

Moore... ABOUT Eastland

By VIRGIL E. MOORE

Mrs. Art Johnson made an offer at the Chamber of Commerce membership breakfast the other day which we believe could stand a lot of thought. Mrs. Johnson offered to donate to the city the city lot at 406 South Seaman with the idea in mind that it would be used to build a huge public storm cellar.

What makes the idea seem practical is that a large swimming pool once was located on that property and the cement walls of the pool are still there. With that much of a start it would seem practical to construct a shelter that someday could possible save hundreds of lives. At least it is worth checking.

Which makes us think again of the two sirens this city needs to have an adequate storm warning system. Seems like mighty cheap insurance to us.

Our scouts have reported three more yards you will want to drive by and see. They tell us flowers at Tom Lasater's home, 110 East Plummer, are really beautiful. The same type of report was made for the J. W. Ashley home, 605 South Lamar, and the Edna Everton yard, 201 East Olive. There are many others too, of course.

They tell us that the only thing that's keeping Lake Leon from really going over the spillway is the large number of fish being caught. We understand that everytime the lake rises an inch someone catches a big one and lowers the level again.

You can't say we are not doing our part in making Eastland churches better understand one another. Just take the little item we had in Thursday's paper about the "Methodist" Fellowship Bible Class sending a boy to the Legion Boys State. Everyone knows that actually the Fellowship class is a part of the Christian Church. But by us saying differently, the Christians and Methodist team up together to jump on us and forget their own differences. Yep, we are doing our part.

Seriously, the Class deserves special recognition for their good work. We have it from authority that those "friends of the school" who will pay still another boys way to the State were all members of the Fellowship Class.

See by the Cisco Press that Lake Cisco has gained a total of about eight feet of new water since rainy weather began. That puts that Lake up to 36 feet, the highest it has been since May 1, 1951.

Which reminds us of a story we spotted in the Denton Record Chronicle the other day. The Denton paper was doing considerable bragging about the fact that that city of some 25,000 has 21,000 acre feet of water for use only in Denton. They figured that made one of the wettest cities per capita around the state. Lake Leon has 28,000 acre feet and Eastland and Ranger combined have between eight and nine thousand folks. Need we say more.

The J. C. Kuykendalls are settled down at Colorado City now, we understand. They are our newest out-of-city subscribers. Father A. E. Hartwell, who many of you folks will remember, also renewed his subscription to the Telegram this week.

Someone was telling us that a local fellow was visiting one of his friends recently when he happened to see his dog. He reached down to pet the animal and was amazed when it began to talk. "How long have you had this dog?" he asked his friend. "Two years." "How long has it been talking?" "Two years." "Great day man, why haven't you told anyone about this?" "Well, I thought he would out-grow it."

Local Delegation To Attend WTCC Meet

A delegation from the Eastland Chamber of Commerce composed of Grady Pipkin, Earl Bender, Frank Sayre and H. J. Tanner will attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Congressional Action meeting Wednesday in Fort Worth.

F. W. Hamper, San Angelo, industrial relations director for a Texas telephone company, will discuss labor relations legislation at the meeting.

Hamper, who represents the WTCC on the labor relations committee of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, is a graduate of Marshall College in Huntington, West Virginia, and took graduate work in industrial and labor relations at Purdue University.

Berl Godfrey, WTCC president, said Hamper will discuss pending legislation that would call for extension of the minimum Federal wage and hour laws to retailers and others.

Hamper's experience in labor relations stems from being a past president of a labor union as well as representing management by handling the chairmanship of the bargaining committee for several companies. Hamper will join Eugene F. Rinta, research director of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, and John B. Dunlap, former commissioner of Internal Revenue, on the program of the one-day meeting.

Rinta, whose organization conducts research for state and regional chambers of commerce on federal fiscal affairs including taxation and expenditure programs, will outline methods of reducing the record peace-time Federal budget of $71.8 billion.

Dunlap, who served as Commissioner of Internal Revenue under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower, will discuss methods whereby taxes can be reduced. Presently he is vice-president of the First National Bank in Dallas. He also serves on the finance and taxation committee of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce as a representative of the WTCC.

Godfrey said that all members of the WTCC are urged to attend the meeting and added that other interested persons are welcome to attend.

SALUTATORIAN—Nancy Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Owen, is the second highest graduate of Eastland High School, finishing her four years work at E.H.S. with a grade-point average of 96.09. The 1957 graduating class is one of the largest in recent years here.

Eating Habits Show Your Personality

Your eating habits are related to your personality, according to scientists.

A Harvard University study, reported in the May issue of Better Homes & Gardens magazine, found finicky eaters tend to be more excitable, quicker to anger, more subject to moodiness than non-finicky eaters.

They also are more domineering, have greater self-confidence, can express themselves better, and have stronger leadership qualities.

Ohio State University scientists conducted experiments to learn whether certain foods really stimulate dreams. They found bran and cucumbers topped the list of a half-dozen dream producers.

Suggestions based on psychologists' findings, the magazine says, are: 1. Don't make an important decision or tackle a difficult problem on an empty stomach. Your mind doesn't function as efficiently when you haven't eaten for several hours. 2. If there are times during the day when you feel emotionally let down, it may be due to the fact that you skip lunch or breakfast. Feelings of depression occur most frequently on an empty stomach.

Remember the dates, June 8-9. That's when Texas' biggest Homecoming of 1957 will be held in Eastland.

