Real Directors Are Urged by Douglas For Corporations

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9.—Chairman William Douglas of the securities exchange commission said today boards of directors of American corporations should be paid adequate salaries to attract "experience and wisdom" and make the directorates more useful and less ornamental.

Douglas said he believed "we are on the eve of a real resurgence in our economic affairs, a resurgence in which change in our corporate directorates will be an important and inspiring factor. Such change I consider inevitable because it will be difficult in the future to find men, who without real compensation, will have qualifications that go with real directorships."

HUGE BUDGET PLAN TO GO TO LEGISLATURE

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—A budget totaling $69,336,781 will go to the 46th Texas legislature from the State Board of Control shortly after it convenes tomorrow.

The budgeted expense of state government is estimated at only 20 per cent of the state's operating cost. The budget will cover two years beginning Sept. 31, 1939, at which time it is estimated the state general revenue fund will have a deficit of slightly more than $19,000,000.

"This large deficit," the State Board of Control said, "makes it impossible to balance the budget during the next biennium."

Several million-dollar-a-year departments are: prison, $1,783,514 for the first year and $1,794,514 for the second; public safety, $1,484,208 each year; and comptroller, $1,113,429 each year. Liquor control cost is set at $783,396 a year.

For courts the board estimated a need for $2,428,764 the first year and almost as much the second. The eleven Courts of Civil Appeals in the state cost about $29,000 a year each.

The requested appropriation is much less than that asked two years ago but more than the last legislature appropriated. "Two years ago the board asked for $91,134,668 and the legislators granted $62,858,357."

Using State Auditor Tom King's estimate of the proportion of budgeted state expense, the appropriations asked for the new legislature contemplates a state expense of $346,000,000 for the two years.

HULL WARNS WEST STATES STAND UNITED

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull warned aggressor states today the Western Hemisphere stands united in defense of its territorial integrity.

Hull voiced his warning when he returned aboard the S. S. Santa Maria from the Pan American conference at Lima, Peru. He was prepared to follow up President Roosevelt's latest warning to dictator nations with economic and diplomatic maneuvers.

Hull's statement was keyed to the spirit of unity which was developed among the nations of North and South America at the Lima conference.

These nations, he declared, do not desire isolation from the rest of the world, but are prepared to "maintain and defend the peace of this hemisphere, their territorial integrity, their own institutions and national policies."

He urged the world to adopt Pan-American ideals of good faith "designed to safeguard the rights of all peoples and nations, weak and strong."

He marked the lawlessness and international anarchy which exists in many parts of the world and said that the situation could be remedied only by universal acceptance of a code, based on respect of the rights of all nations and individuals.

The United States, he said, did not seek military or political alliances at the Lima conference, but desired to strengthen the cooperation of the Western Hemisphere in an Inter-American and world program for peace, and economic welfare.

INAUGURAL IS TO BE HELD IN OPEN JAN. 17TH

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—Plans for the open-air inauguration of Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel Jan. 17 have been completed by a citizens committee.

Exercises will begin in the stadium of the University of Texas at 10 a. m. O'Daniel will lead a school children's massed chorus in singing his own composition, "Beautiful, Beautiful Texas," just before taking his oath of office and delivering his inaugural speech over a nation-wide radio hook-up at approximately 12:30 p. m.

A huge military and band parade will follow the stadium exercises. At night he will attend a reception at Gregory gymnasium, at two hotels, at the state capitol, and finally a huge open air reception on Congress Avenue, north of the state capitol.

The hill-billy band which campaigned with him over Texas will appear at the open air reception. Before his address they will play "Beautiful, Beautiful Texas." At its close they will play the O'Daniel theme song then made familiar during the campaign: "Sons of the Alamo."

With added seats being provided, Chairman E. H. Perry of the committee estimated 70,000 people will be able to witness the inauguration.

O'Daniel will leave Fort Worth for Austin on Monday, Jan. 16. He will drive to Austin. A motor patrol escort will accompany him for the entire distance. He will spend the night before inauguration at the Driskill Hotel and go to the governor's mansion after the inauguration.

