MOTIONS ARE AWAITED IN SCANDAL CASE

By United Press
 NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15.—Jeymour Weiss, who rose from the salesman to millionaire as treasurer of the late Huey P. Long's political machine, awaits motions today for mail fraud. A jury in federal court deliberated two hours last night and concluded that of having used the mails to defraud Louisiana of $75,000. Judge Wayne G. Borah deferred sentence until today, for a decree setting aside the verdict is unwarranted, or failing that, a new trial.

Convicted with Weiss were Dr. James Monroe Smith, whom Long made president of Louisiana State University; Monte E. Hart, an electrical contractor who had had many state contracts; Louis C. Seng, who was an executive of a large oil company until he was indicted and J. Emory Adams, Smith's nephew.

Judge Borah can sentence all five to as much as 10 years in federal penitentiary, and in addition, fine them each $10,000.

Science Is Advising Mothers Not to Rock Their Babies To Sleep

By United Press
 CHICAGO.—"Rock-a-Bye, Baby," the ancient cradle lullaby, should be banned from the modern nursery, according to the Chicago Infant Welfare Society.

The society's doctor declared that sentiment must give way to science; babies must not be rocked. Rocking, the doctors said, irritates rather than soothes the baby, and if he falls asleep it is only from general exhaustion.

To support its theories, the society claims it lost only 5.8 babies per 1,000 in 1938 as against 42 per 1,000 in 1911.

Still Found In Romney Vicinity

Sheriff Loss Woods said today that although a 20 gallon still was found in a barn five miles southeast of Romney there would be no charges filed.

The officer declared that he believed them as there was no indication the still had been operated in that period.

Not Bothered

Only ones of 441 war-stranded passengers aboard British liner Pandora who weren't nervous when German submarines were reported nearby.

Children of screen star Rob Montgomery, with 260 Americans and $16,000,000 in gold and silver, arrived safely in New York after altering course times on British admiralty orders.

Poland's Armies Fight Back to Front

Brilliant chapters were added to the defense of Poland when two "lost" armies reappeared near Warsaw. Their routes through territory taken by the Germans (shaded areas on map) are shown by the heavy arrows. The "lost army of Pomorze" (1) was reported hopelessly trapped in the Polish Corridor when the Germans swept through. The army made its way south through 100 miles of German territory and swung over to Modlin to fight the invaders; pushing down from the north. The "lost army of Poznan" (2) came out from a series of retreating battles to sweep the Germans out of Lodz and put the Poles in position to hit the southern German Warsaw offensive from behind.

Sound Movies Are Taken Of Ranger's NYA Work Projects

J. C. Kellam, state director of the National Youth Administration, accompanied by newsreel cameraman, arrived in Ranger this morning to take sound pictures of the NYA projects.

The cameraman, after taking pictures of the outside of the woodwork and metal shop buildings, with all NYA enrollees, both boys and girls grouped outside while they listened to a few remarks by Kellam, took a large number of scenes of the shops in actual operation.

It was stated today that the picture, when complete, would be shown throughout the country, as well as in Ranger.

Four Engineering Problems Probed by State University

AUSTIN, Tex.—Almost doubling its fact-finding job, The University of Texas bureau of engineering research announced today it would this fall delve into four new engineering problems of the Southwest.

The bureau will bolster its present five-pronged program—ranging from Texas air-conditioning to exploitation of Texas lignite as a commercial fuel—with new laboratory research projects on (1) Texas foodstuff preservation with quick-freeze methods, (2) foodstuff preservation by dehydration, (3) heating shale, and (4) low-cost Texas housing. The expansion is permitted by a $3,000 increase in the bureau's annual budget.

One of four cooperating agencies of the University's recently launched Texas Industrial and Commercial Research Council, the engineering research bureau is supplemented by fact-finding departments in business research, economic geology and industrial chemistry.

Quick freeze and evaporation processes are to be explored to provide an economical wedge for an invasion of the northern market by Texas foodstuffs, Dean Woolrich said. A study of the heating shale problems confronting coastal rigs is designed to alic thousands of dollars from production expense. The bureau will also seek means of commercial exploitation of the "vast quantities" of Texas building materials such as granite and marble, with an eye to lowering construction costs within the state, he added.

