Special Vote Nov. 13 For Peppy's Spot

A special election has been called for Nov. 13 to fill the post of R. E. (Peppy) Blount who resigned Wednesday as state representative from the 91st (Big Spring) legislative district. Gov. Allan Shivers has set the election date to coincide with balloting on five constitutional amendments. Eleven other districts will close replacements for resigning representatives on the same date. Blount submitted his resignation to the governor's office Wednesday and announced that it was effective immediately. The former University of Texas football star said he was forced to quit the legislative post "to make a living for my family." The territory embraced in the special election to choose his successor will be the same that was included in the district which re-elected Blount to the legislature last year. The redistricting law which was passed this year does not become effective until the 1952 primary elections. At present Blount is studying law at the university while holding several part-time jobs, one as assistant freshman football coach at the University of Texas.

Herald Route Boys Join Their Colleagues For "Newsboy Day"

Saturday is National Newspaperboy Day, and some 40 young men who handle Herald routes will be joining their colleagues all over the nation in an observance. Highlight of the occasion here will be a special broadcast for Herald carriers, to be on KRST from 8:30 to 9 a.m. Saturday. ## AIR FORCE APPEALS FOR HELP IN LISTING OF HOUSING UNITS

The housing pinch is on, as far as the Big Spring Air Force Base is concerned. The base, through its housing officer, today issued the first public appeal for compilation of available living units for military personnel. The entire populace is urged to assist in helping list such units. Said a statement from the base: "Personnel for Big Spring Air Force Base are now arriving in Big Spring in such numbers as to pose a housing problem. Most of the current arrivals are married, and require immediate space for their families. For the most part, rental properties are desired. "Local realtors and the chamber of commerce staff, working with air base officials, have so far been able to satisfy the housing needs of the incoming airmen, but their listings of available units have now been exhausted. "The base housing officer has asked for help in compiling a list of available units. Those having rental property vacant, or having space they are considering renting are urged to call 3567, the base housing office, and supply pertinent information concerning the vacancy."

Reopen Boyle Probe; Gabrielson Through

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Senate investigators ended today their investigation of the relations between Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson and the RFC. Then they reopened their related inquiry into the affairs of Gabrielson's Democratic counterpart, William M. Boyle, Jr. Turney Gratz, former RFC official and at one time Boyle's top lieutenant at Democratic National Headquarters, was called for testimony before the Senate investigations committee. Senators wanted to know why he was on Boyle's personal payroll in 1946 and 1949 while holding RFC post. Gratz has told reporters Boyle paid him for after-office hours accounting jobs. The final witness in the Gabrielson inquiry was Harvey J. Gunderson, a former RFC director who was boomed for the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange by the GOP chairman last year. Gunderson testified he rejected Gabrielson's help "until I left the RFC." The GOP chairman swore the fact he leads a firm which borrowed $18.5 million from the RFC had nothing to do with his intercessions for Gunderson, who did not get the job. Senator Nixon (R-Calif.) told Gabrielson "the implication is that... it was an act of impropriety" if at any time thereafter "Gunderson was in position to do anything for the company."

Defense Opens Case In Arson Trial At C-City

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 5. —Heat melted spectators and participants and tempers were on edge here today as the J. S. Rogers arson trial moved into its fifth day. The state had concluded its case and the defense inning was opening. Rogers is accused of setting fire to the Gosnell hotel. State Fire Marshal Virgil Miller testified Thursday there was no connection between a series of fires in the hotel building. The first blaze (on June 6) was in the basement. After this was brought under control, there were other outbreaks in rooms No. 15 and No. 17, but not in No. 18, he said. In one room, he said, the window curtains were tied to an exposed 1x4 plank. A jug containing a substance to gasoline was placed in the attic, he said. Sheriff Dick Gregory said that holes had been bored in certain floors. Final witness for the state was Bruce Lidzior, occupant of No. 46. He said he came into the lobby shortly after 10:30 p.m. and when he entered his room, the telephone was ringing. "I just want to see if this thing is working," he said a voice muttered. Within a matter of seconds, he heard shots in the lobby and cries of "the hotel's on fire."

