Two Special Trains Go From Washington To Honor Speaker

AIKEN, S. C., April 10 (AP)—The body of Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the lower house of congress, started today to his Cincinnati home, where he was born 61 years ago. He died here yesterday of pneumonia.

Thousands stood with bowed heads as the cortege moved through the city to a special train. Funeral services will be held in Cincinnati tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Two trains carrying government officials will leave the capital tonight for the Nicholas Longworth funeral in Cincinnati. The first train will carry members of the house, senate delegations and other members of congress. President Hoover's train will leave later, carrying the chief executive, cabinet officers and other administrative officials.

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The happiness, honesty and courage of Nicholas Longworth were praised in a statement issued by President Hoover soon after he received news of Longworth's death. The passing of the prominent Ohioan is a loss to the nation, Mr. Hoover said.

The president's statement follows: "Mr. Longworth served his fellow-countrymen in state and nation for over 33 years—nearly the whole of his adult life. In his service he contributed greatly to the welfare of the American people."

Walter Back, Fort Worth, the resolution's author, explained that provisions of the resolution as passed to engrossment several days ago would cause the proposed amendment to affect counties of more than 60,000 population with an added provision that any county could receive a home rule charter by vote of the legislature.

The amendment would permit a combination of city and county governments by vote of two-thirds of the people affected. Saving of money by eliminating overlapping offices is claimed as the chief advantage of the plan.

Murder Charges Filed In Death Of Vivian Gordon

NEW YORK, April 10 (UP)—Harry Stein, 32, known to police as a Broadway racketeer rope peddler and petty thief, was charged yesterday with the murder of Vivian Gordon.

Charges were placed against him after police thoroughly questioned him on the strange slaying of the red-haired woman who apparently made a lucrative living by preying on wealthy men at the edge of the underworld.

Stein and three other men were arrested and were questioned all night long. Finally this morning police announced that the formal charge of murder had been placed against Stein and that the three other men were held as material witnesses.

Robbery was the motive of the slaying, police said. "Vivian was known to have been wearing an expensive fur coat and a valuable ring just before she was found garroted on the fringe of Van Courtlandt Park several weeks ago. The robbery motive was used by police but later was dropped when it became known that Vivian had offered to be a witness before the appellate court inquiry into vice conditions.

The names of the three material witnesses were given out by police simply as Greenberg, Buterman, and Levine. With Stein they were taken today to the police lineup to be scrutinized by detectives.

Detectives said that during the questioning, Stein made many damaging admissions. His effort to pawn a $500 diamond-studded wrist watch which was missing from the dead woman's body led to his arrest and the formal charge of murder, police said.

SWEETWATER, April 10 (UP)—John Q. McAdams, Winters, president of the Texas Bankers' Association yesterday characterized the federal farm board as "pure socialism and wrong in principle" in an address here at a luncheon of business men.

"The farm board is made up of successful business men but they have started operations from the wrong end," said McAdams. "The organization is sapping the very life blood from southern agriculture. I do not think any governmental agency should be allowed to use tax payers' money and operate in cotton and wheat markets."

He criticized all farm board operations and blamed installment buying for causing depression. He suggested "old fashioned" "buying" as a remedy.

Doctors Talk At Luncheon Of Kiwanians

Classification talks by Dr. J. R. Barcus and Dr. C. W. Deats featured Thursday's session of the Kiwanis club at the Crawford hotel. Thomas J. Coffey was in charge of the program.

Dr. Barcus read a paper on acute appendicitis, discussing symptoms in a manner of interest to the layman. Dr. Deats, a dentist, talked on oral hygiene.

John Wolton, city engineer, was introduced as a new member. Garland A. Woodward welcomed him to the club in an appropriate talk.

Obie Bristow, high school football coach, and A. J. Crawford, Carlsbad, N. M., the hotel owner, were guests of the day. The Kiwanis education committee will have charge of the May 14 program.

Dr. Barcus' paper follows: "You are accustomed to hearing something to talk to you about today, my thought naturally turned to some phase of the health problem in which you, as the prospective sick man, can help out. I thought it might be of interest to talk to you for a while about a condition which is often discussed by and very familiar to the layman, but about which he knows very little. That condition is appendicitis."

You are accustomed to hearing and probably telling jokes on the doctors for wanting to take out your appendix at any and every opportunity, but it ceases to be a joking matter when you hear that there were 17,000 cases of death in the United States in 1929 from appendicitis. This occurred, in spite of the fact, mind you, that there are competent surgeons and hospitals in practically every town in the United States, and also, despite the fact that the condition is fairly easy to diagnose and, if seen in time, is attended by practically 100 per cent recovery in competent hands.

17,000 Deaths
These 17,000 deaths did not occur in the old and debilitated, nor in the babies who have no reasoning power, but 90 per cent occurred in otherwise healthy adults under 40 years of age, an age at which, if a man is ever to have any common sense, he should begin to demonstrate it.

"This does not mean, however, that because a person is young or old that he is exempt. Our youngest patient with acute appendicitis was 14 months, and our oldest around 60 years.

The obvious conclusion to be drawn from the above stated facts is that you, as a layman, must shoulder a large part of the responsibility for this astounding number of preventable and oftentimes inexcusable deaths.

Diversion Of Traffic Topic For Meeting

Permanent Organization, Pecos To Strawn, To Be Formed

DAL PASO GAINING

Big Spring Delegation Attends Important Road Session

(Staff Correspondent)
COLORADO, April 10.—A permanent organization of towns along the Broadway of America, from Pecos to Strawn, inclusive, appeared probable this morning as representatives from 15 towns gathered here.

The meeting adjourned until after noon. At that time a committee composed of delegates from each town will report on constitution and by-laws, objectives, and plans. The delegates were guests of members of the Lions Club today at luncheon. The morning session was devoted to that year old question of how to divert more traffic over the Broadway of America. It was brought out that within recent months the Dal-Paso-Ciervu route has made heavy inroads on traffic. Travelers from east to west, it was declared at the meeting, are advised at Fort Worth and Dallas bureaus to choose the latter route to reach El Paso.

Although nothing concrete was done at the morning session it was expected a permanent organization would be formed this afternoon. H. B. Davis, Pecos, was elected temporary chairman, and J. H. Greene, Colorado, temporary secretary. M. H. Morrison, Big Spring, was named member of drafting committee.

Present plans call for an intense campaign to acquaint the traveling public with the designated route that would carry them through this section, rather than over the rival thoroughfares. Publicly mishandled, including distribution of literature, will be employed.

Big Spring delegates were Ray Wilcox, L. A. Hinesh, Tom Ashley, G. E. Cotton, C. T. Watson, J. L. Webb, M. H. Morrison, Fox Stripling, R. C. Campbell. It is probable that each town along the route will contribute funds for the support of the district organization.

Mrs. Lane Rites Held Here Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. William Henry Lane, 61, resident of Big Spring for 40 years prior to the death three years ago of her husband, a pioneer Texas & Pacific employe, were to be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church with Rev. H. L. Owen officiating. Burial will be in the Masonic cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were to be E. R. Watta, Joe Tansitt, E. A. Kelley, T. S. Currie, C. W. Cunningham, R. C. Strain.

H. Hinman Thanks Big Spring Voters

H. Hinman, who led the ticket in Tuesday's city election to be named a member of the board of city commissioners for a two-year term Friday issued an expression of his appreciation of the confidence shown by his fellow citizens.

"I sincerely appreciate this mark of confidence. In it I see a real responsibility and, as a commissioner, I pledge my best efforts to the upbuilding of Big Spring," said Mr. Hinman, who has served several months on the commission, filling an unexpired term.

HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

One of the best evidences of an upward trend in business conditions are weekly reports of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association.

For several weeks the reports have shown increases in freight car loadings in the United States. The total for the week ending March 14 was 734,262 cars, approximately 10,000 more than for the preceding week. A further increase of 3,000 cars was noted in the report for the succeeding week, ending March 21.

A matter that Big Spring business and professional men should give close attention is use of air mail.

This city has become the principal point on the national air map for West Texas. With Amarillo, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Brownsville and El Paso it is included in the group of Texas cities where there is daily activity, daily passenger and mail service on regular and strongly financed lines.

Air mail poundage originating here has gone on quite a slide downward within the past few weeks. Several other southern cities of less population are beating us to death.

We despatch scores of letters originating here each day that are being sent by the usual methods should be sent by air. It is of much interest to Big Spring to patronize the air mail line.

"Shoulder to shoulder" is the motto adopted for this spring's convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, to be held in Lubbock next month.

The people of West Texas bear more loyalty in their hearts to their own section of these United States than those of most any other section. Each town fights hard to improve itself. But when something of common interest to the entire region arises for attention every town hops in and "shoulder to shoulder" does its best.

Existing business conditions necessarily have quieted things down to some extent but the world knows, or soon will realize, that you can't keep West Texas down for very long.

HOW'S your HEALTH?

Dr. Lago Goldstein, Academy of Medicine
DIET IN TUBERCULOSIS—III
In tuberculous individual who is free from digestive disturbances should be an omnivorous eater. He should include in his diet a wide selection of the common food staples—meat, fish, cereals, vegetables, eggs, milk and milk foods. But he should avoid an excess of any one food article. His meals should be balanced—that is, they should contain proteins, fats and sugars, as well as vitamins. Fried foods, spices and foods known to be hard to digest, such as, for example, as pork, should be avoided. Tea and coffee are preferably excluded from the diet, or if taken at all should be drunk weak and in moderate quantities. Alcohol in any form should not be included in the diet nor taken at any other time. Alcohol accelerates the pulse, thus robbing the body of its much needed rest. It is a stimulant, and stimulants have no place in the treatment of tuberculosis. The tuberculous patient who suffers from digestive disturbances should have his diet prescribed by his physician. Depending upon the nature and cause of his complaint, certain food items may be excluded from his diet and others given a prominent place. It is unwise for such a patient to experiment upon himself. Diagnosis and treatment are safer in the hands of the trained physician. It is also important that the food habits of the tuberculous patients should be regular. Whatever number of meals he takes he should eat at regular hours and without haste. He should eat his meals two meals, except in the case of so-called regular supplemental meals. The eating of sweets or candies, except at the end of meals, tends to spoil appetite. Excess smoking and smoking just before eating time are liable to have the same effect.

