

MOORE about... EASTLAND

by Virgil E. Moore

Sure glad to see those bankers get a rest!

What with counting all that money they have on deposit (you noticed that story about the Eastland's National's big climb deposit-wise during the past year, we hope), those boys sure did need the rest they got Monday. Of course the main reason we were glad to see them get the day off is because of David Fry.

David discovered a worm bed that won't stop the other day out in his yard and we think we are kinda looking forward to using a few of them for bait this week.

Eastland High School's mile relay team, composed of Saul Pullman, Bill Norwood, Mike Manning and Billy Don Turner, turned in its best time of the year Saturday in winning regional honors. Closed at 3:38.8, the Mavs weren't pressed at all. In fact, Bill Norwood, who anchored the foursome was all by himself at the finish.

Eastland's regional champion golf team (Mike Reese, David Carothers, John Powell and Juan Jay Smith) reserve their share of the credit, too. Winning regional by 50 strokes isn't anything to be sneezed at. Reese, medalist at Brownwood, voiced the opinion of his fellow players, however, saying, "We're sure going to have to beat that in Austin."

Lost a top coat? One was found in the tax assessor-collector's office and it is being held for its rightful owner.

We're about convinced we are going to have to go to one of these patniss dentists - and have something drastic done to our old wisdom tooth. The only bad thing about it is we can't help but remember the last time we went to the dentist's office. We're telling you friend, those Esquire Magazines they have in the lobby are misleading.

Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins phoned to tell us she was by Whitesboro the other day and dropped by to see the Floyd Casebolts, former publishers of the Telegram. Casey, you know, is recovering from major surgery. Mrs. Perkins said he was able to do some work and had a couch in his office so he could rest occasionally.

That's Casey. It's going to take more than an operation to keep him away from the typewriter.

Guess you have received your share of cards from the politicians. Eastland County is going to have some interesting races this year, to say the least. You can put it down in your book; some of these boys will start the campaigning early and be handing out cards when the polls close. As one of the candidates told us, "I won't quit until they mark up that final number on that blackboard in front of the courthouse."

Joint Meeting To Plan Fishing Rodeo Thursday

Mile Relay Team Winner Of Regional

Eastland High School's track relay team ran a 3:38.8 without any competition Saturday to win the event in the Region II-B meet held in Brownwood.

The Mavs finished eight in total standings, however, with nine points. Bangs won the meet with 17 points, Richland Springs was second with 15 points and Rising Star was third with 14 1-2.

Bill Norwood, Billy Don Turner, Mike Manning and Saul Pullman got the going easy in the mile relay event. The Mav relay team thus won their third big race of the year. Weinert was second in the event and Rising Star was third.

Pullman got all the rest of Eastland's points. The speedster was second in the 220-yard-dash behind David Green of Richland Springs, who set a new Regional mark of 22.1.

Then Saul got fourth place in the 100-yard-dash.

The Mav mile relay is now eligible to compete in the state meet in Austin.

Q-Back Club to Sponsor Sam Houston State Play

The Eastland Quarterback Club announced plans today to sponsor the Sam Houston State College drama department production, "Roadside," which will be presented Saturday, May 3 in the Eastland High School auditorium.

Dolores Tanner of Eastland, director of the College's touring comedy.

Wells Dalton is in charge of ticket sales, and he said that tickets will be available in Eastland Panger and C. Sco. Tickets can be purchased from Quarterback Club members in Eastland and will be available at the High School and a number of downtown business locations. In Ranger tickets can be purchased at Ranger College and in Cisco at Cisco College.

"The late Lynn Riggs, author of Roadside, never achieved full recognition for his most notable work, Green Grow the Lilacs, on which the musical Oklahoma was based. With few exceptions, his plays have not been presented widely, Miss Tanner says.

Riggs' other most notable work are Russett Mantle in 1936 and The Cream in the Well in 1941. His later plays never achieved the flow of vitality and freshness a did his first big success, Green Grow the Lilacs.