China Defenses Seen Crumbling

By NATE POLOWETZKY
EIGHTH ARMY, Korea, Oct. 5. (AP)—Chinese frontline defenses appeared crumbling in the west today before an offensive of 100,000 United Nations troops. Battered Reds retreated northward in some sectors. Some hills were abandoned after days of bitter fighting. Elsewhere only rear guards delayed U. N. troops. Soldiers of nine United Nations moved forward cautiously for limited gains. Late in the day Reds lashed back with counterattacks in efforts to recapture some abandoned hills. Elsewhere: The air over northwest Korea flamed with three jet battles involving 220 planes. It was the greatest number of jets ever reported in action on one day. The Fifth Air Force reported one Red jet shot down, two damaged. It said all Allied jets returned from the first two battles, but didn't say how they fared in the third. Allied troops lashed forward on each side of Heartbreak Ridge in a revival of warfare in the mountainous east. U. N. infantrymen advanced 1,000 yards to the west of the ridge while a tank patrol shot up Reds on the east. Reds were silent on Gen. Ridgeway's invitation to pick a new site in no-man's land to renew disrupted cease-fire talks. Red Korean political officers were quoted as saying there would be no negotiated truce in Korea in the near future. The British Commonwealth Division made gains of up to a mile and a half in the sector reaching from Yonchon seven miles south to the 38th Parallel. They fought off one Red counterattack late in the day. The Allies' western offensive pushed up to the 38th Parallel. The Third Division took a key hill in the center of the line without firing a shot. The Chinese vanished during the fight. Australian and British Infantrymen virtually completed capture of the last few hills of a line between the Imjin and Samichon rivers. Between these sectors the First Cavalry Division beat off a counterattack by thousands of Chinese who stormed down off their hills in the early morning hours. Third Division troops, fighting west of Chorwon on the right flank of the cavalrymen, mopped up Red positions after inflicting an estimated 1,200 casualties in the first two days of the limited offensive. They found Chinese defenses on the abruptly abandoned hill had stood up remarkably well under continuous blasting from Allied artillery. The hill, at the western end of what is known as "Bloody Angle," had been blasted for six days by U. N. artillery. The Third Division had penetrated the Chinese main line by capturing a hill just to the north on the previous day. Third Division officers said the Reds lost an estimated 500 dead, 582 wounded and 35 prisoners in the hills alone. Maj. Gen. A. H. Cassels, commander of the British Division, said he was very pleased with his forces, operating for the first time as a division.

Jessup Words Said To Raise Serious Point

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Ambassador Philip C. Jessup's sworn assertion he never has favored U. S. recognition of Red China was described by Senator Brewster (R-Me.) today as testimony which "raises some serious questions." Jessup made the statement Thursday night to a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee studying his nomination by President Truman as a delegate to the United Nations. The ambassador-at-large, a top anti-Communist of the State Department, also declared the United States "has never considered the recognition of Communist China." Jessup called it "a sound policy." Brewster said the testimony after recognition of Red China put Jessup in the position of taking issue with three other persons, including Republican Leader Harold E. Stassen. The subcommittee summoned Jessup for more questioning today, after receiving word from Stassen that he would be unable to come before it until next week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Steady Eddie Lopat's fine pitching performance for the New York Yankees squared up the 1951 World Series at a game a piece as the New York Giants went down to a 3-1 defeat. Larry Jansen, star Giant right-hander, was the losing pitcher. Jansen allowed the Yankees their first two runs, with George Spencer yielding the final tally in the eighth stanza. The Giants picked up their sole score in the seventh inning. Tomorrow's third game of the series, to be played at the Polo Grounds, will probably find the Yankees pitching Big Vic Raschi, with the Giants coming back with Sal Maglie. The Yankees picked up their first run off Larry Jansen in the first inning via three hits, Mickey Mantle scoring. In the second, Yankee first baseman Joe Collins slammed a pitch into the right field stands for a homerun. Mantle injured his leg in fielding a fly ball and had to be taken out. He was replaced by Hank Bauer. Jansen, after allowing the Yankees their two runs, settled down and pitched hitless ball for the next four innings. Budenz Repeats His Earlier Testimony WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Former Communist Louis Budenz, standing firm by his earlier disputed testimony, said today former Vice President Henry A. Wallace's China Mission recommendations "helped the Communists." Before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Budenz also reiterated his charge that John Carter Vincent, a career state department officer, was a Communist.

School Board Approves New Uniforms For BSHS Band

New uniforms will grace members of the high school band before the year is out.

Board of trustees members Thursday evening approved outfitting of the senior high band after J. W. King, Jr., director, had presented the need. Uniforms currently in use, some of them more than 10 years old and others about five, will be given to the junior high band, he said.

