

Exports Increasingly Important To Growing Economy of Texas

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Export sales of Texas agricultural products are now at the $1.76 billion level. That's about 30 percent of our agricultural output and a sizeable part of the State's total economy.

In specific crops, international sales represent an even larger share of the market: 60 percent of Texas soybeans, 68 percent of rice, 44 percent of cotton, and 35 percent of sorghum is exported.

Scientists with Texas A&M University and The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have cooperated with producer groups and USDA to expand our international markets.

For example, the Sorghum Producers Association, through the U.S. Feed Grains Council, recently sent a team to Southeast Asia to present information on the quality of U.S. sorghum.

The team consisted of Mr. Elbert Harp, Executive Vice President, Sorghum Producers Association; Dr. L. W. Rooney, professor of cereal chemistry with the Experiment Station at Texas A&M; and Professor John Brethour, animal nutritionist with the Kansas Experiment Station.

In Korea, Taiwan, Philippines, Malaysia, and Hong Kong, many potential customers — animal nutritionists, feed manufacturers, agronomists, economists, grain buyers, and government officials heard clear, factual presentations on the properties of sorghum and its proper use in livestock feeds.

The disadvantages as well as the advantages of using sorghum were presented in detail. The team was able to present a favorable image of U.S. sorghum because it could draw upon the latest research accomplished in the U.S.

Considerable time was spent answering questions relating to high-tannin types of sorghum compared to yellow sorghums. Sorghum quality is widely misunderstood and considered to be poorer than it is because many buyers have had bad experiences with high-tannin sorghums sold by other countries, such as Argentina.

The combined information on the basic chemistry of the sorghum kernel along with the latest nutritional data made a good first impression. But additional follow-up work will be necessary. A week after the seminar in Taiwan, the Feed Industry Association of that country placed a tender for bids for 800,000 to 1,200,000 bushels of sorghum per month. If these sales materialize, they could increase sorghum exports by 14.4 million bushels annually, which would increase total exports by as much as 6 percent.

Markets are available, Rooney says, but they must be developed by long-term educational programs.

In this regard, much has been done, and more remains to be done, in international market development by the Texas Agricultural Market Research and Development Center.

Scientists with the Center at Texas A&M University are doing research designed to explore opportunities for expanded producer-to-producer trade in different countries.

One comprehensive, recently published study, "International Cooperative Coordination in World Grain Trade," was done cooperatively by scientists at the Center and the Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service, USDA. It's expected to result in increased sales of grain in international markets through improved cooperation among co-op organizations.

To collect information on trade policies, agricultural policies, and import and export activities of producer organizations, Station economists visited 20 countries in the past 2 years.

The importing countries included Japan, the countries of the European Economic Community (EEC), Brazil, Spain, Portugal, Taiwan, and South Korea.

Drs. Ron Knutson, Mike Cook, and Tom Sporerle alerted buyers in each of these countries to the advantages of using Texas as a source of grain and cotton.

Already, as a result of the visit of economists to Japan, a trade delegation from that country visited Texas A&M University for more information.

Texas A&M has the potential for becoming a center for training people in international trade and marketing; the Department of Agricultural Economics is expanding instruction in these areas.

Research on consumer food product marketing in four countries, South Korea, Sri Lanka, Jamaica, and Guyana has been conducted by Dr. John Nichols, marketing economist with the Experiment Station and Texas A&M.

Evaluation of market development aspects of nutrition-improvement programs, using low-cost, nutritionally improved foods, has been the object of part of Nichols' research. Future research is expected to analyze factors influencing consumer demand for improved processed-food products in developing countries.

But another aspect of Station marketing knowledge and influence concerns educating policy makers in analyzing effects of foreign imports and the need for effective controls.

For example, under current laws, beef imports are not curtailed until they can damage glutted domestic markets. A part of the problem, according to Dr. Don Farris, economist with Texas A&M and the Experiment Station, is that many industrialized countries have very restrictive trade policies.

