Urges a Boycott On Japanese Silk

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Not only are the schools, colleges and hospitals that were built in China with American money being destroyed, but thousands of Chinese are being killed because American women wear silk stockings, the Rev. Walter H. Judd, Congregational medical missionary to China is telling Pacific Coast audiences.
"Every pair of silk stockings that an American woman buys, enables Japan to purchase five bullets with which to kill Chinese," he declared.
Unless an immediate boycott is made in America against Japanese silk, Judd declared, "you women are facing the choice between silk stockings now or your sons in the future when the United States may become involved in the conflict."
Judd returned from China to conduct a campaign for an American boycott of all Japanese products.
"If a Chinese were to come here and tell what is taking place in China now, you would merely say it was propaganda, but as a loyal American who has seen the devastation that is being wrought in China with American made products, I have the right to return and tell you of it," he said.
"The Bible declares that 'By their fruits, ye shall know them,' and America's fruits are over China every day on the land and in the air—American made trucks and tanks carrying alien invaders; American airplanes, American bombs.
"It is only when you have worked on Chinese soil under these conditions for years that you feel you must talk."

Next To the War, Germans Talk Most About Food These Days As That Subject Is One of Big Importance

By DANA A. SCHMIDT
By United Press
BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Next to the war, Germans these days talk most about food—and the lack of food. It was the lack of food, Nazis say, which cost Germany the victory in 1918. Now propaganda leaders have proclaimed war on "the inner front," a drive to prevent the fatal collapse of morale such as occurred 21 years ago.
The German Government ordered food rationing even before hostilities started, and Nazis say a system has been perfected under which the populace can go on eating indefinitely at the present rate with prospects of dietary improvement as Poland is exploited and supplies roll in from Russia and the Balkans.
Nazis say "Germany can not be starved out."
Neutral experts agree that if the present ration card standard can be maintained it will be adequate. No one will starve on the present rations. It is, however, believed that as vegetables and fruits grow scarcer during the winter, Germans will feel a vitamin pinch.
Responsible German agricultural authorities believe that by intensive cultivation German Poland can double the surplus available to the reich and produce enough to feed 7,000,000 Germans. Moreover, some 2,000,000 Poles, it is estimated, will be available for labor on German farms.
The arrangement to import 1,000,000 tons of feed and grain from Russia will enable Germany to raise 1,900,000 in addition to the more than 23,500,000 she now has, it was added. This Russian grain will be distributed as soon as it arrives because all available storage space—dance halls, gymnasiums and the like—already is packed with the reich's reserve of 4,500,000 tons of bread grains.
With present reserves, on the basis of present total annual consumption of 25,000,000 tons of grain, Nazis say that as far as survive two or three years of poor harvests without any imports.
Enormous reserves of meat, potatoes, canned goods and other foodstuffs also have been piled up but figures on them have never been published.
It is understood also that the present strict rationing of butter has made it possible to accumulate large reserves of that commodity, and it has been stated that butter production has been stepped up 50 per cent above recent years.
It is not the caloric and protein adequacy of their diet or the tons of reserves that women talk about in queues at the markets. They discuss the fact that since the war there is no real coffee, practically no chocolate or cocoa and no tea to be had, and that you can buy only one egg a week for each member of the family.
In place of coffee Germans make a brew of roasted barley and chicory which they drink without cream. Sale of cream has been against the law more than a year, and unskimmed milk is reserved for children under 14.
Some housewives add ground figs to their "coffee" for color and body. If well-prepared it has little taste or smell except for a slight aroma similar to that of roasted nuts.
Candy of all kinds has almost

ROOSEVELT IS WELL PLEASED WITH REPEAL

WASHINGTON Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt said today the neutrality bill on which congress is about to complete action, restores the historic position of United States neutrality.
"I am very glad that the bill has restored the historic position of neutrality of the United States," Mr. Roosevelt said.
The president expressed gratification at the 62-vote margin by which the house, yesterday, approved repeal of the arms embargo.

Anticipating quick completion of congressional action, Mr. Roosevelt said that enactment of the bill will be followed promptly by his issuance of proclamations required by the new measure.

Pension March Upon Capitol Reaches Austin

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—Blustery winds met early arrivals today for a scheduled old age pension parade to Gov. O'Daniel's office.
Leading the parade was Zephyr Davis, son of Cyclone Davis of Sulphur Springs, former Texas congressman.
The paraders were to urge the governor to call a special session of the legislature to finance old age pensions. He has promised to announce his decision Sunday.
A delegation of six from San Antonio found the governor "out" when they called at the office. They were told the governor does much of his work at home.
"I wouldn't have come if I had known the governor was not going to see us," one of them said.
Legislators said they would ask O'Daniel to submit reallocation of funds and revisions of present appropriations to raise old age pension money if a session is called.
"It is just as easy to raise the money by paring down other expenditures as it will be to increase taxes," a spokesman of the group said.

