

Mavs Lose Hope For Crown Against Lions

Moore... ABOUT EASTLAND by Virgil E. Moore

We're sitting here now wondering just what's gonna go in this space today. It's one of those days when this Moore About business isn't fun the way it usually is, in fact it's a pain in the neck.

Of course we could write about football, but the last time we did one of our good readers told us she wasn't gonna read a word we wrote if we didn't quit wasting so much space on football. And anyway, the game with Albany isn't until tonight and you won't be reading this under Sunday so we wouldn't know if we should be sad or glad.

Then we could write a column about our old friend who always gave out with such good advice. For instance one time a lady came up to him with tears in her eyes seeking his council. "This is my birthday and I'm 40 years old and just miserable," she cried. "What can I do? I don't want to get old."

Our old friend looked at her awhile, then replied, "Now honey, don't worry. I'll just have all the calendars changed and we will have 24 months in each year instead of 12 and that will mean you'll just be 20 years old again."

Like we say, we could write that kind of trash, but it would be a big lie anyway, and big lies just shouldn't go in Sunday's edition.

You can see we've got a problem. It is gonna be for Sunday's paper and therefore we could write about religion. But we're not that desperate. Talking religion in print is one of the few things we do not do.

Really what we should do is crusade against something or somebody. The mood we're in today is just right for that, but bad as we'd like to we can't. Can't think of one thing that we're mad about. That's just downright irritating. (If that came out irrigating it's the typewriter's fault.)

—vem—

Probably what we ought to do is just leave his space white today. We could put up at the top that this is doodling space and maybe swing it. Or we could fill up part of the space by putting half a picture of a pretty girl down the bottom there. We could make it even more interesting and cut the picture in half and put a jump line on it. A jump line, n case you are dumb on this high-style newspaper talk, it's that little line of type which says (Continued on page 2) and it isn't there. Sometimes it's on another page and sometimes it just got left out altogether. We wish something like that had happened Thursday. At least it would have given us something to write about today.

Then we could talk about integration. We could tell you how we told you not to vote that Republican ticket. We could point out that we didn't once vote for Ike. But then that would be un-sporting like, and besides it would recall to mind how little influence we carry in this country—which voted overwhelmingly for Eisenhower two times running.

—vem—

And naturally we could always pick a new one with Norman Wright. But now that Jerry Sitton's kinda siding up with him (by printing what he has to say about us after we said something about him, and not what he said about us before we said something about him) we're afraid to.

Initial Shopping Plans For Christmas Revealed

Initial plans for the Christmas shopping season were made this week by the Eastland Chamber of Commerce trade extension committee headed by David Fry.

Plans were made to award $100 in prize money this year, and the committee made plans to have Santa visit in downtown Eastland on the three Saturdays preceding Christmas. He will bring a tubful of candy on each of his appearances to give to his young friends.

Christmas decorations were discussed and it was voted to basically keep the traditional downtown decorations. In the past lights have been strung from the top of the courthouse to the four corners of the square, then three strings of lights have been put up across each corner. This year the traditional star at the top of the courthouse will blink on and off.

There will be a giant Christmas tree set up on the courthouse square. And downtown stores will be asked to stay open until 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Monday before Christmas to give late shoppers a better opportunity to shop.

Each merchant who cooperates in the Christmas program will pass out cards to all customers. The cards are to be filled out and left at the store. Four names will be drawn from the pot on the Saturday before Christmas and cash prizes of $50, 25, $15 and $10 will be given.

Members of the committee besides Fry are Clyde Young, Clarence Jenkins, Tom Lovelace, Herbert Ekurt, James Smith, Willard Griffin and Herb Weaver.

Cisco Businessmen Of 1900's Praised

(Editor's Note: This is the 33rd in a series of articles taken from the book, "History of Eastland County, Texas" written by Mrs. George Langston in 1904.)

Davis-Garner Company Nineteen years ago the senior partner of the above firm came to Cisco. An indomitable energy and a determination to succeed were his only capital. He embarked in the dry goods business with Col. J. H. Holcomb, buying an entire half interest on a credit. In 1893 he bought out his partner and was sole owner of the business until March, 1903, when he sold a half interest to J. H. Garner.

Mr. Davis is "All the way from Pike," (having been born in Pike County, Missouri, 48 years ago). He was reared on a farm and received his education in subscription schools and in William Jewell College. In 1875 he came to Texas, crossing Red River the day he was 21.

Mr. Davis is a Missionary Baptist, believes in and supports church work and charitable institutions. His family consists of one good wife and four children.

Mr. Garner, the junior partner, is a young man and has been remarkably successful in business. He was just out of Howard College, Tenn. when he came to Texas eight years ago. It is no less his own personality than his push and energy that has greatly increased the business of the firm since he became a member. He is a working member of the Methodist Church. His wife is a daughter of Rev. S. W. Turner.

