Fate Drew 44 People To A Common Death

By ARTHUR EVERETT
 NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—This is drama of a kind Hollywood feeds on.

Forty-four persons are thrown together by chance in a four-engine airliner high above mid-America. Mostly strangers to one another, each is concerned with his or her own affairs. Among them are:

- A man trying to outrace death . . .
- A woman with a strange, gripping premonition . . .
- A mother taking a baby to a father who has never seen him . . .
- A couple whose lives have just become worth a small fortune . . .
- A girl engrossed in her approaching marriage . . .
- An executive whose signature is still fresh on his will . . .
- A physician marking his 72nd—and final—birthday . . .
- A dedicated government authority on a duty mission . . .
- A sales manager who gave up a weekend at home . . .
- A widow serene beneath the weight of 80 years . . .
- Unbeknown to each of them, the 44 are winging together to a common destination—violent death.

The 44 were aboard United Air Lines Flight 629 that exploded and crashed in the early evening of Nov. 1 in Colorado.

The big plane left New York at noon and stopped at Chicago and Denver. People of all walks of life, from cities and small towns, were drawn inexorably into its orbit as it moved across the continent.

In Denver, during a stopover there, John Gilbert (Jack) Graham, a 23-year-old ne'er-do-well, helped his 54-year-old mother Mrs. Daise E. King aboard Flight 629. In her luggage, the FBI said later, he secreted 25 sticks of dynamite tied together to make a bomb and timed to explode when the big plane was in the air.

Turned over to state authorities,

Graham now faces murder charges.

Authorities said he planted the bomb to collect $37,500 flight insurance he had taken out on his mother.

Flight 629 took off from Denver at 6:52 p.m. on its 1,075-mile hop to Portland, Ore. Eleven minutes later, the bomb went off and scattered the plane and its human cargo for two miles over a flat sugar beet field six miles from Longmont in northeast Colorado.

It was the first known case of successful sabotage in the nation's airline history.

What whim of destiny put 43 other persons aboard Flight 629 with the pitiful mother who allegedly was the target of a son's greed?

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. James Dorey of Whitman, Mass. They were making their first flight in order to visit their son George in Portland. They hadn't seen him in nine years.

But there was a cloud over the 56-year-old Mrs. Dorey's happiness. The day before she left on the flight, she told her family: "Of course I'm glad we're going out to visit George but somehow or other I've got a premonition that something's going to happen."

Her 58-year-old husband had a problem too. His heart was so bad that he was resigned to death. He was racing against time to see his son once more before his heart gave out.

Seated near the Doreys was Mrs. Helen Fitzpatrick of Batavia, N.Y., with her 14-month-old son James II in her arms. The boy's father Lt. Col. James Fitzpatrick was an Army officer stationed on Okinawa. He had gone overseas before the child was born and had never seen him.

Since the baby's birth, Mrs. Fitzpatrick had waited with growing impatience for her husband to send for them. Finally, the summons came.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Morgan of Wilmette, Ill., boarded Flight 629 in Chicago. Just before they did so, they took out the maximum insurance allowed an airline passenger—$62,500 each, or a total of $125,000. Morgan, a consulting engineer, was taking his wife West on a business trip.

Beneficiaries of the insurance were the Morgans' two daughters Sharon, 14, and Susan, 12. And so two little girls home in bed in the care of a grandmother became orphans.

One of the passengers who settled down in the dimly lit cabin of Flight 629 that evening was a pretty young girl, Sally Ann Scofield of Denver. She had been an airline stewardess for United for two years. But she was not in uniform this trip. She and another stewardess were on a vacation.

Sally's head was full of dreams, for she was about to be married to a UAL pilot.

Side by side on Flight 629 that night were Dr. R. W. Van Valin and his wife Minnie. They were flying back to their home in Newburg, Ore., after a month's visit with his brother in Philadelphia.

Dr. Van Valin had cause for contentment as the drone of engines set him nodding. It was his 72nd birthday, another of those sentimental milestones that mark men's lives. It also was his last.

Gerald G. Lipke, a Pittsburgh sales executive, was a man of considerable foresight. On Oct. 31, he went to his bank and made out his will. He was motivated, apparently, by the fact that he and his wife were flying to Portland to visit Mrs. Lipke's sister. But he was cheerful, with no premonition that the will would be executed within the foreseeable future.

Next day the Lipkes boarded Flight 629. And three little boys—7 to 11—were bequeathed an estate, and the memory of a foresighted father.

Big Bend Park Dedication Is Slated Monday

ALPINE, Nov. 19 (AP)—Big Bend National Park, a 700,000-acre wonderland of "ghost" mountains gouged by the Rio Grande, will be dedicated Monday.

It's a land of legends—legends of lost treasure, phantom Indian chiefs, and hiding badmen. Geologists say the "basket makers" who dwelled under the rock shelters of its cliffs antedated the cliff dwellers.

Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay will be the dedication speaker at 11:30 a.m. ceremonies Monday. Gov. Shivers and Gov. Jesus Lopez of the Mexican state of Chihuahua, just across the Rio Grande, will take part.

It is called the Big Bend because of the great curving sweep which the Rio Grande takes through the Chisos Mountains. Chisos is an Indian name for ghosts, and the name comes from the legendary wandering of a phantom Indian chief named Alsate.

Alsate was supposed to have been the chief of a rich and vigorous tribe in the Big Bend country in ancient days. The story is that his tribe had a great store of gold ornaments, made from ore mined in these same mountains. Alsate supposedly was kidnapped by Indians from Mexico who massacred his tribe. He escaped and, legend has it, still searches the mountains for his tribe.

The park is bordered on the southwest and southeast by the Rio Grande and Mexico. On the northeast and northwest its boundaries are principally in the rugged, craggy wasteland making up the foothills of the Chisos. Park headquarters are in a basin-like valley near the center of the park.

The late Anton G. Carter of Fort Worth, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was a leader in the national park plan. State Legislation in 1941 provided for purchase of privately-owned land in the area. Congress already had acted, passing bills allowing Texas to donate the land. In 1943 the park was opened to the public.

The Big Bend country was long considered the last frontier in the Southwest—a wild and lonely wilderness where few humans ventured. A transcontinental highway from Florida to California passes through Alpine, Marathon and Marfa but that is 100 miles to the north.

One of the "lost gold" legends concerns the forgotten San Vicente shaft, site of a former Mexican village. Legend has it that the man bossing the mine shot all his workmen after he was through with them, so that he could keep the mine's location a secret.

In early days the mountains were refuge for notorious gunmen and bandit gangs. Along the old contraband trail, which still threads its chaly way through the mountains, history has it that sand-burned Texas cattlemen shot it out with vaqueros from the ranches of Mexican cattle barons.

Gov. Lee O'Daniel on July 3, 1941, signed legislation providing $1,500,000 for purchase of privately owned land within the park area.

Federal bills by Texas Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally and Rep. R. E. Thomson of El Paso introduced March 1, 1935, provided for establishment of the park.

Despite injunctions, the land purchases were made and Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, in a ceremony Sept. 5, 1943, at Sul Ross State College in Alpine, presented the deed to the late M. R. Tillotson, regional director of the National Park Service.

The park has two paved access routes, one from Marathon and one from Alpine. Adobe and stone cabins with water, electricity and telephones can accommodate more than 100 people. As tourist travel increases the accommodations are expected to be increased.

Stevenson Lashes Republican Record

Instructors At Labor School
 Representatives from organized labor of this area went to school here Saturday, and their instructional staff included Allen Maley, of the Texas Unemployment Commission; H. S. Brown, staff member of the Texas Federation of Labor; and Houston Clinton, attorney for TSFL. Delegates were present from Abilene, Odessa, Midland, Colorado City, Monahan, Crane, Hawley and Coahoma. Today final sessions will be held with the United Labor Assembly at the Settles.

Demo Leaders Talk Before Chicago Rally

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson led a Democratic assault tonight against what he called "special interest government in Washington," which he said offers a shaky peace, deceptive prosperity and no progress.

Flanked by party leaders who voiced the assurance that the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee who wants to be its 1956 standard-bearer, tore into the Republican slogan of "peace-prosperity-progress."

Former President Harry S. Truman predicted an "overwhelming" victory for the party in 1956 presidential and congressional elections.

Truman, maintaining a new attitude of neutrality in the presidential nomination contest after previously having repeated several times he was for Stevenson, said that the people are dissatisfied with the change they get in the Republican administration after 20 years of Democratic rule.

"The farmers are beginning to find out just who their friends are," he declared at a meeting of an agricultural advisory group. "You ought to hear them cry when they come to me."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, a potential "favorite son" candidate for the nomination who was not on the list of dinner speakers, called in a speech to Young Democrats for prosperity "more substantial and less hazardous than the present most callous and treacherous over-extension of our consumer credit in history."

Stevenson told the Democrats that "we play politics with peace will lose both."

"Certainly we must have learned that sound foreign policies cannot be devised with one eye on the budget and the other on the divisions of the Republican party," he declared.

"America's military strength has been reduced—while at the same time we talked louder and tougher. But if our threats were sincere, then our military would be more sincere. And if we did not mean what we said we were bluffing."

Kefauver and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, who said he isn't now an "active candidate" for the party presidential nomination, also fired at the Republicans.

Kefauver said the GOP foreign policy program had failed.

"It was shackled for two years by the reckless and irresponsible 83rd (Republican) Congress," he declared. "Now when a fully responsible Democratic majority controls the Congress, we still find the administration of our foreign policy hesitant and faltering."

He said that in the Middle East—a controversy between a Jew and her Arab neighbors "the State Department is trying to play both ends against the middle, a game which too often leads to disaster."

In national affairs, Kefauver charged the Eisenhower administration has adopted a "deliberate policy" geared to "liquidate the small farmers of the nation."

"The Republicans don't plow under crops; they are engaged in plowing under the farmer," he declared.

Kefauver, who charged yesterday that the Democratic National Committee was favoring the candidacy of Stevenson for the party nomination, said he found a "spirit of unity" evident in the Chicago meeting which he hoped would be carried into next year's campaign.

Harriman, who expects to be New York's "favorite son" candidate, voiced high praise for Truman, Stevenson and Kefauver.

"For myself," he said in a prepared talk, "I've got one ambition—to give New York the kind of good government that will make sure that in November next year our 45 (electoral) votes are cast for the Democratic candidate for President."

Stevenson jibed at the Republicans with the assertion that the Democrats had maintained "an essential unity of purpose which does not depend upon the individuals who may carry its standard," adding that "no other political party can make that statement."

He said that Democrats "respect the leader of the Republican party, President Eisenhower, who is President of the Democrats as well as Republicans, and we rejoice alike in his recovery."

But he said the Democrats believe the people own the government and the Republicans bow to "special interests."

He said the farmer isn't getting a fair share of the national income "and there is precious little evidence that the 'team' in Washington wants to do anything about it."

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

There are a couple of campaigns now under way and which deserve your generous support. One is the effort to gather in toys no longer in use so that they may be repaired and refurbished for distribution to some youngster on Christmas. All you have to do is take the toys to a Shell service station or to the fire stations. The other project is the TB Association Seal Sale. All you have to do here is to write out your check as generously and as promptly as possible.

Businesses aren't the only ones who believe on staying abreast of developments. Representatives here for the past two days for the first district labor school held here. Response has been gratifying.

Ralph White of Coahoma and Floyd Smith of Stanton have joined in filing a petition in federal court for an injunction against the state ASC committee. They thus hope to prevent the committee from imposing a reserve distribution formula, which weighs heavily against West Texas. If any relief is had, apparently it will have to come from the courts, not the committee.

The Business-Education Day observed Friday appeared, from all accounts, to have been even more successful than anticipated. In most instances, teachers were enthusiastic about their experiences. Now, if businessmen can be half as good pupils when they go to school, probably next spring, the venture will be truly successful. Anyhow, this project deepened mutual respect.

One of the things all too easy to forget is the Union Thanksgiving service. After all, on Thanksgiving Day, we ought to take some time out to express our thanks to the place is the First Baptist Church . . . the hour is 10 a.m.

Oil interest continues to center northeast of Big Spring where Phillips No. 1 Satterwhite recently ushered in the Big Spring (Fusselman) pool. Monsanto will re-enter the No. 1 Harper, a deep test abandoned a few years ago and see if the pool might extend 2 1/2 miles to the southwest. Meanwhile, a diagonal offset to the discovery is under way.

MANEUVERS Air Bases Stricken By Atomic 'Foe'

FT. POLK, La., Nov. 19 (AP)—More than eight million tons of atomic explosive power, in simulated form, has been used in the military's modern age mock war.

Officials of Exercise Sagebrush said today about 6,700,000 tons of nuclear force were poured down on friendly air bases scattered throughout the South in swift and savage atomic strikes by "aggressor" jet bombers, starting with operations Monday night. The remainder of the atomic tonnage was aimed by aggressor and friendly forces at battlefield targets in this seven-million-acre maneuver area.

The atomic fury let go in this half-completed military training and test exercise compares with the approximate 2,500,000 tons of bombs used by United States and British air forces on all targets in Europe in World War II.

Nuclear power is measured in energy yield.

The first atomic bombs yielded energy equivalent of 20,000 tons of force. At present, an ordinary, tactical bomb is within that yield range. All the simulated weapons in Exercise Sagebrush are supposed to be standard nuclear fission explosives, not the multi-million-ton power of hydrogen bombs.

Gen. O. P. Weyland, maneuver director and chief of the Tactical Air Command, in summing up for newsmen today the lessons learned

Probe Seen In Credit Moves

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said today Eisenhower administration officials will be called upon to explain publicly the recent tightening of credit policies on housing.

"There are signs that federal credit restrictions may be jeopardizing the orderly growth of the home building industry," Sparkman, chairman of the Senate Banking subcommittee on housing, said in a statement.

He promised a complete exploration of government "credit policies on residential construction and home financing" Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 28 and 29.

Government agencies recently ordered higher down payments and shorter maturity periods on government-insured mortgages, the senator recalled, adding:

"The Federal Home Loan Bank Board cracked down on the liberal lending policies of its members. The Federal Reserve Board tightened up on commercial credit."

"Great caution should be exercised in adopting credit policies that discourage the long-term growth of the industry or exclude persons in need of homes from the housing market."

Rep. Patman (D-Texas) said in a separate statement that administration officials "have singled out the housing industry for deflation . . . rather than risk the prospect of a mild price rise next year."

Patman said that rather than have a price rise "these big banking spokesmen . . . would first see jobless construction workers walk the streets, veterans go without decent shelter, and home builders put through the wringer."

MURDER CASE Furious Exchange Marks Clark Trial

FORT WORTH, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Mary Clark accomplice to murder trial rocked along on dull technical testimony for sometime today then broke into a furious exchange. Defense Attorney Lee Moore charged City Detective Grady Halre with withholding information from the defendant.

Moore's thrust came as he cross examined the veteran detective who made the investigation at the William P. Clark mansion May 22, 1953, when the wealthy oilman's body was found.

Moore, reading a deposition taken from the detective Jan. 2, poured out a series of questions which he had asked Halre and which the detective, prompted by District Attorney Fender, had refused to answer.

"You weren't willing to give this little woman here any information which you thought would be of benefit to her, were you?" the stocky defense attorney asked.

"The district attorney told me not to and that's the reason I did not do it," Halre answered.

On direct examination by Fender, Halre had told of going to the Clark mansion about 1 p.m., May 22, 1953, and finding Clark's body on the floor of an upstairs bedroom.

Halre said the next day he returned to the murder room and found a white woman's car parked on the floor. He said he had not seen it there the previous day.

Moore queried him at length concerning the carscrew and took the

Prop Failure Blamed In Crash

SEATTLE, Nov. 19 (AP)—Propeller failure was blamed today by the pilot for the midnight crash here two days ago of a chartered DC4 that claimed the lives of 27 of the 74 aboard.

In a dramatic hospital room news conference, William J. McDougall, 40, Miami, Fla., told of the desperate cockpit struggle to keep the big four-engine plane aloft with its load of 61 back from the Far East.

McDougall said without hesitating the crash, two minutes after take-off from Seattle's Boeing Field, was caused by inability to feather the malfunctioning propeller on the No. 4 engine.

He explained that feathering a propeller means turning its blades with the edge to the wind like a knife. This must be done before power can be cut off from the engine—in this case the outside engine on the right—or the "prop" will windmill.

Instead of feathering, McDougall said, the No. 4 propeller blades turned flat, offering great resistance to the airstream, and causing the plane to yaw with loss of control and altitude.

He said he was convinced the propeller itself had failed, but added there was a possibility the engine's shaft could have snapped, leaving the "prop" without any control.

McDougall, in his first public statement since the Peninsula Air Transport Co. DC4 cracked up and burned, said he cracked out when the big plane plowed into the backyard of a South Seattle hillside home.

"When I came to I was standing outside screaming. Get the people out. Get the people out."

He paused, then said in a choked voice as tears streamed down his face:

"I did everything in my power . . . everything."

Morocco's Era Of Political Peace Ended With Slayings

RABAT, French Morocco, Nov. 19 (AP)—Morocco's era of good feeling was shattered today by a bloody political murder in the courtyard of Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef's palace.

The fact the Sultan was inside the palace laboring to find means of keeping the peace in Morocco emphasized the difficulties this French protectorate faces.

At least two of a group of Moroccan notables who formed to pay homage to the recently returned monarch were dead and five others wounded. Two of the wounded were not expected to recover.

District Labor School To End Here Today

The first—and a highly successful one in the opinion of leadership—district labor school held in Big Spring comes to an end here today with joint sessions of the United Labor Assembly.

Fifty-one delegates from eight points in this area took part in the special classes on workmen's compensation, unemployment compensation and other labor laws Saturday. There were sessions, too, on trends in collective bargaining.

Rep. Obie Bristow, Big Spring, today will address a luncheon at the Settles, and Alfred P. Goodson, vice president of Texas State Federation of Labor for District No. 3, said upwards of 100 are expected Saturday there had been 90 reservations.

Arriving Saturday night were ranking staff members of organized labor in Texas. Included were Jerry Holleman, Austin, executive secretary of the Texas State Federation of Labor; Fred Schmidt, Austin, state executive secretary for CIO; R. R. Bryant, Austin, legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

Saturday the instructors included Allen Maley, Austin, of the Texas Unemployment Commission; H. S. Brown, assistant executive secretary of the Texas State Federation of Labor; and Houston Clinton, attorney for the state federation.

Before the instructional sessions, Mrs. Doris Cates, Austin, head of the women's division for the Labor League for Political Education, had conferred here with representatives of women's organizations. She will be on hand for the meetings today when political education, along with public relations, will be discussed at length.

Climaxing the sessions will be a general meeting at 3 p.m. when Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College, will view labor's role in supporting public education. Goodson said all sessions had been well attended and had evoked spontaneous participation.

YEAR OF FREEDOM

Alger Hiss' Life Softened By Time

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Time has softened the life of Alger Hiss. In his first year of freedom since going to prison for perjury and implied betrayal of his country, Hiss has felt free to move about New York City without fear of unpleasant incident.

He has walked the streets, traveled in subways and buses and encountered little or no overt hostility.

On the street, most people passed by without a second glance at the man who was perhaps the most celebrated defendant of his time, whose case profoundly unsettled a nation. Some studied his countenance as though trying to remember where they had seen him. Some plainly did recognize him.

Of these, all but one were sympathetic. The exception was a woman who walked up, stared him in the eye, said, "I think Waittaker Chambers is a great man," and walked off.

This information comes from Hiss friends and associates, who also reported that since his release from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., last Nov. 27, Hiss has received about 150 letters from strangers. All but about a dozen of these were described as friendly and, of the dozen, "all but one were obviously from cranks or fanatics."

The friendly letters included financial contributions ranging from $1 to $50. Hiss kept the money to help meet his family's living expenses.

Neither Hiss' wife, who works for a Manhattan publisher, nor his 14-year-old son, who attends prep school in Vermont, have been subjected to any public hostility or made to feel like outcasts.

And the worst fears of Hiss' friends, who were concerned for his physical safety when he left prison, have proved unfounded. There have been no threats against the former State Department official who was convicted of perjury for denying that he passed secret state documents to Chambers, then an admitted Russian agent. Chambers was the principal witness against Hiss.

It is Hiss' contention that his trial was accompanied by public hysteria, and he takes the absence of unpleasant incident since his release as evidence that such an attitude has subsided.

Hiss, who is 51, saw this reporter in his Greenwich Village apartment, a third-floor walk-up with four rooms. He was even thinner than usual, as the result of a recent gall bladder operation. His manner was friendly, polite, buoyant. But, seeming to shrink from any more personal publicity, Hiss stipulated in advance that parts of the interview must remain off the record.

As it turned out, the whole interview remained off the record. Hiss answered each question at length, carefully and precisely. Each answer was carefully hewn and measured and each remained off the record.

From other sources, it was learned that Hiss now hopes to make a living as a writer and possibly lecturer in the future. He cannot return to his original profession, law, because he has been disbarred.

Hiss received $300 for a recent article on Yalta published in a pocket magazine. He also has received an advance on a book from a British publisher. This money represents his first earned income since 1943.

The book, it is said, will deal with the civil liberty aspects of his case, with the mood, pressures and atmosphere of the time which he believes made an objective trial impossible.

After that, Hiss hopes to write impersonally and possibly lecture on foreign affairs.

Is Hiss bitter, toward his country, toward people in general, toward Chambers, his principal antagonist?

"He definitely shows no bitterness toward his country," said Chester Lane, Hiss' attorney and friend. "In general, I'd say he is not a bitter person. Of course, that is not to say that he would be able to talk civilly to Chambers if they met."

Hiss and his attorney still believe that some day he will be vindicated. Admittedly, most of that hope rests on the possibility that Chambers could recant and say that he accused Hiss wrongfully.

"But the hope does not end there," said Lane. "We think the whole case represented a vast conspiracy against Hiss. We think the documents were forged and the typewriter fabricated. We hope that whoever was responsible for the forgery and fabrication may some day try the same crime again and thus expose himself."

Ward Funeral Services Set

W. H. Ward Sr., a resident of the Moore community for more than three decades, died in his sleep at his home Saturday morning.

Ward apparently had died of heart attack shortly before members of the family went to awaken him when he did not arise.

Services have been set for 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Methodist Church with Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor, officiating. Burial is to be in the City Cemetery beside the grave of his mother, who died in 1922. Arrangements are in charge of Nalley Funeral Home.

Ward came to Big Spring in 1919 and opened a tailor shop at Third and Main (where Walgreen Drug is now located). After two years, he sold the business and moved to his home six miles northwest of Big Spring.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruby Ward; four sons, H. L. Ward Jr., Luther Smith, J. M. Smith, of Big Spring and Madison Smith, Baltimore, Md.; two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Dodson, Encino, N. M., and Miss Anna Smith, Big Spring. Three grandchildren, Evelyn Ann Mitchell, Oklahoma City, Gary Smith, Baltimore, Md., and Ronnie Ward, Big Spring, also survive.

Funeralbearers will be G. C. Broughton, W. H. Forrest, Edgar Phillips, A. P. Boren, Jack Hatch, Troy Newton, E. W. Lomax, and Dr. R. B. G. Cowper.

Youth Dies After Apparent Suicide

Ralph P. Gonzales, 19, died in a hospital here early Saturday morning after apparently taking ant poison containing cyanide.

Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney's office, said Felice Trevino, fiancée of the deceased, told how Gonzales had been found following a lover's quarrel. She and his brother rushed him to the hospital, but he died a few minutes later.

The statement said the couple had returned from a dance and had a disagreement. She said Gonzales had been drinking heavily. Nineteen-year-old Felice drove him home in his car. At the Gonzales home, 406 NW 6th, the youth also argued with his brother, Leon P. Gonzales.

He went into the kitchen, ostensibly to get something for Felice. Leon went looking for him when he heard the back door slam. Ralph was found lying in the backyard with the empty bottle of ant poison nearby.

The family rushed the boy to the hospital about 1:30 a.m. Jimmie Parks, local highway patrolman, followed the car to the hospital when he saw it disregard a traffic light. Gonzales died a short time after arrival at the hospital.

The inquest was held at 2:15 a.m., however, Justice of Peace Walter Grice had not reached an inquest verdict late Saturday.

Gonzales was an employe of the R&H Hardware Store, 504 Johnson.

Rites will be said at the family home at 4:30 p.m. today with burial in the City Cemetery. Other arrangements are pending.

Surviving Gonzales are his father, Leonardo Gonzales; six brothers, Jesse, Louis, Leon, Leonardo Jr., Carlos and Ricardo Gonzales, all of Big Spring; three sisters, Mrs. Felestan Arrista, Big Spring; Mrs. Abellina Diaz, Monahan; and Mrs. Rosita Holguin, Odessa.

Arrangements are in charge of Nalley Funeral Home.

Farm Unit Of C-C Sets Monday Meet

A meeting of the Agricultural Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has been called by Jack Buchanan, chairman. The meeting is called for 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Chamber conference room.

The committee members will discuss participation of Howard County members in the aw suit which has been filed concerning cotton acreage for West Texas next year. Plans to form an organization for soil conservation here will also be discussed.

Martin County Capon Sales Net Nearly $600

STANTON—Nov. 19—Just short of $600 worth of capons were sold here Saturday in the annual Martin County 4-H, FFA Capon Show, with the grand champion selling for $21.

A total of $599.50 was collected by entries at the auction held at the close of the competition in the county livestock building after Bobby Carlile had walked off with the champs in both the single and trio classes.

Carlile, who is a student at Texas A&I in Kingsville and could not make the show, won the grand champion single with a 13-pound bird, and followed with the trio blue ribbon, with three weighing 11, 10½, and 10 pounds.

The grand champion went to Bernard Huston of Huston Feed and Seed Store, Stanton, high bidder for $21, or $1.75 per pound.

Reserve champion in the single competition went to Butch Haggard, with a 12½-pound capon. Haggard's top product sold to Huston for $16. Charles McKaskle exhibited the reserve champion trio, weighing 11¼, 11¼, and 11¼.

Judge for the show was Marvin Webber of the Power Feed Store, Abilene. Auctioneer for the sale was Houston Glasson, deputy sheriff of Dawson County, and widely known as an auctioneer.

A total of 82 birds were sold at the auction, with one of the capons being resold as a gift to the Stanton 4-H club. Average price for the 82 sales was $7.30, with the largest number going for one price being 18 in each of the $7.50 and $6 categories.

Third place in the single class went to McKaskle, while Jack Hildreth won third place honors in the trio group. McKaskle's bird weighed 13 pounds, and Hildreth's three weighed 10, 10, and 11½.

In the single class, the fourth, and fifth places went to Daniel Cave and Carlile, respectively. In the trio class, four was awarded to Butch Haggard, and in fifth was Delbert Donelson.

McKaskle exhibited the largest bird in the show, the capon weighing 15 pounds, while the lightest entry was eight pounds. Four were entered at that weight.

Half its Horsepower is for Safety!

A pretty steep hill, you'd say?

Well, not so far as this gentleman is concerned. He just gave the accelerator a little encouragement with his toe . . . and swept from bottom to top so effortlessly he was scarcely aware of it.

For he's at the wheel of a beautiful new 1956 Cadillac. And beneath that long, sleek, graceful hood rests the smoothest, most powerful engine in Cadillac history.

The fact is that this great new Cadillac engine is powerful and dynamic far beyond the requirements of normal usage. In the course of ordinary motoring, it is entirely possible that the driver will never have to put the accelerator down to the floor board.

But how wonderful that extra length of throttle will be if he does need it!

It will be there to give him that extra burst of speed that can carry him free from a difficult driving situation.

It will be there in case he needs it for safety in passing . . . or to answer the challenge of a mountain road.

And even when not in active use, it will add to his motoring pleasure.

It will bring him confidence and contentment and peace of mind . . .

. . . and it will provide the kind of operating economy and dependability that can come only from a motor car that literally loafs at the legal limits of the highway.

Of course, Cadillac's magnificent performance is only part of the exciting Cadillac story for 1956. There is inspiring beauty . . . and extraordinary luxury . . . and superlative craftsmanship. For this is, literally, the Cadillac of Cadillacs.

Why not stop in soon and let us show you what we mean?

We've got the keys and the car—all you have to provide is an hour of your time.

We can promise you . . . it will be the most revealing sixty minutes you ever spent at the wheel of a motor car.

The Madstone Fable

The persistent superstitious belief in the magical power of stones for the treatment of disease goes back to Babylonian times. The madstone was thought to be specifically effective in the treatment of everything from snake bite to rheumatism and to preserve the peace of the household as well.

Today you are much better informed. You look to your physician for treatment in time of illness. We invite you to look to us for the medication your physician prescribes.

Jess-Talkin

The demand for boll pickers has practically stopped. Only a few are needed in each county with the exception of the area around Pecos. Farmers still need 2,000 hands out there to finish the picking.

Incidentally, Lubbock County is supposed to make 200,000 bales of cotton this year, which will be the most of any county in Texas. Some observers say this estimate is too high because the early freeze did as much or more damage up there than it did in Howard and Martin counties.

The 50,000-bale cotton crop in Martin County was a nice thing to look forward to, but it just wasn't there. Several observers at Stanton now say the county yield will be between 30 and 40 thousand, and hardly anyone expects it to go higher.