20,000 Civilians Killed In Bombings

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The Polish Transcontinental Press reported today that the Lemberg radio had announced that 20,000 civilians had been killed in German air raids.

The civilian casualties were higher than military casualties, the Polish station said.

NEUTRALITY TO BE ONLY TOPIC FOR CONGRESS

By United Press
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—President Roosevelt indicated today that the administration's special congressional session program will be limited to revision of the neutrality law.

The administration desires to eliminate the neutrality act provision, providing for mandatory embargo of arms shipments to belligerents.

Confidence is booming the proposal will succeed and will aid in restoration of democratic congressional harmony.

Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference today that he does not expect to ask congress for legislation to restrict activities of wartime profiteers.

Mr. Roosevelt, again emphasizing that all plans for this country are on a peacetime basis, said that no suggestions even have been considered for increasing government personnel in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The debate on whether the present neutrality law is neutral or unneutral, was in full swing today and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was expected to add to it tonight in a radio talk to the nation.

Col. Lindbergh will speak from 8:45 to 9 p. m., CST, on "American and Foreign Wars."

Broadcasting officials said the address was arranged for Lindbergh by "a friend" but declined to use his name.

It will be the first time the radio audience has heard the famous flier's voice since Aug. 28, 1931, when he spoke before an assembly of Japanese dignitaries in Tokyo.

Texans To Appear At Monopoly Quiry

By United Press
 FORT WORTH, Sept. 15.—Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, disclosed today that he had been "invited" to appear before the congressional joint monopoly investigating committee hearings beginning Sept. 25 in Washington.

Karl Crowley, former solicitor general of the U. S. Post Office department and recently a critic of alleged practices of major pipeline companies, revealed that he also had been called to appear before the committee.

Pigeons to Carry News About Tuna

By United Press
 ASTORIA, Ore.—Tiny fishing smacks patrolling the Oregon coast for heavy tuna strikes, and too small to carry radio transmitters, may soon be able to establish emergency contact with land by means of carrier pigeons.

Growth of the tuna industry has resulted in outfitting of hundreds of small boats, which, without means of communication with land, are often helpless in case of bad weather. However, experiments in transmitting messages by carrier pigeons are now being conducted by the crew of Astoria's coast guard cutter Onondaga, and may provide a solution to the problem.

Lieutenant-Commander Frank Higbee, in charge of the cutter, is currently experimenting with birds trained by Halsey Williams of Multnomah, Ore.

In the first experimental trip, Higbee reported that 16 pigeons were released from a point 50 miles at sea. All but one of the birds successfully reached its destination.

Higbee also said the birds would be of value to fishermen as a means of communicating the latest information on good strikes at sea.

Marketing Quotas On Cotton Are Set

By United Press
 WASHINGTON, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today proclaimed a marketing quota intended to limit unrestricted sale of cotton from the 1940 crop to approximately 12,000,000 bales.

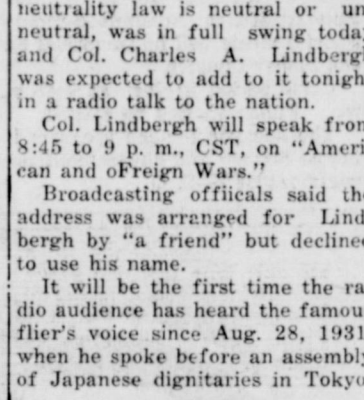

The quota and penalties for violation will become effective if approved by two thirds of the growers voting in a referendum to be held Dec. 9.

Last December, 84 per cent of the growers voting approved quota restriction on 1939 marketing.

GERMANY FIGHTS WAY DEEPER INTO POLAND; FRENCH ALSO ADVANCE

By United Press
 German armies fought their way deep into Eastern Poland today in a drive that appeared likely to force an early showdown on Soviet Russia's role among the warring European powers.

Advancing steadily toward the Rumanian and Russian frontiers, the nazis reported they were blasting the fortifications before Brest-Litovsk in the east, had crossed the Lublin-Lwow highway in the southeast and had crushed a Polish counter attack in the central Kupno sector.