This firm is success in every sense of the word, due largely to the fact that it pays cash for every bill of goods received.

Hotel Hartman This first-class hostelry is kept by N. R. Wilson and his estimable wife, and is the only "52-a-day" hotel in the town. Being experienced in the hotel business they are able to cater successfully to the public.

N. R. Wilson, "Uncle Nat", as he is familiarly known was born in Baltimore, Maryland, in 1824.

Eastland Turns In One of Best Games

A keyed up Eastland Maverick eleven bowed out of the District 10-A championship race Friday night, losing to Albany, 18-13, before they did lose they convinced the home folks they had the best team in the district.

The Mavericks held a healthy 13-6 lead going into the final quarter, but a long pass and an Eastland fumble on the two yard line gave them two touchdowns and a clean slate in District play.

The Mavs played one of their best games of the year, holding highly talented Jerry Atwell to 43 yards in 17 carries, a mere 2 1/2 yards a try average. And they turned loose Halfback Bill Norwood for his best performance of the year, and Saul Pullman was back in good running form after two weeks.

The Mavs wanted this one, so badly that a pair of mistakes from trying so hard cost them their victory. A fumble on third down on their own two yard line—when they should have been punting—along with a pass interception deep in Mav territory set up the winning score.

Eastland almost scored the first time they got the ball. The Mavs drove from their own 38 to the Albany 27 for a first and 10 situation. Lynn Hollis and Norwood each got a single yard to the 25 then Humphrey passed on third down. A Mav was all by himself on about the 10 yard line, but for reasons unknown broke his stride and the perfect peg went over him.

Deep in the second quarter the goose eggs on the scoreboard were broken. Humphrey went back to pass with a third and 10 situation facing him. He was rushed hard, but finally got the pass away. It sailed into the arms of Albany Fullback Kenneth Hill on about

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

There is nothing in this world that stirs the patriotic and emotional instincts within man's breast more than listening to a good band play fine martial music.

I guess that is why so many people like a parade. Parades are America on display and some of them are real displays of American accomplishments. Some of our college bands can put on shows that are worth several dollars, if one had to pay for them.

In my opinion the best time to visit the State Fair of Texas is the day of the all-high-school band get together. That is always a fine time to see the fair and also listen to some wonderful band music. The last time I spent such a day at the fair there must have been 30 or so bands there, including the Tyler Junior College Band and their Apache Belles, the performing girls, who can make the Rockefeller Center Rockets look like a bunch of amateurs trying to limber up their muscles.

All of these bands put on their independent show that day at the fair and that evening all of them went together for a huge display of bands in the Cotton Bowl. The affair closed out with a massed band, composed of all the participating bands, playing the National Anthem, with all the lights out in the huge stadium.

I don't believe that there is a man alive who would claim such a sight doesn't cause his heart to beat just a little faster, and a sort of tight feeling come to his throat.

Another fine display of American bands takes place in San Antonio each spring at the Rose Festival they have in that city each year.

I've made the Battle of Roses, as they call it there, on a couple of occasions. I've been well pleased with what I've seen on both occasions.

Some of them, however, was much more impressive than the other.

They always start the affair off with a huge parade that is probably the largest and longest parades in Texas, or perhaps in the great Southwest. The participating bands each year vary from time to time, as they don't want to have the same bands there each year. That might get tiresome to some of the patrons and visitors.

The last time I was there, though, the Texas Aggie Band appeared on the scene. I didn't know it was going to be there until I

United Fund Key Workers Named By Fry

Plans for Eastland's annual United Fund drive are shaping up fast, David Fry, fund drive chairman, said Saturday.

Fry has named his key men in the drive and things are pointing toward the Tuesday, Nov. 5 kickoff breakfast now. John Goode will serve as breakfast chairman. Frank Sayre is in charge of advance gifts and James Smith is business chairman. Beta Sigma Phi sorority, with Mrs. A. G. Crosby as chairman, will take charge of the house to house canvass.

The kickoff breakfast will be held in the White Elephant restaurant. All volunteer workers will meet for breakfast, receive cards and take the drive to the public. Smith has named five drive captains. They are Dr. Fehrman Lund, Gene Rhodes, Everett Plowman, E. E. Layton and J. C. Poe. Each of the captains will name five workers.

The drive itself will continue from that date through Nov. 9. Fry said he hopes that workers will complete their part of the drive in that short period of time.

The United Fund quota this year is $6500. Five agencies will share in money collected. The budget committee has announced that the Boy Scouts will get $1800, the Red Cross, $1750; the Y.M.C.A. $1500, the Salvation Army $900 and the United Defense Fund $350. An additional $200 will pay for campaign expenses.

"The United way has proven to be the best way in Eastland," Fry said. "I'm confident that Eastland will again maintain this city's record of always going over the top in the UF drive."