Earl Douglas, manager of the Farmer's Co-Op Society in Glin, says they will be lucky to get 35 thousand. Douglas has ginned a little over 3,100 bales and doesn't expect to get many more. He said all the late cotton was poor and is now bringing from 26 to 30 cents a pound.

The crop did hold great promise in early August, but angular leaf spot and the unusually early freeze cut yields by as much as a third on some fields. The leaf spot was bad in nearly all the long staple Acala-cotton, particularly in the Tarzan area where it is predominately grown.

This will be the last big year for long staple cotton, Douglas thinks. It seems to attract the leaf spot more than short staple, and another reason is the difficulty in getting it picked. Bracers don't like to pick it when they might be pulling bolls somewhere else. In some cases, they went on strike and had to be sent back to Mexico. Some of this last crop had to be pulled, Douglas said, because farmers couldn't find enough workers who would pick it.

Some farmers who sprayed liquid fertilizer on their cotton last summer are not so sure about its merits. Loyd Wasson said that on his farm there was little difference in yields on treated and untreated rows. He didn't get any more rain after the fertilizer was applied and this held down yields.

He thinks it will pay off on irrigated cotton, or on any field if the grower knows he will get a few good rains afterwards. Since no one knows this, not even the weather man, nitrogen fertilizer on dryland cotton is still a gamble.

This year have been a normal year for some parts of Howard and surrounding counties, but there are still some powder-dry spots. Sam Buchanan got only three and a half inches of rain on his place northeast of Big Spring the last 15 months. Other dry areas are found south of town, northwest of Stanton and in isolated spots throughout the area.

The pastures are very dry in the south and southeast parts of the county, according to County Agent James Taylor. He said several ranchers in that area are having to feed their livestock. Taylor says that Howard County may be put back on emergency feed relief, as there is very little grass in most parts. Some ranchers have practically no grass at all and are down to about 30 per cent of normal on cattle and sheep.

Taylor says the cotton crop in Howard County is 90 per cent harvested. He estimated the total yield at about 27,000 bales.

E. M. Massey of Stanton has been in Martin County for 30 years and thinks it has the most erratic weather in West Texas. This year his farm north of Stanton produced about a quarter bale to the acre, while just a mile east of him the cotton was almost twice as good.

The farm is about 15 miles north of town and on the edge of the Valley View community. He has been having hard luck with the weatherman for several years, as rains seem to dodge the place. The farm is being worked by Thurmond Baum, who used to live on the L. I. Stewart farm in the Elbow community.

One of the best dryland cotton crops in this area was that of Rob Haggard who lives at Valley View in Martin County. He is gathering a bale to the acre on 70 acres. Walker Bailey has 148 acres over there on which he expects to pull three-fourths of a bale to the acre. Several fields in that community are equally as good. This is part of a productive streak which runs through the west part of Knox, on up past Ackerley and along the eastern part of Dawson County. Crops are probably better in this belt than in any other large area in West Texas.

For several years now one school of thought on agricultural problems has maintained that big surpluses will soon be a thing of the past. They point to soil erosion and a growing population and say that by 1975 we will be barely feeding ourselves. From a land of plenty we may have an impoverished nation like China or India.

Bill Moldenhauer, soil scientist at the Big Spring Field Station, doesn't agree with this. He says science is going so fast that we can probably feed and clothe ourselves indefinitely.

He mentions Wisconsin where farmers a few years ago thought a 50-bushel corn crop was a whopper. Now on the same land some of them are growing nearly 150 bushels to the acre. He says nitrogen fertilizer is unlimited and that eventually a lot of other fertilizer and food may come from the sea. Moldenhauer thinks our produc-

Presbyterians Set Anniversary Dinner Dec. 7

Approximately 100 Presbyterians will attend a $50 a plate Golden Anniversary dinner here Dec. 7 celebrating the founding of the El Paso Presbytery.

Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church where the ceremonies will be held, said 40 reservations have been received thus far. Indications were that they had just begun to come in strength.

Proceeds from the dinner will go toward financing a new church to be built within the El Paso Presbytery.

Presbyterians who were within the presbytery when it was established here Dec. 7, 1905 will be honor guests at the affair.

Already, reservations have come from Clovis and Lovington, N.M., and from Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, Pecos, Barstow, Colorado City and Big Spring.

Dr. David Stitt, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, is to be the speaker for the occasion. A history of the presbytery will be read by Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Midland. Other program details are shaping rapidly, and the services from 7:45 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. will be broadcast over radio station KBST. The dinner proper gets under way at 7 p.m.

The two smallest churches in the presbytery likely will send the largest number of guests who were members when the presbytery was created. Barstow will have half dozen and Coahoma may have 8 or 10. They are among the oldest Presbyterian churches in the area.

While it was reported that she will be kept under observation for a month at Notre Dame L'Esperance Hospital, where Marie's sisters Cecile and Yvonne are training as nurses, the hospital would not confirm she had been admitted. Marie's family said she left the cloister of the Servants of the Blessed Sacrament in Quebec City, where she has been studying for religious orders, and traveled here with a nurse.

Marie originally entered the convent Nov. 3, 1953, and served six months as a postulant before being elevated to the rank of novice. Poor health, loss of appetite and extreme homesickness were given as the reasons for her return home in July 1954. She went back to the convent last September.

He father was told about Marie's health in a telephone conversation with Cecile. He said he did not think Marie would return to the convent this time. Marie's quintuplet sister Emilie died in a Quebec convent in August 1954.

Final rites will be said for David Akin, 67, in the River Funeral Home Monday at 1:30 p.m. The Rev. William Boyd, St. Mary's Episcopal Church, will conduct the services and interment will be in the family plot in the City Cemetery.

Akin died Friday at El Paso. He is a former resident of Big Spring having left here in 1922. He was employed by the Texas and Pacific railroad. Members of the Akin family were long-time residents of Big Spring and Howard County. The first burial in the family plot was in 1888.

There are no survivors.

County Nears U.S. Bond Goal

With sales aggregating $622,347, Howard County has attained 80.8 per cent of its United States Savings Bonds quota for the year.

Ira L. Thurman, who is both county and district chairman, said Saturday if residents would quicken their bond purchasing pace just a bit, the county could reach its goal. Through October the rate was only four per cent below the average rate required.

October purchases included $21,717 in E bonds and $2,000 in H bonds.

Mitchell County had sales of $8,744 E bonds, $23,000 H bonds, for a total of $31,744 or 79.8 per cent; Scurry had $23,881 in E bonds for $396,012, or 64.6 per cent of its quota.

Russ Leaders Offer 'Shares' With India

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 19 (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev sought today to bring their country still closer to this land of Gandhi with an offer to "share" Russian experience in atomic energy, industry and electric power.

The offer came during the first full day of their visit to India, taken up with sightseeing and a public meeting attended by more than 150,000 persons. The two leaders used the occasion to seek strengthening of Soviet-Indian ties, but Prime Minister Nehru gave no hint whether he is ready to convert already cordial relations into a firm embrace.

Nehru did, however, drop a veiled warning in his guests' hearing that he would never permit India's 307 millions to fall under Communist rule. Nevertheless, the general opinion here was that this had been a good day for the Russians. Westerners here expressed belief tonight that no country in the world stood closer to India than Russia.

The sightseeing tour gave the Russians a chance to be seen by thousands of Indians. The visitors were at their smiling best, waving straw hats, signing autographs for children and gazing with tourist-like awe at the city's sights.

When they placed a floral wreath on the site of the cremation of Indian independence leader Mahatmas K. Gandhi, the significance of their action was not lost on Indians—for the Russians were paying homage to a man once described by the Kremlin as "reactionary."

Later, Bulganin and Khrushchev went to a public meeting staged by Delhi municipality. Before thousands waving paper Indian and Russian flags, they appeared with Nehru on a stage resembling a Buddhist temple. The three stood for a minute with their hands clasped together and held aloft. Then Bulganin moved to the microphones, spoke of India's development plans and made his offer. He called India and Russia "allies."

Marie Dionne Is Sick Again

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (AP)—Marie Dionne, 21-year-old quintuplet who was studying at a Quebec convent, has become ill again and is in a hospital here for observation.

In North Bay, Ont., Oliva Dionne, father of the quintuplets, said today he had been informed Marie's health is "run down" and that she is suffering from loss of appetite and loneliness.

It was the second time in 16 months Marie had left the Roman Catholic convent for the same reasons.

Marie originally entered the convent Nov. 3, 1953, and served six months as a postulant before being elevated to the rank of novice.

Poor health, loss of appetite and extreme homesickness were given as the reasons for her return home in July 1954. She went back to the convent last September.

Accused Saboteur Termed 'Unstable'

DENVER, Nov. 19 (AP)—"Very unhappy and depressed at times," "changeable," "had a fine mind," "personal and social adjustment were poor," "calloused," "an over-protected son"—these are the descriptive terms that crop up in the background of John Gilbert Graham.

Leaves Court

He is the 23-year-old Denver forger, playboy, mechanic and drive-in restaurant operator who federal officials said, admitted the dynamite bombing of a commercial airliner that carried his mother and 43 others to death near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1. Graham told newsmen he did not bomb the plane.

Experienced law officers are amazed at Graham's outward reaction to the nation's greatest mass slaying. He shows "no evident feeling of remorse," reported Capt. Neal Wright of the Denver County Jail where Graham awaits his arraignment Nov. 28 on a charge of murdering his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 54.

Is Graham insane? That question—on the minds of many people—was put by a reporter to a psychiatrist at the University of Colorado medical center.

Cautioning that his observations are limited to news accounts, the psychiatrist said: "Graham is a psychopathic personality." "he would be regarded psychologically as a sick but not insane person."

"I still love him and I'm right behind him," said Graham's wife, Gloria, 22, who bore him two children in their three years of married life. That was her declaration in a news interview two days after her husband's arrest. She told how she and Graham went to the airport to see his mother off on her trip to Alaska.

"We all kissed her goodbye," she said. She told how she and Graham went to church last Sunday, only hours before his arrest.

Graham was born in Denver Jan. 23, 1932. He was named for his late grandfather, Gilbert A. Walker, a widely known Colorado prosecutor and district judge.

After Graham's brush with the law as a forger in March 1951, probation officers made a detailed investigation of his background. They said his teachers reported he was "above average intelligence."

The report summarized the teachers' accounts: "He had a fine mind; his grades were high but his personal and social adjustment were poor. He was very unhappy and depressed at times."

While working for a truck trailer manufacturing firm he stole company checks and within three days had passed $4,200 worth with the name of a company official forged to them.

He took off on a five-state tour in a new convertible, purchased with proceeds of the checks. He was arrested at Lubbock, Tex., in November 1951 after he tried to crash a road block. Officers fired several shots at him. He was charged with bootlegging and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Officers returned Graham to Denver on the forgery charge. He pleaded guilty and asked probation. He was granted probation.

John Gilbert Graham, 23, head bowed and hands manacled, walks through a corridor of the district courthouse at Denver. Judge James Noland postponed the arraignment of Graham until Nov. 28. Graham is charged with murder in connection with a plane crash in which 44 persons died.

Dec. 10, 1951, by Dist. Judge Henry S. Lindsley, now a Colorado Supreme Court Justice.

"He shows very little concern over this present offense," read the probation report on the forger's case. "For the past couple of years, he led a wild life—spent most of his money on drinking parties and women."

The probation report added that his mother "appears to be a type that has overprotected her son." The report said she couldn't explain her son's actions other than to tell her he wanted to have some fun before he was drafted into military service.

Mrs. King paid $2,500 toward restitution of the $4,200 Graham realized from his forgeries. Graham was paying off the balance in installments. He owed only $105.34 more when he was arrested for sabotaging the plane.

Last spring Graham and his brother opened a drive-in restaurant, the Crown A, in southwest Denver.

Graham's Crown A was rocked by an explosion last Sept. 5. Steinberg said he was puzzled by Graham's explanation. "He told me that burglars broke into the place to get money and blew it up on purpose as they left," Steinberg said.

The Denver fire department said its investigation showed natural gas lines had been disconnected and the leaking gas had been ignited.

Political Use Of Union Dues Is Protested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Two Republican senators protested today against any use of union dues for political purposes.

Sen. Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, called on the "IO Political Action Committee" to "explain the source of its money for TV and radio time."

"Aren't these funds in reality union dues being converted to a political use?" he asked in a statement released through his office here. He said he would like to hear an explanation from PAC officials.

Simultaneously, Sen. Curtis (R-Mo.) made public a letter requesting the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional Rights to look into whether union dues are being used in part for political purposes.

Curtis wrote Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), subcommittee chairman, that he understood certain labor union members have requested an opportunity to testify about "being required to pay dues and other assessments" for the support of political parties and candidates not of their own choosing.

The subcommittee began its first series of hearings this week, taking up constitutional guarantees of free speech and press and freedom of assembly.

Goldwater, who recently accused union leaders of raising "political slush funds" from compulsory union dues, said "no person should be forced to donate to any political party or political fund in order to keep a job as a member of a union or any other organization."

He said he has received many letters from rank and file union members supporting his stand on the use of dues money and "indignantly protesting attempts by some union leaders to make political activity a condition of employment."

Curtis, in his letter to Hennings, said: "It is most inequitable to compel from a union member the financial support of a political candidate or party which that member has a legal right to oppose."

Christmas Choir Groups Urged To Convene Tuesday

All members of church choirs to participate in the Christmas program of November 28 are urged to be at a rehearsal session Tuesday evening.

The meeting will be at the Howard County Junior College auditorium, beginning at 7 p.m., said Orland Johnson, who is to direct the chorus.

Pictures are to be made, and singers are asked to be present, and to bring vestments.

A massed choir will appear at the courthouse "Christmasland" on November 28, the night all holiday lights go on and stores unveil their windows for the Christmas season. The elaborate program and decorations mark a new departure in the Yuletide season feature here.

Missing Hunter Is Found By Fire

EVERY, Tex., Nov. 19 (AP)—A missing Dallas policeman, object of a 12-hour search last night after falling to return from a deer hunt, was found early today huddling by a fire in a drizzling rain near this northeast Texas town.

The search for Guy Hall, 36, started about dark with 75 volunteers taking part.

Hall appeared to be tired but otherwise in good shape from 12 hours of wandering through heavy woods about 2 1/2 miles of this Red River County town. He said he apparently walked in circles all night.

DO IT YOURSELF Modern Desk Takes Little Floor Space

By BILL BAKER
Today I've got something special for the apartment owner and the person who lives in a small home. It's my compact desk that can quickly become one of your favorite pieces of furniture.

Desk Of Modern Lines

Very little valuable floor-space will be taken when you own this modern desk. When not in use, you'll discover the desk can stand in any corner and can add a distinctive note of elegance. The desk can also double as an end table.

Unusually smart, modern lines will add an expensive look of beauty to your expense.

TO ORDER PATTERN
Here's how you can get your modern planter desk pattern: send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) in check, cash or money order to Bill Baker, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, California. Be sure to ask for pattern number 103.

A wide writing surface forms the main part of the desk. Behind this surface you'll find a unique planter box where you'll be able to keep living plants. A deep storage area, behind a drop-front door which is secured by chains, completes the unit.

Even if you've never taken on a woodworking project before, you can try this modern desk construction without a worry. In the pattern package you'll find exact-size, heavy-weight paper pattern pieces for every section of the desk.

By tacking down each section on the wood, it is an easy job to trace out the exact size of the finished piece. Cutting and assembling, then, is made almost effortlessly.

Also designed to make your workshop time go fast is the easy-to-understand instruction sheet included with the pattern package. No fancy words here—just simple instructions.

You'll notice in the above picture that the desk is designed with sturdy, modern legs. Pattern pieces are included for these.

It may be, however, that you will want to use wrought iron legs instead. These may be used, naturally, if you want to use them. Wrought iron legs can be found in standard sizes in most lumberyards or department stores.

Because the modern desk is so easy to build, you'll probably want to add several to your Christmas-gift list. Can you think of a better gift for your home, children or friends?

And think of the special pleasure you'll receive when you can proudly say: "I built it myself!"

Easy to build desk is an ideal item for the small home or apartment. The Bill Baker design would make an ideal Christmas gift.

"TWO-FIVE" IS COMING TO BIG SPRING

NATION-WIDE "2-LETTER, 5-NUMERAL" TELEPHONE NUMBERING SYSTEM TO BE INTRODUCED JULY, 1956

ALL telephone numbers will have a "new look" when the nation-wide "2-5" telephone numbering system is introduced here in July, 1956.

The new "2-5" numbering plan simply means that all telephone numbers here will include two letters and five numerals.

Nearly all telephone numbers here will have the same five numerals they now have, and will be preceded by the first two letters of the central office name, AM herst. For example, the telephone number 3-5252 will become AM herst 3-5252 in July 1956, and you'll dial A-M-3-5-2-5-2.

A very few telephone numbers may have to be changed entirely because of technical reasons.

A new edition of the telephone directory—listing all the new "2-5" numbers—will be delivered just before the new numbering plan goes into effect.

The new central office name... AM herst... is needed so that telephone numbers here will conform to the standard nationwide numbering plan. The new numbering plan is part of a nation-wide plan for dialing long distance calls, and will pave the way for expansion and improvement of Big Spring's long distance dialing system.

We are proud to announce the coming addition of Big Spring to the nation-wide "2-5" numbering plan, and we are sure you will like the increased speed and efficiency of your long distance telephone service.

If you or your firm use stationery or cards containing your telephone number, please keep the coming number change in mind to avoid overstocking before July, 1956.

Sainburg Case Going Before N. York Jury

The next step in the problem facing Dr. Frank Phillip Sainburg, charged in New York for kidnaping his 4-year-old son from a school in Ithaca, N. Y., will be taken in that state Monday.

The district attorney there contacted Guilford Jones, district attorney for the charge to be taken before a grand jury there Monday morning. An indictment from a grand jury is currently pending from March 1, 1954, on a like charge, but the Ithaca DA is seeking a fresher charge to stand behind extradition proceedings.

George Thomas, attorney for Dr. Sainburg, said nothing was to be done by them at present. The boy, Phillip, is in the custody of Sainburg, who was freed on $2,000 bond Friday morning after reporting here Thursday night.

The child was allegedly taken from St. John Nursery School this week.

An attorney for Doris Blanchard, former wife of Sainburg and mother of the boy, is expected here next week.

Young Phillip has been in the custody of his mother since July when a Court of Civil Appeals in Texarkana reversed the judgment of a trial court in Longview.

An indictment or a complaint is necessary by New York authorities before extradition proceedings can be begun.

Capital Is Mecca For Labor Unions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The nation's capital is becoming more and more a mecca for labor unions. The Labor Department says one out of every four national unions now has headquarters here.

They want to be in a position to put their views before Congress and federal officials and to have a part, if possible, in making government decisions.

A number of unions have built elaborate new office buildings. The AFL Teamsters recently dedicated a five-million-dollar, marble and glass headquarters near the Capitol.

The American Federation of Labor is completing another multi-million-dollar building just across from the White House. It will house the combined AFL-CIO after the two organizations merge next month.

Although the new AFL building isn't finished yet plans have already been made to start an addition early next year.

The CIO American Newspaper Guild has announced plans to move its headquarters here from New York. The CIO Auto Workers arranged to take over the present CIO headquarters, also near the White House, for the Detroit-based union's Washington office.

The Labor Department report said nearly 50 labor unions with a membership of about 6½ million have their main offices here. This is about a third of the estimated 18 million members of American labor unions.

Other cities still have a number of union headquarters. The Labor Department said 32 unions with 2,043,000 members have their main offices in New York. Other cities on the list include:

Detroit, 6 headquarters with 1,700,000 members; Indianapolis, 5 with 1,061,000; Chicago, 23 with 1,042,000; Cincinnati, 5 with 853,000; Cleveland 7 with 477,000, and St. Louis, 7 with 256,000.

Home Building Hurt By Curb On Credit, Patman Charges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Rep. Patman (D-Texas) asserted today that the Federal Reserve Board's moves to curb borrowing have dealt a blow to home building.

He said administration fiscal advisors "have singled out the housing industry for deflation to pave the way for 1956 tax cuts."

"These big banking spokesmen have such an inflationary neurosis they would first see jobless construction workers walk the streets, veterans go without decent shelter and home builders put through the wringer rather than risk the prospect of a mild price rise next year," Patman asserted.

8 Children Hurt In Bus Accident

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19 (AP)—A chartered bus carrying 45 children got wedged under the old elevated train structure on Market Street near 30th shortly before noon today.

Eight of the children were injured, none seriously.

The bus, from Manville, N. J., was on its way to a television show—"The Big Top"—at a nearby armory.

'Turkey Shoot' Today Near Sterling City

STERLING CITY, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Sterling High School junior class is sponsoring a "turkey shoot" Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30.

The meet is to be held at the caliche pit two miles west of Sterling City on the Big Spring Highway. There will be classes for pistols, shotguns, 22 caliber rifles and high powered rifles.

Martin Committee Named To Look Into Land Sales

STANTON — The Martin County Commissioner's Court has appointed a three-man committee to investigate all land sales made under the veterans' land program.

At the last commissioners meeting County Judge Jim McCoy appointed Jim Tom, H. S. Blocker and W. H. Rhodes to serve on the committee, and the appointees were approved by the county commissioners.

McCoy said these county committees were being set up in all counties. The members will have the power to approve or reject any deal in which a war veteran borrows money under the veteran's loan program to buy farm or ranch land. They can also appraise the land under consideration, or they may call in a federal land appraiser from San Angelo to set a value on the place.

McCoy thinks such a committee will serve a good purpose, because veterans will not be cheated in buying land, as they have been in some places. He also says the three men are all long-time residents, land owners themselves, and have a reputation for good judgment and honesty.

Fear Back As Major Weapon In Russian Cold War Arsenal

GENEVA, Nov. 19 (AP)—Fear has been restored as a major weapon in Moscow's cold war arsenal.

It seems certain to be used increasingly in the months ahead as Russia tries to compel the Western Powers to accept Soviet control of Eastern Europe.

A sharp renewal of political conflict between the Soviet and Atlantic power blocs was assured by the final breakdown of negotiations in the Big Four conference here this week. This wrecked Western estimates that Russia was ready to begin paying a fairly high price for peace.

These estimates had grown out of the summit conference last July, especially the cordial relations which Premier Bulganin seemed to want to develop with President Eisenhower.

The foreign ministers meeting was a test of the meaning of the summit session after two years of a Russian peace campaign, which followed the death of Joseph Stalin. Results of the test show the correct estimate was not that Russia's new rulers were trying to buy an East-West peace but that they will play a much more intricate and aggressive game.

They were trying to eliminate problems which profited Russia little and irritated the outside world much. They were trying to make friends for the Soviet system and to divide the West by making a show of inexpensive concessions.

They were trying to take some of the danger out of the world war, lower its costs to themselves and get time in which to catch up with the West in armaments. They were undoubtedly also probing for any Western willingness to make big concessions.

The generalized talk of the summit conference served the Soviet purpose of peaceful display. But the hard-boiled negotiations of the West in recent weeks threatened to force the Russians beyond their depth in two ways.

The United States, Britain and France pressed them heavily to begin giving up East Germany. There is also evidence, according to well-informed Western authorities, that the people in the Eastern European satellite states were beginning to take the Bulganin-Khrushchev soft-talk seriously and to grow more restive under Soviet domination.

At any rate, Foreign Minister Molotov laid down a tough line here harring any concessions. On his way home Molotov confirmed the new Soviet line in Berlin by reviving talk about a new war. This has been a basic element of Soviet fear propaganda in the past but had virtually disappeared before the summit meeting.

Russia is backing the East German government for recognition by the West. It seems clear that on this point, just as in the Soviet drive for an anti-NATO, all-European security system, the Soviet leaders are again prepared to make a weapon of fear by posing threats to the lifeline of blockade-conscious Berlin.

CD Job Urged On Texas State Guard

AUSTIN, Nov. 19 (AP)—Members of the Texas State Guard were asked today to take on a huge civil defense job — organization of mobile support units which could be moved to scenes of major calamities.

William McGill, state coordinator of civil defense and disaster relief, made the request. He told the general conference of the Texas State Guard Assn. that units of that type could be among the most effective in the nation, especially since Texas has more natural disasters per square mile than any other part of the world.

Passions Mounted 4 Years Ago In Beat Truman Drive

NASHVILLE, Nov. 19 (AP)—The spirit of political revolt in the Southland hasn't been snuffed out. But it's flickering only feebly these days in comparison with the fiery passions which were mounting four years ago.

At this time in 1951, rebellious Dixie leaders were waving rebel banners and gathering legions of followers for a "Beat Truman" drive.

Harry S. Truman, then president, hadn't even said he would run again. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower still was in his Western defense command post outside Paris listening to pleas that he run for the presidency.

But rebellion was stirring. Some Southern political leaders were predicting darkly that Eisenhower might be able to split the "solid South" even if he should run for the presidency as a Republican.

And then the uprising that started as a "Beat Truman" campaign became a drive for Eisenhower which carried Texas, Virginia, Florida and Tennessee into the Republican camp.

At this time, the most interesting and significant political developments below the Mason-Dixon line include:

1. The emergence of a strong effort to present the Democratic party as a "party of moderation" in which the "moderates" have the controlling voice.

2. What looks like a surge back toward "party loyalty" due primarily to the likelihood Eisenhower will not be the GOP presidential candidate due to his heart attack.

3. Efforts by supporters of Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver to gain broader Southern support at the national convention by breaking through the barriers raised against him mainly by professional politicians.

4. Efforts by backers of Tennessee's handsome 35-year-old Gov. Frank G. Clement to make him the Democratic convention keynoter and thus project him into the national spotlight and perhaps the state presidency.

Placing the Democratic party in a frame of "moderation" is an idea that is Southern in origin but it is by no means a sectional effort. Those who are developing this approach to the campaign see it as a tent large enough to accommodate all except the "extremists" among the liberals and conservatives.

In his role as Senate majority leader, Johnson has been the adroit middle man bringing Democratic liberals and conservatives together in the Senate in what was at times a remarkably united front.

Now this same effort in substance is being projected to the national field.

The move to encourage moderation has come at a time when a good many Democratic leaders — both in the North and in the South — seem to be pulling back into a wait-and-see position of neutrality before making commitments on a nominee.

The consensus among Southern governors at their recent conference was that Adlai Stevenson, the party's 1952 nominee, is now the strongest potential candidate.

One of the most intriguing aspects of the Southern situation is the past failure by Sen. Kefauver to win wide support in the South for his presidential aspirations — and what is happening today.

In the 1952 convention when Kefauver piled up 340 votes on the first ballot — more than any other candidate — he failed to get a single vote from eight of the 11 Southern states. These states were Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

On the second and third ballots, Arkansas gave him 1 1/2 votes but the other seven states didn't even pay him this small courtesy. Kefauver's Southern support came from Tennessee's 28 votes; 8 of Alabama's 22 votes — this total dropped to 7 1/2 on the final ballots; and 5 of Florida's 24 votes.

Kefauver's supporters are hopeful that their man again will have Tennessee's support; that he will win Florida's preferential primary to capture all its votes; and that other Southerners will disapprove that Kefauver is more acceptable to them than any other candidate.

But Kefauver's position in Tennessee is muddled because the young man sitting in the governor's chair has national ambitions of his own. And neither Kefauver nor Clement has shown any inclination to step aside for the other.

Kefauver people argue that the governor can't afford to be in the position of denying support to a fellow Tennessean at the national convention, and that in a final showdown, Kefauver will have Tennessee's delegation behind him.

But on the other side, a strong Clement supporter says: "If Clement sides with Kefauver, then he will have double-crossed his best friends."

That is the uncomfortable position Clement finds himself in while his supporters, as discreetly as possible, are plugging for him to become the convention keynoter. They believe Truman is looking with favor on Clement as the man to light the fires of enthusiasm at the convention — and they are counting on Truman's support.

Coahoma Water Celebration Reset

The celebration commemorating a new and adequate water supply for Coahoma has been reset for Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Mayor W. C. Hutchins said the ceremonies had been planned originally for 3 p.m. Friday, but tests revealed some corrective measures which needed to be taken before regular service could be started.

Coahoma, along with Sand Springs, will receive treated water from the Big Spring system via a 6-in. cast iron main. The present supply for Coahoma has been both limited and hard.

Formal recognition of the new water supply will be held in front of the City Hall in Coahoma.

Ray's Grocery Reports Break-In

Ray's Grocery, 602 NE 2nd, reported burglary Friday night. Police said there was $38.50 in change, 24 boxes of 22 caliber shells, three knives, 22 cartons of cigarettes, a bank book and a night deposit bag missing. Police records did not show how the entry was made.

Raymond Skinner, 711 Galveston, told police Friday that a western hat and a kitchen stool had been taken from his residence sometime Wednesday or Thursday.

Firemen answered a call to the 1800 block of Gregg Friday night where a car was reported on fire. It turned out the brakes had been too tight and caused more smoke than fire.

The City of Big Spring and Howard County got a pat on the back for sending the special rural fire-fighting equipment to Ackerly last weekend. Flames destroyed an outhouse and threatened a time to spread to the Ackerly business district. H. J. (Sunbeam) Morrison sent officials a letter of thanks for help that might have been really needed had it been a windy night.

John Quinn, who is in the process of moving up to Rear Admiral, Quinn has drawn the Middle East naval command. He is taking his wife and son with him to his headquarters in Persian Gulf, but first they may visit old friends here around the first of December.