Born on a farm near Claremore Okla., Riggs' childhood was spent around country life. After a roving youth, which included singing at a local movie, punching sows on a cattle train, clerking in a bookstore, and performing as a Hollywood extra, he returned to Oklahoma and became a newspaper reporter. Later, he entered the University of Oklahoma, became interested in drama, and began his life as a poet, play writer and scenarist.

Roadside, which Riggs wrote in 1929, was produced on Broadway in 1930 with Ralph Bellamy as Texas, Rutheba Stevens as Harriet, and Frederick Burton as Pap Rader. The play has interesting originality, being molded with ballad material in an unsophisticated form. The unity of the play is casual as the playwright presents what interests him most; the gusty comedy of the courtroom scene, the antics of the zany Ikes, in speech and feeling—like its characters. Like them, it is earthy, and elemental, and an expression of the playwright's creed—that you be of the soil which nourished you, and its virtues are your virtues.

Roadside's humor springs from its character and the typical situations found among healthy, free people living in Oklahoma's Indian territory around 1908. It is revealed through the conflict between the farmer and the cowhand and the settler and the vagabond.

Plans For Mystery Farm Contest Told

Readers of the Telegram will have the chance to prove their knowledge of farms in this area with the publication of a new "Mystery Farm" feature starting next Tuesday.

Aerial photos were taken of 52 farms in the area served by this newspaper and one picture will be published each week, along with an invitation to readers to "guess whose farm." The pictures were taken by the Zekian-Robbins Company of Harlan, Iowa, specialists in this kind of low-altitude farm photography, and this newspaper arranged to have the photos snapped in different parts of the area so that every farmer in Eastland County has an equal chance of having his farm picture published.

Nobody knows whose farms were photographed, not even the photographers. The editor is relying upon the readers for identification, and those recognizing the "mystery farm of the week" should notify this newspaper immediately.

In order to make the contest more fun, the names of those guessing the farm correctly, and the person who first correctly identifies the farm will receive two passes to the Majestic Theatre in Eastland.

The operator of the mystery farm will receive a beautiful mounted enlargement of the original photo, if he will call at the newspaper office. This photo is free with the compliments of this newspaper, sponsors of the contest. Farm operators who recognize

Regular Field Try Is Staked North of Gorman

A regular field try has been staked seven miles northwest of Gorman by J. E. Connally, et al, of Abilene.

It is the No. 1 - B. T. Nolen. Location is 2910 feet from the line of the S. E. Choate Pre-Empt. survey, on a 70 acre lease. Proposed depth is 3150 feet with rotary.

their farms in the newspaper series should come to the office at the first opportunity so that they can make positive identification and get their free picture.

Recognizing aerial photos is tricky business and the photographers further complicated it by taking the shots at random, and a few from the back side of the farms so that the contest will be more interesting and require more skill. The pilot flew about 300 miles back and forth across the trade area while taking the photos with professional aerial photo equipment.

In publishing the series of farm photos, this newspaper is recognizing farming as the big business that it is today... big in investment in land, machinery, livestock and buildings. The pictures are a tribute to agriculture in this community.

Great Tradition of Aggies Proves Isolation at College Station Works

(An Editorial)

Eastland area ex-students of Texas A&M College held their annual Muster at Lake Leon Monday.

The Aggie Muster is just more proof that Texas A&M College is an outstanding college. The saying, "Once an Aggie always an Aggie," is truth indeed.

Eastland County is "run over" with ex-students of the College. They too are living proof of the greatness of the school.

As outsiders, it is often hard for us to see why any red-blooded Texan would isolate himself at College Station when there are co-educational schools all around. The great tradition of the School, however, must prove that such a program has its merits.

Our hats off to the Aggies of Eastland County.

AS IT LOOKS FOR HERE

By OMAR BURLESON
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—On the night of April 10, Ben Wooten, president of the First National Bank of Dallas, made a speech in Abilene. In that speech he inferentially chided the business interest of the country for not doing a better job of selling to cure and prevent a recession. It seems Mr. Wooten is critical of everyone running to Washington looking for Governmental remedies for all the ills which beset us.