The Polish defenders still held out at Warsaw. When German mechanized troops again smashed into the suburbs of the capital at Praca they were reported thrown back once more in desperate fighting.

Sharp fighting was reported and there was heavy artillery bombardment from both sides as French troops filtered through the German advance posts at some points until they were almost to the main west wall fortifications.

Thirty or forty German prisoners were reported taken.

On the high seas British and French fleets were said to have cut down the number of nazi submarines from 30 to about 25, but a new U-boat fleet was reported putting out from German waters to relieve those submarines which have exhausted supplies and torpedoes at sea.

In both England and France, negotiations were reported underway to set up a Czech provisional government in line with the British objective of liberating the Czechs from nazi rule. Polish and Czech legions were being formed in both countries to fight under their own flags with the allied forces.

U. S. Prospecting For War Materials

By United Press
 BOISE, Ida.—What geologists describe as potentially the greatest deposits of antimony in the continental United States are located in the Yellow Pine-Stibnite area, about 50 miles northeast of Boise.

The United States bureau of mines and the U. S. Geological Survey plan to investigate the deposits in the near future as a possible source of ore vital to national defense needs.

Sinclair H. Lorain of the U. S. Bureau of Mines said preliminary prospecting work in the area started recently and will continue through the fall. They will prospect for likely spots where test drills can be made.

Antimony is essential to the making of steel and lead alloys. It now is obtained by the United States principally from China and Mexico. In the event importation was stopped domestic production, now comparatively small, would have to be increased to meet vital needs of the vast steel industry so vital to national defense.

The Bradley Mining Company already is taking commercial quantities of antimony from its Valley county gold mining operations as a by-product of gold.

During the World War, large quantities of antimony were mined and shipped in Idaho, according to Arthur Campbell, state mine inspector.

The present development work is being undertaken as a part of a strategic metals program for which congress recently appropriated $500,000 a year. The survey work will cost in Idaho about $20,000.

The metal is found in stibnite rock, a combination of antimony, sulphur and other metals. It must be milled and smelted.

What War Means

It is rather appalling to see the thoughtlessness with which many people say, "Oh, yes, I suppose we'll be in it sooner or later."

Scarcely one of these persons has given so much as a thought to what war would really mean to every man, woman, and child in America, even to those not called to military service.

Already the British know, though few British soldiers have seen action, and London remains unbombed as yet. Passage of the universal national service regulation service registration has brought it home to them. If any did not know what war was going to mean, they know now.

Every man, woman, and child in Britain is to be registered and given a card. That card will be an important and necessary document. For military service, for food allotments, for claims to benefits under any of the war enactments, insurance and the like, the card will be necessary. For reuniting families torn apart by war's terrors it may be useful. It is the final degradation of human beings into serial numbers. It is to the civilian what the "dog tag" was to the World War soldier.

The Ministry of Labor has been given full power to control employment. Employers cannot hire or rehire employees without the ministry's consent. Not a single British labor leader would have voted for any such measure in peace times. It gives the government a control over the life of the ordinary man which must be the envy of Hitler and Stalin.

David Kirkwood, Laborite leader, protested that "the worker has suspicion that under the cloak of patriotism employers can take advantage of a lower standard for labor... the worker holds so much more than death the right to say whether he should work for this or another individual."

So he does, but no matter now. This is war. If men are to be ordered into machine gun fire, who shall say they shall not be ordered into the machine shop or the harvest field? If men are to give their lives who shall say they shall not give their money?

In Germany, income taxes have already been upped 50 per cent, and it is death to listen to a radio program from abroad. In all the war-afflicted countries the cost of living is already restively beginning to scramble upward. But there are no wage increases in sight to compensate. Price-fixing is endeavoring, vainly as always, to close the gap.

What does it all mean? It means simply that millions of people in Europe have allowed themselves to be maneuvered into a position in which they have no alternative but to become for an indefinite period just numbers on a card.

Human beings ought not to be mere chessmen, pushed helplessly about the checkerboard of the world. Let no man say resignedly, "I suppose we shall," but rather say, fiercely, "Must we?"

Germany's worst foe, science says, is the potato bug. Now there IS something to arm 1,750,000 men about.

