

French Line Still Holding Nazis in Check

How German Bombers Stabbed at France's Heart-Paris

Sponsors Celebration

To Henry Pullman, post commander of the Dulin-Daniels Post of the American Legion, goes much of the credit for the big celebration that was staged Thursday night in connection with the visit of National Commander Raymond J. Kelly. Commander Kelly stated that it was one of the most rousing receptions he had ever received. A parade, banquet and dance were held, with Kelly being the principal speaker before a crowd of 325 which attended the banquet.

U. S. SENDING OLD SUPPLIES TO THE ALLIES

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Surplus United States war supplies being made available to the Allies include several hundred army and navy airplanes, 1,000 old cannon and 600,000 British-made rifles of the World War, the United Press learned today.

The equipment is being "traded in" by the army to manufacturers for later models, and can be resold to the Allies.

About 90 navy planes, some only a year old, were being collected at Buffalo, N. Y., for transfer to Canada. It was expected that Canadian aviators might fly them direct to England.

Opposition to the plan was developing in congress, and some members called it a step toward war.

TRIPLING OF NAZI DRIVE OF LITTLE EFFECT

Germans Admit that French Are Resisting Their Stubborn Drive Toward Paris "Stubbornly."

The battle of Northern France continued unabated today with Germans claiming general advances and the French saying their lines were holding, despite a tripling of the force of the Nazi drive.

London sources praised the French stand and declared that no gaps had appeared yet in the French line.

British aircraft constantly bombed behind the German lines, and it was estimated that 2,500 German tanks have been destroyed since the start of the Belgian invasion.

The Germans admitted "stubborn French resistance, but said their troops were moving forward and that the Nazi aircraft were bombing the French and British airfields as well as the great French port of Cherbourg.

A Paris spokesman said the Nazis had not tripled the number of their troops in the line, but were striking three times as hard as before.

Italy's stand drew further interest when Rome ordered all Italian ships on the high seas to put immediately into neutral ports.

Rome claimed that former Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie had raised an army to fight for the British in Africa, but London said that Selassie still was in England.

Many observers believed an African border clash might precede Italy's entrance into the war beside Germany, and children were being evacuated from Alexandria, Egypt.

Advisory Group To Aid Legislature Is Being Urged

AUSTIN—Proposal for the Texas State Bar Association to appoint an advisory committee to assist the state legislature in drafting laws was made during the week at a meeting of the legislative committee of the association. It was sponsored by Robert Calvert of Hillsboro, former speaker of the house of representatives.

As speaker, Calvert became familiar with the difficulties that meet legislators in enacting laws that will be sustained by courts. In the rough and tumble of legislative contests bills are amended, frequently, in such a way that the measure cannot be enforced after it is passed. There have been occasions when seemingly innocent phrases were inserted and later found to be jokers frustrating the purpose of the legislation.

Most legislators ask a member of the attorney general's office to draft bills they propose to offer. As it is usual for a session to have more than 2,000 bills offered, all the attorneys can do is see that the proper enacting clauses are provided. What happens to the bills during the course of the session may change them entirely.

At one time the senate employed an attorney to draft bills and follow them through their course. It is also customary for interests seeking laws to hire attorneys to prepare them and submit them to one or more members of the legislature for presentation.

Alameda To Open Mattress Program Tuesday, June 11

The mattress making program for Eastland County will start Tuesday, June 11th. The first center will be opened at Alameda at nine a. m. Tuesday, June 11 with the following committee in charge: Mrs. John Love, chairman; Mrs. S. R. Rodgers, Mrs. W. E. Calvert, Mr. L. C. Cooksey and Mr. E. H. Redwine. Seventy-two applications have been approved for this community to date.

Cotton has been delivered to Alameda and the following communities where work centers will be opened within the next two weeks: Romney, Rising Star, Sabano, Kokomo, Morton Valley, Cross Roads, Flatwood, Staff and Bluff Branch. Two other centers will be opened along with these. Only 12 centers can be in operation at any one time. Then mattresses have been completed in the above centers, they will be closed and others opened in other parts of the county. Families interested in a center for their community should write Ruth Ramey, Eastland, for information on establishing a work center.

Are you eligible to make application for mattress in this program? Have you made your application? If you are eligible and have not made application, do so at once. June 15 is the dead line for getting the applications in. This program is for "low income" bona-fide farm families, that is, families who make $400 or less gross cash income, part of which is derived from the farm. Help get this information to your neighbors.

Meter Robbers Are Caught By Police

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Homer Pyle, parking meter mechanic, and Police Captain Emil Scheffler undertook to catch the persons who had tampered with meters on Loya and College streets.