Knute Rockne

KNUTE ROCKNE was to football what Henry Ford was to automobiles and Lindy is to aviation—a combination of mass production and dramatic force. The Rock was not only one of the finest coaches the game has developed (perhaps he developed the game more than the game developed him, after all that is said and done) but he was a man of superior intelligence in several fields of endeavor. As a writer he was force and direct—and what is more, there was no "frosting" in his literary products; he wrote everything himself. What Rockne did for football is impossible to compute. He very nearly made over the game by the simple process of eschewing the fancy staff and sticking with a religious fervor to the fundamentals. His influence over the hundreds of young men who came out for football at Notre Dame was tremendous, and this influence spread to all institutions of the country where football is played, for the simple reason that practically every coach in the country adopted and adapted most of the Rockne methods. Probably Rockne would have preferred to go out as he did—the victim of an airplane crash. It was more merciful for a man of his temperament than for old age to creep upon him later on, and end his efficiency. He was only 42 still a young man, and at the height of his powers. It will be many a day before American football forgets Knute Rockne.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

News The Greatest Serial
From the Christian Science Monitor:
"The old time serial story which once kept the whole family in a lively state of expectancy seems to have joined the procession of waning institutions. True, many magazines still pursue the practice of dividing long novels into sizeable installments, each leaving the hero in a worse pickle than in the previous chapter—and of late the radio has been indulging in a similar practice—but the serial which reached its zenith in the glamorous piece by piec chapters of 'Pickwick Papers' does not have that ready acclaim today it so richly deserves. And it is too bad. The ordered pace of everyday life has been quickened into a brisk gallop in these modern times, and the leisure which once gave its evenings gladly to the reading of the 3-decker novels is now to be found only in those scattered home circles that stoutly resist the shears of time and cling to the traditions of fireside contemplation. But perhaps one of the chief reasons why the old fashioned serial story fails to evoke the enthusiasm which once greeted it is the fact that the newspaper is in itself a most engrossing serial story. The plot changes every day, new characters are introduced into the setting, and the action constantly leaps into fresh complications. Humanity is on the march and the reporter is its traveling correspondent. Every copy of a daily newspaper carries the unprinted promise: 'To be continued in our next issue.' The reader has the satisfaction of knowing that every fragment of the news is aglow with actuality, and will find its ultimate place in by day fresh information is presented in short installments and a fascinating pattern of fact, day with vast variety. Pictures and headlines contribute to the main line of first class story, told by a special type of writer who does not spend too much time on glowing description and slow footed wandering. Yes, the daily newspaper presents the serialized adventures of an interesting world."

Hollywood Sights
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—One touch of pathos, too, makes the whole world kin, and incidentally accounts for the sudden excitement over Bert Wheeler. Wheeler came to Hollywood as the running-mate of the eccentric, cigar-smoking comedian, Robert Woolsey, and the team of Wheeler and Woolsey, green-debuted in "Rio Rita," made several pictures the box-office fice liked, Dorothy Lee played opposite Wheeler as the romantic foil and rose to her present status as an individual star. But in all their comedies together, Woolsey (or so it has seemed to many) overshadowed Wheeler, who played "straight" to his antics, and except in scenes with Miss Lee, might have been overlooked.

BERT WHEELER

PRESTO!
The Wheeler made his first individual starring picture, "Too Many Cooks." It's finished now, and the studio because of it is going to launch him permanently as a star in his own right, after one or two more with Woolsey. The reason is that Bert, who was always more or less the smart Alec, spry and flippant, from beginning to end of every picture. In this one gets away from his stock role and inspires genuine sympathy for his character. His case is a parallel to that of the Englishman who now is meeting kings and dukes and labor leaders abroad because of his screen eminence. Charles Chaplin, when he first came into pictures from a variety skit, was not the Chaplin the world knows and loves today. A dapper, smartly-dressed little fellow—a show-off who always got the girl and threw pies at his rivals. Mack Swain or Ford Sterling.

REMEDY
He was with Mack Sennett then, and the produced sense that something was wrong. Picture audiences didn't respond as well as they should to the talent he knew was Chaplin's. It was then that Chaplin, after numerous experiments, evolved the character he is on the screen today. A certain story being filmed gave opportunity for the highlighting of pathos, and they tried it. The fans began feeling sorry for the little tramp while they laughed at him, and that settled it. That idea has pervaded all Chaplins pictures since.

MYSTERIOUS WAVE

SYNOPSIS: John Wray is a disturbing and unwelcome patient in Dr. Charters' nursing home. Charters, his hatred of Wray thereby intensified, is forced to submit, being unable to get rid of Wray, who knows of his criminal past. Thus Wray obtains an alibi for the slaying of "Spider" Schlitz, Charters' former confederate, and gains the confidence of Marjorie, whose aunt was in Charters' old gang. The girl's health has been growing worse under treatment by MacAdoo, an expert in deadly poisons who, like Mr. James, wants Wray "bumped off." James sees Colonel Campbell and Wray enter the room of another patient, Miss Skinner, but finds her alone when he opens the door. However, Miss Skinner and the colonel are ousted from the home.

Chapter 16
WAY'S WALKING PAPERS

WELL—this lets us up," opined Mr. James, as he scanned the half column that Dr. Charters had indicated. "No, you could do such a low down thing."
"What I said," agreed Dr. Charters. "And since we've treated him square, I don't see why he should want to squeal on us. Tim's as though we were double crossing him... Why shouldn't he keep his mouth shut when he's giving himself up voluntarily?"
"What else could he do?" James asked. "Would he be unpeppable enough if the other was an enemy... But a stranger..."
Words failed the good doctor. "Seen him yet?" inquired Mr. James.
"No. The swine's still at breakfast... We'll tell him what we think of him, if he doesn't toe the line. A little mass-suggestion."
"I dunno about mass-suggestion," confessed Mr. James, "but I know about gang-discipline—and that's what he wants, the low living louse... And if he won't put the police wise, we've got to do it for him. If the squeals on us, there are plenty here to swear that one of the bats in his belly is that everybody's a crook."
"Risky, Jimmy. Suppose some wise guy in Scotland Yard took him seriously, and started looking into things on the other side. We'd be mighty anxious for a bit. And the more we proved he was a lunatic, the more we should help him to cheat the gallow's—and I want him dead."
"Well—if he confessed, they'd hang him, all right, if it were shown that Sir Bernard Mathieson refused to certify him."
"And then he's sane enough for his tale—about us and Spider Schlitz and the gang—to be worth listening to, and acting upon. He's still got us... Unless he's also got the common honesty to go and take his medicine without squealing. Now they've pinched an innocent man, it's up to him to say."

said the doctor, at length, "but we've no call to think he's as bad as that, Jimmy. Nobody could do anything as bad as that. Why, if I thought that of him, I'd let you loose on him right now."
"Does the paper give the whole letter with the description and the name and address?" asked the Marjorie.
"No; the police would see to that, and it seems to be the only paper wise to the fact that the murderer had had the nerve to concoct his little 'confession,' or else his 'eyewitness' version, for the benefit of the police."
"Once again, who is he?" inquired Nurse Jones.
"Good morning, ladies and gentlemen. Staff conference? The devoted friends-of-the-afflicted-in-council?" said a mocking voice, as Mr. Wray seated himself upon the low sill of the big window, and looked into the room.
"Ah, all present, I see—Half-hung Simon, Gunman Gryde, Manoel Machado, 'Frisco Fanny and Louis the Lady.'"
The dangerous men and women so addressed turned with one accord, and eyed the speaker with the cold and concentrated hostility of hate.
The doctor was the first to recover from his surprise.
"We were just talking about you," he said.
"And I was just going to send for you," continued the doctor.
"Now, that's a coincidence, for I was just going to send for my whole bunch of you to receive my instructions, Simon."
The knuckles of Dr. Charters' powerful hands gleamed white, as he clenched his fists, while the right hand of Mr. James strayed beneath his jacket in the direction of his hip-pocket.
"Well, suppose you get my instructions first," suggested the doctor.

Presbyterian Auxiliary Ready for Visitors to Presbyterian Convention

Officers of Auxiliary and Synodical President Expected to Attend Sessions to be Held in First Presbyterian Church

The local Presbyterian Auxiliary has completed its plans for entertaining officers and delegates at the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the El Paso Women's Presbyterian, which will convene in Big Spring on Monday.

Mrs. W. C. Barnett, president of the local auxiliary, and Mrs. T. S. Currie, chairman of the program committee for the Presbyterian (which is a women's meeting) announce that a splendid array of speakers will be on hand, including the synodical, or state, president, Mrs. George Sprague, of Dallas.

Among the visitors expected are: Mrs. J. A. Presley, of Lubbock, president; Mrs. Paul Heermann, of El Paso, vice-president; Mrs. M. E. L. Reed, of Lubbock, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John V. McCall of El Paso, recording secretary and Mrs. Joe Wilson, of Lubbock, treasurer.

Mrs. G. S. Gantuy, of Abilene, honorary president of the El Paso Presbyterian, is also expected to attend. The secretaries of the different sessions promoted by the church will bring reports of their work and inspirational talks to the women. These will be of particular interest to the women of Big Spring who have worked along these lines.

The secretaries expected to be present will be Mrs. J. F. Lloyd, Baltimore, spiritual life; Mrs. R. N. Couch, Pease, foreign missions; Mrs. R. E. Ellis, Stockton, S. and P. home missions; Mrs. W. R. Hall, El Paso, christian education and ministerial relief; Miss Virginia McLean, Lubbock, religious education; Mrs. Irvy Dyer, literature; Mrs. W. A. Sewell, Barstow, christian social service; Mrs. J. F. Selman, El Paso, historian; Mrs. W. C. Barnett of Big Spring, secretary of associational missions.

Assisting Mrs. Currie on the program committee is Mrs. J. E. Bean, of Van Horn.

Mrs. Willie Weaver

To Mrs. Willie Weaver has come an honor which until now no Big Spring woman has ever received—that of being appointed delegate to the national convention of the Woodmen of the World, to be held in Buffalo, N. Y. in June.

Mrs. Weaver was appointed delegate at the state convention in Mineral Wells, which she recently attended.

This is an honor for both the town and the Woodmen Circle since only 24 women from Texas will go as delegates. Mrs. Weaver is manager of the Mabelle Dress and Hat Shop. She has been a resident of Big Spring for a year. Prior to that time she lived in Fort Worth where she was district manager of the Woodmen Circle for 22 years. She has been a member of the Woodmen Circle for 25 years.

Secret of Good Salad Lies in Its Dressing

If there is anything that distinguishes our modern menus from those of twenty years ago it is the wide range of our salads. Not so long ago we had one or two salads that came to the table over and over again. Now we may select our salad course from many different kinds of salads.

That is why it is so important to select the salad dressing most appropriate to the salad. Today's hostess is presumed to know the correct salad for every meal and every occasion and which dressing goes best with each different kind of salad. There should always be a certain "sympathy" between the salad and the dressing.

That is why it is so important to select the salad dressing most appropriate to the salad. Today's hostess is presumed to know the correct salad for every meal and every occasion and which dressing goes best with each different kind of salad.

We select salads to bring variety to our meals—variety of color as well as of taste. But why should we go to all the trouble of making so many kinds of salads and then smother all their individualities of flavor under a thick, heavy dressing.