The Virginia lad that's had 18 operations in three years really has something to talk about.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Although official Washington is keyed up to the hazards of a possible war, the machinery of government is actually revolving on just about its usual midsummer basis while the crisis continues. Few vacations have been cut short or canceled; little or no midnight oil is being burned.

The State Department, of course, is kept very busy. Secretary Hull is on the job, with all of his assistants and division heads. The department remains in close touch with the White House, and the job of keeping the government informed about developments overseas is carried through on a non-stop basis.

In the Department of Agriculture, the Commodities Exchange Administration has had to do some extra work to be ready for a European conflict. It has drawn up plans for controlling the commodity markets, keeping speculation within bounds, preventing sudden price fluctuations, and believes it will be able to stabilize the farm market pretty well if the war does come.

In the Treasury—whose Secretary Morgenthau was in Europe when the fuss began—a close eye is being kept on things, particularly on currency fluctuations (which gets the Stabilization Fund people up pretty early in the morning). The Treasury won't have much extra to do unless war actually occurs, plans having been worked out in advance.

The Secret Service has a pretty full line on the various foreign agents it would have to watch, but there's nothing to do about them right now. Same goes for the FBI, over in the Department of Justice.

War and Navy Departments are watching things closely, but aren't being much incommoded. They've been pretty busy all year anyhow, and the crisis brought little if any change.

The Commerce Department would be extremely busy if a European war did arrive, but unless and until that happens its routine is undisturbed; it has compiled a good deal of trade and financial data for FDR, but took it all in its stride.

Besides those on the Dies committee, only 10 representatives remain in Washington. Eight senators are in the city. Senator Frederick Van Nuys, Indiana Democrat and impresario of the Paul McNutt-for-President boom, sticks around close to his boss. Senator Elbert D. Thomas (Dem.) of Utah is holding the fort for the two-man La Follette Civil Liberties committee.

Senator Claude Pepper (Dem.) of Florida is convalescing from an operation which he underwent soon after the session ended. Preparations to put his two sons in a Washington high school and to enroll his daughter for another term at the nearby University of Maryland are keeping Senator Chan Gurney (Rep.) of South Dakota in his Washington home.

Representative Sol Bloom, New York Democrat, says his duties make it impossible for him to leave. "For 17 years I've been in Congress and for 17 years I've tried to get away for a few weeks during the summer," he complains.

"OUT OUR WAY"

BY WILLIAMS

That reminds me...

James Martineau many years ago gave this thought. "However constant the visitations of sickness and bereavement, the fall of the year is most thickly strewn with the fall of human life. Everywhere the spirit of some sad power seems to direct the time; it hides from us the blue heavens, it makes the green wave turbid; it walks through the fields, and lays the damp ungathered harvest low; it cries out in the night wind and the shrill hail; it steals the summer bloom from the infant cheek; it makes old age shiver to the heart; it goes to the churchyard, and chooses many a grave."

All of Eastland and surrounding community felt the keenness of sorrow when it became known that George Karantonis had passed away. Even though it was known for several days that his condition was grave there was a prayerful hope that he might remain with us a little while longer.

Under such a condition it is hardly time for words when the wounds are fresh and bleeding and the man lies stricken. We in our humble attempt to comfort those who were most dear to him can at the most sustain by our presence and not by our words our sympathies in silence.

But when character has been so forcibly impressed upon us such as that which dominated the life of "George" as he was so familiarly known by thousands of friends, it cannot deftly be concealed in a silent attitude and like voices from the wilderness there is the dry "Thou hast done thy work well."

Men, women and children in all walks of life have at some time or another come under the influence of his fine personality and his benefactions. If it could be possible to acquaint the direct who may be in other portions of the world that George Karantonis was dead, there is no doubt but great tears of sorrow would be shed because it is well known that George Karantonis never in his life turned down those in want or need whether the passer by or those within the scope of his home community.

Although his health had not been the best for several years, he carried on and never complained, nor brought his own troubles to the attention of others. Even in pain his smile was evident and gave no intimation of his own suffering. Each year at Christmas time George Karantonis and his associates prepared a bountiful feast of food and drink and gave it freely without thought of compensation to those who came for it.

