Expanding Public Domain May Solve Land Problems

Just at the time when everybody was getting accustomed to the idea that "the public domain is exhausted," lo and behold the public domain starts growing again.

Public ownership of land is gaining by leaps and bounds, not only as a result of widespread purchase by the federal and state governments, but by tax foreclosure.

For example, in 1938 Oregon owned 1,714,349 acres of land, with another $29,000,000 worth foreclosable because of tax delinquency.

Almost every state is faced with this problem in one degree or another. In little New Jersey nearly 900,000 acres of rural land are tax delinquent, a survey shows.

This state of things, regardless of whether it is a happy state or not, is a condition and not a theory.

States and counties are being forced to take steps to find out what to do with this newly acquired land, the American Society of Planning Officials reports. In 29 states foreclosed or abandoned land reverts to the counties, and in 19 states it reverts to the state.

That makes necessary a different approach to the problem in almost every case, for while counties are closer in touch with the local problem of the use of their land, most of them do not have enough money or enough land to institute much of a program.

Minnesota, Michigan, New York and Wisconsin classify the reverted lands as to whether it can produce anything, and whether it can be sold. Then they try to homestead, sell or exchange the land. Such lands as are useless for such purposes are usually turned into parks or game refuges.

The United States, and the individual states are thus rapidly acquiring a new and large public domain. The problem would seem to be to get to some of this land those farmers who no longer can find a place on developed lands, the migratory workers, the sharecroppers, and the dispossessed of the farm areas.

Starting at scratch, with land which cost the governments nothing but the loss of tax revenues, it should be possible to get much of this land back into the hands of individual owners, thus accomplishing the double object of producing more taxes and giving farm families a new start. Homesteaders built the country in the first place—maybe a new generation of homesteaders can help to rebuild it.

Driver Recalls the Old Chisholm Trail

By United Press
SPEARFISH, S. D. —Indians, road agents, swollen streams and heat were among the "wild west" dangers that harrassed early day cattle drivers as they moved thousands of Texas longhorns over the famous Chisholm trail into the vast pasturage of the north country.

So recalls Charles Graham, 81-year-old Spearfish old-timer, who spent 16 years in that spectacular drama of populating the bounding prairies of the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Kansas and Nebraska with cattle.

Graham's first trip over the historic Chisholm trail was in 1872 when but a lad of 13. From then until 1888 he gained his livelihood by following the old Indian road which led from Texas, through Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska and branched off throughout the great Northwest.

"Traveling in those days was plenty rough," the old-timer related. "Indians and road agents were always giving us trouble and I must have been in 20 or more fights. Occasionally I'd get nicked by a bullet but I never got hurt seriously."

The Indians always wanted pay for the use of their trail, Graham said. The cattlemen saw no reason why they should be paying the natives and didn't. Therefore an occasional raid from the Indians could be expected.

"It usually took three and a half months to move a herd of around 3,000 longhorns from Texas to Wyoming," he said. "Sometimes groups of different drivers would band together and move around 30,000 head on one trip."

The rivers always gave the cattlemen trouble, especially when they were high, Graham asserted. The dangerous streams were the Red River of the South, the Canadian, the Cimarron, the Arkansas, the Smoky Hill, the Republican, and the Platte.

Graham was the son of a Texas ranger. When he quit the cattle business in 1888, he opened a saloon in Beulah, Wyo., and later moved his business to Spearfish. With the advent of prohibition, he retired.

Court Records Show Why Husband's Gone

By United Press
NORTHAMPTON, Mass. —The best way to find a missing husband is to check with court records, it seems.

Mrs. Herbert Randall of Easthampton reported to police the other night that her husband had parked the car in front of the courthouse, sent the keys to her office, and had not been heard from since.

Investigation showed he had been sentenced to six days in jail on a contempt of court charge.

Milk Drinking In Factories Grows

By United Press
GENEVA.—Two and a quarter million thirsty workers in 7,000 British factories are drinking milk at the rate of 8,500,000 gallons a year. That is one of the many facts reported in the League's survey of national nutrition policies.

