CONTROL BILLS FLOOD THE CONGRESS

By James J. Downing
Press Staff Correspondent

While the petroleum industry's attitude is that it is getting along all right without further governmental aid, intervention or control, some sixty bills affecting the industry have been introduced in Congress this session, a survey reports the industry has stated its side of the case through spokesmen who contended that it was ready to do more than its share in the national defense effort and that further legislative intervention might hamper rather than help. As for normal business operation, the petroleum industry has long felt that it could work out its own problems if left alone.

But of the present proposed legislation apparently is pointed toward regulation or "policing" of the industry's various phases. Particular regard is being paid to government of marketing, pipeline operation, and tanker opera-

The all-important (as the industry sees it) Cole bill calling for federal supervision of oil and gas production will be reported on before May 15 by a house subcommittee studying it.

A bill was introduced in the Texas house of representatives this week urging adoption of a permanent proration system for the state which its author said would offset in part the demand of Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes and others for federal supervision of the industry.

Gasoline stocks increased 2,401,000 barrels during the week—the greatest increase of the season—the American petroleum institute reported. The rise reflected a drop in demand, since production of gasoline slumped 430,000 barrels during the same period.

The bureau of mines reported that domestic gasoline demand in December was six per cent above December, 1939.

The magazine World Petroleum said that world crude oil output totaled 172,790,414 barrels during the month, an increase of nearly 2,775,000 barrels over November. Venezuela, Rumania, and Mexico showed slight increases in the bulk of the hike came in the United States.

H. C. Wiess, president of Humble Oil & Refining company, told Houston stockholders in their annual meeting at Houston that if the expected record year for industrial production materializes, demand for oil products in 1941 should reach new highs. He said it would not be necessary to increase production to meet the higher demand, however, since 1940 production had outstripped demand in many fields.

A revolutionary new method for improving gasoline quality by cracking petroleum was announced by Standard Oil company of New Jersey officials. It was disclosed that construction already has begun on three large plants with a refining capacity of about 6,000 barrels of oil daily to carry on the catalytic process.

Legislators Get a Special Treat When Mixed Choir Sings

AUSTIN, Tex.—The legislature had some highly entertaining moments to go along with its serious work of law making. In one week, the legislators had two treats.

Dances from the Alabama and Comanchi Indian reservation, in full costume, presented tribal dances and examples of their life.

The same week, one of the best mixed choirs ever heard in Texas visited the legislators. It was the Glee Club from Prairie View College for Negroes. Their version of "God Bless America" brought the entire senate membership and visitors in the gallery to their feet.

The singers were called back for repeated encores. "Swing Low Chariot" was one of the favorites and the state song, "Texas, Our Texas" was another.

Your Federal Income Tax

Deductions For Contributions
Charitable contributions and gifts made by an individual are deductible within certain limitations. The organization to which the gift is made must meet several tests. The corporation, trust, community chest, fund, or foundation must be created or organized in the United States and in any possession thereof under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory or of any possession of the United States and must be organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. If a substantial part of its activities is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, it fails to meet the tests. No part of the organization's income may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

Contributions made to a missionary fund, church-building fund, or for the benefit of other activities of the church are deductible if the church is created or organized as stated above, Pew tests, assessments, and dues paid to churches are regarded as contributions.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible. Contributions made to the United States, any State, Territory, or political subdivision thereof, such as a city or town, or the District of Columbia or any possession of the United States, for exclusively public purposes are deductible; for example, a gift of real estate to a city to be used perpetually as a public park is deductible. Also allowable are contributions to the special fund for vocational rehabilitation, to posts or organizations of war veterans and their auxiliaries or organizations in the United States or any of its possessions, and to domestic fraternal societies, orders, or associations operating under the lodge system, if used exclusively for religious, scientific, educational, literary, or charitable purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

In general, the deduction is limited in the cases of individuals to 15 percent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions. Corporate contributions are deductible when made to or for the use of a corporation, trust, or community chest, fund, or foundation, created or organized in the United States or in any possession thereof or under the law of the United States, or of any State or Territory, or of the District of Columbia, or of any possession of the United States, which meets the same tests as those made for recipients of individual contributions, but in the case of contributions or gifts to a trust, chest, fund, or foundation, only if the contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States or any of its possessions. Deduction of corporate contributions is limited to 5 percent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions.

SCOUTING IN COUNTY GETS NEW PROGRAM

John Kindle of Ranger was named district chairman of the Eastland County District of the Comanche Trail Council of Boy Scouts at a meeting held in Eastland Tuesday night, with Donald Kinnaird of Eastland and J. D. Lauderdale of Cisco named as vice chairmen.

