

Half Way Mark Reached In Chest Drive Traditional Grid Rivals Clash Here Thursday 2 P. M.

Tomorrow, dear friends, a wonderful old football season will end for Big Spring—unless

With about 1 chance in 100 to win Midland faces Sweetwater and if that one chance falls out of the hat, the Mustangs and Steers will be tied for the district title provided the Steers win from San Angelo.

It is our opportunity to close the season in victory over a traditional rival—a proud, cocky outfit that will be very deeply humiliated if the Steers defeat them.

We used the word 'if' not meaning, however, that we do not believe the Steers will win. They can win by a good margin if they play the game as they are capable of doing—and fight to the last notch all the time.

But these football games are never won until the game is over. Always remember that.

As we told some of the boys who gave points and took the Steers against the Mustangs—when you bet, if you do it is wiser to forget your desires as to the outcome of the game and play safe. This betting business is a business, not a sport.

A lot of folks take a peculiar reaction from a sport writer's musings when the writer doesn't get hot and sure about the home town's winning. Many a team has been whipped because it believed what some unwise scribe said about its chances.

We've got the stuff to pour it on 'em with and let's get out there and do the job up good and brown.

The real interest the people of Big Spring have in their team will get its greatest test tomorrow. When you're winning, or when you still have a good chance to cop the flag, it's easy to yell and stand around and talk football all day. Your real loyalty is tested when you're playing simply to win the game at hand.

We ought to have a huge crowd tomorrow.

The Community Chest is half filled; just half. It'll take a lot more than that to get the job done. We believe Big Spring will do it.

Slight Weight Advantage With San Angelo For Season Finale

Thanksgiving Day is the occasion for the slaughter of the old turkeys and the killing of the hopes of many high school football machines for state recognition.

The weight advantage, what little there is, goes to the visitors in tomorrow's contest. The Steers will have the edge in the coming scrap.

Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—On the first day of a regular session of congress senators and representatives introduced bills literally by the thousands.

Between five and six thousand usually are dumped into the hoppers of the house alone. The first day's output in the senate will probably average 1,500.

Unless all signs are good there'll probably be records broken on the first day of the congress. Almost every senator and every representative has his own idea about what should be done to remedy the economic ills of the country.

They'll express them, too — and with bluffs.

In fact, some members of congress already have decided on definite plans to aid the country in economic recovery and have taken steps to acquaint the people with their ideas.

Oklahoma Has Plan
Oklahoma's tall, gray-haired senator—Elmer Thomas—is one. In a franked envelope bearing a two-cent stamp he has broadcast his proposal which he says he will suggest to the senate when it convenes in December.

Senator Thomas' plan is at least novel.

He believes that in order to keep the total of the regular expenses of the government within the country's income, only absolutely essential and non-avoidable items should be embraced in the several departmental bills and acts.

Then to avoid increase in taxation, "and at the same time pursue a sound business policy," he suggests that all items for equipment, repair, extensions and construction be placed in a separate and special bill to be known as an emergency relief bill.

The cost of these items, the senator proposes to finance by bonds to be known as relief bonds.

His Persistence
Senator Thomas is a highly persistent individual. He conducted a one-man filibuster during the closing hours of the last congress which tied up completely all business in the senate.

Alone he defeated repeated efforts to get him off the floor. When the clock struck the hour of adjournment he had said his last word. "Senators, let there be such perfect timing seen on the floor of the senate."

Thomas comes up for re-election next year. And another Oklahoman—Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray—has been sounding off quite a bit on plans to combat economic ills. If "Alfalfa Bill," around whom a boom has centered for presidential or vice presidential honors, were to fall in this, his might look with favor toward a seat in the senate.

That may or may not explain Senator Thomas' championing of a relief plan so early.

Job For Courts

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

From the Dallas News:
FROM an accident on a Connecticut highway, the Hartford Court drew an editorial subject and a commercial tire company a text for an advertising sermon. What happened was that the car equipped with wornout tires crashed into a driver. The Magistrate read the driver a lesson on risking the lives of others with poor equipment and fined him $25. Whereupon the editor of the Court chided in with "The driver bent on getting the last mite out of his tires is not exemplifying the virtue of thrift. He is courting an accident which could be avoided by making the small investment that 'good rubber all around' now requires."

There is something else worth remembering from the Connecticut case. It is the fact that the court found one party to the accident responsible for it and administered punishment accordingly. Traffic courts in Dallas and other parts of Texas have been known not to do that. Two motorists collide, are haled into court, usually because one or the other files a complaint, and not infrequently both are fined in a species of Solomonian reasoning. More frequently still, collisions do not result in court appearances unless physical injuries or death is involved.

Collisions involve damage suits and the court who will not have jurisdiction in these are chary of fixing blame that will later be used in evidence. The fact remains that 90 per cent of collisions, perhaps more, are avoidable and due to the carelessness or inefficiency of one driver. Responsibility should be fixed and wholesome penalty exacted. This is not a kind of traffic case which should be treated as a species of "accident". Many minor collisions, of course, can be settled amicably by the persons concerned. But where the settlement is impossible or the obvious damage serious, why should not the public be protected against recurrence by court authority, patient enough to sift the evidence and fix the blame?