It can be truly said that there has never been a great and beautiful character, which has not become so by filling well the ordinary and smaller offices appointed to God. We and all people judge this man by what he was relatively to us.

In death George has not met an enemy, but the Divine Spirit that guides all mankind who have faith and believe in Him to that everlasting peace of mind and fellowship with the angels of heaven there to await the resurrection and the glorious day of reunion.

Eastland and the community has lost a valuable and honored citizen. The state and nation has lost a patriot. Those most dear to him have lost the comforting and stable guidance of a man whose every desire was to protect and sustain a home, happy with a devoted wife.

There is one comfort for all in the memory of those deeds and unselfish motives that prompted them as done by George Karantonis. It is such thoughts that can help ease this terrible burden of sorrow in the hearts of all people and those who loved him most.

Ranger Airport Is Being Improved

The Ranger airport is now being fenced, the hangar repaired, runways moved and general preparations being made to put the airport in first class condition, it was announced today by C. J. Moore. All who have allowed stock to graze on the airport in the past were given a final warning that they must keep stock off the airport or it will be placed in the city pound.

The work on the airport is being done, Moore pointed out, in preparation for the improvements the government is to put in, including an airplane mechanics school, in which youths will be trained.

The airport has been inspected by several government officials, who also inspected the Ranger NYA schools, and the airport work is to be carried on in conjunction with the Ranger NYA program.

HARRISBURGH, Pa.—Pennsylvania's renewed drive against the dread marijuana is getting results.

Thirteen peddlers are holders of "freefers"—a cigaret made from marijuana—were arrested and marijuana with a retail value of more than $20,000,000 was destroyed by agents of the newly formed Marijuana Control. ### Bible Class Meet

The Ladies Bible Class of the First Church of Christ met in regular session Monday afternoon at the church with Mrs. Loretta Herring as teacher.

The period opened with song, Wonderful Words of Life, followed with prayer by Mrs. W. A. Anderson.

Mrs. Herring taught the lesson on the subject, On Our Redemption Through Christ, taken from the book of Matthew.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning, sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Don's Pills.

SERIAL STORY WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Sally Blake, unpleasantness at the office, and frequent clashes with Dan kept Marian's temper on edge. There is no reconciliation after her last clash with Dan. Her whole life is in turmoil.

CHAPTER IX

THE Harkness 12th wedding anniversary fell on a Saturday. Harassed by unwelcome thoughts, Marian decided to bring Dan back to her side had something to do with the decision.

"Let's have someone in Saturday night," she suggested at breakfast on Thursday.

"Why Saturday night?" "It's our wedding anniversary, Dan."

He raised his eyebrows. "Why celebrate the 12th? We haven't celebrated for years."

"I'm surprised that you know it is the 12th."

"I should." They were off again. Marian bit her lip. Quarrels were too devastating. She tried again.

"We never see anyone. Wouldn't you like it, Dan?"

He nodded soberly. "Who could we ask?"

"Well—we haven't seen Bill and Amy Ellen since we were married—but they're here in Chicago."

"Yes, I suppose we could ask them."

"Do you remember the day we went to see them? Bill out of a job—Amy Ellen thin and half sick."

"Yes, I remember."

"What about Bill? Do you ever see him?"

"I sold him $2000 worth of equipment last month."

"You did? Is he in business?"

"Purchasing agent for Tinley Motors."

Marian buttered a slice of toast thoughtfully.

"Shall we ask them?"

"All right."

"And Carmie—she's desperately unhappy. I wish I knew a man to invite for her. Maybe if she got a little attention—"

"I see Randy Means almost every day. He was in my fraternity at the university."

"Is he nice? Would Carmie be interested?"

Dan's glance was amused. "Yes, I think almost any girl would be interested. He happens to be worth half a million, he's good-looking, popular, and unmarried."

"That'll be six, enough for this little place. I'll ask Dolly to help."

"If Dolly comes she'll be a guest."

"Well, course, but she can help me."

"Wish I could think of a man for Dolly," Dan mused. "She's a swell gal."

"I know she's swell, but—" "But what?"