The school children's chorus will begin the first of three numbers at 11:50 a. m., led by Miss Nell Parmlee, state supervisor of music for the Department of Education.

First they will sing the state song, "Texas, Our Texas." While it is being sung O'Daniel will leave the platform in the stadium playing field and go to a smaller one at the north end of the stadium facing the end zone where the children will be seated. He will lead them in "Beautiful, Beautiful Texas" and return to the platform for his oath of office while the children sing "The Eyes of Texas."

Cannon to boom the governor's salute will be south of the stadium. A procession of 35 bands and a pageant of the history of Texas on a stage erected at the south end of the stadium will precede the inauguration proper.

Retiring Governor James V. Allred will make a brief talk and present O'Daniel.

At night there will be a public fireworks display.

Duchess of Kent In Woolen Hose Wish Of Australian People

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—A group of Australian women would like to see the Duchess of Kent set a new fashion by wearing woolen stockings when she comes to Australia next year.

The suggestion was made at a conference of the Country Women's Association that the duchess should be asked to set the fashion by wearing Australian woolen stockings and so help to boost the country's most important industry.

It was urged that in winter the women of Australia should wear wool instead of silk, and have the stockings in patterns similar to mens' golf stockings. One official of the association said it would be a nice gesture if the association presented the Duchess of Kent with a pair of woolen stockings with the royal crest embroidered in the pattern.

The suggestion, however, has met with a hostile reception from Sydney women.

It also suggested the early inauguration of a plan for training necessary personnel.

The committee report followed submission by Lindbergh of memoranda of German air strength to the army, navy and state departments.

RAINS BENEFIT MANY SECTORS OF THE STATE

Texas counted at least two dead Monday as farmers rejoiced over rain-soaked fields in most parts of the state, drenched by a heavy rainstorm that swept the state from the southwest, accompanied by high winds.

The wind reached tornado intensity at Cisco, in the mid-western part of the state, and at Dallas.

The dead were A. H. Archer, who was electrocuted at Dallas when a live wire fell on him, and W. P. Traylor, victim of a heart attack during the Dallas storm.

Property damage in Dallas was estimated at more than $100,000.

The Cisco tornado missed the town and struck a dairy farm owned by E. H. Strickland. Mrs. Strickland was bruised severely and Kenneth Manuel suffered two broken ribs when the home of the tenant on the Strickland farm collapsed.

Odesa was deluged by a cloud-burst which inundated the low-lying sections of the town. Hail added to the damage.

High winds and heavy rains whipped through Fort Worth late Sunday leveling trees in many places and breaking at least two plate glass windows.

Heavy rain fell in the Panhandle Sunday, in many places being the heaviest in 50 years. Rain, generally, was from one to two inches, with some places reporting three inches.

Four persons were injured when two cars collided in the rain near Clarendon Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Heath of Clarendon were reported in serious condition.

Their daughter, Ochanita, suffered lesser injuries while E. K. Marine, of Burkburnett, who was in the second automobile, was injured slightly.

Precipitation reports in the last 24 hours included McKinney 2.38 inches; Carrollton .66; Trinidad 1.15; Paolstein 1.30; Amarillo .70; Lubbock .78; El Paso 1.4; San Antonio .62.

Little Theater Play Has Unique Plot

One of man's fondest dreams will be fulfilled in the Little Theater's next offering "Goodnight, Please."

Who of us have not, at some time in his life waked up in the morning, yawned most vigorously, rolled over, and mumbled to himself, "Oh, how I would like to stay in bed for a week." That is just what Merideth Whitehouse, in the play, "Goodnight, Please," has been saying to himself for many years. Perhaps it is also wondered what would happen if such a thing took place.