SYNOPSIS: For a long carefree week, Venice Muir has roamed about Paris, happy that her social failures in New York are left behind her. Her mother has brought her to Paris to make a fresh start in the struggle for popularity. Mrs. Muir has had a severe cold, which prevents her from looking up her friends, and gives Venice freedom to be herself and do what she wants. Venice is fond of reading and analyzing people. If it were not for her mother's passion for society, she would try to write.

On the boat she has met a young man, Johnny Maple, who promises to look her up in Paris. She meets a girl in the hotel lounge, and they fall into conversation. The girl says that she is over alone, that she broke loose from her family because it is party mad, and she hates parties. "So do I," Venice says. "Why do you?"

A CAMEL AT ZELLIS'
"Men don't care about me. I have three beautiful sisters and I'm famed in Philadelphia as the family's ugly duckling."

"How unfair," Venice exclaimed. "Well, it does not matter anyway," the other girl said. "What are parties?"

Venice started. "Why, everything."

"How do you figure that?"

"What else is there for a girl well brought up but popularity?"

The girl suddenly regarded Venice as if she must look exceedingly rapid.

"Books and plays and travelling. Interesting people here and there who don't care whether you're pretty or not."

"Don't you miss attention?" Venice asked. "You never feel lonely?"

"Certainly not. I think I'm happier than my sisters who are forever worrying about one man or another. Nothing can worry me outside myself."

This last statement was made with a certain triumph. There was a pause. Venice's mind was racing over this new viewpoint. She was trying to adjust it to herself.

The girl looked at her watch. "I'm off," she said.

"They parted in the elevator. "Good night," Venice echoed, walking towards her room.

She must model herself along the lines of this girl.

"Venice, Venice." It was Mrs. Muir's fretful voice.

"Yes, mother. How are you feeling?"

"A little better, I think. I was just wondering. Have you heard from that Johnny Maple?"

Something that the girl with the big eyes had left with Venice evaporated.

"No," she said soberly.

"Well, it would be too bad if you didn't glean a single invitation from your cousin."

"Yes," Venice agreed wearily. "Good night, mother. I do hope you'll feel better in the morning."

"Good night, dear."

Mrs. Muir left better the following day but she stayed in bed.

In the afternoon Venice took a taxi to out-of-the-way corners of the city. She was lifted to acute happiness on the high hill of Savre-Coeur where she left the cab and sat on a wall to stare down at the mass of huddled roofs below. So many indignities crowded together, shoulder to shoulder, warm and human beneath a yellow shawl of sunshine.

She tried to give her mother some idea of her impressions, but Mrs. Muir's only reaction was, "My dear, I was in Paris before you were born."

The telephone rang. They both started.

Venice lifted the receiver. "Hello. Venice?"

"Yes."

"It's Johnny Maple. How are you?"

"Splendid. When did you get to town?"

"Last night. How about Zellis' tonight? Would you like to go?"

"I'd love to. Come for me around eleven."

"As you command, mademoiselle. The Westminster's in the Rue de la Paix isn't it?"

"Yes. Until tonight. Good-bye Johnny."

"How lovely," cried Mrs. Muir. "What did he invite you to do?"

"To dance at Zellis'."

"You must wear your new turquoise chiffon, Venice."

"Mrs. Muir's face was alight. She had forgotten her troublesome cough in her very real pleasure at the prospect of a good time for Venice. Venice was suddenly touched.

"Dear mother," she said warmly. "You are sweet."

Dressed some hours later in the turquoise chiffon she went in to show herself to Mrs. Muir.

"You look lovely, dear. Now have a marvelous time."

"Good night, Mother. Sleep well and be better in the morning."

Venice stooped and kissed her mother with her ferventest joy in Venice's gaiety.

"Johnny night, darling. You can turn out the light for me now and open the window."

Johnny Maple was waiting downstairs.

"This is excellent," he said. "Come along, I have a taxi."

I must be amusing, Venice mentally told herself sitting silently beside him in the cab. She hastily put on a bright smile and challenged. "How many English heads do you break in London?"

"Nary a one. English hearts don't break."

"The French hearts are held out to you in eager hands so the constraint will probably demoralize you." It was a glorious evening. They drank champagne and ate green almonds and Joe Zell himself came and sat for a moment at the table with them. There was a camel act, one man in the front legs and one in the rear. It was ridiculous.

Venice and Johnny parted in the Westminster lounge at half-past four.

"I never had a better time," she said.

She went into her room. The door of her mother's was open and the light lit. There were footsteps. "Why, Mother," she called, "you shouldn't be up."

"Mrs. Muir, it's Doctor Hawks." She stopped abruptly. He stood in the doorway a tall, dark silhouette against the light. She couldn't see his face. Something inside of her turned over, clutched suddenly at her heart.

"What is it?" she asked in a low, frightened voice. "Is mother worse?"

"Yes," he bocked the entrance. There was something ominous in the kindness of his voice. Something terrifying in the way he prevented her passing.

Teachers Hear Miss Wingo At Institute Here

Venice pushed past Doctor Hawks tomorrow to find—what?

Physical Education Theme; Blankenship Makes Talk

At the County Teacher's meeting Friday afternoon Miss Wingo and some of her pupils of the Physical Education Classes presented a very interesting program.

Miss Wingo gave a lecture on physical education and then Dorothy Duhbin, Jane Tinsley, Hazel Smith, Mildred Herrine, Madeline Black and Dorothy Mae Miller tap danced. Alta Mary Staup, Dorothy Rockhold and Dorothy Le Fever completed the program with the Highland fling.

