He Still Pays— After 68 Years

A cheering testimonial in the solidity of the American home is the story of Horace G. Smith, 75-year-old property owner of Denver, Colo.

Several days ago, Mr. Smith went down to Denver's city hall and paid $21.50 in taxes on his home. Thousands of other citizens came down to pay their taxes, but Mr. Smith's appearance was remarkable inasmuch as it was the 68th time he had paid taxes on the same house.

The Smith house was built in 1873, after the family decided to tear down the log cabin in which they were living on the same site. In 1875, the house was valued at $3000. Today it is worth $520. During the years the Smiths have paid a total of about $2000 in taxes.

It is good that there are people like the Smiths—people who value all the things for which home stands. They keep the nation anchored. They are the folks who maintain a stolid faith in the future of their country.

Persons who attach that much sentimental value to a home are pretty apt to take their government seriously. They are likely to be discerning about the type of officials they elect, and they will probably recognize political charlatans when they come along.

You've got to be pretty fond of a place to stay in it for 68 years. You've got to be particularly passionate about it when the plumbing begins to leak and the porch has to be bolstered up and the ceiling needs to be replastered for the eighth time.

Not so much in dreadnaughts and fortresses but rather in the staunchness of people like the Smiths lies America's defense against the intrusion of foreign concepts, the invasion of alien armies.

If Russia progresses into Finland during the ensuing weeks as she is doing now, Soviet troops will be just in time for the Olympic games.

People who think coyotes are cute are having them brought east for pets, thereby causing the neighbors who have seven dogs and a flock of chickens to complain of the prairie animals as nuisances.

Unless the coal question is settled between Italy and Britain, Mussolini will have to warm his hands over a cigaret lighter.

Maybe Admiral Byrd won't get the $250,000 to keep his expedition going. Future explorers may find Antarctica strewn with rubber checks.

Albany Son Witness—

had invited questions from those in the audience.

He had asked him about a tax matter of Garrett. Garrett had stated that he did not compromise some tax matters with the Eastland County commissioners' court.

Blanton, Jr., said he did not see Garrett distribute circulars one day in August in Stamford.

The defense entered as an exhibit campaign literature which it was shown was issued by Blanton during the campaign. The Albany man admitted helping to prepare the literature and said he assisted in the publication of it.

Cross examined further by Springer, the witness declared that he was unable to name "paid agitators" allegedly mentioned in the Blanton campaign literature and whom it was indicated the Blanton literature said were working in the interest of Garrett.

Springer asked the witness about "foreign cars" and others with District of Columbia license plates which it was indicated the Blanton campaign literature mentioned as being in the district at the time of the political campaign. The witness answered that he had seen several of the cars and that persons riding in them distributed campaign literature for Garrett.

At one point the senior Blanton observed to the court that there was no cause for Springer to be angry in his questioning of the witness. "I'm not mad," said Blanton. The court at several times had told Blanton to avoid needless delay and only deal with things germane to the case.

The first witness was Gaines Stover of Albany Monday afternoon. He testified he received a circular from Clyde Garrett, Jr., preceding a speaking Aug. 21, 1936, in Stamford. The circular was entered as an exhibit for Blanton. Stover is an employe of the Shackelford County highway department and a rancher.

Stover was cross examined by Springer. He admitted that he was in the "liquor" business for a time in Shackelford County. Questioning showed that he was in the liquor business when it was legal in that county.

The members of the jury in the case are G. R. Nance of Cisco, J. L. Dorsey of Eastland, A. D. Baker of Desdemona, E. E. Toddy of Gorman, Calvin Brown of Ranger, R. L. Hand of Olden, Roy Tucker of Carbon, Cyrus I. James of Olden, Onis E. Littlefield of Ranger, Hoyt Bryant of Gorman, C. B. Wellman of Eastland, M. L. Bransford of Mangum.

Early Monday morning after the court had announced rulings on the defendant's exceptions to plaintiff's reply to defendant's answers, Blanton, the plaintiff handed to the court a motion, which proved to be plaintiff's motion to have the court transfer plaintiff's suit to another district court or call in another judge to try this case, which plaintiff had just filed.

Judge Patterson announced a recess of the court in order to consider this motion.

