

Firemen Escape Injury As Truck Hits Car on Bridge, Jumps Ditch, Mows Down Fence And Trees

Ranger firemen narrowly escaped serious injury Friday when a Ranger fire truck, which they were answering an alarm, sideswiped an automobile on a wooden bridge on Clay street and went out of control.

Isabell and Prock, both licensed drivers, were on the truck when the alarm was sounded. When the vehicles collided the steering of the truck was thrown off commission and the truck slid nearly 100 yards, mowing down a picket fence, crossing a ditch and mowing down mesquite trees before it came to a stop.

The driver of the car was not injured. The truck was overturned and the front wheel scraped the ground for several feet. The impact, which tore the board and fenders from the truck, caused the fire truck to swerve to the right, into a shallow ditch and nearly struck the floor boards.

After tearing out a section of the fence the truck mowed a circular path through the trees and came to a stop. The driver of the fire truck was not injured. The driver of the other car was not injured. The truck sustained considerable damage.

Firemen rushed back to the truck expecting to find the driver killed someone, and to find the only damage to the two vehicles.

Prock said that one of the first things he thought of when the truck hit was low-hanging branches or light wires, which would decapitate both the driver and the passenger.

Isabell said today, "and when I got back to see if anyone was hurt. We just knew we must be killed."

Prock had one hand slightly on the back of the driver of the car was not injured. The other truck reached the ditch, which was on the right, where it was overturned but for a clubhouse of the boys in the neighborhood.

NEW FIGHTING PLANE TESTS ARE APPROVED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—A revolutionary, single-seater, twin-engine fighting plane, possibly the fastest in the world, was announced today as a surprise development of the United States air force.

Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Corps, admitted the plane had made nearly 400 miles an hour in tests. He said that it "probably exceeded in performance any military plane in the world."

The ship was built in secret by the Lockheed Aircraft Company at its plant in Burbank, Calif. A month ago the plane was secretly removed to the army air base at March Field, for a series of tests, which pleased the heads of the air force.

It was estimated that the new plane is nearly 100 miles an hour faster than most of the present single-engine pursuit planes in use by armies of foreign countries. It is much faster than pursuit planes which the U. S. Army is now flying.

Amis being deepened from 3,360 feet to 3,900 feet in the Ellenburger three-fourths mile west of Eastland. Location of the well, which before deepening work began was producing about 100,000 cubic feet of gas daily, is in section 29-2-H&T.C. Saturday a depth of 3,450 feet had been attained.

Spurred this week also in Eastland county was Campbell and Reeves No. 1 C. U. Connelley estate, Nancy Cessy survey, from which oil or gas will be sought in the 1,350-foot depth.

Also taking its place as one of the features of the week in this area was completion of Green and Owens No. 1 Westbrook Oil Company, one-half mile northwest of Santa Anna, Coleman county, for 157 barrels daily from a sand, 1,886-94 feet. It is in the D. A. Jackson No. 153 survey.

The Visit of Dr. Aranha an Opportunity for U. S.

The choice of Dr. Oswaldo Aranha as Brazil's representative in forthcoming conferences at the White House is a happy one. The United States welcomes Dr. Aranha, now en route to the U. S., as a friend, not only a proved friend of our country, but a friend of democratic governments, for which he has fought unceasingly in his own country.

Dr. Aranha is a man of delightful personality which won him hundreds of personal friendships when he was ambassador to Washington from Brazil. He is a fast thinker, and a hard worker, one to whom President Roosevelt should be able to talk understandingly and on equal terms.

They can not fail to find a great deal in common in the fact that Dr. Aranha has been in Brazil one of the leading bulwarks against Fascist influences in that country, a devoted friend of democracy and orderly procedure, and in every way one of the most distinguished of Brazil's sons.

The White House conferences between Dr. Aranha and President Roosevelt and other U. S. officials should give direct evidence of the intention to carry forward in deeds the words of the Declaration of Lima and the resolution of the Americas to preserve a free system of trade as against private and discriminatory deals between special countries.

Without excluding any other countries, or in any way barring them from legitimate trade with Brazil, there are many ways in which greater trade and closer co-operation between Brazil and the United States may be stimulated. In many important commercial respects, Brazil with its coffee and rubber, cacao and manganese, tin and diamonds, all lacking to continental United States, is complementary to U. S. economy, while the rise of a manufacturing economy, the building of railroads and roads, and the general rise in standards of living offers plenty of opportunity for the United States to furnish a large share of manufactured goods necessary to the upbuilding of Brazil.

Brazil has been traditionally friendly to the United States, and this visit of Dr. Aranha offers an opportunity to see how the two nations may be of greater service to one another.

As in later talks expected to follow with representatives of other South American countries, there is no longer any wish for diplomatic or commercial "victories." The need today is to apply intelligence to find ways in which each country may help the other. Then there will be no lack of byproducts of understanding and amity.

Events in the Spanish war remind that not a single unstrategic spot has changed hands during the war.

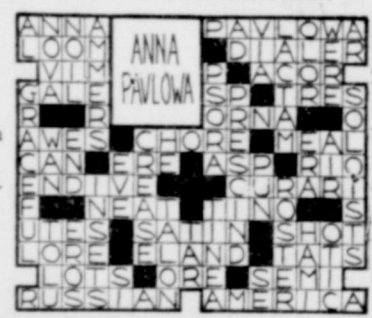

The statement that people the world around are much alike is not apt to please anybody capable of reading about the others.

