LARGER ARMY TO BE TRAINED TO STRIKE FAST

By JULIUS C. EDELSTEIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—The U. S. army, when the present defense program is fully under way, will be capable of launching counterattacks, with the full power of blitzkrieg, military experts declare.

War plans of the United States, while they contemplate defense only, are based on the attack formula, experts disclosed, and with modern equipment and expanded personnel, the army should be able to strike with terrific force and power.

Current emphasis is on the manufacture and production of material and equipment to supply an initial protective force of approximately 1,000,000 men.

Mechanization of new divisions of the expanded army, and training of swift-moving tank units in almost every army corps is underway. Large scale maneuvers have been planned for early next year to test the newly expanded strength of the army in mass movement.

Experts recalled that only a year ago the army had fewer than 50,000 regular troops, one-third of these stationed in the offshore outposts of the nation—Cuba, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

U. S. to Shelter Norse Princess

Accepting the invitation of President Roosevelt, Crown Princess Martha of Norway and her three children are en route to the United States. They are traveling on a U. S. ship, presumably the troop transport American Legion, which recently left Stockholm to pick up American refugees at Petsamo, Finland.

Narcotics Flow Checked By War

By United Press
ALBANY, N. Y.—The wars in Europe and Asia have offered an appreciated ally to the nation's narcotic squads, according to Frank Smith, New York state narcotics bureau director.

Supplies of narcotics that must be imported are becoming scarcer, Smith explained, because of restricted commerce and shipping to the United States.

The additional crimp in the drug smugglers' and sellers' activities—increasingly strict law enforcement—has caused an increase in thievery, prescription forging and other desperate attempts by addicts to obtain drugs.

Opium Price Soars
For instance, the retail price of smoking opium has risen from its standard of $100 per pound to between $350 and $400, it is said.

Beneficial rains, estimated at from three-fourths to one and one-half inches, fell over the Ranger-Eastland territory late Thursday evening and early last night.

RAINS SPOIL GARRETT PLAN FOR SPEECHES

Heavy rainfall of Thursday afternoon and night upset speaking plans of Clyde L. Garrett, Eastland, seeking reelection as congressman from the 17th district. A scheduled address by Garrett in Stamford last night was cancelled because of the downpour.

The congressman was booked for an all-day tour of Taylor county today, beginning with a speech at Tuscola at 9:30 this morning and climaxing with a rally in Abilene tonight.

Rain has forced postponement of the tour that would have carried him to Ovalo, Lawn, Bradshaw, Drasco, Wingate, Blackwell, Hylton, Shep, View and Caps.

According to announcements from Garrett's headquarters late last night the Garrett rally on the federal lawn in Abilene tonight will be held as scheduled, beginning at 8:30.

Judge Sam Russell, Garrett's opponent, had better luck with rain. He spoke in Stamford yesterday and Sweetwater last night. He was to be in Kotan at 12:45 p. m. today and at Roby tonight.

German People to Become Extinct El Pasoan Says

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex.—The "beast with two horns," mentioned in the Bible refers to the present Rome-Berlin axis, according to the belief of Frank McEwen, El Pasoan whose hobby for years has been the study of the prophecies of the Bible.

McEwen has compiled a list of prophecies taken from the books of the Bible that he says are coming true in the current European war.

He said that according to the Bible the German people will become extinct, destroyed by war or famine, Americans, he says, are the chosen people mentioned in the scriptures.

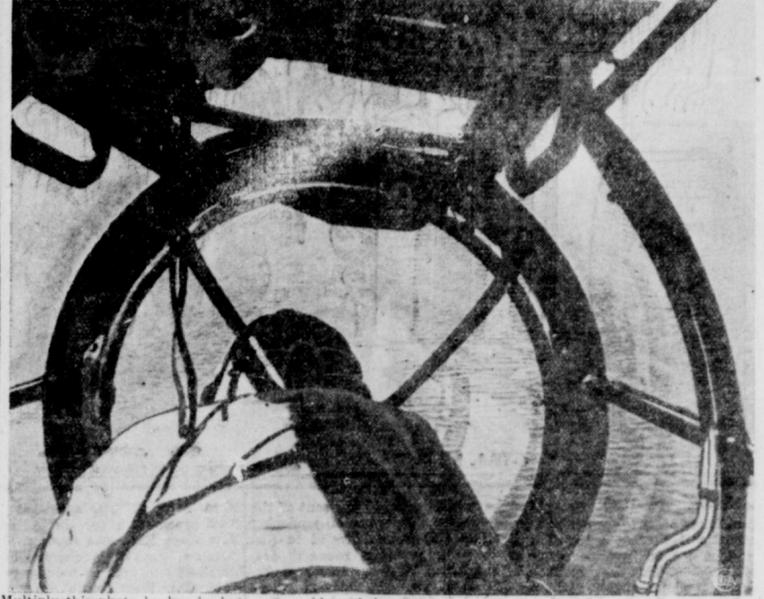

All the ancient peoples mentioned in the Bible are still here on earth, McEwen said. "They have different names now."