And though the U.S. is the largest beef producer, it is also the world's largest beef importer. Farris, an internationally recognized authority on marketing, says that because of many countries' restrictive policies, in times of world beef surplus the U.S. market has to absorb most of this excess.

His study and research on this problem reveal, Farris says, that both the U.S. and the world market for beef can be substantially improved if trade regulations can be reduced in countries with the highest prices. International organizations such as GATT (General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade), can aid in this effort.

If this were done, the U.S. would continue to import non-fed beef but could export a great deal of grain-fed beef.

In the meantime, Farris contends, the U.S. needs a beef import quota to assure the U.S. beef industry that the domestic market will not be damaged by the world's surplus beef being dumped in the U.S.

All these marketing experts emphasize that the role of the Experiment Station and A&M is largely supportive; individual producers, acting collectively through their producer organizations, bear the major burden of market development.

But a great reservoir of scientific knowledge and expert research by scientists with the Experiment Station and Texas A&M is available to help such groups help themselves.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

When your children begin to feed themselves, use heavy mugs with handles for milk because they're less easy to tip over.

Cashmere sweaters need special care. Follow directions carefully when hand washing. The small balls, which form on the surface, can be removed with a dry sponge or sweater comb.

Purple price marks, which are transferred to countertops, can be removed with a cloth dampened in a solution of half chlorine bleach and half water.

When buying towels, absorbency should be considered. White towels are the most absorbent, followed by pastels.

On Wall Street By Bob Hill

Saudi Arabia and the United States have enjoyed a "special relationship" over the years. But the failure of the Saudis to hold back a price boost in oil produced by the OPEC countries is now raising doubts in Washington about the value of this "special relationship."

The Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senator Frank Church, has been highly critical of the Saudis. Now officials fear that the Iranian crisis will weaken Saudi willingness and ability to support the U.S. However, there is still a strong consensus in Washington that the U.S. has no choice but to continue to get along well with the Saudis, because the Saudis are a moderating influence in OPEC and in the Arab world. They are the key to peace in the Middle East. The loss of oil production from Iran has put the Saudis in a tough spot because the other OPEC nations will have to make up the continuing shortfall of Iranian oil production. Hence the pressure of other OPEC nations to ram through price increases. It obviously weakens any argument for price restraint. Most important is the fact that the Saudis are pumping oil at near capacity levels in order to make up the loss of Iranian production. So the implicit threat used by the Saudis in the past -- that they would boost output to break an OPEC price increase that they thought was too high -- has lost its force.

Politically, the crumbling of the monarchy in Iran, due to a reckless pace of modernization, has made the Saudis fell all the more dependent on U.S. protection. But the loss of the policing help of Iran in the Persian Gulf, particularly to protect Saudi Arabia from Iraq, is forcing the Saudis to mend fences in Baghdad and other Arab capitals. At the same time there was widespread Arab anger at the Camp David agreement between Egypt and Israel and the Saudis were one of the unhappiest. This is why they joined the other Arab governments in denouncing the accord in November. They fear it will lead to a sell out of Palestinian interests.

Skateboard Injuries Increasing

Skateboarding ranks high as one of the most likely ways of picking up a painful, and sometimes, fatal injury.

Between 1975 and 1977, 25 people in the U.S. lost their lives in skateboard accidents, and another 106,000 skateboarders ended up in hospital emergency rooms, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Skateboard-related injuries increased by 30 times during the past four years since 1973 -- from 3,680 to the 106,000 mark reported a year ago.

Findings concerning these injuries and deaths include:

- All 25 of the deaths from skateboarding involved head injuries.
- One-third of the injury victims had been skating for less than a week.
- Most were seriously hurt the first time they tried skateboarding.
- Most frequently injured were skaters in the 10 - 14 year age group.
- Fractures represented one third of all injuries.