"You'll have to admit that she has very little style and snap. Her clothes are cheap, sort of frumpy-looking."

"I think Dolly looks nice in her clothes," Dan countered. "Some good chap would do well to meet her. Let me think—"

"Oh, she won't mind being the odd one."

THAT evening Marian called Amy Ellen Sands. They were very chatty, exchanging regrets that so many years had elapsed since their last meeting. Yes, Marian was still working. Dan was fine. Yes, still working for the same firm.

And how was Amy Ellen? Let's see—her boy must be 12 years old. Three others? My, my—how lovely. At last Marian proffered her invitation and Amy Ellen accepted.

Dan caught Randy Means at the Medinah Club. Sure he'd come, he'd like very much to come.

"Lucky to get him," Dan remarked as he replaced the instrument. "He's popular as the dickens. Dates, freedom—"

Marian looked at him narrowly. "Would you like dates and freedom, Dan?"

He shrugged. "I'm pretty well trained to double harness."

Carmie hesitated over Marian's invitation. What was the use? She might as well accustom herself to loneliness. When Marian hinted that Dan had invited a most attractive man, she became more interested.

"You may like him," Marian said. "Anyway, he's unattached."

"Uh-huh—I know. Divorced, paying huge alimony, sour on women."

"Not at all. He's a bachelor. Rich and good-looking."

"Yes, I know that kind, too. Conceited pigs—"

Marian laughed. "All right, don't come. What do you want for nothing?"

"I'll be there."

They called Dolly from across the hall and she entered into the plan with enthusiasm. Dinner for six—well, seven—of course she and Marian could manage it.

"I'll do the jumping up and down," she offered. "What shall we serve?"

Marian knitted her brows in thought. It was actually fun to be giving a party. Why hadn't she done it oftener? "Cocktails first," she decided. "Dan can be responsible for them."

"Gosh, I haven't mixed a cocktail since I don't know when," he put in. They were all in a lighter mood, carried on by a common interest.

Dolly suggested, "How about having chickens done at the restaurant? We can fix vegetables and a nice salad—"

"Yes," Marian nodded. "And those meringue shells from the pastry shop are delicious. Ice cream is an easy dessert."

"Maybe we're doing a good turn," Marian said. "Maybe Randy Means will take a fancy to Carmie." She told Dolly about Carmie and Pete, ending with, "She's just about crazy, Dolly."

"The poor girl!" Dolly sympathized. "We'll put them side by side at the table—or would it be better to put him across from her so he can see how pretty she is?"

THE next morning Marian went to the office with the comfortable feeling that her apartment would be cleaned, that the ordering and arrangements for the party were being capably taken care of by Dolly. Friday passed pleasantly, Saturday morning was without untoward incident. Marian left the office at noon for a manicure and hair-do. Her nerves had eased, she felt physically much better.

Arriving home at 4 o'clock she found the table set in the living room. Shining silver, pale green linen, a bowl of violets in the center. Everything was neatly ready in the kitchen, peeled potatoes in cold water, a white head of cauliflower ready to be steamed, carrot slivers which were to surround the cauliflower.

Marian dressed carefully, a simple black dinner gown, long and clinging with exquisite collar and cuffs on the long-sleeved, tailored blouse. She had bought the dress for the occasion. Its purchase had pushed the Manning bill to a new and alarming high. In it, Marian was her smooth and brittle best.

Dolly, flushed and radiant, rushed back and forth between the kitchen and the living room. She had a slightly tousled look. Her shell pink dress matched the color in her cheeks. In spite of being fully three years old, the dress was vastly becoming.

When she ran to her own apartment for a favorite knife, Marian caught the lapel of Dan's coat as he would have passed her.

"Do I look nice, Dan?"

He patted her cheek. "Beautiful, Marian."

"You didn't need to call me Marian," wistfully.

Again he touched her rouged cheek. "I know," he said. Dolly came hurrying across the hall.

SEE how many public benefits brewing has helped create in only five years! How can the brewing industry preserve these benefits for the people and itself? The answer, brewers realize, lies in with the distribution of their mild, wholesome beverage through responsible retail outlets. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with government authorities to the end outlets give no offense to any.