The Eastland County District will be one of six in the Comanche Trail Council, and will have an executive board composed of Grady Pipkin of Eastland, chairman; E. P. Crawford, Cisco; A. N. Larson, Ranger and John Kindle, Ranger, as members. Each town has a representative both on the district committee and the executive board, with Kindle, as chairman of the district committee, serving also on the executive board.

It was announced at the meeting that an assistant scout executive would be named within the next few weeks to serve Stephens, Erath and Eastland counties, and that he would be located in Eastland county, probably at Eastland, as that was near the center of his three-county district. This will relieve Guy Quirl of Brownwood, scout executive of the Comanche trail, of some of his duties, and will keep a closer contact with scouting activities in this part of the council. The move is expected to increase interest and activities of the local scouts and will prove of much benefit to the scout movement.

Eastland county now has eight active troops, two at Eastland, two in Cisco and one each in Ranger, Olden, Carbon and Gorman. Rising Star also has an active troop, but it is in the Brown county district.

It is expected that at least one more troop will be formed at Ranger, and that Cub Packs, for youngsters from 9 to 12 years of age, will be formed at both Ranger and Eastland, with the possibility one would be formed at Cisco later. Cubs who complete their work become full-fledged scouts by the time they are 12 years old and eligible for Scout work. Quirl pointed out today, and do not have to enter the Scout troop as a tenderfoot, as this work is done while they are still Cubs.

Ranger, with a total collection of $711 for scouting on the first day of the three drives in Eastland county, topped both Eastland and Cisco in the amount of money raised the first day, it was reported at the meeting in Eastland, although both Eastland and Cisco were but a few dollars behind Ranger total and had raised more than that amount before their drives were completed.

Ribbons for Ranger Stock Show Arrive

Pleas E. Moore, secretary of the Ranger Livestock Show, which will be staged March 6, stated today that ribbons for the show had been received.

A total of 250 ribbons for first, second and third places arrived today, along with four ribbons for grand champions in the four divisions in which special ribbons were offered.

A large number of cash prizes will also be awarded to winners in the various divisions of the show.

Largest Cypress Tree Lives 3,500 Years

ORLANDO, Fla.—The world's largest cypress tree, called "The Senator" or "The Big Tree," grows between Orlando and Sanford.

Estimated from water marks on its trunk to be 3,500 years old, it stands 125 feet high. It once was taller, but the top was destroyed by lightning. It is 17 feet in diameter at the base and the first limb is 75 feet from the ground.

Dispairing of Taxes Legislators Take To "Freezing" State Funds To Provide for Their Pet Plans

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex.—Evidently despairing of new taxes, legislators are adopting a practice of "freezing" present state income to provide for projects they favor.

Approximately $2,500,000 a year of the first money that comes into the state general revenue fund already is frozen until 1943 to finish paying off the $20,000,000 "bread bonds" issued by the state before federal relief was organized.

Another $10,000,000 a year will be frozen for about 10 years if the state continues its policy of appropriating a cent-a-gallon of the gasoline tax to pay off county and district road bond issues.

Latest fund-freezing plan is a part of the bill to finance state participation in retirement of school teachers. This bill freezes $3,500,000 a year of the general fund revenue.

When the teachers' bill reaches the floor of the house, advocates of paying increased old age pensions will try to amend it by freezing at least as much more for old age assistance.

Old age advocates say they will dare the proponents of the teacher retirement fund to go back to their constituents and say they voted to retire teachers and they voted to do so to pay old folks.

Belief that there will be no new taxes of consequence is growing as the session progresses.

Usual prophecy is that the house will pass a bill increasing natural resource taxes and that it will be killed outright or let die for inaction in the senate.

There is even a possibility that the state income may be reduced. The plan to abolish state ad valorem taxes again is being advocated. The tax burden will be lightened $10,000,000 a year, legislators estimate, by the new unemployment compensation act.

This extra $10,000,000, however, was of no use to the state government. It went to Washington to pile up the fund from which unemployment compensation is paid.

Constitutionally, one legislature cannot appropriate funds beyond a two-year period. But by having the bills declare a policy, a moral obligation is set up which future legislatures are hesitant to disregard.

Persons who think the ad valorem tax is the bulwark of our state financial set-up should consult the latest report of State Auditor Tom C. King.

For the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1940, King reported that only $22,275,577 of the state's $187,948,315 operating revenue came from property taxes. That total represented a 48.8 per cent increase in property tax collections over the previous year.

City, county, school district and other ad valorem taxes, of course, are much greater than that for state purposes, which is limited by the constitution to 75 cents per $100 valuation. Because of assessments far below actual value of the property, the state ad valorem tax income is much less than it might be.

Motor fuel, despite heavy refunds for farm vehicles and other engines that do not use the high-taxes regularly, furnished $45,947,768 of the state's operating revenue for the last fiscal year. Former Rep. W. J. Galbreath of Wharton arose almost daily to

CONNALLY IS SPEAKER FOR BRITISH AID

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Senator Tom Connally of Texas told the Senate today "the democracies must all hang together or they shall all hang separately."