Let Hot Sandwiches Add Zest to Your Breakfast

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON

A hot sandwich, with a crisp salad, and a beverage, makes a splendid luncheon or supper course. In fact, the sandwich has developed in so many directions and adapted itself to such greatly varied needs that its recent appearance on the breakfast table is not at all surprising. The breakfast sandwich recipe given below shows how appropriate and delicious such a sandwich can be.

Hot sandwiches can be made in an almost endless number of ways. They may consist of a snappy filling between slices of plain or French toast; of white or whole wheat bread with filling, covered with a hot sauce; and very attractive ones may be made from hot biscuits or toasted crackers.

You will find these hot sandwiches especially good, and no doubt they will suggest many other combinations:

Breakfast Sandwich: Buttered toast thin cuts of cooked sausage; grated American cheese; strips of bacon.

Butter 1 slice of toast for each person to be served. On each slice place thin cuts of cooked sausage, cover with tomato sauce, and sprinkle with grated cheese. Lay a strip of bacon on each sandwich, and bake in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp.

Tomato Sauce: 2 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons flour; 1 small can cream of tomato soup.

Melt butter and blend with flour. Add cream of tomato soup, and stir until thickened.

Fried Oyster Sandwiches: 1 pint large oysters; 2 beaten eggs; 1-2 teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce; cracker crumbs; slices of buttered whole wheat bread; tomato ketchup or chili sauce.

Dip oysters into beaten eggs, seasoned with salt, pepper and Worcestershire Sauce, and then into cracker crumbs. Fry in several tablespoons butter until crisp and deliciously brown. Place oysters on slices of buttered whole wheat bread and sprinkle generously with ketchup or chili sauce. Cover with another slice of bread, cut in half, and serve with preserved sweet gherkins.

Variety Sandwiches: 1-2 lb. assorted cold meats; 1-4 cup mayonnaise salad dressing; 1 teaspoon evaporated horseradish soaked for ten minutes in 1 tablespoon cold water.

Chop meat together and moisten with mayonnaise salad dressing, to which has been added the evaporated horseradish. Spread a generous layer on hot buttered toast, and serve. Garnish with Spanish green olives.

Savory Sandwiches: Graham or whole wheat bread, toasted; fresh cucumber relish; 1 teaspoon evaporated horseradish (soak in 1 tablespoon cold water for 10 minutes); sliced bacon.

Butter toast and sprinkle with fresh cucumber relish and a small amount of evaporated horseradish. Top with slices of crisp hot bacon and serve at once.

most of your seafoods will taste much better if you marinate them in French dressing. This is the way to do it.

To marinate: Mix twelve tablespoons of salad oil and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Add one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper. Mix this thoroughly with the salad material and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours.

"JUST AS GOOD AND CHEAPER".. HAVE YOU EVER FOUND IT TRUE?

For almost every well-known product today there is an unknown imitation.

No line of business anywhere is without such substitutes.

Daily, they are foisted upon unsuspecting shoppers in place of known, advertised brands.

The clerk may say these imitations are "just as good" as regularly advertised products. Or cheaper because they give "a little more" for the money.

But is it ever true?

When a product is sold cheaper than one of recognized quality, you may be sure it is made cheaper. Then how can it be just as good?

Substitutes are business waifs. They have names, but their names mean nothing. Seldom, if ever, will the manufacturer admit their parentage by advertising.

The only kind words they ever receive are spoken to move them from the store—at more profit than known, dependable products return!

That is the only reason for substitution.

The merchant who permits and encourages this practice is looking at today's sales slips. Not at tomorrow's loyal customers.

Advertising can not create character for any product. But it does place on trial character already established.

Think of this whenever you buy.

The advertised product has a reputation at stake. It must always make good to hold your confidence.

But the substitute product—because it has gained no recognition—has nothing to lose.

Honest value is the only inlet to the columns of this newspaper. When you buy brands advertised here—when you are guided by names you know—you are safe.

But when you let "over-the-counter" claims prevail against your own good judgment, you may be sorry.

THE ANSWER TO SUBSTITUTION
IS ALWAYS . . .

"NO"

Longworth's

"His happy character, his sterling honesty, his courage in public questions, endeared him and held the respect not alone of his myriad of friends but of the country at large.

"His passing is a loss to the nation."

The president also sent a personal telegram of condolences to Mrs. Longworth and within half an hour he had dispatched his military aide to Aiken by airplane to assist her.

Word of Longworth's death spread quickly on Capitol Hill. In 15 minutes all flags were at half-staff.

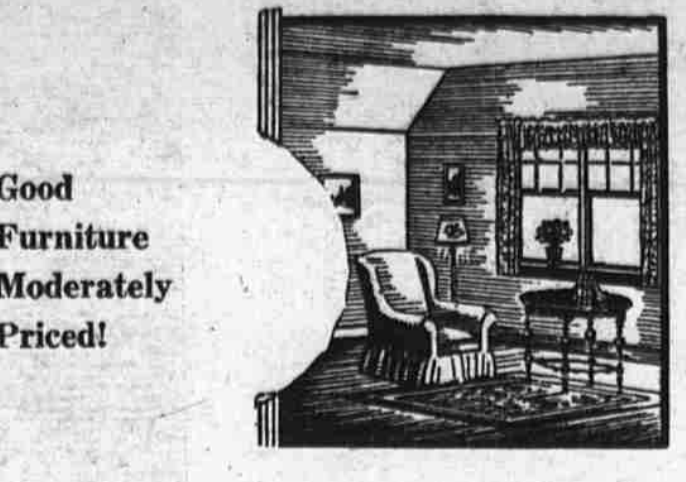

The capitol itself was thronged with tourists at the time. Word was passed to them by guides. From mouth-to-mouth it spread—"Speaker Longworth is gone."

Longworth will be buried without the formality of a state funeral. His widow informed his office at the capitol that arrangements have been made to take his body directly to his Cincinnati home.

Indications at the capitol, however, tended to show that so many members of congress and other officials of the government wish to pay their respects to the speaker's memory that a train will probably be provided.

Vice-President Curtis said of the speaker's death: "The sudden illness and death of Speaker Longworth was a great shock to all who knew him. In his passing the house has lost a distinguished and able speaker, one whose rulings

If you, as laymen, are to help us, as physicians and surgeons, to lower this astounding mortality among the breadwinner class of our population you must be on the lookout for pain in the abdominal area anywhere. Your two greatest enemies in this dread disease are "procrastination" and "purgation." When you or one of your family is seized with "indigestion," "stomach-ache" or "colic," do not purge and do not procrastinate, but call your doctor and let him take the responsibility. It may cost you a few dollars to have him tell you that there is nothing the matter, but it may save you a long illness with a prolonged convalescence, and a great number having to pay a large funeral bill with their insurance money.

mend brushes and pastes for the teeth. There are many good brushes and many good pastes. They should be used after each time food is taken into the mouth," said Dr. Deats. "If all the teeth touched each other perfectly brushing would not be necessary. The teeth then would be self-cleaning," he continued. "This, however, is far from the case. Too, we now eat many pre-digested and cooked foods which lead to unexercised gums in which the blood becomes stagnated. To overcome this, methods have been worked out to restore stimulation of circulation in the gums. Brushing accomplishes this."

He continued, in part, as follows: "I have never seen an habitual tobacco chewer, one who really chews his tobacco, who has a bad condition of gums. This is caused by the exercise this chewing affords them. He will wear his teeth off in time but his gums will be healthy."

Kid Ourselves
"We often kid ourselves into thinking we take good care of our teeth. Few of us brush them long enough, although we may brush them three times each day. Improper brushing and unusual alignment of the teeth may prevent effective brushing under the methods you are using.

"The usual up and down motion many have been taught is injurious. It causes irritation of the rim of the gums as the brush strikes it. The motion should be upward on the lower teeth and downward on the upper teeth, inside and out.

Bad first teeth in children can be overcome in the second by proper diet."

JOBS FOR THE JOBLESS?

The solution of that question is not so hard. Industries employ labor. Industrial employes spend their wages with Big Spring merchants—making it possible for those merchants to employ clerks, etc., etc.

The simple and obvious solution of securing jobs for our jobless is to buy when and where possible, and at a fair price, the commodities made in Big Spring. The volume demand of Big Spring people for the products of Big Spring's manufacturing institutions will "create change" Big Spring to a prosperous, growing city that knows where it is going, and is on its way, and a city that has furnished jobs for its jobless.

"Everybody's Doing It" will get the job done. Until you figure out a better solution of our local problems, drink a little of our city building "brew"—It's strong medicine.

Prison Printing Shop Cut Off From Private Competition By Allied

AUSTIN, Texas, April 9 (INS).—The state prison system, recently having set up a small printing plant, has been effectively barred from competing with privately owned printing firms for the state's printing by an attorney general's opinion.

The opinion, according to an announcement by Attorney General Allied, holds that the state board of control must award contracts for state printing upon competitive bidding, and adds that the state prison board has not yet been authorized by law to enter into competitive bidding.

The immediate effect of the ruling was expected to be introduction of a bill of an act to authorize the prison board to bid competitively against private firms. Observers gave such a measure only an outside chance for enactment.

The opinion was delivered to Claude Teer, chairman of the state board of control, following introduction of a resolution in the house of representatives calling upon the board to investigate "the feasibility of making a contract with the state prison board to enter into a contract to do so much, or all, of the state's printing as they may deem advisable to have done, and at a legal contract price therefor."

Juarez Policemen Organized On French System With 'Billys'

EL PASO, April 10 (UP)—The police at Juarez, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, are organized after the French system. Eighteen uniformed men, 12 plain clothes men and a flying squad of six detectives maintain order nightly. They are armed with "billys," automatics and flashlights. "Cow" revolvers are found, automatics being preferred.

E. Paul Young, New York golfer, made the "hole-in-one" club for a second time while playing on a Ft. Worth, Texas, course.

Dallas Ministers Not Favorable To Holding Funerals On Sundays

DALLAS, April 10 (INS).—Seeking to conserve "all their strength and energy" over the Sabbath, Dallas ministers have gone on record as opposed to conducting Sunday funerals.

The resolution was adopted, it was said, in the interest of those ministers employed by funeral directors and others.

Hen's Egg Bearing Toledo Address Held In Houston Post Office

HOUSTON, April 10 (INS).—One of the most unusual pieces of mail ever to find its way into the Houston postoffice is laying up there, waiting for due postage so it may continue its journey.

It is a hen's egg, with a Toledo address printed on it and a two-cent stamp affixed. It was mailed from Galveston and stopped here because it should have borne three cents postage.

As far as is known the egg is strictly fresh—and postal employees hope it will remain that way until it arrives in Toledo and is taken out of their custody by the addressee.

