Thursday with Breckenridge reporting rains from 1.10 inches to 5 inches in its immediate vicinity. Strong winds at Breckenridge damaged property and the heavy rains flooded some businesses but damage was not expected to reach disaster proportions.

East of Abilene, at Clyde, 4 1/2 inches of rain was measured in about two hours, but there were no damage reports. San Angelo citizens started thinking about floods after a downpour reported unofficially at 3:75 inches. The Weather Bureau said 2.5 inches fell in about an hour. High water closed many San Angelo streets for more than an hour. The driver jumped to safety when one automobile was swept into a rain-swollen creek.

But ranchers in the San Angelo area received only disappointment. Only sprinkles were reported across the ranch country. Other rainfall reports listed .64 of an inch at Luckin and Houston 16, Sweetwater .52, Beaumont .07, Galveston, and Elcetra, Midland and Seymour, a trace.

Thursday temperatures ranged as high as an unofficial 103 at Seymour and an official 102 at Presidio. Friday temperatures were expected in about the same range, rising rapidly from dawn levels that ranged from 68 at Lubbock to 80 at Galveston.

Paving Of 3 Blocks Okayed For Lamesa

LAMESA — Paving was authorized for three blocks as the city council waded through an unusually heavy schedule of business here Thursday evening. Commissioners authorized paving of N. 19th in the 900 and 1000 blocks, and of the 1800 block on Ave. I. Property owners sign 100 per cent and are prepared to make cash payments for their share.

The commission also ordered the issuance of warrants in the amount of $18,000 to the Lamesa National Bank. Repercussions from the recent torrential rains were heard in discussions of runoff and flooding problems in parts of Lamesa. No action was taken except to adopt a resolution asking the Texas Highway Department to study means of eliminating or mitigating flood conditions at Lynn and N. 1st Streets. Problems of slow runoff near the Army on the west side of town, and in the southern sector between 6th and 7th Streets were discussed.

The council kept its foot in the door for possible federal participation in a local airport by ordering a letter of intent filed with the Civil Aeronautics Administration to the effect the city would arrange for necessary land if approved. This step was taken after Jodie Vaughn, president, DeWayne Davis, Gene Pearson, Clyde Branon and Bill Morton, representing the Chamber of Commerce and the Jaycees, appeared before the commission. Changes were ordered in the service line contract deducting $1,197 from the amount to be paid to the Brodie Construction Company. This represented a credit for pipe not used and put the cost of the project at $79,961. A total of $121 credit also was claimed for rock and asphalt not used on the seal coating contract with J. R. Fanning of Lubbock.

REV. CHARLES COOKE

Lamesa Church Opens Revival

LAMESA — The annual summer revival of the Clark Street Methodist Church will begin with the Sunday morning worship service. The Rev. Charles Cooke, pastor of the church, will conduct the daily services that will be held at 10 a.m. each week day and 8 p.m. evening services. The Rev. Cooke took over the pastorate of the church here in early June.

A graduate of Southwestern University in Georgetown, where he received his bachelor of arts degree, Rev. Cooke completed his theological education at Southern Methodist University where he received a bachelor of divinity degree in 1948. He has filled pastorates in Methodist churches in Leander, Palo Pinto, the Crescent Heights Methodist Church in Abilene, and served as minister of education in the First Methodist Church in Vernon. He is the son of Dr. Harold G. Cooke, president of McMurry College in Abilene.

Mrs. Jimmie Louise Davis will be in charge of the musical program.

Woman Seeking Funds To Cover Worthless Checks

Patricia Gore, in county court this morning, asked Judge R. H. Weaver for permission to wire her mother in St. Louis for enough money to pay off some checks she stated were worthless. She is charged with defrauding with a worthless check. The charge alleges she passed a bad check to Toby's Drive-in on June 29. Amount of the instrument was $12.18. Mrs. Gore said in court this morning that she had outstanding checks totaling $122.66 and would like to make an effort to get the money from relatives.

Judge Weaver told her that the sheriff's department would probably allow her to make the necessary phone calls. Mrs. Gore declined to make a "guilty or not guilty plea" this morning. She told the court that she would make her plea after she has paid off the checks.

Jessie Henry pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of transporting liquor in a dry area. His fine was set at $100 plus costs. The charge was filed in county court by Liquor Control Board agent J. T. Morgan. Morgan said Henry was arrested Thursday about 10 miles northwest of here on a dirt road.

B. A. Peters, charged Thursday with driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty and was fined $75 and assessed the mandatory three day jail sentence.

Verdict Withheld

VERNON, Tex. (U-P) — An inquest verdict was withheld yesterday after police found the bodies of Mrs. Eula Warner, 74, and her 50-year-old son, L. M. Warner, in their two-room house near here. Justice of the Peace W. B. Bingham said there was no evidence of foul play.

2 Completions In Varel Field, Producers Logged In Spraberry

Two new oil wells have been completed in the Varel (San Andres) field about 10 miles northwest of Big Spring, and other producers have been logged in the Spraberry Trend area and the Diamond M (Canyon) field.

A wildcard — Phillips No. 1 Satterwhite — has been staked in Howard County about five miles northeast of Big Spring. It will test the Ellenburger around 10,600 feet.

B. L. McFarland finished both of the Varel field wells. His No. 1-22 Guitarr made 24-hour potential of 75.48 barrels, and his No. 2-22 Guitarr made 76 barrels.

Hanley No. 4-06405 Wraga-Hendrickson is the new Spraberry Trend completion in Glascock County. It potentialed for 1.64 barrels per day. Amerada No. 14-A Canning finished for 49.85 barrels in the Diamond M field of Borden County.

league 267, Moore CSL, is preparing to run electric logs at depth of 9,582 feet in lime and shale. Amerada No. 1 Beaver, C NW NE, 16-33-4n, T&P survey, got down to 4,380 feet in lime and shale. This wildcat is eight miles north of Ackerly.

Cities Service No. 1 Hendon, wildcat five miles southwest of Welch, reached 7,769 feet in lime and shale where a drillstem test is being prepared. Site is C SW NE, 72-M-EL&RR survey.

Dickens Forest Oil No. 1 Fieber et al., 660 from north and west lines, Smith survey number 9, block R, has been staked as a 7, 500-foot rotary wildcat nine miles southwest of Spur.

Yep, The Truck Was In The Hole

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Police really leaped into action yesterday when they received a telephone call from a motorist reporting "a truck in a hole."

Police cars rushed to the designated spot. The Water Bureau was alerted in case a main had been snapped. The fire rescue squad was told to stand ready for a call. There was a hole in the street all right. And there was a truck—about eight inches long and four inches high.

The 8-year-old owner, Charles Tarutz, said he didn't know anything about a report to police. He was just playing with his toy truck around that hole in the street. "Maybe he had got one of the citizens," theorized a cop.

GROVE FOR FAMILY
Walter Roper visits

Returns After Half-Century, Finds Old Grove As Landmark

Winniford Roper, who left here half a century ago to become an Arizona cowpoke, was back in town Wednesday "trying to find my way around."

Old timers will recognize the area immediately, for to them the cottonwood patch east of town is still "Roper's Grove." His father, Walter Roper, had established the place long before the turn of the century. Winniford Roper himself was born May 8, 1890 near the grove, but not in the old two-story home that still stands there. That was built later by his father.

