Is the 'Balance' of Europe Shifting?

Slowly, ponderously, like a great gate beginning to swing, Europe seems to feel a slow shift of balance. It is felt more than seen, yet perhaps it is no less real because it can not be demonstrated like a mathematical proposition.

The balance of Europe, which seemed to teeter so definitely toward Germany and Italy last fall, is almost certainly swinging away from the equilibrium of September.

The speech of Hore-Belisha, the British war minister, before the House of Commons in which he outlined the British arms advances, is one of the frankest ever delivered on that subject.

Hore-Belisha quite frankly and flatly said that the British army is being trained and equipped for service on the European continent, and that the most careful plans for its transport and maintenance are already made.

This change in policy brings Britain back to pre-Haldane days, he said, and means that any adequate defense of Britain must begin far beyond the cliffs of Dover.

Hore-Belisha revealed that, even excluding India and Burma, Britain has a half million men under arms, almost 100,000 more than a year ago. In a volunteer army, built without conscription, that is a sizeable increase.

And while he did not speak of obligations and alliances, the minister made it clear that they are all equipped and ready to defend France in any emergency that means that they would also be defending Britain.

France has already put the foot down quite firmly on surrendering to territorial demands from Mussolini. Even the countries of southeastern Europe seem to have stiffened in their attitude toward German expansion.

The strongest cards a diplomat can hold in a 1939-1940 game of international showdown poker seem to be clubs. It is gradually becoming apparent that the British are gradually shaping a club that is not stuffed, and which carries a good stout spike in the end.

Perhaps the next British statesman to sit in an international poker session will have a better hand than Chamberlain held in September, 1938. He could not yet hold all the trumps and aces, but one by one, some of the cards have begun to fall his way.

Perhaps Europe's best hope for peace would lie in a situation where all players were so sure the other fellow held strong cards that nobody would want to call. Then, perhaps, they would give up poker and turn to ping-pong.

At the close of a Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce meeting gunmen took up a "collection." That got the city's name in the news. So the bandits probably called it "an advertising appropriation."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—When the House reversed itself and agreed to appropriate $17,206,000 to enable the TVA to proceed with construction of the Gilbertsville Dam, Congress warded off a war-path whoop by Nebraska's Senator Norris.

George Norris is a mild and peaceful man. But, if you touch the TVA, you arouse one of the most determined and effective fighters in Washington.

The House had whittled down the TVA appropriation for next year. But a Senate switch sent the bill to conference. The House voted to accept Senate action.

The reduction would have halted work on Gilbertsville Dam, some 20 miles from the mouth of the Tennessee river—and in case you had supposed that the bulk of the heavy construction work in TVA had already been done, you may be surprised to learn that Gilbertsville is designed to be the Tennessee's largest and most important dam. It will cost more than $112,000,000 when completed.

"They've already spent $5,000,000 on Gilbertsville," says Senator Norris. "They've organized the job, moved in there, built houses for the workers, brought machinery in and got in the midst of construction. If this appropriation stayed out, the organization would have been destroyed and much of the work would have deteriorated."

Gilbertsville Dam will produce considerable electricity, but it is not primarily a power dam. It was designed chiefly as a flood control project and as an aid to navigation, and in the former capacity it probably will help Illinois and the lower Mississippi valley states more than Tennessee.

"It will hold back more flood water than any other dam east of the Mississippi," says Senator Norris. "It will very materially lower the flood crest at Cairo, Ill., for instance, and all the way on the Ohio and Mississippi from the mouth of the Tennessee to the Gulf."

"As a navigation proposition, it's of value to the entire Tennessee river. The Tennessee is now navigable above Gilbertsville for a great portion of its length, made so by TVA, but at Gilbertsville it's like the neck of a bottle. In the dry season when the river is low, navigation throughout the length of the Tennessee is shut off, because there's no way to get into the river over that stretch which the Gilbertsville Dam will make navigable."

Senator Norris is also sponsoring legislation to give TVA the necessary authority to complete the contract recently negotiated for purchase of the electric properties of the Tennessee Electric Power Co.

This deal was negotiated this winter between TVA and Wendell Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corp., which controls the Tennessee Electric Power Co.

It was hailed in Wall Street as a victory for private industry, particularly for the private power industry, but it does not disturb Senator Norris—although he does think that the $78,000,000 price agreed on is too high.