Legislative Board Chairman Says Unnecessary Regulation Of Trucks Would Hurt Roads

AUSTIN, April 10 (INS).—Unnecessary limitation or unfair regulation of buses and trucks would injure the railroads and their employees, in the opinion of O. L. Kinslay, chairman of the joint railway legislative board of Texas in a statement issued here today. Kinslay placed his organization on record as desiring "fair and unprejudiced regulation" of motor carriers.

"Highway motor transportation," he said, "should supplement but not supplant or duplicate rail service. Unnecessary limitation or unfair regulation will create such general dissatisfaction that reaction will go to the other extreme and defer the final settlement of the question for many years."

"We, like many others, came to the legislature with prejudiced views, but the months of study that we have given to the subject have convinced us that the hour for sane, constructive, unprejudiced action has arrived."

"We think it dangerous and unwise to permit the railroads to own or control highway transportation lines except within a limited area for the purpose of delivering and collecting freight and passengers. Under the present law a railroad cannot own or control a competing rail line, and they should not be permitted to own a competing highway line."

More Durable Ships, Skilled Pilots Need Of Industry He Says

AUSTIN, Texas, April 10 (INS).—Advancement of aviation and assurance of the further safety of flying depend primarily upon more durable machines and skilled pilots, Col. W. E. Easterwood, Dallas aviation enthusiast, told the state senate here.

Sponsor of the Coats-Bellonte Paris-New York-Dallas one-stop flight, for which he awarded a prize of $25,000, Col. Easterwood was introduced to the members of the Senate by Lieut.-Gov. Edgar A. Witt and Senator Paul of Dallas.

"Having flown many thousands of miles, both in the United States and on the continent, I have had a good chance to study the aviation industry, its advancement and its hazards. I am convinced that the further advancement of flying depends to a great extent upon the development of more trustworthy machines and upon the skilled pilot."

"While tremendous advances have been made in flying during the past few years, the industry is still in its infancy. The next five to ten years will see astounding progress in flying. I am sure daily flying is becoming more safe and daily hundreds more persons are availing themselves of it as a routine method of travel."

Col. Easterwood eulogized leaders of the industry who have brought it up to the present standards.

Widows Easy Prey For 'Lodge Brothers' Swindling Methods

EL PASO, April 10 (UP)—Women who have just become widows, says Detective Capt. W. C. Wolverton, are easy prey for a certain type of swindler.

The sorrowing woman sees a visit from a man who describes himself as a brother lodge member of her late husband and, after extending condolences, offers to handle the woman's legal affairs. If she is given charge of the widow's business, the man usually receives half of the state as a fee.

The swindler known as the "Benevolent Lodge Member" racket, has appeared frequently in northern and eastern cities, according to Wolverton, but seldom in El Paso.

G.O.P. Leader Falls Victim To Pneumonia

Funeral Services To Be Held At Home In Cincinnati

JOHN GARNER MOURNS

Son-In-Law Of Deceased President Veteran In Congress

AIKEN, S. C., April 9. (UP)—Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the United States house of representatives, died of pneumonia here at 10:52 o'clock this morning.

His wife, the former Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the late president, was at his bedside. Longworth became ill here Monday at the home of Mrs. James F. Curtis, where he was visiting.

A daughter, Paulina, 6, was in Cincinnati awaiting a visit in the near future from her father.

Physicians said that the amazing vitality of Longworth kept him alive through the night.

Kermit and Archie Roosevelt, Mrs. Longworth's brothers, left New York this morning for Aiken.

Mrs. Longworth telephoned his Washington office today that her husband's body would be taken directly to Cincinnati for funeral there.

The death of Longworth was accepted — a national loss, leaders everywhere expressing sorrow.

President Hoover issued a statement reviewing Longworth's thirty-three years in public service, his happy character, sterling honesty and courage.

From Uvalde, Texas, Congressman John W. Garner, Democratic house leader, mourned the loss to congress, the country and him. Garner said, "He was my closest, best loved friend."

Mrs. Longworth announced the funeral at two o'clock Saturday afternoon at Cincinnati. President Hoover announced he would attend the funeral.

The Texas senate today adopted a resolution of regret and condolence. The house was preparing one.

Texas Congressman Too ill To Told Of Longworth Death

HOUSTON, April 9. (UP)—Congressman Dan Garrett, Texas democrat, has been ill at a hospital here for over two weeks, it was revealed here today when reporters sought him for comment on the death of Nicholas Longworth.

Mrs. Garrett declined to tell Garrett about Longworth, explaining it would be too great a shock.

MANY TRUCK OPERATORS TO BE FORCED TO STOP OPERATION IF SENATE PASSES HOUSE BILL

AUSTIN, April 9. (INS)—Many truck operators will be forced out of business under the provisions of a bill finally passed by the lower house of the 42nd legislature. This is the opinion of numerous observers at the capitol familiar with the truck owner's problem.

The bill sets the maximum load limit of 7,000 pounds a set. One of the bill's original sponsors, Rep. Coke Stevenson, of Junction, saw in that limitation of the poundage the prohibition of livestock movements to market by truck. He voted against its passage.

In addition to the limitation of poundage, truck carriers are further regulated by reducing the allowable height from 13 feet to 11 feet and the length of the vehicle from 35 feet to 30 feet. A truck with trailer, under the bill, must not be longer than 35 feet, instead of the 65 now allowed. The maximum width of 96 inches was unchanged. Strict lighting regulations and distances apart were provided.

Final passage of the bill came after a week of the bitterest fighting the lower house has seen this session. In order to secure final action before adjourning over the week end, the house locked itself in, refused to permit any member to leave and went without lunch for more than two hours. The vote was 104 to 24.

Edgar Allen Poe First Self Publicity Agent Says Texas

AUSTIN, Texas, April 9. (UP)—Edgar Allen Poe was the first publicity man and myth-spreader for Edgar Allan Poe, according to Dr. Killis Campbell, University of Texas English professor.

Dr. Campbell, assigned to research work this year, began a series of lectures last night on his investigations of Poe legends.

He pictured the author of the "The Raven" and "The Pit and the Pendulum" as an ex-private sent to West Point, and there faced with the task of hiding his enlisted service.

Poe did it well, the professor said.

"I am an admirer of Poe," Dr. Campbell observed, "but I nevertheless wish to give the facts."

The facts, he said, are that Poe never went to South America; never added revolutionists in Greece; never visited Russia; never fought a duel in France to climax a trip through Africa.

All Poe's yarns about those adventures, Dr. Campbell said, were told merely to cover up his "buck private" past.

Proration Is Hurting Every Oil Community

Rupert P. Ricker of Ricker & Dodson Cites Wide-spread Effects

SAYS PLAN ILLEGAL

Those Not In Oil Business Are Urged to Help Independents

Proration, by curbing both oil exploration and development, is reducing revenue rightfully due every owner whose land is under lease and thereby is proving damaging to every oil community; conditions will be remedied only when those not in the oil business realize that they too are the losers and join hands with the independent oil operators in breaking the monopoly which is enjoyed by the few and is growing steadily.

This summarizes why so many West Texas independent oil men, land owners and holders of royalty are opposed to proration and hope that the fight against proration being waged by East Texans at Austin will be successful, Rupert P. Ricker, San Angelo independent oil operator, said Saturday.

"In the first place," said Mr. Ricker, "under what we call a 'commercial oil and gas lease,' the lessee in short has only the right to go upon land and drill a test looking toward the finding of oil or gas. Let us assume that the ranchman who owns the land is John Doe and that the man who leases it is Dick Brown. Under the ordinary lease, Dick Brown must do one of three things every year, namely: drill a test, pay a delay rental or forfeit the lease.

Must Develop Under Law

"However, the courts have held by implied obligation that once the lessee, Dick Brown, of his own volition has drilled a well upon John Doe's land and has found oil in paying quantities he thereafter must develop same with 'reasonable diligence' and the question of whether or not Dick Brown is developing same with 'reasonable diligence' is a question of fact for the jury to decide in the county where the land is situated. Of course, it is to the advantage of large corporations to find oil, plug the structure and move on to another place, and this desire can be accomplished legitimately since John Doe, the ranchman, and Dick Brown, the lessee, are both parties at interest with reference to the acreage, and the world cares little if Dick Brown moves on to another oil structure. But John Doe is interested vitally, as he desires continuous drilling and wants his royalty while his children are young so he (CONTINUED ON PAGE 5)

Chemicals Not Used To Treat City Water Smitham Points Out

Reports that chemicals used in treating city water are responsible for a number of cases of illness in the city, were emphatically denied today by City Manager V. R. Smitham.

High Egg Production Only Chance For Profit From Poultry Flocks In Face Of Existing Low Prices, Says Little

Only high production in eggs can be relied upon for a profit from poultry in the face of existing low market prices, is the belief of P. E. Little, well known Howard county poultry demonstrator.

"The poultry flock must lay heavily to produce a profit on the low price of eggs," Mr. Little said.

He has a flock of 300 well bred Whites Leghorn hens, averaging 51 eggs per hen in four months, beginning Nov. 1.

"While some of my eggs were sold for hatching purposes," he continued, "most of them were sold at market prices. During this period of time my eggs cost me 5.49 cents per dozen, and my flock has paid me $361 for my labor and the home grown grain I fed them."

Mr. Little feeds a commercial "big five" mash and grain, and his flock consumes an average of 2.5 pounds of mash and 3 pounds of grain per hen, per month.

His flock is one of the White Leghorn groups in the county recommended to Howard county club boys and farmers by the county agent.

Another Howard county poultry demonstrator is W. L. Williams. He has a flock of White Leghorn hens.

He is of the belief that the poultry flock production is proportional to the amount of mash consumed, all other things being equal.

"When I get my flock to consume lots of mash I get lots of eggs," he states. "To substantiate his claims, he quotes figures."

"During the month of November," he declared, "my flock of 129 maturing pullets consumed two

Testimony Heard In Peonage Trial

FORT WORTH, April 9. (UP)—Money, owed to five negroes for cotton picking was withheld from them and one was beaten by their employer, according to testimony of four negroes in the peonage trial of Fred Lindsey, Hardeman county farmer, in federal court here Wednesday.

Mary Richbourg, negro, testified Lindsey owed her and Mary Smith, another negro, $412.50 for picking cotton on Lindsey's farm near Quannah in the fall of 1929.

They were never paid anything, but were furnished with groceries, the witness said.

The Richbourg woman also testified that Lindsey had beaten her husband, Joe Richbourg.

Charlie Hicks, white farmer near Shamrock, hired Richbourg and the other negroes to pick cotton on his farm after they had told him that they had finished at Lindsey's place, Hicks testified.

Lindsey overtook Hicks and the negroes several miles from Quannah, and asked Richbourg what he meant by leaving "like that" after he had loaned him money and advanced him groceries, Hicks said.

When he learned that the negroes and Lindsey were in disagreement he allowed the negroes to return to Lindsey, Hicks testified.

Lindsey struck Richbourg several blows, Hicks said.