Germany is really Assyria, he said, and Ephraim (the land of Chittim) is England. The Chaldeans are the present-day Mongols; Italy is "of the Egyptians"; Manahed (the land of Zion) is the United States.

According to prophecies in Daniel, Isaiah, Revelations and elsewhere in the Bible, McEwen says, the people of Israel are really the Anglo-Saxon-Celts.

Super Highway Will Be Free Of Billboards
HARRISBURG, Pa.—The $70,000,000 Pennsylvania super-highway between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg will not be cluttered with billboards if the Turnpike Commission has its way, and the commissioners have it all figured out.

Multiply This by Hundreds

Multiply this photo by hundreds to get an idea of the concentrated assault launched by the German aerial armada against England. With the plane nosed down in a screaming dive, the Nazi gunner lies prone behind the propeller, pouring torrents of machine gun bullets into the target below. Photo passed by German censor.

3,000 PLANES IN RAID ON BRITISH ISLES

London was bombed today by part of a great German air fleet estimated at 3,000 planes. Reports were sketchy because of impaired communication and increased censorship.

London however remarked on "depletion" of Nazi bombing squadrons returning home and said their loss was "colossal."

Berlin released a play-by-play account of the battle and said the British were fighting "with greatest ferocity" against picked Nazi bombing crews.

Smaller Nazi squads appeared earlier over the Southeast Coast. London sources said the Germans lost 170 planes yesterday compared with 34 British planes.

The air ministry in London also announced bombing last night of aircraft works in Milan and Turin, Italy, and destruction of part of a seaplane base near Rome by bombers from North Africa.

Athens reported that Italian airplanes aggravated the already bad situation today by slightly damaging two Greek destroyers en route to Tinos, where an unidentified submarine sank a Greek cruiser yesterday.

CELEBRATION AT CISCO TO DRAW 10,000

Ten thousand or more visitors are expected in Cisco today and Saturday to attend the first State-wide Jamboree of Veterans of Foreign Wars ever to be held in Texas. Cisco Post 3359 will be host to the event, which will be held at Lake Cisco.

The two-day program will be highlighted by the selection and presentation of a VFW queen, a burro derby, political speeches, and the awarding of prizes, donated by merchants. The facilities of Lake Cisco will also be available for the entertainment of visitors, including the featured Borderland shows, midway attraction.

Music will be presented throughout the program by the Hittson-Schaefer orchestra and Stanley Webb, vocalist.

Saulsbury Aids Pierce Brooks In Commission Race
LUBBOCK, Aug. 16.—Pierce Brooks, candidate for railroad commissioner, and Baker Saulsbury of Amarillo, who was a candidate for the place in the first primary campaign through West Texas carried this section of the state in the July election running ahead of Brooks and Culbertson.

At Lubbock Brooks said that his opponent was criticizing him because he was not elected lieutenant governor two years ago.

Big Bass Taken By Cisco Angler
One of the largest large-mouth black bass taken from Lake Cisco this summer was caught Thursday morning by Harry Schaefer. The fish was taken on a Red Horse minnow. It weighed seven and a quarter pounds, measured 16 1-2 inches in circumference and was 23 1-2 inches in length.

4,000 HEAR RUSSELL TALK IN NOLAN CO.

SWEETWATER, Aug. 16.—More than 4,000 people from this and adjoining counties braved rain and storm clouds here last night to hear Sam Russell of Stephenville, candidate for congress from the 17th district, deliver an appeal for their support in the run-off primary to be held August 24.

The huge crowd roundly cheered when Russell answered statements made by his opponent here a few nights ago regarding his (Russell's) stand on the old age pension.

Luther Watson, former Sweetwater mayor, and editor of the Weekly Sweetwater Reporter, introduced Russell and Hal Collins of Mineral Wells. Collins' Crazy Gang, noted radio stars, furnished music and entertainment as an added attraction and were accorded much applause.