Mavs Lose-

From their own 33 the Mavs scored in just seven plays. Norwood, in the hardest run of his career, gutted out seven yards on first down. Then Pullman took advantage of a good fake by Norwood, found his hole at the line and charged 42 yards to the Albany 18. From there Norwood went to the 16, then to the 10. Pullman got one to the nine, then Norwood ripped off eight to the one. Bill then got the call to take it across, and take it across he did. Watson's kick was no good, but Eastland was ahead 13-6 and things looked rosy.

Albany began to move the ball in the early part of the fourth quarter. After picking up a pair of first downs and moving the ball out to their own 48, Quarterback Charles Woodward threw a long one that found Jimmy Ellis three steps behind his defender. Ellis took the pass at full steam and didn't slow up until he reached glory land. Atwell found out how tough the left side of the Mav line is on the extra point try. He backed the line trying to tie things up, only to end up with a no-gain to his credit.

Then an exchange of breaks took over. The Mavs moved the ball out to their own 39 then fumbled. Jackie Jenkins came up with the ball for Albany. Woodward lost two yards on first down, then Hill got them back on second. Facing third and 10 Woodward went back to pass. His heave was intercepted by Hollis on the one, and just as the shifty Mav headed back up field his feet were cut from under him. The Mavs made one yard on two tries from that point, then on third down a fumble rolled loose on the two. Ralph Boling came up with the pigskin on the two. Then Atwell boomed across on first down. Again the extra point try by Freeman was no good.

Eastland almost pulled it out of the fire. There was just four minutes left on the clock following Albany's score. In that time the Mavs moved the ball from their own 34 to the Albany 37. Then a fourth down pass failed.

Albany drew three penalties in the last seconds of play for delay of the game, and they refused to let the Mavs regain the ball even for one down.

Mrs. Robert F. Jones had as her overnight guest this week her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert S. Jones of Fort Worth, and her grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Jones Jr. He is better known to his Eastland friends as "Bob."

Jones has just finished his Helicopter Flight training at Camp Rucker, Ala. He finished with a rank of Warrant Officer. He will be stationed in Fort Riley, Kan.

Gray Matter-

heard it coming down the street about halfway back up to the end of the parade.

For those poor unfortunate people who haven't heard The Aggie Band play a parade in the downtown district of a large city, it is hard to describe what they've missed. The Aggie Band can play with such force and power that they make the vibrations literally bounce off the buildings of a downtown sector and reverberation up and down the street. It's something to behold and listen to that doesn't happen every day, and it's an experience that one will remember all of his days.

On this particular occasion The Aggie Band was approaching and playing the Field Artillery Song (this is now called the Army Song) and as I listened to that magnificent musical organization, undoubtedly the world's best, tears kept streaming down my face. That song so thrilled me that it was all I could do to keep from going right out and start loading cannon right then and there.

That is a patriotic tune if I ever heard one. And those tears streaming down my cheeks were wept unashamedly. I couldn't help it. I thought it was the music working on my emotions until I kept feeling something tugging on my coat sleeve. Finally I looked down and there was a woman about 5 feet 2 yelling at me to get ctf of her toe.

She couldn't attract my attention so she was kicking me in the shin with her spiked heel until she had about two inches of spike right up my shin bone. The pain of that spiked heel was what was making the tears flow down my cheek.

But it was wonderful music at that.

ply, administration and maintenance functions of the organization.

In discussing the training programs of the unit, morale, general appearance and military knowledge of its personnel, Col. Roth lauded the instructors, officers and men general when he said, "This unit is probably one of the best National Guard outfits I have ever inspected."

This inspection was the 11th General Inspection of the unit since its Federal Recognition in August 1948. The excellent ratings received during the past few inspections indicate steady improvement of the training given and received, and indicative of the high caliber of personnel in the organization.

Christian Science

Man's responsibility for spiritual growth and progress will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation after Death" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections to be read include the following (Philippians 3:13-15): "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (291:12-13): "Universal salvation rests on probation, and probation, and is unattainable without them."

The Golden Text is from James (1:12) "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

a statement by Robert B. Anderson, Secretary of the Treasury:

"The ownership by 40 million citizens of over 41 billion dollars in Series E and H Savings Bonds is a striking testimonial of confidence in America's bright future. It means security and opportunity for millions of families — a way to provide for children's education, the building of new homes, or more comfortable retirement.

"America benefits, too, from such widespread savings bonds ownership. This partnership of individual citizens in their government's fiscal operations means better management of the public debt — greater stability for our money — brighter business prospects for the years ahead.

"Our country needs more savings — in all forms, including U.S. Savings Bonds — to help finance our growing economy; to pay for the plants and tools that mean more and better jobs for our ever-increasing population.

"Meeting this need is a challenge to all of us. Americans everywhere should be encouraged to regularly put aside part of their earnings for future needs. And certainly part of that saving belongs in the now better-than-ever U.S. Savings Bonds."