The livestock market here last week showed strength, particularly in the stocker classes. Hogs, however, dipped to a new low of 12 to 12 1/2 cents, which makes us wonder how come ham is still so high?

POLITICAL SURVEY

Democrats Have Made Huge Gains Since Ike Took Office

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Democratic party has made spectacular gains in state and city elections since that historic Nov. 4, 1952, when Dwight D. Eisenhower led the Republicans to victory.

Yet despite their losses, Republicans insist the picture isn't nearly so black as it might appear from looking at the bare statistics.

The Associated Press today completed a state-to-state survey to learn what has been happening in local elections.

During the past three years, the nation's voters have:

- 1. Given the Democrats control of both the House and the Senate.
2. Replaced nine Republican governors with Democrats, including politically important states like New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

3. Substituted some Democrats for Republicans in at least three-fourths of the state legislatures, so that the GOP shows a nationwide net loss of almost 500 seats.

4. Put in Democrats as mayor in important cities in Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut and Indiana.

5. But the Republican report card, as marked by the voters, isn't entirely bleak. The Republicans can say that they have:

replaced Democrats in Colorado, Iowa and Ohio; Democrats replaced Republicans in Kentucky, Michigan, Nevada, Oregon and Wyoming. Although this was a net loss of two for the GOP, it was enough to give the Democrats control, 49 to 47.

In the House, the Democrats had a net gain of 17 to win, 232 to 203. Here the difference in political viewpoint is nicely illustrated.

The Republicans say the party lost power always loses ground in off-year elections, and that their 1954 losses were well below the average.

The Democrats reply: "Ike is the first President in this century to lose both houses of Congress only two years after his election to office."

Governors: Democrats have replaced Republicans as head men in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York and Pennsylvania. Republican gains during the same period: none.

Other state officials: Most states have had comparatively few changes since the 1952 elections. Probably the most interesting were in New York and Michigan, which gave 45 and 20 electoral votes, respectively, to Eisenhower.

In New York, Democrats ousted the Republicans from three of the top four state offices. The winners: Gov. Averell Harriman and Lt. Gov. George DeLoach, who were elected jointly, and State Comptroller Arthur Levitt. The fourth Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., was thumped soundly by former Rep. Jacob K. Javits (R) in his bid for attorney general.

In Michigan, Democrats went into the 1954 elections trailing 7-1 in statewide offices. Six offices were at stake, and the Democrats swept them all. The score now: Democrats are in as governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, auditor general, secretary of state and state treasurer. Republicans have the state superintendent of public instruction and the state highway commissioner.

Missouri — Republicans lost 24 seats, and the House, to Democrats.

Montana — House from GOP to Democrats.

New Mexico — In 1952 Republicans won the House 28-27. The 1954 score: 51-4 in favor of the Democrats, a 24-seat loss for the Republicans.

Pennsylvania — House from GOP to Democrats.

AT ODESSA RALLY

Demo Spokesman Sees '56 Victory

The party that wins in 1956 will be in control of the national administration for "at least the next eight years," a Democratic rally of over 100 persons was told in Odessa Friday night. Rep. Stewart Udall (D-Ariz.), calling next year's election the most important in the last decade, pointed up recent Democratic victories in state and local elections in saying his party's prospects for 1956 were bright. "Maybe we should just sit back and let the Republicans defeat themselves," he quipped, referring to a predicted inter-party battle "after President Eisenhower, as he surely will, announces he will not seek re-election." Udall, Tucson attorney and son of Levi Udall, justice of the Arizona Supreme Court, followed the party line laid down by Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, in calling for party loyalty. "I like a good loser," Udall said. "And that attitude has a way of coming home." He pointed out that, as a twice-losing campaign manager in Arizona primary elections, he had stayed in the party to support the winning nominee. He added many of his opponents in Democratic primaries had later helped him win his present post. The cropped-haired young Arizonan lashed "extravagant Republican promises" on several points. "The Republicans promised to balance the budget and eliminate the annual deficit," Udall said. "But it hasn't been done yet. And now the administration is dangling hopes that the budget may be balanced in election year." He called the highway bond plan "incredible." The plan, now abandoned, would have financed U.S. highway construction with a $20 billion corporation outside the public debt structure. On the farm price support issue, Udall claimed "Republican promises in 1952 were the direct opposite of present farm policy."

Johnson Sets Hot Issues Talk

WHITNEY, Nov. 19 (AP)—Lyndon Johnson's address to a Democratic fund-raising affair here Monday night took on added significance today. The Senate majority leader, speaking at San Marcos today, indicated he will take up some hot domestic issues in his Whitney address. Backers of the "Lyndon Johnson Appreciation Dinner" say more than 1,000 Central and North Texans plan to attend the banquet in this little town's high school gymnasium. Altogether more than 1,200 tickets, at $10 each, have been sold. Those listed include Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, Texas' new Democratic national committeeman; Byron Skelton of Temple, chairman of the state's Democratic Advisory Committee; Mrs. Hilda Weinert of Seguin, Democratic national committeewoman; and Navarro County Judge Jim Sewell of Corsicana, former chairman of the Advisory Committee. Johnson at San Marcos urged bipartisanship in foreign affairs but said other policies "will be debated at length in the months ahead."

"One debate on these changes," Johnson said, "will be kicked off Monday night at Whitney"—an obvious indication he will take up some domestic issue in his Monday night address. Texas Supreme Court Justice Robert Calvert will be master of ceremonies at the Whitney Dinner. Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.) of Weatherford will introduce Johnson.

Stanton To Survey Future School Needs

The Stanton School Board has called a meeting for Monday night, to make plans for a school survey, which will be used in future school planning. The board will meet with the school faculty, P-TA and Chamber of Commerce, according to Ed Robnett, president of the school board. Robnett says the school is running at full capacity now. There are no vacant rooms, and next year the enrollment will be even larger. Since 1948 the number of elementary pupils has doubled. By the time this group reaches high school age, Robnett says the school plant will need to be enlarged. "We want to determine just what we can expect during the next ten years in the way of business and school growth in Stanton," he said. "With these facts, we can plan our school more wisely." One reason for the increasing number of pupils is that more rural people are moving into Stanton. Another is the increasing birth rate. Robnett says they want to find out if this is a national trend, and what can be done to take care of these small children when they reach school age. The school enrollment seems to be higher in proportion to the town's population than it was a few years ago. Another thing that seems evident, according to Robnett, is that smaller towns near cities are beginning to catch some of the overflow population. "It is very possible," he said, "that during the next few years many people who have jobs in Big Spring and Midland may decide to live in Stanton. This will certainly give a big boost to our population." The survey will be very thorough and may take months to complete, but the school board thinks it will be worth the time and effort. At present the school faculty is complete, with only one teacher who is not a college graduate. This year for the first time the school board has offered every teacher $300 bonus for completing the term satisfactorily. This also applies to teachers who were hired since the beginning of school, however their bonus will be paid in proportion to the time they have taught.

Prize Money In Fund For Europe Trip

A Junior High School girl here wrote a letter to the Family Weekly last spring with hopes of getting the letter published in the Junior Treasure Chest column. Soon after writing the letter, she forgot about it, because she had written one about a year earlier with no success. But last Wednesday she received word that her second letter had been accepted. And the following day she was presented a $5 check by Harold Canning, business manager of the Herald.

The letter appears in today's edition of the Family Weekly on page 14. The Junior Treasure Chest column contains letters from youngsters about their hobbies and their activities. Beatrice Warren, 204 Mt. Vernon, submitted a letter telling about her hobby collecting Indian relics. She mentioned her vacation to New Mexico the year before where she witnessed five ancient Indian dances. Miss Warren is the daughter of Mrs. A. C. James and is in the eighth grade in Junior High School. The story in the Family Weekly lists her age as 12, but she has had a birthday since submitting the letter.

"After sending off the first entry to the magazine—a poem—and not hearing from it, I didn't have much hope of getting this one published, especially after it had been so long," Beatrice said. She modestly noted that the $5 check would be put in with her other savings. "I'm saving my money to make a trip to Europe after I graduate, but most people just laugh at me." This is the second consecutive week that West Texans have had letters in the column. Last week's Family Weekly had a short letter from a girl in Midland containing a poem.

Wife Held In Stab Death Of Husband

DALHART, Nov. 19 (AP)—Larry Short, 30, was stabbed to death at his home last night and his wife, Mary Katherine, 22, was charged today with murder. Sheriff R. C. Johnson said the two quarreled. Short was stabbed just below the heart with a long-bladed butcher knife. Four children, the oldest 4, survive.

5,000 Baptists Due To Gather In Abilene

More than three score workers from the Big Spring Association are expected to be among the 5,000 Southern Baptist directors and volunteers taking part in the 67th annual meeting of the Texas Baptist Training Union Convention.

The convocation takes place in Abilene during the Thanksgiving holidays. G. G. Morehead, Big Spring, BTU director for the Big Spring Association said that 60 delegates would go from the churches in Howard, Martin, and Glascock counties.

A downtown parade led by cowboys and six white horses, a concert by the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy Band and special renditions by a 100-voice choir and other choirs from six Texas colleges and universities will all be on the program.

Dr. Elwin A. Skiles and the First Baptist Church of Abilene will be hosts to the convention. Dr. T. C. Gardner will be in charge and will present a review of state-wide work. Other prominent leaders who will speak before the messengers include Dr. Baker James Cauthen, executive secretary for the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention; Dr. Forrest C. Fezzer, executive director for the BGC, and pastors.

The convention proceedings will start in the First Church on Thanksgiving morning. The messengers will then divide into 14 separate groups and spread out to adjoining churches.

Special music will be provided by groups from these colleges and universities: Hardin-Simmons, Baylor, Mary Hardin Baylor, Wayland, Howard Payne, East Texas Baptist and Decatur.

Tobin Leaves Income For Wife

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sweetwater may turn out a smaller house for the Thanksgiving Day game there with Big Spring than at any time in recent years. For one thing, nothing will be riding on the outcome of the contest. For another, the Texas-Texas A&M game will be televised in the Sweetwater area. Lubbock and Lamesa scribes have taken issue with Roy Scudday, the Sweetwater writer, over who is the better back Dwayne Powell of Lamesa or Sweetwater's Harroll Hobbs. Scudday insists the balloting wouldn't even be close, if district coaches were polled. John Middleton is the finest back I saw in the Lamesa secondary, a young man worthy of all-district and all-state consideration. Herb Owens, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram's authority on schoolboy football, has made inquiries on Big Spring's Jerry Graves, which means the big linebacker is being favorably considered for that newspaper's all-state club. Midland has completed its 1956 football schedule with a Sept. 28 booking with Pampa in Midland. The Bulldogs play non-conference contests with Lamesa, Lubbock, Baytown, Sweetwater and Arlington Heights. If Bob Woodruff is relieved of his duties as head coach at Florida, he could be succeeded by the former Baylor aide, Frank Broyles. In that event, Tonto Coleman might return to Florida as an assistant, since he and Frank are firm friends. Tonto is, of course, the former ACC mentor and a brother to Big Spring's Carl Coleman. The paid attendance at the Big Spring-Snyder game in Snyder last week was 4,805, which was considerably smaller than was estimated by Snyder officials. Sammy Baugh, the HSU mentor, says his charge, Kenny Ford, will graduate from "aged" to the "fine" category as a passer when he learns to maneuver while he's hunting his targets.

Breckenridge Sought Steer Game

Breckenridge tried booking a 1956 football game with Big Spring last week but the Steer schedule had already been filled. Pampa's coach also called in for an engagement. All AAA and AAAA schools are having trouble completing 1956 cards because the size of most districts have been reduced, which means fewer conference contests are available. They're telling more bear stories about Breckenridge, incidentally. They said they have a junior high team down there which beat the varsity recently. The juniors are supposed to have a quarterback "better than Bennett Watts." That, I'll have to see. Look for the College of Pacific to beat the tubs for a Negro back named Dick Bass, who will rank with Eddie LeBaron as an all-time great for the Stockton, Calif., school before he's through. Big Spring should establish an all-time regular season record for football income next year because (1) they will be in District 2-AAAA, famous for its gates, and (2) their non-conference contests are with teams in the area that always draw well. The Steers play games in Kermit and Andrews and both communities always play to big houses. They say the Kate Morrison team has the best passers among Ward School League clubs here. The only trouble is that few of the Latin-American boys come out for football, once they reach high school. If Big Spring gets a football bowl, you can bet college teams will be trying to book games here. The price of everything is going up in baseball. Tickets have cost operators $240 per thousand, were ordered from the manufacturer. Gilbert Bartosh, the former TCU star, now has a younger brother (Pete) playing for Granger High. He's bigger than Gil, too.

Balks Worked Only On John McGraw

They tell this story on the late Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators: He was pitching for the Chicago White Sox one afternoon. John McGraw was on first base with a single, where he stood berating Griffith and Umpire Joe Cantillon. "Pick McGraw off the bag," whispered Cantillon, standing on the mound behind Griffith. "make a balk and you'll catch Me-

Grav off base." So Griffith balked and the first baseman made an easy tag on McGraw. Cantillon ignored the obvious balk to shout, "Yer out!" Griffith soon had another foe on base and balked again to pick him off. "Balk!" cried the ump. Then, in response to Clark's puzzled look Cantillon whispered, "Balks only work with McGraw."

Snyder Hadn't Beat BS Since 1928

Waco high schools are having attendance troubles at home football games. Only 400 paid to see a University High-Austin tilt there recently and Waco High drew only 1,900 to its go with Highland Park. Billy White, the one-time Little League baseball standout here, now resides in Amarillo. At 182 pounds, Elmer Layden was the biggest of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen. There's nothing in black and white at the Texas Interscholastic League headquarters that says the team which beats the other should represent the conference in the playoffs, if those clubs tie for the championship. Coach Bill Bolin of Knott found that out last week. It took a favorable vote of the district's coaches to get the Billies in the playoffs after Knott and Gail had tied for first place. Such a thing is usually inscribed in the minutes of the district committee before a season begins. Last week's win over Big Spring was the first time Snyder had turned the trick since 1928, when the Bengals won, 7-0. Les Burge, the former manager of the Fort Worth Cats, is now operating a drive-in theatre in North Carolina.

Cassady Paces Bucks To Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 19 (AP)—Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, climaxing a fabulous collegiate career, set up a freakish field goal scored one touchdown and led Ohio State to a 17-0 victory today over cross-fallen Michigan, which lost its Rose Bowl bid before its largest crowd in history—97,369 spectators.

The dramatic shutout—Ohio State's first victory in Ann Arbor since 1937—gave the Buckeyes their second straight Big 10 championship and clinched the Rose Bowl nomination for Michigan State.

Blue Devils Slam Deacons, 14-0

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 19 (AP)—Senior halfback Bob Pascal scored both touchdowns and set an Atlantic Coast Conference single-game rushing record today to lead Duke to a 14-0 football victory over Wake Forest.

Cassady, an All-America halfback from Columbus, Ohio, ripped Michigan's veteran line from start to finish. He carried 37 times for 136 yards. Cassady's brilliant rushes set up Ohio State's first score in the second quarter—and Fred Kries' 19-yard field goal hit the left upright and bounced through the crossbars.

Jim Swink Nears Rushing Record

FORT WORTH, Nov. 19 (AP)—Jim Swink, Texas Christian's great ball-carrier, ran his total for nine games to 1,152 yards today as he made 66 yards against Rice and that left him 151 to get in next week's final game with Southern Methodist to set a new Southwest Conference record.

As a result, the top of the Big 10 standings wound up this way: Won Lost Pct. Ohio State.....6 0 1.000 Michigan State.....5 1 .833 Michigan.....2 2 .714 Ohio State pushed across 8 points in the fading minutes on a safety and fullback Don Vicle's 1-yard slam over center. Cassady had scored from the 2 as the last quarter started. It was Ohio State's 13th straight conference victory, just two short of the record piled up by Michigan in 1946-47-48.

Football Conga Line

Players of the Forsan and Christoval six-man football teams seem to be doing a version of that well-known South American dance in the above action. Forsan sprang a major upset in beating Christoval, 32-25.

Forsan Upsets Christoval

FORSAN, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Forsan Buffaloes rounded out their 1955 football season here Friday night with an upset 32-25 victory over Christoval. The win gave Forsan a season record of six wins and three losses—two of the losses being to district champs. The Buffs got off to a 6-0 lead at the end of the first period but found themselves trailing at half time 19-12.

Syracuse Hands WV Second Loss

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 19 (AP)—Syracuse made its first visit to West Virginia University in nine years today and handed the Mountaineers their second straight football defeat, 20-13, in a snow storm. Syracuse scored twice after recovering WVU fumbles, and two other touchdowns were called back.

The Mountaineers scored first with 34 seconds gone in the second period, and again with less than two minutes remaining in the half. But after intermission, West Virginia could get nowhere, and didn't make another first down until a minute and half remained to play. Today the difference was made by the Orangemen's tremendous left halfback, Jim Brown, who bored through the Mountaineer line with ease. Brown didn't get any touchdowns but he swept up yardage to put Syracuse out of trouble whenever it was needed.

More Ducats Need Be Sold

Approximately 200 tickets have been sold, but at least another 50 will be required to insure operation of a special train to Sweetwater Thursday for the Big Spring-Sweetwater football game. Officials of the sponsoring Quarterback Club urged that tickets ($2.05 for round trip) be secured as early Monday as possible.

Southern Methodist Shades Baylor For Second Victory

WACO, Nov. 19 (AP)—Sharpshooter John Roach and fleet Don McIlhenny earned Southern Methodist a 13-0 thrill-scare victory over favored Baylor before 20,000 today. Roach tossed two fourth-down touchdowns passes while McIlhenny led a Mustang rushing attack that clicked only at odd moments. It was Baylor's first shutout in 59 half games.

Frogs Crush Flock To Gain Bowl Bid

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Nov. 19 (AP)—Texas Christian toyed with Rice for a 35-0 victory today to move into the Cotton Bowl as host team Jan. 2. Chuck Curtis' passing and the running of Ray Taylor and Vernon Hallbeck administered the worst defeat in 34 years of football competition with the Owls. Rice was losing its sixth straight game — the first time in a quarter of a century of coaching for Jess Neely to suffer this humiliation.

Lakeview Shocked By Dragons, 8-7

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 19 (SC)—A highly over-confident Lakeview football team of Big Spring suffered an 8-7 loss to Plainview here Friday night.

In a previous game, the Rockets had won a 29-0 decision. A first quarter safety which occurred when Lemuel Green was tackled in the end zone provided the points Plainview needed to win.

A&M can win the conference championship by beating Texas Thanksgiving Day. If Texas should win and TCU defeat Southern Methodist next Saturday, Texas Christian would be champion. Curtis passed for two touchdowns and set up two more with his throwing. The first TCU score was on a 4-yard Curtis toss to O'Day Williams, the next was on a 22-yard run by the massive Hallbeck, the third was on an 18-yard dash by sub-quarterback Dick Finney, the fourth came on a 12-yard pass from Curtis to Taylor and the final on a 22-yard blast by Jim Swink. Harold Follari methodically kicked all five extra points.

Gold Sox, Dukes Get Approval

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 19 (AP)—The Western Baseball League announced tonight that Amarillo, Tex., and Albuquerque, N. M., had been admitted to the Class A loop. Admission of the two clubs brings the Western circuit back to the eight-club membership it had before Denver and Omaha withdrew to join the American Assn.

BILLY CRAMER

Ex-Bulldog Now ACC Gridder

ABILENE, Nov. 19 (SC) — Bill Cramer, all-district end and guard at Coahoma High School in 1952 and 1953, is now catching footballs for the Abilene Christian College Wildcats.

Cramer earned a freshman football letter at Rice Institute in 1954 as an end but transferred to ACC last spring.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Cramer of Coahoma, Bill is majoring in math at ACC.

He lettered four years in football at Coahoma, four years in basketball and two years in track.

ACC has a 2-4 record this fall. Last Saturday they earned a share of the Gulf Coast Conference title by licking Midwestern, 26-21. The Wildcats will share the GCC loop crown with the winner of the Trinity vs. North Texas battle Dec. 3.

Badgers Succumb To Gopher Surge

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19 (AP) — Gopher halfback Bob Schultz shredded Wisconsin's defense in a fierce running display that brought Minnesota a 21-6 victory today and spoiled the vaunted drive of Badger Coach Ivy Williamson.

Schultz, a 177-pounder with the drive of a fullback, scored two touchdowns and performed superbly on defense to steer the Minnesotans to their third victory against six setbacks.

He received hefty support from a quick-charging Gopher line and another sophomore, fullback Dick Borstad, whose pile-driving gave the Badgers no chance to set for Schultz.

A crowd of 62,714 sat cheerfully in 26 degree cold to watch the Gophers gain their first triumph over Wisconsin in seven years.

Titans Grind Out 19-13 Success

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 19 (AP) — Detroit's Titans, thwarted all afternoon by their own mistakes, cashed one of Tulsa's in the last three minutes today for a 19-13 victory today to lead the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

Detroit tackle Steve Gomala recovered a Tulsa fumble on the Golden Hurricane's 21 and Bill Russell and Jim Lobbokovich rushed it in three plays to the one, from where Lobbokovich plunged for the winning tally.

The Tulsa miscue by Charlie Wynes came on the first play after the Hurricane had blocked an enemy march on the 25 and the Titans' Dick Chapman missed a field goal from that point.

Lamar Tech Wins Over Sul Ross

BEAUMONT, Nov. 19 (AP) — Quarterback Jerry Boone passed for three touchdowns and scored one himself here today to lead the Lamar Tech Cardinals to a 26-13 homecoming victory over the Sul Ross Lobos.

It was Lamar's season finale and gives the Redbirds a final record of 4-6 on the season and 2-4 in Lone Star Conference play.

Sul Ross, with another game to play, has dropped all five of its conference outings in compiling a 2-7 mark.

The Citadel Loses To Florida State

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 19 (AP) — Halfback Buck Mettis scored three times in a touchdown parade that gave Florida State a 39-0 victory over the Citadel today.

A cheering homecoming football crowd of 15,785 saw Florida State even its season record at four victories and four defeats with a crushing display of rushing power.

The Citadel was helpless before the hard blocking and savage running of the Seminoles.

Fem Bowlers Plan Trip To Odessa

Big Spring women bowlers are taking part in the Merchants Tourney this weekend in Odessa.

Under the Pinkie's banner, they rolled in team matches Saturday evening and are scheduled to bowl singles and doubles matches at 3:45 p.m. in the group are Marie McDonald, Lockie Beach, Ruth O'Connor, Jessie Pearl Watson and Frances Glenn.

Fourth Quarter TD Gives Raiders Win

LUBBOCK, Nov. 19 (AP) — Quarterback Jack Kirkpatrick, making his first appearance in the game, directed Texas Tech 58 yards in the fourth quarter to the touchdown that gave the Red Raiders a 13-7 victory over College of the Pacific before 16,500 Dad's Day fans today.

Kirkpatrick also kicked the extra point as the Raiders won the rubber game in the series and their sixth win of the season.

The Raiders opened the scoring with three seconds left in the first quarter, marching 52 yards on nine plays. Fullback Jim Sides plunged three yards for the score, but quarterback Buddy Hill's conversion effort failed.

The Tigers retallied in the second quarter to take a 7-6 lead, moving 73 yards on eight plays. Quarterback Del Whittier, plunged one yard and halfback Ken Swearingen converted for the lead.

In the final stanza, Kirkpatrick made his dramatic appearance. COP halfback Don Cornell's punt traveled only 18 yards and Tech took over on its 42. Halfback M. C. Northam, fullback Ronnie Herr and Kirkpatrick mixed ground plays along with a pass to halfback Hugh Fewin and a key third-down pass of 13 yards to end Ken Vahey on the COP four. Northam plunged to the one-foot line and Fewin carried over for the winning touchdown.

Mighty Sooners Rout Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 19 (AP) — Oklahoma's mighty Sooners buried the hopes of Nebraska's fired-up Cornhuskers under a relentless avalanche of touchdowns today for a 41-0 triumph and their 10th Big 7 conference football title in 10 campaigns.

Although slowed at the outset by fumbles and drive-choking penalties, Oklahoma racked up a 13-0 halftime lead and drew on its vaunted speed and depth to make it a second half runaway.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's nationally top-ranked Sooners ran the country's longest current victory streak to 28 games and gobbled up their 33rd conference game without defeat.

Nebraska was knotted with Oklahoma for the loop lead with a 5-0 record before today.

It was a swan song for Nebraska Coach Bill Glassord, who announced Thursday he'll not be back next year. The 1955 Glassord team, which winds up the season at 5-5, drew heavily on spirit in a bid to make the sendoff a good one, but Oklahoma would have none of it.

The only serious Husker threat developed in the first quarter when a fumble by Oklahoma's Billy Pricer, recovered by Husker center Doran Post, put Nebraska on Oklahoma's 36.

Nebraska drove to the 8, but Oklahoma's Dennis Morris stopped the bid by intercepting on the goal line and returning 33 yards. Oklahoma rolled from there and quarterback Jay O'Neal made the drive good on a 1-yard sneak with 2 minutes of the first period remaining.

From there on it was Oklahoma's show.

Houston Cougars Trim Wildcats

HOUSTON, Nov. 19 (AP) — Kenzie Stegall, 162-pound senior halfback, carried the ball only three times, but included touchdowns runs of 30 and 60 yards today as the University of Houston took a 26-14 intersession football victory over Villanova.

Each of Stegall's long runs pulled the Cougars from behind as the Philadelphia Main Liners' 14-point underdogs, twice jumped into the lead on the passing of Bill Magee, a sophomore quarterback starting his first game.

Not a defender touched Stegall as he took a handoff and raced around right end from the 30 in the second quarter to put Houston ahead, 13-7. Only one Wildcat touched him as he repeated the same play in the third quarter on a 60-yarder that made it 20-14.

A 7-yard pass from Magee to halfback Davey Parr had given Villanova a 7-0 lead. A 23-yard pass in the third quarter to end Mike Boruch moved Villanova to the Houston three. Fullback Tony Esoro plunged over from the one on the second play to put the Wildcats into a 14-13 lead.

A 35-yard fourth down pass from quarterback Jimmy Dickey to end Ken Wind gave Houston its first touchdown, while fullback Ronnie Caraway climaxed a 73-yard final period drive by powering over from the one on the second play to put the Wildcats into a 14-13 lead.

A 35-yard fourth down pass from quarterback Jimmy Dickey to end Ken Wind gave Houston its first touchdown, while fullback Ronnie Caraway climaxed a 73-yard final period drive by powering over from the two.

'You're Still The Best,' Martin Tells Jim Swink

FORT WORTH, Nov. 19 (AP) — Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian's Cotton Bowl football team was thrown in the shower on this cold day but he got as much fun out of it as the TCU players who deposited him in the water.

His first thought, upon being asked what he thought of TCU in its 35-0 victory over Rice, was of Jim Swink, the great TCU halfback who was held to his smallest rushing yardage of the season by the gang tackling Owls.

"You're still the best in the country, old partner," Martin said, putting his arm around the silent Swink. "They loaded up on you out there today and turned old Ray loose."

Martin was referring to the fact that the Owls concentrated on stopping the conference's leading ball carrier but while they did it Ray Taylor, the TCU right halfback, was running all over the field.

"Swink was worth a lot to us out there today, don't think he wasn't," Martin grinned.

Swink was held to 66 yards on 16 carries but scored a touchdown to make his season total 117 points — the biggest in the nation.

Martin said he thought his No. 1 unit was sluggish but that the No. 2 outfit was tops. Dick Finney, who ran the No. 2 team and scored one of the touchdowns, shouted: "This'll get us a watch and a blanket, won't it? He was talking about the Cotton Bowl game."

Over in the Rice dressing room, Jess Neely, the Owl coach who had lost six games in a row for the first time in 25 years of coaching, said glumly: "TCU has a nice team and they are well-balanced. I did think we would play them a better game than we did. It is

Terrapins Win 19-0 Verdict

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 19 (AP) — Halfback Ed Vereb scored two first half touchdowns behind his second string line and Maryland fought off George Washington throughout the scoreless second half for a 19-0 victory today that sends the Terrapins to the Orange Bowl with their third undefeated team in five years.

Lynn Beightel, quarterbacking the first string in place of Frank Tamburello who operated the reserves with a heavily bandaged neck, got Maryland off to a 6-0 lead by throwing to end Russell Dennis for a 41-yard play the first time the Terps had the ball.

Coach Jim Tatum gave his second string working with Vereb, the ball when it recovered a fumble on the GW 26 later in the period.

Vereb capped that drive with a plunge from the 1, then came back late in the second quarter to finish a 60-yard drive on a 4-yard dive with 17 seconds left.

Maryland's line, led by vicious tacklers Mike Sandusky and Jack Davis, held GW to a net gain of 3 yards and one first down in the first half. The game was played on a soft field suffused by snow which stopped just before the game started.

In the second half, however, George Washington was stopped smack on the Maryland goal and advanced to the 21 and 16. Maryland made only one other threat, to the 12.

65-Yard Dash Gives LSU Win

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 19 (AP) — Halfback Levi (Chuck) Johns bounced off three Arkansas tacklers in the line and raced 65 yards for a touchdown to break up a defensive battle and start Louisiana State toward a 13-7 victory over Arkansas today.