During the morning session, W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of city schools, addressed the assembly on the subject of "Teaching A Profession."

Keeping Up With The Teachers

Miss Georgia Kirk Davis is leaving Wednesday afternoon to spend the Thanksgiving holidays in Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brown are leaving Thursday after the game for Lubbock.

Mrs. Frank Boyle left Tuesday afternoon for Dallas, where she will spend the holidays with her husband. She was accompanied by Vallia Trull, Jake Pickle and Courier Richardson.

Misses Helen Beavers and Mary McElroy left today noon by automobile for Denton to spend the holidays in Fort Worth.

Miss Agnes leaves today for Dallas.

Miss Butler leaves tonight for Fort Worth.

Miss Vandagriff plans spending part of the holidays in Lubbock.

Mr. Matthews leaves today for Alba.

Miss Drake leaves tonight for Waco.

Mrs. Stegner, Mrs. Lew, Miss Brown, Miss Wingo, Miss Higgins, Miss Ramsey plan to remain in Big Spring.

Miss Hart leaves tonight for Cisco.

Mr. Gentry, Mr. Etter, Mr. Houston, Mr. Blankenship, and Mr. Coffey plan leaving after the game Thursday for the Teachers' Convention in Amarillo.

Pep Squad In Election

Mattie Satterwhite Named President, Gertrude Martin, Secretary

Club officers were elected at a business meeting of the Pep Squad Thursday afternoon. Mattie Satterwhite was chosen president; Gertrude Martin, secretary; Hazel Smith, treasurer; Gertrude Tecker, reporter. A social committee with Lillian Crawford as chairman was appointed.

According to verdicts made by members, the grandest drills ever witnessed by spectators on the Big Spring sidelines will be staged by the Pep Squad on the field Thanksgiving.

Modern Structure Provides Better Facilities For Teaching

The new Mexican school, according to Mr. Blankenship, will be a six-room, brick building, of modern design and construction.

Three of the rooms can be thrown together to form an auditorium, with one of the rooms to be used as a stage. This floor of this room is raised about two or three feet above the level of the other two rooms, and is separated from the other two rooms by a rolling wall which will act as a curtain.

This room will be furnished with movable furniture so that the room may be cleared for programs. For the remainder of this year there will be only four grades, leaving two of the rooms vacant. These will be used for most work.

The faculty will remain the same: Mr. John R. Hutto, principal; Miss Ethel Barton, Miss Myrtle Jones, Mr. W. E. Martin.

This building is being constructed by S. P. Jones, and it will be completed within the next thirty or forty days. All the material for the building is being stored at the site of the building.

First Workshop Play Selected By Dramatic Club

"Governor's Shoes" a one-act play, was voted by the Dramatic Club at its meeting on Monday afternoon to be its first workshop play. The club also decided to work on a light comedy along with this more serious play. A discussion as to what this play would be held but no definite play was decided on.

The president volunteered to furnish material to be dyed for making a backdrop for the stage. The club plans to work on this during the Thanksgiving holidays.

SHOTS FROM THE SHOWER

With the Mustangs "trampling" the Bobcats Saturday the hopes for the Steers received their last blow. Their only hope now lies in the Mustang-Sweetwater game Thanksgiving, and the dogs doesn't point to the Bulldogs.

When the Steers take the field Thursday they will be ready for the Cats. With two weeks of rest, their bruises and breaks have all healed with the exception of Dyer and Roberts. In Monday's practice they showed a world of pep. Dennis was sending the oval further than ever and "Wild William" Flowers was stepping around as if his knee was better than ever.

The Bobcats will come here prepared to fight. They are smart from their first defeat and with their usual fight against the Steers there should be more than Turkey feathers flying on this afternoon. They will be fighting the Steers for second place in the district and that will be something.

The Cats have two outstanding men in Delker, a candidate for all-district, and Harrison. Delker is big and fast and he plows the line second only Heblsen. Harrison is small but has a world of speed and is tricky. However, his rating as all-district material was far lacking in his game against the Mustangs.

In this game Heblsen, Dennis, Flowers, Harris, Hopper, Martin, Orr, Hildreth, Sanders, Forrester, Stampf, Denton and Coburn will be playing their last conference game and they will be really playing football. Incidentally it will be a fight between Heblsen and Delker for the outstanding full-back in the district.

As the basket ball season draws near, the town and school is wondering what the prospects are. There will be Hopper, Dyer, Reid, Flowers, Forrester, Martin, Morgan all letter men last year besides a world of men who last year helped build the great team known as the "wrecking crew." Hopper, Dyer, Reid are all letter men. Richard Le Fever can't get tape long enough to measure his exact length. All in all when the annual Steer-Faculty game comes the small Faculty will have quite a time keeping the score down. However, the Faculty is never a cinch and the Steers will send plenty of action.

According to George Gentry of the Athletic Council no games have yet been scheduled for the team but they will be made in a few weeks and they will have first on them as they come.

In case you didn't know it—the captain of Lubbock High's undefeated eleven is a former Big Spring boy. Last year's coach, Bill Stevens, has an undefeated team at Friona. This school is football-minded. Cecil Reid is this year's captain of the Yellow and Black's five.

Since Sweetwater beat San Angelo, there is not much to fight for but the Steers are going to put on the best exhibition of football of the season Thursday.