Russell delivered his speech in a masterly manner, covering much of his platform but declining, as in other talks over the district, to engage in any mud slinging, taking the position that the other fellow can do the mud slinging if he thinks it will help him any.

Cattlemen Move To Check Anthrax

Palomino Show To Be Held In Abilene, Oct. 2-4

AUSTIN, Aug. 16.—A Palomino show expected to have more than 250 of the colorful horses entered will be held Oct. 2, 3 and 4 at Abilene, Howard B. Cox of San Angelo, president of a Texas Palomino Association has announced.

A Palomino is not a particular breed of horse but a horse of particular coloring. He may be a thoroughbred, a saddlebred, a quarter horse or any type if the coloring is right.

Generally recognized specifications for a Palomino are that the skin must be black; the mane and tail must be silver; the eyes must be dark. The animal's coat may be any shade of gold. Dark, dappled gold seems to be considered best.

So popular have Palominos become among Texas stockmen that 200 were exhibited in an all-Palomino show last year. One hundred were entered in a mid-summer show at Mineral Wells this year.

The program for the October show will be made up of the usual horse show events, but all the entries will be Palominas. There will also be a rodeo program with only Palominos used.

Half the People Of Texas Depend On Oil Industry

Half of the 7,600,000 residents of Texas directly are interested in the petroleum industry, and their welfare is bound up with, whether they know it or not, an oil trade journal states. In fact, this one industry, the most important enterprise in Texas, single-handed has added more than 2,000,000 to the state's population.

An exhaustive comparison of population data for all parts of Texas, including the 130 leading oil-producing counties and the rest of the state, as well as a study of the large cities and ports that are dependent largely on oil, support the statement that more than 2,000,000 new residents are citizens of Texas in 1940 because of the oil industry.

In 12 oil-producing counties selected as a sample, it was found that the population increased about 22 per cent from the next to last census before oil was discovered to the last census before oil. However, in the first census after oil production, these same 12 counties experienced a 174 per cent increase in population.

By Williams Garden Hobbyist Beautifies City

WILMINGTON, N. C.—Carl Rehder disliked the trash-littered backyards of the poorer families of Wilmington so vehemently that he decided to do something about it. And it was little trouble to him because his hobby is backyard gardening.

Through the efforts of Rehder, there are now approximately 2,400 backyard gardens throughout this city which have a combined output of more than $150,000 worth of vegetables a year. And the backyards are no longer eyesores.

Long Campaign Wins
Rehder, who attributes his gardening successes to "cantankerous persistence" more than anything else, decided to do something about the barren yards as much as 13 years ago. He started Wilmington to gardening, and he did it almost single-handedly.

Rehder went to one of the public schools on the other side of the railroad tracks and told the children he would furnish them seeds and gardening instructions if they wanted a garden. If a sufficient number of them would start gardens, he said, he would give cash prizes for the best results.

But Rehder didn't know what he was letting himself in for. Instead of a few dozen children grabbing at the opportunity, hundreds besieged him for seeds and advice. He gave freely although his hobby had become almost too expensive.

Prize Contest Staged
Local newspapers came to his aid, however, and although he still is in charge of the program and helps award the gardening prizes, the newspapers present the prizes, and have added a big loving cup for the school child with the city's best garden. This year 429 school gardens competed for the prize.

Rehder found his gardening activities were growing far more than he dreamed and when the Emergency Relief Administration was started, Rehder was named head of garden projects in New Hanover county. No one else was considered.

When the Federal government dropped a "no garden, no relief" requirement, Wilmington created the position of director of the city garden program and kept Rehder on the job. City fathers said they could not have made a better investment.

Suit Designed As Unsinkable Lets Him Down

DETROIT.—Arthur Scott's dream of 26 years to flop about on the surface of the water "just like a pelican" was exploded by a broken pop bottle.

The bottle's jagged edge punctured his black rubber "pelican suit" equipped with wings, webbed feet, headlights for "finding your way when you're lost at sea" and a couple of spare pockets for chocolate bars.

Scott demonstrated his one-piece rubber combination zipper suit and rubber boots in the Detroit river. As he donned the garb and waded out, speculation was rife. Then the word went around that "he's going to walk on the water."

When he got out into water up to his chest the pop bottle appeared, and "swoosh" went the suit.