The sprint, on the first scrimmage play of the second half, was the initial defensive lapse of the game. The capacity crowd of 35,000 watched LSU add the winning touchdown on a 74-yard thrust early in the fourth quarter. Fullback O. K. Ferguson got the score on a 20-yard jaunt through left tackle.

On the ensuing kickoff, halfback Ronnie Underwood put the Razorbacks back in the game, taking the ball on the 12, shaking three tacklers at the 25 and then outrunning LSU end John Wood down the sidelines to score.

The Hogs couldn't advance past midfield in the remaining six minutes, despite a couple of nice passing gains by quarterback George Walker.

Favored K State Is Upset Victim

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 19 (AP) — The Oklahoma Aggies, exploding for all four of their scoring drives after recovering fumbles, upset favored Kansas State 28-0 today.

Fused-up for their final home appearance, the Aggies scored twice as many TDs as they had in any previous game this season.

The closest Kansas State got to the Aggie goal was in the second quarter when it moved to the 4. But A&M recovered a fumble and Forrest Campbell went over from the 1 for the first Cowpoke score shortly afterward.

The drive was duplicated 4 minutes later when the Aggies covered a fumble on their 49.

Second Half Surge Enables Plainsmen To Triumph, 21-0

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 19 (AP) — Led by sophomore end Jimmy Phillips and slashing Bob James, the Auburn Tigers slambled over three first half touchdowns for a 21-0 victory over the Clemson Tigers today. The victory enhanced Auburn's chances of a post-season bowl bid.

It was the first time Clemson had been held scoreless this season. A week ago, Clemson, now with a 6-3 record, had led mighty Maryland 12-0 before bowing 25-12.

Auburn played its sharpest game of the past four weeks, although missing the services of fullback Joe Childers, an All-America candidate. Childers has a leg injury and watched the game in civilian clothes.

Phillips and James were the big noise in the first half.

The 205-pound Phillips leaped high to take a 14-yard pass from quarterback Howell Tubbs, then powered past three Clemson tacklers into the end zone on the 40-yard play.

Purple May Play Middies In Cotton Bowl Contest

FORT WORTH, Nov. 19 (AP) — Texas Christian is in the Cotton Bowl and who's it going to play? The word is out that the Horned Frogs would like to meet Navy. There has been no official announcement but that is the situation.

Navy is considered No. 1 on the Cotton Bowl list for visiting teams, but the Cotton Bowl is waiting the result of the Army-Navy game next Saturday before making an announcement.

TCU earned its way into the Cotton Bowl by beating Rice 33-0 today to clinch at least a tie for second in the Southwest Conference race. Texas A&M will win the championship Thursday if it beats Texas, but can't play in a bowl game because it is on probation.

If Texas beats A&M Thursday and TCU loses to Southern Methodist Saturday, Texas and TCU would wind up in a tie for second. In that event, TCU would get the Cotton Bowl spot because it holds a victory over Texas.

The Southwest Conference today announced the result of a mail poll to decide which team would play into the Cotton Bowl in the event A&M wins the championship. The poll, reportedly passed five votes to one (with A&M not voting), provides that the representative of the Southwest Conference in the Cotton Bowl will be a team "not prohibited by conference action from playing in post-season contests, which has the highest ranking in the final football standing, with the same provisions for ties as used in former years." As a result of today's game, TCU now becomes the Southwest Conference representative to the Jan. 2, 1955, Cotton Bowl Game.

Broken down this means: If A&M wins the title, the second place team will go to the Cotton Bowl, in the event of a tie for second, the team that beat the other during the season gets the bid.

This does not answer rumors out of Jacksonville, Fla., that A&M would be given permission by the conference to play in a game other than the Cotton Bowl but Dr. E.D. Moulton, president of the conference, said last night that there had been no request from A&M for permission to play in another bowl game, that the probation against A&M specified that A&M could not play in any post-season game and that he anticipated no request that the ban against A&M be lifted. He also indicated that he didn't think it would be lifted under any circumstances.

But Trojan joy was short-lived. The entire Trojan front line was offside—5 yards too close to the kicker.

Southern Cal three times appeared into Bruin country, and on the third drive they scored to end a brilliant 89-yard march.

McBride set up another scoring drive in the second quarter with a fumble recovery on the East Texas 36. Bobby Gibbens scored from the one through guard to give the host team a 14-0 lead.

Gibbens romped through tackle for 67 yards to the eight as the Bobcats continued their scoring ways in the third. Graham took a pitchout and raced around right end for the remaining eight yards and the third Southwest score.

The final Bobcat touchdown came when Gibbens plunged over from the one.

Bobby Fox completed three passes to move the Lions within scoring distance in the third period for the connected with Bobbey by Ewell for 15 yards and the lone East Texas score.

Sam Houston Has Chance At Title

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., Nov. 19 (AP) — The Sam Houston State Bearcats beat the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks 27-6 in a Lone Star Conference game today.

With a 5-1 league mark, the Bearcats have a chance to tie for the conference title with East Texas or Southwest Texas.

Sam Houston sewed up the game with two touchdowns in the last quarter. Quarterback Stan Keithley tossed a 28-yard pass to halfback Gail McGinty for one of the markers, and Bennie Boles' 48-yard scamper was the clincher.

Sam Houston amassed 330 yards rushing and 145 in the air, while SFA rushed for 145 and picked up 112 on passes.

RESERVE FORCES ACT OF 1955

YOUNG MEN, according to provisions of the Reserve Forces Act of 1955, may become draft deferred by enlisting in the Army Reserve for eight years. Only six months of that enlistment must be spent on active duty training—after completion of high school.

MEN WHO HAVE SERVED on active duty can complete their Ready Reserve obligation by serving satisfactorily one year with an active Army Reserve unit. Any remaining military obligation will be completed in the Standby Reserve in which participation in reserve training is not required.

IN EITHER CASE, it's A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION for YOU —for YOUR COUNTRY. For full information about the two new active reserve programs, contact:

Basin Drilling Hits New Peak For Year With 558 Rigs Going

A 1955 rotary drilling high was set in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico on Nov. 10, according to the semi-monthly survey conducted by Reed Roller Bit Company.

The latest report showed 558 rotary tables turning in the Basin, as compared to the previous high of 532 on May 10. One year ago, there were 473 units in operation. In the past, drilling in the Permian Basin areas tended to slacken as the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons neared, but this year, drilling has picked up almost continually on each of the Reed surveys during the past six months.

Johnson Called To Ike Parley

SAN MARCOS, Tex., Nov. 19 (U) — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) announced today he had been called to the White House for a Dec. 13 conference with President Eisenhower and others, presumably on foreign policy.

Johnson returned here — the scene of trials and triumphs as a poor boy college student — to insist to a school homecoming crowd that both parties shun foreign affairs as a 1956 presidential campaign issue and confront the world with unity on foreign affairs.

He said there were other issues and promised to get into the debate on at least one of them at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in his honor at Whitney, Tex., Monday night.

Johnson did not expand on his announcement about the Dec. 13 conference but departed from the prepared text of his speech to make it at a point where he had said there would be future summit and lower-level meetings on foreign affairs.

The Texas Democrat, recovering from a heart attack suffered in July, spoke forcefully before an audience at Southwest Texas State Teachers College. He grinned and said he would attend the Dec. 13 conference assuming that his and President Eisenhower's health permitted.

Johnson had scheduled a final physical checkup for mid-December and had hoped to resume elective Senate leadership in January. His Dec. 13 flight would mean an earlier return to Washington than previously expected.

An administrative aide said the telegram from Washington summoning Johnson did not give details of the conference.

As usual where Johnson's friends gather, there were some indignant reference to him as presidential material.

Among other things, a float in the homecoming parade depicted two of Johnson's homes: the farm where he lived as a boy near Johnson City, Tex., and his college residence here, and one other house — the White House.

Johnson has repeatedly insisted he is not a candidate for anything. In his speech Johnson stuck to foreign policy and to recollections of his college days as a janitor, salesman, and secretary to the college president.

"The American people have passed the stage where foreign policy is a political issue," Johnson said. "There are still individuals who seek partisan advantage from that kind of politics. They have harassed every president for 20 years."

"Americans have adopted the concept of bipartisanship in foreign affairs," Johnson said. Again he departed from his text to praise Sen. Walter George (D-Ga) for his "inspired leadership."

Johnson said he did not mean foreign policy should be free of "legitimate debate." Every move should be subjected to careful examination, he said.

Vernon Whiteside, the Houston businessman who created a stir yesterday by saying Johnson would announce for the Democratic presidential nomination in his San Marcos speech, drew laughter today.

He told the homecomers his former college room mate had achieved great success as a member of the House of Representatives as a senior senator from Texas, as Senate majority leader, and (after a pause) "as blank, blank, blank."

Loud laughter greeted Whiteside's obvious reference to his assertion of yesterday. Whiteside withdrew his statement about Johnson's presidential aspirations two hours after making it, saying he had made a mistake.

Truman Peps Up Demo Rally

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (U) — Former President Truman visited around today at the Democratic party rally, giving short, homely pep talks predicting an "overwhelming" election victory for the party next year.

He said that nearly three years of GOP administration has shown "There's no change in the Republicans. They're just like the bourbon; they never learn anything and they never forget anything."

Earlier, he visited with members of the party's Advisory Committee on Political Organization, also at breakfast, and predicted "an overwhelming victory" in 1956.

Truman said that after 20 years of Democratic organization, the public felt it needed a change, and now, after that change, "The voter finds there's nobody in Washington to whom he can go for help."

He dropped into a session of the Advisory Committee on Agriculture.

"It's kind of presuming of me to tell you folks what to do," he told the group. "You've got two secretaries with you." He referred to Claude R. Wickard, committee chairman who was secretary of agriculture under President Roosevelt, and Charles F. Brannan, Truman's secretary of agriculture.

"The farmers are beginning to find out just exactly who their friends are," Truman said.

Bond Posted In Bank Case

LOCKNEY, Nov. 19 (AP)—M. W. Wiley, former president of the First National Bank, has posted $2,500 bond in Federal Court in Lubbock on six indictments returned by the federal grand jury at Amarillo. Wiley resigned as bank president early in August after bank examiners checked. The indictments include four charges of embezzlement by a bank officer and two charges of false entry in bank records. Wiley is a former vice president of the Dumas First State Bank but sold his interests there six years ago.

U. S. Joins Five-Nation Middle East Defense Pact

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The United States today announced its "military and political liaison" with the five-nation Baghdad pact in the Middle East. The pact brings together Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan and Britain in a northern tier ringing Russia's southwestern boundaries in the Middle East. The United States has indicated it may some day join the treaty, but not at this time. Its strong support moved one step forward with today's announcement, which also said U.S. observers are being sent to the pact nations' first meeting at Baghdad on Monday.

"The United States hopes that this new organization will develop increasing strength enabling it to fulfill its defensive purpose," the announcement said. Designated as observers at Monday's meeting were Waldemar Gallman, U.S. ambassador to Iraq; Adm. John H. Cassady, U.S. Navy commander in the Mediterranean, and Brig Gen. Forrest Caraway.

'Copter Service To Carry Ike Aides To Talks

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Nov. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower set up a helicopter service today to assemble members of the Cabinet and National Security Council for meetings next week. The meetings will be held at the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains. They are the first he has called since his illness. He summoned the Security Council to a meeting at 2:30 p.m. Monday and the Cabinet to a session at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

He will leave his Gettysburg home about 1 p.m. Monday for the 25-mile drive to the meeting place, Camp David. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, told of the plans at a news conference after a consultation with the President in his snow-covered farm home where Eisenhower spent a day of relaxation with house guests and a neighbor, George E. Allen.

The snow, which started falling early in the morning and measured above two inches by 9 a.m., was accompanied by freezing weather which kept the President indoors. He played bridge with some of his favorite cronies, including Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, commander of NATO forces in Europe. Hagerty said Eisenhower was in "fine shape" after a good night's sleep of more than eight hours. The press secretary said no unusual significance was to be attached to the NSC and Cabinet meetings which were in the planning stage before Eisenhower left Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denver Nov. 11 to convalesce further here from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

Planners Urge Filibuster Curb, Abolition Of Seniority System

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Abolition of the congressional seniority system and effective curbs on Senate filibusters were among legislative reforms recommended today in a report published by the National Planning Assn. The association defines itself an independent, nonpolitical organization of leaders in business, agriculture, labor and the professions. Ten years ago it published a report by Robert Heller which was the basis of many reforms embodied in the 1946 Congressional Reorganization Act.

The current report, titled "Congress and Parliament," was written by George B. Galloway, American government specialist in the Library of Congress. It is a comparative analysis of the operation of Congress and the British Parliament. To "increase the efficiency of our national legislature," Galloway made these suggestions, among others: 1. Both the Senate and the House should have majority policy committees composed of major committee chairmen and headed by the majority leaders. These committees would plan the legislative program and prepare timetables designed to expedite legislation, carry out campaign pledges and avoid end-of-session jams. 2. Congress should determine the main principles of legislation in open debate, leaving the details to standing committees; it should enforce a code of fair procedures for investigative committees, and should give its chief elective officers, the speaker of the House and the majority leader of the Senate, power to appoint and remove committee chairmen. Galloway said this would have the effect of abolishing the seniority system by which committee chairmanships go, generally speaking, to men who have been in Congress longest. 3. Both parties should have "genuine party policy committees" to correct "existing handicaps to effective leadership." 4. "More responsible and effective party organization" should be developed by merging various leadership groups, holding frequent meetings of the entire membership of each party and adopting party rules providing for binding caucus decisions. 5. "Unlimited and irrelevant debate, which is a long-standing problem in the U. S. Senate but not in the House of Representatives," could be remedied by permitting a simple majority to close debate and giving the presiding officers power to order a vote when they feel that a question has been "sufficiently discussed."

White Members Quit Golf Club

ASHEBORO, N. C., Nov. 19 (AP)—About 20 of the 170 white members have withdrawn their memberships from the municipally owned golf course here after about 10 Negroes were permitted to play the course this week. Edward D. Cranford, chairman of the Asheboro Golf Commission, said "the course will definitely close" for financial reasons "unless something is done about it." "Quite a few others," he said, had protested. Cranford said the commission plans to abide by the Supreme Court's recent decision against segregation on public parks and playgrounds. He indicated he believes the action of the Negroes in playing the course was a test case. He added that Asheboro has only a few Negro golfers. He said the Negroes asked to play on the course, paid their green fees and that no effort was made to prevent their playing. Cranford said the club's only income is derived from memberships and green fees.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 19 (AP)—An impressionist painting called "La Marsellaise" was awarded first prize by a jury at the Winnipeg Art Gallery and was denounced as "a nauseating flop" by a woman sponsor of the show. At $200 it went unsold and has been returned to artist Jean Paul Mousseau of Montreal. The jury found it "very poetic."

QUEEN
EUNICE FREEMAN

Eunice Freeman was crowned Homecoming Queen of Big Spring High School at half-time activities during the Plainview-Big Spring game Friday evening.

Selected by popular vote of the student body, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Griffice Jr., 1208 Lloyd. Five high school girls were chosen as nominees, from which the queen was elected. Her identity was kept secret until the announcement was made Friday evening.

The other nominees and their escorts then formed the Queen's Court, which included Sandra Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Jennings, 1008 Bluebonnet; Frances Reagan, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Horace Reagan, 806 W. 15th; Sue Boykin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zollie Boykin, of Silver Heels Addition, and Kenda McGibbon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McKibbon, 108 Cedar.

Plans December Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Sloan, 1401 S. 45th St., Temple, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nella Jo, to the Rev. Donald L. Robinson, formerly of Big Spring and now of Temple. He is the son of Mrs. J. B. Robinson, 18 S. 19th St., Temple. The wedding will be at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 23 at the East Side Baptist Church in Temple, with the Rev. Martin M. Drews, pastor of the Temple Calvary Baptist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Harry Middleton Honored With Coffee

Mrs. R. V. Middleton and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Buckner, were hostesses Saturday morning for a coffee in the Middleton home, when they presented Mrs. Harry Middleton to friends. Guests were greeted by the hostesses, and Mrs. W. E. Carnike, introduced were the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Ray Hightower of Garden City, and her sister, Mrs. A. B. Kelly of Midland. A cornucopia holding fresh fruit and fall flowers decorated the sewing table, which was laid with an ecru lace cloth. On the buffet was an arrangement of chrysanthemums in fall colors. Silver serving appointments were used by Mrs. Bob Kountz, Mrs. Tom Buckner, Mrs. Lorin McDowell and Mrs. Bob Piner, who alternated with the serving. Others in the house party were Mrs. Harry Hurt, Mrs. G. T. Hall, Mrs. Marion Edwards of Coahoma, Mrs. F. H. Talbot, Mrs. Elmer Boatler, Mrs. Ira Thurman and Mrs. John Taylor.

Glenn Guthries Hosts To Guest From Louisiana

Mrs. R. V. Guthrie of Lafayette, La., is visiting her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Guthrie. Cosden was glad to be selected as host by the teachers of Big Spring in celebration of BS Day, Friday. Upon arrival at the refinery, corsages and boutonnières were presented to the teachers in the lobby of the main office building. This was followed by a brief lecture concerning the underlying principles of refining and special emphasis was given to the use of the specialty items which Cosden produces in addition to typical fuels. Representative samples of the prime products which Cosden produces were made available to the teachers for individual examination.

Small groups of teachers were then dispersed with guides to tour the refinery. The sights visited were the main shops building, the laboratory, the lubricating oil emulsion plant, the roofing asphalt plant, the BTX plant and the cat cracker. The group then adjourned to the Cosden County Club. Following a luncheon, the various aspects of crude oil production, pipe line transmission, traffic and marketing were discussed. The day was concluded with a tour of the administrative offices of Cosden located in the Premium Building.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yeats and family are spending their vacation in Gadsden, Ala., visiting relatives and friends.

When R. L. Tollett attended the American Petroleum Institute in San Francisco last week, Mrs. Tollett was with him. They sailed Friday on the SS Lurline for Honolulu and will arrive in Hawaii Wednesday. They will return by American Airlines on or about Dec. 1.

Coahoma Circle Sets Plans For Christmas

Plans for the annual Christmas party were made by the six attending members of the Coa-Kate Circle of the Coahoma Presbyterian Church when they met recently. They met in the home of Mrs. Clovis Phinney Jr. Mrs. Bill Best led the Bible study from Romans 12 on "Graces of the Life of Faith." Mrs. Phinney spoke on "First Fruit of Residue." Prayer was said by Mrs. Jo Dell Gregory.

Midway P-TA Sees Scout Honor Court

At a meeting of the Midway P-TA Thursday evening at the school, Harvey Hooser presided at a Boy Scout Court of Honor and presented a Star Award to Douglas Wilson.

Second-Class awards went to Doyce Wilhite, Troy Wilhite, Douglas Earnest, Dewayne Richter, Ronnie Cunningham, Gene Kinal and George Ragsdale. Boys winning first class awards were Wayne Smith, Ronnie Graham, Don Lilly, Jerry Graham and Richard Johnston.

Don Atwood was introduced as a new scoutmaster to assist John Ragsdale and Pete Earnest. R. H. Weaver spoke to the group.

Hulen Priester brought the devotion, and Boone Cramer spoke on the "Family and School." Plans were made for a bake sale to be held at Safeway Food Store on Nov. 23. Christmas treats for the school were discussed.

Mrs. R. E. Fowler was awarded the prize of the evening, a turkey. Thirty-five attended the meeting.

Lunch In Westbrook Honors Service Man

WESTBROOK — Mrs. Margaret Powell entertained for her son, Fred C. Powell Jr., recently with a luncheon, which was attended by about 14. The honored guest has been here on leave from Park Air Force Base, Calif., and was to return during this past week.

The Homemakers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Bettie Evans. Mrs. Emma Byrd presided, and Mrs. Lala Smith brought the devotion. Mrs. Margaret Powell was elected secretary to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Bettie Coe, who has moved to Abilene.

Plans were made for an airmail Christmas party, and names were drawn for the exchange of gifts. Committees were appointed for the party, which is scheduled for Dec. 9 at the church.

Two Ladies Host Afternoon Party

Mrs. Harvey Williamson and Mrs. Dee Davis were hostesses at an informal afternoon party Saturday at the Country Club.

The serving table was laid with a beige linen outwork cloth and centered with a Thanksgiving arrangement of fruit spilling from a basket, flanked by yellow and silver appointments were used. On a black tea cart, from which coffee was served, was a silver candelabra and tiny bronze mums.

Thar's Diamonds In Them Specs

Latest item in the luxury lineup is a pair of eyeglasses with diamond studded platinum frames, designed by Schiaparelli and priced at $10,000.

The frames are set with a combination of emerald-cut and brilliant-cut stones in a crown effect from temple to temple, with a miniature coronet over the bridge.

John Kelly will spend the holidays with his children, Choo-Choo and Bubbles, in Dallas.

George Zachariah, who was injured in an automobile accident this week, is improving and plans to leave the hospital next week. Bob Leisenring, Dallas, and Joe Riegel and Barry Cornwall of Wilmington, Del., all with Du Pont, who were also in the accident, were able to continue on to El Paso and subsequently to their homes.

The following visitors were reported in the Engineering Department during the week: J. B. Downey of The Swartwout Company, Houston; Tony DeCamp with Tube Turn, Midland; Frank Hayhurst of Ingersoll-Rand, Midland and Don Schoonover of Gulf States Specialties Co., Houston; J. B. Mull, a former Cosden employe, with the Atomic Energy Commission of Colorado, visited the refinery Monday.

The following refinery men are on vacation and will return to work Monday: J. C. Tonn, T. Gentry, J. F. Gibson, H. D. Weeg, Jr., L. V. Morgan, K. G. Wise, J. C. Cox, D. E. Smith, C. F. Hull, D. A. Allen, H. L. West, J. F. Anderson, R. G. Lepard, N. R. Harvell, H. A. Rogers, T. A. Proctor and K. B. Curry.

Artist To Lecture To Local Art Club

Rene Mazza, artist from Italy, who is now conducting classes in Midland, will lecture and show some of his work to the members of Las Artistas Club this afternoon.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Patterson, 407 Edwards Blvd. Mazza has been in America for the past 17 years and had a studio in Dallas since 1942.

Mrs. Castleberry Hostess At Lunch

Mrs. Tasso Castleberry entertained her co-workers at the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company with a "come-and-go luncheon" Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

About 40 attended the affair, for which the table was laid with a lace cloth and decorated with white tapers. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. J. B. Ewing, Mrs. Johnny Broughton, Mrs. Wesley Griffin and Louise Thomas.

Family Devotions

Faith Moves Tuttle To Make Home Here

Newcomers come to Big Spring for many reasons, and the Noah Tuttle family is no exception.

A non-denominational minister, the Rev. Tuttle said that a group of people who felt the need for a non-denominational organization of baptized believers called him here. Rev. Tuttle was an independent worker in Henderson.

Other members of the Tuttle family include Mrs. Tuttle, and their sons, Lonnie, 7, who is in the second grade, five-year old Larry, and Rickie, who recently celebrated his second birthday. They live at 1402 Pickens.

At the present time, Rev. Tuttle is conducting a revival with services at 7:30 p.m. daily and at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. The worshipers are being held at 110 W. First. Mrs. Tuttle usually assists her husband by directing the music, but during the revival, the Rev. J. O. Haney is in charge of the song service.

"I came to Big Spring to establish a non-sectarian Christian organization that is not against any church, but just a group of free worshipping people. We try to magnify the points of agreement and minimize the points of disagreement with the Bible as our only treatise," the minister explained. Originally from Cushing, Okla., the Tuttle family lived the past six years in Henderson. They moved here Nov. 5.

Rev. Tuttle does not have a special hobby, but enjoys evangelistic work. The entire family likes to travel.

Big Spring also has other new families that have recently made their home here.

Lt. and Mrs. G. H. Reynolds, 310 W. 5th, are from Montgomery, W. Va. He is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

From Adams City, Colo., came

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dennis and their sons, Jo, 17, and 13-year old Joel. Jo is in the Navy. Mr. Dennis is employed by A. P. Kasch and Sons Contractors. They live at B12 in Ellis Homes.

Stationed at Webb are Lt. and Mrs. R. V. Herminson, 1710 Main, from Fargo, N. D. They have a thirteen-month-old daughter, Debra. A new Suggs Construction employe is Bob Cates. He and Mrs. Cates and their two sons, Robby, 3, and Mark 2, reside at 108 Birch. They are from Whitesboro.

Lt. and Mrs. M. E. Spring, 508 Johnson, list Houlton, Maine, as their home. They have two children, Gary, 3½ and Debbie, age 2.

Employed by Hilburn Appliance Company, H. C. Hocker and his family are from Brady. They live at 1804½ Scurry. The children are Harvey, 3, and Winifred, 17 months.

A lieutenant stationed at Webb Air Base and his family live at 194-A Air Base Road. They are J. R. Ivers and his wife, Gloria, and 15-month-old David.

From San Angelo come Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Craddock and five-month-old Denny, who live at 113 E. 16th. He is employed by the Texas Electric Service Company.

Lt. and Mrs. J. A. Kelly and their son, Jim, 14-month-old, who reside at 104 B Airbase Road, moved here from Clarksdale, Miss. The Emmett Long family, father, mother, Alina, 4, Seywaine, 2, and Richard 8 months, are from Swifton, Ark. He is an Airman Second Class at the base.

Now making their home at 1404 Wood are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Broderson from Levelland. He is a line coach for the high school and she is a North Ward teacher. Dixon, Calif., is the past residence of Lt. and Mrs. J. D. Pichon and their sons, Jimmy 4 and Gregg,

When there is a sick person in the house, an ordinary cotton shoe bag can prove helpful to the "nurse" and to the patient. Tuck the top of the bag between the mattress and the bedspring. The bottom rows of pockets that are left hanging out can hold magazines, tissues, and other items within easy reach of the patient.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Margaret Pierce

Business College in Abilene for one year. While in high school, Joe was junior class president, he participated in the Future Farmers of America, and he was a two-year letterman in baseball and basketball. Welcome to the home of the Jayhawks, Joe Morren!

JOE MORREN

A rehearsal of the HCJC choir was held Monday night at 6:30 p.m. New numbers were practiced as well as the ones that were sung for the luncheon of the Rotary Club on Tuesday, which were "Let Us Break Bread Together," "Say Ye To The Righteous," and a selection from "Oklahoma." Martha Winans played a number on the piano.

The Lass-O Club met in a regular night meeting Tuesday. The Mother-Daughter Tea, which is to be held today at 3 p.m., was discussed along with other business. Those attending were Pat Duncan, Mary Forehand, Sue Neal, Jo Ann Watkins, Betty Earley, Belva Jo Wren, Claudine Butler, Lois Spivey, Margaret Pierce, Frankie Brown, Willella Hanks, Yvonne Peterson, and the two sponsors, Mrs. David Cuiffardi, and Mrs. Dean Box. Lois Spivey and Frankie Brown presented some musical numbers and afterward, all of the girls participated in singing popular numbers.

A general assembly was held on Wednesday at 9:45 a.m. A visiting speaker, Colonel C. M. Young, gave a very interesting talk on our world situation with Russia and communism. He stressed that the Air Force is prepared to take care of any situation that might come about. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Anthony Hunt, president of the college.

Classes were dismissed Friday all day to observe Business-Education Day. The faculty members visited places of business in town. Five girls from the college and a sponsor will leave this afternoon, to attend a Texas Junior College Press Conference at A&M College. Those taking the trip are Claudine Butler, Pat Dunn, Leta Fletcher, Margaret Pierce, Betsy Wise, and Miss Elizabeth Daniel. They will return Tuesday afternoon.

Classes will dismiss Wednesday, at noon, for the Thanksgiving holidays. They will begin regular schedule again Monday, at 8 a.m. The Business Club will meet during Activity Period Monday morning in Room 201.

The Aggie boys of HCJC attended Field Day at Abilene Christian College Tuesday. They visited the college agriculture department and farm and heard interesting speeches on their chosen subject.

Today, we introduce a freshman part-time student, Joe Morren. He was graduated from Westbrook High School in 1950 as valedictorian and attended Draughon's

Aurora Yanez Is Wed To Francisco Gallardo

Saturday morning at 7:30 in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Aurora Yanez became the bride of Francisco Gallardo.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dolores Yanez, 704 NW 5th, and the late Ynes Yanez. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Celadonio Armadillo of Corpus Christi.

Father Jerome Burnett performed the informal double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Chon Puente, the bride wore a white lace ballerina gown over satin. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to a white head piece. She carried pink carnations.

Maid of honor, Rachel Yanez, was attired in a white ballerina length dress with silver trim, and also carried pink carnations. Olivia Rodriguez, bridesmaid, selected an orchid dress of similar fashion and her flowers were pink carnations.

Best man was Emiliano Fierro. Timoteo Salazar served as groomsmen.

Carrying the kneeling cushion were Linda Sosa and Linda Gonzales, both dressed in orchid. Maria Elena Dutchever, in a pink dress, was the ring bearer.

At the reception held in the home of the bride's mother following the wedding, a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was served. When the couple returns from a trip to Corpus Christi, they will make their home in Big Spring. The bridegroom is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

The bride attended Big Spring High School and the bridegroom attended high school in Corpus Christi.