As the play unfolds, the effect of this "fantastic" idea on the well-being of the other characters is seen as they watch another man really enjoy life for one week. As Burton the eviler says, "Seeing another man lying in bed, sir, doesn't seem to bring out the best in people." What this act does bring out is the story of a delightful one-act comedy which is to be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights, January 11 and 12, at the Comelce Theater along with the screen feature, "Service De-Luxe," starring Constance Bennett and Charlie Ruggles.

The director, Miss Virginia Weaver, reports that rehearsals are coming along in very fine shape with a cast including Ruth Weaver, Mrs. Raymond Overby, Mrs. Vera McElroy, Maurice Harkins, Roy Birmingham, Doc Harrington, and Bill Dreinhofer.

The advance ticket sale is well underway by the members of the Little Theater. Reports show that around 200 advance tickets have already been sold, which is a good indication of the faith of the Eastland public in the offerings of the Little Theater.

The Little Theater is a community project and operates to the profit of no individual. Eastland is one of the few cities of its size in this part of the country which has the distinction of having an active Little Theater in its midst, and should support its activities to the utmost.

RENDER JUDGMENT Judgment for $571.50 has been rendered by 88th district court in favor of the First National Bank of Cisco, plaintiff in a case against George Biggerstaff.

An Illustration of the 'American Way'

We do a good deal of talking about the "American way" of doing things, but we don't often stop to figure out exactly what it means. The last year's record in regard to traffic deaths offers a good example.

During 1938, approximately 31,500 people in the United States were killed by automobiles. That, heaven knows, is certainly an appalling figure; yet there is a lot of encouragement in it because it is about 8000 below the figure for 1937 and it indicates that the nation is at last beginning to solve its traffic death problem.

And is it in the way the problem was tackled, the things that were done to solve it and the way the machinery was set in motion that this much-talked-of "American way" can be seen in action.

Let it be admitted freely that there was a terrible delay in getting started. The yearly traffic toll was a shocking disgrace for years before anything very effective was done. Nevertheless, the public did at last wake up to the situation. Public opinion was stirred from the ground up, and elaborate studies of the things that could be done to take the hazards out of auto traffic were made—made by private organizations and by tax-supported bodies simultaneously.

So the problem was studied on a broad front. The best brains available were put to work on it. Every angle was examined, from the work of school safety patrols to the possibility of eliminating danger through better highway engineering. The results were pooled and made easily available to authorities everywhere. And then the campaign got under way.

Like the original study, it was carried on on a broad front. The public was given a course of education. Traffic codes were revised. New systems of police control were built up. And gradually the campaign began to be effective. People began to see that auto traffic was not an irresistible juggernaut but something that could be brought under control. The control was devised—and now we can be reasonably confident that within a few years the death toll will be got down to a level which a civilized community can view with some degree of equanimity.

Now all of that is a pretty fair sample of what we call the "American way"—or, if you prefer, the democratic way, the way of a free society—in operation.

It was not a campaign imposed from above. Instead it developed in response to a completely aroused and informed public opinion. There was no censorship to keep news of the situation from reaching the people; there was no repression to keep each man from speaking his mind about it; there was no regimentation to keep a score of solutions from being tried at once, so that a process of experimentation could call out the worthless ones.

Instead there was a pooling of brains, so to speak; a uniting of the nation's best thought and best effort. And because the program was evolved in that way, it will stick.

A Study in Faces as President Talks

Intent on the President's message to Congress is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, left, while she holds Commerce Secretary Hopkins' daughter, Diana, who cranes her neck to see what the President's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, is studying. Almost obscured from the camera is Frederick Delano, the President's uncle.

Astronomer Holds Year 1939 Should Be At Least 1943

PHILADELPHIA.—This year should be 1943 A. D., or perhaps 1944 or 1945, rather than 1939, according to James Stokley, associate director of the Franklin Institute in charge of astronomy. Josephus, the great historian, wrote that King Herod died soon after an eclipse of the moon. Stokley said, and the only such eclipse of that time in the Holy Land occurred on March 13, 4 B. C. Since Christ was born before Herod's death, his birth must have occurred at least four years before the time set by the Christian calendar, the astronomer explained. This year is 2599 in Japan, he said. According to the ancient Roman calendar, the year 2692 would begin Jan. 14. The Mohammedan new year begins at sunset Feb. 20, when 1358 is ushered in. Sunset on Sept. 13 will bring the Jewish year 5700 while the following day will be the beginning of 7448 of the Byzantine era.