There are hundreds of pressure groups in the United States organized for the purpose of gaining favors from Government. Many of them force Government into improper activities. It is the conclusion of some very intelligent Reckless driving is one of the problems of four highways today. In an effort to better this situation, the home demonstration clubs of Eastland County are sponsoring a Driver's Re-Education Course. The program for this course is prepared to refresh our memories on safety rules of driving and bring to mind ways in which we can help to make our highways safer. Everyone is urged to attend this program on April 30 at 1:30 p.m. in the Lutheran Parish Hall, corner 18th and Avenue D in Cis-people that this practice has brought about a condition which has destroyed a lot of individual initiative, which otherwise would contribute to the economic life of the country.

Many clubs and organizations do very much like the Government. When something is needed they figure the best thing to do is appoint a committee to look into the matter. In Government we find instances of a committee or commission appointing another committee or commission, and finally with authority completely diffused, no one knows what anybody else is supposed to do. Of course, the result of such a situation is that nothing is done.

Back to Mr. Wooten's speech—I think he disproved what a farmer once gave as his reason for success. This well-to-do farmer (back in the days when there were well-to-do farmers) said that he attributed his success to staying away from mean horses, hay balers and bankers. But Mr. Wooten recommended in his talk that it is the business of business to do more for itself. His point has been proved lately by one large manufacturer of radio and television sets. Price cuts were made by this company as an experiment. Reports indicate amazing results. The company had such an increase in demand it had to hire more workers to fill its orders.

As long as industry and business look to Washington to cure all the economic ills, there are plenty of those in Washington who are ready and willing to try it.

This time last year economy was the watchword. There is not very much being said about it at this time. The business community of our country is seemingly willing for the pumps to be primed. The primer and the grease for the pump will be bought on credit, but not the usual kind. When an individual buys on the installment plan, he pays in the future for whatever he has purchased at present prices. The pump priming of Government will be paid for in the future at a higher price than that now prevailing, even in these inflationary times. This will come about because the "priming" will result in deficit financing, and deficit financing means more inflation. More inflation means higher prices—it means the Government is mortgaging the future of the taxpayers.

If you're annoyed at tattle-tale gray clothes and a ring in the bathtub, better check the soap you use. Whatever you choose—either soap or syndet (synthetic detergent) should be right for your water supply. In hard water, soap mixes with the minerals in the water to form a scum. It's hard to rinse this out, so your clothes take on a gray look. However, if you have natural soft water or soften both the hot wash water and the rinse water, soap will do as good a cleaning job as a syndet. In hard water, syndets do a better cleaning job than soap. They soften the water so that no scum is formed.

Choose the soap or syndet made for the washing job you plan to do. For heavy-duty wash jobs special ingredients added to soaps and syndets give greater cleaning power. Most packages for heavy-duty wash are marked with all-purpose, "family wash," or "wash everything". Jobs for the light-duty detergents or mild soaps are marked on the package—wash lovely lingerie, protect your hands in dishwasher, for baby things, etc."

For washing satisfaction, check your water carefully, keep special laundry problems in mind and choose the soap or syndet accordingly.

Derby, Crimson Wave, Porcile Auglais, Red Ensign, Spangled Banner and Thomas Tomlinson. The elephantear is easily grown outside. If heavily mulched, it will survive winters in Central Texas. Further south, it needs less winter protection. The large green elephantear leaves make a pleasing contrast with the texture of most shrubs.

AROUND RANGER COLLEGE CAMPUS

By Ranger College Journalism Class

The following students of the Business Department of Ranger College have display material of perfectly typed letters for Friday's typewriting bulletin board:

June Graham, Carolyn Weaver, Wendel Smith, Mary Ann Reese, Joe Anderson, Gay Nell Loper, Mary Hinds, Elizabeth Seymour, Sue Garrett, Mattye Jo Bentley, Wilda Joyce Sides, and Barbara Rodgers.