Lucy Takes It Easy

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Lucille Ball Offers Her Formula For Happiness

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—When I first met Lucille Ball about ten years ago there was nothing about her to indicate that she would be the sensation she is today. She was one of the unhappiest girls in the cinema capital. Her marriage was shaky because she was working in Hollywood and her husband was stuck with a long engagement on the East Coast with his band. Her career was not flourishing either because Hollywood was trying to make a glamour girl of her when she knew comedy was her forte.

The Lucy I met on the set of "Forever, Darling," which she and Desi are making at MGM, was an entirely different woman. She radiated happiness and one had only to look at her and Desi to know that they are happily married.

"Desi looks so boyish and full of fun," I commented as we watched him cavorting with some of the crew. "It's hard to believe he's one of TV's most successful producers."

"He works hard and plays hard," Lucy said. "Nothing seems too important to him and he never rushes."

"I've learned a great deal from Desi," she continued, looking at him affectionately. "I've picked up his rhythm. Everyone tells me I'm more relaxed than I ever was. We may laugh at the 'manana' attitude of the Latins but when you really get to know them you realize that this is a good philosophy."

"They believe in doing one thing at a time. It took me years to understand this," she continued, "but now that I do I feel it was worth working for."

"You've never looked better," I commented. "Tension is the number one enemy of beauty." "People always ask me how I manage to do so much," Lucille went on.

"They marvel that I find time to do a good job of being a wife, mother, hostess and actress. There's no secret formula. It's merely a question of concentrating on one thing at a time; learning not to allow your thoughts to wander to unfinished business or other things that will tie you up in knots."

"When you lead a busy life, organization is important," she continued. "I never get-out of bed in the morning without already having my whole day planned. Then, once something is done, I forget about it. Learning to put things out of your mind isn't easy but it's my anti-worry secret."

I asked Lucy if being married to a Latin had given her a greater appreciation of femininity.

"Absolutely," she said. "I often feel sorry for us American women because of our independence. We are taught to make our own way and take care of ourselves but men don't really like women who are self-sufficient."

"In Desi's country women are brought up with the idea that they must depend on men to take care of them. I think this is a good thing. It's dangerous for a marriage when a man feels his wife is entirely capable of getting along without him."

Lucille has exquisite hands with beautifully groomed, oval nails. She informed me that she takes care of them herself.

"I change my polish several times a week and scrub my nails with a brush to bring up the circulation. I use a hand cream with hormones."

"Some manicurists insist that filing your nails square will keep them from breaking but I have always filed mine in an oval shape and have had no trouble," she told me.

Lucy has a very nice complexion for someone so constantly in make-up and I asked her to describe her skin care routine.

"My skin is fine-grained and reacts best to a liquifying type of cream. After an application of cream I steam my face with hot towels, open the pores, then apply another layer of cream. I leave it on a few minutes, then remove it thoroughly with a tissue. As a final touch I rinse with cold water to close the pores again."

We chatted about glamour girls and Lucy had this to say. "I have nothing against glamour and beauty except that sometimes I think it is a handicap to a woman. There are women who have these things who never bother to develop other important traits like personality and brains."

"My advice is to develop the talents which you have a natural talent for and people will acquire and respect you for it," she concluded.

LUCY'S DIET FOR YOU
"Lucille Ball's Favorite Reducing Menu," an easy-to-follow routine that let her slim down from a size 16 to a size 12, is only half of the good information you get in leaflet M-26. The other half is an important section called "Perfume: How to Choose and Use It." You'll get both when you send only 5 cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, (care of The Big Spring Herald.) Be sure to ask for leaflet M-26.

Writers Workshop Will Meet Today

The meeting of the Writers Workshop, originally scheduled for the home of Lorena Brooks, will meet today at 3 p.m. at the House of Art, 304 Johnson. Miss Brooks will be hostess to the group.

Anyone interested in creative writing is invited to visit the club at any of their meetings. For more information concerning the work, call Mrs. T. C. Thomas, Alta Vista Apartments, dial 4-5713.

Country Club Lists Plans For The Week

Members of the Big Spring Country Club are invited to the club this afternoon for a Scotch foursome, which will begin at 1 o'clock, or a bridge tournament, to start at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. G. B. McNallen will be hostess for the bridge games. Players are to arrange for partners, and price of admission is 50 cents per person.

Tuesday is scheduled as Ladies Golf Day, with play to begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday, those expecting to enter the Domino Tournament on Friday evening, should make their reservations.

The Domino Tournament will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the club. This is an activity for the men. Hors d'oeuvres will be served Saturday from 5 to 7 p.m. for members and their out-of-town guests.

Sweater, Once Fad, Gains Popularity

What started out a few years ago as an amusing fad has become a classic in the American woman's wardrobe — the glitter sweater.

Manufacturers of fine cashmere and wool sweaters say that orders for the jeweled versions for holiday wear are bigger than ever this winter, despite predictions that the vogue would die.

So you'll be seeing these festive pullovers and cardigans in the shops in wide variety this season, gayer than ever — perfect for any dress-up occasion during the holidays and afterward.

Among new ideas in decorated cashmires this winter are cardigans bound with hand-embroidered grosgrain ribbon, with leopard trim with hand-crocheted Paisley designs or with applique lace.

Although colors range from all the vivid tones through black, the favorites are still white, gray and beige.

Flowers For The Queen

Eunice Freeman, escorted by Leon Clark, was crowned Homecoming Queen Friday night during the half-time activities of the Big Spring-Plainview football game. Members of the royal court were Frances Reagan, escorted by Michel Musgrove; Sandra Jennings, accompanied by Donnie Huit; Sue Boykin, who walked with Billy Johnson, and Kenda McGibbon, escorted by Tom Henry Guin.

New Convertible Awaits Cotton Maid After Tour

A gleaming new Ford convertible will be awaiting the 1956 Maid of Cotton when she returns at the end of her tour next summer, the National Cotton Council has announced. Judge J. C. Johnson, West Memphis, Ark., president of the Memphis District Ford Dealers advertising committee, has revealed that the dealer group will present the automobile to the cotton industry's fashion and good will ambassador.

The 1956 Maid of Cotton will be the tenth to be honored by the Ford dealers' group. Judge Johnson said that presentation of the car symbolizes the close working relationship between the cotton and automotive industries. The automobile industry is one of the largest consumers of cotton.

When contest finals are held December 23 at Memphis, the new Maid will receive a certificate of presentation and keys to her automobile. At the conclusion of her tour next summer, she will return to Memphis for a formal presentation of the car itself.

The contest now is under way to choose the young lady who will serve the cotton industry as its eighteenth fashion and good will representative. Any girl born in a cotton-producing state who is between the ages of 19-25, who has never been married, and who is at least 5 feet 5 inches tall is eligible to enter.

Entry forms and complete information are available from the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 9905, Memphis 12, Tennessee. All entries must be completed and returned postmarked no later than midnight December 1. Each entry must be accompanied by two recent photographs, one a head and shoulders portrait and the other, full length.

The Maid of Cotton competition is not a beauty contest in its usual sense. Cotton Council officials emphasize, Girls will be judged on the basis of personality, poise, and intelligence, as well as appearance. Immediately after the Maid is chosen, she will leave for New York for a month's preparatory training period and fittings of her glamorous cotton wardrobe designed by 40 fashion pacesetters. Her tour begins officially at Nassau, Bahamas, January 31 and will carry her to more than 30 cities in the United States and Canada. Plans for a European tour will be announced shortly, the Cotton Council added.

Each year the contest and tour are sponsored by the National Cotton Council, the Memphis Cotton Carnival, and the Cotton Exchanges of Memphis, New York, and New Orleans.

Football Queen

Marceline Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Gill of Garden City, was crowned football queen during the half-time activities in the game between Water Valley and Garden City Friday evening. She is a junior in the high school.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

The wonderful Thanksgiving season is here again and now is the time when friends gather for visits, to listen to their favorite ball-games, and to be thankful to God that they are able to be with their families and to worship as they choose.

This Thanksgiving will see many ex-students of Big Spring High School here for the second homecoming. Many plan to attend the football game in Sweetwater while others will remain here for family gatherings.

Spending their first Thanksgiving in Big Spring will be Mrs. E. R. FRENCH formerly of Waco, and her mother, Mrs. E. K. LIGHT who until recently made her home in Wichita Falls. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. ROY ROSENE for their Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. Rose ne is Mrs. French's daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. PENNEY are planning to spend the holidays in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. GERALD SANDERSON and JERRI will leave late Wednesday for Monday to visit with her mother, Mrs. O. E. Howard, and her brother, Carroll.

In Dallas for an extended visit with her son, Dr. Sydney Baird, is Mrs. LALLA BAIRD. When in Big Spring, she makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Baird, Sr.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. WILLIAMS for the weekend will be their daughter, Frankie, who is a student in Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, and her friend, Penny Dulaney, who is a medical art student from New York City. Also expected home is their son, John C. Williams, who is studying at Texas A&M.

Mrs. ALMA GOLNICK and Mrs. BETTY RATLIFF will spend Thanksgiving in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. MADDRY are in Midland today to visit with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson. Mrs. Maddy tells us our friends, Pete and Margaret Ann Kling are so busy with their work in Roswell that they have little time to visit here any more. Pete has a drug store and Margaret Ann has a variety store.

Visiting in Forsan from Los Angeles are Mr. and Mrs. Ken Brown who are the guests of her sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. JACOBS. The Jacobs' daughter, Mrs. Dan Bailey of Jal. N.M., visited them recently while her husband was on a deer hunt.

MRS. JOE BURRELL and MRS. E. W. COWDEN of Midland visited here with friends during the week.

ELLEN DAVIS waited a long time, but she finally made it to a college football game. She saw her first one last night in Waco when she went with her son, Grady, to see the Baylor-SMU game. Mrs. Davis had visited with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Kirk, in Ballinger, and then with Mrs. Kirk and her son, Calvin. They went to Waco for a visit with her son.

The J. B. PICKLE family is planning a family gathering Thursday when Jake Pickle and his daughter, Peggy, come from Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lancaster and their three children from Kermit come for the weekend to gather with the home folks.

Guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. CHARLIE LAWRENCE the past weekend was Mrs. L. S. Caughey of Stephenville. She is a sister of Mrs. Lawrence. The Big Spring couple recently attended the NTSTC homecoming in Denton. They saw the NTSTC-Tennessee game.

Mr. and Mrs. BURR BROWN of Coahoma plan to spend part of the holiday with her mother in Lorraine and also to visit with her brother, Sam Spikes, in Snyder. She says Sam is improving after suffering a heart attack several months ago.

MYRNA TALLEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Talley, and GWEN TALLEY of Odessa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adams Talley of Odessa will spend Thanksgiving here in the Louis Talley home. Both girls are students in NTSTC. The Adam Talley and their son, Bobby, will also be here for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. WALKER, and their two daughters from Tulsa plan to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. RILLA WEBB.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. KEESE and Mrs. E. R. WHITE entertained the faculty and board of the HJCC with a "Mr. and Mrs. coffee" Saturday morning at the Keese home. Mrs. Keese served from a table laid with a forest green cloth and used a brass service. The centerpiece of fruit was held in a brass fruit bowl. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Blankenship and Dr. and Mrs. Loy-al Norman. The Keeses plan to spend Thanksgiving in San Antonio attending the Texas State Teachers Association meeting.

The GILBERT GIBBES plan to visit with his cousin and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Breedings when they go to Sweetwater Thursday. They intend to get the football game in during the afternoon.

JAN BAGGETT and RICHARD DEATS, students in SMU and PERKINS SEMINARY in Dallas, will arrive Wednesday evening for the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Baggett and Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Deats.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. TOMMY MAY over the weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deats of Fort Worth.

DR. and Mrs. CLYDE THOMAS have had as their guest, Mrs. Louis Kilgore of Dallas who returned to her home Saturday.

If their plans work out, the OMAR JONESSES will spend the weekend with her folks in Sulphur Springs.

MR. and Mrs. LEROY TIDWELL are expecting her brother and his family for a Thanksgiving stay. They are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hatler and their four children of Grapeland.

Durant, Okla. is the weekend destination of Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES SWEENEY and their children Mrs. Sweeney's parents live there.

There's going to be a full house at the GUILFORD JONESSES if everyone gets there who planned to come for the festive day. They are expecting MR. and Mrs. G. L. JONES SR. of Marble Falls, MR. and Mrs. J. K. HAYNIE of Elgin and MR. and Mrs. WALTER MERRIMAN and their children of Throckmorton.

E. B. COMPTON is in Dallas where he is attending a Cadillac school.

MR. and Mrs. A. M. RIPPES are visiting with friends in points of South Texas.

Forsan FHA Girls Observe Hobo Day

FORSAN—Hobo Day was observed Saturday by members of the FHA Club, when the girls were hired by residents for clean-up jobs.

Mrs. Charles Ray Howard and Brenda of Big Lake were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Howard.

Mrs. Emma Orr has returned to her home in Graham after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sam Moreland, and Mr. Moreland.

Deer hunters this week have been George Gray, Kenneth Cowley and Buddy Sullivan, who were in Llano County.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Winget Jr., Linda and Larry of Odessa are guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Winget.

Forsan Favorites Have Been Chosen

FORSAN—High school favorites have been elected at Forsan High School. They are Lorita Overton and Charles Skeen of the freshman class; Chequita Fowler and Tony Starr of the sophomore class; Belvin Martin and Ronnie Howard from the junior class, and Mary Beth Gaskins and James Buchanan, seniors.

Visiting here from McAllen has been Walton Gwynn in the C. D. Fowler home.

Hunters in Mason this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. John B. Anderson, Jimmie and Nancy Jo, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hayhurst of Big Spring.

Rob Etheridge has returned from a visit in Kermit.

Seamstresses Should Use Originality

The woman with the most original clothes is often the woman who sews her own.

Even the amateur home seamstress may draw inspiration from surprising sources. For example, a length of acetate satin blanket binding has been used by one bright home sewing fan to bind neckline and cuffs of a simple jersey blouse, with distinguished effect.

The blanket binding, which is resistant to fading, comes already folded and ready to stitch. Pin it in place, being careful to miter the corners neatly. If you plan to apply it with straight stitching, put the pins in crosswise, the hinged presser foot of your sewing machine will skip right over the pins, eliminating the necessity for basting.

It is suggested, however, that an edging of decorative stitching can be very effective. If you'd like to add a decorative touch, set your machine for a long basting stitch. Then select a pretty stitch such as the "icicle" or "walls of Troy" and work around the edges of the zigzag attachment, which fits all slant-needle and most straight needle machines.

FOR HOLIDAY PARTIES

Informal Frock Will Be Star For Gay Evenings

Jo Copeland's designs are a reflection of herself: soignée, suave and sophisticated. This dramatic model for cocktail, restaurant and informal evenings at home is handled, in the Copeland manner with dignified restraint emphasized by the chic hip drapery that stands out in a side pouf.

Best in fabrics such as pearl do sole, taffeta, satin, and novelty brocades to give body and softness to the hip detail, it is ideal for all the holiday parties. As a color from black, consider a pale shade with or without use the threads, and capitalize on the best fabric news of the season.

This pattern is cut to Designer Measurements, not Standard Pattern Measurements.

Size 10, bust 34½, waist 25½, hips 35 inches; size 12, bust 35½, waist 25½, hips 36 inches; size 14, bust 37, waist 27, hips 37½ inches; size 16, bust 38½, waist 28½, hips 39 inches; size 18, bust 40, waist 29, hips 40½ inches.

Size 12 requires 3¼ yards of 50-inch material. To order Pattern No. 1159, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, Dept. B-5, New York 1, N. Y. State Size. Send $1. Airmail handling 25 cents extra.

New 141-page Pattern Booklet XII available for 50 cents. If payable by check, make it payable to Spadea Syndicate, Inc. and add 4 cents for handling.

So You Think That You're A Hard Worker!

Housewives never had it so good. If you are skeptical, consider the instruments of torture with which Mom and Granny were expected to keep the house clean.

Some 200 vintage cleaning implements dating back to 1735 make up a display at the Museum of Household Implements, recently opened in Brooklyn by Alex Lewyt, who honored his collection by offering a new vacuum cleaner in exchange for antique cleaning gadgets.

The pre-revolutionary housewife used a broom made by tying a bundle of corn stalks to the limb of an ash tree. The first carpet sweeper to turn up at the museum dates back to 1864 and works by a pulley.

Vacuum cleaners first appeared around the turn of the century—but the earliest models were about as noisy as a locomotive. It took two to work a 1907 model; Grandpa stood on a wood platform and pumped a heavy iron handle while Grandma went over the carpet with a nozzle.

A 1923 vacuum cleaner caused a lot of excitement and also developed muscles. Two handles were pumped scissors fashion to create the suction. Another of slightly later vintage looked something like an accordion—the weary housewife crunched the heavy iron handle with one hand to move the cleaner over the floor, and with the other pumped the bellows.

Mrs. Waymon Etchison reported on the recent meeting of the HD Council. The homestead committee reported that a permanent place had been secured where trash might be dumped.

Elizabeth Pace, HD agent, talked to the group on the planting of roses. She told of the correct way to plant the bushes and stressed the care, fertilizing, pruning and spraying of them.

The Christmas party was planned for the afternoon of Dec. 13 at 2 o'clock in the home of Mrs. L. G. Atkins. Eight members attended Thursday's meeting.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snodgrass, 1201 Barnes, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joan Beard, to A-3C Vincent Incandella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent P. Incandella of Manchester, Mass. The wedding vows will be read by the Rev. Roy Johnson in the Chapel Baptist Church Dec. 18.

Patterson Speaks To P-TA In Gail

GAIL — Rep. Robert Patterson, Snyder, highlighted school bills passed by the Legislature in 1955 in an address before the Boynton County Parent-Teachers Association here Monday.

The P-TA's basket style family Thanksgiving supper for everyone is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday at the school cafeteria.

The P-TA also voted to furnish Christmas gift bags to Boynton County school children to buy a full-length door mirror for the girls' dressing room; and to sponsor Cub Scout and Boy Scout units.

Mrs. John Stephens, O'Donnell, president, was in charge of the meeting which was attended by 25.

Tommie Jo Williamson

Tommy Jo Williamson steps into the position of senior-of-the-week. Tommy, who is president of the Feta Tri-Hi-Y No. 1, is also a senior student council member. Last year she served as vice president of the Junior Class, and has held various offices in the MYF at the local First Methodist Church. Tommy is rated among the top 10 smartest seniors in BSHS.

The local DeMolay Chapter chose Tommy Jo as their sweetheart during her sophomore year and she was crowned Halloween queen this year. A holder of several Rainbow offices during the past few years, Tommy has also been an FHA member, and was selected outstanding chemistry student her junior year.

Nineteen journalism students and El Rodeo staff members journeyed to Lubbock Saturday for Journalism Day on the Texas Tech campus. The purpose of J-Day is to expose journalism students to the many career aspects of journalism and to place emphasis on necessary career training. Twenty-three towns had representatives present for this conference, for which Tech has been preparing since last Spring. A high school newspaper contest was an important item in the day's activity in which recognition was given for the best high school newspaper, for the best news story, for the best sports story, for the best feature story and the best editorial, for the best column, the best advertisement and best photograph.

The group attended the Tech-College of Pacific football game at Tech before returning to Big Spring.

Students who attended were Freddie Simpson, Ann Richbourg, Preston Bridges, Eunice Freeman, Marlene Mann, Richard Pachall, Gerald Lacky, Billy Johnson, Alton McCarty, Ricky Terry, Frances Reagan, Carolyn Miller, Donald Lovelady, Charlotte Jensen, Carol Rogers, Margaret Fryar, Sally Cowper, Marilyn Morris, Chloie Carroll, and Mrs. L. H. Steward, Journalism instructor.

A much appreciated holiday was given students in all Big Spring schools Friday to allow teachers in the system, as part of Business, Industry, and Education Week, to visit and become better acquainted with various businesses in the city. Teachers numbering 231 participated in the program, which started Friday, at 9 a.m. in the BSHS auditorium and continued throughout the day.

The El Rodeo staff, however, spent many hours Friday laboring over tedious last minute details of the first shipment of the annual, the deadline of which is Dec. 1. Don't forget to purchase your El Rodeo annuals from any staff member. The price is $5 and they will continue to be on sale until Dec. 1.

A group of speech students and debate members left Big Spring at 6 a.m. by bus Saturday bound for the Activity Conference at Texas Tech. Debators, extemporaneous speakers, poetry readers, etc., went through their paces merely for criticism and not for a contest judging.

The conference ended at noon, and the group attended the Tech-College of Pacific football game that afternoon. Those attending were J. D. Adams, Tom Guin, J. T. Baird, Gary Tidwell, Clara Freeman, Don Shore, Leon Clark, Jerry Girdner, Dennis Jones, and Dell McComb, speech instructor.

Train tickets for the Big Spring-Sweetwater Thanksgiving game at Sweetwater are on sale at the high school at $2.05 for the round trip. The train, which leaves Big Spring, Thursday, Nov. 24, at 10 a.m. will arrive at Sweetwater about 10:40. After the game, the train will leave Sweetwater at 6:00 p.m. and will arrive at Big Spring about 6:40 p.m.

Margaret Fryar will go to Lamesa Tuesday, where she will attend the wedding of a friend, Judy Allen.

Donna Belew pulled up home stakes this week for Lubbock, where she will live. Tuesday was her final day at BSHS.

Bennie Compton left Friday morning for Austin, where he attended the Planning and Training Conference for Youth and Government. All officers and candidates for governor from all over Texas were present. A special tour of the Capitol Building and meeting of the governor of Texas occupied Saturday morning, and the afternoon was mainly devoted to planning rules and regulations for Youth and Government.

Richard Engle, Thomas Gregg, Nancy Michell, J. T. Baird, and Barton Grooms will lead discussion groups at the MYF Sub District Meeting. The event will take place Monday at 7 p.m. in Midland's First Methodist Church. The program will center around "Out-reach."

Last Monday night Margaret Fryar, Sue Boykin, and Jacqueline Smith were elected delegates to serve as representatives to Youth and Government, with Kenda McGibbon and Sally Cowper to serve as alternates. These girls are members of Feta Tri-Hi-Y No. 1.

Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y elected senators and representatives. Remember that Monday is the deadline for turning in registration cards for Youth and Government.

Wilma Bradley was chosen sweetheart of the BE Club recently, while Sue Wilson was elected vice president to fill the vacancy left by Virginia Segrest. Ronnie Schafer, who takes the place of Delbert Hutchens, will head the scrapbook committee.

A main event in next week's Homecoming Activity will be the Homecoming Parade which will begin at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. Starting at second and Nolan, it will follow the same route as last year's parade did.

Included in the organizations entering floats will be the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs, American Legion Auxiliary, FTA, Central Ward, Rainbow Girls, Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes, the Cheerleaders, and bands from WAFB, and Senior and Junior High Schools.

Several business firms will have cars in the parade as well as a car for the Homecoming Queen. Judges will be R. R. McEwen, Jr., R. H. Weaver, and Jim Zack. Bounce Colvert, Alton McCarty, Jerry Graves and Johnny Janak accompanied the yell leaders as they did the Boogie at the Thursday pep rally before the Big Spring-Plainview game. A new yell, "Whistle-Boom" was introduced by the yell leaders. Milton Davis, Charles Johnson, Jerry Graves, Bobby Fuller, J. D. Adams, Jerry Barron, and Gerald Lacky also got into the act and did the yell, "Amen."

Eunice Freeman, escorted by

Leon Clark, was crowned Homecoming Queen during half-time activity of the Big Spring-Plainview football game Friday night. Other top nominees for Homecoming Queen were Frances Reagan, escorted by Michel Musgrove; Sandy Jennings, escorted by Donnie Hult; Sue Boykin, escorted by Billy Johnson; and Kenda McGibbon, escorted by Tom Guin.

Big Spring defeated Plainview 21-13 in the last home football game of the season. A few kids seen there supporting the Steers were Buddy Martin, Jane Hill; Charles Dunnam, Jolene Reynolds; Billy Bob Sattierwhite, Adrain Degraferried; Richard Engle, Rodney Shepard, Sally Cowper; in this eighth renewal of rivalry with Plainview.

The BSHS band played host to Plainview's band for a party and program in the cafeteria after the game. An audience of 140 people viewed the program that was made up entirely by the band students.

The cast of entertainers was composed of band students. Charlie McCarty served as master of ceremonies, and other performers included Jimmy Simmons, who opened the program with a welcome; Jimmy Montgomery pantomimed "Sixteen Tons"; Billy Gage gave a skit entitled, "Horace, My Pet Lion"; Leon Byrd did a pantomime to "Home of Blue Lights"; and Don Cannon and Jimmy Simmons gave the closing skit.

Taylor's To Hold Revival In Lamesa

LAMESA — The annual fall revival at the First Baptist Church begins tonight with the Rev. Charles Forbes Taylor, world famous evangelist, preaching.

Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m., except on Saturdays, and will continue until Dec. 4.

Laurie Taylor, the evangelist's brother, will be in charge of the music. He is a concert pianist.

The brothers, who have been an evangelistic team for 35 years, will show movie slides of their world tours. They have been sponsored by over six thousand churches in the United States, England, Canada and Australia.

Mrs. Mosher Feted With Pastel Shower

Mrs. Richard Mosher was honored with a pink and blue shower Thursday night in the Tropical Room of the NCO Club. Hostesses were Mrs. Vincent Best, Mrs. Robert Summerall and Mrs. Robert Hayes.

The ten guests played buncos. Winners were Mrs. E. C. Ermann, Mrs. William Pearce, Mrs. Thomas Dauch, Mrs. Robert Marks, Mrs. Summerall and the honoree.

Pale green streamers extended from a baby doll in the center of the refreshment table. The doll was completely dressed in baby clothes that were presented to Mrs. Mosher. She was also presented with a basinette trimmed in green.

Christoval People Visit In Forsan

FORSAN—About 35 from Christoval attended the football game between Christoval and Forsan Friday evening. Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. Sid Shipley.

Ronnie Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Howard, was injured Friday evening in the Christoval-Forsan football game.

Mrs. James Underwood was high score winner when the Casual Bridge Club met recently in the home of Mrs. M. M. Hines. Mrs. Don Limbocker of Monahans, a guest, won second high.

Bingo winners were Mrs. O. W. Scudday and Mrs. A. D. Barton.

Mrs. Stripling Tells Way To Plant Peonies

By ANNE LEFEVER
"I know from experience that the roots of peonies must not be planted too deep if they are to bloom," said Mrs. Robert Stripling, 551 Hillside, an experienced grower of peonies.

Mrs. Stripling recommends planting the roots where they will get plenty of sunshine and will have shelter from the wind. She suggests putting them on either the south or the east side of shrubs or walls.

This is the season to divide peonies or to plant the new roots. If they are to be divided, which should not be done too often as the plants resent being moved, wash off all the dirt after the roots are dug.

Cut the root apart, leaving one or two eyes on each part to be planted. Dig a hole for each root section, spacing them about three or five feet apart. The soil should be light and loose.

The gardener said that an 18-inch hole is not too deep, since the soil must be mixed well with one cup of fertilizer, either bone meal or barnyard manure. On top of this, place a layer of sand or peat moss so that the eyes will not come in contact with the fertilizer.

Roots should be placed so that the eyes are not more than an inch below the surface of the ground. The reason for this is that peonies prefer cold weather, and a good freeze will help in their growing and blooming. In an unusually warm season, some gardeners have piled ice-cubes on the young roots.

Another point brought out by Mrs. Stripling is that peonies are in two classes, tree and herbaceous. The latter type is the better variety for West Texas climate, according to this gardener. Order or buy roots with from three to five eyes on each root.

For plants already established, a pound of bone meal may be worked into the soil after the blooming season has ended. Such plants may be given small amount of barnyard fertilizer in the fall. Care should be taken, however, to put it at least six inches from the roots, or it will rot them.

Mrs. Stripling advises watering peonies well during the season of bloom, and water thoroughly once a week during the summer. Warning was given against cultivating the soil around the plants early in the spring, since the eyes should be close to the surface and will be broken.

If larger blooms are desired, this gardener disbuds her plants by pinching out all except the largest bud of the cluster.

A garden worker who also knows the history of her plants, Mrs. Stripling remarked that peonies were imported into the United States from China in the year 1800. Since 1920, there have been 800 types developed in this country. She has been a member of the Big Spring Garden Club since its organization.

Lamesa Girl Scouts Tell Program Plans

LAMESA — Junior Garden Club members, composed of those who are in the Brownie, intermediate and senior Girl Scout units, have outlined program plans for the year.

The club is sponsored by the Dawson County Garden Club and Mrs. Buster Reed is chairman of the event.

The program will include a all types of flower arrangements and the study of types of native plants.

The group plans to meet two days monthly from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the park recreation building. On Dec. 7-8 they will learn to make Christmas corsages. On Jan. 12-13 they will talk about bird feeds and feeding stations as well as badge requirements on conservation.

The Feb. 9-10 program will deal with flower identification; the March 8-9 meeting with crape myrtle planting; and the April 12-13 session with flower show practices, horticultural and arrangements.

Mrs. Reed said that help would be available to troops which wish to participate in flower shows. There will be prizes and special recognition given to the Girl Scouts who enter flower shows.

Decoration Plans Made By Philatheas

When the members of the Philatheas Sunday School Class of First Methodist Church met at the church for a business meeting and a covered dish luncheon recently they voted to decorate the new church parlor.