Several nickels were marked and placed in the meters in question while Pyle and Scheffler stood watch on either street. The plunderers appeared, opened the meters with a paring knife and were nabbed and searched. The marked nickels were found in their pockets.

Training Field Is Being Constructed

FORT WORTH, June 7.—A $250,000 construction program, to make a primary air training base here at Hicks Field, used during the World War, was announced today and the first class of 120 cadets will begin schooling here late next month.

Pensioner Cautious, He Loses Everything

DENVER.—A Fremont county old-age pension client, who refused a $1,000 offer for a $60 piece of property because he feared the money would deprive him of the Colorado benefits, is without both the money and the payments, whereas he could have had both.

Earl M. Kouns, director of the state welfare board, revealed that the unidentified client could have evaded a state regulation prohibiting ownership of property valued at more than $500 by selling it for the $1,000. Thus his payments would have continued. His refusal resulted in his dismissal from state rolls and meantime the $1,000 offer was dropped.

U. S. Cruiser On "Good Will Tour"

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The United States heavy naval cruiser Wichita left here today for South America on a "good will tour."

The cruiser will join the cruiser Quincy, as the state department hinted that a patrol will be maintained there in event of trouble.

June 30 Deadline For Families To Secure Mattresses

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Eligible families who haven't yet applied for mattress making materials under the Department of Agriculture's program for aiding low-income farm families should do so soon or they may lose their opportunity to participate.

This warning has been sounded by Mildred Horton, vice director and state home demonstration agent of the A. & M. College Extension Service, who points out that June 30 is the deadline for ordering cotton and ticking for the demonstration program from the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. That means, then, that all applications should be filed several days prior to the deadline date.

Although sufficient cotton and ticking to make 73,770 mattresses had been ordered by the state AAA office through the last week in May, there are still thousands of eligible families in Texas who have not yet taken advantage of the plan, Miss Horton explains. She indicated that in some counties community canvasses by home demonstration club women and other local means of informing the public about the program will likely be employed in the remaining weeks before the closing date.

Already 146 Texas counties have been approved for participation in the program, and cotton has been shipped by the FSCC to 49 counties. Figures released by the AAA indicate that 7,377 bales of cotton and 738,000 yards of ticking have been ordered for use by Texas farm families with a gross cash income of less than $400 for 1939.

Color Shades Cut To 12 In Britain

LONDON.—Women will spend much less time this year matching colorful patterns for the reason they will have only 12 shades to choose from.

Men, too, will have to be content with some half dozen shades of brown, blues and grays.

The dying section of the Yorkshire woolen industry considers this reduction in colors necessary to offset the tremendous war demand for khaki, air force blue and navy blue. They are concentrating on the lighter shades for spring.

West End dressmakers approve of the idea. They consider women have become color conscious with the present multitudinous choice, and that equally good effects can be obtained with a smaller range.

Big Crowd Is Due At Short Course Of A. & M. College

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Although the annual Farmers' Short Course on the campus of A. & M. College is still a month distant, indications are that previous attendance records will be broken this summer. Dates for the 4-H Club Short Course are July 8 and 9, while the adult Short Course is scheduled for July 11 and 12.

Expected to be especially outstanding this year is the attendance of an unusually large number of men. This was assured when B. F. Vance, assistant administrative officer in charge of the state AAA office, announced that approximately 750 AAA secretaries and county agricultural conservation committees would be present for the Short Course as well as to attend group meetings of their own.

In addition, county land use planning committees are being asked to send two men and one woman from their number, according to Director H. H. Williamson of the A. & M. Extension Service.

Apparently there is no question about the presence of women, for in recent years heavy attendance of home demonstration club women has necessitated assignments of quotas for counties and districts. Attendance figures this year have been placed at 1,002 girls, 187 sponsors and 1,478 women.

Annual meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association during the Short Course is expected to draw 740 delegates and officers who will represent the body's membership of 40,000 rural women. Mrs. A. J. Brown, of Nederland, president of the Association, estimates that approximately a thousand women will attend the sessions of the meeting.

Aggregates for both sections of the Short Course are expected to reach nearly 3,000 boys and girls and 2,600 men and women, predicts Roy W. Snyder, extension supervisor of specialists' work, who is general chairman in charge of Short Course arrangements.

Dignity Will Oust Hot Dog Vendors

PHILADELPHIA.—Because dignity will be the watchword, hot dog and other noisy vendors will be barred from the Republican National Convention here June 24.

"In the interest of dignity," explained Walter Alessandrini, secretary of the citizens committee in charge of convention arrangements, "the committee will sacrifice some income. Hence there will be few concessions.