Incidentally, the Steer goal line on the home field has not been crossed this year. It would be quite an honor for those who graduate this year to be able to tell the future teachers that the Steer Stadium is a one way street.

Those who are playing their last high school game on the gridiron intend to "give us something to remember them by" and play the best game of the season.

Bristow intends to start the regular backfield; Dennis, Heblsen, Sweatnback, and Flowers. Due to the injuries trailing the club, there will probably be a change or two in the line.

Brown says he will start either Sanders or Bob Flowers at center, Martin and Orr at guards, and Hopper and Sanders on tackle. The end positions will lie between Coals, Forrester and Harris.

History 3-B In Contest

The History 3-B class, taught by Miss Pearl Butler, has entered a contest sponsored by the Dallas Morning News. The only requirement of the contest is that the contestant be a subscriber to the News.

The questionnaire issued contains twenty short questions concerning Texas history and geography. The class has been doing research work in an effort to receive one of the prizes.

The Dallas Morning News offers a first prize of $500 to the most correct answers of the questionnaire. Second prize will be $100 and third prize $50. All answers must be in by the tenth of December. The class has them answered and is ready to send them off. Miss Butler said that the class has high hopes of winning and would undoubtedly be disappointed if no prize is won.

Trophy Case Is Installed

A new home for the high school trophies has been installed midway between the two doors of the auditorium. The entire front of the case is of glass and the back and sides are draped with hangings in the school colors.

It is here that the honors won by the high school in inter-scholastic competition will be kept. Many of the trophies are here permanently, but some are in the possession of the school only temporarily and must be won at the next annual contest if they are to be kept here.

The following is a list of the cups, trophies, and other rewards that are now being displayed: The Howard County Relay Cup for Junior Track, the Track Cup, the District cup for Girls' Tennis, won by Ruby Smith, the second year Latin Cup for the Latin Tournament Cup, the Basketball Trophy from Lamesa, the Championship of Western-half of District 8 basketball, and the District Championship Trophy.

Magazines Received By Library Listed

Having been asked to do so by every department in the high school, the library department has compiled a list of all its magazines, the current issue of which is available at any time: American, The American Boy, American Cookery, Athletic Journal, Forecast, Forum, Golden Book, Good Housekeeping, Hispania, House Beautiful, Hygeia, Journal of Business Education, Journal of Experimental Psychology, Musical American, National Geographic, Nature, Poetry, Popular Science Monthly, Review of Reviews, Texas Outlook, Time, Literary Digest, Vogue, Physical Education Magazine.

Any student or teacher is welcome to use any of these magazines at any time, according to Miss Eloise Agnew, librarian, but is requested to take good care of them while in his use. The selection of these magazines is based on the needs of all departments in high school, Miss Agnew stated.

Intramural Cagers Work

The intramural basketball season was started Friday under the direction of Coach Coffey. Sixty-six have already signed to participate. Included in this number are twenty-eight freshmen, fifteen sophomores, fourteen juniors, and seven seniors. Coffey has appointed George Dabney and J. W. Forrester as assistants.

There is some promising material for the inter-school squad, especially among the freshmen and sophomores, according to Mr. Coffey. "These men may not be able to see action this year but are sure to be on the regular line up in the near future," he said.

No definite dates have been set for the championship games, but it will probably be scheduled within about three weeks.

Students Are Spared Ordeal of Posing For Pictures In El Rodeo

As we all know there will be no "El Rodeo," the Big Spring high school yearbook, this year. Therefore, there will not be the worry of finding time to have those "annual pictures" made. This is to many students a great relief; some, because they are either too indolent or too busy to get down to the photographer's, others, because they are somewhat "scared" of the big camera. To the normal, healthy-minded person there may seem no reason whatever for being afraid of a camera, what if they do shoot you? It doesn't hurt.

However, the mere event in itself makes many students, especially as nervous as a cat on a tin roof (in summer). They possibly would not only deny this, if asked, but declare that there is nothing to fear about having their pictures made. Nevertheless, on the way to the photographer's their limbs have a slight tendency to tremble. The trembling increases when they are under the monotonous glare of the camera lights, and they cannot even hold an expression for a few seconds. Strange to say, these very ones are the foremost knockers when they see the developed reproductions.

If they cannot be still and hold a smile or solemn expression, as the case might be, or "look at the little birdie" long enough for a queer box-like affair to be clicked, what grounds have they to complain? They might be able to give an excuse, and then again they might change their mind and say, "I'm plain as a brick." No one's opinion is asked here. The question, be that as it may, the ones to whom this article has reference need have no fear this year, and possibly next year, since this "depression" is "as mysterious a it is terrible."

Who's Who

Elmer Dyer—has light hair, blue-green eyes and is six feet tall. He is a Junior in school and takes English, history, economics, and algebra. Likes history and English best.

His pastime is fishing on crickets. His hobby is fishing. His favorite color—blue; car—Ford; food—apples; and sports—football.

When Elmer finishes high school he plans going to Oklahoma University.

When asked what he intends to do when he finished college his reply was, "Get married."

Lillian Crawford—light brown hair, brown eyes, fair complexion; height, about five feet seven inches; favorite color, red; favorite car, Model "T"; hobby, primping; favorite pastime, playing Sol; favorite dish, tomato preserves.