Approximate cost of the uniforms will be slightly in excess of $5,000. A committee will be named to help make selection of colors and design.

After surveying foreseeable space demands, the board concluded it would offer a 150-x150-foot tract at 10th and Gollado to the City Federation of Women's Clubs. The cost would be $3,500. Club women had asked several months ago about the property with the idea in mind of building a combination community building and conservatory at that location.

Approved was a program whereby a school injury benefit plan could be offered to patrons on an optional basis. Parents who want it could obtain the accident policy for $1 for the school year.

Either more depreciation or discovery of more brought about during the summer, have occurred at Kate Morrison school, the board was told. Pat Murphy, business manager, said that vents has been crammed with rocks and sticks so that sewer lines were clogged. Extensive repairs to two restrooms will be needed, he said. Downspouts also were clogged.

Mrs. Dorothy Davis, principal, expressed appreciation to the board for all the improvements that had been brought to the Kate Morrison school. She expressed the hope that the patrons of that area would rally to see that vandalism to the school plant is stopped.

Resignations of Conn Isaacs, assistant coach and science teacher, and Betty Fay Collins were accepted with regret. Isaacs is accepted defense work at Amarillo. Miss Collins plans to accompany her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Collins, who are moving to Abilene.

Elected by the board were Mrs. Bernice Stetter, to teach at the Airport school, and Blanche T. Johnson to be music teacher at Lakeview school.

Bill French, member of the firm of Fickett & French, architect-engineer, appeared to discuss building.

SCHOOL YEAR SCHEDULE OK

Schedule for the school year was approved by the Big Spring Independent School district board of trustees Thursday evening.

Thanksgiving holidays will be Nov. 22 and 23. School will dismiss Dec. 21 for Christmas holidays and reconvene on Jan. 2, 1952.

One day, yet to be set, will be taken off for the district meeting of the Texas State Teachers association in early March.

Easter holidays will be April 4-7. School will end officially on May 23, making a total of 177 days in school, two more than the state minimum.

ing problems and progress with the board. He protested withholding of payments for uncompleted work at Kate Morrison and these were freed with the proviso that the work, now down to minor painting, he completed. The board contended he had assumed liability personally for the work. He said contract date for completion of the high school was Dec. 3 but that he could not say that the building would be ready by then. Two ward school buildings should be ready for occupancy long before the high school is, said French.

Some sort of provision will have to be made for dressing rooms in connection with the ward school athletic program, the board concluded. Mrs. H. H. Rutherford said that storage of uniforms in classrooms was not the best arrangement.

Principals of the various schools attended the meeting. These included Roy Wesley and Myron Shields, high school; M. R. Turner, Mrs. Dorothy Davis, Dixie Boyd, John B. Harby, Mrs. Rutherford, and Truett Johnson. Other attending were Dean Bennett, elementary education director; O. J. Bierschwald, junior high supervisor; Wilder Roe, guidance; Burns Lane, visiting teacher; and Carl Coleman, coach.

CONFLICTING EXPLANATION?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—President Truman left most of the Washington Press Corps puzzled today by blaming "newspapers and slick magazines" for what he said was disclosure of 95 per cent of the government's secrets.

Truman Leaves Press Corps Puzzled With Security Words

Reporters had what looked on the surface like conflicting explanations for a recent Presidential order extending throughout the government the same tight security regulations which have governed the Defense and State Departments in handling information of potential value to an enemy.

At his news conference Thursday, the President said he signed the order after a Yale University survey, made for the Central Intelligence Agency, disclosed that "newspapers and slick magazines" had published 95 per cent of the government's secrets and this was what he wanted to stop.

That recalled another news conference held by Joseph Short, Mr. Truman's Press Secretary, just prior to the issuance of the security information order on Sept. 25. Short was asked whether the government committee which recommended the order had discovered that "confidential, secret — that sort of information — which we want into the newspapers?"

"It (the order) had nothing to do with this information getting into newspapers," Short said then.

The President, in speaking of disclosure of secrets, cited magazine publication of maps showing the location of atomic energy plants and publication by newspapers all over the country of pictures of major cities with arrows pointing to key plants.

Reporters protested that the Civilian Defense Agency had given out the matter on the big cities and that newspapers cooperated to alert the public to civilian dangers.

He didn't care who gave it out, the President said, the publishers had no business using it if they had

Tax Service Probe May Be Explosive

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—An explosive double-barreled probe of the nation's tax collection service loomed today as the House continued an investigation and the Senate indicated it may launch one of its own.