Texas A&M Oil To Share In Oil Riches With State University

AUSTIN, Texas, April 9. (UP)—Texas A. & M. College became a sharer in the $17,500,000 oil riches of the University of Texas Wednesday when Governor Ross Sterling signed the division bill carrying out the agreement of the boards of the two state institutions.

Both boards are authorized to pledge their portion of the income for a fifteen year period to get immediate funds to carry on building programs.

Under the agreement, the A. & M. College will receive an up sum of $200,000 a year for three years, beginning Sept. 1, 1931. After Sept. 1, 1931, A. & M. will get a third of the income, except that from grazing lands, and the university will get the balance.

The bill was signed in the presence of Mrs. Lee J. Roundtree of Bryan and Ray Holder of Lancaster, representatives who pushed the bill; President H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas; Chairman R. L. Batts of the university regents, and E. W. White, vice-chairman of the A. & M. board.

HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

Fellow said yesterday there are too many people trying to hatch up new ways to get a fellow's money.

Which reminds us of one of the griefs of the newspaper man's life—these "freak" attractions that travel over the country continually.

Looks like every time a three-legged calf or a smart dog or an eight-foot man is found some fellow takes the animal or man in tow, puts him on a truck with big signs and starts out with "the most astounding attraction of the country" or something like that.

You'd be surprised how many of these promoters seek free advertising from newspapers. Often there is some news in the "freak". But never so much as the guy who collects the easy public's money wants you to believe there is.

The other day there was a fellow in town selling cards at ten cents each because he said he was the only man who ever got a complete pardon while in a death cell awaiting execution for murder.

The latest thing in "freak" and fly-by-night trash attractions is to hook yourself up, or at least claim to, with some well-known organization. Many a worthy organization is victimized by such promoters because the organization is led to believe there is a chance for some money that too often dwindles to nothing before expenses are paid.

Which brings to mind the oftentimes amusing applications conscientious people put upon the things they personally are interested in.

You'd be surprised how many hundreds of things happen "for the good of the community"; things that people by some far-fetched process of reasoning lead themselves or others or both to believe "are good things for the town."

The bug under the bush usually is that somebody has hatched what to him is a new and clever plan for getting some good advertising; free—but, if they only knew, that "original" idea is old as the hills.

Barium was right.

Darkies Argue—Ten Spot from Watch Pocket Causes Row In County Attorney's Office.

Charges and counter-charges were being fast and furious in the court and the office of James Little, county attorney, today as Richard Mitchell sought to recover from Anna Mae Green $10, that "she fished right out of my watch pocket."

Anna Mae Green, the negro, denied the charge, but was not a bit hesitant in sending verbal barages at the accuser. Mitchell, the negro, stoutly maintained by grunts and nods of the head, that Anna Mae wasn't telling the truth, but that it didn't bother him if she wasn't if he got his $10.

It happened, said Mitchell emphatically, as he stood skimping in the lobby of the Dreamland Hotel, foremost negro hostelry "across the tracks."

"She asked me," he moaned, "for thirty cents and I told her I didn't have nothing but a ten dollar bill. She just reached in my watch pocket and my ten dollar bill came out when her finger did."

Anna Mae denied the charge. She had never stolen anything much less a $10 bill from the watch-pocket of Richard Mitchell. Anyway, she said, Mitchell had been annoying her by coming over to her house with intoxicating fluid. Mitchell just mumbled, grunted and nodded. He had done nothing of the kind. But he wouldn't bear any hard feelings if Anna Mae would just bring him back the $10 that he had borrowed from a friend, who had got it at the bank.

The case was first brought before Judge Tracy T. Smith in corporation court. It was later transferred for the jurisdiction of Little.

Little, Sheriff Jess Slaughter, Anna Mae and Richard, were arguing about charges at last account.

COMMISSIONERS' ISSUE STATEMENT DEFENDING PAST YEARS' POLICIES

Seven Seek Two Places; Both Incumbents Candidates

With one of the longest lists of candidates ever to offer in a "short" year, when but two of the members of the board of five city commissioners are elected, voters of Big Spring were making ready last night to go to the polls Tuesday to fill the commission places now held by H. Hinman and W. A. Gilmore.

Mr. Hinman, who was appointed a few months ago to fill a vacancy, is a candidate for election to a full two year term. Mr. Gilmore, who has served two terms, is offering for a third term.

Other candidates are J. L. Webb, Walter Vesting, W. J. Wooster, W. J. McCollier and L. L. Freeman.

On the eve of the election present members of the commission issued a statement defending their policies and inviting suggestions from the citizenship.

The campaign has been one of the quietest in the city's history from the standpoint of public utterances in person or in print.

Several of the candidates have issued statements to the press while others have used cards or other printed matter.

However, close observation pointed out that alignments that have characterized campaigns of the past two or three years exist in ranks of the present candidates to some extent, although lines are not as clearly drawn as usual.

In spite of persistent street conversations to that effect petitions that the commission-manager form of government be replaced by the old aldermanic have been in circulation none has made its appearance in the press or has been filed with the city commission.

One of the surprises of the campaign was entry of W. A. Gilmore for election to a third term. He had previously indicated he did not care to make the race again.

This placed both incumbents in the positions sought this year on the ballot. Mr. Hinman, the other incumbent, with J. L. Webb, was the first to announce.

The city commissioners' statement follows:

Recently there has been coming from a few people, insinuations that the present city government has not practiced that rigid economy so greatly desired by the taxpayer in the expenditures of their money.

These insinuations either have or have not foundations. We are requesting any person who has a habit of going around the city talking about abstract application of economy in spending city money to be fair enough to point out the particular instances in which we have not been as careful as we know how, in trying to get a 100-cent value for every dollar spent.

Who will say that such expenditures as these were a waste of the people's money?

In order to provide one night's lodging for unemployed transients the Wander Inn was opened up and is jointly operated by the county and city. After four months operation of the Wander Inn we find we have provided for 6,500 men.

Who would object to an expenditure of this kind?

The maintenance of the Wander Inn has added materially in giving to our citizens the police protection to which they are entitled. In what do you suppose would have happened if these 6,500 men had been turned loose in our city, hungry, during this period of four months?

Compare the number of robberies in the city of Big Spring with those in some other cities near by, and you will find that robberies have been minimized considerably as a result of the efforts of the police department.

The city commission employed a landscape architect to furnish a complete plan for the City Park in four sections, with the idea of appropriating funds for one of these sections each year, and in that way at the end of four years the city of Big Spring will have a park that would be a credit to any city in the state. What has been done to date constitutes one fourth of the complete plan.

The city commission has worked on the theory that a park was one thing each citizen could enjoy, and would appreciate. The work for many who were in desperate circumstances. In fact, at this time, approximately fifteen men are employed in that work.

Any objection?

Is there any person, or group of persons, in our city who would offer an objection to the money that has been expended in the development of this enterprise, which is for the

Class B Schools Will Have Chance At State Laurels

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP)—For the first time in the history of the University of Texas Interscholastic League athletics, Class B schools this year will compete for a Class B state championship. Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the interscholastic league, has announced.

Henderson said a State B meet would be held at Denton on May 8 and 9, the same date as the Class A meet. The Class B meet is to be held at Denton for those Class B schools which will be eliminated in district competition. Henderson said the Denton meet was being held primarily for those Class B schools eliminated during district tournaments.

Flewellen In Speech Before Lions Meeting

V. H. Flewellen, local distributor Corden products, was the principal speaker at Friday's luncheon of the Lions Club held on the mezzanine floor dining room of the Settles Hotel.

Flewellen, in conjunction with the forthcoming program of the Chamber of Commerce, to be devoted to home industries and manufacturing plants, stressed the importance of using home products when possible.

He cited as an example of the tendency of residents to pass over products manufactured in the community in order to buy that manufactured by a foreign company, the sale of gasoline here during one month, several months ago.

He quoted figures, stating that 2,500 gallons of Corden gasoline was sold in Howard county during that particular month. During the month 400,000 gallons were distributed in this county. The consumption of Corden gasoline by towns surrounding Big Spring was far greater than that here.

He urged moulding of public sentiment to the point where home products—gasoline, bread, bottled goods and others—will be purchased in preference to foreign manufactured goods.

The importance of the dollar spent for home industries compared with the dollar expended for their products, was stressed by Mr. Flewellen.

Dr. Wofford B. Hardy had charge of the program. Dr. Hardy urged the club to participate in the Chamber of Commerce program.

The club, on account of several major activities, rejected a request for aid asked by local school officials in paying for meals of children in the schools who are unable to pay for their noon day meal.

It was then shipped to him in New York, along with a pair of spurs presented by Walter Cousins, publisher of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal, who also was here during the convention.

Mr. Mennen possesses a large collection of other interesting things, including the bride and spear used by Geronimo, noted "outlaw" Indian chief.

The hat presented here, which was obtained by Shine Phillips, bore two bullet holes caused by 45-calibre bullets fired at Roy Bean's saloon at Langtry in 1891, when Bean was known as "The Law West of the River." The hat had been in use for more than 30 years.

Hoover's Trip Good Idea Says Will; Reception Given Chaplin In England Deserved He Says

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. Well Mr. Hoover got back from a part of the country he manages to find some. They were going to try a Battleship to see if it would work after they had had it renovated, so he just says, "Here is the time for me to get away from all this mess."

So he picked him out of a bunch of congenial friends, mostly standpat Republicans and joined the Navy and started seeing the world. It didn't seem to be hard to find some place for Coolidge to go where he had never been, all you had to do was just to suggest any one of the forty-eight States outside of Vermont and Massachusetts, and he was all set for new territory.

When he set sail for Black Knolls of San Diego, he was compared in importance to him to Hoover leaving for Mary Bird Land in the Antarctic. Mr. Coolidge did make Cuba one time. I was there at the time, and saw it and got a great welcome too. But Mr. Hoover went on and found the Virgin Islands. But you can't get people good will nowadays unless you bring 'em something. He took an airplane but no donations. So out side of what fish he got on the trip his kinder hard to figure out just the exact beneficiary results. He told me that he wanted to give every one of them the same as we had up here. Well that depends on how well posted they are on what is happening to us, how they took that remark. In other words if they took him at his word and wanted what we got, they would immediately ask for Red Cross relief. But I think it was a mighty fine trip for him to have taken, and it will do a lot of good. Roosevelt went down there when he was president, and everything he did was O. K., so I know this must have been.