AUSTIN—City Marshals and police chiefs of Texas will study law enforcement problems and practice up on their shooting at their annual convention to be held in Austin for three days beginning June 17.

Subjects listed for discussion include traffic problems, need for Civil Service, crime prevention, identification, stolen car identification, traffic engineering, enforcement procedure and pistol training.

Pistol matches will be held in connection with the convention. Among the shooting events will be a trophy match open to police chiefs, city marshals, police commissioners, police directors and other officials in charge of police departments. There will be team matches and matches for individual shooting honors.

Passenger Loses His Seat, Is Run Over

MOBILE, Ala.—Here's a man who was run over by the car in which he was riding.

President Williams, 50-year-old Negro landscape worker, was a passenger in an automobile going out of Mobile. The machine skidded into a ditch. As it struck, the impact caused the door to open and threw Williams out into the ravine.

Meantime, the auto continued its wild careening and finally rolled over Williams' legs as he lay helpless in the ditch. He was not seriously injured.

A benefit softball game will be played tonight between the Jaycees team and the Modern softball team, it has been announced here.

Beneficiary of the game will be Dean Turner, who sustained a broken leg in a softball game Friday night of last week, when he slid into second base while playing with the Jaycees against the Modern team.

All proceeds, above actual expenses of the game, will go to Turner to help defray the hospital and medical expense he incurred.

A Giant Shotgun As An Air Weapon Has Five Barrels

MACON, Ga.—A Macon stock-broker, who shoots pigeons in his spare time, is awaiting word from Washington concerning an invention which, he says, would damage a flight of enemy warplanes as much as a shotgun blast does a covey of birds.

Norbert Dempsey, who served with the field artillery during the World War, has completed plans for a gigantic five-barreled shotgun which he asserts will bore a quarter-mile hole through the atmosphere. The plans have been sent to the War Department.

Dempsey said he first conceived the idea while on a hunting trip. "Why doesn't anti-aircraft fire work like this?" he asked himself as he reloaded his shotgun. "Shooting a plane with single shot or shrapnel is like shooting a dove with a rifle."

He devoted several months to a study of methods of fire and ordnance design, at an Atlanta gun shop, before making a final design for his proposed weapon. Army officials acknowledged receipt of the plans, and said they would receive careful study.

According to Dempsey, the gun would have an effective range of 25,000 to 35,000 feet.

Well Completions Show An Increase Over the Nation

HOUSTON, Tex.—Oil well completions in the United States during the period from January 1, 1940, to May 25, 1940, totaled 12,244, or 28 percent more than the 10,353 for the corresponding period in 1939, according to figures just released by The Oil Weekly.

Of the new wells of this year, 91 were oil producing wells, 2 were gas wells, and 2,601 were dry holes or failures.

Completions during the first 28 days of May were 1,810 oil wells, 2 gas wells, and 516 dry holes. Total oil well drilling rigs running in the United States on June 1, 1940, amounted to 4,327, as compared with 3,837 a year ago, an increase of 21.3 percent. Texas led all states with 1,247, an increase over 1939 but a decrease as compared with 1,194, 1, 1940.

Courage Is Not Enough

Write it in large letters—courage is not enough. The days are past when the United States could afford to listen to a Bryan with his confidence that, when they were needed, "a million men would leap to arms overnight."

"What arms?" asks the American of 1940, his eyes apprehensively on Europe, and especially on the countries which trusted in non-aggression pacts, in meticulous neutrality, in patriotic spirit.

In the days when the United States rebelled against the British crown, "embattled farmers" could crouch behind the stone-fences of Concord with muskets hastily snatched from above the fireplace, secure in confidence that they were not conspicuously worse armed than the British regulars.

That is over. All men skilled in military affairs have known it for years. Now it is written across the face of Norway, and Holland, and Poland for all to read: "Courage is not enough."

The British should have had their lesson in 1915, when the great Kitchener felt sure that two machine guns to a battalion were "more than sufficient," and that the tank was "a pretty mechanical toy." Yet they have allowed Germany to outbuild them in planes and mechanized equipment.

At last the Garand rifle is being delivered in slow dribbles, replacing the 1903 Springfield. The air forces have not been neglected, yet were it not for European orders, the rate of production would still be very slow. Pilot-training, almost more important than plane-building, lags. There is no anti-aircraft artillery worth the name, and virtually no munitions industry.

All this is no cause for hysteria, but for sober thought, careful planning, and wise foresight.

We need to calculate carefully just what our military needs are to defend this country from any likely attack, and then supply them promptly and effectively.