In the House, a Ways and Means Subcommittee looked further into the sideline activities of James P. Finnegan, former St. Louis collector of Internal Revenue who quit under fire last April.

The committee called John Martin Brodsky, said by witnesses to have been Finnegan's partner in an insurance agency which allegedly paid the tax official $6,195 during 1949 and 1950.

Finnegan denied Thursday he was ever in the insurance business, and may get a chance to testify further. He previously acknowledged receiving $2,250 from firms or persons in tax difficulties but said these were legal fees for outside work.

In the Senate, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) called for a full-scale investigation by the Senate's Special Investigating Subcommittee of all major revenue offices in the country.

His demand was furbered off when Senator Moody (D-Mich.) said there were reports of "serious irregularities" in the Detroit Bureau.

Ferguson said irregularities have been uncovered in San Francisco, Boston, New York and now Detroit. The Senate should act, he said.

He said allowing officials to resign or be replaced by others is no satisfactory cure, and will not satisfy the public. Federal tax collectors have a great opportunity for "shakedown, favors and political influence," Ferguson said.

Moody told the Senate irregularities were discovered about a month ago and had been partially checked by a subcommittee he heads. He said this group probing transactions in steel learned that "finder's fees" were paid two special intelligence agents of the Revenue Bureau.

He said morale in the Detroit intelligence unit was poor and that Henry F. Sunball, chief of the unit, was partly to blame. He said a report indicated Sunball, among other things, bought a $219.95 home freezer for $129.78.

In Detroit, Sunball denied that he had benefited by using influence of his office. He said he merely ordered the freezer, asked what he owed, and paid what he was told the unit cost.

Finnegan Thursday denied during the House Committee hearing that he engaged in selling insurance, saying "I was never in the insurance business in my life."

After he left the witness stand, the committee called witnesses who testified that Finnegan or members of his family benefited cal influence," Ferguson said.

Plan To Push Bill Changing Price Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—House leaders plan to push passage of a bill changing the price control law provision denounced by President Truman as "the terrible Capehart amendment."

The Senate Thursday passed the compromise measure 49 to 21 over the objections of Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), one of the author of the controversial amendment which permits sellers to pass on to consumers virtually all cost increases.

The House leadership had said it would do nothing about this and three other modifications in the controls law asked by Mr. Truman until the Senate acted first.

Having voted to go part of the way toward meeting Mr. Truman's requests on the Capehart amendment, the Senate next week will take up two other points raised by the President.

They are bills which would: (1) permit re-imposition of slaughter quotas on packing plants and (2) repeal the section of the controls law placing strict import curbs on fats, oils and dairy products.

Secretary Acheson Will Stick By Truman Until After Elections

WASHINGTON.—Several times in the past twelve months Secretary of State Acheson has told President Truman it might be expedient for him to resign. Each time the President has vigorously objected. Today, however, Acheson has changed his mind. He is planning to stay on as secretary of state for the remainder of Truman's term.

of her treaty with Red China, sent 45,000 'specialists' into that country. "The tragedy is that while the followers of Christ are preaching the precepts of the master, and the voice of America is proclaiming our good intentions, the Communists move in among the masses who never saw a missionary nor heard a radio, and appear to be practicing what we preach.

It isn't always that a preacher sees his sermon bear immediate fruit. But some time ago, John L. Peters, a professor of religion at Oklahoma City university, preached a sermon at St. Luke's Methodist church which got the people of Oklahoma City so aroused that they are hearing Congress in putting across one important part of U. S. foreign policy.

Missionaries, as Peters pointed out, can be teachers, doctors, farmers, builders of bridges. And this Oklahoma group, organized while Congress debated, is now about to send a new kind of "combat team" to battle Communism near Vellore and Madras, India.

Firm, Frank Language Marked Truman Appeal For Aid To Greece And Turkey

9. Aid to Greece and Turkey. In spite of multiplying international embarrassments, springing at bottom from our want of available military strength, there was little idea as 1946 ran out of rebuilding the defenses. In October, Forrestal, with the projected unification of the services in mind, had spoken to James E. Webb, the Director of the Budget.

10. Cabinet meeting. At the Cabinet meeting this morning, I went into a lengthy discussion of the Greek question. He said that he was faced with a decision more serious than had ever confronted any President; that he wanted to have the facts put forth before the Cabinet, have a full discussion of them and then to talk ways and means of proceeding.