The elder Roper came here about 1889 to join in gathering buffalo bones which were shipped to market in Fort Worth. The bones were accumulated in great stacks in the draws, where the animals were frozen during blizzards, and around waterholes where hunters slaughtered them by the thousands. Later, he operated the first truck garden in Howard County just east of Big Spring.

How the Ropers came to settle east of town is an interesting story. W. P. B. Boydston, an early surveyor, was in need of $100 ready cash, and more to accommodate Mr. Boydston (the one in land), Walter Roper bought 100 acres for $1 an acre.

"Dad figured it would never be worth less than $1 an acre," recalled Winniford Roper. "When he got a chance to sell out for $100 an acre, he thought he had found a soft touch."

Now that is only a fractional part of the value of much of the area. Winniford Roper planted the two big pecan trees that stand by the old house. The family had been in Central Texas and brought back a lot of pecans and other items. In cleaning out the straw from the wagon bed, he came on several pecans and planted two of the largest ones. Both took root and came trees. He also stuck several cottonwood switches in the ground and they became big trees under which Big Spring residents held their picnics and even revival meetings for many years.

Big Spring was a rugged place when Roper was a lad. He recalled how Sheriff Jim Baggett, an almost legendary character, was ambushed by one of a band of brigands. They framed a disturbance call to the east part of town, but Sheriff Baggett suspicioned something and walked down the center of the street instead of the sidewalk. His assailant fired from underneath a Burton-Lingo Lumber Company shed and the sheriff fell with a dozen buckshot. He recovered, however, and lived to pump the man generally thought to be the ambusher full of lead. This character made the mistake of going for his gun and the sheriff cut loose with a new automatic which had just come on the market.

North of Big Spring the plains waved on one vast ocean of grass, unimpeded then by fences. Except for the draws and creek beds, there were no mesquites, Windmills and wells were few and far between and journeys of 30-miles per day were considered excellent travel and had to be planned carefully from waterhole to waterhole.

Roper attended school here for several years and left in 1906 to go to Arizona. He joined in the Mexican revolution against Porfirio Diaz in 1910 and served in World War I. Afterwards he returned to ranching and cowpunching. In recent years, he has been writing short stories. His only regret is that he didn't finish school and get an educational background that would have helped him with some serious writing.

He has relatives in Coahoma (the Birkheads) and many old time friends here. Roper was en route to Santa, Texas, to visit Chris B. Quante, son of Joe Quante, associate of Walker Roper here in the early days.

U. S. Denies Being Maneuvers Kibitzer

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The United States and Britain say that if any warships of "a big foreign power" shadowed the Argentine fleet on recent maneuvers in the South Atlantic, the slouches weren't theirs.

Oscar Alende, a deputy from the opposition Radical party, asked the Argentine government in a bill presented to Congress yesterday to say whether the fleet was trailed last month. He did not name the "big foreign power" but congressional circles said he meant the United States.

Surgeons Will Meet In Chicago

The Clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons, the largest meeting of surgeons in the world, will convene in Chicago, Oct. 31 through Nov. 4.

Local surgeons have not as yet made definite plans to attend the congress. Attendance at this 41st annual meeting is expected to reach 10,000 with surgeons, physicians and related medical personnel from all parts of the nation and a number of foreign lands present.

The program will include a resume of the year's progress, from actual demonstrations and discussions of current practical aspects of surgery to the new and experimental. Noted surgeons and teachers will participate in the reports, panel discussions, symposia, motion pictures, color television and fine clinics.

Exhibits on subjects of particular interest to surgeons, with information on fundamental research, diagnostic procedures and new techniques, will be on display. Dr. Alfred Blalock, Baltimore, current president of the American College of Surgeons, will preside at the opening session Oct. 31, at which Dr. Grayson L. Kirk, president of Columbia University, will be guest speaker.

Demos Bitter Over Hell's Canyon Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic senators assailed bitterly today the Federal Power Commission's action in approving a privately financed hydroelectric project in the Hell's Canyon area.

The Democrats indicated they intend to make a national issue, if possible, of the commission's grant to the Idaho Power Co. of authority to build three power dams. These would flood the site of a dam on the Snake River border between Idaho and Oregon.

Public power advocates have been trying unsuccessfully for years to have Congress authorize a single, high-level dam in the canyon as a federal project. They have contended the private development would not make full use of the potential.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) predicted that by the time the Democratic-controlled Congress gets through with its commission's order "will be corrodng in the same graveyard where the Dixon-Yates contract reposes." Sen. Magnusen (D-Wash.) called it "a complete sell-out of God-given resources to the private power lobby." Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said in a separate interview the FPC action announced yesterday "is just another example of the fact that this administration waits until Congress is away to uncoil its special interests packages."

"I am sure that a great many senators will be raising 'Hell's Canyon' about this decision," he said.

FPC Chairman Jerome K. Koykendall denied that the announcement was purposely withheld until Congress adjourned. He said it was processed "in regular shape."

In its unanimous decision to give Idaho Power a 30-year license to build the Brownlee, Oxbow and Low Hell's Canyon dams, the commission said its order "will preclude a federally constructed single high dam" at the site.

The commission said it had concluded that if financing, construction and operation of the differing proposals were carried on by the same entity "the ratio of power benefits to power costs of the three dam plan is greater than that for the one-dam plan."

Kremlin Deals Peace Campaign Double Setback

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians dealt their own peace propaganda campaign a spectacular double setback Thursday.

In Moscow Premier Nikolai Bulganin finally rejected the proposal which President Eisenhower presented at Geneva two weeks ago for an exchange of military blueprints and aerial photographs between Russia and the United States.

Eisenhower's move captured popular imagination and public support throughout the free world and neutral nations. Its rejection for whatever reasons may be interpreted as evidence that the Moscow regime is not willing to meet the American challenge to strike a dramatic blow for disarmament and peace.

2. Hard on the heels of Bulganin's announcement in Moscow came word from the Atomic Energy Commission here that Russia has resumed testing of nuclear weapons in the last few days. It was the first such American report since last October.

This announcement may prove to be highly important to the propaganda struggle which goes on constantly between Washington and Moscow. It provides evidence of Russia's continuing interest in developing nuclear weapons—a fact that free nations sometimes lose sight of in their agitation over the testing done by the United States.

American tests normally get great publicity. The Russians say little about their experiments. Hence the importance of announcing them here in order to keep world understanding of the arms race in balance.

The Bulgarian rejection and atomic weapon tests are in line with the Soviet attitude reflected in Bulganin's closing statement to the Geneva conference.

The Russian leader made it clear at that time that he was not interested in reversing Soviet policy in any major field. He restated Moscow's basic positions on such issues as German unification, European security and disarmament in substantially the same words he had used to state them initially in the Geneva meeting.

Eisenhower apparently made his disarmament proposal in the summit meeting two weeks ago for several reasons. He himself attached great significance to it, because he told Bulganin he wanted to offer the world convincing proof that the great powers were sincere in their efforts to put an end to the arms race.

Church Activities For Week Include Two Revival Meetings

Two revivals will be held this week. Starting Sunday and lasting a week until Aug. 14, is a series of religious services at the College Baptist Chapel, mission of the First Baptist Church. The Rev. H. W. Bartlett, pastor, will conduct the services with Orville Bryant leading the singing and Darlene Agee at the organ. Services will be at 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily.

Wednesday at the Church of the Nazarene, 4th and Austin, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Smith of Bethany, Okla., will open a revival meeting to continue each evening at 8 until Aug. 21.