For whatever heroic deeds may have been performed in the past by ill-armed and under-equipped patriots, it is perfectly plain that today courage is not enough.

As a means of signifying enjoyment of food, Arab etiquette requires the dinner guest to smack his lips. It follows that if he didn't enjoy the meal, he will smack the host.

It isn't the mounting war taxes that bothers the folks on the home front so much. It's the low cost of government to result in about 50 years when there won't be any claimants around for old age pensions.

Out in the fields, the wild flowers are beginning to bloom. And what makes them wild, no doubt, is the way the last group of picnickers drenched them in catsup and pickle juice.

Fishing Safety Rules Are Devised For Angler's Aid

AUSTIN, Tex.—With tens of thousands of fishermen on lakes and streams in Texas, the executive secretary of the State Game Department today outlined a few simple rules for the protection of the angler from accidents, and at the same time outlined practices in the handling and treatment of fish and minnows that should be followed if Texas waters are to be as productive of these species as every angler expects them to be.

him easily to the water. If it is necessary to catch the fish with your hands, wet your hand first to prevent the disturbance of the protective slime that covers the fish. Be sure you have a legal fish before it goes on the string. This oversight might make a fishing trip an unhappy one. Naval Recruiter Appeals To People To Aid In Defense

The following appeal to the public in aiding naval enlistment has been issued by J. J. ### Student Artists Rewarded for Chapel Work Creative work on the interior decorations of Texas State College for Women's "Little Chapel-in-the-Wood" won recognition for these five collegiate artists to whom President L. H. Hubbard presented the Lemay Memorial Award at TSCW's thirty-seventh annual commencement June 3. Awarded annually to the senior or seniors making the greatest contribution to the college in some artistic field, the Lemay trophy went to Helen Solberg of Clifton, who designed and constructed altar vases, porch lights, and the vestibule stone floor of the chapel; Margaret Glenn Green of Mineola, who has made a photographic record of chapel projects; and a Nora Mae Pierce of La Grange, Betty Winston of Vernon, and Lucile Cudd of Wichita Falls, each of whom has made a stained glass window for the sanctuary.

SUMMER RATES ON WATER TO GO IN EFFECT

The Eastland City Commission has again unanimously agreed to increase the minimum amount of water for each consumer in the City of Eastland from 15,000 gallons to 30,000 gallons per month, at the same price as heretofore charged for the 15,000 gallons, which is the minimum during the entire year, with the exception of the hot summer months, during which time, the City Commission has seen fit to double the allowance, with no extra cost to the consumer.

It has always been the custom of the present Commission to give a water minimum of 30,000 gallons during the months of July and August. This year, however, due to the abundant waterfall in the past 60 days, which has caused the water customers' gardens and yards to be in excellent condition, the City Commission thinks it advisable to start the increased allowance for the month of June, which is a month earlier than has been their former custom. With this increased amount of water, the customers should be able to keep their gardens and lawns from suffering.

The City of Eastland is considered especially fortunate in having a large reservoir for water, which is filled to capacity. Without any additional rains, Eastland would have sufficient water for more than a year's time. The citizens of Eastland also realize that this minimum of 30,000 gallons of water during the months of June, July and August, is the highest minimum allowed, for the price paid, to any city within a radius of 100 miles.

"OUT OUR WAY" - - - - - By Williams

The City Commission is very glad to be able to give its water customers this large amount of water for the usual price. ### Captain Tells of His Escape from Dunkerque Shore

LONDON, June 6.—A French artillery captain, one of the last of Dunkerque's defenders to escape from the advancing Germans, reached the English coast after 24 hours of drifting in the choppy channel, with a story of thousands left stranded on the city's blood-stained and bullet-raked beach.

With his gun crew, the captain retreated to the beach after their ammunition had been exhausted, only to learn that there would be no more rescue armadas from the opposite shore. "Thousands were stranded on the beach waiting for the German bombs and guns," he said. "It was terrible." The captain and 67 other Frenchmen, and all the others who could find them, utilized abandoned lifeboats, skiffs, canoes and bullet-riddled motorboats to flee from the oncoming Germans who were spraying the beach with machine gun bullets. The 68 Frenchmen, believed to be the last of the city's last-ditch defenders to escape, and other stragglers arrived at south coast English ports in as motley a fleet as ever plied between the two shores. The artillery captain told this story: "I fired my guns night and day until Monday night when all my ammunition was exhausted. Then I destroyed my guns—they were 75s—which we had been using to wreck enemy tanks at pointblank range, and retreated with my men to the beach. "We arrived there early yesterday and found troops awaiting embarkation. I went on a pier but could see no rescue boats. Then we were told no more boats would come. "Thousands were stranded on the beach waiting for German bombs and guns. It was terrible. The noise of the German guns grew louder, but no bombers came.