Four hazard patterns were recognized as most dangerous for skateboarders. Skaters could have avoided an estimated 35 percent of these hospital-treated injuries if they had paid attention to the following hazards, and:

1. Avoided skating from hard to soft surface areas such as roadway to grass or dirt.
2. Avoided skating where fixed objects such as trees and shrubbery are prevalent.
3. Did not skate on public roads.
4. Did not skate on unimproved sidewalks or in alleys.

Be sure to check equipment before use and wear proper clothing -- including gloves, shoes, elbow and knee pads, and helmet for maximum protection.

Boost Performance Of First-Calf Heifers

"First-calf heifers often experience rebreeding problems due to a number of stress factors," points out Dr. John C. Spitzer, livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"For instance, the first-calf heifer is required to perform all the body functions of a mature cow, such as body maintenance, lactation and rebreeding. Parturition itself may place a greater stress on a heifer, especially if she experiences calving difficulty."

A first-calf heifer is also attempting to grow, and this problem is compounded by the shedding of incisor teeth which limits her ability to chew feed, adds the Texas A&M University System specialist.

To get first-calf heifers back on their breeding track fast, Spitzer offers two general management practices which should become standard procedure in cattle operations:

1. Separate heifers from mature cows the last three months of gestation and through the breeding season. This will keep heifers from having to compete with mature cows for available feed.
2. Breed virgin heifers 20 to 30 days earlier than the regular cow herd to assure early calving. Calving early will give heifers enough time to return to heat during the second breeding season, which would then correspond to that of the regular cow herd.

If a producer is short on feed or is faced with his heifers at calving time, he should wean calves early or alter the suckling pattern. Weaning calves at 30 to 90 days of age removes one of the primary stresses on heifers and makes more nutrients available for other body functions such as growth and rebreeding.

An alternative is to limit nursing to one time per day for 30 to 45 minutes until the heifer shows heat. This should not begin before 30 days after calving and can run for about 45 days.

Research by Dr. Ron Randel with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has shown that once daily suckling can dramatically decrease the interval from calving to first heat after calving while having little effect on a heifer's milk production or total calf gain to weaning, notes Spitzer.

"Giving heifers in your beef herd a little special treatment can boost their reproductive performance," contends the specialist, "and can mean more dollars in future years of production due to a larger calf crop as well as increased weaning weights of early-born calves."

The key to a profitable cattle operation is to get a calf from each cow every 12 months.

Workforce to be older during next generation.

True 100 percent permanent press, 100 percent cotton shirts are on their way, showing high promise of accounting for the consumption of millions of yards of cotton cloth and thousands of bales of cotton in years to come.

Van Heusen Company has introduced such a shirt in some 30 markets across the country and according to a company spokesman, quoted by the Wall Street Journal, "It is selling like the blue blazes."

The shirts are already in Houston and clerks report sales so fast they are "almost walking out the door." They are expected in at least one Lubbock store in February.

Another major manufacturer, Arrow, also expects to begin moving similar shirts into several hundred markets next month. Dan River Mills, again according to the Wall Street Journal, is "extremely excited" about the company's future "partly because of anticipated brisk sales next year of a new wrinkle-free all-cotton shirt Dan River helped to develop."

Robert Small, Dan River Chairman and Chief Executive officer, was quoted as saying orders for the new shirts have doubled earlier expectations and that the company expects to sharply increase production of its permanent press shirt fabric.

Cotton regained a big chunk of the shirting fabric market beginning in 1977 with "Natural Blend" 60 percent cotton, 40 percent polyester no-iron shirts developed by Cotton Incorporated (CI), the cotton producer's fiber company. But the CI staff kept its eye on a no-iron 100 percent cotton shirt as the means to even bigger gains on synthetic competitors.

Now, thanks to cotton growers who support CI, advertising and promotional dollars are being allocated to help bring 100 percent cotton shirt sales back to a level not seen in many years.

"This is just one of the things, along with 'Fire Stop,' 'Sanforset,' and 'Sanfor-knit' cottons, foam finishing of cotton fabrics and other developments from CI that are helping cotton to retard the loss of markets to synthetic manufacturers," says Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

"Add these to the advancements in production, harvesting and handling efficiencies that have come about as a result of CI's work," Johnson says, "and it leaves no room for doubt that producer contributions to CI are an excellent investment."

