SEASON!

"A-hunting we will go!" Hunting jackets are coming down from attic pegs. Shotguns are being oiled lovingly. And Brer Rabbit, Brer Squirrel, Brer Fox and Brer Bear are busy hunting holes. Open season is here.

It's also open season, now, for value-hunters. Stores are stocking shelves for Christmas-and there are a lot of tempting clearances. Shirt sales are on the wing. Housefurnishings provide a fine target for modest purses. Linen for Thanksgiving may be needed. And Christmas shopping is just around the corner.

The advertisements in this newspaper are the best weapons for a value-hunter. They tell you where the game is thick and plentiful. They save you steps, and help make certain that your purchases are products of quality built to give lasting satisfaction. It will pay you to read them every day.

And, Texas University, the team that was going to do such great things, according to the valiant words of a well-known national weekly, finally took a game with Texas Christian as the victim. This contest has been rated along in the same class with the Baylor-Tulsa roundels; as being a contest of has-beens.

For the rest of the Southwest slate, nothing untoward happened to shock the dopesters. Southern Methodist walloped poor old Ar-kansas in the manner prescribed As things now stand, there is only one upset that can be considered now-a Texas victory over the Farmers. Abilene high school's Eagles did not look like any cinch for Big Spring in the Lamesa-Abilene tilt last Friday afternoon. Still not to be considered as an outstanding threat to the Steers' outstanding threat to the Steers' title hopes in district 3-AA, but showing that they are a power to be dealt with, the Eagles mopped up on the Golden Tornadoes in a much more convincing style than did the Big Springers. Of course, we have a feeling Abliene was particularly hot that day, but such might be the case week after next when Big Spring plays after next when Big Spring plays host to the Eagles. If so—woe unto the Steers—provided they haven't already been shellacked by Sweetwater this Thursday.

Sewell's dealings are with How ard county producers and consum-ers exclusively, his abattoir facilities being available to a local publie and most of his sales being to merchants, cafes and hotels in Big Spring.

By maintaining a well-equipped abattoir and storage room, Sewell states he has tried to do away with extra expense caused by shipping cattle out of the locality and having to ship the dressed beef back thus bringing the producer and consumer a little closer together. Sewell said he felt beef could be handled as efficiently in local plants as in larger places. "I can't understand why a two-way ride should enhance the quality of beef," Sewell explained.

About sixty head of cows and hogs can be handled weekly dur-ing the year around by the Bugg plant. Of this number approxinately 80 per cent is beef. In addition to beef and pork, Sewell has facilities to care for deer.

When Sewell started into the meat business, his only connection with the industry had been in the role of a seller, having sold cattle to packers along with his farming interests in Howard county. In 1932 he left the farm and became associated with the wholesale beef ousiness. 1940 is his fourth year to own and operate a packing house Before that time, he had bought cattle from local raisers and had is meat handled in various plants.

Meat from Sewell's plant is han-dled according to best standards of sanitation. Immediately after eing killed, the animals are placed in the dressing system. After the meat is dressed, it is placed on hooks, cleaned thoroughly, and moved into the storage room. From the time the beef or pork is placed on the hook to the sale to the con umer, it is never in contact with any object that might be likely to Sewell pointed out that he could ot have achieved the degree of success at the present date with-out the complete support and friendliness of local people. He has tried to repay the cattle-raisers of Howard county with the best op-eration of the packing house posible. In addition to making po sible a more economical and efficient system of buying and selling by Howard county people, Sewell states he has been able to pay prices to producers that compar avorably to markets outside the area covered by Howard county.

DALLAS, Nov. 18—The average from its Dallas hendquarters in Texas tax-payer now has to pay $3 for every $1 he paid in state taxes in 1920, a study just completed by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association shows.

The study, based on figures in the association's new book, "Important Facts About Texas Oil," shows that Texans in general now pay $69,000,000 in state taxes against $23,000,000 in 1920, or three times as much. The Texas petroleum indus-try now pays $39,000,000 in state taxes against $4,000,000 in 1920, or nearly ten times as much.

During the 20-year period, the cost of state government has become virtually five times as great while the state's population is less than one and a half times as much The tremendous increase in gov ernmental expense represents increase in per capita cost of $18.53 for each Texan. However, the average Texan's tax obligation is not this much more, but only $5.83 more than in 1920. Taxes to fill this wide gap have come from the Texas petroleum industry, which is paying over three times as much in proportion today as the average Figures contained in the book how that the Texas petroleum industry is now payinw 44 1-2 per cent of all state property and business taxes. This is exclusive of poll an dsales taxes such as the gasoline tax, which the consumer pays. However, if sales taxes are counted, petroleum and its prod-ucts bear over 53 per cent of all state taxes.