"Boats of all kinds lying in the harbor and along the shore were commandeered. I went in a rowboat with three other officers and seven men. We put out from Dunkerque, and as we rowed to sea the Germans began to machine gun us from the shore. "There was only one pair of oars and we took turns with them. We got lost at sea and by my little hand compass scooped north-west until we arrived offshore."

Panhandle Wheat Acreage Reduced

LUBBOCK, Tex.—Dry conditions which prevailed last fall and wind damage have reduced Lubbock county's wheat acreage from 16,000 to 10,000 acres, according to C. T. Wasson, county agriculture adjustment administrator. May winds dried top soil, and some wheat is suffering from lack of moisture. Wasson said that only 18 farmers had taken out wheat insurance policies, six or seven of them having collected.

SERIAL STORY

AN EYE FOR A GAL BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Rossy's brawl with Hannah threatened to bring down the reputation of school authorities upon them, but Judy refused to have the affair forgotten. She pleaded with Rossy to remember he has come to school to get an education. He questioned about her father's history. She explains, but Rossy still believes Dr. Tolliver is the man who killed his father.

CHAPTER 7

ROSSY McAfee went out for basketball, just to keep in training while waiting for the baseball season to open. But he was not much on the floor. He made the scrub team. But every day he warmed up with old Leavick, who kept the gym and helped to develop the pitchers.

After a while, Rossy settled down in his new life. He could get in public without starting a riot, and Judy had kept the secret of his and Hannah's fight, so the campus never knew.

One day he said to Coach Hurd, "I got to get off, Coach."

"What for? How come?"

"I want to go home. Could I get off Friday and come back maybe by noon Monday?"

"Sub, you'd be back in them hills and hollows and somebody will ambush a good prime second-hand star pitcher."

"I know how to dodge ambushes. I know all the trails."

"I'll lay flowers on your grave and croon a sad yodel over the mound. So long."

ROSSY took the bus to Mountain City. From there he got the mail back out to Mint's Creek postoffice. From Pappy Mint he rented the team of a mule that knew the stony roads and trails. He left the campus at 6 o'clock Friday and at 4 o'clock that afternoon he was jogging up a valley toward his mountain home.

Where the shadowy bridge trail came out on top of a mountain, he came to the picnic grounds and open land which formed the diamond next to Ebenezer church and school house. "What?" Rossy said, and slipped from his mule.

There was a crude grandstand covered with dry brush, and Rossy went there and sat down, dropping into reverie. All at once that day flooded back upon him—the grounds, there were filled with folks; the McAfees and Tollivers were out in force. Although Ebenezer was playing Cardover school, over the mountain, actually it was a game between the families. The Tollivers against the McAfees.

The fight was raging, but not sleeping. The past fall there had been a great camp meeting at Ebenezer, and all the parsons and exhorters were out in force to get the old heads of the clans to bury the hatchet. And so successfully had they labored in the vineyard that actually peace had been declared between the families.

Actually, of course, hate and distrust and grudge smoldered just beneath the surface of all this high fun and carrying on.

The young pitcher on the mound was a Tolliver. "Sock" Tolliver, they called him. A handsome, dark fellow. Not much was known about him except that he had a mighty pitching arm, and when he warmed up he couldn't hit a flock of barns with a long rifle.

Today he started out wild. Amidst the yelling of "Play Ball!" and the hubbub of the occasion, plus the Fourth of July spirit, and plenty of prime moonshine, he walked the first two men to face him, and even now Rossy could recollect the ferocious joy of his folks as his own father walked to the plate with the solid hickory bat that Jay McAfee had made with his own hand.

The ball came over. Rossy saw his father try to dodge it. It must have been a deep and confusing curve, for he couldn't avoid getting hit.

The bystanders, almost suffocating the squirming man on the ground, were pushed back by a deputy sheriff who was present. "Stand back!" he yelled. "Give him air! Here—you two," he pointed out two men. "Tote him back of the grandstand, yon."

Rossy's mother was screaming. A shout went up for blood. While the two men carried the unconscious man into the sheltered shade back of the stand, faction leaders diverted attention from Jay McAfee by crying:

"Grab him before he hulls out!"

A MOB started toward the stunned pitcher, still standing in the box. Rossy, hardly realizing all that was happening, had seen Cousin Steve in the stand a moment before, but when he looked again Steve seemed to have slid through a loose plank in the grandstand and disappeared. The two men came out to see what was happening to the pitcher, leaving the unconscious man alone.