Britain's milk - in - industry scheme has shown excellent results on the health of workers who "down tools" for a few minutes every day while they drink milk. The factories using the scheme report far fewer absences, and milk retailers report no adverse effects on their sales. Cheap milk is also provided for hundreds of thousands of poor school children.

The league's survey reveals that governments all over the world are becoming increasingly nutrition-conscious. More governments are following the example of the United States and Norway, in helping the farmers' economy and building the poor man's health, by buying up surplus stock of high-value nutritive foods and reselling at lower prices.

Throughout Europe and the Americas especially, governments are conducting campaigns for more milk, and cheap milk, for the poor.

Norway, for example, last year allotted $210,000 for the provision of cheap milk and $57,000 for

It's Very Seldom This Miss Misses

In France the national milk propaganda committee distributes milk to school children in 367 centers, while more than 200 special milk dispensaries provide free milk for thousands of children up to the age of 3, each one being card-indexed so a record may be kept on the effects of the government's diet.

More and more countries are setting up national nutrition committees which are concentrating on nutritional education, and their efforts are beginning to take effect also in the improvement of food production.

The Dutch, for example, annually are training 30,000 girls of all classes, in nutritional science, while in France the national childhood committee is telling even girls how to rear a baby.

Advertising A SERVICE TO YOU

HOW ARE YOUR RESOLUTIONS HOLDING OUT?

By this time, a lot of the resolutions that were so shining bright on New Year's Day are badly bent or broken. Maybe your resolutions were too lofty to allow for human frailties. We'd like to suggest another resolution that is both easy and profitable to keep. It's just like this: Read the advertisements regularly. Sounds childishly simple, doesn't it? But it makes sense when you stop to think about it. You have a certain amount of money to spend for all the things your family needs. It's up to you to get the most out of it. And the advertising pages of this paper can help you. Here merchants and manufacturers advertise their best values, their lowest prices. They know they can build business only by giving you satisfaction. You know you can depend upon the things they advertise. It works both ways. Watch for "specials" for seasonal sales, for news of new foods and new conveniences. You'll learn the best time to buy winter coats or bathing suits. You'll learn prices, styles, brands. You'll shop without wasting time or steps. And you'll live a lot more comfortably.

Oil and Farming Have Few on Rolls Of This Legislature

AUSTIN, Tex.—Agriculture and oil are Texas' biggest industries but they have comparatively few active participants on the roll of the Texas legislature.

The senate has one out-and-out farmer in George Moffett of Chillicothe. Another new senator, Doss Hardin of Waco, has a farming business in addition to his law practice, and three of the senators engage in ranching as business in addition to law practice.

The house has 26 of its 150 members who give farming or ranching as their sole or partial occupation when not at Austin, lawmaking.

Rep. C. E. Nicholson of Port Neches is the only house member who gives oil as an occupation. He is a refiner. Sen. Morris Roberts of Pettus is an oil producer.

Lawyers, as usual, make up the majority of the membership in the senate. Sixty-three house members are attorneys.

It has been seldom in the past half century that the house of representatives has not had at least one minister-member who could open a session with prayer in the absence of the chaplain. The 46th house is no exception. On its

Famous Chair May Be In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex.—The chair on which Jesse James was standing when he was killed by Bob Ford in St. Joseph, Mo., is believed to be somewhere in Fort Worth and vicinity.

James was standing on the chair, hanging a picture of himself, the story of his death relates, when Ford entered the room and shot him.

Shortly after James' death, a neighbor, M. P. Cloudas, was engaged as auctioneer to sell off the furniture in the James home. Cloudas reserved the chair, bought it himself, and later gave it to a grandson, Claude Manning, who brought it to Fort Worth more than 25 years ago.

The chair, a straight-backed, old-fashioned type with a hickory bark bottom, was given to L. L. Hawes by Manning, and the Hawes family in turn passed it along to T. B. Saunders, a livestock commissioner.

Saunders recently has started looking for the chair, which he believes is stored either at a house which he owns or at his ranch.