Arguing for passage of the British Aid Bill, the Texas Senator said the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo axis is "an armed threat to the security of the United States and to the rest of the democratic world."

Opponents of the measure have been guilty of "specious and mischievous charges" in asserting the measure "makes the president a dictator over our lives, liberty and property of the people of the United States" Connally said as the senate began its third day of debate on the historic measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Senate opponents of the British Aid Bill today charged Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones had revealed the Administration's "true plan" by telling a house committee the United States was already in the war, or "nearly in it."

$2 Payment On Scholastics Being Paid In County

Another allotment on the state scholastic apportionment has been received by the county school superintendent and is this week being distributed to the several common schools of the county.

- Total allotment, $3,328.

Defense Contract Will Employ 200 Workers At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex.—National defense contracts received by the Conro Manufacturing Company for the manufacture of United States Army clothing will give employment to 200 workers and keep the plant running at capacity until July, J. R. Cassidy, president and treasurer of the company, said.

The company received three government contracts for the manufacture of more than a million garments for the army at a total of $739,500.

Cassidy said the company was installing 100 new machines to speed production and was hiring every available experienced operator between the ages of 20 and 40.

The contracts called for 400,000 coats, 150,000 pairs of trousers and 500,000 pairs of khaki trousers.

O'Daniel Measure Delayed In House

AUSTIN, Feb. 19.—The Texas House of Representatives refused to order a committee report this week on Gov. Lee O'Daniel's bill for $25,820,000 a year added to the appropriation from the general fund.

BRITISH RE-ENFORCING FAR EASTERN POSITION WITH AUSTRALIAN MEN

First Parachutists for Marine Corps

Five parachutes bearing U. S. Marine Corps' first parachute troops drift from a big twin-engine plane over the Lakshurst, N. J., naval air base.

Great Britain prepared today for a possible showdown with Japan in the Far East.

Great forces of hardened Australian troops moved up to defend the positions in and around Singapore and new squadrons of Royal Air Force planes arrived to protect the keystone of the British Empire's position in the Far East.

At Hong Kong a British military spokesman declared that all possible preparations were being made to defend the city to the last, despite Japanese disavowals of aggressive intentions in the Far East.

In London an offer by Foreign Minister Matsuo to mediate between Britain and Germany was revealed with a clear indication it will be politely refused by the British. It is understood to have been turned down at Berlin previously.

British skepticism of the Japanese offer was echoed in Washington, where Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles said the United States is more interested in "needs of other nations than in statements some spokesman may make."

A Japanese spokesman had indicated the plain displeasure of the strong British military measures being undertaken to strengthen the Empire's position in the Far East.

At the same time British air reinforcements, including United States planes, arrived in Singapore in such quantity that the British evidently believe that the scales of air supremacy in the region are tipping in their favor.

Bands aboard the convoy ships played "Roll Out the Barrel" as the Australian ships docked and the men were disembarked. They marched through the streets of Singapore to railway stations, where they were immediately dispatched to pre-determined positions to be guarded.

Ft. Worth Party To Be Here On Friday, Feb. 21

FORT WORTH, Feb. 18.—Fort Worth business men will turn cowboys on February 21 when they ride out in chartered buses to spread a blanket invitation to visit the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, March 7-16.

The Sales Managers Club will sponsor this, the fourth of six such goodwill trips for the Fat Stock Show. The jaunts are being conducted under the auspices of the Roundup Committee of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

Howard Colling, general chairman, announced that tentative plans call for a luncheon session with Brownwood business men at noon and a similar stop for dinner in Mineral Wells.

The show envoys will arrive in Eastland at 3:30 p. m. from Cisco and will spend 20 minutes in the city. The next stop will be at Ranger at 4:05 p. m.

Music and entertainment will be provided by Tommy Thompson's fiddle band. The fun will be interspersed with important announcements about points of interest at the stock show and world-famed rodeo. Reports trickling in to "Cowtown" indicate that residents of the section are dusting off their welcome mats for the visit.

The tour will be directed by Charles G. Cotten, manager of the trade extension department of the chamber of commerce, and E. H. Leindecker, president of the Sales Managers Club.

The trippers will visit the following cities: Granbury, Stephenville, Dublin, De Leon, Comanche, Brownwood, Rising Star, Cisco, Eastland, Ranger, Strawn, Palo Pinto, Mineral Wells and Weatherford.

House Passes New Truck Load Measure

AUSTIN, Feb. 19.—The Texas House of Representatives finally passed and sent to the senate, a bill to have truck load regulation on a scientific formula, permitting a maximum gross weight load of 35,000 pounds.

Opponents of the measure objected when the house ordered debate cut as the bill came up for debate. A motion also prevented further attempts to amend the measure.