The pitcher gave one wild look at the advancing partisans, and as if it were his legs and not his wishes that moved him, he fled in the direction of a growth of trees and bushes at the far edge of the grounds. The men yelled and shouted, following at a run.

There were two or three shots fired.

The last they saw of Sock Tolliver was his hat, lying where it fell when he dived under cover and was gone. There was a steep cliff at this point, and a man said he saw Sock jump off and sink among the tree-tops below.

As the baffled mob returned, there were those who said they saw another Sock Tolliver go tearing off in a somewhat different direction and disappear in the same way. Later they figured that was reported by some one who had laved his thirst with too much mountain dew.

For almost all this while Jay McAfee had been just lying there in the green brush that had fallen off the roof of the grandstand. Now they brought water and poured on his face, found that the skull was actually cracked. A horse doctor said the ball had hit and bounced for there were plain marks indicating a kind of double lick that could never be wholly accounted for. But the game, instead of settling the clans into good feelings, reopened the war and it was not to close for another 10 years.

Three days later McAfee died.

ROSSY waked as from a dream and returned home. He came to a solid square log cabin in old trees and vines, where a bent mother waited for him. "That you, son?"

"It's me," Rossy said, and let the mule in the lot. He came and kissed his mother.

"I got your letter saying you'd come, son, if you could get off. Your Cousin Steve fetched it from the postoffice, and he said he wanted to see you and apt as not he'll be here pretty soon."

Steven Hogg appeared shortly after Rossy had finished supper and lighted a cigaret. He was a thick-bodied man, all of 10 years Rossy's senior. His mother and Rossy's father were half-brother and sister, so Hogg was not really all McAfee. In a way he was not all McAfee at all, although always he professed to espouse the hates and prejudices and loves and blood-bonds of the McAfee tribe.

"Whilst you was up here, Rossy," Steve Hogg said, sinking his voice low so the gaunt woman in the kitchen could not overhear. "I thought I'd better name a thing or two to you. Things maybe you'd better know. It's about this here man who heads up that there college down there."

He began to tell as strange a yarn as Rossy had ever heard about the whole strange mess. (To Be Continued)

THE PAY OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Sports Service Editor

NEW YORK.—Theodore Francis Williams, outstanding major league recruit of 1939 and currently batting .365 for the Boston Red Sox, says he would like to quit baseball and be a fireman.

Although generally considered the most powerful left-handed hitter since Babe Ruth, Ted Williams insists he would rather answer a four-alarm than be one by swatting the ball for four bases.

The season has barely started, yet the 21-year-old Williams asserts he is fed up with it all.

"I'd quit tomorrow if I knew where I could get another job," declares Williams, who as baseball's brightest young star is paid something like $12,000 for six months of what would be play to the average boy of his age.

Williams' talk is ridiculous, of course, but officials of the Boston club are alarmed at their prize's present attitude.

It is feared Williams is developing into the anti-social, moody and introverted type which might conceivably run off and join some fire department and be perfectly happy. He has become something of a loner.

While Jimmy Foxx thinks the world of the thin young man who bats ahead of him, Williams is said to be envious of the Sudlersville Slugger who was an outstanding performer when the San Diego lad was in knee breeches.

Red Sox say Williams was lower than he has been at any time since he joined the club when Detroit Foxx smacked his second home run with the bases full in two days.

When Williams fell behind in the home run race this spring, he told the Red Sox he intended to be a punch hitter.

Although he played half his games in Fenway Park, where the right field target for a left-handed hitter is 380 feet from the plate, Williams manufactured 31 circuit clouts in 1939.

BOOING customers and criticism get under Williams' skin.

"I batted .500 against Cincinnati pitchers—Walters, Derringer and all—on the spring training trip," he explains, "and had a .380 average when I failed to hit in four trips against the Athletics in Boston. I didn't think I had it coming, but the fans got on me just the same. This isn't the life for me. I can get along without it."

Williams came to the Red Sox with the reputation of being eccentric and having a bad disposition, but appeared to have outgrown his kid habits.

But when he let the veteran Roger Cramer run down a ball that got through him this spring, Cramer told him he wouldn't look so good in a similar situation again.

Joe Cronin is confident Williams will snap out of it, and accomplish all the great things of which he is capable, but right now—even though this should be their year—Doc Cramer and other Red Sox wouldn't care if Temperamental Teddy grabbed a fireman's hat and hopped the first hook-and-ladder that came along.