Well what else we got? Did you ever read such a procession of acclaim as Charlie Chaplin is making all over Europe? Why Charley don't any more than land in a country till the prime minister grabs him off to his home, like some movie fan asking for an autograph. Charley is pretty foxy though, and mightily well informed on affairs. He can talk and argue with them loose as a pretty rabid Socialist, and has made a pretty serious study of it. One night a few years ago I was asked to introduce at the Lamb's Club in New York, that the most exclusive Actor organization. It was his first trip to New York in a good while and he was having some unfavorable newspaper publicity at the time. Well I told them that in all my years on the stage and screen that I had only met one person that I could honestly call an "artist" every other person I ever saw, some one else could do what he was doing just as good, and that was all a trick, and not real genius. But that Charlie was supposed to be, and he is, he is the only genius developed in the films since they started. Any of us can get "Artistic" and say we won't work until noon, or won't do this or that. But we are doing it on some firm's money, but Chaplin can come off his set and turn loose 500 people, tell em he will call em again some other time, and he is doing it on his dough. Art ain't put on when you are paying for it out of your own pocket. He writes, directs and acts the whole thing. Any one else making a picture there is at least a dozen people that are directly concerned in its success. Chaplin replaces all of them alone.

No, whether you like him or not, (and how you couldn't I don't know) but he is one of the few geniuses developed during our time in any line. So all this hoop is not wanted on some bird that don't deserve it. The Prince of Wales (who is quite a fellow himself, and does some prowling around in the world) why a Zulu wouldn't know him from Senator Borah although he is the best known man in the world. But the old Zulu would pick out Charley on his derby and big "Dogs."

Say what's going to happen to this what thing? The government bought up a lot of last year's crop, and now they got it, and here is coming along another new crop. Bernh wants to give it to China to make rice out of. I would like to see it given to renter farmers in this country to make bread out of. You'd be surprised if you know how little those poor people had to live on that was issued by the Red Cross. They did marvelous work as usual, the Red Cross, but what I mean is if the same thing come up again, I sure would like to see em have enough more money so the issue of rations would be larger. Of course when you are getting charity you can't be the chooser, but it was barely enough to get along on. Now why can't something be done with some of all this surplus wheat? We are going to have to charge that Farm boards operations off as a loss anyhow it looks like now. Course I guess they did what they thought was right. But people can raise things faster in this country than anybody can buy it, even the government.

Say did you read in the papers about a bunch of women up in British Columbia as a protest against high taxes, sit out in the open naked, and they wouldn't put their clothes on? The authorities finally turned a sprayer that you use on trees, on them. That may lead into quite a thing. Woman comes into the tax office nude, says I won't pay. Well they can't search her and get anything. It sounds great. How far is it to British Columbia? (Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

T&P Defendant In $50,000 Suit Filed By Widow

Suit for $50,000 damages was filed in district court Saturday by Mrs. Ida Inez Short, widow of Reuben A. Short, railway fireman, against the Texas & Pacific Railway. Short succumbed to injuries received when the Texas & Pacific passenger train on which he was working left the rails at Eagle Ford, between Dallas and Fort Worth, Oct. 13, 1930. Mrs. Short asks $30,000 for herself, and $20,000 for her son, Ben Elroy Short, 3. Short, a resident of Big Spring, at the time of the accident, was said to have been a new man on the Dallas-Fort Worth link of the line. The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the railway company. Grisham, Patterson and Grisham of Eastland represent the plaintiff.

County Judge Opposes New Bus Line Here

Debenport Writes Railroad Commission In Seeking Denial

Protesting establishment of a bus line from Texarkana to El Paso by the Sunny Line Bus Company, County Judge H. R. Debenport has written the State Railroad Commission. He asks that permit be refused H. Lassar and V. Pugley, operators.

Judge Debenport's letter follows: "I have notice stating that H. Lassar and V. Pugley, under the name of Sunny Line Bus Company, are making application to you for the operation of a bus line from Texarkana, Texas, to El Paso, Texas, handling only interstate passengers. "I wish to object to the issuance of a permit for this company, on the ground that: 1. There exists no reason for such a line, as we are properly served by the existing bus lines, and the Texas & Pacific Railway Company. 2. Highway No. 1, over which said bus line would travel, is already congested with buses and trucks, sufficient to make private travel dangerous. "I trust that you will see your way clear to refuse permit for this line."

Stricken with paralysis at the age of three years. Given up as a hopeless cripple, the youth set out to improve his condition. The call of the great outdoors; the herd of the open road appealed to him. He needed, and accepted. Today he is satisfied with his travels. He attended the Indiana state school for the deaf, from 1910 to 1923. He sold newspapers on the streets of Indianapolis. Factories claimed several months. Then his "light" gave way.

From Lubbock The Hoosier dropped into Big Spring, Thursday, coming from Lubbock after encountering snowstorms, Texas blizzards, freezing temperatures. It is his second visit here, he having been here late in 1925. When details are assembled and studied, Bradford is a hitch-hiker; one who has stood the baptism of fire, and is still hitching and hiking. "I accept rides," he said, "but am not offered many." He blamed the roads in this section. Yet, this youth—for he really is a youth although his looks belie it—has invaded Germany, and Honolulu, and Havana. He has dropped off of ships at Liverpool, and waded in the voluminous clothes of Alaskan habits. He has visited France, marched over Canada, traversed Central America and commuted with the Panama Canal residents. He has lounged in the beckoning resorts of Tinian, and visited the dives of Juarez. The Lone Silent Hoosier, Deaf Mute Globe-Trotter, In City For Visit

The Lone Silent Hoosier again is in Big Spring. Ralph Kennedy Bradford of Indianapolis, deaf mute globe trotter, who has trekked across 35,000 in the last eight years, is visiting his aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, 208 Johnson street.

Bradford is one of those men who hear not, neither do they speak. Alone he travels; alone he lives, commuting with nature as he traverses his native land, and foreign countries. But does it matter that he can neither hear nor speak? Seemingly it does not. He gets along. Stricken with paralysis at the age of three years. Glasscock Strip Of Highway No. 9 To Be Appraised

Work by a jury of appraisal appointed by the Glasscock county commissioners court will be started this week to place a value on right-of-way for Highway No. 9 across the northeast corner of that county, said W. E. Cushing, rancher, who was in town yesterday.

The state highway department, following a policy used in cases where a county's only state highway is far removed from the county seat, will pay the entire cost of paving the 12-mile strip, provided right-of-way is donated. Right-of-way has been donated by all property owners except three. Appraisements will be reached on all right-of-way, however. This strip of road will extend the Howard county line and will shorten the distance between Big Spring and the Sterling county line from 36 to 21 1/2 miles. With paving of No. 9 in Comanche county, which recently voted bonds for the purpose, the road will have an all-weather surface continuous from Mason county to Howard county.

Daily Allowed Production For Howard-Glasscock County Field Up To 30,825 Barrels for April

Total potential for the month was fixed at 76,254 barrels. Wells producing from the 1300 and 1800-foot horizons get 12 barrels per well plus potential allowance. Wells in the 2200, 2500 and 3000-foot horizons get 50 barrels each plus potential allowance.

The Way of All Riches

Many interesting things may be learned by studying the case of the Wendell family of New York.

From the comparatively modest estate of the founder of the family, the Wendell fortunes grew into a huge bulk of $100,000,000.

Critics of the American system unite in crying "See how a vast accumulation of wealth piles up, unearned!

All this is as it should be, and it is an effective answer to an otherwise valid criticism of the American scheme of things.

Since the World War the United States has been absorbing more and more South American trade.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH?

Edited by Dr. Ingo Gulderson Academy of Medicine

DIET IN TUBERCULOSIS-II

In view of the wasting away of the bodies of the tuberculous, it is but natural that food and feeding should have played a prominent part in the history of the treatment of tuberculosis.

Today, while food is regarded as an aid in treatment rather than a specific, the tuberculous individual must watch his diet and his feeding habits.

He must eat enough to counteract the wasting tendencies of the disease and should endeavor to maintain his weight at the ideal level for his age and height.

Whereas formerly the special diets proposed for the tuberculous were urged either because of their richness in food content, or on the basis of some unexplainable virtue, the latest ones have been developed and recommended for their influence on the chemical balance of the body.

In substance these new diets are rich in calories, low in table salt and poor in animal meats and starches. They are rich in fats and vitamins.

The mineral content of these diets, the chemical reaction of their residues, and their vitamins, are thought by the proponents of these diets to hasten healing and to help circumscribe the disease.

The administration of these diets is a rather complicated affair and the reports from those who have studied their effects are contradictory.

This phase in the treatment of tuberculosis, therefore, must be adjudged as still very much in the experimental stage.

Hollywood Sights

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Living in this cinema land of make-believe does things to you, tricky things.

Not necessarily is the Hollywood life disillusioning, no r does it inevitably wreck one's moral bulwarks, if any.

But you do come, in time, to disbelieve your eyes, and find yourself entertaining furtive little suspicions.

Maybe it's just the effects of spring fever, but down at the beach last Sunday, looking across the blue water to the jutting pier of a carnival concession, nothing at the moment could convince us that the many-curtained, mosque-like structure there was anything more than a "front" erected by some studio's carpenters.

OR BRAIN FEVER You walk down Hollywood boulevard and suddenly an uncanny suspicion arises. They don't sell anything in those bright-faced shops, and those leisurely-stepping throngs aren't prospective customers. They're extras.

They're buying things at counters with artificial money, and the cash registers have a ring that's microphone-attuned. The pop-coon vendors, the apple-sellers, the traffic cops are just atmosphere.

There's a camera hidden somewhere. Step carefully, or you'll get tangled up in the wiring and pull down an incandescent. That isn't really sunshine, it's the glare from arc-lights. That sad-faced lady holding a child by the hand? Don't be silly—it's only Ruth Chatterton playing one of her self-sacrificing motherhood roles.

MOVIE-MADNESS Ride through the town, and you wonder what prop-man's nightmare inspired that oriental out-door market, that Dutch windmill bakery, that bizarre theater. Those bright spring flowers, color splashes against a khaki tent, aren't flowers at all. They're prop-room posies. John Gilbert's going to buy a paper nosegay for a screen sweetheart while the extras mill past.

Those hills that surround the town, if you look closely, are pasteboard and putty. On the golf course, cupped in by hills, don't try to drive a long one down the fairway. Use a putter, or your ball will go spinning—plung—right through a painted background.

And dining out is an ordeal. You've seen too many prop turkeys!

By Percival Christopher Wren Author of BEAD GESTE BEAU IDEAL MYSTERIOUS WAYE

SYNOPSIS: Dr. MacAdoo and his fellow in crime, Mr. James, want to "bump off" John Wayne, unwelcome patient of Dr. Charters' nursing home. But Charters fears Wayne, admitted to his home and provided with an alibi for the slaying of "Spider" Schlitz. Wayne may know that he has stolen from "Spider" his share of the loot in an American diamond haul. The physician's aid, Mr. James, knocked down when he draws a pistol on Wayne, and there is more trouble when Wayne's hints send MacAdoo to Charters to demand half of the 10,000 pounds promised for certain developments in the case of Marjorie Lauderdale. Charters, alarmed at the revelation of Wayne's knowledge, angrily consents. Miss Lauderdale tells Wayne the medicine she is taking makes her worse. Dr. Studley of the Monastery yet and we won't start now," he added virtuously.