Funeral For Mrs. Mattie Neal At 10 A. M. Thursday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie P. Neal, 80, who died at 7:30 this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Williams, Eastland, will be conducted at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning from the Eastland First Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. Jones W. Weathers. The body will be shipped to her old home at Kosciusko, Miss., for burial.

Mrs. Neal, a very kindly woman loved and respected by all who knew her, realized that she was nearing the end of her long life, and 24 hours before she died she called the members of her family to her bedside and told them all goodbye. She had shortly before plans call for a luncheon session with Brownwood business men at noon and a similar stop for dinner in Mineral Wells.

Mrs. Neal was born Mattie Princilla Sullivan on June 29, 1861, at Kosciusko, Miss. At the age of 14 she professed religion and joined the Methodist church, later uniting with the Baptist church. On Jan. 15, 1880 she was married to John Vandingham, who died August 4, 1918. To this union 6 children were born, two dying in infancy. Others are: Alvin Vandingham, Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. Eula Bailey, Delrey, California; Mrs. Ollie Williams, Eastland; Mrs. Carrie Montgomery, Memphis, Tenn. An only surviving brother, J. H. Sullivan, resides at Kosciusko, Miss.

In 1930 Mrs. Neal married Mr. Neal in Eastland. He died in 1935.

Nine grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren survive her.

Professor of 60 Is A Hurdle Racer

BELOIT, Wis.—Running hurdles is considered a young man's sport by virtually everyone but Dr. Lucius Chapin Porter, 60-year-old professor of comparative religion at Beloit College.

Dr. Porter, grandson of Beloit's first president, is on leave from Yenching University, Peking, China, where he has taught and coached track for many years. At Yenching he ran a series of exhibition races, clipping off the 100 meter high hurdles in 21.5 seconds and the 220 yard low hurdles in 36.2 seconds.

Porter was a track star at Beloit before his graduation in 1901. He still runs for exercise three or four mornings a week.

We Dare Not Refuse Leadership

There is something about the American people that makes them reluctant to assume responsibility and leadership in proportion to their world position.

It is natural. Our forefathers came to this hemisphere, most of them, deliberately to get away from the old ambitions, and old imperialisms which were gradually making Europe unfit to live in. We had a continent of our own to develop and exploit. We had no need of overseas dominion, and every time circumstances have forced us into exercising it, we have shrunk back and done it either unwillingly or badly, or both. Even so short a time ago as 1920, the military phases of the World War being over, we shrank from any active part in creating a better world order. Our nature and our position have combined to make those attitudes possible, perhaps desirable.

But now we find world leadership thrusting itself upon us in many fields. In spite of ourselves, our strength makes us a great world power. Changing circumstances have shown clearly that we are not unaffected, and cannot remain unmoved by what goes on in the rest of the world. For our own safety, we must have our power.

Financially, unless some totally new concept of money and exchange becomes dominant in the world, we are now in a position of vast influence. We have 80 per cent of the gold in the world. The gold exchange system of the world as we have known it, or any exchange and monetary system based on gold, can never function without our leadership. Operating with the Stabilization Fund, the treasury has already taken steps to steady and co-ordinate with our own certain South American currencies. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce, scarcely internationalist in ordinary times, has urged strongly that this be a mere beginning—that international trade can never be resumed on any normal footing unless the United States moves now to get a monetary basis laid on which it can function.

The fact that we are engaged in a mighty effort to provide the sinews of war for Britain does not lessen, but rather increases the obligation to try to prepare the way for the world of peace that must come some day.

One way to do this is to take the lead in setting up a workable system of international money and exchange, so that peoples which wish to trade peacefully with one another will be able to do so.

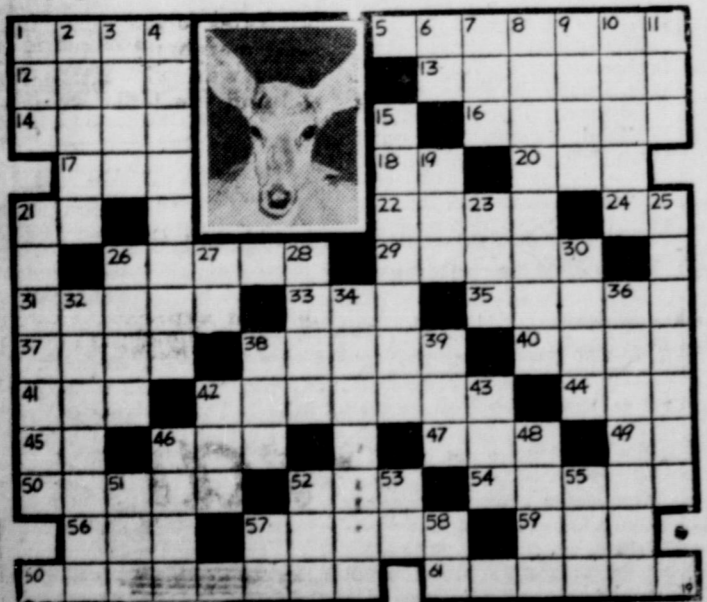

And now is the time to do it.