When Judge Patterson returned he asked Blanton if he desired to argue the motion and Blanton replied that he did not care to do so. Judge Patterson then said in substance, "After giving due consideration to the motion just filed by plaintiff, I find: In the first place I do not agree, as counsel charges, that this court is prejudiced and biased against plaintiff in this matter, or if he were that it would affect him in the trial of this cause. There are affidavits of other parties attached to the motion to the effect that they believe this court could not render a fair and impartial trial to the plaintiff. It might be sufficient under the law were this case in the justice court to require the justice of the peace to transfer the case to an adjoining justice court. This applies to justice courts only. This is probably because a justice court is not a court of record and it is generally conceded that justices of the peace are not informed as to the law and an injustice might be done the parties without remedy. While in district court cases if prejudicial error is committed a record is made and is subject to review and correction by the court of civil appeals or the supreme court in case of appeal. This being a district court the law referred to is not applicable.

"Mr. Blanton moved to transfer this case to Judge Davenport's court and in the alternative to transfer it to some other court or to call in another judge to try the case because of the bias and prejudice of this court against plaintiff. In the second place, I hold that even if the allegations of the motion were true, I would not be authorized under the law to grant the motion. I did not make the law. As I understand the constitution a district judge is disqualified to try cases only under three circumstances. First, is when he has been of counsel in the case. Now this fact has not been alleged in the motion, nor is it true. Second, the court must be interested in a financial way in the result of the suit. This fact was not alleged in the motion and it is not true. I would not participate in the proceeds of any judgment that might be recovered by Mr. Blanton neither would I lose anything by a judgment in favor of Mr. Blanton, nor would I be required to pay any part of the judgment that might be rendered against the defendants. The third, is where a district judge is related to either party by blood or marriage. It has not been charged in the motion that I am in any way related to the parties of this suit and it is not true. I am not related to Mr. Blanton by blood or marriage within any degree so far as I know; neither am I related to Mr. Garrett or Mr. Cockrell in the third degree or any age, so far as I know. I therefore order the degree by blood or marriage to be stricken from the motion to warrant the court in granting the same, even if I were inclined to do so.

"Naturally, a question arises whether a judge who has been accused of being prejudiced and unfair against the parties to a suit would bring about sufficient resentment as a matter of law, as to render such judge disqualified to try the case. I do not consider such condition exists in this case. I say in all frankness, that I consider the allegations of this motion are not well founded and are prejudicial against the court. It is not my purpose to comment on what the attorney's attitude is toward the court. He has a right to file this motion; but I do say he must have known it would not be supported by the law. It could accomplish nothing but only to embarrass him and bring court in disrepute. Being I naturally feel resentment know Mr. Blanton, by reason years of experience as a not disqualify a district judge to try a case. He has practiced for many years, has also been a district judge, and he must know that his motion is sufficient in law. If he knows as long as he says he knows should also have known as long as I am judge I will the law as I interpret it, less of the wishes of any party. I say to you frankly my opinion would have been glad to see this case. It came to my attention that I should try it. I took the oath I swore to the constitution and laws of state and I feel that in doing is my duty to not pass the of trying this case to some judge. The motion is accordingly ruled.

"If in the beginning of the case in my court the attorney on both sides had approached suggesting a change of judge to try this case I would have transferred it or called in to try it, because of the interest of all parties. But I must not have, then, nor would justified now in granting a motion like the one filed by plaintiff in this case."

Again, A GAIN in Gasoline Quality

Again, Humble's policy of continuous improvement gives you a gain in gasoline quality. Building on past improvements, Humble now offers you definite, new improvements in two already fine gasolines: the newly improved Humble gives you a gain in quality which means new heights of performance; Esso Extra is without an equal among motor fuels.

Humble

Motorists know that today's automobile engines* must have a gasoline of high quality to give expected performance.

To meet this demand of your modern car, Humble has made additional improvements in its regular-grade gasoline; these improvements give you noticeably improved performance.

The next time you need gasoline, fill up with Humble. Notice improved performance as you drive your car through traffic, as you "step on it" for a quick pickup. We believe that the performance of this newly improved product will convince you that there is a difference in gasolines.

*New cars in the lower-price range need just as good a gasoline as more expensive automobiles; compression ratios are every bit as high, and in some instances, higher.

Restating our policy of CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

HUMBLE technical men are constantly experimenting, in the laboratory and on the road, with improved products for your car. This constant research results in continuous improvement of the gasolines, motor oils and other products you get under the Humble sign. The process of improvement is so continuous that specific improvements frequently are made without public announcement. It is only when marked improvements are made, like the improvement in quality of these fine gasolines, that your special attention is called to them.