"It was a dream of a lifetime," he said.

producers. In 1939 state and local taxes on producers alone averaged 9 1-2 cents a barrel, and brought a total revenue of about $45,000,000. This does not include taxes on motor fuel paid by motorists, nor the special and general taxes paid by other branches of the oil industry in Texas. The gross production tax, or severance tax, averaged 2.94 cents a barrel last year, 31 per cent of total tax. In most oil-producing states this tax is levied in lieu of an ad valorem property tax, but Texas local and school districts assess ad valorem taxes which in 1939 averaged more than 5.5 cents a barrel, 58 per cent of the total tax. Regulatory, gross receipts, license, franchise, and pay roll taxes, and other fees and permits made up the remaining 11 per cent.

Nora Ellen Elliott, specialist in food preparation for the A. and M. College Extension Service. For instance, most vegetables are best prepared and used as soon as possible after they reach the home kitchen. Peas and corn, especially, lose much of their flavor after standing only a short time.

For corn, remove the husks just before cooking. Plunge the ears into boiling water and cook from 6 to 12 minutes depending on the age of the corn. Do not salt the cooking water as this toughens the corn.

Peas should be cooked in as little water as possible just until tender—then serve simply with butter or some other well-flavored fat and light seasonings. If the vegetables are not to be cooked at once, store them in a covered dish in a cool place so as to keep crisp, Miss Elliott advises.

With so many vegetables to choose from, it is easy to plan an entire meal around them. For a vegetable plate the specialist suggests fresh peas for the bright green color, roasting ears, and plump red tomatoes to broil or bake. Where hot weather has not yet been harmful or frame gardens are in production beets and carrots are plentiful and tender young salad greens are available. Other vegetable plate selections might include snap beans, lima beans and yellow squash.

Doing What Can't Be Done

There's a little story going the rounds that ought to be read to every person who has any connection with the defense drive.

It runs like this:
In one of our biggest electric light plants, the research department had a little joke that they used to play on every new man. Everybody knew that you couldn't frost electric light bulbs on the inside. It had to be done on the outside, though a better bulb would have been produced with a smooth outside, the frosting within. But of course it couldn't be done.

So they would set each new researcher to work on the problem. And when he came back a little later and reported that it couldn't be done, they would all unlash for a big laugh and explain that yes, that was the joke.

But one serious-minded new researcher never did get it. He viewed the problem gravely. Nobody put him wise to the fact that it couldn't be done. So he kept pegging away at it.

One day he came in and reported that he had the answer. He showed his process. Not only had he devised a means of frosting the inside of the bulbs, but a process that fished the depressions uniformly in the glass and made a stronger and better bulb to boot.

The joke wasn't so funny then. We don't know whether they ever told the young man about the "impossible" task they had set him. But he hadn't known it was impossible, so he did it.

The large-scale maneuvers this summer, rudimentary as they are in some respects, ought to give the top command in the army some kind of a line on which officers are obsessed with impossibilities, and which go right ahead with what they have and do the job anyway.

That's not to say that we shouldn't get the new equipment and get it in jig-time. It is simply to say that much valuable training can be had anyway. General Marshall didn't wait for the new equipment to get ready a fast-moving motorized Marine landing force. He took what he had and shook it together into a real organization.

From lance corporal to secretary of war we need men who haven't been told that "it's impossible." Among such men a number never do find it out. They get the job done.

Political paradox is that of the Democrats, who bolt their party to make it hang together that much looser.

Abandon all hope for gents like the one who spends these hot days worrying about the snow he'll have to shovel off his walk next winter.

It is written that the intellectual type is most subject to having hay fever, confirming the thesis that the ragweed sufferer has something besides a cold in his head.

"Tobacco Road" is closing, they say, but probably just for minor repairs.

A. & M. Students Studying to Be Army Officers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas—Approximately one-sixth of the enrollment of Texas A. & M. College this year will be boys who are preparing themselves as commissioned officers for either the regular United States army or the Officer's Reserve Corps.

The remainder of the 6000 students will be made of those taking the basic military science course in preparation for the advanced course later, or those who have completed or will complete the basic course and be ready to serve as noncommissioned officers in a national emergency.

Texas A. & M. furnished more officers for the army in the last war than any other college, including the Military Academy at West Point and the Naval Academy at Annapolis. This Texas institution furnished approximately 2200 men, most of them commissioned officers for World War I.