Of course I don't mean Cynthia," she added hastily.

CYNTHIA CANTRELL was Aunt Mary's orphaned granddaughter, on whose education the old lady had spent a generous portion of her own not too generous income.

Janet had laughed and said, "Don't be funny, Cyn."

But she had gone out with a new undercurrent of excitement to dance again with Lance Barstow.

It was not, however, until one evening several weeks later that she realized how interested in him she really was.

Janet had gone to bed, frightened by her own sense of desolation. If missing one evening with Lance Barstow meant so much to her, how dangerously far she had come since she had dismissed him as just an amusing young man with a diffident, charming smile.

Next day they were engaged.

Now the door of Janet's room opened, and Cynthia came in, still wearing her hat and wrap.

"Involuntarily Janet's thoughts ran back to the evening when she first told Aunt Mary and Cynthia of her own engagement to Lance Barstow.

"Not since this morning," Janet said.

"Why?" Cynthia asked.

"But at something in her half-averted face and the too casual tone of her reply, Janet felt an unreasonable stir of uneasiness.

WHEN, just after she had come home from school six months ago, she had met Lance at a party, she had been amused and mystified by the importance this slim, blond, apparently diffident young

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

TAMIN D is the "guard" father of children in winter because it guards them while the sun is wan and clouds and storms sweep over the nursery.

Butter, salmon and sardines are good sources, too. A little, not very much, of this vitamin necessary for good bone and teeth development as well as the prevention of rickets, is contained in liver, cream, whole milk and oysters.

Nutrition experts urge mothers to give every child under two years of age at least 2 teaspoons of cod-liver oil a day, unless they are exposed to the direct rays of the summer sun. Or else to give them an equivalent amount of this vitamin from some other source.

Valuable Vitamin Added
Vitamin D is being added to natural and commercially produced foods in various ways.

Sometimes it is added by irradiation, that is, exposing the food to the rays of an ultra-violet lamp. Sometimes a concentrated form of Vitamin D is added directly to the food.

Irradiated milk contains 135 U. S. P. or international units per quart and some other forms of Vitamin D enriched milk have 400 units.

The number of units should be stated on the bottle label. All Vitamin D preparations must live up to the claims on their labels whenever these claims are expressed in units or dosages. Study these labels before buying.

But don't think that Vitamin D alone is all your children (and you) need to maintain vigorous health through the winter months.

No amount of Vitamin D can build bones and teeth in a child's body without the help of the "building stone" materials, calcium and phosphorus. Plenty of milk is essential to supply these minerals. And a diet well-balanced in all respects—plenty of fruits, fresh vegetables and eggs as well as cereals and meats—always a boost toward the desired goal of buoyant health through childhood and on into adult life.

Vitamin D enables the body to make the best use of the calcium and phosphorus supplied in food, by aiding the absorption of these minerals from the digested food in the intestine. The blood accordingly carries more building materials to the bones and a harder, more healthy bone structure is formed.

It is reported that the Securities and Exchange Commission is being "called off" in its study of the Trans-America Corporation.

The report is easily credited. It is said that every English Indian official has his pet Indian, every German Nazi his pet Jew.

Every Democratic administration—since the Democrats began to live on corporate denunciation—has its favorite corporation.

Every New Dealer has his pet economic royalist. And while the banks have been pretty generally badgered by the administration, one great bank has found itself singularly free.

This is the Trans-America Corporation, the vast bank holding company which spreads over California and into other states, including New York.

The Trans-America was well-favored under Hoover. One of the oddest of the odd loans of the RFC was not the 90 million dollar loan to Vice President Dawes' bank, but the hundred million dollar loan to the Trans-America.