SOVIET SAYS FINLAND HAS PLOTTED WAR

SOVIET Russia charged Finland with plotting a new war today and the Nazis threatened an intense u-boat campaign against ships expected to carry many millions of dollars worth of American war material to Britain and France.
Opening the "final" phase of negotiations between Russia and Finland, the communist party newspaper charged the action of Finland toward the soviet union could be regarded as that of a country preparing for war.
The Finnish delegation, with instructions turning down some of Russia's demands for naval bases on Finnish soil, was in Moscow to resume conversations. The outlook was not bright.
Nazi threats of wider u-boat warfare came as a result of the action of congress toward repeal of the arms embargo and the opening of war purchases by allied powers in America.
German sources charged that the congressional action was the same as the United States "taking sides" with the allies and hinted the British and French might find it more difficult than anticipated "to get the stuff across the Atlantic."
The British and French, however, were encouraged, and estimated that perhaps a billion dollars worth of trade with the United States would result, regardless of the fact that allied nations have cut down on "non-essential purchases" in the United States since the war started.
In London it was forecast that some American planes of larger types might be flown across the Atlantic by allied pilots and convoys carrying others would be strongly protected.
On the fighting front the nazis artillery shelled more French villages and Paris reported heavy German troop movement in the Saarquemes sector.

The Tax Picture Is a Moving Picture

Everybody talks about taxes. There are the people who think taxes are too high. There are others who think taxes are too low, but don't see any way to do anything about it. There are those who want taxes still higher, so long as they don't have to pay any themselves (or think they don't.)

But regardless of which view you happen to hold, there is something going on in the tax field that makes the picture different year by year. Not only the size of the canvas, but the composition of the painting is changing more rapidly than some people realize.

For many years there was no essential change in the way in which taxes were raised. Property taxes, that is, taxes on visible real estate, carried the load. There were always a little dribble from the tariff, and another little dribble from "internal revenue" taxes, both small.

Just before the World War, came the income tax. It was small at first and changed the whole picture very little. With the World War came an uprush of sales tax ideas. And after that war and the 1929 crash, came the scramble for all sorts of taxes of any kind and of any size the traffic would bear.

The result is that by 1938, the old standby, the property tax, was accounting for only 32 per cent of all taxes, where it had once been the backbone and mainstay of the tax system. That is 9 per cent less than in 1932.

Meanwhile, a new tax, the payroll tax, is only its second year, yielded about 10 per cent of all tax income. In its first year, 1937, the payroll tax produced about $600,000,000, or roughly 5 per cent of all taxes. But in 1938, it yielded $1,500,000,000, just better than 10 per cent of all taxes paid, including federal, state, and local. Its share in purely federal taxation is, of course, far larger.

These estimates are made by the Federation of Tax Administrators, and they show how rapidly the tax picture is changing. Last year, then, taxes were provided in this way: 32 per cent from property taxes, 26 per cent from sales and occupational taxes, 22 per cent from income taxes and 10 per cent from payroll taxes, the remainder scattering of the sales and occupational group, including general sales, liquor, tobacco, gasoline, and various stamp taxes, gasoline led with $981,000,000, and liquor was next with $838,000,000.

Lumping together the property and income taxes, you have 54 per cent levied against those presumably best able to pay. The other 44 per cent is now coming from the consumer as such, including the payroll taxes, which are a direct and immediate loss to purchasing power, although restored to that use when paid out in various benefits.

Taxation is a science. It is necessary not only to raise the money, but to raise it from sources which interfere as little as possible with the production-consumption machine. That is why the rapid shift in the tax picture is so important.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
—NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—There is double-barreled legal authority for President Roosevelt's action in barring submarines of warring nations from American waters. The President holds almost unlimited authority over warships and merchantmen in U. S. waters. The direct authority under which he acted is contained in the existing neutrality law. Section 8 provides that the President may prohibit submarines or armed merchantmen from entering American waters or ports, except under such limitations as he himself prescribes, whenever he shall find:

"That special restrictions placed on the use of the ports and territorial waters of the United States by the submarines or armed merchant vessels of a foreign state will serve to maintain peace between the United States and foreign states, or to protect the commercial interests of the United States and its citizens, or to promote the security of the United States."

