LOCATION FOR NEW TEST STAKED NEAR CARBON

The development trend in this district continued this week although activities did not rival those of past weeks.

NO HOPE LEFT FOR LIVES OF CREW OF SUB

LIVERPOOL, Eng., June 3.—A green buoy with the word "Wreck" bobbed up and down on the Irish Sea tonight above the steel tomb of 98 men who died in the submarine Thetis in the worst undersea disaster in history.

While a circle of warships and rescue boats roared at anchor around the spot, bitter protests spread over the handling of rescue attempts and demands were made for a sweeping inquiry.

The four survivors of the 102 men on the Thetis when it left for a test run early Thursday, were under doctors care. They refused to discuss the cause of the tragedy but all gave accounts of suffering in the sunken Thetis where men sprawled helplessly gasping for air that steadily was becoming foul.

Those who escaped from the Thetis, the newest and most modern submarine of the British Navy were:

Capt. H. P. K. Oram, commander of the fifth submarine flotilla; Lt. F. G. Wood, W. G. Arnold, a stoker and F. E. Shaw, a civilian technician of Cammell-Laird, the builders of the undersea craft.

The trapped men, 61 of whom were sailors and 37 civilians, died slow deaths from chlorine gas and the exhaustion of their air supply.

The admiralty announced that salvage work would continue, but it was doubted that the craft could be raised from the bottom of the sea until at least Monday.

The admiralty's formal abandonment of hope was announced after consultation with those in charge of rescue work at the scene.

TEN OF TRAIN'S TWENTY-FIVE PASSENGERS RECEIVE AID AFTER CARS LEAVE TRACK NEAR RANGER

The fireman and engineer of a west-bound Texas & Pacific passenger train were killed and eleven passengers were injured Saturday morning at Moss Curve, three and one-half miles west of Ranger as the engine and four cars left the track.

Immediate cause of the accident was not determined. Malin Mann, 65, of Fort Worth, was the engineer and Ernest Preston, 45, also of Fort Worth, was the fireman.

The wreckage cleared the tracks and soon after the accident train crews began to lighten the tracks so other traffic on the road could continue.

None of the passenger injuries were described as serious. Treatment was given at the West Texas Hospital in Ranger.

W. L. Beach, roadmaster for the T. & P. in this division, of Ranger, said that cause of the accident could not be determined until the engine was righted and examined.

The train which was wrecked was known as the No. 3 and its run was from Fort Worth to Sweetwater. There were 25 passengers on the train.

J. H. Jaco, mail clerk in charge of the mail and baggage car, described the accident as the worst he has ever experienced.

Guarding the mail and baggage with his gun after the accident, Jaco, of Fort Worth, said, "All I can say is that it was the worst ride I have ever experienced. And I have been in three or four."

The engine and cars were thrown to the north side of the track. The engine after leaving the track so landed that the mail and baggage car and one passenger car were on top of it.

A flock of curious soon gathered after the accident to survey the damage. Streams of cars poured into the country lanes leading to the accident site. Amateur cameramen and newspapermen were soon at the scene.

A Dallas newspaper agency immediately after hearing of the accident dispatched a photographer to the scene by airplane.

The impact of the cars against the ground threw passengers to the right of the cars.

A brother of the engineer killed Saturday was also killed in an accident 20 years ago, it was recalled. Joe Mann, Malin Mann's brother, was killed one and one-half miles from the Saturday train accident.

Justice Hughes Is Confined To Bed By Duodenal Ulcer

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The supreme court clerk's office announced today that Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes is suffering from a duodenal ulcer and will be confined to bed for some time.

The announcement was made by Nelson Potter, assistant clerk, in charge of press relations.

Hughes suffered an attack of grippe earlier this year after his address to the special joint session of congress on March 4. He did not return to the court for six weeks. That was the first time that Hughes, who is 77, had been forced by illness to be absent from the court. He was appointed in 1930.

"There is no reason to doubt Mr. Hughes' full recovery, but he must have a complete rest for the time being," Potter said.

Russian Agreement Appears Remote A Paris Source Says

PARIS, June 3.—Official sources predicted tonight that negotiations for the British-French-Russian "anti aggression" agreement may collapse unless Moscow withdraws her demand for combined military protection of her "little neighbors" along the Baltic Sea.

Russia's reply to the French-British alliance proposal was delivered to the foreign office today and, after a quick study, government leaders admitted that negotiations with Russia had reached a point where there was little likelihood of an agreement.

The British and French cabinets will study the Russian reply on Monday and Tuesday and the only hope expressed for further negotiations was the fact that Russia did not offer counter proposals, but decided to lay aside the British-French offer as the basis for discussions.

