SLIPPING AND SLIDING... That's what most people were doing on Thursday and Friday, as low temperatures kept snow and melted moisture on the ground, making for extremely hazardous walking and driving. Several fender-benders occurred and a few falls were taken by citizens who dared to brave the weather. On Friday, off and on, it snowed while the sun shone brightly. Muleshoe recorded close to 3 inches of the white cover.

County Livestock Show Will Kick Off Wednesday

Bailey County's Annual Junior Livestock show is set to kick off Wednesday, January 25 with local youth scheduled to arrive with their animals between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. The animals will remain in the barn until the completion of the show on Friday, January 27.

County Agent Spencer Tanksley told the Journal that he is "looking for one of the biggest shows we've ever had here due to some changes in entry limitations." The Bailey County Livestock Board expects to distribute about $25,000 in premiums this year to winning exhibitors, if the funds are available.

If all goes according to plan, Tanksley expects approximately 150 head of swine, 100 sheep and 60 calves to be entered in the show.

The official dates set for the '84 show are January 25-27. Setting up of pens, sand filling and other activities will be handled on January 24 by Livestock Board members and FHA, 4-H and FFA students.

The show will begin at 4 p.m. on January 26 with the sheep division, and following a 30 minute break after that show, judging will begin on the cattle. Show officials predict that the cattle judging will start around 7 p.m.

The second day of the show, January 27, will get underway at 9 a.m. with judging of swine classes. There will also be a showmanship class following the swine class. Judges for the 1984 show are: Sheep-Ronnie Lamb, CEA at Alamogordo; swine-Eddie Puckett, Vo-Ag instructor from Sweetwater and Cattle, Charles Rollins, former CEA of Ft. Worth.

Tanksley pointed out that most classes will run pretty much the same, but there are a few changes. The biggest change is that of the extended number of entries eligible. Each exhibitor may enter three beef animals, which shall be classed as market steers, heifers or any combination thereof; however, no more than three of each classification may be entered. Cattle will be shown by height.

In the sheep division, there will not be a top weight limit, but lambs must weigh 75 pounds at weigh-in on show day. Each exhibitor may enter three sheep.

Swine rules say that swine must weight between 160 and 250 pounds, with a five pound tolerance given on the top and lower ends. Only one reweigh will be given for light and heavy barrows. Each exhibitor may enter three hogs; barrows, gilts or any combination of the same.

All teachers are involved in making these textbook selections which will be used in Muleshoe I.S.D. beginning in the 1984-85 school year, Fuller said.

Sample copies are on display at the Bula meeting.

These meetings have been scheduled to discuss various aspects of the 1984 Farm Program, it's specifics and requirements. Farmers will have an opportunity to ask questions, and according to Noble, the meetings

Democratic Chairman Talks With Rotary

Guest speaker for the Muleshoe Rotary Club at noon on Tuesday was Chuck Smith, Bailey County Democratic Chairman, who gave a brief history of the voting process in Texas.

he described the Party Primary System in Texas, stating "Political party primaries are subject to the same laws as a general election."

"Specific laws and rules are set forth in Chapter 13, of the Texas Election Code. All laws are subject to change by the legislature," he added, "and the Texas Secretary of State is the chief election officer of the state."

Smith commented that the 1984 Primary filing deadline is February 6, with a mandatory county executive meeting scheduled on March 19. At that time, a drawing will be conducted to determine the order of names on the ballot for the primary. The primary election this year is scheduled on Saturday, May 5.

According to Smith, statewide elected offices scheduled for the ballot this year include Railroad Commissioner; Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court; Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Places I and II; Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, Places I, II and III; State Senator District 31; Representative, 85th Legislative District; Judge 7th Judicial District, Court of Appeals; District Attorney, 287th District and an expected hotly contested race for the 19th Congressional District.