It was the biggest and most secret. But when Hoover went out of power, Mr. Giannini, master of this great institution, turned up as an ardent friend of the New Deal.

And he has remained so to this day. Following the bank troubles of the Hoover days, a great outcry went up against the evils of holding company banking, particularly the kind in which the holding company that ran the bank also went in for all sorts of other business as well.

An argument can be made for holding company banking. It is not a good argument but at least it has some substance in it. It enables a single concern to operate a number of unit banks in a wide variety of places, utilizing the benefits of central management with the benefits of the widest autonomy in local management. But no argument can be made for a holding company which operates a lot of banks and at the same time operates hotels, real estate developments, life insurance companies, fire insurance companies and a score of other enterprises as well. This is what the Trans-America Corporation does and not one finger has been raised by banking authorities to correct this sort of thing.

But the SEC did raise a finger. It found in its investment trust investigation an investment trust hidden away among the complicated assets of the Trans-America. But investigating that investment trust without investigating the banks and all the other corporate gadgets of Trans-America was impossible, just as investigating a bank held up by a holding company is almost impossible.

At this point the SEC proceeded to investigate the holding company. But apparently it was reckoning without the McAdoo and O'Connors and other Democratic politicians in California. But they could not call off the SEC.

The question then is—who did it? (Copyright 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Year-End Moves By Tenant Farmers Cost Huge Sum

Year-end moves will cost Eastland County tenant farmers more than $22,350, and that is only the beginning of the cost to them and to the general public, it was stated by Geo. I. Lane, county supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

The supervisor estimated that 447 farm tenants of this county move every year. The actual cash cost is around $50 per family, he said, but the final cost to the tenant and to the public is much greater.

Most of the tenants who move could be stabilized through leasing methods which would encourage them to remain upon the same farm and to improve it, the supervisor stated. He said that the FSA flexible lease form, now being distributed by his office is winning favor with both landlords and tenants and that a considerable number of farms in this county will be operated under it during the coming year.

A tenant who stays upon a given piece of land for only a year has no opportunity to build up that land and no incentive to do it," Mr. Lane continued. "Instead he is inclined to take out of it all he can. The land owner may be struggling along like the tenant on an inadequate income. He has his money invested in the land and taxes to pay, so he also is interested in having the tenant get the most possible out of this year's crop, letting the future take care of itself. In many cases, the land does not live in the county or the state, and fails to realize what is happening to his soil."

With Our Wildlife

BY JOHN R. WOOD, State Game Warden

By JOHN R. WOOD, State Game Warden

Hunting Season Draws to a Close Many who ventured into the fields this past hunting season returned fairly well satisfied. But human nature makes most of us feel bad if we return with less than the bag limit of all species of game. This is a bad attitude to take, and I hope that many are learning that each individual must do his part in wildlife conservation in order to keep a steady flow of game for the future generations as well as for us hunters in the years to come.

Deer and turkey season will close December 31. Hunters who put their deer and turkey on cold storage within three days after the season closes will not be limited to the time that such game is kept there. There used to be a ten day limit, but this restriction has been removed.

Season on ducks, geese, and Bryant will close on December 29 at 4 p. m. Hunters will have three days to put these species on cold storage but they must be left there over ten days after the season closes. In other words all waterfowl must be out of cold storage by January 8, 1939.

Many hunters have been confused on the quail season, but the season on quail does not expire till January 16, 1939. This will give the sportsmen some 15 days to exercise their dogs and try to get their quota of birds. The rain in the past few days has put the ground in excellent condition for the pointers and setters to do their best work. The past dry season made it look like a dull year for the dogs.

Remember, quail hunters, while you are in the field, don't hesitate to kill that wild house cat, a quail's worst enemy. If tame house cats stroll too far away from the house, they are not doing any good at all.

The estimate of tenant farmers moving in this county was based upon the state average of approximately 40 per cent of tenants moving annually, and the last census figures which show the number of tenant farmers in this county to be 1,118.