The Smiths, graduates of Bethany Peniel College, are giving full time to evangelism work. He is former pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Antlers, Okla., and Mrs. Smith has served as district director of junior work.

BAPTIST
"Only One Way" will be the sermon topic by Dr. P. D. O'Brien at the First Baptist Church, 511 Main, Sunday morning. That evening Chaplain William H. Barker, of Webb Air Force Base, will lead the service.

At Baptist Temple, 400 Eleventh Place, guest speaker, the Rev. Bill Arnett, will be in the pulpit for both services. He is the district secretary of Big Spring.

Sunday morning worship at Airport Baptist, 108 Frazier, the Rev. W. A. James will speak on "The Resurrection" and that evening on "A United Church."

The Rev. H. W. Bartlett, pastor, will speak Sunday morning at the College Baptist Chapel, mission of the First Baptist Church, on "How is a Sinner to Be Saved by a Holy God." His topic for the evening worship will be "Man's Ruin—God's Remedy."

CATHOLIC
Mass will be said by the Rev. Joseph B. Kemelly at 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. at St. Thomas Catholic Church. Confessions will be heard from 4:30-6 p.m. and from 7-8 p.m. Saturday Benediction will follow the last Mass.

The Rev. Jerome Burnet will say Mass at Sacred Heart Church (Spanish-speaking) at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Confessions will be heard from 7-8:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
The fact that spiritual understanding of God results in practical goodness, health, and power will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy comprise the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Spirit."

CHRISTIAN
The Rev. Clyde Nichols, will preach Sunday morning at the Benton Street Church of Christ Sunday. The Rev. H. W. Bartlett, pastor, will conduct the services with Orville Bryant leading the singing and Darlene Agee at the organ. Services will be at 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily.

CHURCH OF CHRIST
A guest speaker, W. Wallace Layton will speak for both services at the Benton Street Church of Christ Sunday. The new minister, Darrel Flynt, has arrived and will be in the service Sunday. Mr. Flynt is replacing T. H. Tarbet who sailed today for Australia to do missionary work through the support of the Benton Street Church.

LATTER-DAY SAINTS
Services at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will include Sunday School at 10:30 a.m.; Priesthood meeting at 11:30 a.m.; and a Sacrament meeting at 6:30 p.m. All services will be held at the Girl Scout Little House, 1407 Lancaster.

Chaplain Charles J. Fix will conduct the Protestant services Sunday morning at 11 at the Base Chapel. His sermon topic will be "Every Man Needs a Savior." Sunday School will be at 10 a.m. in the chapel annex.

For Catholic worshippers, confessions will be heard from 7 to 8 Saturday evening; Mass will be said at 9 a.m. at the Base Chapel with Chaplain William J. Ludlum officiating.

Japs Urged To Cooperate In U. S. Air Base Expansion

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government today issued an unusual statement asking the people's cooperation in expanding five U. S. air bases "because the plan is not for making them atomic weapons bases."

The plan is largely to extend runways for use by jets. The project has been held up many months because of fierce opposition by Japanese living in the areas.

Leftists have linked the plan to atomic weapons, trying to stir up nationwide opposition.

'Wabash Cannon Ball' Is Sung At Funeral

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A soloist sang the "Wabash Cannon Ball" at funeral services yesterday for gambler Tony Cornero, 54, who died Sunday of a heart attack while shooting craps in Las Vegas.

Cornero considered it his lucky song. A crowd of more than 1,000, closely surveyed by police, attended the services in a mortuary chapel. Cornero once did a multimillion-dollar business with a fleet of gambling ships off the coast of California.

Actor Sonny Tufts Gets Bit Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Sonny Tufts, who has twice been sued by women who claimed he bit them, was named defendant yesterday in a $10,000 damage complaint filed by Mrs. Adrienne Formar, 22. She said Tufts insisted on sitting at a restaurant table occupied by her and her mother, and that he pinched her.

Last January Tufts settled for $600 a suit dancer Margarie Von filed, claiming he bit her in the thigh. Last year another dancer, Barbara Gray Atkins, dropped a suit before it reached trial. She also claimed Tufts bit her thigh.

The Exiles in Babylon

THEY WEEP WHEN THEY ARE ASKED TO SING
A SACRED SONG IN A STRANGE LAND

Scripture—Psalm 137:1-6; Jeremiah 29:10-14; Daniel 3.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

HAVE ANY of you children been away from home and experienced homesickness? Possibly some of the very smallest children in the Sunday school may never have been away without their parents. Many of the older ones, staying at summer camps, visiting friends or relatives, learn what the word nostalgia means when they long for the familiar home surroundings. Older people often have the same unhappy feelings when they are on vacation trips, when they move from one location to a new one, etc. It is a very unhappy experience, so we can imagine when the Jews of Judah found themselves bowed down with woe a fier being dragged against their will from their homes and compelled to stay in the strange land of Babylon.

How many people in our world are feeling the same as these exiles after having their homes destroyed by war, and themselves forced into camps for displaced persons, far from their homes.

So many hearts the world over can understand and sympathize with the feelings of the people of Judah who were captives in a strange land. This 137th Psalm is the saddest of all the Psalms:

"By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof."

MEMORY VERSE
"He will deliver us out of thine hand, O king. But if not, be it known unto thee, O King, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up." — Daniel 3:17-18.

"For there they that carried us away captive required of us a song; and they that wasted us required of us mirth, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Zion. How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?"

Jeremiah sent a letter to these first captives of Nebuchadnezzar telling them that the Lord had told him that the captivity would last for 70 years. The Lord counseled the Jews, "Build ye houses, and dwell in them; and plant gardens, and eat the fruit of them."

"Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands that they may bear sons and daughters; that ye may be increased there, and not diminished."

To settle down in that foreign land, to marry, bear children, build homes, to go into business and wax strong in exile—that was the program the Lord outlined for these homesick people. For the displaced persons of our own day that is a common-sense rule and what thousands are doing—making homes, earning their livings in "strange lands," and waxing strong in a free country.

The Lord also told His people to pray to Him, "And ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart." Then would the Lord "turn away your captivity; and I will gather you from all nations, and from all the places whither I have driven you, saith the Lord."

We will have to condense the thrilling story of the three young Jews who rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar for lack of space. The children should have the whole chapter read to them, or the story told to them in dramatic fashion so that they realize how brave these young men were.

Nebuchadnezzar had an image of gold made. It probably was not made of solid gold, but covered with gold, and it has been estimated that the image was 90 feet tall and nine feet broad. It may have been Nebuchadnezzar's own image, as kings of that period often erected images of themselves with inscriptions in their own praise, in conquered countries.

Nebuchadnezzar commanded that all the people in the city should bow down before this image and worship it, when they heard the sound of the many musical instruments. Apparently all the people did as commanded except three young Jews who were faithful to their God even unto death. The penalty for disobeying the king's command was death within the hour in a fiery furnace.

Some one told the king that these three—Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego—had not bowed in worship before the image, and they were brought before the king.

MORNING PEEPERS

By Joyce Connaway

Let us go back to around 9 this morning and take a look at the goings-on from the 500 block of East 15th Street through the 1800's.

The aroma of a baking cake was floating from the Robert L. Cook's window, at 500. Mrs. Thomas B. Adams, 501, was getting her little girl settled with her doll, playing so she could clean the house.

Not at home were the families of John V. Cherry, 504, James W. Hardy, 506, and Idell Ward, 507. Catching up on the daily facts was Mrs. Henry G. Hill, 511, as she read the newspaper.