"It certainly meets the objection that TVA is unfair and unjust to private companies," he says. "Why, they're paying $10,000,000 more than the property is physically worth."

The purchase price, incidentally, is to be raised by sale of bonds and not through a congressional appropriation.

A RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE PUBLICATION

VOL. 1 March 20, 1939 NO. 6

Mr. Walton Tells Student Body of Visit With Mrs. Roosevelt

At an assembly of the student body of the junior college, Mr. Walton told of his visit with Mrs. Roosevelt. Mr. Walton, Mr. Larson, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Eubank, attended a conference on youth with Mrs. Roosevelt in Waco Monday.

Ranger Junior College was the only junior college represented in this conference which was composed of representatives from a number of senior colleges and from the various NYA units.

In his address to the student body, Mr. Walton said that Mrs. Roosevelt was genuinely interested in the youth of America. She is making a nation-wide tour now to study the problems of the young people and to see if a solution to some of these problems can be worked out.

The lady of the land as saying to a group of young people, "Before you leave school, learn either a hand skill or a head skill."

Mr. Walton quoted the first Mrs. Healer and Mrs. Hunter, respectively. After the students received their grades, the sophomores discussed plans for a picnic.

The following honor roll for the junior college was released by Dean Baskin:

Freshmen: High Honor: Mrs. Iris Hummel, Honor: Thelma Compton, Charlie D. Hicks, Katrena Lovelace, Bertha Sparks.

Sophomores: High Honor: Mary Elizabeth Rayfield, Honor: Buena Berry, Vivian Fulbright.

Ranger Junior College Students Attend High School One-Act Play

The students of the junior college, along with a group of high school students, attended the high school one-act play given in the auditorium Thursday morning. The play, "The Blue Teapot," will be given at the high school one-act play contest in Cisco, Wednesday, March 22, at one o'clock.

The cast of characters is as follows: H. O. Woods, Jr., Bessie Roberson, Jane Lauderdale and Babb Edmonds. The play was directed by Mr. Berg and produced by special arrangements with the Dramatics Publishing Company. College Students and Faculty Enjoy Picnic Thursday

The Freshman class and a number of the faculty were the guests of the sophomore class at a picnic given Thursday evening at Butler Springs. Everyone had a delightful time, both eating and playing. The faculty members present were Miss Maddocks, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Healer, and Mr. Blylock.

Cleveland Club Supper The members of the Cleveland Club were entertained by Miss Ruth Black at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johnson Tuesday night and were later treated to a Mexican style supper. Games were played, and a delightful time was had by all.

Those present were Will Bragg, James Smith, Melba Morgan, Alpha Lee Robinson, Frances Ussery, Vivian Fulbright, Mary Weaver, Edith Taylor, Pickens Westmoreland.

CAMPUS CHATTER By Peachy and Percy The writers of this column think that the participants in the RJC one-act play deserve a little praise. Although they didn't win first place, they brought it to our attention that there is some real acting ability in RJC.

"Brandy" Harrell, Charlie Hicks and Tom Smith turned in excellent performances. Mrs. Hunter, above all others, deserves much praise. Her ability as a dramatic coach is unquestioned. She has put RJC in the spotlight more than once through her coaching activities.

Two of our young co-eds have added another number to their age this week. Mabel Falls came down the home stretch in the lead as number 18 with Helen Jacobs a close second as number 17. Our congratulations and best wishes to both you gals.

This one should be forwarded to Mr. Ripley. Yes, believe it or not, "Pete" Brashier was in bed and asleep by 8:30 p. m. Tuesday night. We have actual proof of this open to anyone's inspection. What is this world coming to, anyhow?

Our wild west Yankee from New York has already gone southern in a big way. Not only has he dropped those Yankee habits, but has also gone Texas in a big way. Jack said he believed Texas to be full of cowboys, outlaws, and Indians before he came to Texas.

Why folks, the first day he was in the Gholson and the clerk told him running water was in his room. Jack wouldn't go up to that room. He wanted to know if Running Water was as mean as Sitting Bull and the rest of those Indians he had read about.

He rode his Arabian horse (born and raised in Carbon) up to school and started to bring him into the reading room. The horse just wouldn't go in though, so Jack was content to let him graze upon the lawn.

The other day he rode all the way out to Miss Bruce's house, half way between Ranger and Caddo, on this fine steed. We don't know how he was received at the Bruce mansion.