Texas Auction Activity Slower

head, decreased 20 percent from September, 1977, he noted. Hog sales were down 15 percent to 47,000 head, and sheep and lambs dropped 32 percent to 80,000 head. September goat sales totaled 28,000 head, compared to 38,000 head a year ago.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—One of the first decisions I made after being sworn in as the 46th Attorney General of Texas was to consolidate the office's antitrust and consumer protection divisions, in order to better coordinate our efforts in both of these two consumer-related areas.

The way in which our Consumer Protection unit works to benefit individual consumers is widely known, but it's less well known that the work of our antitrust unit also can have a direct, beneficial effect on Texas consumers.

That's because Texas consumers and the Texas business climate and economy are best served when there is free and vigorous competition in the marketplace.

Buyers then get the widest possible choice of products at the lowest possible prices, and businesses have an equal chance for the consumer's dollar.

When competition is reduced by one business monopolizing a certain market, or when businesses that ordinarily would be competitors agree to fix prices, carve up territory, or boycott other firms selling at lower prices, honest merchants trying to compete fairly suffer. Consumers who buy the product suffer, too, because the end result of almost every violation of antitrust laws is higher prices to the consumer.

The Attorney General is charged with protecting the State's interest in maintaining a free, competitive economy. When antitrust violations are found, he may prosecute actions in court under State or federal law. Under Texas' antitrust law, the State is entitled to civil penalties of between $50 and $1500 per day of violation of the law. Or, the Attorney General may proceed under federal antitrust laws which enable an injured party to collect three times the amount of damages. In such cases, our office would be representing a class of governmental entities, such as State agencies, cities, school districts, or others which, as actual users of a product, have suffered direct financial injury.

Of course, the State's actions have no effect on the right of individual consumers who have been injured by price-fixing to retain an attorney and pursue a private course of action to recover their losses.

Antitrust laws are neither anti-business laws nor efforts to regulate business or interfere with free enterprise. As a matter of fact, enforcement of our antitrust laws can benefit all legitimate businesses, as well as all individual consumers, by breaking down artificial and illegal barriers to free competition for you, the consumer.

If, as a consumer, you have a question about antitrust laws and how they relate to you, contact our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division. If you need help with a consumer complaint, you can also contact the division, or your county or district attorney.

Meat Output Shows 3% Rise In October

AUSTIN—Texas slaughterhouses reported a total output of 368 million pounds of red meat during October, an increase of 3 percent from last year, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

October cattle slaughter was down 1 percent to 555,800 head. However, calf slaughter was down by some 53 percent to 30,000 head. This figure reflects the increasing value of younger calves for use as herd replacements and to go into feedlots.

October hog slaughter was up 2 percent to 90,600 head, Brown noted. Some 87,600 head of sheep and lambs were slaughtered during the month, a 13-percent increase from a year ago.

Cord Offers Only Reliable Way To Measure Firewood

AUSTIN—Consumers who purchase firewood by the pile or pickup load instead of by the cord may risk losing a stack of money, notes the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"Without a reliable standard to go by, it is very difficult to accurately measure how much wood you are getting and what is its true cost," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said. "Although the majority of wood vendors are honest, often it is not enough to rely only on their word or on guessing, especially with the current price of firewood."

Brown stated that Texas law requires all firewood offered for sale be advertised and sold by the cord, and not in arbitrary amounts such as truckloads. A cord is a reasonably tight stack of wood with dimensions totaling 128 cubic feet, he pointed out. The normal measurement is four feet wide, four feet high and eight feet long.

"On several occasions we have had reports of consumers who were shorted by as much as $75 worth of wood because they allowed the seller to simply dump the wood in a pile instead of stacking it," Brown noted. "In one recent case a pile of wood which a man had purchased turned out to contain only a half-cord instead of the two cords he paid for."