"I was visiting with my daughter, Pat, before she went to work," explained Mrs. Denver D. Dunn, 512.

That three-times-a-day drudge, washing dishes, was occupying Mrs. Sterling F. Petty's time, 601. Mrs. Charles Boyd was actively engaged in cleaning house.

Enjoying a picture show through a home viewer was Mrs. Arnett C. Preston, 610. The phone continued to ring at the Asa L. Hobbs residence, 703.

The Erwin Daniels, 705, will have fresh peas for dinner today, for Mrs. Daniels was just putting them on to cook when I called.

Neighbors, Mrs. Dolly M. Anderson, 707, and Mrs. A. L. Fortson were chatting away when the phone rang at the Anderson home. Mrs. Pearl M. Edwards, 708, was moving the grass in the back yard. Mrs. R. Earl Wilson, 710, was not at home.

A sleepy-sounding voice managed to say "Hello" when the phone disturbed the sleep of Mrs. Durwood McCright, 711. I am also gully of awaking Mrs. William R. McGinnis, 801.

Off to the grocery store was Mrs. Floyd E. Tatum, 802, and Mrs. Nathaniel N. Hipp, 803, beat her to it, or at least, she was gone somewhere.

"Don't see her — don't know where she is" was the male reply when I asked for Mrs. Anthony C. Savage, 804. Mrs. William C. Mattingley, 805, was facing a job of shelling peas. No one reached for the phone at the Ira C. Raley place, 809.

"Having a cup of coffee," said Mrs. Carl L. Parker, 810. Someone was busy, talking, that is, at the James J. Millam home, 900, for I called three times and received a busy signal each try. Mrs. Minnie Stormes, 903, was not to be found. The iron was being pushed over the family wash by Mrs. Ted P. Gross, 907. Mrs. Charles R. Munselle, 910, was caught in the kitchen fixing breakfast.

"Taking care of my new grandson, Robert Paul Merwin, who was born just last week," said the proud relative, Mrs. Lewis H. Zerwerth, 911.

At 1000, the Eugene R. Peters were not at home. Scrubbing the bathroom was Mrs. Lee H. Williamson, 1001.

"I was gathering okra from my garden," explained Mrs. Bertha L. Hilliger, 1003. The Lindsey A. Marchbanks, 1004, did not answer the phone, nor did the Judson H. Loyde, 1007.

A busy signal at the Willis K. Christian home 1008, led me to dial the establishments of Omar L. Jones, 1009. A. J. Brown, 1200, Roy E. Ray, 1216; Carl B. Nunley, 1220; Thaddeus Rose, 1228; Ray A. Eckler, 1606; and Reginald H. Castle, 1610. All these and no answer.

Mrs. Lonnie E. Taylor, 1204, was ironing. Mrs. Jim E. Murphy, 1214, is on vacation. The line was buzzing madly at the Alvin T. Boren residence, 1401.

"Getting ready to go down town," explained Mrs. Bill R. Ward, 1608, while Mrs. Arlen G. Howie, 1614, was cleaning the bedroom.

Then I hit a no-answer streak. There was no sound but the continuous ringing at the E. L. Meeks, 1616, the A. D. Forrest, 1706, and the phone at the Jesse C. Woodard residence, 1806, has been disconnected.

When Juanita Stewart, 1808, answered the phone, it was a shock to hear a voice after all the ringing. She was eating breakfast.

Officers' Wives Give Talent Show Thursday

When the Officers' Wives' Club met Thursday afternoon at Ellis Hall, tables were decorated to represent the various months. May table was decorated with a parasol; the June table held a bride, and other tables were arranged in an appropriate manner.

Guests and members were seated at tables corresponding to their birth months. Members of Block Two were hostesses.

Mrs. Robert G. Woda introduced the following newcomers to Webb Air Force Base: Mrs. John L. Weber, Mrs. D. W. Pulliam, Mrs. D. D. Anderson, Mrs. Bill Stevens, Mrs. Everett W. Truxal, Mrs. D. E. Tally, Mrs. D. G. Siddall, Mrs. J. E. Nicols, Mrs. Dan Perkins, Mrs. James Monk and Mrs. William Henderson.

Guest of the month was announced as William Barker. Other guests were Mrs. Mark Brahe, Mrs. Lloyd Lile and Jean Grounds.

Following the business meeting, a talent show was given by members. "Toast of the Town" mistress of ceremonies was Mrs. R. L. Voorhies, who introduced a violin-piano duet, composed of Mrs. Siddall and Mrs. Hayes.

Mrs. Elliott Cohen and Mrs. F. D. Morris were featured in a dance act, and "Whatever Lola Wants, Lola Gets" was sung by Mrs. Pat Ward. Mrs. Ray Singer played a piano selection. Mrs. Morris sang, and an impressionistic song and dance act was given by Mrs. L.D. Ortolani and Mrs. Richard D. Christian. Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Connie Macky sang a duet to close the show.

Mrs. Johnson Attends Florist Convention

STANTON — Mrs. Eilmore Johnson attended the 42nd annual Texas State Florists' Convention at the Baker Hotel in Dallas last week.

The Lucky Seven Supper Club was entertained Tuesday evening with a dinner in the home of Mrs. Morris Zimmerman in Lamesa. Seven were present.

Family Reunion

FORSAN — Mrs. Pearl Scudday and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Hines and Elray have returned from an annual reunion of the D. S. Cunningham family held recently in Christoval. The four children attending were Mrs. Scudday, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cunningham, of Plains, Mr. and Mrs. Will Cunningham of Utopia and Mrs. Helen Kendrick of Brownfield. Seventy-six attended the gathering.

Guests in the Hines home have been Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cunningham of Dallas.

Good Hairdo Can Be Changed With Moods

By VIVIAN BROWN

These days a fashion-conscious woman is not satisfied with a one-style hairdo. She wants her hair cut and shaped in a manner that will lend itself to many coiffure variations.

Some impatient ladies are likely to want the impossible—a hairdo that is short and long at the same time, so that it can be combed into the style she admires at the moment.

The trend is toward satisfying this whim. Many salons are concentrating on the haircut which can be combed to suit the fancy. A coiffure wardrobe just designed by stylists of a department store beauty salon, is a boon to women who want to change their hairstyle to suit the occasion.

This hairdo permits a carefree look in summer, yet puts a woman in the well-groomed category for more formal occasions. The hair is blocked, shaped, tapered and thinned, all with versatility in mind. You can have a pompadour or bangs, page boy or fluff up at the sides, straight or swirled hair at the nape of the neck, all with one hairdo.

Your hairdresser should be told if you desire a haircut of this type. It is one that is cut at varying lengths, but designed so that strands smooth into each other for the long unbroken look when wanted. Short ends can be whipped up at a moment's notice to satisfy your yen for a curl here or there, too.

At a recent style show, a stylist for these salons, combed the hair of one model into six or seven attractive styles—all from the same basic haircut. She did look different in each one, all agreed, which goes to show that hairdressing is at last becoming an art.

Take A Look At Futures This Summer

AP Newsfeatures

Put your spare time to good use this summer.

If you haven't found a job don't twiddle your thumbs all day. Your vacation is a good time to take stock of your future.

What do you want to be? A tightrope walker, snake charmer, model, typist, designer? Or perhaps you're already engaged and planning your wedding.

No matter what your status of the moment, you may find a Self Improvement Course valuable.