11. Acheson and Turkey. The British, he said, had agreed to continue their military commitments in Greece for the next three months at a cost of about $8 million a month, but at the end of that time they would have to pull out. He said that the Greek government was not a satisfactory one to us; that it contained many elements that were reactionary; that much of the success of the Russian propaganda was due to the knowledge the people had of corruption and inefficiency.

ECONOMY SHACKLES MARSHALL

(Meanwhile, Secretary Byrnes had resigned, and General of the Army George C. Marshall, returned from his unsuccessful diplomatic mission to China, had become Secretary of State. Forrestal's letters show his concern over the weakness of the tools the new Secretary had to work with.

12. Acheson and Turkey. The British, he said, had agreed to continue their military commitments in Greece for the next three months at a cost of about $8 million a month, but at the end of that time they would have to pull out. He said that the Greek government was not a satisfactory one to us; that it contained many elements that were reactionary; that much of the success of the Russian propaganda was due to the knowledge the people had of corruption and inefficiency.

He said that the Greek government was not a satisfactory one to us; that it contained many elements that were reactionary; that much of the success of the Russian propaganda was due to the knowledge the people had of corruption and inefficiency.

THE MANY NATIONAL PROBLEMS

(Here was an acute problem, with very far-reaching implications, and there were many discussions of it in the ensuing days. Forrestal, inviting the new Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Representative John Taber, and other members to the Navy Department for a presentation on the Navy budget, found that it even had some effect, at least, on the economy-minded Congressmen.)

14. Acheson and Turkey. The British, he said, had agreed to continue their military commitments in Greece for the next three months at a cost of about $8 million a month, but at the end of that time they would have to pull out. He said that the Greek government was not a satisfactory one to us; that it contained many elements that were reactionary; that much of the success of the Russian propaganda was due to the knowledge the people had of corruption and inefficiency.

HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE

In my statement to the members of the Committee I said that the Navy was fully aware of the great task laid upon the Congress in trying to secure enough revenue to meet the tremendous burden which the country had to carry; that there are a lot of colliding objectives in the national mind: the five-day week, six-hour day high wages, low prices for manufactured goods, reduced taxes, a balanced budget, debt reduction, a large and strong Army and Navy, a firm foreign policy including firmness with Russia, but keep-out-of-war. I said it was easy to have these objectives, but not so easy to secure their fulfillment and that even naval officers were not economic fools and recognized the fact that by forfeiting a sound economy at home we could stumble into state socialism just as successfully as if we had marked our course for that harbor.

16. Acheson and Turkey. The British, he said, had agreed to continue their military commitments in Greece for the next three months at a cost of about $8 million a month, but at the end of that time they would have to pull out. He said that the Greek government was not a satisfactory one to us; that it contained many elements that were reactionary; that much of the success of the Russian propaganda was due to the knowledge the people had of corruption and inefficiency.

This Day In Texas

The Texas Legislature on this day in 1866 authorized organization of Kinney and Maverick Counties, which then lay on the Indian-ravaged frontier. Kinney County was named for H. L. Kinney, the founder of Corpus Christi and the adventurous filibuster who was organizing revolutions in Central America before William Walker, Maverick County was named, of course, for Samuel A. Maverick, the San Antonio lawyer who carried nothing but the cattle business, but whose name has been perpetuated in cattle annals.

18. Acheson and Turkey. The British, he said, had agreed to continue their military commitments in Greece for the next three months at a cost of about $8 million a month, but at the end of that time they would have to pull out. Fund Campaigns Are Considered To Be Vital Part Of Democracy

Every so often we hear someone complain about fund-raising campaigns, especially their frequency and the amounts they request from the people, and most of them are logical complaints. "There's always a bunch taking up a collection for something," is a familiar cry. This is a natural complaint for a person to register after he has been "solicited" by several organizations within a short period of time.

place in a Democracy can hardly be disputed, because those that have survived for any period of time have not been able to do so without rendering some type of service desired, or demanded, by the people. If such services should be disrupted on the present basis, then it is logical to assume that some type of government organization would be established to carry on. Such action, of course, would be in conflict with Democracy.