Brown pointed out that some dishonest dealers convince the buyer to allow themselves of fair treatment are:

1. Measure off the dimensions of a cord in a specific location, such as against a fence, and insist that all deliveries be stacked in that spot.
2. Always purchase firewood by the cord or portion of a cord.
3. Have wood delivered only while at home, and always check the dimensions of the delivery.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas lawmakers, in their first week on the job, waded through rules and committee appointment preliminaries—and heard outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe recommend a $1 billion tax cut.

What they were really interested in, however, was the message they would get later after new Republican Gov. Bill Clements' inauguration January 16.

Briscoe handed lawmakers in joint session a $19.8 billion proposed budget for 1980-81.

The legislators already had the Legislative Budget Board version of the new budget—a billion dollars higher—or $20.8 billion. Hearings were scheduled to begin on it this week.

Clements, like Briscoe, also will push for a tax cut in the neighborhood of $1 billion.

Both also urged legislators to adopt a constitutional amendment to allow Texans to initiate or veto major tax legislation.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, moving out the first day of the 66th session, named a full roster of standing committees which process legislation.

The budget-writing finance committee is headed by Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene. Hobby switched Sen. A. R. "Babe" Schwartz from chairmanship of jurisprudence to natural resources, and named Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls chairman of jurisprudence. The latter committee will hold hearings on the controversial initiative and referendum legislation.

Senate Opens Up

In a surprise move, the Texas Senate voted to alter drastically its historic rule permitting secret sessions to consider appointments by the governor.

Senators voted 18-13 for a rules amendment by Sen. Schwartz to abolish a directive that the appointments be debated behind closed doors.

Actually, they went along with Schwartz a decade ago and permitted suspension of the closed session rule by majority vote. They have frequently suspended the rule and gone into open consideration of nominations.

Schwartz has been pushing for 18 years to get rid of all closed sessions.

"All I want to do is switch the emphasis from closed sessions to open sessions on nominations," said Schwartz. "We can still hold an executive session if senators will stand up and vote for one."

Under the old rule, senators had to stand up and vote for an open session when an appointment was under consideration.

Contest Heard

A House committee Wednesday recommended rejection of a contest of the election of Rep. Don Cartwright, San Antonio.

The committee, refereeing the first such challenge brought before the House in four decades, heard testimony for two days.

Kae T. Patrick, a Republican defeated by Cartwright, brought the challenge, alleging election irregularities, improper campaign tactics and unconstitutional boundaries in the House district. He also pointed to charges brought against the lawmaker long ago; but the committee did not consider them, and held there was no showing enough votes were changed by the matters complained of by Patrick to change the election outcome.

Courts Speak

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals rejected the appeal of a former Houston district judge from an eight-year sentence for taking a bribe.

The court also upheld the murder conviction of a Corpus Christi man in the death of sportsman Randy Farenthold.

In another murder case, the court affirmed the capital conviction of a Lufkin man.

The State Supreme Court held penalties for violation of consumer protection laws could be collected in Dallas County on basis of a Washington state judgment.

The high court set arguments January 31 in a stock controversy among radio station owners.

A State Banking Board decision allowing a Hearne state bank to move to College Station also will be reviewed by the Supreme Court January 31.

Appointments Announced

Fred Williams of Houston is the new executive director of the State Democratic party, and Joyce Sampson of Austin is program director.

Briscoe appointed Joel M. Cummings of Houston to the board of regents of the University of Houston and Harlan Rogers Crow of Dallas to the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board.

Tom E. Elliott of Lubbock was named to the Metric System Advisory Council and Robert R. Norris of Lubbock as a member of the Texas Conservation Foundation.

The governor appointed Russell H. Perry of Dallas to the Texas Turnpike Authority board of directors.

Short Snorts

Texas Railroad Commission ordered reconsideration of its 1975 order for electric utilities and industries to phase out natural gas use for boiler fuel.