"Colonel Campbell and Miss Skinner clear out of here tomorrow, ill or well, cured or not cured."

"What's he going to do with this?" inquired the doctor.

"Well, perhaps you can say," was the reply. "For I just set down comfortable in a recess in that corridor, waiting for that boozey old ruddy to come out again and get the shock of his life, when, lo, it wasn't so."

"For, ten minutes later, along comes another one, 'treadin' soft 'Geef' thinks I 'Am I in the Monastery?' And believe me boss this second wanderer stopped at the same door, too!"

"You could have knocked me down and up again with the tip end of a hummin'-bird feather."

"This one doesn't dive straight in as the other does; he just taps the handle gently, then opens the door and slides in. There's a light in the room now, so I get a glimpse of this one's face too."

"Who was it?" snapped the doctor, his face expressing anger.

"Who was it?" growled Mr. James. It was only your Mr. Precious Don't-Bump-Him-Off Wayne."

Speechless, the doctor stared his amazement and incredulity.

"Couldn't you hear anything?" he asked.

"None. The innocent old maid and the poor silly rumbound and His-Life-Is-Precious-to-us Mr. Wayne had plugged the keyhole, put the slider down or something along the bottom of the door, and gone to the far side of the room to hold their minting in soundless whispers."

"I'll tell you something else," continued Mr. James. "Though it's

SCANDAL IN THE HOUSE

DR. CHARTERS and Mr. James came as near to a breach as was possible between two men whose lives were so bound together.

They sat in solemn conclave until Dr. Charters introduced the subject of John Wayne, and very quickly the doctor's patience was overrun by Mr. James' dull reiteration of his one specific, "bump him off," and the simple mind of Mr. James was irritated by Dr. Charters' oft-repeated and vain speculation.

"Who is this man Wayne?"

"He's got me guessing, all day and all night."

"Well, let him guess," growled Mr. James.

"Guessing what?"

"How to nibble his way out from a hole in the ground, six feet deep. Bump him off, I say."

"I wish you could say something sensible. I've told you how he's got us fixed, and Mat'heson's coming again. . . I'll get him in the end."

If he doesn't get us first. Bump him off, I say."

"Would you mind not saying that again, but set your wits to work about him and Spider Schlitz, and find out something about him. I can't do anything myself; my hands are full, and all you can do is to sit there and say 'Bump him off' when I tell you that his life's absolutely precious to us, just at present. Watch him, I say."

"Yes, you say a lot, boss. Now suppose you give yourself a rest and listen to me. Then perhaps you'll do some thinking, too. Last night I was making my second round, and half turning a corner, what should I see but some one coming along toward me. Coming soft-soft. In black socks and a dark dressing gown, I faded flat into the wall, with half an eye round the corner, intending to follow him up."

"Good boy, Jimmie. And where was our mysterious Mr. Wayne off to?"

"You followed him, of course?"

"You wait, and do some of that thinking you talk about," replied Mr. James sourly.

"Well," he continued, "I didn't a thing I wouldn't tell ordinarily, for I'm not proud of it.

"As slow as a dead tortoise crawlin' backwards. I turned the handle of that door, knowing that none of them had keys or bolts. Then I began opening the door."

"And d'you think there was a sound out of that room or a glimmer of light in it? Not on your life. Those three innocents had froze stiff and silent, and put the light out long before that handle had finished turning."

"Did you get in?" asked the doctor.

"You bet I did. I allowed I'd be tickled to death to hear what that old rumbound Campbell had got to say, and see how your Mr. Wayne would explain himself away."

"I walked in like I was the great Dr. Charters, and said into the pitch darkness of that room:

"Evening, Miss Skinner."

"Oh, it's a man!" she shrieked. "Get out of here you wicked wretch who are you? I'll call the doctor. Oh, where's the light and the bell?"

"Right where they used to be, Marm, says I, reaching out my hand and switching on the light."

"And what d'you think I saw?"

Our Miss Skinner, squinting out from under the bedclothes. Anr not another thing in that room! Did I feel a foot?"

The doctor murmured some-

"It's you, Mr. James. Good gracious, what a fright you gave me," says Miss Skinner. "Oh, what on earth's the matter?"

"Why I thought I saw a man come in here," I said as soon as I could get my breath.

"Oh, she squawked, 'Mr. James. Oh! look under the bed. And look in the wardrobe and behind the curtains."

"I'll say I did look. Two men? There wasn't two mice."

"Oh, squawks the young innocent in the bed. 'I shall never sleep comfortable in this room again.'

"I believe you've said something. I don't think you will," says I.

PROMPT DELIVERY REFLECTS MILD WINTER CHICAGO (INS)—Reflecting unusually mild winter weather, Chicago's package car freight delivery system registered an "on time" mark of 96.71 per cent during January of this year, in comparison with the figure of 90.27 per cent for the same month in 1930, according to a report of the transportation department of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The "on time" mark of 96.94 per cent established last December offers further evidence of ideal winter shipping conditions in the Chicago area.

During January of this year, a total of 49,709 cars were checked, with the results showing 48,078 or 96.71 per cent arriving at their destinations on time. A total of 1,338, or 2.69 per cent were one day late, while only 238, or .48 per cent were late by more than one day.

Loucie Allgood's Weekly Letter Will Be Ready For Cottage Cheese Demonstrations Soon

Dear Club Women: This is a regular letter, as it partakes of my nature for the past week. First of all I will say I hope all of you spent a pleasant Easter. My little trip was very successful. I am bringing back information on cheese making, and plan to give one or more demonstrations in making American cheese soon. I helped make some while away. I ate some which could not be distinguished from the commercial product. Five gallons of milk will make about five pounds of cheese. Whole, fresh milk is used. Some of you have been wanting to see this demonstration for some time now I can promise to give it soon. Mrs. Dave Leatherwood brought me some sacks she had dyed the following colors, brown, orange and golden brown, using a package of Putnam's dye. The colors are beautiful, but there is very little contrast between the orange and golden brown. The color of the sacks prevents an intense orange. If any of you get orange, let us know how you do it. From Feb. 21 to March 28 Mrs. W. C. Rogers sold 28 angel cakes for $28. The ingredients, excepting the eggs, cost $1.90. She had nearly 22 dozen eggs, and by means of her skilled labor, and finding a market for her cakes, she received $1.09 per dozen for eggs marketed in these cakes. This money is being used to improve her living room.

Mrs. J. W. Wooten of Fairview traded hatching eggs for 500 baby chicks, trap-nested white leghorns. Later on her chickens, she had and she has lost only five. When they are six weeks old she plans to separate the cockerels and pullets and fatten the cockerels for the market. She will save the best ones for breeding. Mrs. Wooten is in the living room contest, but is finding it necessary to use most of her money now on her chickens. Later on her chickens, she could afford improvements she cannot afford now. Mrs. Akin Simpson of Lutherkainsomner over old stained wall paper. This is a cheap method of cleaning walls. She has made an improvement by putting new pictures on her walls. After doing this in the living room, she could not bear to look at her other walls. Therefore she plans to go over some other walls.

Sincerely,
LOUCIE ALGOOD.

Magazine Booms Will Rogers For Hoover's Place

Will Rogers for president. And, no foolin'! The Motion Picture Magazine next week will in a formal statement nominate the gum chewing philosopher of the cow country for president of the United States. Wilbur Morse, Jr., member of the magazine, on a transcontinental tour for the purpose of "soundin' out" leading men in the larger cities, stopped here Wednesday for lunch at the Settles. Mr. Morse, a veteran newspaper man and political publicity agent, said his magazine's action in nominating Mr. Rogers was a serious and well considered move. "Within the past decade the motion picture business has developed into the fourth largest industry in America," he pointed out. "Consequently, a number of leading men of the industry have become more prominent. They believe Will Rogers would be a sound president and are favorable to a 'boom' in his behalf."

Morse's announcement here came while Rogers was enroute by plane to Mangagua, the scene of one of the worst earthquakes in recent history. Opinions Among those interviewed by Morse on their idea of Rogers' potential strength as a candidate are Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York City and Senator Shortridge (Republican) of California. Senator Shortridge said that "if the Democrats should nominate Will Rogers he would be the toughest opposition the Republicans have had in many years."

Mayor Walker, in a talk for a news reel, declared in his opinion Rogers possessed the sound judgment and the popular appeal that would make him a very strong Democratic candidate. Rogers is affiliated with no political party and the Motion Picture Magazine's campaign is non-partisan, Morse pointed out.

Announcement

Next week's Motion Picture Magazine will nominate Rogers with the following: "We toss the Cowboy comedian's hat and rope into the ring as America's most useful citizen. Will isn't any Adams, but shucks, neither is Lincoln. He does his whole thing and that's what counts when folks are starving. While the rest of us were still talking he was down in Arkansas doing something. We nominate Will Rogers because he debunks American 'bull' because he represents to the world the honest, shrewd, human and humorous Yankee; because his costly, timely efforts to obtain relief for the hungry have been equalled only by his own constructive, optimistic propaganda in print, on the screen and over the air in behalf of the man in the street; because he is a sportsman, a genius of comedy and a gentleman of courage and courtesy."

Members of the Business Men's Luncheon Club talked of many things today—railroads, highways, charity needs, motorcade. The club met in the basement of the First Baptist church. Instead of the usual meeting place, the First Methodist church. Guests of the club were Charles K. Bivings Sr., father of Dr. C. K. Bivings, president of the club; and J. Gordon Bristol, newly elected Big Spring High school coach. The program was charge of E. A. Kelley. Discussion of obtaining the right of way for the proposed Texas & Pacific Northern Railway was led by R. L. Cook. Several plans for obtaining the right of way, provided the permission to build the railway is obtained, were suggested. It was suggested by L. A. Eubank that owners of empty store buildings displaying "bankrupt" signs, be solicited to have the signs removed. Eubank pointed out the signs had a psychological effect on transients. The club voted to appoint a committee to see the store owners.

G. T. Watson announced that Big Spring had been designated as overnight stop for the Broadway of America motorcade, to be here this month. He announced plans for entertaining the members of the party are now being made. B. F. Robbins asked support of the club in supplying work for a number of men of needy families in Big Spring. He asked cooperation of club members in working out plans with the Chamber of Commerce.

Winters

Miss Loula Lee Kendrick; and Lester Owens spent the week-end in Clyde, Texas. The Union Sunday school is improving from Sunday to Sunday as the weather gradually gets warmer.

Gordon Bristol, newly elected Big Spring High school coach. The program was charge of E. A. Kelley. Discussion of obtaining the right of way for the proposed Texas & Pacific Northern Railway was led by R. L. Cook. Several plans for obtaining the right of way, provided the permission to build the railway is obtained, were suggested. It was suggested by L. A. Eubank that owners of empty store buildings displaying "bankrupt" signs, be solicited to have the signs removed. Eubank pointed out the signs had a psychological effect on transients. The club voted to appoint a committee to see the store owners.