Guard Against "Bad Spirits"

In the Bay of Bengal, south of the Andaman Islands, are the Nicobar Islands. The Nicobar people differ in several ways from their neighbors to the north. They have year-around villages, and raise fruits and vegetables. They gather coconuts from the trees which grow on their islands. It has been estimated that they pick 15,000,000 coconuts in the course of a year.

fowls will have something to eat besides insects. The men wear belts which are tied at the back. The custom is to use belts which are long, than need be, and a loose end trails down behind. This fact explains wild stories which have been told about "tailed men" on the Nicobar Islands. Some huts on the islands have tall poles outside their doorways. Crossbars are fastened to the poles, sometimes 15 or more on a single pole. Scores of coconuts are fastened to the crossbars, also empty tin cans which have been obtained in the course of foreign trade. The idea of this is to keep bad spirits away from the hut. When the wind blows hard, there is a great racket as the coconuts and tin cans strike together.

Filmy Linen Place Mats Can Be Made For China

By ELIZABETH HILLYER
Inexpensive, easy-to-care-for place mats are usually styled for casual dishes—they're pretty with the pottery but wrong with anything else. And china hides away on the top shelf because dainty mats are so often expensive and a laundering chore. There's a place in most homes for place mats like these—they're sheer and real linen that's easily washed, and you can make them yourself for very small sums indeed. Ask in the drapery fabric department for the material gauge, or linen scrim. This new-again filmy linen comes in fascinating colors that are easy to match to decorating schemes because the fabric is made for window treatments. In dark shades as well as medium and light. Sometimes two colors combine, one as warp and one as wool, in a changeable effect. Cut the mats to allow two-inch hems. Bastie the hems, pull threads for wide hemstitching and hemstitch by hand. The mats take and hold shape after starching, which gives the thin fabric firmness and a finish that stays remarkably fresh.

Burglary Charges Due Against Man

Charges of attempted burglary will probably be filed against a man caught trying to break into a northside residence last night, police said.

Officers arrested the man as he was trying to enter the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Arnold, 204NW 2nd street, about 11 p.m. He is to be turned over to county officers, police said.

C-City "B" Team Scores Victory

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 5.—Colorado City's "B" string wrapped up another win Thursday over Blackwell, with an easy victory over Blackwell, 26-6.

The Little Wolves scored 20 points the first half and then sat back and coasted. TDs were made on short runs by Hollis Gainey Bud Witham and Dennis Greenfield.

Extra points were added by Bobbie Richardson and Greenfield. After the half, the visitors opened up with a passing attack that was good for considerable yardage, but never did manage a touchdown with it.

The fourth was still young when the B squad for Colorado City put together a bit of backfield magic including a handoff and a pitchout and left Windham free on his 34-yard line. He went all the way.

On the kickoff, Ray Johnson did a fake handoff on his 14-yard line and outfooted the C-City squad to the other end of the field.

Fluvanna Grigger Injured In Game

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 5.—Roy Lee Beaver, 13, of Fluvanna is in the Root hospital in Colorado City with a broken pelvis, the result of a football injury, suffered last Friday night when Fluvanna played Hermleigh.

Roy Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Beaver, Fluvanna stock farmers. "It wasn't enough that I got hurt," Roy Lee mourned, "but they beat me 100-26-0."

The Fluvanna youth had known he was injured but hadn't realized that it was serious until his entry in the Root Hospital Wednesday. He says that his is the third major injury suffered by members of the Fluvanna team.

Ex-Baseball Magnate Said "Incompetent"

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5. — A probate judge says Michael J. (Mike) Kelley, one-time minor league baseball magnate, is incompetent to handle his estimated $500,000 estate and that Kelley's new wife is "an unscrupulous divorcee."

Judge James G. Kehoe, who Thursday declared Kelley incompetent, appointed temporary guardians for Kelley and his estate and ordered that steps be taken to have the marriage annulled.

Mrs. Louise McDonald Kelley, 45, who married the 75-year-old Kelley Sept. 11 in a rushed ceremony, said through an attorney she may appeal the ruling to the State Supreme Court.

Judge Kehoe said Kelley "by reason of old age, loss, deterioration and imperfection of mental faculties, and excessive drinking of alcoholic liquor over a period of many years, is mentally incompetent to have the charge and management of his person and estate."

He said Kelley "certainly needs the protection of the courts."

Judge Kehoe said Kelley is "not capable" of caring for his estate and added "not to mention the likelihood that Louise McDonald Kelley will appropriate the same to her own use."

Kelley's latest will, made Sept. 10, the day before his marriage to Mrs. McDonald, was introduced in testimony. In it, Kelly left everything but two $1,000 bequests to his wife.