They are reported to have leased the Chateau de la Maye, outside Paris, which belongs to the American-born Telene Brown Dupuy. The house is the one in which the Duke and Duchess of Windsor lived last year.

Five Years—or Ten

"Those processes," said Francis J. Curtis, "which are five years old are looked upon with suspicion, and those 10 years old can almost be assumed to be out of date."

This is a chemist speaking. Curtis, a representative of one of the most prominent American chemical companies, was speaking to a meeting of purchasing agents. He referred specifically to his own industry, chemicals, when he added that "development in the past 20 years has been so phenomenal that we can hardly believe it ourselves, and spend most of our time wondering what is going to happen next."

Experienced men in fields like this seldom predict specifically, not so much for fear that they will be wrong, but for fear that performance may quickly surpass or overshadow their most enthusiastic predictions.

Automobile bodies have already been made, experimentally, of plastics. It is easily conceivable that soon articles like a whole bedstead or perhaps the frame of a carved chair might be pressed out in almost a single operation from plastic materials. Textile fabrics in sheets like cellophane, a new inorganic insulating varnish made from clay, revolutionary ideas in heating enclosed spaces—ideas like these whirl about in the brain of the chemists, and come closer to reality with each whirl.

The puny changes which political man is imposing on the world are nothing beside the revolutionary changes which scientific man is about to impose. Think of the changes latent in ideas like those, none of which seem far-fetched when viewed alongside actual accomplishment of the near past. Imagine a country turned back to forest because broad farm acres have been made unnecessary by chemurgic "farming." From this inexhaustible supply of annual crops, plastic materials are devised which take the place of metallic articles now laboriously mined, smelted, and fashioned.

Nations once dependent on supplies of iron or coal beyond their borders become suddenly independent of them because the iron and coal themselves are no longer necessary to anyone.

Labor dislocations beyond anything dreamed of today would necessarily follow such developments. And the strain of adjusting man's institutions to a manner of physical life changing so fast that not even the scientists themselves can keep abreast of it would become tremendous.

The thing that lags behind in this furious forward race is our own minds. All the imagination, the foresight, the wisdom, that man can muster will be needed in adjusting man and his institutions and ideas to the facts of the new world.

Graduation Has Brought Gloom To The Masonic Home

FORT WORTH, June 3.—Campus walks and dormitory halls at Masonic Home and School were bathed in gloom Tuesday, the traditional aftermath of commencement festivities at the school.

The atmosphere was gloomy because most of the 31 graduates who received diplomas Monday in commencement exercises, Tuesday had departed not only the halls where they had studied but also left behind them the place that had been home to them for as long as 10 or 12 years. Some left younger brothers and sisters behind.

Tom Fletcher, superintendent, sounded a cheerful note in the announcement that 60 per cent of the group leaving already had secured employment before graduating. The others will go to the homes of parents, relatives or guardians with instructions to keep in touch with the school here until they find jobs or make satisfactory arrangements for continuing their schooling in college or business school.

Paul Solves Church Problems

Text: I Corinthians 1:3, 10, 11; 4:14-21; I Thessalonians 5:12.

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

WE are accustomed to think of the early church as a church of pure and unadorned religion, and we are not to think that if we could only get back to the days of primitive Christianity, all the defects and abuses in the church of today would disappear. The fact is that the more carefully we look into the records of the New Testament, the more conscious we are of the fact that even in the church of the generation immediately succeeding the Master, things were by no means ideal. We have seen how, even in the days of the Master Himself and in His very presence, dissension arose among the disciples and disputes as to who among them should be the greater and concerning other matters, which in their very nature belied the teaching and example of the Christ whom they had left all to follow.

The troubles that arose in the early church were somewhat of the same kind and from the same causes. Self-seeking and jealous striving create discord and difficulty wherever they appear—in home life, in public life, and even in the religious life of the church. But in addition to these things, there were also sordid aspects of these early Christian communities. They existed in the midst of a corrupt and licentious environment, and perhaps it was not unnatural that some of these untrained and ill-disciplined disciples should yield to temptation—and man's yielding to temptation has almost always produced evil.

It is interesting to see the way in which Paul met these various situations of moral weakness and trouble in the churches that he founded. He did not in any respect lower the ideal. He held these early Christians up to this full will and purpose of God manifest in the church, but was no rigorous disciplinarian, utterly lacking in any consciousness of human frailty or sympathy for the erring and fallen. There is a note of tenderness and compassion even in his severest reproofs, and better than all this, in their self-bickering, he called upon the early Christians to witness their unselfishness of his own life.