Hugh Yantis, ousted last summer by the Senate from the State Insurance Board, was dumped by senators again—from a minor agency, the Texas Coastal and Marine Council which paid no salary. Yantis said his term expired this week anyway.

Thirteen applications to register $13.4 million in securities for sale in Texas were filed with the State Securities board during the last week.

Major General Thomas S. Bishop, the state adjutant general, has been promoted to brevet lieutenant general in the military forces of Texas.

A public hearing is set February 21 on revision in fire, windstorm and extended coverage insurance rates and forms. Texas senators voted themselves an increase of $500 to $7,000 a month each for hiring staff members during the legislative session.

Bob Krueger, who lost the 1978 U.S. Senate race to incumbent John Tower, is telling people he intends to run for some office in the future.

A senate committee ordered drafting of legislation which would transfer parole supervision to the Texas Department of Corrections or the state adult probation commission. The panel also recommended abolishing the governor's veto power over paroles to individuals.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek has discovered a new program out of Washington.

Dear editor: There are two things hard to keep up with: in what foreign country the next crisis is going to break out or what happened to the last one, and what new program Washington has thought up for us here at home.

Fashion
Leather belts are very much in fashion for 1979. The "cinch" belt is back as well as other styles.

Soft, floating fabrics are in for spring. A graceful two-piece dress is attractive and slimming.

I leave the foreign countries to somebody else. Trying to understand the internal affairs of the nations of the world is like trying to keep personally informed on the internal affairs of every county government in the United States. I don't even know what's going on in Lamb County.

But the latest program out of Washington has caught my attention. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is launching a program to teach kids how to watch television. It proposes to teach children to form their own judgement about what they watch, to analyze and criticize programs and commercials, to not be taken in by them.

This may be a very commendable program but it has its dangers. If you teach a kid to distinguish between a good program and a bad one, what is to keep him from carrying the idea a step further and start distinguishing between the good teachers and the sorry ones? Or, later on, the good politicians from the lousy ones?

I'm not sure this program has been thought through. Anyway, HEW is financing the program, which will cost only a few million, a mere drop in the bucket, although government sometimes doesn't seem aware that maybe its bucket has a hole in it.

Speaking of government spending, I was listening to two men talking about the subject. One said:

"We've got to cut out all this government waste. You can't solve a problem by throwing money at it."

The other said:
"Throw some at me and let's see."

Yours faithfully, J.A.

NURSERY SALES IS CONFAB TOPIC...

Effective seasonal promotions will be a major topic of discussion at the annual Nurserymen's Short Course at Texas A&M University January 22-23. Other discussions will deal with increasing profits, fertilization systems, slow-release fertilizers, pesticide use, and hiring and keeping personnel.

THE EFFECT ON TEXAS of an upcoming federal review board proposal could be tremendous if the suggestion is taken seriously, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown notes.

"According to statements made by U. S. Sec. of Agriculture Bob Bergland, a federal panel plans to recommend that government price supports and farm loans be eliminated for irrigated farms and ranches," Brown said. "While this would apply only to states where water supplies are short, Texas would be included, as well as most of the states west of the Mississippi River."

"The impact on Texas would be tremendous, especially when 60 per cent of our crop production comes from irrigated operations," he stated.

Brown added, however, that he does not believe this proposal will be seriously considered by the administration, and would run into stiff opposition from farm state political leaders.

Too many individuals fail to read their insurance policies until after they suffer a loss.

ATTENTION--ALL CORN GROWERS

The High Plains Farm Barbaining Association is now legally chartered to bargain for producers of food grade corn and other commodities in the State Of Texas. A committee has been in contact with purchaser's of food grade corn (both white and yellow). We recommend that farmers thoroughly read, consider and understand all aspects that regard price, grade, variety, moisture, crackage, shrinkage and shrinkage per centage, hauling, long lines, field loss, extra spraying, lower yields before signing any contract .All of these things considered, we believe that the contract offered to date is less than the present market price. The Committee believes that anything less than $6 for yellow food corn and $7 for white food corn will be a loss for the grower considering inflation in costs of production. Plans are being made to consider ensilage contracts and high moisture corn contracts. The cooperation is vitally needed by all corn growers and potential corn growers to support this bargaining effort. There may never be another opportunity like this one.