Since that time the college has trained some 4600 who have been commissioned by the federal government. Those 4600, in addition to many of the ones who served in the last conflict, are in the age limits as prescribed by Congress

YESTERDAY: O'Leary questions Dale about Saylor's business...

CHAPTER IV

WHEN Hazel Leighton walked into the study, it was quite apparent she had completely recovered from the shock of finding Saylor's body...

The police officer was still seated at Saylor's desk, engrossed in several documents he had spread before him...

"Miss Leighton?" Hazel nodded. "I'm Lieutenant O'Leary. Come over here and sit down, please."

"Did you enter this room at all?" "Not until the others came. I just screamed... couldn't help myself..."

"What kind of business?" "I don't think that matters. It was personal... nothing at all to do with—what happened here tonight."

O'Leary held out a single sheet of paper, clipped to a tan legal jacket. "Did it have anything to do with this?"

"I can understand that," said O'Leary. "FROM the vestibule doorway, Sergeant Carroll stepped into the room..."

MURDER INCOGNITO

YESTERDAY: Hazel Leighton explains how she found the body, surprised when O'Leary told her out of the engagement...

CHAPTER V

HAZEL LEIGHTON looked incredulously, first at Sergeant Carroll and then at Lieutenant O'Leary. "But that's impossible..."

"How could anyone in this house have committed the murder? We were all in the drawing room. No one left until we got up and found the body..."

O'Leary sighed the deep sigh of a police officer who has a job on his hands. "Sure, it's impossible. All clever murders are impossible..."

"That's what the murderer wants us to think. That's why they're clever—until they're caught..."

Hazel glared at the lieutenant indignantly. And then suddenly her eyes grew larger and her eyebrows arched ominously. "Do you mean that we're—that I'm a suspect?"

"Everyone's a suspect until we find the right party," said O'Leary. "That's ridiculous..."

"What's your name?" "Riggs." "Is that your real name?" "The man hesitated a moment. 'No, sir. That's what Mr. Saylor called me. My name's Carlos Gomez.'"

"Riggs will do... we'll call you that." Carroll made a quick entry on a loose envelope in his pocket. O'Leary walked along the south edge of the room and perched finally on the arm of a broad sofa that stood before the fireplace...

"Why, I don't know. I can't—' 'Maybe I ought to tell you what this is,' O'Leary interrupted. 'It's a release—a release from possible future breach of promise action against Martin Saylor. There's a space down here for you to sign. You won't need to now.'"

Hazel sat forward in her chair and rested her elbows on the desk. "I can't understand it. I haven't the faintest notion what you mean."

O'Leary looked straight at the blond woman and gestured mild with a cigar he took from his pocket. "Oh, yes, you have, Miss Leighton. I'll tell you what means. Saylor was going to give you $5000 so you wouldn't sue him. And he was going to make sure that you couldn't sue. May you'd better tell me the rest."

Hazel sat very rigidly, her blonde hair glimmering in the glow of the desk lamp. Little spots of angry red rose in her cheeks. "Right, Lieutenant," she said. "I tell you. Maybe that's better. Then you won't be getting a lot of ideas about something that is so..."

O'Leary struck a match and held it to his cigar. "Right would be a lot better all around if you told me everything."

"Saylor was one of the low fellows I ever met," Hazel said. "Funny about that... I thought I loved him. He's got a kind veneer that doesn't show up badly under the right kind of light. We went together for most a year. He wanted me to marry him, but I wasn't sure."

"And then, last week, he made me an offer... this offer. I never so insulted in my life. He had known his attitude toward me was changing. But I didn't know what a rotter he was until he told me the wedding was off and offered me $5000 to be a good girl I slapped his face."

O'Leary leaned back in his swivel chair. "Why were you here tonight, then, Miss Leighton?" Hazel avoided the officer's eyes. "I don't know. There was something about that man... I can't tell you what exactly. He asked me to come, and I knew why he wanted me here. I didn't want to come. I had no intentions of coming. Until tonight... and then something just seemed to draw me here. I wish I hadn't now."

"I can understand that," said O'Leary. "FROM the vestibule doorway, Sergeant Carroll stepped into the room. 'Look, Chief,' said the Sergeant. 'The boys have been doing a little checking, and the..."

He was out in the room above the garage. He's the only one who was loose long enough to have taken a pot shot at Saylor. O'Leary looked up quickly. "Where is he now?"

"Still in his room. A couple of boys have their eyes on the garage. I thought you might want to see him."