In a memorandum attached to his order, Judge Kehoe said Kelley's drinking gradually increased after his first wife died last February. The judge said Mrs. McDonald started to associate with Kelley early last spring and soon proposed that Kelley make a will, marry her and adopt her daughter.

Kelley's sister, Margaret, 81, staged the proceedings. A hearing on permanent guardians will be held Oct. 10.

Kelley sold his Minneapolis baseball team in 1947. It is now a New York Giants farm club.

TEXAS BRANDS

By JOHN M. HENDRIX
The Forked Lightning was registered in 1886 in Menard County by Murchison brothers and in 1906 was still being used by A. J. Murchison of Menard, Texas, who has about 1,000 head of cattle on 18,000 acres of land.

This is one of the many consistent brands of the Menard country, a country which has contributed much to the cattle industry.

Illinois Paroles Former Escapee To Texas Ranch

KERRVILLE, Oct. 5. — Allen Baker, rancher who lived a respectable life 14 years after his escape from prison at Chester, Ill., has been paroled by Illinois.

He's headed home today — accompanied by a loyal wife who helped secure the former Seabee's freedom.

Baker, 47, was arrested for a traffic violation in June. During a routine fingerprinting, it was discovered he had escaped from Chester.

He was returned but his wife immediately began working for his release. She obtained hundreds of letters attesting to his character, among them one from Gov. Allen Shivers.

Baker was released from prison Thursday to his wife and will come under the supervision of the Texas Parole System during his three year parole.

Baker was convicted in 1932 as an accessory to the robbery of a Jacksonville, Ill., couple and was sentenced to prison under his real name of Clarence Cahall.

In Oct. 1937, he escaped and came to Texas.

During World War II he served three years with the Seabees in the Pacific. After his discharge, he married Mrs. Baker and took over management of her ranch.

SURVEY OF NATION SHOWS

Hike In Beef Prices Turns Eyes To Pork, Poultry, Fish

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. — The hike in beef prices has turned the eyes of many housewives to pork, poultry and fish.

That was brought out today in an Associated Press survey of major cities across the nation.

The survey also raised — but did not answer — the question of whether the long climb in general prices had left consumers with a lowered resistance.

The survey indicated there was little complaining in the first few days of trade under the new beef ceilings.

Butchers in Washington, D. C., for instance, reported very little grumbling and few comments of any kind from customers. One meat cutter there philosophized: "High prices undoubtedly have had a numbing effect."

One of the biggest chains in New York City noted increased price resistance only in the poorer neighborhoods.

"When people want beef they will pay the price until it gets too high, and then they will sacrifice on other grocery items to buy beef," said an Indianapolis butcher.

Supplies of beef in retail outlets in the 12 large cities that were checked ranged from scarce to ample.

There is plenty of other main-dish food on hand. Decline in the supply of beef coincides with the start of the fall season of plenty in pork.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) new order permitted retailers to change their beef prices Monday. It was an up-and-down adjustment. The changes ranged from a reduction of 20 cents a pound on some choice (high) grades to a hike of as much as 29 cents a pound on some utility (low) grades.

Over-all, it increased beef prices an average of 1 1/2 to two cents a pound at retail.

U. S. Department of Agriculture meat experts say high prices reflect a demand greater than the supply.

The American Meat Institute (AMI), trade organization of packers, says the number of cattle delivered to 12 major livestock markets in the last four months showed a drop of 12 per cent under the number received in the corresponding period of 1950.

It adds that there was a decrease of 29 per cent in the same period in the number of beef animals slaughtered at 95 leading beef-processing plants.

"These plants," said an AMI spokesman, "were unable to buy some more beef animals without running the risk of violating OPS ceiling regulations."

Cattle population on farms has been growing, but the human population has been growing faster.

Most places checked in newspaper surveys in 15 Texas cities reported ample beef.

The Amarillo Globe found beef supplies in its area (Texas Panhandle), were critically short. But trade sources said they didn't sell all they had because high prices had curbed buying. Midland also reported beef critically short.

The Denton Record Chronicle said 85 per cent of the retail outlets there had plenty of beef — but 55 per cent of the customers didn't buy any. They have shifted to pork, lunch meats, fish, chili, chicken and cheese.

Some other Texas points found customers in lower income brackets buying chicken, ham, and cheaper types of beef.

But the Denton Herald reported a butcher saying:
"We sell more T-bone than anything else. They might holler about the price, but they don't refuse to buy."