Jack is also our candid camera fiend. He says to come up and see him sometime and he will show you his collection of beauties and freaks from RJC.

De we feel good, we have found three outsiders who read our column and feel that when we find that we have four who read this column we should receive a raise.

That's all folks. There just ain't no more. Until next time, au revoir.

P. and P. Reading Room Reasoning Charlie Hicks, with an arm load of books, walked swiftly down the hall and opened the door to the reading room. The steady hum of voices became distinct sounds and then died to a steady hum again as Charlie walked in and closed the door behind him.

"I say, you guys, have you heard the good news?" he asked with the proud air of a person who had important news to relate. "No. What?" a chorus of voices came back at him.

"College English classes won't meet today."

For a few minutes the students were silent and then a roar of cheers went up. "Ray! Hurray! Ray! Swell; O, Boy! Ray!"

"You make it sound pretty bad, Doctor," Farrell answered. "But he'll be a specialist, not a country doctor."

"I wonder what Dad would have done," Alan asked, looking up at the picture.

"Loving his son, knowing what he knew, he'd probably tell you to take it," Farrell answered.

MAKING his rounds in the hospital brought Alan relief. Here he could forget his worries about the future and live only in the work of the present.

DAYS were too short for Emily. Although no word had come from Dr. Peterson, she was already planning on what furniture she would move to St. Louis first.

Her days were full. Letters to old friends, plans for farewell parties, hopes for the future kept her from missing Alan.

Alan came in, his raincoat dripping. A small stream ran from the brim of his hat down over his head and neck as he kissed her.

"They lost their first baby, didn't they?" Alan nodded.

NEW YORK.—It appears that the world light-heavyweight champion as quickly as he gets around to boxing Melio Bettina and John Henry Lewis, but the most important thing in the young Irishman's life right now is for him to take his time.

Billy Conn, just turned 21, has the frame of a heavyweight, but must be given an opportunity to grow. His starts should be carefully spaced.

A POSTOLI made it close in his return handicap match with Conn. A lot of competent observers did not believe he lost, but Conn convinced even the New Yorkers who again made Apostoli the favorite that he definitely belongs.

The pleasing Conn, has stimulated boxing, and his manager, Johnny Ray, the old feather, promises to keep him away from opponents comparable to the antiquated Jack Roper, who is to be flattened by Louis in Los Angeles, April 24.

Henry Armstrong is the 1st headliner to go into the ring business.

With Lou Ambers, Pedro Montanez, and others offering Homicide Henry highly satisfactory opposition, Eddie Meade signs Little Dust Cloud to square off with Bobby Pacho over 20 rounds in Havana, March 5.

Titles become cheap when Louis defends the heavyweight against the likes of Roper and Armstrong ducks out of the country to defend the writer's wrath against a tired veteran who was mediocre at his best.

4,000 School Children Get "TB" Test

One of the broadest fights on tuberculosis yet undertaken in this country was started recently in Richmond, California, which is making tuberculin skin tests of nearly 4,000 school children, practically its entire school population. These skin tests, considered by authorities one of the most valuable weapons in the fight against the disease, reveal tuberculosis in its early stages.

This unusual project was conceived and is being financed by the Richmond Lodge of Elks, as one of many civic projects being undertaken by some 1500 Elks lodges throughout the nation. Dr. L. H. Fraser, physician and exalted ruler of the Richmond Lodge of Elks, is seen in the above photograph giving the first of the 4,000 tests to student Lolita Miller, while the nurse readies other pupils for their tests. Tuberculin extract is injected into the skin of pupils. If an inflamed area at the site of the injection results, tuberculosis is indicated and further tests are made.

Through the slit. Fry in deep fat. Cloves may be added to the fat if desired.

C. P. A. —

Certified Purchasing Agent!

I never saw anybody who can stretch a dollar the way she does!

Everything she buys is a good value—and she never seems to get stuck with things that look good, but fall apart the first time they're used.

I told her one day that she'd make the Purchasing Agent of any business look sick. She was pleased when she saw I meant it.

"It's perfectly simple," she said. "I watch the advertisements the same way a stock broker watches the ticker tape. They keep me informed on 'good buys'—and save me a lot of shopping around, as well."

Sounds simple, doesn't it? But I can tell you its saved this family a lot of money!