Cabot To Purchase TUCO From SPS

Southwestern Public Service Company and Cabot Corporation jointly announced today the agreement, in principle, by both Boards of Directors for the acquisition by a Cabot subsidiary of all of the outstanding stock of TUCO Inc., a Southwestern subsidiary. The purchase price will be in excess of $30 million. Conclusion of the sale is conditioned upon negotiation of certain additional contracts and on final approval of the respective Boards of Directors.

TEC Gives Figures On Texas' Workers

A strengthening Texas economy saw more people at work during 1978 than in the previous year. The Texas Employment Commission, in its annual report, says that the Texas labor force passed six million in four months of the year, and that actual employment rose more than 4 percent. The bottom line is 5.1 percent jobless rate for the state, one of the lower ones in the nation and well under the 5.8 percent national jobless rate. At fiscal year-end, about 6,041,200 people among Texas' 13 million were

Comptroller Gives Figures On Collection

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday said his office has collected nearly three quarters of a million dollars in back taxes with a computerized system that denies paychecks to anyone owing the state money. Bullock said by using modern electronics his office will automatically withhold a warrant or paycheck to persons or businesses who have a tax delinquency. "If they owe us money and we owe them one, our computer will kick out the state warrant and we can hold it until the debt is cleared," he said.

He said during the past six months the program identified more than 26,341 businesses who owed taxes and collected $729,663 in overdue taxes. Bullock said most of those owing back taxes settle up quickly so that their warrants will be released. The Comptroller's computerized payee system provides strict enforcement of a state law prohibiting the Comptroller's Office from issuing a warrant -- paycheck -- to anyone owing state money. In addition to spotting delinquent taxpayers, the statewide accounting system used for warrant control also means faster processing of warrants and more complete financial information for state budget supervisors. Bullock said the majority of delinquent tax accounts found by the computer involved individuals and businesses owing back state and city sales tax.

supply natural gas, fuel oil and coal to several of Southwestern's power stations. They have built, or acquired, approximately 500 miles of gas pipeline through which purchased gas is gathered and they own two gas processing plants in which the gas is processed and then transported to Southwestern's power stations for use as fuel. Gas delivery amounts to about 55,000 MCF/day. Natural gas liquid production is about 104,000 gallons per day. The liquids are sold in the liquid fuel products market. TUCO also supplies the coal burned at Southwestern's either working or were between jobs looking for work -- 5.7 million of the former and over 300,000 of the latter, the commission estimates. Efforts to place people in jobs, a basic function of the Commission, were successful in that 480,916 job placements were posted, an increase of 4.3 percent over 1977. Non-farm job placements showed the largest increase. Agricultural placements were down 5 percent. The Commission continued to emphasize services to employers, and to applicants, receiving more than 728,000 job openings from employers, and making 1,653,800 referrals to those openings. On an annual basis, the Texas economy showed steady improvement in its unemployment rate, which was at 5.8 percent in 1976, dropped to 5.4 in 1977, then went to the year-end 5.1.

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment gained 4.9 percent over the year, led by manufacturing with 950,200 at the end of the fiscal year. Increases in nonelectrical machinery, electric and electronic equipment and transportation equipment led the durable goods, while printing and publishing was the bright performer among nondurable goods. Nonmanufacturing employment was on the rise, featuring increases in mining and government. Agricultural employment continued to decline, hitting 210,300 at the end of the year. The "average" production worker in Texas manufacturing was earning $5.95 per hour for a 40.8 hour week in August of 1978, an average weekly wage of $242.76. A year earlier, it was $5.41, 41.1 and $222.35.