Her ideal is a tall boy with dark wavy hair, big dreamy, brown eyes, and a big complexion. Takes English and economics. Her short-hand is her favorite subject, but would like to hire someone to write it for her. Good guy! Everyone calls her Joan—she tries not to like it, but who could help liking a name like that?

THE WHEEL

Campus Chatter

By MATTIE SATTENWHITE

Due to the "depression," we have been wondering how these high school boys were able to take their lady friends to the show (the Rita too). Some one happened to overhear the young men when they were buying their tickets, and heard them say something like this, "a whole 'n a half." We looked at them and wondered how Jake Pickle could get Hazel Smith in on a half—on Rick Koberg and R. V. Jones pass Jane Tinsley and Alta Taylor in on a half. This is one time where it pays high school boys to be conceited.

Since Mr. Green made the ruling that if you are late to class without a good reason you have to spend an extra hour in the study hall, it has been one grand rush in the hall between classes and at noon. But in spite of all the rushing and hurrying that takes place the last period study hall is overflowing.

During the noon hour yesterday we heard a visitor in our school ask this question, "What in the world is the matter with these football boys and pep squad girls? They seem to be so conceited? Well—guess that stranger didn't know that the above mentioned are 'in the movies' now. A perfect right to be conceited.

Miss Wingo continues the patient work, she may teach Kathryn Anthony and Laura Belle Underwood to tap.

If you want to get in trouble just mention a big turkey dinner, or discuss what you are going to eat Thanksgiving noon around these football boys. They certainly get furious when some one invites them out to a big turkey dinner and they have to refuse. But they always manage to inform the good samaritan that they will be there after the football game.

Elmer Dyer says that since he is a cripple, these students and teachers "pick on him." Now, everyone just remember that the Book teaches one to be sympathetic with the unfortunate.

The statement was made in a 3-2 history class Monday afternoon that John Adams didn't have any tact. Barbara Freeman informed the class in no uncertain terms that she didn't know there was but one tack and that was Tack Dennis.

Some day we expect to see that Hudson Henley out with a sixth grader much less a "juvenile freshman."

Here is some good advice for the students, and it comes from those who have experienced the results of such actions. Joe Clark and Oscar Heblsen say not to linger in the halls between classes, and Miss Winstow would advise no one to cut the eighth period class! We are about to be forced to believe that the group of boys at Uncle Walt's need instruction as to how leisure hours should be spent. Last week, Red Sanders was appointed to report all interesting discussions on class work, etc.; anything that was said, or done to help a freshman; or anything that would be of interest to the student body. As yet, nothing has been reported.

We wonder who will be the chauffeur for Miss McElroy and Miss Beavers since they are going by automobile to Denton. The price of silk hose must not matter much to some of these people that are continually walking backwards to make themselves graceful. Ask Lillian Crawford how it feels to be clumsy.

Coach Bristow said that if Angelo beat Sweetwater Saturday that he was going to call signals all the way back to Big Spring, but it seems that he was rather quiet.

It was somewhat a relief to the student body to learn that the telegram that Jane Tinsley received Monday noon was only from Abilene and read like this—"Why don't you write? Are you coming Thanksgiving? Answer collect." Jane was quite relieved when she read the last sentence.

Guess everyone has noticed that Mrs. Stegner has had her hair cut off. Some one told her she looked a lot better and she said she was going to shave her head.

If that poor man that took pictures on the campus Monday has to depend on that camera for a living, we are afraid that he will have to either buy a new camera or change his line of business. That camera couldn't possibly work now.

If anyone happens to be hungry just notify Curtis Bishop. He won a case (34 cans) of pork and beans at a bridge party Monday night and he doesn't even like pork and beans. Let's feed them to the Bobcats Thursday.

We were wondering why the elevator service was so poor at the Petroleum building Monday afternoon and now we know. Steve Ford, Jr. acted as "elevator girl."

Miss Barnes Talks To Junior High P.T.A.

The Junior High P.T.A. met last Tuesday afternoon in a business meeting. After the business was transacted Miss Verbena Barnes gave a talk on "Books for Junior High Students."

Some of the members of Miss Jordan's room then gave the following Thanksgiving program: Reading, Cleo Lane; Story, Mary Louise Inkman.

Hi School P.T.A. Holds Interesting Meeting

The High School P.T.A. met last Thursday afternoon, to take up the study of why Parent Teachers Association is organized and what duties they should perform. Mrs. Albert M. Fisher had charge of the meeting Thursday and it was decided that Mrs. Koberg would have charge of the program for the next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Sikes Gives Lovely Evening Party

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sikes entertained at bridge Monday evening with a very lovely party. The rooms were profusely decorated with chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Baker made high score and received a set of ash trays; Mrs. Cravens, low, and received a set of novelty animals.

Refreshment of pumpkin pie, whipped cream and coffee, were served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cravens, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCarty, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hahn; Mrs. Mary Baker; Misses Kattie Kalloway and Nora Pyrie Marchbanks; Messrs. Billie Warren and Gilbert Gibbs.

High School P-T-A Meets Thursday

The High School P.T.A. met at the high school building Tuesday afternoon for one of the most profitable sessions of the year. The program of the afternoon was devoted to a splendid and very uplifting talk by Mr. James L. Standridge, pastor of the Church of Christ, whose topic was: "Education for Citizenship and World Good Will as One of the 7 Cardinal Objectives."