"Okay, bring him in, Sergeant. We'll have a little talk with him."

"I took Carroll five minutes to return with a medium-sized man, with swarthy skin and dark, wiry hair. There was a thin scar that ran along his neck and his eyes were deep and hollow."

O'Leary had been staring vacantly into the blackness through the French windows near the desk. He turned and took in the man with a swift glance. "Are you Mr. Saylor's chauffeur?"

The man clenched his fist. "Yes, sir." "Did you know Mr. Saylor is dead?"

"Yes, sir. The cops—the officers told me." "What's your name?" "Riggs." "Is that your real name?"

The man hesitated a moment. "No, sir. That's what Mr. Saylor called me. My name's Carlos Gomez." "Riggs will do... we'll call you that."

Carroll made a quick entry on a loose envelope in his pocket. O'Leary walked along the south edge of the room and perched finally on the arm of a broad sofa that stood before the fireplace. Riggs looked about him, and for a moment his eyes remained pinned to the large blotch in the sand-colored rug.

medical examiner telephoned. I thought maybe you wanted to know—' "Go ahead, Sergeant," O'Leary said.

Carroll shrugged. "Okay. Well, first of all, we checked the phone company like you said. They'd know if any long distance calls were made here tonight. There wasn't any."

O'Leary nodded. "Which means Saylor never reached his desk. He was killed right after he left the others in the drawing room—his way back to the desk."

Carroll squinted. "Right. And re's what the medical examiner says. He made a quick check and he said the bullet hit Saylor from the right, at an angle, I struck his heart. It knocked him off like a building collapsed him."

"Which means that the shot isn't have been fired from somewhere near that window... hit?" "Right... Only it wasn't—through the window, anyway."

O'Leary's eyes became quizzical. He waited for Carroll to continue. "The boys have been going over the grounds with a comb, the sergeant explained. 'There ain't any footprints. The ground is pretty soft outside this window, and if anybody was hanging around there'd be footprints sure. The window ain't been touched... not from the outside. The only way to open that window is with a crowbar or something sharp, unless it's pried from the inside. That'd leave a mark. There isn't any. The fingerprints we took on the inside will show something."

O'Leary grunted. "They won't show anything. The housekeeper, Barbour, Saylor's, a few cops—they'll be a smear. Anybody who'd try a job like that would be smart enough to wear gloves."

"Yeah, sure," Carroll assented. "We just thought we'd better, though—the old routine."

"The angle of the shot is all wrong for any of the other windows?" "Right."

"And no shot could have been fired through this window—the one that would give us the right angle?" "Right again," said Carroll. "There's only one answer I can see, Sergeant," O'Leary said. "Whoever committed the murder was right here in this house—probably still here."

couldn't drive a car himself, but he sometimes took a taxi. "Tell me, Riggs, did your boss have many enemies?"

Riggs glared at the floor. "I suppose so... everyone has." "I mean more than usual."

"I don't know, sir." The chauffeur avoided the lieutenant's eyes. "That wasn't my business."

Sergeant Carroll blurted, "Listen, buddy, all hackmen know about their bosses' affairs. You better..."

O'Leary got up. "All right, Riggs. That's enough. Go back to the garage. You'd better not leave the grounds, though. We may not be finished with you."

"Yes, sir," Riggs looked quickly at O'Leary and Carroll and then turned and walked hurriedly from the room into the library.

CARROLL watched him until he was out of the room. Then he wheeled swiftly on O'Leary. "That's our man, Chief," he said. "What makes you think so?" "Who else could it be? He was the only one who was loose long enough. Nobody was with him from 8:15 until we came. Anyway, he looks like the kind of guy who might pull a job like this."

O'Leary shook his head. "Maybe. Maybe you're right. Only I'd hate to try to get a conviction on the evidence we've got now. Remember, the shot was fired from this window... only the window was never opened. Not from the outside, at least."

THE PAY OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Service Sports Editor

FRONT offices continue to stomp baseball men, and that of the Detroit club presents the latest puzzle. With the perennial schoolboy, Lynwood Rowe, again a pitching hero, the infield is the Tigers' only problem.

Never has there been a more obvious need for a reserve infielder. Five men give Detroit the mightiest outfield in baseball. So what does the front office do, with the outfit requiring just a little added push to win the American League pennant, but buy an outfielder from Montreal.