Mrs. G. B. Cunningham's group was hostess for the day. Mrs. Ruby Martin offered the invocation. The devotion, centered on a Thanksgiving theme, was given by Mrs. Miller Harris.

Mrs. J. D. Jones presided over the business session which 32 attended.

Lamesa WSCS To Hold Annual Bazaar

LAMESA — The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church will hold its annual bazaar Nov. 30 in fellowship hall.

Booths will offer handwork, home canned vegetables and fruits and other objects. Hot lunches will be served from 11 a.m. till 1 p.m.

Chairman of the bazaar is Mrs. D. L. Adecock. She is assisted by Mrs. C. E. Carter, Mrs. M. O. Smart, Mrs. R. F. Wilton and Mrs. T. E. Temple.

Will Be January Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Davidson, 220 NE 11th, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Danella, to Raymond Perkins of Abilene. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Perkins, 1501 Woodard, Abilene. Vows will be exchanged Jan 1 at the East Fourth Baptist Church.

Miss Kelley Feted With Bridal Tea

LAMESA — Billie Jean Kelley, bride-elect of Hugh Beard, was honored with a gift tea Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Roy E. Speck. The honoree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kelley.

A white linen cloth covered the refreshment table that was centered with an arrangement of daisies in a blue and sunblack bowl. Blue tapers were in silver candelabra.

Hostesses were Mrs. Marvin Morris, Mrs. J. W. Howell, Mrs. Vernon Logan, Mrs. W. B. Henry, Mrs. Doyle Wilson, Mrs. Ed DuBois, Mrs. Glen Jones, Mrs. Millard McDonald, Mrs. Jack Well, Mrs. L. E. Pearson, and Mrs. Speck.

The couple will be married Nov. 23 at the First Baptist Church.

Something Besides Trees Will Glitter

This Christmas the girls will glitter along with the Christmas trees, as fabulous new holiday dresses of gold, silver, bronze and gunmetal lame spark the nation's shops.

The simpler and more effective are gleaming metallic gowns, says Mildred Orrick, designer of sophisticated, youthful styles priced to fit the junior budget.

In her holiday collection she shows metallic sheaths which are planned to show off a Marilyn Monroe figure to fullest advantage.

In gold or gunmetal, they will shine as brightly as the angel on top of the Christmas tree.

P-TA Plants Shrubs For Gay Hill School

The Parent-Teachers Association of Gay Hill are planting evergreen and flowering shrubs in front of the school. This is the group's project for the year.

At a recent meeting, at which about 100 were present, the members decided not to have the annual Thanksgiving dinner this year, and suggestion was made that an Easter dinner might substitute.

They voted to pay expenses for Mrs. Hollis Puckett and Mrs. Ralph Proctor, who attended the State P-TA Convention in Fort Worth.

Announcement was made that Mrs. L. B. Patterson, primary teacher, will be in charge of the program Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Knott Organizes Homemakers' Club

KNOTT — A chapter of Future Homemakers of America was organized recently here.

Officers are Charlene Bearden, president; Beverly Shockley, vice president; Patricia West, secretary; Nadine Burk, treasurer; Jean Sample, reporter; Ann Rogers, parliamentarian; Mary Lancaster, historian; Shirley Chapman and Patcy Howland, song leaders; Joyce Rallsback, pianist.

Meetings were set for the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

THE GASCAS
 ... Bouncing Wire Sensation

Balancing Act Slated For High School

To be presented at 9:30 Tuesday morning in the High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the student Council are Leo and Josephine Gasca, billed as "The Bouncing Wire Sensation."

A presentation of the Southern School Assemblies, these circus and television stars are members of the well-known Gasca family. Their act has been featured in many leading circuses in the United States, Mexico, South America and Europe.

In an action packed, spectacular and graceful performance, the Gasca present the One-Hand Stand on Two Rubber Balls, Walking Upside Down on Crutches, Head Stand on Trapeze, Spinning Hoops, Novelty and Precision Balancing, and other examples of unique and highly developed artistry.

These Latin-American Novelletes use specially designed apparatus to present a balancing, acrobatic and equilibristic act.

Jeweled Boxes Gone, But Snuff Still Has Its Place

By DON HENRY

Times were when the fashionable carried around with them highly jeweled boxes containing snuff for inhaling. Now people carry around with them a lower lip containing snuff for enjoyment.

Today the product isn't used by inhalation, but it is still sold in great quantities — in fact the Department of Agriculture reports that 39 million pounds of snuff are consumed every year. And local merchants report the citizens of Big Spring are helping to keep the poundage up.

According to local merchants, the Honest brands, with the former takers brands, with the former taking a slight lead over the latter. But for one downtown drug store, Copenhagen snuff is the biggest seller.

Most calls at drug stores and retail groceries checked this week are for the small six-ounce can, with less sales reported for the bigger cans. Some jar sizes are sold.

Sales are usually made to steady customers — the same ones buy very regularly — the merchants note, and according to two business places, most customers are older people.

Another merchant stated that their sales were for scotch snuff.

There are basically two types of snuff — dry and moist. The former is the more popular in America, and there are two types of the dry snuff — scotch and sweet. The Garrett company manufactures both kinds, but sales here lean toward scotch.

Depending on the size of the store, business men reported they sold from six cans per week to five dozen. And either Garrett or Honest brands were preferred over all others.

That is with one exception — Copenhagen. That brand is a stronger type of snuff than most other brands. And for that reason it is preferred by many snuff consumers.

The one business checked that handles Copenhagen reported it could hardly keep the snuff stocked for the sales. Possibly the fact that there is only one store carrying it might be the reason for the tremendous sales, of this little advertised and often hidden but widely used variety.

Howard House To Open Dining Room

Monday will mark the opening of Big Spring's newest eating establishment, but nothing will be sold—just given away.

Grand opening of the Crystal Dining Room of the Howard House (formerly the Douglass Hotel) will be held Monday with free refreshments being served between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. The dining room will not be open for business, though, until Tuesday.

But beginning Tuesday the dining room will be open daily from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Specialty of the Crystal Room will be broiled steaks prepared in view of the customers.

The dining room—known previously as the Douglass Hotel Coffee Shop—has been closed for approximately 11 months and has been completely renovated from the front entrance to the refrigeration units in the back of the kitchen.

New carpeting and wallpaper have been added to the dining room in a matching salmon-color scheme, and four crystal chandeliers hang from the ceiling over the 25 by 30 foot room.

A short counter capable of handling eight customers is located near the back of the dining room and is made also to be used as a serving table for buffet dinners to be held weekly in the future.

Behind the counter and just inside the kitchen, the manager, Q. M. Taylor, has installed an all-steel Char-Lux boiler beside sheet glass so patrons can see their steaks being prepared. Taylor reports the broiler is the latest type of equipment for broiling meats.

Approximately 80 people can be served comfortably at the room's counter and 15 tables. But for over-flow patrons, after Dec. 1 the Colonial Room will be open.

The Colonial Room is an added dining room separate from the other but located beside the kitchen. The Colonial Room will seat 60 and will be used primarily as a smaller banquet room, for private parties, and for civic affairs.

An added feature of the smaller dining room is an extra-wide entrance, for convenience of moving in large appliances for sales meetings and demonstrations. The door is situated on the hall leading to the alley behind the building for easy handling.

To cover one entire wall of the room when finished will be a mural of a Southern plantation.

Both the Crystal Dining Room and the Colonial Room are directly connected to the kitchen—which is practically all new with stainless steel fixtures.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A federal grand jury has charged a former Kansas City attorney with perjury in an income tax case which a government attorney calls "plain, old-fashioned bribery."

The indictment, returned yesterday, accused Harry I. Schwimmer of lying when he told the grand jury that $10,000 he received from a man in tax trouble was a legal fee.

"The government contends the money was not a legal fee, but was a fund for the purpose of bribing and corrupting public officials," Wyllis Newcomb, a special assistant to the U.S. attorney general, said in court.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

U. S. Must Make New Estimate Of Red Intentions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's harsh refusal to deal with the West at Geneva undoubtedly will force the Eisenhower administration to make a new and somewhat gloomier estimate of Soviet intentions.

Many top officials believe their basic assumption—that Russia does not want and is not planning war with the West—will stand up even under the intensive review now shaping up.

But Russia's refusal to consider even moderate European concessions promises to shake an important companion view—that the Soviets want to reduce international tensions for an 8 to 10-year period.

The feeling that Russia wanted such a breathing spell is known to have guided Secretary of State Dulles and his top aides as they prepared to negotiate with the Soviets at the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting—as it had also in advance of last July's summit meeting.

It was thought the Soviets wanted to stretch out the heavy military expenditures they believe otherwise necessary to keep pace with the West.

Russia's apparent difficulties in boosting farm and industrial output and her desire to narrow the U. S. lead in the atomic-hydrogen bomb field were also believed to be important factors.

It was thought Russia would make some concessions on German unity and world disarmament.

Experts have now started to look carefully for an explanation why she did not.

Thus far, the most likely answer is that Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov returned to a "hard line" because Soviet leaders feared that any concessions might seriously weaken their hold on restless European satellites.

Custody Tiff Due For 4 Orphaned In Mass Slaying

HOUSTON (AP)—Four children orphaned by a mass shooting at Groesbeck Monday have been turned over to probation officers, but a fight for their custody is promised by a Houston truck driver.

The four were left homeless when Guy Andrews of Houston shot his wife, her father, her uncle and himself to death on the courthouse lawn at Groesbeck.

Roy Taylor, 37, Houston truck driver with whom Andrews had left his four children before going to Groesbeck, quoted Andrews as saying "I'm trusting them to you."

Taylor, father of five, said: "Andrews was my friend. He and his wife spent their honeymoon in my house. I don't have much but I'll sell everything in this house to see his kids get a good home. We are going to do everything in our power to get the kids back and find them a good home."

Knights Of Pythias Plan Awards Meeting Tuesday

Six men will receive 25-year pins from the Knights of Pythias in ceremonies set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Frontier Lodge No. 43 at 1407 Lancaster Street.

The presentation will highlight activities which also embrace the annual roll call.

Those due to be honored for membership of 25 years or more are H. M. Rainbolt, O. R. Bollinger, W. B. Sullivan, Alvin S. Bates, Eugene Powell and J. E. Moon.

Annual roll call is an occasion Knights are obligated to attend unless they have given written notice in advance to the secretary. Purpose of the roll call is not only to obtain maximum membership attendance, but traditionally to bring in gifts for the Pythian Children's Home at Weatherford.

Gray Browne, Abilene, grand inner guard of Texas, is to be the speaker for the evening, appealing for generous support of the home.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting by Pythian sisters.

Pitfalls Of Negative Thankfulness

With this day we enter into the season of Thanksgiving—a time which runs the threat of becoming a time for fowls, football and Pharisees.

There is nothing wrong with the desire for happy feasting to celebrate the bounties of the harvest, but when we make this paramount to the point that Thanksgiving becomes "Turkey Day," we constrict the processes of thankfulness purely to the physical.

The hard fact that Saturday is a better day economically has eased the threat of football taking over Thanksgiving. Builders of stadia discovered long ago that you could come nearer filling the bowl on a weekend than you could on a single holiday near the middle of the week. Yet there are many who still associate Thanksgiving solely with a football classic, a feeling which is wrong simply because it crowds out everything else.

The worst, the most persistent, the subtlest means of prostituting the season is the resort to tattered platitudes and attitudes. You have heard them a thousand times—"Lord, how thankful we are that thou has blessed us above all peoples of the earth." What was it that the Pharisee prayed? "God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are . . ." And what was it that Jesus said? . . . "For every one that exalteth himself shall be abased, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

Thus, in superficialities, we observe the pitfalls of negative thankfulness.

The positive—the real—quality of thankfulness is regenerative. It is the willing up to overflowing of gratitude to the point that we wish others could have what we have. It is the spontaneous desire to want to share. It is the electrical quality of touching others with our happiness in such a way that they glow from the contact.

As we come to this season of the year when our hearts ought to reflect the countless bounties of God, may we not be guilty of stagnating our souls with attitudes that permit us to gloat and grasp in the same breath. Rather, let us look about us and around us in never ending desire that God make us channels for extending His blessings to all mankind.

Stevenson Off To Early Advantage

WASHINGTON.—Adlai Stevenson was wise in announcing his candidacy for President on the Democratic ticket nine months in advance of the national convention. There is a distinct advantage for him in doing so, particularly because he won the nomination last time under circumstances that are not usually considered favorable—he got in at the last minute as the convention brushed aside those who had been engaged in the primary elections in the states.

The main reason why Stevenson will benefit is that he will prevent influential leaders in various delegations from committing themselves to other candidates. A certain amount of committing is done with respect to "favorite sons" months in advance. So what's important to learn is what the choice will be of each of these "favorite son" delegations when the convention gets to a second roll-call and "favorite sons" have been given a complimentary ballot.

By coming out early when no other prominent candidate is in the field openly getting delegates, Stevenson puts any other contender at a disadvantage. The converse of the argument is that the other candidates, however, can concentrate their fire on the leading contender.

Stevenson was not as strong with the various Democratic state organizations before the 1952 convention as he is today. He campaigned extensively, of course, after he was nominated and made the acquaintance of local leaders. He also participated actively in the 1954 congressional campaign and built up his friendships still further in the Democratic party throughout the country. He should do well in the spring primaries, though the party bosses are rarely impressed with the results unless they themselves have had a hand in them.

People who are unfamiliar with politics do not realize that a pre-convention campaign is altogether different from a post-convention campaign. The latter depends on millions of voters, while the former depends on the wishes of a handful of leaders in each of the states. Delegate-getting and vote-getting are as different as private parleys are from stump-speaking.

Adlai Stevenson is said to be under a handicap because he lost in 1952. This is an exaggeration based mainly on some historical precedents. But the Democratic party, which nominated William Jennings Bryan three times, didn't think two previous defeats had impaired his vote-getting ability. The Republicans nominated Dewey after his 1944 defeat, and he ran better the second time than he did the first.

Usually there is a good reason for giving a popular candidate a second chance. In this case Stevenson, it will be noted, was up against a negative tide in 1952 which would have swept any Democrat into defeat. "Communism, corruption and Korea" were enough to beat any respectable nominee, no matter what his intellectual capacity.

But in 1956 Stevenson will stand on his own. He already shows signs of veering away from Truman, which is a mark in his favor. If he could begin to forsake "Trumanism" altogether, it would be even better for him politically. This advice was offered him in 1952 but he rejected it. He was tarred with the Truman brush. It may be the intervening years now have educated him as to the facts of politics—not to become enmeshed in the mistakes of an administration which is being repudiated by the people.

Stevenson often is referred to as an indecisive person who cannot make up his mind readily. One reason for this perhaps is the struggle he has with his own conscience—between principle and expediency. He has a sort of split personality because he is trying to split the wishes of a split party. For, despite the outward professions of harmony which come so glibly every now and then from the Southern leaders of the Democratic party, there is a fundamental cleavage in it. The Democratic party is split on ideological issues. The Republicans have some disaffection, too, but it is negligible in quantity compared with the insurrection inside the Democratic party.

One has only to accept the thesis that in 1952 there were more registered Democrats than Republicans in the country to realize that the Democrats deserted their party in sufficient numbers to defeat Stevenson. What would Stevenson have to do to bring back to the national ticket the millions of Democrats who voted for Eisenhower in 1952? Stevenson would have to disprove that he is a radical, and show that he really takes a course in the middle of the road. His speeches so far have not reflected any such change and the metamorphosis would have to be visible to the naked eye of many millions of Democrats who voted the Republican ticket in 1952 because they could not accept the radicalism of the Truman administration.

Future Business? Two Diametrically Opposed Views

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Economists attending the University of Michigan's third annual conference on what's ahead for business were treated to a rarity: Two diametrically opposed views. Effect: Contention, interest, discussion, and drama.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the University's economics department, was congratulated for excellent staging for a histrionic as well as a scholarly success. He disclaimed: "It was entirely accidental. I didn't plan it that way."

What he didn't plan was this: William F. Butler, consulting economist from New York's giant Chase Manhattan Bank, led off with optimism.

Automobile sales might drop 10 per cent; so might residential construction. But capital expenditures by business men on new plant and equipment would rise more than 10 per cent. Consumers would buy fewer automobiles and homes, but would increase their outlays on food, clothing, and other nondurable goods; also, they'd spend more for services. Government expenditures—federal, state, and local—would also increase.

So, concluded Butler, the annual rate of production of goods and services would rise above $400 billion in the fourth quarter of 1956—as against $392 billion now. That's not a take-your-hat-off increase—only about 2 per cent. But it would be an extension of the prosperity plateau. It would add another year to the postwar skein of evermore for the American people.

Then to the rostrum walked V. Lewis Bassie, director of the Bureau of Economic and Business Research of the University of Illinois. He has served as economist with the Department of Commerce and the War Production Board. He is known throughout the economics "trade" as a clear, positive thinker.

He wasted neither time nor words. "I disagree with Butler's position. He thinks business plans for plant expansions will be a factor for expansion in 1956. I think just the opposite."

You could feel the electricity quiver through the Horace Blackham Memorial auditorium. Here was combat of the mind. A chess battle—with the masters pushing around statistics, economic theory, and trend lines instead of pawns, bishops, and kings. Men and women inched forward in their seats. Bassie argued that the United States, after ten years of post-war industrial expansion, is topheavy with prosperity. Prolonged prosperity leads to excess optimism. Business men construct new plant and install new machinery—not on the basis of current sales, but on the basis of projected sales. These projections are super-heightened by optimism.

Simultaneously, business men acquire inventories. Then, when demand doesn't develop as optimistically projected, business men find themselves over-inventoried and over-capacitated. They cut production, idling their oldest and least efficient plants, the plants which employ the greatest number of workers per dollar of output. That generates unemployment and a down-spiral in purchasing power. What would precipitate this downturn? The automobile industry, said Bassie. Don't expect parades. Nineteen fifty-six won't be another 8,000,000-passenger car year. Fifty-five was an aberration—not a trend, not a new plateau. You could have heard a decimal point drop. Everyone was listening, analyzing, weighing. Could Bassie be right? Automobiles are the head pin, reasoned Bassie. The steel industry has been booming along at capacity (see chart). Likewise copper, textile fabrics (for upholstery), and glass. All because auto demand has been so high. If auto sales topple. . . Besides, construction can be expected to fall, too. The down-phase of the long business cycle would coincide with the down phase of the short business cycle, leading to a depression and a major break in the stock market. For Bassie, the bull market's over.

When he finished, there were cheers. Not cheers of agreement, but cheers for a well-reasoned presentation. Then came rebuttal. A Chrysler economist protested that the automobile industry isn't as important as Bassie makes it. "He wagged the dog with the tail." Butler stuck to his position. There's enough strength in consumer demand to overcome moderate declines in autos and housing. And a third economist insisted Bassie was too mechanical in his approach: "Just because we had a depression ten years after the first World War, it doesn't follow that ten years after World War II history must repeat."

So the conference ended. Few minds were changed. But all minds were stimulated. And for that, disclaim as he may, Prof. Ackley gets the credit.

Around The Rim The Day Old Tom Went To The Block

'Tis that time of year, when thoughts turn to the festive bird. Things are neater around the house at Thanksgiving time than they used to be, although it does seem a shame that there aren't more home grown turkeys.

I mean actually at-home gobblers. So that small boys would have the opportunity to be involved in that autumn chore of chasing — and being chased by — mammoth toms. Of course, it always ended up before Thanksgiving with Papa getting the bird's neck on the chopping block, but not without a measure of assistance (?) from the small fry.

Along with the chickens that were around most small-town homes back in the days I'm thinking of, there came a time to bring about some turkeys. Now everybody knows, without being a poultry fancier, that turkeys are plumb crazy, and have to be treated as such, but most everybody managed to get into fall with a few gobblers that survived the freezes, the rains, the ravages of turkey illnesses and assorted other turkey tragedies.

By that time, because of their regal standing around the barnyard — fewness of number had a lot to do with it — the remaining turkeys had become sort of personalities. The turkey that had once been a harmless enough critter had burgeoned into a mighty and royal bird, and one equipped with a temper and bravado, if not the physical assets, not only to protect himself, but to become an aggressor at times.

It would seem like, from memory, that the closer on to Thanksgiving the calendar ran, the orrier a turkey would become. Like maybe he knew the hatchet was coming, and was already putting up his guard. And he seemed to know instinctively that little boys could be put to flight. You ain't had no real scare unless you, as a tow-headed youngun' happened out to the chicken yard and made some unwary move that aroused the ire of a big tom turkey.

With wings dragging, magnificent tail feathers spread wide, waddles shaking fiercely and gleaming like a fire-engine warning light, and with fear-provoking gobbles, here would come a big turkey right at a little feller. The boy who stood up to face this onslaught was a daring creature, indeed, and certainly it was the better part of wisdom to get the heck out of the chicken yard, even if it meant mounting the fence in one swift leap. One of those toms, if he got his dander up enough, could chase you clear to the back porch while you yelled for help.

But — here comes Thanksgiving week, and Mama tells Papa one evening it's time to perform the execution. Then is when the small lad ends up with mixed emotions; sorta glad to see that mean old turkey out of the way; anticipating some white meat to go along with the drumstick on that big-eatin' day; and yet sorrowful that a bird you could recognize — and one that certainly recognized back — would have to go the way of all fowl.

Ah, well, the chase, with the turkey eventually caught in the crook of a wife, and dragged squawking to the scene of the coup de grace. This is when kids — although steadfastly refusing to admit it — might turn their heads, or even sneak around the corner.

By Thanksgiving morning, though, all personalities are forgotten, because there waits from the kitchen those heavenly aromas associated only with roasting turkey and baking pies.

Yep, a turkey's gone, but my, ain't the going good?

Hollywood Review

Director Moves Over To TV

HOLLYWOOD (U)—One of the screen's most distinguished directors is working in television instead of the movies. The reason: the dearth of film stars.

How come? Listen to Leo McCarey. The Los Angeles-born Irishman has brought forth some of Hollywood's most delightful films. Some of them: "Ruggles of Red Gap," "The Awful Truth," "Love Affair," "My Favorite Wife," "Once Upon a Honeymoon."

His two biggest successes rank among the greatest moneymakers in film history. "Going My Way" is credited with a 6½-million-dollar gross in this country alone, and "The Bells of St. Mary's" drew in eight million.

Recently, McCarey's only filming activities have been to direct a couple of half-hour shows for the Screen Directors' Guild Playhouse, a labor of love for his union. His last feature film was "My Son John," made four years ago. Starring Helen Hayes, the late Robert Walker and Van Heflin, it was not considered a success.

McCarey has had a number of projects on the fire. One is the story of Adam and Eve. The other is a musicalized Marco Polo.

"I can't get them going," he explained between TV takes. "It's impossible to cast a picture these days. There just aren't enough stars to go around."

"The old ones are getting older, and there are few new ones. I don't know how the studios expect this business to survive without stars."

The producers are beginning to realize this more and more. Yet little is done about it. In the past five years, only a handful of really top-flight names have been developed. Marlon Brando and Grace Kelly are the two names that come to mind.

But in the old days, there might be a dozen bright names emerging each year from the list of unknowns. That was when studios had long talent rosters. They could afford to keep a performer under salary for seven or more years, waiting for the star quality to emerge.

Nowadays a starlet is seldom kept under contract more than a year unless she shows definite promise. The result is that few stars are rising from the movie ranks. Most of the new names are brought in from other fields—the stage, TV or night clubs.

Nothing Has Changed Since Big 4 Parley?

GENEVA—Since no agreement with the Soviets was expected from the second round of the Geneva negotiation just ended, nothing has been altered despite the increasingly tough language reminiscent of the cold war. That is the way, those close to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles sum up what has seemed a wordy exercise in futility.

Since nothing has been altered, they add, there is therefore no necessity to recast American foreign policy. The Western foreign ministers have proved to the world in their prolonged duel with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov that Russia is to blame for the continuing division of Germany, which is the real source of European insecurity. As this second round was expected from the outset to be a propaganda contest, with the likelihood of just such a demonstration, Americans can take considerable satisfaction from the outcome.

But the facts do not entirely sustain that view. To begin with, there had been real hope in Washington and in the other Western capitals that progress would be made on Point Three of the agenda—contacts between East and West. It had been expected that a broadened exchange on several levels—trade, culture and so forth—would be agreed to in principle at any rate, thereby sustaining at least a little life in the Geneva spirit. Instead, on this point, Molotov has been, if anything, tougher than on German unity and disarmament. He has slammed the curtain down, demanding everything that Russia wants in the way of technical information and trade in strategic goods while saying "net" to every proposal from the west.

Before the conference began it was expected that the second round would conclude with a call for a third round of the four foreign ministers some time next spring. Instead, if some members of the American delegation had had their way they would have put in the final communique or in any event in a joint Western declaration the frank statement that further negotiation is useless.

It is hard to imagine President Eisenhower agreeing to another round of negotiation. We have our own elections next year and another demonstration of futility in the spring would scarcely be helpful. Dulles could not attend a four-power conference in the middle of an election campaign.

With a third round clearly precluded for at least a year with a closing note of discord, the question is then whether any gain remains from the summit conference of last summer. There were two achievements of that conference. The President convinced the world of America's peace-loving intentions, refuting the Communist and neutralist propaganda charging the United States with brandishing the atomic bomb. Second, and more important, a tacit agreement was reached between East and West ruling out nuclear war as totally destructive for both sides.

The view of those close to Dulles, who presumably reflect his thinking, is that this tacit agreement still stands. Nothing was said during the second round to indicate that nuclear war is once more a threat.

But here again it seems to one observer that this must be qualified. At the beginning of this second round the threat of war in the Middle East, shadowed the formal discussion here. Dulles in a private talk with Molotov warned him of the danger of a war that could not necessarily be confined to the Egypt-Palestine region.

A war beginning through an accident and spreading beyond the immediate source of hostility suggests the ultimate danger of resort to nuclear weapons, particularly since so large a share of American defense is based on such weapons.

On the other hand, the very fact that the foreign ministers were in the midst of negotiation made it possible for Dulles to talk face to face with Molotov on the serious view taken by America of Communist intervention in the Middle East. The British argue that this is reason enough to keep the door to negotiation open.

Bible Words for Today

ROMANS 8:9—"If any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of his."

Once I heard a minister say: "Had Jesus returned a slap, there would never have been a Gospel."

I wonder what I would have done in His power. Had they slapped me, mocked and slandered me, what would I have done? His spirit is so different from our worldly spirit which creates the world's troubles.

Once, when two of His disciples, James and John, were trying to arrange a lodging in a Samaritan village for Him, they found the people hostile and every door closed against Him. Angriely they rushed back to Him, saying: "Let us call down fire upon them and burn them up." Jesus looked them in the eyes and said, "You do not know what spirit you are of."

The spirit of Christ is honesty, brotherliness, helpfulness, and optimism. It is the spirit of the martyr: Stephan who prayed forgiveness for his enemies. I saw that spirit in a colored man who had been in prison fourteen years on a murder charge. Then they found he was innocent and freed him.

"Don't you feel any revenge in your heart against those who put you in prison?" he was asked. "No, I don't think so," he answered.

He had found Christ there.

Let's pray for the spirit of Christ which would turn our world from darkness to light; from hatred to love; from death to light.

How To Have A Great Thanksgiving Day

Every year at Thanksgiving I like to talk about the "attitude of gratitude." This is one of the most dramatically creative attitudes one may develop. After I had explained it in a radio broadcast last year a man came to me and said that the phrase interested him and asked how in a practical sense it could help him.

"I have nothing to be grateful for," he said despondently. "Everything is going badly. I'm just about all washed up." So ran his dismal complaint.

It was evident that his mind was filled with shadowy negativisms. This mental discoloration was, of course, causing his defeat. So, using a technique I had tried successfully on people many times before, I got out a big sheet of paper. On one side I wrote, "Things which make me unhappy." And on the other I wrote, "Things which make me happy."

Then I said, "First I want you to write down in this column all the things which make you unhappy and in the other all that give you happiness."

He remarked that he had plenty of material for the unhappy column, but nothing for the other side. Finally he finished writing a long list of woes and turned the paper over.

"Let's practice that attitude of gratitude now," I told him, "and make a list of your reasons for thanksgiving. What have you to be grateful for?" I asked.

"Not a thing," he answered.

"Can you see out of both of your eyes?" "Certainly," he said, I responded. "Some people can't," I replied. "So write down: 'Can see—both eyes.'" He wrote it down and then I asked him about his ears.

"Oh," he said, "I've only fifty per cent hearing in my left ear."

"Alright, write it down—one hundred and fifty per cent hearing."

Then I went on to ask him about his nose, mouth, arms, fingers and the rest of his body, pointing out finally that he had not exhausted the reasons for thanksgiving in his own body, to say nothing of being thankful for his country, his home, sunlight, moonlight, food, etc.

"O.K.," he said with a grin. "I've got the idea; you can stop now."

Try it at your own Thanksgiving Dinner this next Thursday. Give each one a paper and pencil and ask them to list the things for which they should be grateful; or ask each one in turn to orally mention all his reasons for gratitude. See if it doesn't raise their spirits and improve their digestions. Since each one will have to say he is thankful for the others, it will deepen the love of all for all, and bind the loved ones more closely together. Such attitude will make for efficiency too in the days that follow.