Even if the neutrality act did not exist, however, there would still be authority for the President to act; indeed, his authority is considerably more sweeping than the neutrality act suggests, and empowers him to use the army and navy to enforce compliance with his orders.

This added authority derives from the espionage act, passed on June 15, 1917. Although that law was passed for the specific purpose of perfecting America's defenses against German agents during the war then being waged, it contained a good deal of matter which is perfectly applicable today.

This section clothes the President, through the secretary of the treasury, with extraordinary powers whenever he proclaims a national emergency to exist "by reason of actual or threatened war, invasion or insurrection, or disturbance or threatened disturbance of the international relations of the United States."

It uses on to provide that the secretary of the treasury may, subject to the President's approval, make regulations "governing the anchorage and movement of any vessel, foreign or domestic, in the territorial waters of the United States." It adds that pursuant to those rules and regulations, the secretary may:

"Inspect such vessel at any time, place guards thereon, and if necessary in his opinion in order to secure such vessels from damage or injury, or to protect the United States, or to secure the observance of the rights and obligations of the United States, may take, by and with the consent of the President, for such purposes, full possession and control of such vessel and remove therefrom the officers and crew thereof."

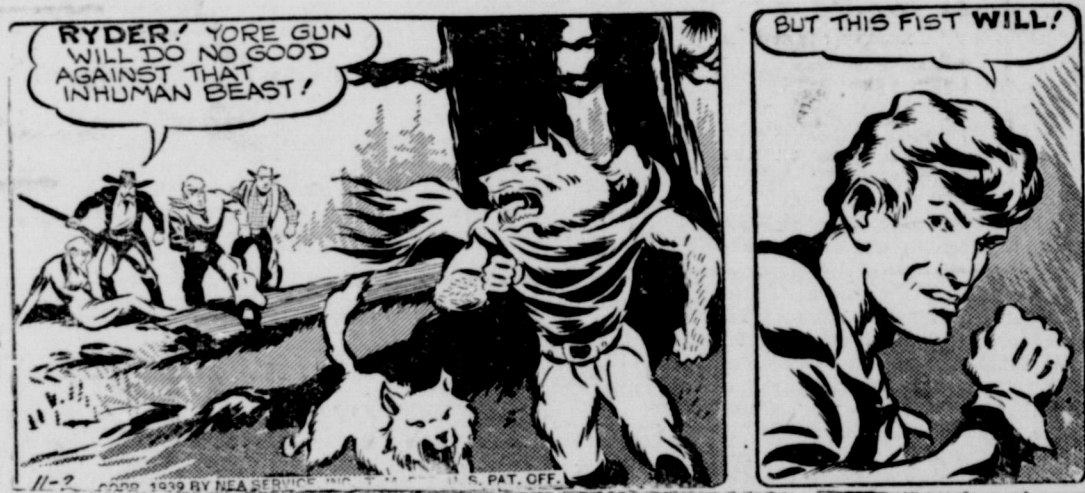

The official arm of the treasury secretary in performing such acts would, of course, be the Coast Guard, which is subject to his orders. But the act goes on to state that the President may use "such part of the land or naval forces of the United States as he may deem necessary" to do the things authorized under the act.

Under these two laws, then, the President can lay down and enforce practically any imaginable regulation governing the use of ports and waters by foreign vessels or the merchant ships of foreign powers.

RED RYDER By Fred Harman

Cattle Rustlers Use Motors In Quebec
By United Press
MONTREAL.— Provincial police are seeking a gang of "motorized" cattle rustlers who are operating in Quebec's eastern townships. Police have received several complaints that the rustlers, using fast trucks, are making night raids on roadside pastures in the townships and carting away steers after slaughtering them. The raids are carefully planned. During the day reconnoitering parties apparently are sent out to spot good steers which can be easily captured from the main highway. Early in the morning, just before dawn, large trucks are driven up, the fence is broken, the cattle are driven onto the highway, butchered and the carcasses taken away. The meat is sold to a "butcher fence."