County Producers Facing Decision On '84 Program

Danny Noble, Executive Director of the Bailey County ASCS office has announced several "Farm Program Meetings" for the Bailey County area. The first one is scheduled on Thursday, January 26 at 8 a.m. in the Maple Co-Op Gin. The second one will be held in the Bailey County Courthouse on Tuesday, January 31 at 7 p.m. and the third at Bula School House (community center) on Thursday, February 2, beginning at 6:30 a.m. A breakfast will also be served at the Bula meeting.

These meetings have been scheduled to discuss various aspects of the 1984 Farm Program, it's specifics and requirements. Farmers will have an opportunity to ask questions, and according to Noble, the meetings may be of some help to everyone. All producers are urged to attend at least one of the scheduled meetings.

The Bailey County ASCS office has announced that the ASCS office will only report a producer's PIK entitlement commodity and quantity to the Internal Revenue Service as the producer's PIK compensation. No dollar amounts will be reported. Noble stated that it would be the producer's responsibility to report the disposition of the commodity in the year that it is disposed of based on the IRS regulations.

Noble is also advising producers of the final date to redeem PIK entitlements. Producers must redeem their PIK entitlements on corn and grain sorghum by February 29, 1984; or, the Commodity Credit Corporation will cancel the entitlements.

Producers who have an outstanding loan to satisfy their PIK needs, must come to the ASCS office and pick up their warehouse receipts by the same date, February 29, 1984.

A new name has been coined for set-aside, CUA, etc., for the 1984 Farm Program. According to the Director, the land that is taken out of production by a producer in order to comply with 1984 program provisions will be called "Acreage Conservation Reserve," or ACR.

Concerning the Acreage Conservation Reserve, producers who sign-up to participate in the 1984 farm pro-

Designation was determined that farmers in the county would be eligible for emergency farm loans through the Farmers Home Administration office at a low rate of interest.

Bailey County was declared a natural disaster area on several criteria including the severe damage to food crops caused by drought from April 1, 1983 through December 3, 1983; through severely cold weather of March, 1983 and severe hailstorms of June 7-9, 1983; August 9, 1983 and October 16, 1983.

In order to obtain a disaster designation, crops in the county had to have suffered a certain percent of crop damage. Producers will also have to have suffered a specified loss percentage in order to be eligible for the loans.

Damage estimates were submitted to authorities earlier this year by the Bailey County Disaster Board.

Farmers are encouraged to visit their local FmHA office to seek the emergency farm disaster loans.

Texas Gas Production Down In September

Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace has announced that Texas oil and gas wells produced 471,960,379 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas in September, down 2.01 percent from field runs a year earlier.

That brings total production for the year through September to 4,151,931,327 Mcf of gas. Through September of 1982, Texas had produced 4,576,530,727 Mcf of gas.

Marketed gas production in September totaled 381,485,365 Mcf and reflected a 2.91 percent decrease from the September 1982 volume. Marketed production is the gas left after liquid hydrocarbons have been separated on the lease from the "wet" gas that is usually produced at the wellhead. It also does not include gas that is reinjected into the producing reservoir to maintain gas pressure, gas that is used to fuel production-related equipment on the lease site, or gas that is otherwise not marketed.

Exports of Texas-produced gas in September totaled 151,395,869 Mdf, and reflected a 12.5 percent decrease from the year-earlier month.

ignore the real needs of college students training to be educators.

The Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE), representing 37,000 members, has called for the State Board of Education to reject the recommendations of the Commission on Standards for the Teaching Profession.

The Commission, created in 1979 by the 67th Texas Legislature, has worked four years to establish a single set of uniform standards for the certification of Texas teachers. The work culminated in a final set of recommendations adopted in December 1983 for presentation at the State Board's first 1984 meeting, January 14.

Mike Morrow, executive director at ATPE, said that the association supported the need for uniform standards, but that the Commission had "recommended more of the same which has given us a generation of teachers who, for the most part, go into the classrooms and have to learn to teach during their first year.