1978 was also a signal year for unemployment insurance developments. Fewer people filed claims for the regular state jobless benefits -- almost 40,000 fewer than 1977, and so benefits paid out dropped by $7 million plus, to $140.8 million. Payroll tax payments by 236,224 employers in the Texas Unemployment Compensation Fund, which finances jobless benefits, brought the fund balance to $333,784,000, high enough to trigger a tax rate reduction for some employers not already paying the minimum rate in 1979. About 71 percent of the experience-rated employers of the state are already paying the minimum tax rate of 1/10 of one percent.

A recession-era Federal unemployment benefit program, Special Unemployment Assistance, was terminated by Federal legislation June 30, 1978.

recently constructed Harrington Station near Amarillo, Texas. Current coal use is about 8,000 tons per day for the first two Harrington units. About 130,000,000 tons will be used over the useful life of all three units at Harrington Station. TUCO purchases coal from mines located in Wyoming. TUCO will supply about 47% of Southwestern's fuel requirements, on a BTU basis, this year.

Southwestern Public Service Company is an electric utility company serving approximately 286,000 electric customers in a 45,000 square mile territory in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. Southwestern stated that a principle reason for considering sale of TUCO to Cabot is that Cabot is a long established, independent oil and gas company and that Cabot has indicated a willingness to give TUCO, and, thus, Southwestern, the first opportunity to purchase additional supplies of natural gas resulting from Cabot's exploration activities over a broad area. This further commitment, coupled with the dedication of all contracts presently held by TUCO relative to fuel supplies to Southwestern, will materially enhance TUCO's capabilities to supply Southwestern with a firm, independent fuel supply.

Cabot Corporation, in addition to other business activities, explores for, develops and produces crude oil and natural gas, owns gas gathering systems and operates four natural gas processing plants for the extraction of natural gas liquids. Cabot's daily production in its fiscal year, ended September 30, 1978, was 3273 barrels of crude oil and condensate, 96,000 MCF of natural gas and 270,000 gallons of natural gas liquids. In 1978 Cabot participated in the drilling of 146 wells and spent approximately $24.5 million on its oil and gas exploration and development program. Cabot stated that the acquisition of TUCO would not only provide an expansion of Cabot's traditional gas gathering and processing activities, but would also offer it the opportunity to participate in the expected growth of the coal business. In addition to its energy business, Cabot also manufactures engineered products and performance chemicals.

Federal Land Bank Chooses Two Directors

Ray Robertson of Plainview and W. Clyde Ikins of Kent recently were elected to serve three year terms of office on the Tenth District's Farm Credit Board of Directors. Their terms officially started January 1.

Robertson and Ikins became part of the seven-person board of directors who participate in policy matters which affect the Farm Credit System in Texas. The FC System includes the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston and Production Credit Associations, the Federal Land Bank of Houston and its Associations and the Houston Bank for Cooperatives.

Robertson was elected by the Production Credit Associations of Texas and currently serves as a director of Plainview PCA. A farmer and cattle rancher, he grows corn on 1,000 acres and custom harvests corn and wheat. Robertson is a member of the Federal Land Bank Association, Dimmitt Agricultural Industries, Castro Cooperative Gin, Dimmitt Consumers and Hereford Consumers. He succeeded C.R. (Pete) Duran of the Pine-hill Community near Henderson who retired after serving 20 years on the Houston Board.

Ikins, rancher and owner of El Rancho Encantado, raises Brangus and cross-bred cattle and American Quarter horses. He is a director and past president of the Federal Land Bank Association of Marfa, member of Marfa Production Credit Association and a committeeman for the Federal Land Bank of Houston. Ikins, elected by the Federal Land Bank Associations, replaced Fred Shaw of Ferris who retired after serving on the board since 1958.

Those whose values are based on money alone have lost their sense of values.

God Bless...

God bless Mommie, Daddie, and all my friends at church...

"Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God."

God's word has a great deal to say about prayer, for prayer is our means to communicate with God. Through prayer we can give thanks, petition for our friends, and seek God's wisdom for our daily living.

Make prayer a daily practice in your life.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