No matter how much love is made, there always seems to be a shortage.

When you keep running around, it's hard for a thought to strike you.

NYA Cagers Win Game From Mingus

The Boys' NYA basketball team took a close game from a scrapping Mingus High School team by a score of 30-21 Tuesday night. The game was played in the Mingus High School gym following a game between the Mingus and Strawn High School girls teams.

Although outclassed, the high school team put up a nice game, and intercepted quite a few of the NYA passes. Very few fouls were called on either team, NYA collecting three.

Zinanni of Mingus and Boldt of NYA were high for their respective teams, each collecting 8 points. Tate was second for NYA, hitting the basket three times for 6 points.

The NYA will probably play another game this week before going to Fort Worth next week to meet Waco, champions of Area 9, and Ranger, champions of Area 8, will play for the bi-area championship, the winner to participate in the state play-off, to be held at Inks Dam, on Feb. 28.

Do you have to "TUCK YOUR CAR IN" at night?

Not if it's One of these Four New Additions to the BUICK SPECIAL Line that Compact Automobile Bigness into Fewer Bumper-to-Bumper Inches

HERE of late the modern automobile has been giving a pretty good imitation of a man getting up in the morning.

It has stretched and s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-d—until today you almost have to have a shoehorn to get a car of any size tucked away in the family garage.

We thought something ought to be done about that.

So today in Buick dealers' showrooms you'll see four new models, additions to the 1941 Buick SPECIAL line.

They are typical Buicks on every count—steady, tireless travelers with a big 115-hp. Buick FIREBALL straight-eight under their bonnets.

But by the simple step of compacting all this ability, goodness and value on a 118-inch wheelbase, we've trimmed inches off the over-all length—and dollars off the cost.

We're passing those dollar savings on to you, which makes three reasons for going to see these honeys now: You'll go for their ability—your wife will go for trim size and easy handling—and both will stand up and cheer for the easily-reachable price.

SPRING SCENE

March would be a dismal month indeed if man had no imagination. Fortunately, hope springs eternal, and each returning Spring sees new ideas, new aspirations brought once more to life.

"We'll do that in the Spring," is a familiar expression. Plans shelved during the Winter are dusted off. Now, the family talks about replacing the old car... buying new clothes... a new radio... dahlia bulbs... paint for the garage. A thousand things are needed... a thousand tasks must be done.

Here in the advertising pages of this newspaper is real Spring news. Articles you need, carefully selected and arranged, are paraded before your critical eyes. Read the advertisements thoughtfully... and so choose wisely. For advertisements, the maker's guide to good values, will be your guide to a happier, more cheerful Spring.

Camera Woman Is Out After Ducks

NEW ORLEANS.—Miss Lorene Squire of Harper, Kas., shoots more ducks than anyone else, perhaps—but she uses a camera instead of a gun.

Miss Squire went into the Delta migratory waterfowl refuge around the mouth of the Mississippi river to spend several weeks making "action shots" of wild ducks before they start back North to their summer homes.

The expedition was just another leg in the journeys of thousands of miles Miss Squire has made in recent years to photograph ducks. Ten years ago, she explained, she realized that her home state offered few waterfowl subjects for her camera because of drought conditions there. So she began in the Canadian wilds, where she found plenty of subjects during the summer. She went through Saskatchewan, to the Mackenzie Delta on the Arctic coast, the Athabaska Delta, and on to Hudson's Bay, Baffinland, Greenland, and Ellsmere Island.

Miss Squire first gained wide recognition when her wildfowl pictures were exhibited in St. Louis in 1937. Since then the demand for them has grown.

But it's hard work, the camera artist said. She recalled the difficulties she has approaching close enough to obtain clear pictures of the fast-flying, suspicious birds, and told how she frequently waits for hours in duck blinds to get the picture she wants.

"Then, about one in each 50 pictures will be worth printing when I get back home," Miss Squire said.

At Last Your Cough

Whooping cough may develop if you do not get your cough treated and you cannot get relief with any medicine. Creomulsion is the only medicine that loosens and expels germs from your lungs and aids nature to heal raw, tender, inflamed mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends balm of Gilead, cod liver oil, and other natural ingredients. It is a special process with other medicines for coughs, colds, and whooping cough. How many medicines have you tried? Tell your druggist to get you a bottle of Creomulsion with your next prescription. You must take the medicine regularly and sleep, or you are to get your money back. (Adv.)