New Fire Bomb So Light Plane Carries 2,000 In a Load

LONDON.—A new type incendiary bomb, which is so light that one large bomber could carry 2,000 of them, was described by A. R. Astbury, technical adviser to the Home Office, at a London conference on air raid precaution materials.

The "Kilo-electron" incendiary bomb which he described makes use of the inflammable metal magnesium. Ten or 20 of the bombs would be released from a plane at the same time, and they would fall at the rate of 250 feet a second, spreading apart as they fell.

"It has been calculated," he said, "that one large bomber flying in a straight line at 200 miles an hour at 5,000 feet or more and releasing 20 bombs per second over an area containing 15 percent buildings, might be able to start a fire over 60 or 70 yards.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer RAW fruit keeps the winter diet sunny, cooked fruits make a warming variation on this theme.

Fried Bananas (Serves 4 to 6) Five bananas, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon finely chopped chives, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, cayenne pepper.

Peel bananas, scrape smooth and cut into thirds. Heat butter. Brown bananas, cooking over moderately hot flame for 3 or 4 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley and chives. Cover.

Cook 10 minutes longer over low flame, shaking the pan gently to prevent sticking. Sprinkle with lemon juice and serve piping hot.

Baked Spiced Oranges (For roast meat) (Serves 6) Three navel oranges, 6 teaspoons brown sugar, 3 teaspoons butter, nutmeg, cinnamon.

Cut oranges in half, crosswise. Loosen segments with knife or scissors, top each half with brown sugar, butter and a little nutmeg and cinnamon.

Arrange oranges in shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Serve hot as garnish for a roast.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, codfish cakes, buttered toast, cherry marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Clear tomato soup in cups, tuna fish and celery salad, whole wheat muffins, stewed apricots and almonds, tea, milk.

DINNER: Fried fish filets, lemon butter, creamed potatoes, spinach timbales, fruit turnovers, coffee, milk.

Fruit Turnovers

Three cups finely chopped apple with skin, 1-2 cup lemon juice, 1 cup raisins which have been scalded, chopped and drained, 1-2 cup chopped nuts, 1-4 cup orange marmalade, 2 cups sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon ginger.

Combine these ingredients. Makes 1 quart. Store in sealed sterilized jars.

Use pie pastry for turnovers. Cut into small squares.

Place a spoonful of fruit mixture in center of each. Fold over to make triangles. Crimp edges. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for about 20 minutes, until nicely "sun-tanned."

roll is the Rev. John E. Roach of Forney. At one time, in their zeal to separate church and state, the people declared ministers ineligible to serve in the legislature, but the constitution of 1876 admitted them.

The house has one representative of a trade that is rapidly becoming extinct. Rep. W. J. Galbreath of Wharton is a blacksmith.

Rep. B. J. Leyendecker of Laredo has no other business. He is 72 and has retired. Courtney Hunt, 60, of Haskell is a retired merchant.

Sleeper Sees Red in Soup

"This stuff smells phony"—that's the verdict of Representative Cleveland Sleeper, Jr., Maine state legislator, who would make it illegal to add tomatoes to clam chowder. He blames infiltration of foreign ideas, charges "a Red plot to destroy cherished traditions."

Several members are entitled to hold two estates under Burke's definition of a "fourth estate."

Sen. L. J. Sulak of LaGrange is a publisher of several newspapers. In the house there will be Publisher Grady Roberts of Munday, Publisher James E. Taylor of Kerens, and Newspaper Correspondent Maurice Dowell of Luling.

Rep. Homer Leonard, former McAllen publisher, now is an employing printer and Rep. P. L. Anderson of San Antonio is a linotype who for many years held a speed record.

Holding an office and publishing a paper is no new experience for Representative Taylor. He has been mayor of Kerens and resigned, effective on the last day of 1933. He will continue to edit The Kerens Tribune while he serves as a member of the legislature. Senator Sulak has continued his publications while serving in the senate.

Four University of Texas students arranged their class schedules so they can act also as house members. The legislature has 13 Texas-exes in the senate and 48 in the house. Two former students of Texas A. & M. College who come to the senate at this session are George Moffett and Penrose Metcalfe.