The typewriter, for instance, is well worth mastering. It can help you cinch an ordinary job, and do bigger things in a job that doesn't require it.

Some of the jobs where a knowledge of typewriting is required or helps include these:

Receptionist, typist, office manager, public relations, life insurance agent, certified public accountant, statistician, home economist, librarian, social worker, teacher, advertising copy writer, newspaper woman, radio and TV, town, city or federal jobs.

A typewriting course should be available for what you have to spend. If you can't find one, borrow a typewriter and get a book on typing, and begin your finger lessons at once.

But say you have a yen to travel and work abroad some day. If you've decided on the country read up on its people, economy and climate. Study the language. If you can't afford a course right now, borrow language records and primers as a starter.

A girl especially good at mathematics might like to go in for a career in accounting, and books can help you do that.

An acting job in theatre or TV requires lots of ground work. Help out at a local summer theatre if you can. If that is not available now, study speech and dramatics.

If you enjoy the microscope, perhaps you could be useful in a local hospital. It is stimulating, too, for girls interested in a nursing career. Offer your services in any capacity to test your aptitude for this type of work.

A nose for news may be given a workout on a local paper if an editor is sympathetic. Copy girls with a serious purpose are usually welcome, and if they offer their services free, might get a break even if they aren't needed. The experience will be useful to any girl who wants to be a newspaper girl.

If you have a vivid imagination and a flair for words, perhaps fiction is your best bet. Books on that subject are being written by experts all the time, available at local libraries. There are books on television plays, too, and a new one by Paddy Chayefsky, (Simon and Schuster) a successful TV writer, just written gives useful information to neophytes.

The advantage of giving yourself a chance to learn whether you like the job you've been dreaming about is that you will not waste time when you've got to land a job at graduation time.

A maiden planning to be married soon may find cook books, home decorating books, and magazines and hope chest sewing, all worthwhile enterprises during summer months. She might try whipping up some of the casseroles, pies and omelets she finds recipes for. Cooking takes practice and a summer of kitchen mechanics should put any girl right up in the hostess bracket. Oh, yes, and don't forget to practice darning socks.

Take the cowboys up to the Roy Rogers era and have lots of fun reviving Pocohontas, John Smith and Hiawatha too.

The shipwrecked can bone up on Robinson Crusoe, Long John Silver and might even include naval heroes in battles. Don't forget Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton.

A costume for the shipwrecked girl would be a pair of shorts decorated with seashells or starfish sewed or pasted over them. A girdle of fish net would be cute. The blouse could be plain white sleeveless or another appropriate one.

Time On Your Hands?

Shine up your bicycle and take a trip. Take Dad's deep shine auto polish and clean enamel or lacquer as you rub it on. Shine as you wipe off the polish when dry. Then use a no-rub wax to give the bike a good finish and protection. You can use floor or paste wax on the saddle. Replace broken spokes. Keep good air pressure in tires as over-inflated ones can cause blow-outs and rough riding. Under-inflation may break tire sidewalls. Keep brakes in good repair. Check ball bearings.

Plans Progressing For New Phone System In Garden City

GARDEN CITY — A new telephone system is being formed in Garden City to compete with the exchange now in operation. The new system will be known as the Glasscock County Telephone Company, and it reportedly has picked up 100 subscribers already. Goal is 100 telephone connections. This new system, which apparently has the blessing of most townpeople, will be run on a cooperative basis with 21 directors. Shares are now being sold. A meeting of subscribers and committeemen was held last Monday night at the Glasscock County Courthouse, and it was announced that plans for the system are now being drawn. Bids for construction are expected to be asked in about two weeks, it was disclosed.

Local Bank Cited In 50-Year Roundup

The First National Bank in Big Spring is among the 241 Texas banks 50 or more years old which were honored in the current issue of Mid-Continent Banker, a regional banking journal. The issue also contains a history of Texas banking, written by James R. Kay, professor of finance at the University of Texas. The attitude of early Texans (in the 1830s) towards banking, says Professor Kay, was one of hostility. Many of the settlers had entered the area in an impoverished condition, which they ascribed to the evils of "wildcat" banking; and many were staunch advocates of Andrew Jackson, who had a definite antipathy toward banks. According to the Kay article, just one chartered bank operated in the state prior to the Civil War — the Commercial and Agriculture Bank, which was conservatively managed and served the people well until closing in 1858. The National Banking Act of 1863, as amended, says Professor Kay, provided the legal basis for the advent of a chartered, regulated banking system in Texas. The Austin professor traces the history of private banking in Texas, pointing out that their heyday was between the panics of 1873 and 1893, and explains how private banking spread. His history also describes the Act of 1905, which established a "free banking" system in Texas and achieved its immediate goal of bringing needed banks into being. The history continues through establishment of the Depositors' Guaranty Fund and Depositors' Guaranty Security System in 1934, the abolishment of the entire plan of deposit guaranty in 1927, the troubled 30s and the last 15 years, which, says Professor Kay, have been a period of unparalleled bank expansion in the Lone Star State as elsewhere and a period of growing liquidity and strength.

Scouts 10-In-One Meeting Monday

The Boy Scout monthly "ten-in-one" meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Howard County Junior College auditorium. The meeting was to have been held Thursday evening but was postponed due to a conflict with rodeo schedules, said Charles Weeg, district chairman. All Scouters of the district are urged to attend the Monday evening session as the fall program in Cubbing, Boy Scouting, and Exploring programs will be outlined. Program notebooks will be distributed.

Package Store Asks New Beer Permit

The article in the Herald on Thursday reporting refusal of an off-premises beer license renewal to Nathan's Grocery was in error. The application had been asked for Nathan's Package Store and not for the grocery, and it was for a new permit and not for a renewal. Protest was lodged by C. B. Arnold of the Texas Liquor Control Board and County Attorney Harvey Hooser under Article I, Section II, (7) which allows refusal of a permit on the grounds "that the piece or manner in which the applicant may conduct his business is of such a nature which, based on the general welfare, health, peace, morals and safety of the people and on the public sense of decency, warrants refusal," and also on grounds a traffic hazard might be created.

Postal Receipts Down

Post Office receipts for July showed a decrease compared to the same month last year, according to E. C. Boatler, postmaster. This year's July receipts totaled $16,416.54 while last year's amount was $18,561.15.

Midwest Gets Slight Cooling

By The Associated Press
Some of the scorched northern areas of the Midwest got a little cooling but another day of hot and humid weather was the outlook today for most of the nation. The season's longest heat wave held a tight grip on areas from the central and southern plains eastward to the Atlantic states. The hot weather continued across the southern tier of states. The cooler air which moved into the Northern Plains pushed south-eastward and the forward edge extended from eastern Lake Superior southwestward to northwestern Iowa. It was expected to continue to move southeastward to the southern shores of Lake Huron, southwestward through extreme northern Illinois and southern parts of Iowa by tonight.

Temperatures in the cooler areas were expected to be mostly in the 80s. But readings in the 90-100 degree range, which have prevailed for more than a week in many areas, again were forecast for today. The current heat wave was blamed for at least 61 deaths, with 20 in Iowa, 19 in Illinois, 17 in Missouri, 3 in Nebraska and 1 each in Connecticut and Virginia. Temperatures dropped yesterday as much as 26 degrees in parts of North Dakota from Wednesday's 100-degree marks. The 90-plus readings extended from the interior valleys of California and Oregon eastward to the Atlantic coastal and southern New England states.