"In days of testimony prior to the final recommendations," Morrow continued, "the Commission heard public and professional testimony which said that fewer general education courses were needed and that a requirement for a single course in classroom management and discipline should be adopted. In the end, the Commission suggested adding six hours of education requirements without requiring the management and discipline component. The Commission's proposal obviously runs contrary to the public testimony received and should be rejected by the State Board of Education."

More than three-fourths of the ATPE membership polled last year supported the concept of a uniform set of standards, but 94 percent felt that a classroom management and discipline course should be a part of that standard program.

"Lack of discipline in the classroom was cited as the number one problem in 14 out of the last 15 Gallup surveys on the public schools," said ATPE State President Sam Reed, a business teacher from Merced.

des. "Still only a handful of universities in the state either offer or require such a course at present; it is obvious that the need exists and that the Commission simply ignored that need."

Another ATPE survey, aimed at college of education students, revealed similar results, with the need for a discipline course as the second most frequently reported comment by the respondents. Education students also called for fewer philosophy and history of education course hours in the curriculum.

Ellis Funeral Home Pre-Need Funeral Plans

Guaranteed By Texas Department of Banking Price Frozen at Time of Purchase

"It is clear that the single set of standards must set up some specific course allotments instead of the broad requirements it does now," Morrow concluded. "Until the Commission does that, it will never devise an acceptable program which really can benefit the students and future students of this State."

Joel Bratcher Named

WBU Citizen Of Year

A December graduate and this year's president of the Student Government Association were named the 1984 Citizens of the Year Wednesday at Wayland Baptist University.

Mikala Romain Moore and Joel Lynn Bratcher were named to the highest honor accorded Wayland students during the annual Citizenship Chapel Wednesday in Harrell Memorial Auditorium. Former winners Dr. Sylvia Nadler (1971) and Eddie Turner (1972), both Wayland employees, read the citations recognizing the award's 28th pair of recipients.

Voted upon annually by the Wayland student body and faculty, the Citizen of the Year Award goes to the senior man and woman who best exemplify Christian attitudes, a commendable academic record, diversity of interests, loyalty to American ideals, personal integrity, and the Wayland spirit.

Winners must be graduating seniors who have attended Wayland for at least three complete semesters. Ballots from the student vote are tabulated, with the names of the four men and women receiving the highest number of votes then presented to the faculty for final vote by secret ballot.

The award was begun in 1956 when Wayland received the Valley Forge Award from the Freedom's Foundation for its program on inte-

"Our federal government and our leaders are going to have to get serious about deficit spending. We simply are going to have to say 'no' and mean it when over-bloated and over-stuffed bureaucracies hold out their hand for more of our tax dollars," Richards said.

A 1980 graduate of Pampa High School where she was active in band and her church youth choir, Ms. Moore has been active in student government as a class senator, as well as Omega Phi Alpha service sorority and Student Foundation. State Senator Bill Sarpius or Rep. Peter Laney will be opposed," he added.

Several contests are shaping up on a local level, explained Smith, and will be creating much local interest. Local offices to be filled in the election include Sheriff; Tax Assessor / Collector; County Attorney; Commissioners for Precincts One and Three; Constables, Precincts One, Two, Three and Four and Justice of the Peace for Precincts Two and Three.

Smith said the constable positions can be filled. "It should be noted," he said "Bailey County currently has one active constable in Precinct Three. Also, constables receive minimal compensation, set at the discretion of commissioner's court. The same holds true for Precinct Two and Three of the Justice of the Peace positions. Anyone wishing to run for constable or for Justice of the Peace in any of the Precincts open for election this year should contact the county judge for details about the positions."

The Democratic chairman closed the program with words of encouragement for more voter participation. "Clubs such as the Rotary, Lions, and all others are made up of civic and busi-

Computer Security Issue Can Be Divided

The issue of computer security can be divided into legal access and illegal access, said the chairman of the computer science department at Texas Christian University.

In terms of legal access, Congress has indicated that federal agencies may not pool their data files right now until some of the issues of privacy are resolved with regard to access. "That is the kind of safeguard we are going to work on for a long time," said Dr. Kurt Schember.