"We are under a heavy strain these days without adding to it unnecessarily," he wrote in preface to his list of "don'ts." "We are to maintain a calm, constructive mood, if we are to have our maximum influence for truth and righteousness, there are things worth avoiding." He advised his parishioners: "Don't make the war your general topic of conversation. The opinion of the man in the street is valueless. "Don't keep your ear glued to the radio. It is going to be enough . . . without being emotionally torn by additional radio bulletins. Nothing is to be gained by learning an hour or two each day that a thousand more have been killed, or another boat sunk. "Don't be unduly upset by what you hear or read. "Don't try to reconcile this with Christian ethics. It cannot be done. "Don't try to over-simplify issues involved. "Don't spend time and energy "damning" Roosevelt and the Deal. If America is to take position of leadership in the world . . . we need more constructive thought and action. "Don't lose faith in God."

owners, in many instances, neglect to register their vehicles with proper motor numbers there may be questions raised as to ownership, state police officials warned today. The problem rose after several applications for certificates of title contained identical motor numbers which were discovered to be parts and frame numbers. Ralph L. Buell, Chief of the Certificate Title Section, which administers the newest motor vehicle act, said he learned from registration receipts that, in one instance, 21 automobiles of the same make have been registered under the same motor number. Investigations revealed that the owners had registered their cars with wrong numbers.

"In another case," Buell said, "an automobile had been registered three times under that many different motor numbers. Because of the fact that the motor number of a vehicle is its principal identifying mark, there may be confusion in the event of a test of ownership." Motor numbers are the major clues in searches for stolen cars as thieves often remove license plates in an effort to escape detection, state police said. Under the certificate of title law definite

If backache and leg pain are miserable, don't just come about them. Nature may be telling you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's filters, and they filter out excess acids and poisons from the blood. They help most people stay healthy. Frequent or scanty urination and burning something wrong with your kidneys. Don't wait! Ask your doctor. He'll give you a 15 mile kidney filter. They give happy results from the blood.

Analysis of Soil In West Texas Is Object of College

LUBBOCK, Tex.—Analysis of West Texas soil to aid in prospecting for oil, salt or potash, and to detect deficiency for crop growing is the threefold objective set by three graduate students at Texas Technological college working in quantitative spectrography. Experiments on foods, cosmetics, textiles, machine gun shells, automobile parts, and cotton burs, to detect metallic content, have already been made under direction of Dr. W. M. Craig, professor of chemistry.

Preliminary report of student progress in applying this comparatively new science to problems of everyday life will be made by Craig at the Panhandle-Plains sectional meeting of the American Chemical society in Amarillo Dec. 9th.

Graduate students conducting research are Clarence Rannefeld of Roscoe, John W. Sheehan of Hermleigh, and King I. Glass of Sweetwater. Samples containing every metallic element that can be bought, except radium, are included in the departmental library, Craig said.

First course in quantitative spectrography offered in the southern United States was given at Tech last year, made possible through the loan of spectrograph. Unused attic space in the chemistry building on the campus has been converted into laboratories for the course, which will be taught again next year.

shall Formby of the Alumni and Ex-Students association predicts a record crowd at the Friday evening rally climaxed by the traditional bonfire and at the Red Raider-Marquette game Saturday afternoon.

Tentative plans for Nov. 18 include a morning reception in the lounge of one of the men's dormitories, a parade with floats entered by various campus clubs, and a noon get-together on Tech field preceding the game. Homecoming dance will complete the day's activities.

LEGION POST AT EASTLAND GETS ATTENTION

Sow Raises Two Large Pig Litters

The activity and progress of the Eastland American Legion post has been noticed throughout the 17th district of which he is commander, George Barber of Sweetwater declared at a meeting of the Eastland organization Wednesday night at the Knights of Lathias Castle hall.

DALHART, Tex.—Jerry Minter, farmer-stockman of the Perico community, has a Poland-China sow that may, if she does not turn conservative, arouse the ire of those responsible for preventing over-production on American farms.

In May the sow had a litter of 10 pigs. She raised them all. Last week she had a litter of 12 pigs. All apparently are going to make pork, Minter said.

News From The Court House

By Staff Writer
Many people interpreted Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's words and actions contradictory some time ago. In a radio address he urged citizens of Texas to pay more attention to their local tax matters by attending public hearings on budgets for counties, schools and other governmental units. Then the state tax board had a session—which was secret. Even representatives of publications were barred.

Justice of Peace Wood found the other day the old saying "when it rains it pours" still rings true. Some persons when marrying seek a minister and still others a justice of peace. Recently a week had nearly passed without Justice of Peace Wood performing a ceremony. Then on Saturday afternoon three couples sought his services for pronouncement of the old, familiar rites whom he obliged. Paid on a fee basis, justices of peace in Eastland county, naturally, are always glad to oblige prospective brides and benedicts. Most pay the justices from $2 to $5 for the ceremony.

At the public budget hearing of the county this year only one person was present who asked questions or evidenced interest. He was a non-resident of the county and was compiling figures for tax statistics of a company.