Texas Longhorn Cave Million Years of Age

BURNET, TEXAS—Texas Longhorn Cavern, a spectacular scenic masterpiece of Nature, was at least a million years in the making, geologists have estimated.

The huge cavern is awesome evidence of the changes wrought through the ages by variations in climate, earth movements, the rise and fall of the seas and the slow solution of limestone by water.

Today Longhorn Cavern, located near Burnet in the Highland Lakes region northwest of Austin, is one of the state's favorite attractions for tourists and sightseers. Guided tours are conducted daily through the explored portions of the cave, which is one of the largest in the world.

Richard W. Rush, assistant professor of geology at the University of Texas, has traced the sequence of events which led to the development of the cavern from the time when Texas lay beneath a huge sea, approximately a half-billion years ago.

The stone in which the cavern was eventually carved out was formed from limy muds deposited at the bottom of this sea. Over countless centuries this mud deposit gradually rose out of the sea, only to sink beneath it again, a process which was repeated a number of times.

Finally slow uplift raised Texas above the sea for the last time and the limestone which had hardened from the mud deposits lay exposed to the elements for over sixty million years. At that time Central Texas was a humid swampland in which gigantic dinosaurs and other reptilian monsters roamed.

The actual beginnings of Longhorn Cavern probably occurred during the Ice Age, when the northern part of the United States was covered by glaciers, more than a million years ago.

As the glaciers retreated, about 50,000 years ago, the climate of Texas became drier and the ground water level began to drop, slowly dissolving the limestone and carving out the cavern.

Underground streams flowing through the cave helped to hollow out the labyrinthian passageways and huge rooms, until the cavern was excavated to its most remote chamber, an eerie 130 feet below the surface of the earth.

TOP MALE STUDENT—Clyde Young ranked as the top male student at Eastland High School, finishing his four years work with an average of 93.46. Young is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Young, and has been an outstanding athlete at Eastland High.

Eb Richardson Shows 12-lb. Yellow

Eb Richardson, caretaker at the dam, is shown here with a 12-lb. yellow catfish he took off of a trot line at Lake Leon. These things are getting to be as common and numerous as gnats out there. Anyone who puts out a trot line and baits it properly can come home with a tub full of fish and be a hero. It is one of the few kinds of fishing a poor man can do and still have lots of fun and get good results. Channel catfish, however, instead of yellow, usually fill the lines and that's just as good or better. Wait and we'll go with you.

Outboards Don't Scare Fish, Science Says

Outboards don't scare fish! A pretty potent statement, but you can take the word of Richard Stroud, executive vice president of the Sport Fishing Institute, for its authenticity. Stroud's remarks and views were aired over the NEC Monitor Evinrude Fishing Roundup this weekend (April 12).

To a question, "Just what is the score in the business of motors and fishing?" Stroud said: "I think it is pretty clear that, based on scientific data available, there's absolutely no basic to indicate that outboard motors in any way harm our fish populations or their tendency to fight or strike the angler's lure."

When it came to the subject of motors getting the blame for fishermen failing to come home with a mess of the finny friends, Stroud recalled his own experience in the TVA waters.

"The only way we could catch White Bass for tagging purposes was to dance spoons through the wake of the outboard motor where it bubbled right behind the boat and then we got 'em. If we didn't use the trick we just didn't catch White Bass," Stroud pointed out.

Stroud then outlined the study by Dr. Karl Lagler, University of Michigan, on outboards and fish. "The Michigan group took outboards, put them on the back of good boats, tied them by harness to posts in the middle of ponds and circled them for hours and hours, day after day. Then they checked the quality of fishing. At the same time, they had nearby ponds that had no motors on them at all, and they checked the fishing there and could find absolutely no difference in quality of fishing."

The Texas Fish and Game Commission in connection with a federal-aid fishery study recently concluded additional tests which buttressed the Michigan studies. Skin-divers were used to make these underwater observations.

The Texas report from fishery biologist John E. Tilton stated: "Surfaces noises, apparently have little effect on fish at depths of over 10 feet.

A 10 horsepower outboard motor is used frequently in the diving areas while observations are in progress. No difference in numbers of fish seen or general activity can be seen during periods of extensive use of the motor and periods when the motor is not in use.

On one occasion the boat was run at full speed back and forth over a test area. The fish in the area completely ignored the motor noise and continued normal activity. With the exception of a small whirring noise, no effect of the motor below 10 feet was noticeable. The skin-divers ranged in depth from three to 20 feet in an attempt to evaluate the motor effect. Near bank areas a definite water surge could be felt as deep as six feet each time the boat reversed the area."

Other surface sounds are believed to have little effect on fish activity. The fish observed completely ignored common surface sounds such as movement in the boat, talking by helpers on the surface, and even low flying jet aircraft.

The Texas experiment which was conducted for slightly over one year in Lake Travis in that state is the latest bit of evidence indicating that the use of outboard motors is immaterial in terms of the number of fish that are or are not caught.

How sin and suffering are destroyed through spiritual understanding of Christ, Truth, will be explained at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment" will include the following from Lamentations (3:39-41): "Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins? Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord. Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto God in the heavens."

Correlative selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (391-13): "It is error to suffer for aught but your own sins. Christ, or Truth, will destroy all other supposed suffering, and real suffering for your own sins will cease in proportion as the sin ceases."