Health's Good at 88, Because of Ride Each Day In Buggy

NORTH EASTON, Mass.—Geo. W. McLaughlin, 88, attributes his longevity to his daily routine—including a drive in his horse and buggy. Adhering to the "early bird" maxim, he gets up at dawn to do his chores. After breakfast, he hitches up his trotter and by 7:30 A. M. is on his way to Brockton. Until recently he made this trip daily, but now drives over only every other day. He estimates he has driven about 150,000 miles in the past three decades, and to add 10,000 more before he retires. He doesn't worry about safety-stickers. He has the best two-wheel brakes, excellent. Besides, he shifts at intersections and lets the fellow go first. McLaughlin says he has never had an automobile, though he's had a few chances.

Public cordially invited. "Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 12.

The Golden Text is: "Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord" (Isaiah 25:9).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living" (Psalms 116:9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Immortality, exempt from age or decay, has a glory of its own,—the radiance of soul. Immortal men and women are models of spiritual sense, drawn by perfect Mind and reflecting those higher conceptions of loveliness which transcend all material sense" (page 247).

Legacy Is Left In Form of Patents

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO—Joseph B. Strauss, builder of the Golden Gate and San Francisco Bay bridges, left as the principal items of his estate, 105 patents, ranging from toys to the most complicated engineering devices.

Ranking as one of the greatest bridge builders and inventors of his day, Strauss, his attorneys said, would have died almost penniless had he not been shortly before his death a suit for $260,000 covering extra fees in construction

Besides the 105 patents which are still valid, more than that number of patents on other inventions had expired at the time of his death.

His attorneys, in asking for an appraisal of the 105 valid patents, estimated they may be worth anywhere from $10 to $10,000,000.

As an indication of the breadth of Strauss' inventive genius, the list of patents submitted for appraisal includes such things as barrier devices to safeguard motorists before railway crossings, rapid transit devices, concrete cars, pavement, care dumping, building construction, aeronautics, automotive and searchlight devices, and toll collection systems for bridges.

The most sensational of his inof the two San Francisco bridges, according to his attorneys, but one that only engineers can understand, is the bascule, or counterweight device, used in big bridge construction.

His automatic yielding barrier for vehicles at railroad crossings, which was patented in 1931, is credited with preventing 86 automobile accidents, and probably saving twice that many lives.

An aerial coaster, invented in 1922 as one of his amusement devices, is being considered by New York World's Fair officials as one of the attractions.

Most of Strauss' inventions are conceded to be too complicated for the layman to understand but have, according to his attorneys, revolutionized many aspects of rapid transit and bridge building.

IT LOOKS LIKE A SNAP— AND IT IS!

This week's papers carried a news story which should interest every citizen in Eastland who owns his home, or other property here, where the streets abutting the property is not paved.

The Government, with the City as sponsors, offers to put down a type of paving that will last for many years—long after we are dead and gone—if the property owner will pay for only a part of the cost of the curb and gutter, or about 70 cents per linear foot.

There is nothing that adds stability and value to a town and its real estate like well paved streets. Aside from beautifying, repairing and living in one's own home, the enjoyment derived from residing on a paved street ranks a close second.

Each street group should organize now, appoint its committees, go to work, and in a few hours time every street could be signed up. Who will be first? The Government and City are ready!

The Concept of Human Existence

The predominate and most vital question which confronts mankind in the sojourn of this life is: What am I here for, and what does each moment, hour, day, year, and the passing into eternity mean for me?

Darkened curtains envelope the light of day when we fail to realize that it is but a supreme blessing endowed from on high, which permits us to view the rising and setting of each day's sun.

There are but two concepts of life, namely, God's concept of man, and man's concept of God and man.

We are taught that it is not the things which enter the mouth of man which defiles, but the evil thoughts which issue from the heart.

When man receives an impression of he properly assimilates that impression and affords a clean expression from the heart.

Who knows but that in the heart chamber of that body imprisoned in the confines of lost liberty may utter prayers for those who have their liberty.

The thought here is: You may make a man's body captive but a man's heart remains free to express. Our proof here might be Bunyan, who wrote "Bunyan's Pilgrim of Progress."

Weigh the value of time for in so doing you may find golden opportunities, and at the end, salvation of your soul.

A Thought

What would happen to constitutional government, if a certain proposed bill, which we understand would place the declaration of war and the management of the war department into the hands of five men, which would act separate and not under the authority of congress?

We feel that this is the most grave question confronting our democracy at the present time. We feel that it is at least worth every true-blooded American's time to let our congressmen and senators know our attitude.

How Play the Game of Life?

Life is a game whether you play it well or poorly. What is the value of a game, if we do not have enough enthusiasm to fight for the goal which we wish to accomplish? How far will we be the victor in the game if we fail to express enough interest and determined purpose? Suppose you have no choice as to the outcome? Do you think you would get a joy out of playing the game?

We must tackle the game of life enthusiastically; endeavoring daily to brighten the lives of others; in this we find the crowning peak of happiness. The happiest moment in one's life is to know that you through some little word or deed made someone happy.

Should you come in contact with a critic, give him your best. Let him see in you things worth living for. Look for a motive in life and you will see a real reason for living.

He that allows himself to be a worm need not grumble, if he is trodden upon.

Let us look at life as the little bird who sings through rain or sunshine, and the day will come to us in joy and the art of true living come, as the drops of refreshing rain. It will soothe and brighten the wearied moments.