The Legion Play, "Swing Out" Was A Big Success

The Legion play, "Swing-Out", came up to expectation last evening. The cast, which consisted of the best talent in Eastland, was good. It is difficult to say which one gave the best performance. Earl Francis, who can always be counted on, did not let us down. He did a splendid interpretation of the Phony Frenchman, who "made a hit" with the women with hand-kissing and flattery. Marvin James, as "The Perfect Butler," the stiff, dignified, "unruffled" precise type. As the English Butler he gave a finished performance. Harry Sone threw in quite a few sarcastic remarks, and did a "swell" job in the role of the stubborn husband who always gives in to his family on a little high pressure from them. Mrs. Jack Hall, interpreted the role of the wife who did everything imaginable to climb into social circles. She did an excellent "job" with the hysterics, and is to be complimented on her splendid all around performance. She can really "put on the airs."

Leads Off for Foes of Lease-Lend Bill

A tough man in debate is strong-voiced Senator Bennett Champ Clark, and so Senate critics of the lease-lend bill to aid Britain chose the Missourian to make the first speech in their barrage against the bill.

Clark looked at her. Cecil's characterization of the "scatterbrain" was perfect.

Mrs. Earl Francis, as the designing widow was at her "liveliest best." We are looking forward to her second performance.

"Fashion Feeds The Foolish" Is Coming Very Soon

For more than a week, the Presto Players have been working on their current production which will be presented at the Connelley Theatre the evenings of March 4th and 5th.

The play is called "Fashion Feeds the Foolish," or "Life in New York." It was written a hundred years ago by Ann Cora Mowatt, the first American woman playwright, and has been performed with great success for a century. The Presto Players will follow the period in which it was written in costume, style of acting, and design of the set.

Very soon now, you may see the Players' advance publicity picture. It is a group of eleven, and though the characters are not in complete costume, they all manage an illusion by wearing odd hats.

The picture had to be taken during the noon hour and in a hurry: Cranford Lundy had to be at the high school at 12:45; Bob Galloway's lunch hour was over at 12:30, and Dean Turner was due back at work at 12:45.

In spite of this rush, the picture was taken and will be exhibited soon. Watch for it.

Draft Board Rejects A Former Convict

LONGVIEW, Tex.—The negro had selective service questionnaire in his hand and asked Asst. Dist. Atty. Ralph Prince to hold him in filling it out.

After some preliminaries he asked the negro if he had worked last year.

"Yassuh," came the reply. "Make any money?" Prince queried.

"Nawsuh," the cooled man answered. "I was in de pen."

The draft board rejected him.

Answer Was Wrong So He Didn't Pass

WHEELER, Texas—The drivers license division of the department of public safety, in interviewing a negro applicant, asked him what to do in case a signal light catches a pedestrian in the middle of the street.

"Honk at him and motion him back to the curb," he answered.

He made a perfect grade—of zero—and was denied a license.

TELEPHONE FOREMEN are never Hired! ...they come up from the ranks

In the telephone business, the people at the top all started at the bottom. The managers, chief operators... even the presidents... began as clerks, groundmen or operators.

"Promotion from the ranks," means that your service is supervised by men and women whose "know how" is backed by long experience.

And that is one reason America's telephone system marches steadily forward... furnishing fast, dependable, low-cost service to the nation.

Movement To Aid Crippled Women Goes Ever Forward

A committee from the Eastland Junior Chamber of Commerce is busy placing gum vending machines from which they receive a commission on sales which they in turn donate to support the Wheel-Chair women's movement being sponsored by Mrs. Art Johnson of Eastland.

The Eastland Jaycees' furnished the cash necessary to get the contract for the machines. First commissions on sales for these machines goes to the Jaycees to repay the money advanced. After that the commission goes to the movement for the support of Wheel-Chair women.

The contract on the machines covers Eastland county and it is understood that the Junior Chamber of Commerce organizations throughout the county are assisting in this work.

This morning 54 machines had been placed in Eastland. Other towns in the County will be worked soon, it was stated.

Building bring sales volume to every line of business...

Did you think that the only ones who profit financially from building a new home were the builders? They do profit considerably, but so do the work men, and the lumber supply companies and their employees—in fact, everyone, who has any direct contact with the building, profits. They all have more money to spend for their needs.

Of course, the home furnishers and landscape gardeners and decorators make direct sales to the family who owns the new home. But the businesses that profit the most are those who sell merchandise or services to the workmen, the architect, the furniture store delivery man, and all the others who take part in helping to build and furnish a new home. In turn the butcher, the baker, the grocer, and the laundryman are able to buy new clothes from the man who lives in the new home.

That is business.

You can prepare to get your fair share of all this business by planning an intelligent and thorough advertising campaign. Advertise in the Eastland Telegram.