If you practice this approach to living daily, it will add to your clarity of mind, increase your force of personality and build a strength of character you have never enjoyed before.

Certainly we Americans have every reason to practice the attitude of gratitude. Our ancestors who began the practice of national thanksgiving realized that it is good for the soul of a nation humbly to thank God for His blessings. They also knew that a positive attitude in the national mind will keep the people alert and creative. So this Thanksgiving Day, let's practice the attitude of gratitude.

HUGH MCKENNA ED STUMPF

Jaycee Leaders To Visit Here Tuesday

Jaycees from a big area around Big Spring will meet here Tuesday to greet their national president, Hugh F. McKenna of Omaha, Neb. McKenna will stop here briefly Tuesday afternoon as part of a short visit to Texas. He will be accompanied by Ed Stumpf of Houston, Texas Jaycee president. Plane carrying the pair is to land at Webb Air Force Base at 3:40 p.m. McKenna and Stumpf will then be guests of local Jaycees at an hour-long reception in the Webb Officers Club.

Jaycees from Lamesa, Snyder, Colorado City, Midland, Stanton, Odessa, San Angelo and possibly other towns in this area are expected to greet the national president at the reception. McKenna, 33, is administrative assistant to the vice president of the Mutual of Omaha insurance company, and has served as the company's representative to the Nebraska legislature. During his term as national president of Junior Chambers of Commerce, he and his family are living in the "Jaycee White House" at Tulsa, Okla. Stumpf is a partner in the John L. Wortham & Son Company of Houston, executive agency supervisor of the American General Insurance Company of Houston, and

Midlander Forgets To Untie Weight, His Plane Crashes

DALLAS (AP)—A light plane crashed and was demolished during a take-off at Love Field at 6:40 a.m. Friday when the pilot forgot to remove a 200-pound concrete weight used to anchor the plane during the night. Hal Rachal, about 45, of Midland was not injured. He told police he left the plane at the field overnight, tying the big chunk of concrete to the tail assembly on a 30-foot rope because of the high wind. Entering the plane Friday, he taxied from near the Dallas Aero Service property an estimated 200 yards to the runway, unaware the plane was dragging the concrete anchor.

Uncle Ray: Sun's Pull On Earth Provides Balance

By RAMON COFFMAN
Several questions about the earth, moon and sun appear in a letter from M. Berger, who asks:
"Why does the earth rotate in exactly 24 hours? Why does it keep the same distance from the sun, instead of falling into the sun? Does the moon travel in the same direction as the earth?"
The earth rotates in 24 hours because one complete rotation, or spin, has been divided into 24 parts, or hours.
The Egyptians are given credit for dividing the day in that manner. They used a shadow clock to tell time, and divided the time between sunrise and sunset into 12 parts. The period from sunrise to sunset was figured as 24 hours.
It is a common belief of astronomers that the planets were flung from the sun vast ages ago. If this is true, there was a strong outward motion due to the explosions which threw the planets from the sun. The sun has gravity, however, and this seems to give a perfect, or almost perfect—balance, keeping the earth from flying farther into space.
In a general way the earth's moon has the same orbit as the earth. The moon is the companion of our planet during the great yearly journey around the sun.
There is, however, a difference because the moon keeps revolving around the earth at the same time that the earth revolves around the sun.
Let us suppose that you let your head represent the earth, and that you take a seat on a merry-go-round. Tied in a handkerchief, we shall say, you have an orange, and the orange represents the moon. Each time you make a complete circle on the merry-go-round you wave the orange so that it circles around your head 13 times.
The figure "13" may seem like a mistake but the moon makes about 13 revolutions around the earth while the earth is making one complete trip around the sun.

As every parent knows, learning to say "thank you" is one of the elementary lessons in a child's home education. It is page one in the book of good manners.

It is also one of the first lessons in a person's religious education. And here it is something more than mere good manners.

In every age man's spiritual insight can be measured by his readiness to recognize God as the source of strength and blessings, and by his eagerness to express his gratitude to the Almighty. No one has ever doubted the religious sincerity of our Pilgrim fathers: they gave us Thanksgiving Day.

Today, in a world hungry for spiritual leadership, how much depends on our faith in God . . . and our ability to turn to Him in gratitude and prayer!

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Glenn Ford Stars In 'The Americano' Today

First run in Big Spring at the State today is "The Americano" starring Glenn Ford, Ursula Thiess, Frank Lovejoy, Cesar Romero, and Abbe Lane. It is filmed in Technicolor and will play through Tuesday.

The picture combines all the points of a western with the adventure of a strange foreign country. Ford plays a Texas cowboy who hops a boat with a load of Brahma bulls for a wealthy Brazilian planter. After he gets his cattle off the ship and starts to enter the strange Matto Grosso country for the Barbossa Ranch, he learns that the rancher has been killed.

Frank Lovejoy has taken over the reins. Ford hires Cesar Romero to guide him to the Barbossa Ranch. Near the end of the trek, four horsemen waylay the pair and Romero disappears. The leader of the group turns out to be Ursula Thiess, who owns the adjoining ranch. She has been feuding with Lovejoy.

After Ford explains his mission, she has her men round up his cattle and escorts him to his destination. Lovejoy pays the agreed price for the cattle and Ford leaves the ranch with his money. That night, he is attacked and robbed. So he returns to Lovejoy who nurses him back to health. Then Lovejoy offers him a job so that he will not have to return to Texas empty handed.

Ford learns a lot of things after this, for instance, who Romero really is, why Lovejoy is so helpful, and how much he loves Miss Thiess.

At Lyric Today

Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall with all the rest of the Bowery Boys star in "High Society" at the Lyric today. The boys have a hilarious time when they get mixed up with a group of "blue-bloods." Amanda Blake restores some degree of normality to the film in the feminine lead.

Glenn Ford and Ursula Thiess wait anxiously for news in this scene from "The Americano" at the State today. The picture is filmed in Technicolor and will play through Tuesday.

BOOKS • MUSIC • ART • DRAMA CRITIQUE By Glenn Coates

Two children's books published this month by The Steck Company in Austin seem to be worthy of your attention, especially if you have youngsters who will be wanting books for Christmas.

"Poke-Along" is the story of a poky little turtle who lived a long time before turtles had shells. The author has illustrated the book himself and it has plenty of gay and colorful pictures to illustrate the story.

Texan Frank O'Leary is the author-illustrator. He has been interested in animals for many years. He introduced animals to children initially on television in San Antonio. He has worked for Walt Disney as an animator, also. He now lives in El Paso.

The Quiche Indians of Guatemala is the subject of "The Sons of the Smiling Tiger" by Dorothy Reynolds. The book is the story of these Indians, whose descendants still live in that South American country. Miss Reynolds is a high school teacher in San Francisco.

The Seventh annual National Book Awards will be announced at presentation ceremonies in New York's Hotel Commodore next Feb. 7, according to the committee representing the three sponsors: American Book Publishers Council, American Booksellers Assn., Book Manufacturers Institute.

Fiction jury consists of Carlos Baker, John Brooks, Granville Hicks, Saunders Redding and Mark Schorer. The nonfiction judges are Curtis Bok, Harrison Brown, N. R. Howard, Leon Pearson and Richard Rovere. The jury for poetry is Cleon Brooks, Richmond Lattimer, Robert Lowell, Phyllis McGinley and Muriel Rukeyser.

Publisher Alfred A. Knopf seems to specialize in Nobel prize winners. With the new literary award to Holldor Laxness, of Iceland, this New York house has published 10 winners. The others are Vernon von Heidenstam, Knut Hamsun, Ladislav Reyment, Sigrid Undset, Thomas Mann, Ivan Bunin, F. E. Siljanpa, Johannes V. Jensen and Andre Gide.

NAILS OF PROTEST
by Walter Dakin Williams and Walter Stewart

This is a book written by two of officers who, until recently, were stationed at Webb AFB. It constitutes a blunt statement of why they believe religious orders outside of Roman Catholicism are doomed.

The theme is set with a statement that "We will try to show you we feel the inevitable doom of Protestantism will see the walls of their temples come crashing down around their decimated congregations."

The authors indict all Protestant churches as not being the "true church" and single out the following churches for separate abuse: Baptist, Methodist, Unitarian, Universalist, Mormon, Christian Science, Congregational, Episcopal, Church of Christ, Anglican, Lutheran, Seventh Day Adventist, Quaker, and an individual, Billy Graham.

The sub-title of the book is "A Critical Comparison of Modern Protestant and Catholic Beliefs." It purports to be a description of Catholic beliefs, and the Protestant case, of course, is left lacking through generalizations and inaccuracies.

At one stage a Protestant chaplain is quoted in a backwoods style which would tend to indicate all Protestant ministers are unlettered. Various religions are compared to insurance companies for some reason not readily apparent.

The book, even though it were considered in the light of a dissertation for doctrinal intolerance, likely will not be read widely. It is published by Exposition Press, a "vanity publisher" which most frequently requires authors to finance the project. According to David Dempsey, in a recent issue of Harper's, Edward Uhlman, head of Exposition Press, received $400,000 from subsidies last year but returned only $25,000 to authors. This particular book probably won't add to the royalty requirements.

Credit Curbs Designed To Slow Inflationary Spiral

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Uncle Sam cracked down hard this week on inflationary aspects of the boom.

The crackdown—a new and tighter government squeeze on credit—found most lines of business surging ahead at breakneck speed. Primary aim of the new government move: To make it harder for consumers to go into lock, and more expensive for businessmen to borrow money.

Here's how the government did it: Federal reserve banks hiked the interest rate that commercial banks must pay on the huge sums they borrow from the system. The new rate—2½ per cent—is the highest since 1934.

This means that your neighborhood bank may have to pay more for the money it borrows, and will probably charge higher interest on the money it loans out.

At the start of this week, the stock market buoyantly thrust to within striking distance of the all-time peak it had reached just before the President's heart attack. At week's end, the market declined moderately on news of the higher rediscount rate.

Total business activity, after hitting a record annual pace of 39½ billion dollars in the third quarter, gained added momentum this month.

Store sales forged ahead. Department store business at latest count was a hefty nine per cent ahead of the year-ago rate. Dun & Bradstreet said total November retail trade would come to 15½ billion dollars, a high for that month.

The steel and auto industries, working overtime, were straining to the hilt. Steel output—estimated, this week at nearly 99 per cent of capacity—fell short of booming demand. The auto industry today rolled out its seven millionth car of 1955. That compares with a total production of less than 6,700,000 cars for all 12 months of 1950, up to now the record.

The upsurge in production, sales and business over-all had inflationary side effects. First, there was the danger that consumers—buying on-the-cuff as never before—might get so deeply in hock that they'd have to quit buying until their debts got paid off.

Best Wishes . . .

Charlton Heston In Comedy Role

Charlton Heston has his first comedy role in "The Private War of Major Benson" starting at the Ritz today. The technicolor presentation also stars Julie Adams, William Demarest, Tim Considine, and Tim Hovey.

Heston plays a tough Army career officer who is quite outspoken about the "kid-glove" treatment being given rookies. His remarks land in a national magazine and he is called on the carpet at the Pentagon.

His commanding officer gives him three choices. He can resign, be placed on inactive duty, or take an assignment as ROTC officer at a military academy. He chooses the latter.

Arriving at the academy, Heston finds that the student body is aged 6 to 15 and that it is a religious institution conducted by an order of nuns. The Mother Superior tells him that she is afraid the school will lose its ROTC rating because of the poor training given by the previous training officer. Heston does not pretend to like the job and is a hard taskmaster and unfeeling disciplinarian toward the boys. They get to hate him fervently and begin to pass around a petition to get him removed from the post.

Meanwhile, Heston falls in love with the school's resident doctor, Julie Adams. She gets out to make him a little more humane and a little softer. Her influence and the work of the boys gradually change Heston into an easier instructor. But just as he is about to show how much he has changed, he gets orders to return to Washington.

The boys are sorry now that they sent in the petition. But Julie Adams saves the day. She tricks Heston into exposing himself to measles and he comes down with the disease. She confines him to the infirmary.

Inspection day arrives and the boys put on a show that assures them of retaining the ROTC rating for the school. They, in turn, turn out a rousing cheer for Heston and his Army career is saved.

Charlton Heston At Ritz

Heston plays a hardboiled Army major in "The Private War Of Major Benson" at the Ritz today. The comedy is filmed in Technicolor and also stars Julie Adams and Tim Hovey.

Double Feature Program

"Quest For The Lost City" is filmed in color and is one of a double feature program at the State Friday and Saturday. The film is the actual experiences of Dana and Ginger Lamb in an adventure in the Guatemalan jungles. The scene above pictures members of the Lacandon Tribe, remnants of the once-great Mayan race. The other feature is "Wakamba," a film-trip through East Africa and a look at a proud jungle race.

Twin Bill Offers Adventure At State

Two jungle films, one in Central America and the other in Africa, are the features on a twin bill at the State Friday and Saturday.

The two pictures, "Quest For The Lost City" and "Wakamba," are similar in one respect and different in another. The former was filmed by a man and his wife, both photographic amateurs, on a trek which they made alone, carrying only what they could get on their backs. "Wakamba" was filmed by a complete expedition which had ten cameras and plenty of technical assistance.

They are similar in that they both picture lands and peoples never put on film before. Both are educational and interesting, if not plot-laden.

Dana and Ginger Lamb make the trek to the lost city of the ancient Mayas in the Guatemalan jungles. In traversing the vast Rain Forest, they met with many interesting sights. Some of the natives were friendly, others hostile. All were hundreds of years behind modern civilization.

They found the city, but not before battling an invasion of army ants and a forest of spiders. Once they wandered for days in a giant cavern where bats were the only living creatures. Their camera had a time exposure mechanism on it which allowed them to get into their pictures. "Wakamba" features for the first time the Wakamba natives of Kenya. The Wakamba are one of the Bantu races. An expedition backed by the American Museum of Natural History toured 8,000 miles in specially constructed trucks to get the pictures.

CINEMA COMMENT

By GLENN COOTES

Four pictures in one year is quite a record. But that is the score for Glenn Ford so far this year. I doubt that he has ever been considered a top name in Hollywood in the past. But he has pushed his way to the top with this year's performances. Of course, all four pictures were not put on film this year. They were just released during the year.

His fourth, co-starred with Ursula Thiess, is "The Americano" and is playing today at the State. Surprisingly enough, Ford has shown considerable ability in these performances. He is not a brilliant actor, but he is capable.

In "Blackboard Jungle," his first film of the present series, he was certainly realistic as the thwarted teacher trying to cope with something outside his past experience. Ford was the very picture of the character portrayed in the book.

GLENN FORD

Again in "Trial," the type of part was the same and he carried it faithfully. In fact, this characterization is Ford's best hope for an Academy Award, if any of them are.

With Eleanor Parker in "Interrupted Melody," the style was different and difficult. He was forced to be the understanding husband of a great star. Although his was the supporting part, he carried it through well and made more out of the part than, perhaps, was there. At any rate, he will probably win a nomination, whether he wins an Award or not. Should he win, I think it will be for hard work and capability rather than brilliance as an actor.

Musical Comedy Has Ethel Merman

Marilyn Monroe, Ethel Merman, Donald O'Connor, Dan Dailey, combine talents to prove that "There's No Business Like Show Business" at the Terrace Drive-in tonight.

The Irving Berlin film is produced in color and CinemaScope and will also play Monday. The picture has 24 Berlin songs in it and is a musical comedy. It is one of Hollywood's best.

Award Winners On Drive-In Bill

A twin bill at the Jet Drive-In Saturday night will feature two Academy Award winning pictures. "Shane," starring Alan Ladd is one, and "Stalag 17," with William Holden, is the other. Holden won his award for being the cynical sergeant who operated betting parties and sold liquor plus other hard to get items while in a German prison camp during the Second World War.

Mother Saves Four Children In Fire, Loses Own Life

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A brave mother, awakening to find her home in flames, shepherded four of her six children to safety early today but lost her own life together with her youngest son when she returned for him. The sixth child jumped safely from a second-story window. Firemen reported that Mrs. Virginia Labor Cormier, 34, five sons and a daughter were trapped on the second floor. Mrs. Cormier awakened the terrified children, ranging in age from 5 to 15, and started them through the flames and smoke. One, 14-year-old Norbert, leaped. All the rest followed mother. But when she got outside, 5-year-old David was missing. Mrs. Cormier dashed back into the flaming home.

Obligations To Military Listed In Reserve Act

The six-year military obligations of all young men are detailed in the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 which recently went into effect. The Texas Military District has pointed out.

Persons inducted or enlisted in the regular armed services after Aug. 9, 1955, face the six-year military obligation, which, for draftees, includes two years of active duty, three years in the "ready reserve" and one year in the "standby reserve." For men enlisting in the armed forces, the obligation is the same except that for each year of enlistment over two, there is a year's decrease in the ready reserve obligation.

There also is an obligation defined for veterans who entered the service prior to the passage of the act, and who will be discharged between Aug. 9, 1955, and July 1, 1957. These veterans still have an eight-year obligation to fulfill, but by agreeing to participate in the ready reserve program for one year they may reduce this to five years in most cases.

A man on ready reserve status is subject to recall to active duty by either Congressional or presidential action. On standby reserve, he is subject to recall only by an act of Congress in event of a national emergency.

Satisfactory participation in the reserve means attendance one night each week at a two-hour training period and two weeks each summer in a training camp. Additional information on the Reserve Forces Act and the various avenues for meeting the military obligations may be secured from the U. S. Army Reserve Advisor, Building 2101, Lubbock Municipal Airport.

Expectant Mother Crushed In Accident

LONGVIEW (AP)—Mrs. R. B. Alexander, 28, an expectant mother was thrown from a car yesterday and crushed to death between it and another vehicle after a collision. She was riding with her father. Her husband is with the Navy in Africa. Two children, Paul, 4, and Shirley, 6, also survive.

School Tax Roll Two-Thirds In

Two-thirds of the current tax roll of the Big Spring Independent School District has been collected.

The total is $329,756.49, of which $239,970.04 went to local maintenance, $9,795.91 to discounts earned through early payment.

Gross collections amounted to $333,512.66, but these include $3,729.67 in delinquent taxes and $26.50 in fees.

J. O. Hagood, tax assessor-collector for the district, reminded taxpayers they have through Tuesday to qualify for two per cent discount for payment of 1955 taxes. After that the discount will drop to one per cent for December. No discount is offered in January, the last month in which current taxes may be paid without incurring penalty and interest.

Philippine Tribesman Goes Amok, Kills 5

MANILA (AP)—An Igorot tribesman ran amok last night, backed to death five persons and critically slashed two others. Then he fled to the mountains. Paganas Mayo, 26, reportedly suffering from malaria, went on a rampage in San Nicolas, north of Manila. The injured included his wife.

LI'L ABNER Proves brains ain't everything!! BY AL CAPP

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
by Harold R. Foster

Our Story: WHILE CONVALESCING FROM HIS WOUNDS, VAL IS TELLING HIS CHILDREN HOW, IN HIS BOYHOOD, BY WEARING A TERRIFYING GOOSESKIN MASK, HE FRIGHTENED THE OUTLAWS FROM THE MAID ILENE'S CASTLE. "I USED MY ROPE TRICK ON THE LAST REMAINING BRUTE, AND HE WENT HURLING TO THE COURTYARD BELOW..."

"...BUT I HAD CRASHED INTO THE WALL AND WAS ONLY HALF CONSCIOUS... AFTER A TREMENDOUS STRUGGLE, I GAINED THE ROOF."

"FINDING AN IRON BAR, I SMASHED THE LOCKED DOORS AND ENTERED THE NOW DESERTED CASTLE."

"...AND SO AT LAST I WAS ABLE TO LIBERATE ILENE'S FATHER, THE THANE OF BRANWYN, WHO HAD BEEN IMPRISONED SINCE THE OGRE'S CAPTURE OF THE CASTLE."

"THE DUNGEON CELLS ALSO GAVE UP THE REST OF THE THANE'S FAMILY AND RETAINERS."

"I TOLD THE THANE OF THE HERMITAGE WHERE ILENE WAS TENDING THE WOUNDED SIR GAWAIN, AND A MESSENGER WAS SENT FOR HER."

"WHEN SHE RETURNED, THERE NEVER WAS A HAPPIER FACE NOR A PRETTIER ONE..."

"SO ENDS THE TALE OF MY FIRST ADVENTURES IN MY QUEST FOR KNIGHTHOOD. THERE WERE OTHERS, BUT ENOUGH OF STORY-TELLING... IT IS HIGH TIME I WAS UP AND DOING!"

NEXT WEEK!— "Prince Arn's Ordeal"

RUSTY RILEY

GEE, RUSTY WAS BRAVE... HE MIGHT'VE BEEN ABLE TO FIGHT OFF THOSE MEN IF IT WASN'T FOR ME!

 GEE, YOU SURE SHOWED UP IN THE NICK O' TIME!
 THAT'S RIGHT, RUSTY... MAKE THOSE KNOTS TIGHT... THEN WE'LL GIVE THESE ROBBERS A FREE RIDE TO THE LAKESIDE JAIL!
 LATER!
 GEE, DADDY, HOW DID YOU KNOW WE WERE IN THE ICEHOUSE?
 I HEARD SHOTS... SO I GRABBED MY GUN AND HURRIED OVER!
 THE MEN WERE JUST COMING OUT... THEIR FURTIVE MANNER MADE ME VERY SUSPICIOUS... AND WHEN I SAW YOUR EMPTY BOAT, I PUT TWO AND TWO TOGETHER, WENT IN AND FOUND YOU!
 GEE, DADDY... YOU'RE A REAL HERO!
 ...AN' YOU TOO, RUSTY!
 AW!
 AND MILES AWAY... RUSTY RILEY IS THE BOY FOR THE JOB... I HOPE I CAN PERSUADE MR. MILES TO LEND ME THAT VERY ESTIMABLE LAD FOR A TIME!

HOME SERVICE CONSULTANT To Aid Housewives On Gas Appliances

A home service consultant has been added to the personnel of the Empire Southern Gas Company, 419 Main.

The first employe of this type for the gas company, Mrs. Henry M. Stewart will be available in about ten days to help the housewives of Howard County with any problems concerning the use of their gas appliances.

According to Champ Rainwater, manager, most of Mrs. Stewart's work will consist of going into the homes that have bought new gas equipment and demonstrating their abilities to the new owner. She will also give cooking demonstrations to the housewife when she requests it.

"I will work closely with the home economic departments of the schools and also with the county home demonstration agent, Elizabeth Pace," Mrs. Stewart said.

She also pointed out that she would be available for cooking demonstrations for women's clubs. The company has tentative plans for a cooking demonstration class in the near future.

As Mrs. Stewart goes into the home to assist the homemaker with her gas range, refrigerator or other appliances, she will give her literature on gas cooking and recipes designed especially for her range.

"My services will not be limited to new purchase customers, for I shall be glad to give advice to any gas appliance owner," the consultant said.

Mrs. Stewart starts her job Monday, but will immediately go to Lubbock for ten days of instruction

Cleanliness And Economy In Gas

Gas stands in a field by itself when it comes to cleanliness of cooking, and economy.

The new gas ranges offer smokeless broiling, instant on-off heat, and the fastest and most flexible heat. There are also complete removable burners for easy cleaning. The gas ranges also are to be had at the lowest initial cost, lowest installation cost and lowest operating cost.

from the Home Service Department of the gas company there. Mrs. Stewart has had homemaking training in high school and has baked for the public for several years.

She is a member of the College Baptist Chapel and the mother of two daughters, Juanita, 13, and ten-year-old Alice, known to everyone as Tootsie.

Call In Expert Advice For Remodeling Your Kitchen

Are you one of the thousands of housewives in need of a new kitchen? Have you been pouring over the pictures and articles in newspapers and magazines showing the latest designs in kitchens? Have you and your family held long discussions on the advisability of built-in appliances over "free-standing" appliances in kitchens? Have you finally reached the point where you are eager to go ahead with a new kitchen for your home?

Have you said: "I'm ready, but what do I do now?"

Who should you call upon to help make your dream become a reality? An architect, a plumber, a builder, a kitchen dealer, a carpenter, your local utility company?

Actually any one or combination of the above can help you. But for complete one-man service in the planning and installation of your kitchen, the New Freedom Kitchen Bureau of the American Gas Association, suggests that you call upon a kitchen dealer. He can help you every step of the way.

To find the name of a kitchen dealer in your area, look in the classified section of your telephone book under "Kitchen Dealers."

A trained dealer is an expert in the field of kitchen planning. Such details as plumbing, wiring, flooring, cabinets, counter space, appliances, and installation, can all be handled by him.

Whatever your individual problems, he can tailor a new kitchen to fit your needs. Perhaps your budget won't permit a completely new kitchen all at once. In that case, your kitchen dealer will help you plan in such a way that your dream kitchen will become a reality over a period of time, or in a matter of days, through the many attractive financing plans currently available.

Besides financing, he can advise you on styling and the latest features of today's appliances to help you achieve the utmost in modern time-saving efficiency, while designing an inviting kitchen arrangement that will meet all your dream requirements.

First of all, he will sit down with you and your husband to discuss your ideas with you. He will take into consideration the size of your family, your style of living, your budget requirements. He will advise you on whether it would be practical and advisable for you to combine your kitchen and laundry area.

Once you have agreed on what it is you want, he will take measurements. Perhaps there are certain features or obstacles in your kitchen that detract or interfere with good kitchen planning. These might be a window, door, closet, or even eliminating completely these eyesores. Then he will give you an estimate of the total cost of your new kitchen.

Next, he will prepare a colored sketch of your dream kitchen, showing what it will look like in detail. Swatches of floor coverings, counter top materials, and the colors to be used will be made available. He will advise you on the kinds of wood finishes or the types of metal cabinets you can choose from. Once you have approved the plans, he is ready to go ahead. Your kitchen will be custom tailored for you.

Laundry Can Be Installed In Any Part Of The Home

Like Goosey, Goosey, Gander of Mother Goose fame, the laundry nowadays is wandering upstairs, downstairs and in milady's chamber — or right next to it, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association comments. One thing is sure: there's no hard-and-fast rule about its location.

Some women prefer to have it adjacent to the bathing and sleeping area of the house, where they can deposit soiled bedding, bath-towels, pajamas, underwear, shirts and handkerchiefs right in the water, instead of lugging them downstairs. Advocates of the second-floor-laundry idea point out that it saves time and effort to have the washer and clothes dryer located at the major source of the family wash. A built-in ironing board usually completes the equipment for "on-the-spot" laundry service.

However, the vast majority of homemakers prefer a main floor laundry. The living-room type of kitchen found in most of the new homes today features a laundry area containing the washer, gas clothes dryer, and sometimes a ironer, depending upon the space and budget. The automatic gas water heater is enclosed in a closet in this part of the room so that the homemaker can adjust the temperature control for the different uses of hot water all day long, without racing down to the basement.

In older homes, owners are converting back porches, pantries and even breakfast rooms to laundries. With ample space, they can add to the laundry equipment such conveniences as stationary wash-tubs for hand-laundering, wall cupboards for laundry supplies and a comfortable chair for "sit-down" work.

Where the layout of the house does not permit such conversions, the laundry is installed in the basement. Many homemakers insist this plan affords the greatest convenience of all, as the children can play under mother's watchful eyes while she's busy with the family wash. There usually is plenty of room for all the laundry appliances their friends install on the main floor plus a work table, built-in ironing board and storage cabinets and a television set. The stationary wash-tubs are already there, so it is an easy matter to design the new laundry around them.

Risk, Adventure In Drilling For Gas

The gas industry's constant probing for new reserves of "stores sunshine" in the depths of the earth is as nerve-racking and financially risky as trying to produce a hit play on Broadway.

Drilling a well thousands of feet down through rock, limestone and clay involves all the drama of a detective "whodunit." The mystery lies in locating a well site by careful exploration and scientific study of soil conditions.

There's adventure aplenty, too. Like a colorful South Sea voyage, a day-by-day log of drilling operations is maintained. Rock samples are periodically tested with chemicals, by smell, and sometimes by taste, to determine the character of the underground formations being penetrated.

These preliminary scenes set the stage for what is hoped to be the climactic appearance of oil or natural gas-bearing sand which, thousands of years ago, was "capped" by a natural dome of rock. The dome trapped the oil or gas for use today.

Like a big theatrical production, drilling for gas and oil is a huge financial risk. Preliminary surveys, the leasing of land, the cost of equipment, and the employment of skilled craftsmen all add up to an investment of many thousands of dollars.

And, just as many Broadway shows are box office flops, odds

Burning Spring Revealed Gas Field

It was a burning spring in 1775 that led to the eventual discovery of the important gas fields of the Appalachians. These gas-fed flames were located on a tract of land in West Virginia which was dedicated by George Washington as a national park.

The "finding" of the first natural gas well to be put into use in the U.S. came by accident. Little boys playing with fire — that was the story. The lads found that flames shot up from the ground when a burning stick landed in the "spring" area. A 28-foot well on that site, at Fredonia, N. Y., brought in the nation's first natural gas well in 1824.

Countless Uses

Natural gas is a fuel having countless uses in the home, industry and business. Formed millions of years ago through the decomposition of matter, it is found in pockets of sponge-like rock far below the earth's surface. It can only be found by drilling successive wells until the gas-bearing strata is located.

against a successful producing well are high. For example, there were 10,675 "wildcat" wells drilled in 1953. Of these, 9,294 were "dusters." Only 13.3 per cent, or 1,421 of the wells drilled in unproven territory were producers.