Doctor's "Dog Tag" of World War Is Returned To Him

TYLER, Tex.—News of today's great battles in Europe is not the only factor which is bringing home memories of 1917-18 to Dr. J. J. Livingston, World War veteran. The other is a "dog tag" which Dr. Livingston has just received from O. F. Livingston, no relation to the local doctor, who lives in Owego, N. Y. Dr. Livingston lost his identification tag, which all American soldiers wore during the war, somewhere in France in 1918, and it was picked up by the man who returned the medal a few days ago. The finder said he picked it up in Bethenville, France, in the fall of 1918.

Livingston wrote Postmaster Roy C. Owens to determine the Tyler doctor's address and then sent the tag.

Dr. Livingston served overseas 23 months as first lieutenant of the Medical Reserve Corps of the 90th Aerial Squadron which saw action at St. Mihiel. The squadron stopped at Bethenville when the men were returning to the front, and Dr. Livingston said he lost the medal there.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 1/2 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Iced Coffee Urged As Summer Drink By Coffee Co.

Southwest housewives are urged by the Duncan Coffee company to prepare for summer the "Admiration Way" by stocking their pantry shelves with the Southwest's favorite beverages . . . Admiration Coffee and Tea. These two popular drinks served "iced" are not only the refreshing answer to the summer heat but are also the stimulating remedy for summer-heat spirits. Coffee has been the National American beverage ever since Pocahontas made the first steaming cup for Captain John Smith. He carried his own coffee beans with him; American housewives were the first to pour hot fresh coffee brew over ice and call a salt to menu heat waves. It is expected that the Southwest's favorite beverages . . . Admiration Coffee and Tea . . . will be even more popular this summer due to the extensive "iced" campaign being released by the Duncan Coffee Company, Houston. This campaign employs almost one hundred and fifty Southwest newspapers and will be the most elaborate summer coffee campaign in the history of the Southwest.

Vast Program Urged to Build Rural America

WASHINGTON.—The Department of Agriculture has developed plans for a broad rural construction and rehabilitation program designed to offer employment to surplus farm laborers and to strengthen the nation's resources.

The plan, which has not reached the final stages and for which a large appropriation would be necessary, is being sponsored by Dr. W. W. Alexander, Farm Security administrator.

He suggested a five-point program:

1—Conservation of the nation's land resources.

2—A gigantic rural housing program.

3—Reforestation and forest culture.

4—Water conservation and flood control.

5—Supplementary tasks to increase farm market facilities.

Alexander told congressmen that the plan offers "a matchless opportunity for building new industrial well-being out of the fields of rural America."

Present programs have "barely made a beginning," Alexander said. One of the most challenging problems which confronts the nation is the fact that growth of population is daily "outstripping the expansion of opportunity," he said.

"Its eventual solution lies in the adoption of a broad permanent program, based on an entirely new conception of land—a conception which recognizes that although the legal title to land and forests and other resources may be in the hands of individuals, they must be preserved as the basic resources for American generations to come."

Agriculture department reports show that 500,000 to 600,000 farms in the nation are so worn out that the occupants will "literally starve to death" if they continue to cultivate them. The reports said the fertility is "nearly destroyed" on another 500,000 to 600,000 farms.

Alexander said that "the life of our nation depends" upon the halting of this erosion, whether the land be in public or private hands. There is work for many thousands of rural laborers in soil conservation work, he declared.

Slum-clearance in the rural areas is a vital need to protect the health of the nation, he said. He added that rural laborers could be given millions of man-days of work repairing and rebuilding farm homes. It was estimated that $3,500,000,000 could be profitably spent in that program.

A much needed reforestation and forest culture program giving work to many thousands would be in a large degree self-supporting, Alexander said. Millions of acres of sub-marginal land are suited to reforestation.

Europe Burning More of U. S. Coal

WASHINGTON.—Outbreak of the European war precipitated a sharp increase in European consumption of American coal for the first time in many years, according to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Europe imported 112,338 gross tons of American bituminous coal in March, 1940, compared with an average of 833 gross tons a month in 1938. There were no shipments in 1939 until after war was declared in September. In 1938, all shipments of American coal went to France, but since the war began Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, Russia and Iceland have begun using coal produced in this country.

Shipments to South America have increased, likewise, with Argentina, Brazil and Chile accounting for virtually all of the increased exports. American mines shipped 148,441 gross tons to South American ports in March, against an average of 18,494 gross tons a month in 1938.

Despite augmented shipments to Europe and South America, however, America's total coal shipments have been reduced since November, due to diminished shipments to Canada, Ickes said. Total exports amounted to 512,390 gross tons in January, 510,237 in February and 602,037 in March.