General John J. Pershing voiced belief that inwing the presidential election are unneces ary, and the general is right. People to whom t be addressed an appeal for such action are likely to be influenced by such an appeal, If they do not have the determination for unity Burposs already in their hearts. If they do have it, the appeal is unnecessary.

The general's thought was expressed in a tter to Raymond Gram Swing, chairman of the Council for Democracy. He said: "To my mind an appeal to the people of United States r unity is quite unnecessary. Every four years se George Washington we have had a campaign followed by a general election to choose our chief executive. That, the people will now unite behind the new president does not admit doubt. It is the American way."

There spoke a real Arrestean elitizen, There has never been and will perhaps never be any doubt of the American people uniting for the ready together, various opinions on domestic policies of this country. Always have there been at least two great political parties, differing on matters of domestic government, and because of this we have had through all the years a representative government instead of a one-man ruled country. That we will continue to have, fortunately, and that we can have while standing solidly together in a determination to keep this country free and unafraid.

WASHINGTON-It's about time for the great blennial passing of the buck from one congress to another.

With ending of the 76th congress, five highly controversial measures (four of them already passed by the house of representatives) go down on the tables of senate committees or on the

As this is being written, the exact date of the demise of congress is not definite and it is barely possible that the republican contingent, headed by Senator Vandenberg (Mich.) in the upper house and Minority Leader Joe Martin, in the lower, will have its way and keep congress on until the legislative year ends January 3. In that event, one or two of the measures which have been stamped by the house as a good thing for the nation might get to the floor of the senate, but the best guessers don't guess so.

SLATED FOR ASH-CAN

Here are the bills which it seems are slated far the 76th congress ash can

(1). The Logan-Walter bill, a complicated measure which would put a check rein on government administrative agencies and make it possible for persons and companies to appeal to the courts when they feel the agencies have issued orders violating their individual rights. The house passed it by a big majority, but the senate has kept it muffed in committee swaddling

(2). The anti-lynching bill Passed by the house by an almost 2-to-1 vote last January, this one went to the senate amid dark hints of a filibuster from southern senate leaders, if any effort should be made to bring it to the floor. The bill was approved by the senate judiciary in April (10-to-3) and until about June, it seemed it might some day come to a vote. Then national defense and the anti-lynching bill has been hang-common defense, barring a few "conscientious objectors" and pinkly tinted persons who do not deserve the name of Americans and who are not in any sense representative of the millions of our citizenship. There is no necessity for appeal that the real people get together—they are al-

There will continue to be, there should be, ing on the calendar ever since, with some senator only now and then giving it as much as a sidelong glance.

(3). The Wagner act amendments, which would provide a new three-man national labor relations board and a heavy overhauling of the original Wagner labor act. This passed the house in June by exactly 2-to-1 but the senate hasn't given it a decent nod.

(4). The Ramspeck bill, which would bring about 200,000 more government employes under civil service. The senate did act on this one, but it killed one important house provision and added one of its own and a stormy house ordered its members in joint conference not to send the bill back to the house with those changes. Rep. Robert Ramspeck (D-Ga.) has hopes of salvaging his bill this session, but many observers think it also will go by the board.

(5). Also pending in the senate is the important King resolution which would relax our neutrality laws and make some changes in the Johnson act, which forbids loans to countries which haven't paid their World war debts. This is the measure which would open the door to greater material aid to Britain.

THESE ARENT ALL

These aren't all the pending measures which are likely to be passed on to the 77th congress, but they are the important ones.

If they die on the senate calendar or in committee, they will have to be re-introduced at the next session and acted on again by BOTH houses before they can become laws. With the gains of the majority party in the house at the recent election, it is considered certain the first four measures will sail through again in due time and again it will be up to the senate to act or put off until tomorrow whatever it considers too hot to handle today.

"Too intelligent," Is one member's explanation. Maybe that's right, because besides being a very good actress, and very striking if not beautiful in appearance, she has one of the sharpest minds and most gracious personalities

We don't ask that she be starred, for we doubt that she'd like that. We doubt, in fact, that she cares very much, one way or another. Really intelligent people probably don't-especially if they have as many outside interests as

Here is Frieda on the B's, as she makes ther one with John Litel. It's "Father and n," a high-grade B-the sort of human story that can be told on a B budget and would be four as a "colossal." Frieda plays the ther, John the father, and Billy Dawson eda says he's fine) is the boy torn between

B. And I know she means it. She's good about the war, too. Although long an American citizen, she's British-born. Her parents live in London now. We were talking of Britian's current stoicism and high morale under bomb fire, and she had an illustration for it: A letter from a 7-year-old girl who said, "the raids are nasty, but we have a nice shelter at school and we're having a party tomorrow."

Frieda was a little girl in London during the first World war.

"Then," she says, "London was much calmer about everything than America, and Paris was calmer than London, and calmest of all were the men in the trenches."