It all adds up to this: we promise you that you will find Humble products second to none, that you can depend on continuous improvement to keep the quality of Humble products up with, or a little ahead of, the performance built into your car.

Esso has always been a peerless motor fuel. Now it is so much improved, we call it Esso Extra—it gives you extra performance with every gallon.

You can't surpass the performance of Esso Extra in your car at any price. And yet—if you're an average motorist—you can use Esso Extra, you can get its superb extra performance, at an astonishingly low extra cost: you pay only an extra nickel a day for Esso Extra! And you'll get that nickel back, many times multiplied, in extra performance. We're enthusiastic about Esso Extra. When you try it, you will be, too. Fill up with this unequalled motor fuel today!

To Buyers in the Lower-Price Field

HUMBLE offers you another product of its policy of continuous improvement in Thriftane, a leaded gasoline of specified quality at thrifty price. Humble service goes with every gallon of it. Thriftane is a good gasoline—but Humble is much better, and Esso Extra is the very best you can use.

Game Commission Leases Land For A Restoration Project
AUSTIN, Tex.—With the leasing of 30,000 acres of adjoining land in Polk and Tyler Counties and of 15,000 in Colorado County the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission has completed all of the preliminary work on a huge project which includes the leasing of more than 100,000 acres of land for six game restoration areas.

The first area leased and upon which work is already well under way is in Robertson County. Other projects being pushed are to be in Goliad Calhoun and Dimmitt Counties.

Deer and turkey restoration on the six large areas is the aim of the Game Department, according to its executive secretary. However, upon the Polk-Tyler County area and the Colorado County preserve the primary objective is to restore wild turkey. Other work will be incidental but it is believed several species of game including deer, will profit. Both deer and turkey restoration will be attempted on the other four areas.
It is unnecessary to add to the deer population in well-stocked Colorado County but the turkey have long since vanished from that section due to overhunting. In the Tyler-Polk reserves an attempt will be made to save and increase in number approximately 250 turkey which are believed to be the only remaining eastern strain wild turkeys anywhere from Texas to the Atlantic coast.

The procedure to be used in management practices for the restoration are practically the same on each of the two turkey areas. Protected nesting areas will be provided by fencing and food patches will also be protected in that manner. Native foods are highly important to turkeys and such food as acorns, beech mast, pine seeds and the various berries such as huckleberry, dewberry and blackberry are to be protected from the forage of hogs, sheep and cattle.

Wirt Franklin To Speak At Graham To Oil Operators
ALBANY—Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, Oklahoma, one of the outstanding independent oil operators of the United States, will be the principal speaker at a meeting in Graham on the evening of Wednesday, April 10, sponsored by the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas Association, according to Joe A. Clarke of this city, president of that organization.
No one in the United States is more familiar than Mr. Franklin with the different problems which now confront independent oil men, Clarke declared. During the first six years of the operation of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, Mr. Franklin served as president of the association.
The meeting in Graham is primarily for the seventy officers and directors of the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas Association. However, all oil operators, and business and professional men are invited to attend and hear Mr. Franklin and enjoy the entertainment features, which will be presented by the Graham directors of the association.
Accommodations for only two hundred people are available, and Mr. Clarke urges all who plan to attend to make their reservations immediately. This can be done through the Graham Chamber of Commerce, the office of the secretary of the association in Abilene, or through President Clarke. The tickets for the banquet and program will be one dollar each.
This meeting was originally scheduled for Friday, March 22. The change to April 10 was made in order to avoid conflicts which would have prevented a large number of the directors and other oil men from attending.
A business meeting of the twenty-three members of the executive committee of the West-Central Texas association will be held at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon in Graham on the same day of the director's meeting at which Mr. Franklin will speak.

The Eastland Telegram is ordered (and paid for) and is not an unwelcome intruder on the premises or in the mail box. It is eagerly awaited by the reader who desires to keep abreast of the happenings in the community — including news concerning merchandise... prices and services offered by stores and firms. Nothing else can take its place as an advertising medium and business getter for Eastland merchants. Nothing else can compare with the moderate cost of coverage or in satisfactory results obtained. The Telegram has reader interest, prestige, confidence of its readers... all essentials in an advertising medium. Advertising to be effective, must have QUALITY as well as quantity.