Under normal circumstances, Canada is the best market for United States coal. Canadian industries and other Canadian coal consumers imported an average of 711,289 gross tons monthly in 1938 and 742,181 gross tons monthly in 1939. Imports of American coal this year have been cut drastically. Canada took 290,457 gross tons in January, 281-

Eastland Soon To Have a Red Cross Station In City

The City of Eastland will open a Red Cross Station and Eastland officials are now preparing space for the station, it was announced here today. Eastland County officials are loaning sewing machines and general assistance. Mrs. Roy E. Townsend stated.

Mrs. Townsend has accepted the general chairmanship of the Red Cross Station. She is a nurse registered in both Texas and Pennsylvania and is also a lifetime Red Cross Nurse. She served two years in the World War under the British Expeditionary Force in one of the first units of nurses to sail from America. The unit was made up of Philadelphia hospital nurses.

The following is an extract from a letter stressing the need of the station: "As time passes the need for garments requested from the Red Cross chapters has become increasingly great and we therefore shall be particularly glad for the Eastland Chapter to participate in the war relief production program."

The Red Cross has already shipped to Finland, Poland, England and France 239,000 sweaters, dresses, layettes and other garments, and hopes to send to the refugees 100,000 sweaters, 50,000 dresses and 20,000 layettes by Sept. 1, 1940.

No chapter's share is great and if chapters will accept a small quota of garments the combined effort will provide the needed garments, it was stated.

All women and girls have been requested to meet at the City Hall on June 12 at 10 a. m. to organize the station and form plans.

Mrs. Phillip Pettit of Cisco is volunteer special service chairman of Eastland County and Robert C. Kinnaird of Eastland is chairman of the Eastland County Red Cross Chapter.

Texas Is Ready To Build Homes In Rural Areas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Texas is ready to cooperate in the program to promote the building of low-cost homes in rural communities and for farm buildings and repairs, H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. & M. Extension Service, has announced.

Plans for the program have been drawn up by M. L. Wilson, director of the USDA Extension Service and chairman of the Central Housing Committee. The building industry has set up the National Homes Foundation to cooperate with various federal agencies, including the Farm Credit Administration, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Federal Housing Administration, Federal National Mortgage Association, and the RFC Mortgage Company.

Service to the rural and farm home building field will be through existing facilities in the rural communities and will be centered around the local financial and service institutions.

THE PAY OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Kenneth Overlin did a good job on Ceferino Garcia, but the 30-year-old gob will have an empty middleweight title until he erases Al Hostak and Tony Zale.

With so little power attached to his offense, Ken Overlin would not be likely to fare too well against either Hostak or Zale, who wade in with a fair idea of both attack and defense.

And Hostak and Zale, who got up off the floor to take a decision when the N. B. A.'s top man broke his hands in Chicago, are the hardest hitters in the 160-pound division.

Garcia is entitled to a return match with Overlin, after which it would pay Mike Jacobs to bring Hostak and Zale into the New York picture and make it possible for the survivor to establish a clear claim to the crown.

Nate Druxman says Jacobs' refusal to release talent for Seattle matches with Hostak is all that prevents the slugging Slav and Zale from appearing in Manhattan.

Promoter Druxman insists on having suitable opposition for Hostak in the Puget Sound country and is holding Zale for that purpose.

CLEVER Ken Overlin, with the wisdom of years of playing around with heavy hitters, took his time about scaling the heights.

Overlin, discharged from the navy in 1933 following more than seven years of service, has been an industrious warrior. His 174 contests have taken him all over this country and to Australia.

He sailed for the Land Down Under in his one bad year—1933, when he was stopped by Freddie Steele in Seattle for the first and only time and dropped a decision to Walter Woods in New York.

It was then the pale and spindly-legged Overlin decided the long voyage to Sydney would prove the tonic he needed, but he evidently obtained more benefit out of the return trip, for while in Australia he lost a verdict to Fred Henneberry.

OVERLIN, who first attracted national attention by taking a debatable decision from Fred Apostoli at the old New York Hippodrome three years back, struck his current winning streak upon his return to the states.

He has had 21 battles since and lost only one decision—a close one to Teddy Yarosz in Houston a year ago last March.

Some of the boys he has repelled are pretty well known—Al Quail, Eric Seelig, Allen Mathews, and Ben Brown, among them. Overlin has specialized in lugging the trouble to the lads in their own back yards. He won from the accomplished Brown in Miami and twice held him even in his home town, Atlanta.

Like the Sharkeys—Tom and Jack, Sailor Petrosky, Babe Risko and others, Ken Overlin joined the navy to learn to fight and used the profession to see the world.