Mrs. Low presented 8 of her pupils in typewriting with a chart explaining the work, which was a very interesting program number.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Evelyn Smith, first vice-president, presided. The members bought and installed a bed for the girls, to prevent many of them having to go home during short periods of illness.

E. 4th Baptist W.M.U. Packs Box for Orphans

The members of the East Fourth Street Baptist W. M. U. met at the church yesterday for a combination program. The members had a Bible lesson on Exodus 16:13-15, listened to Mrs. Beckett give a report of the State W. M. U. meeting which she recently attended at Waco; and packed a box for Buckner's Orphan Home.

There will be no meeting next Tuesday. Week of Prayer will be observed.

Those attending were Meses. Joe Phillips, Hart Phillips, B. G. Richardson, F. L. Turpin, R. A. Brown, F. Anderson, V. Phillips, A. R. Kavanaugh, W. W. Hill, W. D. Rowland, S. H. Morrison, O. F. Presley, Ben Carpenter, O. R. Phillips, W. D. Thompson, F. S. McCullough and K. E. Beckett.

Bridge Party Held For Visiting Sister

Mrs. Albert Bailey and Miss Lillian Nell entertained with five tables of bridge at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nall, Monday evening, honoring their sister, Mrs. Todd Crain, of San Angelo.

The living room was attractively decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums. The bridge accessories matched the colors of the flowers.

Mrs. Keith Stewart and Ike Knaus won high scores for the evening and Mrs. E. L. Nall and Jack Nall consolation scores. Mrs. Crain was presented with a lovely guest prize.

A delicious plate luncheon was served Messrs. and Meses. Ike Knaus, Randall Pickles, Leslie Jenkins, Howard, Jack and R. L. Nell; Mrs. Keith Stewart, Miss Polly Webb; Messrs. Bill Gordon, Ben Anthony, Franklin Nugent, and the honoree.

Elbow Club Meets With Mrs. Dave Leatherwood

The Elbow Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Dave Leatherwood Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Allgood, home demonstration agent, present to outline the club work for the coming year.

The hostess gave a pantry demonstration.

After the business session, refreshments were served to Meses. Duke Lipscomb, Bob Asbury, Jack McKinnon, Ches Anderson, Lucile Allgood.

Local Artists In Radio Program At Angelo Monday

Members of the Crawford Hotel's orchestra, with Melvin Spralley of the Coffee Shop management, went to San Angelo Monday and the artists put on an hour's program over radio station KQKL, with studios in the Hilton Hotel.

Not only the Crawford dance Thanksgiving evening but the football game between San Angelo and Big Spring was advertised during the program. The boys received dozens of calls requesting various numbers and several San Angelo people asked for reservations for the dance and dinner.

Brook Havins, at the piano and Bob Cooper, dancer, with Gerald Liberty took part on the program. The boys sang a number of the latest hits.

In connection with the musical program announcement was made that a gala football dance, with a floor show by professional entertainers would be presented at the Crawford Thursday evening.

The radio audience was told the ballroom would be decorated in football fashion, even to the goal post and "10-yard" lines and including Football Freddie and Colgate Fanny.

Jimmy Ray Tamsitt Gives Birthday Party

Master Jimmy Ray Tamsitt celebrated his third birthday recently at his home at 212 Gollard street.

Mrs. Tamsitt received the little guests, assisted by Mrs. Frank Powell. The home was beautifully decorated with roses and chrysanthemums in yellow and white.

After being entertained by games of various kinds, the guests were served delicious refreshments of jelly-ship and birthday cake, each guest was favored with a basket of mixed candies, balloons and balls.

Those attending were Carroll Kavanaugh, Lula Beth Duff, Betty Lou McGinnis, Katherine Boatman, James Edwards Brooks, Edwin Dempsey, Sperry Wright, Mildred Jones, Evelyn Tucker, Edna Dempsey, Mary Ann Dudley, A. J. Mary Alice and Billy Cain, Chas. Glyn Burman.

and plunging as he did against the Poles will more than likely do considerable damage. The advantage in all around play however, goes to Dennis by a wide margin. Adept at any department of play Tack is counted on to turn in the most brilliant performance of the year in his final appearance in a Steer uniform.

Ponies At Midland

While the Steers and Bobcats are waging their private warfare on the local gridiron the Mustangs will be taking the Wild Dogs of Midland in their last gesture before competing with the Oil Belt winner for the bi-district title. The Bulldogs have shown considerable improvement in the last appearances and will give the Mustangs a hard scrap but will fall before the Pony onslaught.

The Colorado Wolves and the McCammy Badgers will be making desperate efforts to climb out of the cellar position as they battle it out on the McCammy grid. While neither club has marked up a conference victory to date the dope favors the Parkmen to come through with a win and leave the plucky Wolves in undisputed possession of the bottom rung of the ladder in their first year in Class A competition.

Wander Inn Opening New Season Tonight

Wander Inn, Big Spring's famous shelter for transient men, will be opened for the season this evening. City Manager E. V. Spence, announced.

R. F. Harris, Sr., an experienced officer, will be in charge. All transients will be made to stay inside the building, at First and Main, at night. No food has been arranged but, Mr. Spence said, if the men are given any later they will be made to work for it.