DICK BARTELL and Pinky Higgins already have been forced to the sidelines. There is no telling how long the venerable Charley Gehringer's legs and back will stand up.

Red Kress filled in well enough for Bartell and Higgins, but he has slowed up to such an extent that he's fortunate to be in the big show, and is batting only .230. Frank Croucher, the only other extra infielder, plainly is unsatisfactory. He hasn't hit his weight—125 to be exact.

Detroit has plenty of power. The minors are full of experienced and skillful infielders who can't hit. One easily could be picked up for a nominal sum. DETROIT has only two fast men, Barney McCosky and Pete Fox. Both are outfielders. McCosky, invaluable in center field, is one of the circuit's three top hitters at the moment with .333. Fox is batting .317. Hank Greenberg, the other regular flycatcher, is one of the great long-distance right-hand hitters and has an average of .306. Backing up this trio are the capable left-hand batters, Bruce Campbell and Earl Averill.

85 Per Cent of Farm Families Own Motor Cars

Importance of the automobile to farm families is revealed in a recent study of 17,000 selected farms by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The survey indicates that 85 per cent of farm families own motor vehicles. Highest ratio of ownership was found in central and southern California, where 97 out of every 100 farm families owned motor vehicles. Kansas and North Dakota rank next with automobile ownership in 96 per cent; Oregon and Washington, 92 per cent; New Jersey, 88 per cent; Pennsylvania and Ohio, 86 per cent.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Cattlemen Want New Law Passed Concerning Theft

EL PASO, Tex.—West Texas cattlemen are hoping that Bill No. 3786, pending before the U. S. Senate, will be enacted. The bill concerns cattle thefts when the cattle are transported in interstate commerce. It provides that the theft of one steer valued at $50 would call for federal prosecution. As the law now reads, a cattle rustler can steal any number of cattle from a West Texas ranch, truck them into nearby New Mexico towns and sell them at sub-market prices without federal prosecution—as long as the value of the cattle does not reach

Other Arrests Made in Mercury Stealing Cases

Sheriff Loss Woods of Eastland states that officers have arrested Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Carver, wanted in connection with wholesale robbery of gas meters belonging to Lone Star Gas Co., Phillips Petroleum Co., and others in this section, in which mercury was stolen. Carver and his wife, indicted by the Eastland county grand jury along with 14 others in connection with the theft cases, eluded the officers at the time many of the others were arrested. They were apprehended at Lovington, New Mexico, and had 300 pounds of the stolen mercury on them when they were caught, Sheriff Woods said. Carver and his wife, officers believe, were the "fence" through which others worked. The value of the mercury stolen ran into hundreds of dollars. It is said to have cost the companies from which it was stolen, $3,000 per pound.

Pierce Brooks Speaks to Eastland County Voters

Pierce Brooks, Railroad Commission candidate, appealed to Eastland county voters in a speech here today to turn out on August 24 and "help complete the job of running the professional politicians out of control of the Texas government." "Texas has just half completed the job," Brooks said. "It was mighty fine when you returned W. Lee O'Daniel to the governor's office, but on August 24 you have an opportunity to smash the Sadler-Thompson machine that is seeking to perpetuate itself in office by electing Olin Culberson to the Railroad Commission. "Culberson has derided me because I was defeated for Lieut. Gov. in 1938. He failed to tell you, however, that I polled more than 400,000 votes in the runoff, despite the fact that a serious accident prevented me from active campaigning. Culberson has failed to tell you that when he first ran for a state office he failed to get into the runoff and was eliminated in the first primary with a very poor vote. "Pierce Brooks has derided me because I have pledged my support to the progressive program of O'Daniel and my opposition to the slimy, insidious Sadler-Thompson combination that is supporting Olin Culberson. I have no apology to make for my support of our great Governor and I will wholeheartedly assist him when I am your Railroad Commissioner. "I will exert my energies to lifting the 7,000-pound load limit on trucks, that farmers, ranchers and independent shippers can earn a living without being transformed into criminals by a law that discriminates in favor of the railroads. "I favor the maximum pension allowed under the Social Security amendment for the old folks of this state and will aid Governor O'Daniel and a sympathetic legislature in providing the funds. I will reduce the cost of operating the Railroad Commission by 25 per cent." During the day, Brooks spoke also at Baird, Cisco and Weatherford and tonight from 8:30 to 8:45 he will speak over the Texas Quality Network.