Oil Rig Worker Slightly Injured

George Moorhead, 409 Nolan, received slight injuries yesterday when he slipped on an oil rig on which he was working. He was taken to Big Spring Hospital and hospital attendants report his condition to be good. Moorhead works for Wilbanks and Rutter Drilling Co.

City Has Funds For Storm Sewer Work

Big Spring taxpayers might be interested in knowing that the city still has $150,000 in uncollected bonds which were voted in 1931 for storm and sewer needs, announced City Manager H. W. Whitney. The manager said he was making the announcement because several people have inquired as to why storm sewer bonds are not being asked in the election next Tuesday with several other proposed issues.

Others have been wondering what happened to the money which was voted back in 1931 for the storm sewers. Not only does the city have the $150,000 in uncollected bonds, but it also has $63,100 available from the amount sold. This gives a total of $213,100 which can be spent for storm sewer installation or improvement here.

Manager Whitney stated that the money spent out of the bond fund was for construction of two detention dams in South Big Spring and a storm sewer on the north side of town. The other money is pledged solely for storm sewer construction and installation, and it will be spent when surveys are completed here to determine what can be done to improve storm and flood conditions. At the present time the city and county are participating in the cost of a survey on the lower reaches of Beal's Creek to determine what can be done about flood conditions in East Big Spring near the T&P Railroad tracks. Mayor G. W. Dabney has been quoted that the matter of regular sewer extensions are not being submitted in a bond issue proposal now because of the possibility of on-base housing for Webb Air Force Base. If the houses are constructed, he said, they would play a big part in determining the location and size of new outfall lines.

Deputy Defense Aide Sworn In WASHINGTON (AP)—Reuben B. Robertson Jr., was sworn in as deputy secretary of defense today in a White House ceremony which produced a facetious reference to a White House ceremony. Robertson, president of the Champion Paper & Fibre Co. of Hamilton, Ohio, was accompanied by his wife and six children ranging in age from 1 to 15 years. Also in the crowded Cabinet room were his parents, from Asheville, N.C.

Blood-Stained Auto, Bloody Clothing Of Woman Are Found

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A blood-stained automobile containing the ripped and bloody clothing of a wealthy young housewife was found abandoned on a busy thoroughfare early today and police theorized the missing woman had been kidnapped and slain. Mrs. Wilma Allen, 34, wife of William Allen Jr., North Kansas City Chevrolet dealer, and mother of two small boys, has been missing since she left a beauty parlor yesterday noon. Her 1935 convertible was found parked under a viaduct near 22nd and Broadway, by the Union Station, at 2:16 a.m.

Her 1935 convertible was found parked under a viaduct near 22nd and Broadway, by the Union Station, at 2:16 a.m. Mr. Eugene Pond, chief of detectives, said the rear seat and floor of the car were saturated with blood and that all of Mrs. Allen's clothing—lingerie, skirt, blouse and shoes—was stuffed into the trunk compartment. There was blood streaked along the chrome trim on one side of the car and on the rear bumper. Her purse was missing. Pond said, however, the attractive kimono had cashed a $20 check at the beauty parlor, paid $2 for her services there and that because of the small sum she apparently carried, robbery was not believed to have been a motive. Police were proceeding on the theory that Mrs. Allen had been driven to some isolated spot, slain and her body disposed of, and the car then driven to the spot where it was abandoned. Mrs. Allen is the mother of two sons, Billy, 11, and Bobby, 5. Police said friends described the Allen as a model couple. Her husband operates one of the city's larger Chevrolet agencies.

- 3. You Profit On The Resale
—because a Buick always resells high—brings you more money when you trade it in.

This Big Buick SPECIAL
2-Door, 6-Passenger Sedan, Model 48 (illustrated)
delivers locally for less than some models of the smaller cars
And the price drops a lot lower with the whopping big allowance we'll make on your present car!

THIS we've never seen before—a sales year that's shattering every record in the Buick book—a soaring success far greater than the one that moved Buick so solidly into the Big 3 of America's best sellers.

So we're going to share profits with you—by stretching our regular big trade-in allowances to practically our break-even point.

That means you can now buy the most wanted Buick ever built—for less than ever before.

That means you can have Buick style distinction and prestige—Buick room and comfort—Buick size and solidity—for plenty dollars less on the profit-sharing deals we're making now.

And that means you can have, at a terrific buy, the hottest-action Buick in history—with walloping V8 power raised to new highs, and with the spectacular performance of Variable Pitch Dynaflo®—world's first and only transmission using the switch-pitch principle of the modern plane's propeller.

Come in today—tomorrow, for sure—and see for yourself that you can now make the biggest buy of the year on the car that's far and away the thrill of the year.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick built today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Don Stevens, the former Lamesa High School and HCJC basketball standout, probably won't play next season.

Stevens, recently married, has another season of eligibility remaining at the University of Corpus Christi but he's planning now to attend Texas Tech.

He still has designs on being a coach, however. The court demeanor of Harold Davis, the HCJC mentor, made a deep impression on Don.

George Escobar, the rookie hurler returned to Corpus Christi recently by Midland, has drawn his release from the Clippers and returned to his native Cuba.

A troubled man is Billy Capps, the Midland baseball foreman. He can't understand why his ball club hasn't been winning.

He's made replacements all along the line but, for some reason, the Indians haven't jelled. He sent Newton Blanchard out and brought in Nick Hulsar to play first but he says Nick is no better with the stick than his predecessor and tries to be too fancy around the bag.

Glenn Selbo hasn't played up to par, although he's a good journeyman ball player.

Capps' mound staff is the thing that has been giving him fits. He had to rid the team of his most consistent winner, Bob Swanson, because of the veteran's attitude and indifference. Bill never knows what to him. Jess Priest is a question mark.

Eny Wilcox can't hit. Al Jimenez is carrying too much weight. Rudy Briner has slowed down. The league may be too fast for Chico Gonzales, the new second sacker who has just turned 17.

The Indians are too good to toboggan any farther, however. One good streak will insure them a spot in the playoffs.

Jim Payne, the SMU first baseman who hails from Odessa, has been playing baseball this summer with the semi-pro team at Jal. N. M.

It's a good bet that the Professional Golfers' Association will discard that antiquated rule which forbids new pros from competing in the POA Tournament until they've been members five years.

Big Spring's Billy Maxwell is only one of eight leading pros who couldn't play this year because of the regulation.

The rule was written with a selfish motive, in the first place. It's a holdover from the days when the veterans wanted to cut up the melon among themselves.

They're beating the tubs for the addition of both Wichita, Kansas, and Corpus Christi in the Texas League in 1956 but it's a good bet the Beaumont franchise will be transferred to Waco.

A man of wealth there has promised to provide the city with a new ball park, made to fit Texas League specifications.

Texas League operators pulled a prize boo-boo several years ago when they refused to admit Denver, which now is the best minor league club, attendance-wise, in the country.

Vallie Eaves, the ex-big leaguer who had his career in professional baseball shortened because of an absolute refusal to accept training rules, is now hurling for a Tishomingo, Oklahoma, sandlot nine. He was with Roswell briefly last year.

ODESSA MEETS COPS

Kids Get In Free At Game Tonight

Kids five to 15 years of age get a break at tonight's baseball game here between the Big Spring Cops and the Odessa Eagles, set for 8:15 p.m. Not only will they be admitted free, if accompanied by their parents, but they'll get tickets for "Davy Crockett Night," to be held in Steer Park the night of Saturday, Aug. 13.