Rio Grande Bridges To Be Open Later

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Assistant secretary of treasury Lowman today ordered the international bridges at Del Rio, Eagle Pass, Laredo, Zapata, Roma and Brownsville be kept open until midnight instead of closing at 9 p. m. as is now the case.

He had been petitioned by county officers who asserted that the time extension was necessary to facilitate traffic and produce a better feeling in the towns interested.

Bridges were recently opened continuously but were ordered closed at nine following protests of gambling on the Mexican side.

The new order will become effective Thanksgiving. Bridges at Thayer, Hidalgo and Rio Grande City, for which no petitions were received, will continue to close at nine.

State Auditor Discusses Tax Reform And Reorganization Of State Governmental Agencies

By MOORE LYNN, State Auditor.
Twelve months ago the citizens of the State, business men and others, seemed to have little interest in the financial affairs of the State government. On the part of many there seemed to be a fatalistic feeling regarding the government that was well expressed in the old saying, "as inevitable as death and taxes."

The taxpayer had developed a feeling that paying taxes was a case of "heads you win and tails I lose." He seemed to feel that the government was something imposed upon him—not something of his own creation, but something to which he paid tribute without receiving anything of value in return. Taxes were an evil, to be sure, but no one seemed to care greatly, and everyone was sure that nothing could be done about it.

In recent months there has been a marked change. Taxpayers are deciding that something can be done about high taxes. This changed attitude is based on a realization that governmental expenditures affect every citizen, every taxpayer, every corporation, and every business institution. From the least to the greatest our finances are affected by governmental expenditures.

Reform Demanded
Thousands of taxpayers throughout the State, both organized and unorganized, are demanding a program of governmental reform and reorganization in the interests of efficiency and economy. This demand will grow more insistent as time goes on.

It is important that the reform movement be directed into effective channels. If properly organized and intelligently directed, it will be a great force for good; otherwise its efforts will be largely dissipated. And whatever is accomplished may be destructive rather than constructive.

At this time there seems to be a movement in some quarters to demand a cut in governmental costs at any point and in any manner, regardless of the extent to which governmental services may be impaired. There is plenty of room for the application of an intelligent economy program, but it should not be necessary to destroy or impair important governmental functions in the interests of economy.

We must not burn down our house to get rid of the rats that infest it. The best results can be obtained only through a carefully planned reorganization affecting the entire governmental structure of the state. Preparation of such a plan is not a simple matter. The subject will have to be studied at some length and the program will have to be worked out with painstaking care.

Beginning
The creation of the office of State Auditor a little over two years ago seems to have been the beginning of the movement for reform and reorganization that is now becoming so widespread and powerful.

The work done by this office so far has not embraced a complete plan of reorganization for the State government, but we have necessarily seen so much of duplication, of lost motion, and of inefficiency that has been forced on us a consideration of the desirability of reorganization of the State government.

Volume 5 of the State Auditor's Biennial Report contains an outline of the organization of the State government as it existed at December 31, 1931. This volume discloses the fact that our political structure is in somewhat the condition of a house constructed in 1876, occupied by various tenants since that date, with increasingly large families, and to which the various occupants have added from time to time such ells, lean-tos, and super-structures as have appeared best to them.

The work done by the State Auditor's office up to this time has been in the nature of recommendations for repairs and improvements to the existing structure, rather than making plans for a new building.

Three legislative committees are now at work on plans looking towards reform of the State government. It seems to me that our present hope for immediate reforms in the State government must depend on these three committees. They are: the Senate Investigating Committee, headed by Dr. J. W. E. Beck; the "Efficiency" Committee of the Senate and the House, headed by Judge Harry N. Graves; and the Legislative Tax Survey Committee of the Senate and the House, headed by the Hon. Ben G. Oneal.

It is believed that the press, public officials, taxpayers' organizations, and patriotic citizens should give their full support and encouragement to the men comprising these committees in order that their work may produce the best possible results.

The Senate Investigating Committee is composed of the following: Representatives W. E. H. Beck, Carl C. Hardin, George C. Furl, Tom DeBerry, and Joe M. Moore.

The Senate Investigating Committee has done, and is still doing, a very important work in connection with the investigation of the evils of the fee system and the frauds that have been practiced on the State in connection therewith for many years. This Committee has worked with the Attorney General, the Comptroller, and the State Auditor for several months, and its efforts have already resulted in the saving of many thousands of dollars to the State.

Crystallizing
Public opinion seems to be rapidly crystallizing into a belief that the fee system should be done away with as soon as the Constitution can be amended. In the meantime, it is important that present laws relating to the fee system be carefully revised at the next session of the Legislature.

The State Comptroller's office is now putting into operation a system of auditing fee accounts, which, if consistently kept in operation will prevent, to a large extent, a recurrence of the conditions found by the Senate Committee.

The Efficiency Committee is composed of the following Senators and Representatives: Senators Carl C. Hardin and Greedy Woodruff; Representatives Harry N. Graves, Phil Sanders, and J. Turney Terrell.

The Efficiency Committee has authority to make a complete survey of the State government and to make recommendations for a plan of reorganization designed to effect economies and promote efficiency.

For the program of reform and reorganization to be made fully effective, the subject must be approached for study with a full realization of its gravity and magnitude. It should be approached with the attitude of an architect, planning a complete remodeling of the structure, rather than that of a house carpenter, who has the idea of tearing down a few of the most unsightly lean-tos and making necessary repairs to others.