SERIAL STORY

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

BY RUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, April plays her part up to the hilt's close. But she rushes homeward, trying to escape a storm in the air and the storm of emotions. The hail begins as they reach Kent's home. April knows if she meets Kent's aunt she will be revealed as an impostor.

ESCAPE FROM AN AUNT

CHAPTER X

STEP by step, Aunt Elizabeth Carter descended the stairs. And with every step, it was to April Burnett like the ax falling, the loop tightening. "Still afraid of Aunt Elizabeth, aren't you?" Kent was whispering close to her ear. "She's really a darling when you know her."

April's head went up, a silly phrase darted through her mind. "Your sin will always find you out."

All right, she'd take it. She'd face the music. She'd even be flip and pretend she had taken an impudent delight in the masquerade.

Aunt Elizabeth was at the bend in the stairs, coming closer at every second. April had never seen her before and now, even in the midst of her own torment, she could find herself studying the old lady with a certain detachment.

What had Kent said? "Still afraid of Aunt Elizabeth, aren't you?" That meant that Ann had been timid in the presence of the old lady. Well, she wouldn't be. She found herself saying clearly, "How do you do?"

Miss Carter came closer, peered up at her with eyes as round and black as currant berries. "I've wanted you and Ann to meet for a long time, Aunt Elizabeth. This is Ann Burnett."

"Ann Burnett?" The old woman reached out a wrinkled, ivory hand. "Ann, eh?"

SHE looked closely at April, but there wasn't a flicker of recognition. April grasped the hand, gripping it so she wouldn't do anything foolish like fainting in a heap on the floor. So this was it! Ann and old Miss Carter had never met.

It was obvious from Kent's introduction, from the way the great aunt was studying her. If you could drop dead from sheer relief, April Burnett knew she would have come to the end of her life then and there.

In the blessed last-minute reprieve, she found the frozen mask of her face lifting in a smile. "It's very nice to know you," she began, trying to speak as Ann would. Nip gave one last shake to his back and barked.

Kent covered the awkward pause by saying, "Let's all go to the library. It's the only warm place in this ark of a house. We're freezing, Aunt Elizabeth. Maybe Jasper could bring us some coffee."

"Jasper," Miss Carter said, "has gone to meeting for an hour." With this, she led the way down the hall to the library.

It was a big room, book-lined, with an open grate fire which burned in an orange and ruby glow. Aunt Elizabeth took the straight-backed seat at the desk, leaving April and Kent to sit together on the leather lounge.

A little alarmed by the aunt's bright and searching eyes, even though the danger of being discovered as an impostor was over, April launched at once into nervous chatter.

"We had a lovely day, Miss Carter. We drove miles out in the country for a steak fry."

"A steak fry?" The tiny martinet of an aunt lifted her brows as if April were talking of a cannibal roast. "What a peculiar custom."

"Not at all, Aunt Elizabeth," Kent cut in loyally. "It's fun. Besides, Ann loves roughing it outdoors."

Aunt Elizabeth surveyed the Ann who was April. "I shouldn't think so to look at her," she said. "She doesn't seem what is called, nowadays, the type."

And now the black, bright eyes were taking in April's yellow hair and doll-lashed eyes and the blistered white hands.

April saw the look of chagrin on Kent's face and she spoke quickly. "But I am the type," she trilled and even to herself it was exactly what she knew Ann would have said. "There's nothing like the sight of hills, fresh air and sunshine to make you feel fit."

"And hallstones, too, I presume."

Outside, the sleet struck the windows but not so violently and the wind had changed its tune to one of melancholy instead of a battle cry.

April stood up. "I must start for home," she said suddenly. "Mother and Dad will be worried about me."

"Oh, not yet," Aunt Elizabeth said, and now her eyes were brighter than ever. "I understand that you sing? It would be kind of you to let me hear a song or two before you leave."

Kent turned to April. "Yes, Ann, sing for me."

But April pushed by him, pushed by the door to the parlor where Aunt Elizabeth was already opening the keyboard of the piano, and ran to the hall. Nip, keeping guard by her coat, sprang to his feet.

"I'm going home, I tell you," April sobbed. "I can't sing tonight. I never could sing. I hate singing."

With that, she opened the door and slipped through.

and stood up. He put out his hand for a minute against the leather lounge and then walked straight ahead, through the door, back into the dim recesses of an adjoining room which held the wine cabinet.

Miss Carter said nothing but the look she turned on April was more expressive than any words. It was a challenge, in fact, to signify that no matter whether the future for Kent held lightness or darkness, he was never to be pitied.

AWAY back in her mind, April was remembering small bits she had heard about Elizabeth Carter through the years. Aunt Elizabeth was a recluse, a proud, arrogant person who stayed on the hill, shut in by her gingerbread house and the walls of the formal garden.