"With electronic funds transfers, credit cards and other information, each person leaves in essence an electronic trail. If an information pool were allowed, the federal government could conceivably find out where you had dinner on what date, where you were staying when traveling, tickets charged and destination," said Schember.

"So the question is: 'Is it really ethical for the federal government to combine information so it can be used for purposes that the person who submitted the information didn't intend for it to be used?'"

Another area of computer security involved illegal access to computer files.

"The problems up until 10 years ago were more physical security problems than information problems," he said. "Today people have microcomputers and personal computers in their homes and with a modem can dial up phone lines to find out numbers from computers and then start trying to break into systems," said Schember.

However, he believes that most security or computer crimes, particularly the very high-cost ones that are detected, are almost always internal. "Seldom do people externally do things that are very substantial. They are mischievous, but they are not typically embezzling hundreds of thousands of dollars. You almost have to know how the company works to do that," he said.

Unemployment May Be Taxable

Taxpayers who received unemployment compensation in 1983 may be required to include some or all of that money as income on their federal income tax return, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Generally, this applies if the total adjusted gross income, including unemployment compensation, exceeds $12,000 for single taxpayers or $18,000 for married taxpayers filing a joint return. Married taxpayers filing separate returns must report all unemployment compensation regardless of their adjusted gross income levels.

Unemployment benefits totaling $10 or more during the calendar year are reported to the IRS by the agency making the payments. The agency should also furnish a record of payments made to the taxpayer on Form 1099-UC by the end of January 1984.

Detailed information regarding the computation of the tax on unemployment compensation is contained in IRS Publication 905, Tax Information on Unemployment Compensation, which is available free by using the order blank in the tax package or by calling IRS.

Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres thinks he has found something that'll startle the country.

Dear editor:

My filing system, which consists of dropping newspaper and magazine clippings into a cardboard box for future use, works satisfactorily most of the time. But this time it has failed me. The other day I tore out an item from a newspaper and, I thought, dropped it into the box. But now I can't find it.

It was about a mayor in some state—if I had the clipping I could say where—who has thrown a monkey-wrench into the whole political set up. City council members, elected at one salary, decided it wasn't enough and voted themselves a raise. Congress does it all the time. Then they voted to raise the mayor's salary $28,000 a year to $34,000.

You're not going to believe this, but he turned it down. Said I'm already paid enough," adding that $28,000 is enough for a mayor in a town of 9,000.

We ought to locate that man, capture him and exhibit him at the next World's Fair. He'd be a sensation.

No use taking him to Washington. Congress wouldn't want him around. In fact, security around him should be strong, as there are lots of towns, counties and state capitals where he wouldn't be welcome either. He'd be considered one of the worst monkey-wrenches ever thrown into a grass-roots-to - Washington political machine that's well-oiled and purring along as though there's no bottom to a taxpayer's pocket.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

SPORTS SHORTS

$250,000. That's how much the world's richest amateur bowling tournament offers as the minimum prize to the man or woman who takes first place in the Lucky Strike's Filters Classic.

The event will take place June 10 to 16 instead of August as was last year's, allowing league and recreational bowlers to compete when they're at top form. The new double elimination format makes the event more attractive to bowlers who might have feared losing out early in the old single match game elimination format.

LUBBOCK, Friday, January 13, 1984

The accent was unmistakably on "service" when the 50-member Board of Directors of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. met in Lubbock January 11.

In addition to hearing an annual wrap-up report on one of the producer organization's oldest and most valuable services, the 20-year-old Boll Weevil Control Program, directors put their stamp of approval on an agreement with area compresses that will launch a new and equally promising service, the Plains Cotton Improvement Program.

Also discussed were PCG's ongoing efforts to extend the sign-up period for the 1984 cotton program, to restore a 90 percent floor under cotton program payment yields, and to reduce future discounts on cotton qualities common to High Plains production.