When those who favored a harsher indicated conflict with the one who preferred the more lenient Apollus, Paul reminded them that they were not his disciples, but disciples of Christ, and that the great thing was that Christ should be preached, and that the Christian life should be lived.

The Gospel is a great deal more than its ministers preach. It is this it is very necessary to remember today, we would have a wholesome high-minded ministry and we would have likewise a membership in our churches that earnestly devoted to the Gospel and to witnessing it in life as well as in word.

Now that M. Grover's little exposition is open, we hope the gossamers will be quiet that the U. S. is two fair words.

PROVED IN OPEN COMPETITION!

IT HAS THE SPEED

IT HAS THE ENDURANCE

IT HAS THE ECONOMY

FORD V-8

EXCELS IN THE THINGS THAT COUNT

Through all the speed ranges from lowest to highest, the Ford V-8 gives you the economical, well-balanced performance of a soundly engineered car. You can see what it does on the roads you know. Now read what happened in the three great competitive tests of this year!

And remember that the things which made these Fords winners, all Fords have. The same fine materials, the same precision workmanship, the same economy!

• FLORIDA—March—In the tough going of the Daytona Beach Race, over 150 miles of sand and road, a Ford-built Mercury 8 finished first with a Ford V-8 only 200 yards behind it. Ford-built V-8 cylinder cars made a clean sweep of all prizes. The average speed of the winning car was 70.30 miles per hour.

• BUENOS AIRES—April—The Argentines held a race that was a race—the South American Grand Prize. 4515 miles, much of it over steep and tortuous Andean mountain roads. 69 cars were entered, including all leading low-price American makes. The race was won by a Ford V-8 and 10 of the 28 cars which finished were Fords.

• CALIFORNIA—January—The annual Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run was conducted under the worst conditions in years. 314 miles over two mountain ranges (4000 and 6000 feet elevation) with rain all the way and snow the last 40 miles! Nearly half the entries, including the leading low-price cars, failed to finish within the time limit. But performance figures recorded by Motor Age show that the 85-hp. Ford V-8 delivered the best gasoline mileage in its class! The Mercury 8 was also best in its class.

Must Pay Voting Tax, High Court Says at Austin

To qualify as a "legal voter," the Texas supreme court Wednesday ruled a citizen must pay his municipal poll tax.

The decision affirmed a ruling by Judge Milburn S. Long in 42nd district court at Baird, in which he upheld validity of a Baird city bond election.

In answer to a certified question, presented by the eleventh district court of civil appeals at Eastland, the court said:

"Under the constitution and laws of this state, a voter subject thereto must pay his city poll tax at the time required by law, in order to qualify as a legal voter in any election in this state."

The case in question was the suit of T. E. Powell and others against the City of Baird, which sought to invalidate an election last fall authorizing issuance of bonds to finance construction of a municipal light and power plant.

A major issue was that certain citizens were deprived of the right to vote by being required to present receipts for payment of city poll taxes. Attorneys in the case said it was the first time the question had been submitted to the state's highest tribunal.

Two questions were submitted the supreme court by the appellate judges, who certified the issue without passing on it. They were:

"Is requirement of payment of a city poll tax, by those subject thereto as a prerequisite to the right to vote at said municipal election in contravention of the constitution of Texas?"

"If the first question should be answered 'yes,' then was evidence admissible to show how members of the excluded class of voters would have voted had they been permitted to vote?"

Supplementing its ruling, the supreme court said: "Obviously, this answer makes it unnecessary to answer the second certified question."

Dothan Man Has Long Record In Turkey Raising

C. E. Pippen, who lives one mile north of Dothan, is one of the county's most prominent turkey raisers. He was a visitor Monday in Eastland when he conferred with County Agent Elmo V. Cook.

He has raised turkeys for 40 years. In the last 10 years the Dothan man raised an average of 300 each year. He now has 80 turkey hens, kept in a laying pen on laying mash and mixed grain.

Principally Mr. Pippen hatches in custom incubators. However, he uses several setting hens. He now has 450 poultlets which he keeps in serees pens three or four days after which hens are turned out with the poultlets. He depends on the hens to shelter the poultlets.

Last year Mr. Pippen raised and sold 50 breeding toms and 30 breeding hens. His turkeys are killed and dressed for the market.

He feeds turkeys all they will eat from Sept. 1 but feeds sparingly all during the growing season. Next year he plans to net poultlets until they are four or five weeks old. He uses baby beef toms in his flock.