Hadn't there been a love affair years ago, a tale of a scoundrel who'd courted her and then abandoned with moody of her fortune? At any rate, Aunt Elizabeth lived remote from Pattonville, her only contact with the outside world through Kent, the orphaned nephew she had brought up from childhood.

Now Kent was back, balancing the tray with the tiny crystal goblets in the mock manner of a waiter.

The elderberry wine at first sip was warming, tangy. The fire glowed. A drowsiness came over April and she shut her eyes briefly as she heard Kent telling his aunt more about the day's excursion.

Outside, the sleet still struck the windows but not so violently and the wind had changed its tune to one of melancholy instead of a battle cry.

April stood up. "I must start for home," she said suddenly. "Mother and Dad will be worried about me."

"Oh, not yet," Aunt Elizabeth said, and now her eyes were brighter than ever. "I understand that you sing? It would be kind of you to let me hear a song or two before you leave."

Kent turned to April. "Yes, Ann, sing for me."

But April pushed by him, pushed by the door to the parlor where Aunt Elizabeth was already opening the keyboard of the piano, and ran to the hall. Nip, keeping guard by her coat, sprang to his feet.

"I'm going home, I tell you," April sobbed. "I can't sing tonight. I never could sing. I hate singing."

With that, she opened the door and slipped through.

Guard Wire May Give Its Name To 47th Legislature

By United Press AUSTIN, Tex.—The 47th Legislature, now in session, might aptly be called the "guard wire" legislature of Texas. Congressmen send out packets of seeds. Legislators distribute guard wire. The congressmen can send the seeds to individuals, but the Texas legislators can give the guard wire only to towns, cities, school districts or similar political subdivisions.

The donations are made principally to fence school athletic fields. Vernon, Iowa Park, Burk Burnett, Seymour, Munday, Rock Springs, Throckmorton, Weatherford, and Forney are some of the recipients. The wire is heavy steel mesh, about a yard wide. It formerly was used by the State Highway Department to prevent vehicles from running off embankments or approaches to bridges and culverts. As the speed and weight of vehicles has increased, the mesh wire has been supplanted in many places by heavy guard rails. In other places embankments have been smoothed so that a guard no longer is required. The maintenance division of the State Highway Department has literally miles of this used mesh wire stored in its warehouses and yards. The department has no further use for it but cannot dispose of the wire without authority of the legislature. Legislative authority is given by passing a concurrent resolution in the house and senate. Some people who don't get everything that's coming to them are plain lucky.

Aggies Really Do Shine for Defense Week Ceremonies

By United Press

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—The hardest thing about being an army cadet on parade is keeping your cap straight, and your equipment spic and span.

Cadet Private Johnny Smith of the footsore infantry felt no envy today for his room-mate in the motorized artillery. And they both felt sorry for the boys in the cavalry.

Every time Private Johnny straightened his cap to the correct angle—swish, phyt, a tiny spot of dust settled on his rifle. Johnny strained so hard to keep it cleaned he claimed he could hear the dust hit it.

"Thank the general it isn't a cannon," sighed Private Johnny. "Or maybe a horse."

Freshman Smith and 6,500 other khaki clad cadets were ready for the three-day observation of national defense week by the nation's largest Reserve Officers Training Corps, to be climaxed by a full dress mounted review on Thursday, Feb. 20.

More than 10,000 visitors are expected for the ceremonies. Col. Ike Ashburn, U. S. Army Reserve, executive assistant to A. & M. President T. O. Walton, announced that a coast artillery corps from Fort Crockett, Galveston, would participate.

It's the week the Aggies shine. Units of seven branches of military training offered at A. & M. College will hold individual exhibits on their particular phases of cooperation with the nation's defense program.

Included in the exhibits will be that of the chemical warfare unit, one of the two such R. O. T. C. units in the United States. Other units include the infantry, field artillery, cavalry, coast artillery (anti-aircraft), engineers and signal corps.

Graduates of the A. & M. School of Veterinary Medicine may take commissions as first lieutenants in the veterinary corps, and could be considered an eighth branch of military training.

The army has called the 476 graduating reserve officers for active duty when they leave A. & M. in June. This year's seniors receiving army commissions will bring to more than 5,000 the reserve officers turned out by A. & M. since the World War.

Many are in active service. Ranking highest is Brig. Gen. George F. Moore, now in charge of coastal defense in the Philippines.

Enrollment at A. & M. is limited to young men, and every student is put in uniform on the first day. The students live in dormitories, under the command of their senior officers. There are no social fraternities, and campus rivalry is built on company, battery or troop perfection in drill, athletics and scholastic attainments.

After two years of compulsory basic training, the students are given an option of two years of advance work, with those qualifying receiving commissions in the organized reserves.

They are soldiers every day, and the advanced cadet officers receive $90 a year from the War Department.

Military training has been part of the life at Texas A. & M. since