Recently a poll was made of 21 typewriting students of Ranger College in order to find out the letter styles they prefer and the reason for the choice.

According to the results of the tabulation, it appears that should these young men and women go out into the business world tomorrow to become executives, there would be some-what of a change in letter styles—a trend toward the more modern.

Of the six letter styles—indented, semiblocked, blocked, full-blocked, Noma simplified, and square-blocked—the following information was revealed:

Full block—13; Noma Simplified—4; Blocked—3; Indented—1.

Some of the reasons of these choices may be found from the following notations:

L. B. Hirst, sophomore student from Gorman, says that he likes the full-block letter style because it is easy to use. It is a change from the indented style which has been used for so many years. The full-block style allows the typist more time to think about his spelling and grammar since he does not have to think, "Do I indent this? Do I tab here? Or how must I set this up so it will rhyme with the rest of the letter?" When using the full-block style, everything is blocked at the left margin, thereby eliminating many chances of error.

Joe Anderson, business administration student from Eastland, says, "I like the full-block letter style best because it seems to combine every essential of letter writing, yet it is the simplest and easiest form to use. For the employer who has to pay the typist, it means much time saved in typing when time is very valuable. To the typist it means less work at the typewriter."

Mary Ann Reese, freshman student from Olden, gives the following reasons for preferring the indented style: 1. Everything on the entire page balances. 2. It is a neat and efficient form to use. 3. It does not look as if someone is afraid he will spend too much time writing a letter. 4. From the appearance of the letter a person knows immediately that some extra time was spent in getting his message to him.

Kenneth Jones of Cisco states that he likes the Noma simplified letter because it does not use the salutation or closing, which you do not need. This letter style is also easier to type; therefore it would save time in letter production.

Marvin Crawford, freshman business administration major from Guthrie, says, "I like the Noma style because it is so much easier to type. The salutation and closing usually contain about the same thing on every letter, and a person never bothers to read them. So why not omit them?"

Roger Kelly, freshman student from Crane, prefers the Noma simplified. His main reason for choosing this form lies in the fact that the subject, the most important part of the letter, is given in all capitals. A person may scan the letter at a glance to find out the general contents. The name of the person sending the letter is also typed in all capitals.

Personality Of The Week

The personality chosen for this week is Dick Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Maxwell of Austin. Maxwell is a freshman in Ranger College majoring in business administration.

He is a 1955 graduate of McCallum High School in Austin, where he played football during his senior year. He was chosen King of McCallum High School in 1955.

He played on the 1957 Ranger College football team, serving as one of the quarterbacks. As a letterman he is a member of the "A" Association.

This handsome young man is very popular on the Ranger College campus. He is quiet, reserved, sincere, and serious. He is a tall brunet with deep-set brown eyes and is of neat appearance and candid personality.

He was chosen by the girls of the college this spring for Ladies' Choice, a page in the favorite section of "The Ranger."

banker in the present Eastland National Bank. He's vice president now. But he learned his banking at the old Exchange National Bank. Buford Webb was an employee at the Exchange. He learned all about land and cattle there. Another young fellow working in the Exchange was named Les Crossley. He's managing the city government of Ranger now.

Jess Williams had a boy working there too. Bert went from the Exchange to American Airlines as an accountant. He's still with American he is one of the oldest employees of that company in length of service although he's still a young man.

The old Exchange National Bank was one of the state's most progressive banks. One of the largest crowds I ever saw in a bank was in their lobby one day while they were selling dollar bills for 90c each. A lot of people wouldn't buy though, they thought there was a catch to it. They need not have worried about it, as Pete wouldn't have had anything to do with anything that wasn't on the level.

In those days the Federal Reserve System had a deal where member banks, under certain conditions, could issue their own paper money. It of course, was signed with a signature of the bank president and cashier on each bill. For a long time I had a five-dollar bill that had Pete's signature on it, but some way or other I let it get away from me. For a long time I kept it with my Confederate money as a sort of keepsake. But I don't seem to have it now. I must have spent both Pete's signed money and the Confederate money on my last trip to Canada.