The plans for reorganization will have to be basic, for the governmental structure as it now exists is not the result of any plan or scheme of organization.

The legislative tax survey committee is composed of the following Senators and Representatives: Senator Ben G. Oneal, Charles B. Gainer, and W. W. Williamson; Representatives Elbert M. Barton, George Moffitt, F. C. Weinert, and Victor E. Gilbert.

The tax survey committee is empowered to investigate the whole field of taxation, and is required to make concrete recommendations for improvements in the present tax structure. The possibilities of this committee cannot be over-estimated.

To Cooperate
The State Auditor's office proposes to cooperate with this committee fully, and expects particularly to make studies of methods by which taxes are being evaded. It is known that tax evasions are depriving the State of a large part of its revenues. This places an additional burden upon the honest taxpayer, who pays the full amount of his tax.

Many of the taxing statutes now on the books are ineffective. In some cases, legislation will be required in order to tighten up the system, but in many other cases all that is needed is a little more diligence on the part of public officials and employees.

The ad valorem tax system needs to be analyzed with a view to determining whether or not it should be continued by the State as a source of taxation. If it is to be continued, it should be so amended and corrected as to operate fairly in respect to all taxpayers.

The application of the tax law as a whole requires careful thought with a view of determining whether certain classes of business and industry are escaping to a large extent the burden of taxation, which period. His powerful work accounted for one Steer counter and with the ball on the one yard line the sounding of the final gun saved the Anguloans from defeat.

We have high hopes of seeing Bill repeat his performance of last year. In his final game and as captain of the greatest team in the history of Big Spring, Bill will do everything he can to ring down the curtain on his high school competition. We are taking this means of warning the Cats not to concentrate all their attention on Dennis for when they do they will see number 7 going places with the oval.

Then there are going to be several demons in the line to tear that Conche forward wall to pieces. These boys who are playing their last game for the Steers are not going to check out with the record of a poor final game behind them. All we can say is look out Bobcats.

We want to remind the fans that the Angelo supporters will be our guests Thursday just as we were the guests of Sweetwater on the 11th. We hope they will have just as good a time as we had in the Nolan county center and that they will go home talking about the wonderful time they had here and not worrying over the defeat we will administer during the afternoon.

Let's do everything we can to make their stay pleasant and impress upon them that we have the most hospitable and friendly city in West Texas. The citizens of San Angelo will be here backing their team and we want them to have the best time they ever had in their lives. We will give them everything in the world to make their visit a pleasant one—except the ball game and people they will have to take that over resistance of eleven fighting Steers.

We have made arrangements with local officials to let Blondy have the run of the city and see that no harm comes to him. Just remember that he is only another sport's writer trying to get along and don't pay too much attention to his antics when the Steers start their stampede.

Before the season started we received numerous guesses as to how the final games of the season would find the six teams of the district. The winner of this contest will be announced in Sunday's paper and if he or she will present the announcement clipped from the Herald at the Petroleum Pharmacy to Alfred Collins the prize will be given them.

We have another pass here for the winner of the guessing contest to be held this week. This is going to be easy for the wise ones as we are putting up only three games for them to concentrate on. To be eligible for the pass your suggestion must be in this office not later than noon Thursday. You may mail your suggestion in or call this department between the hours of 8 and 10:30 Thursday morning. Here are the games so get busy and do your worst: Steers vs San Angelo; Sweetwater vs Midland; and Colorado vs McCaskey.

We are reminded of the fact that a Steer machine has not triumphed over a Bobcat eleven since 1925. We are counting on the boys to give us something else to talk about tomorrow afternoon. A victory over the Taylormen will complete a successful season for the locals.

From each district in the state will come on or two outstanding men to be considered as all-state material. District 4 will offer two men who will be plenty hard to keep off the mythical eleven. Sheridan and Dennis could fill two backfield positions with the best of the school boy performers. We doubt if a better ball carrier or more elusive runner than Sheridan can be found in the state and we are quite confident that there is no where in the state to be found a more competent man in every department of play than Dennis.

We have had considerable fun out of panning the Bobcats for their play against the Ponies last Saturday but folks let us forget the fact that they were on the short end of the 20-0 count and remember that it will take the Steers four periods to subdue the Taylormen tomorrow and during said times we will have the pleasure of witnessing a real struggle. Just another idea which may not be worth much. If the Angelo club had been blessed with a kicker equal to Tack Dennis there might have been another tale to the affair in the Concho city last week. The Mustangs did not play up to form and the Bobcats gave them a merry battle but the lack of a good punter handicapped them no little.

Blondy comes out with the statement that he would rather win from the chesty Big Spring Steers than from any team in the United States. That, kind readers, is the attitude of the team. You will see a fighting bunch of Cats playing a different brand of ball from that shown against Sweetwater when they engage the locals tomorrow. An inspired team is capable of playing lots of football and that is what you will see out there tomorrow. A victory over the Steers will solve the feelings of the Angelo fans after the loss to the Ponies, and unless the Steers go into the game with all the fight and determination shown against the Mustangs the locals will finish in third place instead of second in the district standing.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you then and there before said court this writ, with your return thereon endorsed, showing you have executed the same. Given under my hand and seal of said court, this 24th day of November, A. D., 1931. (SEAL)

You needn't tell me - I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!

FRESHNESS

- that's the thing!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes?—freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with—blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back—if you can.