Speaking of the governor brings to mind a recent occurrence in the county. Several persons were assembled at a meeting and were discussing ways in which more interest could be aroused in their "haunts."

campaign. One suggested that they have printed the governor's proclamation urging cooperation in the drive, which is both state and national-wide. This suggestion discarded, however, when it was stated the governor's popularity is not what it was at one time.

Those who live in or visit in the rural sections of Eastland county will tell you, however, that Gov. O'Daniel's popularity is still strong in those sections.

County Clerk R. V. Galloway says that the number of mortgages recorded in the office is not as great at this time as it has been. "This is the time when people are paying off mortgages," he explains.

If the business of Eastland county ever comes to a point where more than one elevator is needed to transport persons up and down the floors of the court house the matter can be arranged without too much trouble. There is a shaft already to the north of the only one being used now which could be used for the extra elevator. Such a necessity is a long way off however, if ever.

The co-inventor of the radio spent his 95th birthday without having a radio around because it annoys him when he works. Maybe the word should have been "haunts."

New Agent Gets Acquainted Here

Arthur Pratt, who became Assistant County Agent of Eastland County effective November 1, is engaged during the first week of November in making a tour of all boys' 4-H clubs in the county to get acquainted.

He was accompanied by Elmo V. Cook, county agent, who made arrangements for the tour. After the tour Pratt will make a regular schedule for meeting the clubs and visiting crop and livestock demonstrations with the club boys.

Volunteers For Red Cross Work Sought In County

The Eastland County Chapter of the Red Cross today issued the following appeal for volunteers in the annual membership campaign to be inaugurated Nov. 13:

"He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again," so sayeth the wise man.

Wouldn't you like to have money loaned out that you are sure of getting again?

The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross begins November 13th. It is to be hoped that every adult, whether living in country or town, will deem it a privilege to belong to this the greatest humanitarian movement ever launched.

The Eastland County Chapter would like to have volunteers, especially in the country, to make this solicitation for members. Send your name and address on a postal card to County Chairman, Red Cross, Eastland. If you will do this supplies will be sent you. We don't expect to beg people, but just give them an opportunity.

The Red Cross belts the world and the only question asked when called upon for help is, "Does the need exist? If so, we are ready to help and help now."

County Judge W. S. Adamson is always cordial to the many visitors who find him in his office from around eight to five each day. An interesting conversationalist, Judge Adamson is well-informed on practically any subject from the chances of any Southwestern football team in its next game to the latest development in World War II.

The county political pot apparently is beginning to figure in the picture again. More frequently you hear someone ask: "What do you hear on county politics now?"

An amusing incident occurred the other day in the sheriff's office. A reporter had obtained the name of a man who had been indicted for an offense. Then, Deputy Sheriff Underwood told the reporter: (the name mentioned here is fictional for practical purposes) "I don't know whether or not it would be alright to publish that item. There's more than one B. Z. Seesmore in this county. The man indicted has the same name as a prominent in ———. Better call him Butch Seesmore."

"That, too, Underwood was told, "might be embarrassing to a man in ———. His name, too is Butch Seesmore." The reporter and deputy decided that the case might not be too important and it wouldn't hurt much just to wait until the case had been set for trial.

County officials are subjected to many solicitations for funds. Many are legitimate and worthy. Still others are in reality unfair to the officials. They try to get along with everyone as public officials should but it's hard sometime. County officials don't make as much as it seems to some. Campaign expenses and contributions whittle down their salaries considerable. And they're on the job with regularity practically 99 per cent of the year.

It is surprising that the general public is apparently uninterested in attending public hearings on budgets for the county and other political subdivisions. The hearings are well-advertised both by news stories and legal notice.

We've Centered on Three Things To Retain the Confidence of the People of this Entire Community in Our Service—

MORE STYLE
Because every garment that we clean and press must look its best before we allow it to leave our shop. A personal inspection for any fault or spot is made in complete detail. That's why you are always in style with clothes cleaned by Harkrider.

MORE QUALITY
When clothes are received by us for cleaning and pressing we go over them carefully to note the kind of process necessary to give them the most effective result to complete a satisfactory job. We feel that our customers are proud of their selection and quality of the garment and we do the job to keep the quality intact.

MORE VALUE
Harkrider clothes cleaning process and the fluids used are guaranteed by the manufacturer to us, and we guarantee them to our customers that they will not injure the fabric in any manner, but will protect the finest materials against deterioration. This process costs us more but without extra charge to our customers.