Those ducats will serve two purposes. They'll admit the children to the Artesia-Big Spring engagement that evening and serve as chances on the pony, "Beauty," to be given away during the Aug. 13 contest.

"Beauty," incidentally, will come equipped with a saddle and bridle, and Big Spring's only concern now is trying to move out of the cellar. The Cops have been as high as sixth place in recent days but they hit the skids again and plopped back into the dungeons.

Roswell moves in here Saturday for the first of two engagements and both contests will be played in the afternoon.

Tomorrow's contest has been moved up to 2:30 to avoid conflict with the Big Spring rodeo. Sunday's game will be at 3 p.m.

Roswell has been playing the best ball in the league in recent weeks to win a solid hold on a first division berth.

Joe Bauman has been hitting home runs like the Bauman of old and Pete Simone and Dean Franks have given the Rockets consistently good pitching.

The Rockets will be making their final trip of the 1955 season here. After Sunday's engagement, the Cops have only 15 more home dates.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS
 To: RICARDO GOMEZ
 Defendant (s), Greeting:
 You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the Plaintiff (s) Petition at or before ten o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being Monday, the 11th day of September 1955, at or before ten o'clock A.M. before the Honorable District Court of Howard County, Texas, at the Court House of said County in said County, Texas.
 Said Plaintiff (s) Petition was filed in said court, on the 18th day of July A.D. 1955, in this cause, numbered 1954-0, on the docket of said court, and styled, Milla Walters Plaintiff (s), vs. Ricardo Gomez Defendant (s).
 A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:
 On the 18th day of November, 1947, G. B. Walters gave a Warranty Deed to Ricardo Gomez and wife Cruza Gomez, with the following described property:
 A tract of land 70 feet wide running East and West and 120 feet deep running South and North out of Tract No. 123,321, taken out of Wm. B. Curtis Subdivision of E. E. Section No. Four-two (42), Block No. Three-two (32), Township 1-North, T & P Ry. Co. 1-vey, Howard County, Texas, as fully described in and on the last page here-with.
 Said in fact they gave their note unto G. B. Walters for the purchase price of said property. After which, Cruza Gomez had doubted, and defendant Ricardo Gomez, is now defendant in said suit approved interest and Attorney's Fees. Milla Walters is the owner of said note as G. B. Walters is now dead. WHEREFORE, do, Milla Walters, seek FORFEITURE of said Vendor's Lien Note and a sale of said property, and in more fully shown by Plaintiff (s) Petition on file in this suit.
 If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unsevered.
 The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.
 Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court at Odessa in Big Spring, Texas, this 5th day of July A.D. 1955.

Midland Opposes Monahans Today

MIDLAND, (SC)—Midland and Monahans won first round games in the Sectional Little League playoffs here Thursday night. Midland topped Weatherford, 11-9, while Monahans whipped Roswell, N. M. 8-3, behind the five-hit hurling of Norman Smith. The two teams clash tonight for the championship.

Manager With Spark Plug

Boston Red Sox Manager Mike (Pinkey) Higgins sits on the steps of Fenway Park dugout in Boston with shortstop Billy Klaus, left, who is considered by most observers as the spark plug behind the team's current drive which propelled them from seventh place two months ago to a few games behind the league leader. Maxwell Fires 68 At Lubbock

LUBBOCK (SC)—Wendy Green of Midland and Sam Sadler of Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, tied for medalist honors in the Lubbock Invitational Golf Tournament, which started here Thursday.

Each had a four-under-par 67 on the 6,213-yard Lubbock Country Club course.

Bobby Maxwell of Big Spring tied with four others for third place, one stroke off the pace. Others in the 68 bracket included Dave Lawson, Lubbock; Jack Williams, Plainview; and Rex Baxter, Jr., Amarillo.

Sadler was the 1953 Kansas Amateur champion.

Maxwell was four under par going onto the final tee but shot a bogie five on the 18th to lose his chance for the medal.

TIL Continues To Show Growth

SAN ANTONIO (U)—The Texas race this fall will be the biggest in history—and that's the largest in the nation.

Rhea Williams, athletic director of the league, said here that there would be 897 teams in the six divisions of schoolboy football, representing a gain of seven over the all-time record of 1954.

So fast is schoolboy football growing that there will be a complete reclassification next year with the limit on Class AAAA from 1,200 enrollment down to 750, AAA from 550 to 370, AA from 225 to 200 and A from 125 to 115.

There will be 16 districts instead of eight in Classes AAAA and AAA with 32 classes AA and A as in the past.

Wide-Open Scrap Looms In Tourney At Chicago

CHICAGO (U)—The weather may switch on Tam O'Shanter's sun-scorched acres today, but lower temperatures or not, a wide-open second round scrap looms in the $25,000 All-American Golf Tourney.

The weather prediction is for a little cooler weather. A prediction on who will break the three-way tie for first between Wally Ulrich, Arnold Palmer and Ted Kroll was much harder to get.

They were dedlocked at 68, four under par. Only a stroke behind were 1955 PGA champion Doug Ford, Al Mengert, Tom Talkington, Jay Hebert, Bo Waininger, George Bolesta and Walker Inman Jr.

Two strokes off the pace in the chase for the $3,420 first prize were eight players knotted at 70. In all 45 players bettered or matched Tam's 69.15-yard par 72.

Withering 96-degree temperature browned the fairways and made the greens bumpy yesterday.

Doug Sanders, University of Florida star from Cedar town, Ga., took a 3-stroke lead among the men amateurs.

The top feminine shooter, in either pro or amateur play, was 18-year-old Wilfr Smith, 2 under women's par.

The women's pro leadership was shared at 75 by Patty Berg and Carol Bowman.

The All-American battling in merely a warmup for the $10,000 World tournament—with a $5,000 cash first prize—coming up here next weekend.

That may explain why defending All-American champion Jerry Barber eased off to an opening 71; why Slammin' Sammy Snead took a 72; why 1954 world winner Bob Toski placed at 73; and why the 1955 U. S. Open champ, Jack Fleck, produced an anemic 77.

98 Wins Will Do It, Says Cleveland's Boss Lopez

NEW YORK (U)—Al Lopez, with his Indians lead to first place, said he can do it with 95.

They occupied the top spot in the American League, will be satisfied if the Tribe wins 98 games. He thinks that will keep the pennant in Cleveland.

"And if you really press me I will admit there's more than a fair chance we can do it with 95," said the Cleveland manager after taking a 5-3 decision from the New York Yankees and moving within two percentage points of the front-running Chicago White Sox.

To reach 98 victories, 13 under their league record of 111 hung up in winning the 1954 flag, the Indians would need to take 34 of their remaining 48 games. That's a .708 pace, considerably faster than the 543 gait they've been traveling since July 4.

The White Sox, who have a .623 average since Independence Day, would have to win 35 of their remaining 50 to hit 98 triumphs on the head. The Yanks would need 35 wins and the Red Sox 38 in their remaining 48.

One thing that made Lopez a little more confident today after beating the Yanks two out of three and heading for Washington is the hitting of Al Rosen.

Before yesterday's game Lopez admitted he didn't have the answer for why such players as Rosen, Larry Doby and Bobby Avila are not hitting.

The Indians left 11 on the sacks but Lopez felt a little better—Rosen and Avila started hitting.

Avila, batting .282 compared to his league-leading .341 last year, connected with a double, Rosen, who hit an even .300 in 1954, lifted his average six percentage points to .254 as he came through with four singles in as many times at bat.