Frank Jones of Lamesa, Chairman of PCG's Boll Weevil Steering Committee, told the Board that the twentieth year of the control effort saw a total of 548,000 cotton acres sprayed at a cost of $1.65 million. He describes 1983 operations as "another unqualified success" in achieving its long-standing objective—preventing the establishment of weevils in the concentrated cotton acreage west of the Caprock.

Reduced acreage and drought conditions below the Cap in 1983, Jones reported, forced greater than normal westward migration of the weevil. Consequently, he said, it was necessary to spray more acres above the Caprock than have been sprayed in a number of years.

Cost of the program is borne jointly by High Plains producers, the U. S. and State Departments of Agriculture. Insecticide applications in 1983 were made in 16 High and Low Plains counties, ranging from a low of 43 acres in Briscoe County to a high of 161,000 in Dickens.

The Board heard its first report from a newly appointed Plains Cotton Improvement Program (PCIP) committee, presented by Chairman Wayne Huffaker of Tahoka. Other members of the committee are Don Bell of Wolforth, Myrl Mitchell of Lenora, Wayne Mixon of Seminole, Larry Nelson of Tulia, Joe Rankin of Ralls and Bert Williams, Farwell.

The committee presented to the Board an agreement between PCG and area compresses under which compresses will collect 10 cents per bale from producers to be used for the development of varieties and related activities aimed at increasing and improving the marketability and price of High Plains cottons. The Board gave its unanimous approval.

It will be the PCIP committee's responsibility to allocate funds for research projects and monitor results in much the same manner as the Boll Weevil Steering Committee manages the Boll Weevil Control Program.

Huffaker pointed out that cotton produced in California, for example, often sells for as much as $75 per bale more than the average of the High Plains crop. With the development of stronger, longer fiber varieties specifically adapted to the High Plains, he said, a substantial part of this difference can be erased.

Choose Your Tax Preparer Carefully

Last year, about 39% of the 2,597,000 federal income tax returns filed by individuals in north Texas area were completed by paid tax preparers. Obviously, tax preparation is big business.

The IRS advises you to choose your preparer with the same care you would use in selecting a doctor, lawyer, or any other professional person. Even when someone else prepares your tax return, you are legally responsible for the accuracy.

The IRS offers these tips on what to expect in dealing with a preparer:

* Taxpayers should not sign a blank return, nor one which is partially completed, nor one prepared in pencil.

* Preparers should sign the return in the taxpayer's presence and give his or her identification number, as required by law.

* Taxpayer must be given a copy of the completed return.

* Preparers who promise a refund, claim a special relationship with the IRS, or boast of ways to beat the tax system should be avoided.

Ruin?

Proud Father—I want our Willie to be a politician. Friend—Why? Father—He's so big and strong. I'd hate to have him ruin his physique by working.

How True!

A small income is a heck of a thing—difficult to live within and impossible to live without.

Dear Bonnie:

My husband is very partial to blues and my favorite colors are in the sunny yellows and golds. How can we use both of these colors in decorating our home?

Signed,
Jane P.

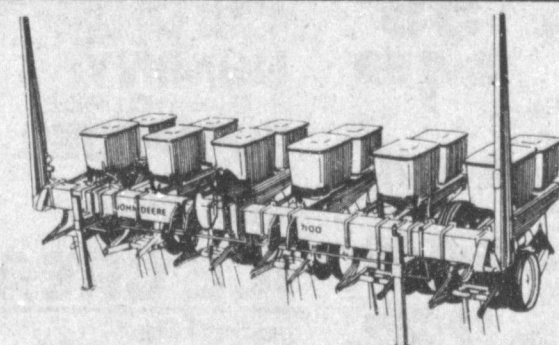

Dear Jane:

Find a mutually pleasing sample that has both of these colors, perhaps in a fabric or a picture, and use this combination throughout your home, letting one color dominate in a room while the other takes a quiet stance. Use the blues as the main color on the west or warm side of your home and the golden tones on the north to provide a sunny atmosphere. Blues give a calming effect and yellows are stimulating, so you decide what rooms need excitement.