Files Disclose 57-Year Fight To Win Estate

NEW ORLEANS—The famous Myra Clark Gaines lawsuit—the case of one woman against 500 men—finally has come to rest in a New Orleans library. Files of the old litigation were presented by Mrs. Virginia Franklin Perin Martin, 80, who lives in Houston, Texas. Her father, the late Judge Franklin Perin, was one of 2,000 lawyers who pushed the suit in Mrs. Gaines' behalf for 57 years and carried it 12 times to the U. S. Supreme Court. Mrs. Gaines' father was Daniel Clark and her mother Zulime Carriere de Grange, former wife of a French nobleman. Daniel Clark died in New Orleans in 1812. Two years before he had made a will ignoring Myra, but he wrote another will in 1813 leaving millions of dollars in real estate and other property to her. Myra launched her suit to establish the legitimacy of her birth and the existence of her father's last will in 1826. It remained in the courts until 1883. It was Franklin Perin, a young Cincinnati law school graduate, who finally unearthed the record of Daniel Clark's marriage to Madame de Grange, which was eventually ruled legal proof of Mrs. Gaines' claims.

Pennsylvania Has Dogs for Blind

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Pennsylvania leads the nation in the number of dogs trained to lead the blind. With 80 active dogs guiding sightless persons, the Commonwealth has 30 more of the intelligent animals than any other state and nearly a fifth of all in the United States, according to Welfare Secretary E. Arthur Sweeney. California ranks second with 50 guide dogs, and New Jersey is third with 33. Before the dogs are used in Pennsylvania, they must pass "rigid tests" of ability at the Seeing Eye School in Morristown, N. J., where they are trained.

Veteran Lake Sailor Tours on Land Now

ASHTABULA, O.—Samuel M. Sylvester, who estimates that he's sailed 50 times around the world but never left Lake Erie, has retired after 34 years on the Car-ferry Ashtabula. Sam, as he's known to everyone on the lake boats, says that he's crossed the lake an average of 350 times a year as chief engineer—the equivalent to 50 times around the world. His sailing career began 55 years ago as a cabin boy. And he insists he's not going on a "busman's holiday" now that he has retired. He's going to tour the Middle West.

John Lee Smith OF THROCKMORTON FOR STATE SENATOR

I am making this race on my own merits and at my own expense, supplemented by the small contributions of friends, ranging from 50c to $10.00. I am not obligated to any special interest, corporation or group. My hands and my heart are free and unfettered to represent and serve the great common people of this district. I have but one allegiance—that is to my fellow-citizens and their welfare.

- I URGE:
1. Full payment of pensions by performance, not promises.
 2. Fair and equal tax levies on all forms of wealth—(no sales tax).
 3. Favoritism and special privileges to none.
 4. Raise truck load limit to not less than 12,000 pounds.
 5. Reduction of state salaries not less than 10%, and abolition of all unnecessary boards, bureaus and commissions.
 6. Honest co-operation with the governor to solve the state's perplexing problems in these critical times.

John Lee Smith will speak in Eastland on the Court House lawn Saturday Afternoon at 2 p. m.

Crop Insurance Deadline Is Set For Wheat Crop

COLLEGE STATION.—Wheat farmers intending to take out all-risk insurance on their 1941 crops must do so "either before they seed their wheat or by August 31, which ever is earlier. Anticipating a last-minute rush to sign up for crop insurance E. R. Duke, state crop insurance supervisor with headquarters at Amarillo, warned that absolutely no extension could be made of the August 31 deadline, a month earlier than the deadline for the 1940 program. Already the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has received applications for more than 1500 policies on the 1941 Texas wheat crop. Duke predicts that the amount of crop insurance coverage in Texas for 1941 will greatly surpass the coverage of 5,277,699 bushels on the 1940 crop. Meanwhile, the indemnity payments claimed for 1940 losses are nearly complete with an estimated 100,000 bushels yet to be paid producers on loss claims. The Amarillo office has certified indemnity payments on 4,761 policies for 1,505,105 bushels of wheat lost on 381,341 acres. The supervisor pointed out that wheat collected from the corporation on loss claims is eligible to be placed under the Commodity Credit Corporation loan for the first time this year.

Larger Army

(Continued from Page 1). have been made in the eventuality that the Philippines were invaded before 1946, and the armed forces were directed to repel or eject the invader. The present American garrison in the Philippines is not expected to be very largely increased, despite the expanded size of the army, itself, nor will the Asiatic fleet be greatly augmented, according to present indications.