LL Play Is Bad For Boy, Claim

DES MOINES (U)—Little League baseball makes demands on boys 8 to 12 years old for which they are not equipped, says the Journal of the Iowa State Medical Society.

In an editorial in its August issue, the publication says that the Little League system is of dubious value as a means of preventing juvenile delinquency.

It continued:

"Little boys are put under considerable pressure to work—rather than play—several hours a day at learning and exhibiting skills for which, in most cases, their stage of development does not equip them.

"But Papa and often Mama too have made it crystal clear to him that he must 'make the team' or 'stay on the team...' on penalty of losing their affection and esteem."

The editorial states that due to the time when games are played junior frequently doesn't get to eat a well-balanced meal with the rest of the family but instead "eats peanut-butter sandwiches by himself at 8 o'clock each night."

Davey Williams Calls It Quits

ROCHESTER, Minn. (U)—A short-lived baseball career that started in the Dallas, Tex., sandlots ended this week for Davey Williams, New York Giants second baseman, in a consultation room at the Mayo Clinic here.

El Paso Defeated By Albuquerque

El Paso managed to break its scoreless drought against Albuquerque Thursday night, but they didn't score enough to keep the Dukes from retaining their narrow hold on the No. 1 spot in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

El Paso scored its first runs in 27 innings against Albuquerque, but the Dukes managed a 5-3 victory, leaving them with a half game ahead of Amarillo.

Amarillo edged out Clovis 8-6, while Plainview stopped skidding Pampa 6-4. Lubbock at Abilene was postponed because of rain.

The teams switch around Friday night, with Clovis at Plainview, Albuquerque at Lubbock, El Paso at Abilene and Amarillo at Pampa.

Prison Forgery Ring Discovered

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — Louisiana penitentiary officials today began burrowing through five years or more of records for further evidence of a forgery ring that freed at least a dozen convicts before their time.

For payments of $200 to $300, convict clerks in the ring erased records and invented new ones to reduce sentences and alter crimes of inmate customers.

In one case, a man sentenced to 10 years for armed robbery had his sentence shortened to two years and his offense changed to simple burglary.

Fugitive warrants were issued for seven men given gifts, reprieves by the ring. Records of all convicts in the past five years will be checked.

Tunisia Self-Rule Measure Passes

PARIS (AP) — A plan providing a large degree self-government for Tunisia was approved 254-25 today by the Council of the Republic, upper house of the French Parliament. It now goes to President Rene Coty for signature.

The program was announced last fall and largely ended anti-French violence in Tunisia. Trouble in France's other North African territories, Algeria and French Morocco, has been increasing steadily.

1,037 New Polio Cases In U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The states reported 1,037 new cases of polio for the week ended last Saturday, an increase of 23 cases or about 2.7 per cent from the week before. A Public Health Service spokesman said today the rise was "about exactly what could have been expected" for the season.

Crockett Aids Fur Business

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The man of the year among St. Louis dealers in raw fur is Davy Crockett, who died at the Alamo 120 years ago.

The demand for Davy Crockett hats and other frontier garb created by the current craze over the King of the Wild Frontier has enabled fur dealers to sell skins that had been taking up warehouse space for years.

"We have sold a lot of lemons that had been around for a long time — anything that had a tail on it," said one dealer. "And raccoon tails, which until recently had been almost worthless, went for $4 to $5 a pound."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

The wings of insects differ in countless ways. Today I shall answer some questions about them.

Q. Do all insects have wings?

A. No, there are some without wings at any stage in their careers. Bristle-tails are good examples of these. They live under logs, and have been called "the most primitive of all insects." Some of them venture into homes, where they eat glue in the bindings of books.

Q. How many wings does a winged insect have?

A. Four or two. A butterfly has four wings, and so does a bee. There are four wings on a wasp, also on a moth. Because its wings work together so well, a butterfly may seem to have only two wings, but close study shows that the number is four.

Q. On the other hand we have a vast number of two-winged flies. These include houseflies, gadflies, bot flies and crane flies, which belong to the Diptera, or two-winged order of insects.

Q. If flies, in general, have two wings, how does it happen that a dragonfly has four wings?

A. In addition to the two-winged flies of the Diptera order, many four-winged insects are called flies. Besides dragonflies, these include May flies, lantern flies, stone flies and others.

Q. Which kind of insect has the largest wings?

A. This honor belongs to the Atlas moth, which lives in India and on islands of the East Indies. Sometimes an Atlas moth has a wing-spread of 10 or 11 inches.

British Protest Freighter Attack

TAIPEI, Formosa, (AP) — Great Britain today protested to Nationalist China against an alleged attack by two of Chiang Kai-shek's planes on the British freighter Inchwells near the mainland port of Foochow Wednesday.

British Consul Alexander Herrmann made a personal call on Gov. C. K. Yen for the purpose.

The consul said a written protest will be delivered tomorrow. The press officer of the Nationalist air force headquarters in Taipei told newsmen he had not heard of the incident.

British reports said the Inchwells (1,890 tons) was attacked while at the Min River bar, west of the Matsus.

British reports said: Four bombs were near misses that caused shock damage. The freighter was also machine-gunned.

Big Name On Tour

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — A Malay with a mouthful of name left by plane today for Washington to "sell Malaya" to the United States. He is Raja Ayoub Bin Raja Haji Bot. Officially designated as Malayan colonial attaché to the British Embassy, he will make a six-month lecture tour.

Demos Split In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's fiercest political fight in years today found the two major candidates for the Democratic governor's nomination in a hard-driving finish to a furious campaign.

Saturday, Kentucky Democrats will choose between former Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, seeking to be governor again, and former Appellate Judge Bert T. Combs, making his first bid for statewide elective office with state administration backing.

The winner will run in the Nov. 8 general election. Five of the last seven governors have been Democrats.

But the Republicans are counting on factional bitterness among Democrats to put the first GOP governor in office since 1943. The term is for four years.

Rough Road For Adlai

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Sen. Long (D-La.) and Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said today Adlai E. Stevenson may face stiff competition for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination.

Long said Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, "certainly would have been more certain of the next nomination a year ago than now."

"He has not been active publicly recently and I believe other outstanding Democrats now have a chance," he added. Long declined to name any individuals.

Mundt said in a separate interview that "some outstanding Democrat other than Stevenson may be the candidate next year," and he added: "I think any other big-name Democrat would have a better chance than Stevenson." Mundt also mentioned no names.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.), who bid for the 1952 nomination, termed the former Illinois governor a front-runner for 1956.

"I think there are a number of great Democrats available for next year," Kerr said. "But, in my judgment, Stevenson is in a better position than the others now, nomination-wise."

President Eisenhower parried questions again yesterday about whether he will run again.

He told his news conference he could probably make up his mind right now if he could foresee 1956 world and domestic conditions "and my own situation, including the way I felt... the health and everything else."

But "I have not the gift of prophecy," he added.

Dr. Gen. Howard Snyder, the White House physician, has said Eisenhower is in excellent health for a man of his age.

Crows Prove Superstitious

WINNSBORO, La. (AP) — Hub Dear believes crows are superstitious. This, says Dear, makes them a cinch to keep out of watermelon patches. Just drive stakes at intervals through the patch and stretch string from stake to stake.

"Thinking the string is some kink or trap, he will not light in the patch where the string is placed," said Dear. "The crow is a smart bird but he is also very superstitious."

Dear discovered this version of the traditional scarecrow in 1917 and has used it since.