State Bond Issue Given Hard Blow

By House Action

AUSTIN, April 7 (AP)—The house today struck a blow at the proposed statewide, $200,000,000 bond issue, passing to the engrossment bill by Representative Brooks, Bagwell, to pay the outstanding bonded indebtedness of counties, incurred on state highways, out of current revenues. The vote was 79 to 50.

Opponents of the statewide bond issue predicted defeat for the bond issue resolution as a result of today's vote on the Brooks bill, which set aside one fourth of the gasoline tax as a fund to pay interest and sinking fund on county road bonds. The senate swapped other affairs and tried vainly to reach the highway bond issue resolution this morning. Hope is held of reaching it soon.

Milk Is Necessary To Build Up Child's Health and Condition

The Child Study club, in announcing its bridge benefit to be given Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the Settles hotel for the purpose of raising funds to help for needy children, calls attention to President Hoover's interest in child health.

"At the White House conference on child health and protection, it was found that only 57 per cent of American children have enough milk each day; 2.5 per cent use no milk at all and the rest have less than enough.

The slogan, "It's smart to be healthy" has captured the imagination of our people, in the opinion of Miss Jessie Cole, nutrition specialist, department of health of New York state.

Economists are of the opinion that food is one of the first things in which families begin to skimp," says Miss Cole, "they feel that no one will know if they do without milk or eat less vegetables and fruit."

From time to time the state department of health issues bulletins explaining the essentials of adequate diet and dealing with food requirements. Particular emphasis is laid on the way in which food money should be budgeted. The value of dairy products, vegetables and fruits is pointed out and the foods which should appear in each day's dietary are given.

In addition to this planning of a meal is discussed and illustrated and menus are outlined. It is suggested that people begin looking up on their use of essential foods, dairy products, vegetables and milk. When the income permits they should increase the amount of these foods.

The Rev. W. H. Martin, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, 505 Tenth street, underwent an operation Tuesday morning at the Big Spring Hospital.

Forty-Five Countries Raise Tariff Duties As Result of Enforcement of New U. S. Law

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three stories on world tariff changes since the Hawley-Smoot tariff act became effective.

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—Forty-five countries have increased tariff duties on hundreds of commodities which the United States places on the world market since the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill became effective ten months ago, a survey by the United Press disclosed today.

Following President Hoover's signature of the tariff measure which brought criticism in this country and abroad for its high rates, one country after another has raised its own tariff wall higher.

In some cases these increases are generally regarded as a direct retaliation of the higher tariff rates which the United States has raised against the world to protect its own industries. In other cases, such as China, the increases have been a part of a change of governmental policy to increase customs revenues and protect home markets.

With Silence
Whatever the cause, the effect admitted has been disadvantageous to the United States. American officials have met the raising of tariff barriers by other countries with silence, but spokesmen for several leading industries, which have seen their markets cut off, have expressed their anxiety over this development. This is true particularly to the automobile, tobacco and motion picture industries.

Faced by the necessity of developing new foreign markets with the home market reduced by the depression, they have become alarmed at the gradual spread of a tariff raising fever in countries which formerly have been good customers.

This movement has been accompanied by a considerable drop in United States foreign trade. While the world wide depression has reduced the foreign trade of all countries, opponents of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act attribute the decrease partly to the hostility which they say was aroused by passage of that act.

Exports Off
The Hawley-Smoot tariff act became effective last June 17. Export trade of the United States dropped off more than a billion dollars from last July 1 through February as compared with the corresponding eight months a year before, according to official commerce department figures. Exports for the eight months beginning last July 8 totaled $2,241,821,373. For the corresponding eight months in the previous year they were $3,377,608,078.

The value of goods purchased by the United States from other countries also dropped over a billion dollars. In the eight months since last July 1 imports aggregated $1,685,426,890, as compared with $2,705,661,557 in the corresponding eight months a year before.

The United Press survey, based on official reports by its trade commissioners throughout the world, shows that commerce department officials of the Hawley-Smoot act, effective, shows tariff increases on products exported by the United States to 16 European countries, 15 South and Central American countries, and 13 countries and political units in the far east and South Pacific.

European countries which have increased tariff duties are Austria, France, Belgium, Estonia, Finland, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Lithuania, Poland, Spain, Switzerland, Portugal, and Yugoslavia.

The following South and Central American countries have increased tariff rates on various articles: Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Chile, Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Mexico, Uruguay, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Venezuela and Paraguay.

Oriental and Pacific countries and political units which have raised rates are China, Japan, Siam, Dutch East Indies, British India, Egypt, Syria, the Federated Malay states, British New Guinea, Hongkong, Australia, New Zealand, and the Cook Islands.

Mrs. N. G. Rollins Presides At First Business Meeting

The Northwest Texas Conference of the Women's Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist church convened this morning at 8:20 at the First Methodist church, with a good crowd in attendance of delegates and local women, and visiting ministers.

The meeting proper was opened with the sacrament of the Lord's supper administered by the Rev. W. G. Bailey, pastor of the local church assisted by the Rev. O. P. Clark, presiding elder of the Sweetwater district, the Rev. Cal Wright of Snyder, the Rev. I. A. Smith, of Clayton, the Rev. D. D. Deming of Meadow, and the Rev. J. F. Isabel, of Ft. Worth.

This was followed by a memorial service for members of the W.M.S. who had died during the year. Mrs. J. A. Britain, of Seymour, conducted a beautiful service, reading the eighth Psalm and selected from the flower-filled platform, a basket of various flowers associated with the virtues of the deceased workers.

Mrs. Rollins ended the service with a tribute to Mrs. F. F. Stephens, deceased president of the W.M. Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Keaton sang duet, "The Invisible Land," accompanied by Mrs. Charles Morris, who will be pianist for all of the musical service of the Conference. Mrs. Morris gave a short musical prelude during the administration of the Sacrament and the memorial service.

Business Session
The business meeting of the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Nat G. Rollins, of Abilene, president of the conference. Mrs. Rollins used a new gavel made for the occasion from an oak tree under which Wesley preached to the Indians in Georgia.

C. T. Watson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, extended an invitation of welcome to the visitors, invited them to see the show places of the city, such as Scenic Drive, and to make themselves at home.

Following the completion of business for the morning, Mrs. Rollins gave the president's address reviewing the work of the past year and urging the members to greater efforts for the future. She spoke of the national situation of 1930; the need for law enforcement; of the accomplishments of the Methodist church, the creation of the Christian Education Board and the new unified program which was worked out to avoid over-organization.

She went in detail to call attention to the work of the missionary council, of its young people's department, its work in foreign missions and missions of the homeland. Her report was followed by that of the vice-president given by Mrs. Garvin of Amarillo, recording secretary, along with her own report.

Spring Flower Show At Ribble's Attracts Many Visitors On First Day

Three-Inch Carnations; Dollar-Size Sweetpeas; Easter Lilies; Horn-Fed Geraniums Interest Flower-Lovers

A stream of about 1500 flower-lovers poured into the show rooms of Ribble's, the Florist, yesterday afternoon from 3 o'clock to after midnight, to see the beautiful showing of Easter lilies and spring flowers.

The flowering Catalina orchid, conspicuously placed on the mantelpiece, easily attracted more attention than the other flowers. Next to it in popularity were the yellow calla lilies, yellow as rich country butter; the big blue hydrangea plants, the rosy Scotch heather, the fragrant white

Easter lilies, the delicate pink azalea, the plummy white spirea—and a dozen or more other potted plants, many of which were shown in Big Spring for the first time.

German iris, the unadorned iris, which have never raised in this country, were on display in the refrigerator with other cut flowers.

The greenhouse where the cut flowers are grown, interested garden-lovers as much as the potted plants because they saw there what could be done with this West Texas soil. Snapdragon of all colors were growing in a bed of soil taken from the grounds south of the shop. They had spikes of blooms eight inches long.

The average carnation in the greenhouse measured three inches across and many of them measured half an inch more. They were grown in all the favorite shades: red and white, pink, the pink and white crossed which is named and were shown the new furnishings of the church parlors contributed by the women.

The afternoon session was devoted to committee meetings on the various activities of the W.M.S. delegates and visitors were asked to attend whichever committee meeting interested them most.

The financial department's report was given by Mrs. S. H. Crossley, of Chillicothe, treasurer, following a few moments of worship conducted by Mrs. D. N. Arnett. Reports of the council meeting were given to the visitors and delegates.

The service this evening will commence at 8 o'clock with a devotional service conducted by Mrs. Robert Withers, of Sweetwater. The evening will be devoted to the children's work, of which Mrs. R. A. Metcalf of Slaton, is superintendent. It will consist of a pageant put on by Mrs. Ebb Hatch, assisted by Mrs. Charles Morris and Mrs. Lawrence Simpson.

At the executive meeting Monday evening at the church, Mrs. Rollins, conference president, presided. She led the devotionals with a talk on leadership. Conference officers, district secretaries and superintendents of the various activities sponsored by the W.M.S. were present. The meeting was devoted entirely to business.

1931 Season to Get Underway April Nineteen

Four Clubs To Be Included In This Year's Amateur League

Dr. Wofford B. Hardy was elected president of the 1931 City league, at the initial parley of players and managers, held at the Herald office, Monday night.

The board of governors consists of W. E. O'Brien, George Genry, and Robert W. Middleton.

According to plans adopted at the meeting Monday night, it was definitely determined to have four clubs in the loop this year, instead of the usual six.

The clubs will be the West Texas National Bank, Flowerlen Service Station, Coahoma and the Mexican Tigers. The Coahoma Refinery will represent Flowerlen's station.

The 1931 season will open April 19 with a clash between Coahoma and the Tigers. Drawing for places was held Monday night.

Four games will be played each week. Playing days will be Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

The team managers voted to schedule all games at 5 p. m. with a clause providing for a fourth game if the same is not started by 5:30 o'clock. This was done in an effort to prevent the "night baseball games" of last year.

Although the usual $15 team entrance fee remains in force, the 50 cent charge per player was reduced to twenty-five cents. To defray expenses of the league, including a ten per cent payment out of the daily receipts for the use of Dusty Diamond, and balls, a small charge will be made for the games. The policy of allowing women to see the game free again was adopted.

Rollins
The solons of the various clubs voted to use only bona fide residents of Howard county, and increased the limit of age from 14 to 16 and made one exception to the residence ruling by allowing Coahoma to use Tip Grissett, twirler, of Westbrook.

Men must be signed two weeks before they play. Contract cards will be printed and issued later this week to managers of the respective clubs.

Another meeting of the managers, the board of governors and the president, will be held Monday night. At that time the schedule will be approved, and the ball to be used this year will be selected.