It was one of the old fashioned saddle-blanket type bills. We called them saddle-blankets after the new, or present, size bills came out.

About 1927, or 1928, the government cut down on the size of its paper money. Until then the bills were about half as big as they are now. None of the modern wallets will hold one of the old-sized bills unless it was first folded at least once. Actually, right after the present size bill came out the wallet design changed. Before then most often, instead of folding once, folded twice. When one folded up a wallet and put it in his hip pocket in those days one knew he had a load on his hip and I don't mean a load of beaverage.

Chasing the Fire Trucks-

... is an old American custom, even an international tradition. It all started when the first fire wagons drawn by hand and horse were invented years ago. This foolish pastime has grown with the years until today it is not only a nuisance but a problem of gigantic proportions. Such a practice costs many lives and thousands of dollars in property values every year. Why do we do it? Nobody knows. Its silly, folks, so let's quit it, thereby leaving the streets and alleys open for the boys who fight our fires.

The daring young lady in the flying juice box

She started something — this winsome chauffeurette of 50 years ago! She sometimes scorched down the road at 20 m.p.h. (except against a strong wind or when the batteries needed recharging).

But daredevil that she was, our fair heroine would pale to see her darling daughter as she pilots the family station wagon through 1958 traffic on her daily rounds to school, supermarket and train.

And her housewifely duties don't end there. Today's young mother is also cook, nursemaid, social secretary and purchasing agent. Sometimes she even helps earn the family income — always has a big say in spending it. And whether or not a family has a regular savings program usually depends on her.

That's why so many women are the investigators of a regular investment program in U. S. Savings Bonds. They appreciate the feeling of security that such a program guarantees. They know that U. S. Series E Savings Bonds are one of the best investments a family can make. The principal invested in Bonds is safe. The returns are sure. And now every Series E Bond pays a new, higher interest — 3 1/4% when held to maturity!

If you're one of today's daring young ladies of the flying horsepower, you undoubtedly take an active interest in your family's future financial security. Remember — one of the best ways to do something about it is to encourage your husband to start investing regularly in Savings Bonds today!

The meeting will begin at 9:00 a.m. and close at 3 p.m.

"Expect Great Things from God" is the theme of the meeting. The program will include worship, inspiration, and information that will be of interest to all members of Presbyterian women's organizations, especially as they look forward to the quadrennial National Meeting of Presbyterian Women to take place at Purdue University, June 25 to July 1.

The Rev. J. Douglas Clyde serves on the Staff of the Presbyterian U.S.A. Board of Christian Education which affords guidance to the church's 8,600 congregations in regard to Sunday church school, Westminster Fellowship, leadership training, and other teaching tasks. Before his election to the Staff of the Board, he was for eight years Pastor of Westminster Nebraska. Previous to this, he had served as chaplain in the United States Army, seeing action in the Philippines and Japan during World War II, and had earlier pastorates at Garden City, Kansas, and Downer's Grove, Illinois.

Born of Scottish parents in Manitoba, Canada, Dr. Clyde spent his youth in the Presbyterian manse at Butler, Missouri, and later Leavenworth, Kansas. A graduate of the public schools of Leavenworth, he completed his college work at the College of Emporia, Emporia, Kansas, prior to attending McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, where he received his B. D. degree in 1940. He also was awarded, in 1951, a Doctor of Divinity Degree from Hastings College, Hastings, Nebraska.

During his years in the pastorate, Dr. Clyde served as president of the Nebraska Westminster Foundation and as chairman of presbytery and synod committee of Christian Education in that synod. In addition to his present office in the Board of Christian Education, he holds inter-board responsibilities as Secretary of Promotion for the Council on Theological Education and as a member of the Promotional Cabinet for the Department of Stewardship and Promotion.