Cable drilling, the oldest but least used method, consists of lifting and dropping a steel chisel which eats its way slowly into the earth. The newer method, rotary drilling, grinds the rock into little chips by turning a toothed cog-wheel against the hard stone surfaces.

Water is poured into the well hole of a cable drilling operation to keep the cutting edge cool and to keep the rock particles in a mud solution for a more precise slicing motion of the steel bit.

A chemical compound, commonly referred to as plain "mud," is used for rotary drilling. The compound is forced down the pipe and back to the surface to remove the rock particles and also to cool the bit.

From the murky cuttings, drillers can tell how near they are to striking the "pocket" containing gas or oil. However, Mother Nature has a flair for mystery too, secreting her bounty of fuel sometimes a few hundred feet from the surface, or thousands of feet away or, perhaps, a few feet to the side of the drilling site.

A casing, which is a lining of pipe in the well hole, offsets many hazards of drilling. After the initial drilling, a string — several lengths of pipe — is sunk into the hole. Each string diminishes the size of drillbit which can be used so the approximate depth of the well must be calculated ahead of time.

The casing, which is cemented into place, is in the shape of a vertical telescope with the big end at the surface and the small end at the bottom.

The tense moment for the wearied drillers comes when they prepare to tap the reservoir to learn whether the well is a hit or a flop — a dry hole.

A pipe, sealed at the bottom end, is lowered into the hole, followed by a special tool, called a perforating gun. Then, as the helmeted, mud-spattered drillers wait, steel-jacketed bullets are shot through the casing.

If the well is the hope-for producer, natural gas charges upward at as much as a thousand pounds of pressure. Where the gas-containing formation is not porous enough, a special acid is used to increase the permeability to enable the gas to escape more readily.

To assure a clean flow of gas, clear water is fed into the well to wash the tub and casing.

In a few days, the drilling rig is removed. Nothing remains but a pipe and valve, known as a "Christmas Tree." But the show does not end here. The derrick will be moved to another location to search for more natural gas.

GAS APPLIANCE DEALER

Never before have there been such attractions offered in the uses of gas . . .

To the four basic uses—cooking, water heating, refrigeration and space heating—have been added three new uses—air conditioning, laundry drying and incineration.

All of these contribute vastly to the convenience, the livability of the modern home.

Gas appliances were never more efficient, more beautiful, more economical, more "right"—for every home.

You will do well to examine these new gas facilities for your home. And your local gas appliance dealer is ready to help you—with planning and counsel, without obligation. Feel free to call on him.

"GAS HAS GOT IT"

Real Convenience

The convenience of an all-gas kitchen is highlighted in this photograph. Automatic gas burners, wall oven, sink and refrigerator fit into a compact unit, to form the heart of the kitchen. Food can be served from the burners to the table.

No Need For Waiting On 'Dream Kitchen'

Tired of waiting for your dream kitchen?

You don't have to wait another day, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturer's Association, provided your credit rating is good. And if you haven't had occasion to borrow money from a bank in many years, you'll be surprised at the alternative plans that have been evolved for the convenience of home owners.

The bank you do business with regularly is your best bet for a straight loan against collateral and if you are able to repay the money within a year, you'll find this the cheapest plan in the long run. However, if you would rather extend the term of the loan and have smaller monthly payments, even if it costs you more, GAMA suggests that you ask your banker about an FHA Title 1 Property Improvement Loan.

Of course you also can buy all your kitchen appliances and equipment on the installment plan, the same as furniture, radios and television sets. Your gas company appliance or equipment dealer will be glad to arrange for time payments to suit your convenience. As is customary in all credit purchasing, you will have to make a down payment, which usually is 10 per cent, and agree to pay the balance in monthly installments for one, two or three years.

Naturally, you pay for the use of the money borrowed from a bank and for credit purchasing; but many people would rather pay the interest than draw money from the savings bank, considering this method of buying forced savings.

When you have arranged for the installation of your dream kitchen under one of these plans, GAMA recommends that you hang onto the equipment you are replacing, instead of discarding it. Your old cabinets will come in handy in the garage or basement for housing odds-and-ends you hate to discard and have no place to store, while your gas range will take on a new lease of life installed in the basement where it will prove useful at canning time for peak load cooking or baking, or simply as the nucleus of a second kitchen downstairs.

Ceramic Lining

Hard-fired ceramic, long used for lining industrial incinerators, has been successfully adapted to a domestic gas incinerator. The result is a lining which can withstand intense heat and will not rust, burn out or warp.

Gas Flame Is The Symbol Of Convenience

The blue flame natural gas is the symbol of convenience and comfort to the American home owner.

It signifies efficiency in heating, cooling, cooking, water heating, refrigeration, clothes drying and hundreds of other uses.

Millions of Americans who have enjoyed the advantages of natural gas for so long they no longer consider it unusual, are being joined every day by fellow citizens who are now realizing what they have missed all these years.

And our United Nations colleagues from across the seas are learning about natural gas, too.

In the United Nations building in New York there is one of the most modern, beautiful and efficient kitchens imaginable. Here skilled chefs familiar with international cuisine prepare delicious meals for the palates of U.N. delegates from all over the world. Gleaming ranges, broilers, ovens and salamanders are in daily use to provide food for individual tastes of the foreign delegates.

Today's modern homemaker has all of these fabulous appliances at her finger tips on a smaller scale. On her own modern automatic range, she can prepare food that can't be equalled anywhere in the world. Her modern natural gas range, by test, will broil better, bake better and just plain cook better.

New Unit Lets Furnace Cool Home

Where there's a duct there's a way — to air condition your home.

That is another manner of saying that any home equipped with a forced-warm-air gas furnace or any other forced-warm-air system now can easily be made to provide all-season comfort — warmth in winter, summer cooling, humidity control and circulation and cleaning of air throughout the house.

According to H. R. Nielsen, manager of the Servel, Inc., air conditioning division, the answer is his company's direct-fired gas cooling unit which can be connected to existing forced-air furnaces.

"The new gas unit's ton capacity will meet cooling needs of average homes, offices and small business places," said Mr. Nielsen. "It is small enough to go through a 30-inch door, needs only 8.7 square feet of floor space, and is easy to install."

Mr. Nielsen added that the refrigeration system in the cooling unit is the same absorption type as that used in Servel "All-Year" gas air conditioners. A simple gas flame produces the cooling effect, without a motor or any moving parts.

A Pay-Off Combination

Clothes are put in dirty and come out clean and dry — with the payoff combination of washer and dryer — plus, of course, the real service offered by plenty of hot water at just the right temperature. All these features are at their compact, attractive, economical best in gas appliances.

Modern Gas Range Is Excellent For Broiling

Broiler construction features and broiler cooking results are at a high state of development in today's modern gas ranges. Manufacturers have made substantial contributions in popularizing broiler use through improved burner and broiler pan design, accessibility and ease of use, and making them easy to clean.

For these reasons and the fact that a gas flame incinerates smoke, thereby making it possible to broil with the door closed, and does not require pre-heating, gas range broiling enjoys competitive advantages and wide public acceptance.

Broiler arrangements: The gas range industry offers a wide selection of models with either one or more broilers. All manufacturers make the conventional low broiler models in their line of ranges, which use the oven burner for the broiling operation. Below are listed some other broiler arrangements available in today's gas range, indicating the wide variety and extra broiling capacity that the gas industry offers the American homemaker:

1. Two broilers — one conventional and one elevated.
2. Two low broilers — usually with double ovens.
3. Elevated broilers—without a second conventional one.
4. Built-ins—offer broilers to be installed according to the customer's desires.

Trends in broiler features: "Specialties in broilers" seem to be a quick summary of the trends in gas range broiler features:

1. Many brands now offer models with more than one broiler, for extra broiling capacity, as well as providing the consumer with the facilities to broil and bake at the same time.
2. Many brands now have some form of "radiant" or grid-type burner, to give more intense or penetrating heat, as well as better distribution over a larger area.
3. An appeal to barbecuing is being made by a substantial number of range manufacturers, both in the choice of the names for their broilers and in the accessories they supply with the range, such as rotisseries, trivets, and pans.
4. Broiler pan construction has progressed to provide more flexible use, larger cooking area, removal of fats from the heat zone for less broiling, easy-to-clean pans and drawers.
5. Deeper broilers that permit the low temperature cooking of meats and fowls to serve as a second oven.
6. Another trend in broiler construction is the wide number of models available where in the foods are readily and easily removed from the heat zone for turning or examination. This is being done with broiler pans attached to the door, and by improved, non-tipping carriages.

Griddles are, for all practical purposes, exclusive equipment on modern gas ranges. This is so because the flexibility and controllability of the gas flame lends itself to doing an outstanding cooking job on the griddle. Griddles also offer homemakers an important additional fourth zone of cooking.

There are two general classes of griddle construction: (1) a removable griddle, designed to fit over one or more top burners, and (2) those built into the range as an integral part of the range top.

All griddles have these three characteristics: (1) they are of a generous size, (2) they have been designed with troughs to remove fat from the heat zone, so that there is a clean, smokeless cooking operation, and (3) they are so built that there is an even distribution of heat over the whole griddle area. It is almost certain that griddles will play an increasingly important part in the future merchandising of gas ranges, since gas does an outstanding job in good cooking results, and because the customer gets this extra cooking zone at such a reasonable cost.

The new look in gas ranges comes not only from the streamlined design, but also from the trend toward more liberal use of chrome, gold, and other colors in the hardware, trim, and backrail accessories. Complete chrome tops can be expected to return to the market in the near future.

There are many variations of multi-purpose ranges, in addition to the kitchen heater models, which are interesting and useful in their application to modern living.

1. A combination range and dishwasher, or range and movable serving cart.
 2. Combination gas ranges and refrigerators.
 3. Combination range and sink units.
- Designers of gas ranges have built into today's ranges many convenience features, those little things that are not only useful, but decorative. There are so many it is almost impossible to catalog them. Some of the more important ones are listed:
- Timed outlets:
 - Four-hour timer alarms.
 - Cooking guides, stamped on the oven and broiler doors, in the oven handles, on coveralls, drip trays, or in the backrail.
 - Cutlery drawers and towel racks.
 - Oven "on" or "temperature

- reached" indicators.
- Disappearing shelves.
- Griddle guards to minimize splattering.
- Deodorizing lamps.
- Warming compartments.
- Glass oven window panel in range top.
- Glass oven doors and oven lights.

Home Laundry Can Be 'Anywhere'

Modern design is finding room for the home laundry almost everywhere, especially since washer and dryer make so handsome a couple. Utility lines are replacing clothes lines as the decisive factor in location, and smart builders are featuring houses pre-tailored to receive complete laundries, even if they are not quite ready to include the equipment. An important detail is outside venting of the dryer, houses, which must consider humidity control. The dryer is rapidly achieving the "household necessity" status of its older companion, the washer, and with it makes an attractive selling feature for builders.

You Can Make That Kitchen A Gayer Place

It's the homemaker of 55 or more and her newly married daughter who are buying colored home appliances and "going gay" with co-ordinated or contrasting colors in the kitchen, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association finds.

Homemakers in the age groups in between are displaying conservatism in their selection of white gas ranges and refrigerators with colored trimmings, though they are conforming to the "rage" for color by painting walls and woodwork in the popular decorator colors.

The theory is that the older women are rebelling after keeping house for many years in "hospital white" kitchens, while their daughters are expressing their dissatisfaction, unconsciously, of kitchens they grew up in. Now both are rushing to surround themselves — even going to extremes to get away from the unpleasant association a white or monotone kitchen has for them.

If you're about to redecorate and replace some of your kitchen equipment, pick a color you'll want to live with a long time as the focal point of your color scheme. For instance, buy a gas range that harmonizes with at least three different color schemes, as it will still be in perfect condition by the time you've redecorated your kitchen five or six times.

No matter how gay you want your kitchen to be, be careful that it doesn't turn out to be a "busy" color scheme, as it is exhausting to be surrounded with too many patterns. If you have a geometrical design on your walls, select a monotone for your floor covering and paint your ceiling to correspond; or have just one wall papered, and the other three painted in a harmonizing color. Accessories, too, must be picked with care so that they do not conflict with the definite patterns in the room and thus provide a jarring note.

Over 2.5 Billion Cubic Feet Of Gas Used Every Day

You can't see it. You can't smell it. Nor can you feel it, grab, tear or crumple it, no matter how hard you try. Yet it fries your eggs, freezes ice cubes, helps make cheese, steel, cement, keeps you warm, cools you off. Natural gas is the answer and the populace uses well over 2.5 billion cubic feet of it every day in their lives. Today, natural gas is flowing virtually into every corner of industry and into most homes. The reason: it's cheap, clean, efficient and you don't have to store it up; it's piped in. At the same time it heats your bath water, runs your refrigerator, cooks your dinner, and performs a hundred other jobs.

High Heat Content In Natural Gas

Why is natural gas so hot? Heat content is measured in British Thermal Units. A BTU is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of a pound of water one degree Fahrenheit. In a single cubic foot of natural gas there are from 950 to 1050 BTUs. Thus, natural gas has a high heat content which is instantly available to the consumer when ignited. With natural gas there is no warm-up period; it's hot the moment you want it to be.

Air Conditioning Supplied By Gas

All-year gas air conditioning is held forth as one of the big features to be included in modern home planning.

A simple flick of a switch changes the operation of a gas conditioner, to give heat in the winter and cool air in the summer. The cooling operation automatically cleans, refrigerates, dehumidifies and circulates the air quietly.

The heating-cooling unit has no moving parts to vibrate or wear, and it carries a 5-year warranty.

Wide Variety In New Gas Ranges

Gas ranges lead the parade in offering a wide choice. They are available in sizes from 18½ inches to 58 inches. They come in white, colors, stainless steel, chrome-topped or copper finish. There are new separate range units in white, colors, steel or copper finish. Changes can be had with 3, 4, 5, 6 or 8 burners; and come with staggered tops, divided tops, or right or left hand clusters.

Gas Unit On Heat System Cools House

Five-and-a-half million American homes are basically equipped for year-round air conditioning and most of their owners don't even realize it.

Those 5½ million homes, the Gas

Appliance Manufacturers Association reports, are the ones that are heated with forced warm air systems with ducts which can quickly be adapted to summer cooling as well as winter heating.

A direct-fired gas absorption cooling unit that can be connected to existing furnaces is all that's needed to convert such a system into one that can supply all-season comfort. This "add-on" unit requires only 8.7 square feet of floor space and is small enough to go through a 30-inch door. It is specifically engineered for easy installation with existing duct system.

Whether the existing warm air furnace is operated by gas—and most of them are, according to GAMA—or any other fuel, the cooling unit can be quickly and economically connected to the furnace. A simple gas flame produces the cooling action—without any moving parts in the refrigeration system.

Customers Appreciate Myriad Advantages Of A Gas Range

Among domestic gas appliances, the gas range has achieved the widest acceptance and use. It is estimated that at the end of 1952, 31,514,000 gas ranges were in use throughout the U.S. — more than three times the number of its chief competitor, the electric range.

The modern gas range is lower in first cost. Feature for feature, there's more for a dollar paid for a gas range than any other type.

Installation costs for a gas range are lower. No expensive wiring, no special conduits and high-voltage connections are needed for a gas range.

Cooking costs are lower. In many areas cooking with gas costs less than half as much as cooking with other fuels. Modern gas burners have increased fuel efficiency up to 50 per cent and scientifically applied insulation prevents heat losses.

Services costs are lowest and approach the vanishing point. The inherent simplicity of gas range design and rugged construction makes possible a life-time of use without service charges, replacements or repairs. The modern gas range has no fuses to blow out and no heating elements that require periodic replacement.

Results count in cooking and the finest chefs use gas ranges. In 99 out of 100 hotels and restaurants "where food is finest, it's cooked with gas." Here are some of the reasons:

Speed: Instant heat at the turn of a valve. No warming-up period is required.

Flexibility: Gas is the fuel of a thousand heats, not just 3 or 5 or 7. From a tiny pinpoint of blue to a plant searing flame, gas is controlled to the exact heat needed. And gas offers smooth, even oven temperatures through precise throttling of the flame by heat control. No need to turn off the oven in order to reduce the heat.

Even heat distribution: The gas flame from the top burners naturally spreads itself evenly over the bottom of the vessel above it. No special cooking utensils are needed with the modern gas range.

Uniform heat distribution in the gas range oven provides uniform baking results. Only the adequately ventilated gas oven allows the heated air to move freely. There is no need for precise arrangement of pans to obtain proper results in a gas range oven.

Coolness: The heat stops when the gas flame is turned off. No heat is discharged into the kitchen while an element cools. Broiling and baking are done with the oven doors closed, not open as required in some ranges. The heat is kept inside. Heavy insulation of the gas range also keeps the kitchen cool.

Cleanliness: the modern gas range cooks clean and is easy to keep clean. There is no cleaner heat source than a properly adjusted gas burner — the bottoms of cooking vessels stay bright and shiny.

Furthermore, easily controlled temperatures mean fewer boil-overs; ventilated ovens mean no stale vapors and residues; and the flame of the smokeless broiler incinerates the fatty vapors arising from the cooking meat.

The modern gas range is designed for easy cleaning. A one-piece top eliminates hard-to-clean cracks and crevices; drip trays under the burners and removable oven bottoms are easy to clean thoroughly, and the ovens have smooth, easily cleaned finishes. The burners themselves may be lifted out for scrubbing if needed.

Safety: Every gas range bearing the American Gas Assn. Blue Seal of Approval has passed rigid tests in safety, durability and construction. No fuel has been proven safer than gas for cooking and statistics show, year after year, that gas appliances are safer than other appliances. No high-voltage is needed to operate a gas range. Gas burners lose their heat quickly when the gas is turned off and when it is on, the flame is a visible warning against accidental burns.

Dependability: Gas ranges are dependable, not only because of the trouble-free simplicity of their design and construction, but because gas is the dependable fuel, always available at the turn of a valve. Snow, sleet, ice, and wind will never cut off the heat source without a moment's warning.

These are the basic advantages of all gas ranges available through the inherent characteristics of the fuel. What has been accomplished to give the consumer and the dealer the very best modern cooking appliance is shown in the review of modern gas range features, based on information supplied by members of the domestic range division of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Assn.

Incinerators Reduce Fires

Home incinerators are reducing the number of fires caused by accumulated trash, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association finds.

Instead of sticking odds and ends that are no longer useful in the basement to get them out of the way, the man of the house now dumps them into the gas incinerator for immediate disposal, automatically ridding his home of a major fire hazard.

But primarily, home owners buy gas incinerators for the convenience of getting rid of food waste any hour of the day or night. Simply by pressing a button, they discover the "plus values" as they go along.

For example an incinerator eliminates the strain of carrying heavy cans to the curb and in the case of middle-aged or older people, may actually prevent a coronary thrombosis. Homemakers also report that they have fewer colds in the winter, as they no longer have to run out in freezing weather to bring in the empty garbage cans.

Gas Units Cheaper

Typical monthly consumption of a gas clothes dryer is 2 therms. Electric industry reports reveal an electric dryer requires 55 kilowatt hours monthly. To the consumer this means that gas units, in virtually all parts of the country, cost less to operate.

Baking Cake Is A Science, To Test All Gas Appliances

There's a flour sifter in Cleveland, Ohio, that is helping housewives across the country bake better cakes.

It's an ordinary red and white flour sifter, just like Mother uses, but this one is very special. It's part of the equipment required for one of the hundreds of tests that gas ranges take at the American Gas Association Laboratories.

The A.G.A. Flour sifter is used by a man, a graduate engineer who knows much more about Mother's gas range than she does, for his job is to test new range models for safety, durability and performance. He inspects every inch of a range and gives it more than 200 major tests before it receives the A.G.A. Approval Seal.

Since scientists are practical as well as particular, the A.G.A. requirements call for a cake baking test for ovens. And, in order to bake a cake, someone must make it first. That's where the flour sifter comes in. The test engineers must bake a four-layer cake every time they test a range. And that's a lot of cakes!

Baking the layer cakes for the oven test is no hit-or-miss affair. It's done according to specific rules drawn up by the A.G.A. Approval Requirements Committee, made up of representatives of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, the U. S. Health Service, national associations of home economists, architects, builders and many other groups devoted to public service, as well as all segments of the gas industry.

The requirements for the cake test include a recipe which would amuse almost any cook. It specifies weights as well as measurements of ingredients and to make sure no mistakes are made, it even lists "four eggs (without shell)" for engineers whose experience with food has been all on the eating side.

Results of such scientific precision in drawing up appliance testing requirements benefit millions of homemakers who use gas as a premium fuel. The cake test, for instance, is designated to determine the baking evenness of the ovens being tested.

In this test, four layers are baked at a time, two on the top shelf, and two on the bottom. After they have cooled, the test engineer examines them with a photo electric reflectometer, a delicate instrument which indicates any variation in color. All four layers must be baked an even brown to meet A.G.A. requirements.

More than 6,000 gas appliances, divided into 31 classifications, are tested every year at the A.G.A. Laboratories in Cleveland and Los Angeles, California. For each type of appliance—range, water heater, clothes dryer, room heater, incinerator, refrigerator, and many others, there are hundreds of requirements covering safety, durability and performance. Each of these requirements must be met before an appliance is awarded the American Gas Association's coveted Approval Seal—a blue star on a white background.

Since the gas industry is eager to serve the public as well as possible, almost all gas appliances on sale today have been tested and awarded the Seal of Approval. Each year the requirements become stiffer, gas appliances are improved through painstaking research, but each year more and more appliances are being tested at the Laboratories. A.G.A. approved gas appliances—safe, dependable, and durable are approved by Mr. and Mrs. America, too.

Installation Is A Big Factor With Stoves

When a new gas range is delivered to a customer's premises, it must be properly assembled in accordance with the instructions furnished by the manufacturer. Care is necessary in tightening up surfaces coated with vitreous enamel in order to prevent chipping, which can easily take place if parts are forced or tightened excessively.

The location of the range is most important to the users. Their wishes should be consulted, but at the same time every fitter should be familiar with the selection of the most desirable location.

1. The cooking surface should be entirely accessible and well lighted by natural light during the daytime and artificial light at other times.

2. It should be reasonably close to the sink work table, or kitchen cabinet.

3. The range and floor around it should be accessible for cleaning.

4. It should be located so that opening or closing doors will not graze so close to the range that fingers may get caught.

5. All controls should be accessible for operation and adjustment, and not blocked by being placed too close to the wall.

6. It is most important that gas ranges be set so that the cooking tops and oven racks are quite level. Settings should be made by using a level and not by eye.

No. 1 Standby In Any Home; It's Dependable Hot Water

What's your No. 1 "standby," from early morning until late at night?

You may have to think hard before answering, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, but you'll probably decide, sooner or later, that it's hot water.

The minute you wake up, you use it when you wash. When you get into the kitchen, practically your first act is to rinse the coffee pot with hot water, no matter how clean it may appear. And of course, you use hot soapsuds to wash the breakfast dishes and stick the drainer in the sink to let steaming hot water play over them, so that they'll dry without streaking.

If it's wash day, you turn the temperature control of the automatic gas water heater to the highest point before loading your washer, to make sure the clothes will be gleaming white; and while you're waiting to transfer them to your gas clothes dryer, you hand-wash your lingerie and heirloom lace doilies in warm suds. Gas water heaters are even available that give you two temperatures of hot water faucet without even thinking, hot for dishes and clothes washing, the second just right for personal use.

All day long you turn on the hot

Most natural gas is practically odorless as it comes from the well. An odorant is frequently added to the gas as a safety precaution, so that leaks will be noticed more quickly and traced more easily.

water faucet without even thinking for routine housekeeping chores —washing floors and woodwork, and cleaning your gas range and refrigerator. You use lukewarm water for many special jobs, too, such as washing your bric-a-brac and table lamps.

When you cook dinner or bake a cake, you clean as you go, with hot water; and if you can't open a crew-top bottle or jar, it's a good guess that you hold it under running hot water until the cap turns easily.

The last thing you do at night is soak in a hot tub with your favorite magazine or whodunit before going to bed; without realizing it, you have completed the cycle which began with the use of hot water, fourteen or fifteen hours before!

Here Are Good Recipes For Those Autumn Baking Days

Cool autumn days are baking days. Welcome the family with the aroma of baking foods, or have something fresh from the oven when friends drop in for a holiday visit!

YUM YUM GEMS (Spice Cupcakes)

1/2 cup shortening
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups flour
1 cup raisins
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup nuts
Cream shortening and brown sugar together. Add egg. Sift flour, salt, soda, and spices together. Add alternately with sour milk mixing after each addition. Add nuts. Cook in greased and floured muffin tins for 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

Makes 16 cup cakes. Serve plain or with fruit or caramel icing.

UPSIDE DOWN COBBLER

1/2 cup shortening or soft butter
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
3 cups fruit
2 cups fruit juice
1 cup sugar to sprinkle on fruit.
Cream shortening and one cup sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to shortening and sugar. Mix well adding milk to mixture. Pour batter mixture into greased baking dish. Pour fruit and fruit juice over dough and sprinkle with 1 cup sugar. Bake 45 minutes in 375 degree oven. At the end of the baking process the batter will rise to the top giving a "cake-like" covering for the fruit.

BANANA-NUT BREAD

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar

2 eggs
1/4 cup nuts
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup ripe bananas, crushed (about 3 good-sized bananas)

Mix shortening and sugar. Add eggs and nuts, followed by flour and soda which has been sifted together. Add crushed bananas. Bake in greased loaf pans at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Makes 2 loaves 6" x 2".

NUT ROUNDS

(Refrigerator Cookie)

Cream together 1/2 cup shortening and 1 cup brown sugar. Add 1 egg slightly beaten. Mix well and add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Sift together 2 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar, and 1/2 teaspoon soda. Add to first mixture and mix. Add 1/2 cup chopped nuts, then mold into rolls 1 1/2-2 inches across. Wrap in wax paper, then chill in refrigerator, for at least two hours. Slice cookies 1/4 inch thick and bake in 400 degree oven for 8-10 minutes.

Range Dimensions Fairly Uniform

Folks are asking about the variance in oven dimensions of the popular new 30-inch gas ranges. Generally speaking, there is not a great deal of difference from one model to another. Five manufacturers have 30 inches with ovens of these dimensions:

Depth	Width	Height
18"	23"	13"
17 1/2"	22"	14"
19"	25"	15"
16 1/2"	23"	13"
17 1/2"	24"	15 1/2"

Less Space Used

Four new gas burning heaters are especially designed to occupy less space. Claimed to be smaller than heaters of equal BTU inputs, these units have heating capacities ranging from 45,000 to 85,000 BTU inputs.

Porcelain Heaters

One manufacturer is now producing all porcelain house heaters—enameled inside and out. They have a mahogany blend finish with gold trim.

Attractive Arrangement

Here's a well arranged kitchen and dining area which features modern gas appliances. It's one of many, many suggested plans available through appliance dealers and home consultants, who can give ideas on efficiency and economic operation as well as neat arrangements.

Buyers Show Preference For Homes Featuring Gas Built-Ins

The hottest buys on the real estate market today are homes featuring kitchens with gas built-in cooking units. By the end of 1955, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association predicts, 35 per cent of the nation's new homes will have all-purpose kitchens with separate top burners and oven-broiler units. The last-named units were "slow starters" until the idea of a com-ination Kitchen - laundry - dinette caught on. Now buyers are demanding the new layout as they find it many innovations appealing and practical. The plan of sinking the burners into the work counter of the partition between the food-preparation and serving areas, for example, has several points in its favor. It permits them to pass food directly from the stove to the dinette and also gives them a bonus of extra drawer space beneath the burner tops. Add to this the great convenience of an eye-level oven and broiler unit, in a wide variety of styles, sizes and decorator's colors, and the over-whelming popularity of gas built-ins is easily understood.

Gas Appliances Meet Kitchen Color Trend

The big news today is color in the kitchen, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, with yellow now in first place and green second in the color parade.

Manufacturers are meeting the consumer demand for color by producing kitchen appliances and other equipment in the most popular decorator shades. This makes it easy for anyone to work out a coordinated pattern, as you can buy gas ranges, refrigerators, kitchen cabinets and even sinks in matching colors.

For those who prefer white gas ranges with color accents, GAMA points out that some manufacturers are featuring removable colored trimmings in order to keep kitchen color schemes flexible during the life of the range.

But, even if you are not in the market for new appliances and equipment, you can achieve the "new look" by using paint as your main miracle-worker.

For example, to create a candy pink kitchen, start by painting the walls and ceiling a pinkish gray, with the ceiling a few shades lighter than the walls. Next, paint all the woodwork and cabinets your favorite shade of pink. Finally choose floor covering and counter tops the same shade of gray as the ceiling.

Against the background your white gas range, refrigerator and sink will provide exactly the contrast you need to highlight the pink in your "dream" kitchen.

Note. . . Although kitchens now come in more than a hundred shades, many at no extra cost, white is still the favorite sold. . . by a margin of 10 to 1.

Every gas range manufacturer provides specifications and detailed instructions for safe installation of his cooking units, vented or unvented, to comply with all local building codes.

Manufacturers also are meeting the demand for high-color kitchens by producing cooking units, as well as one-piece ranges, in the most-wanted shades other than white, and also white ones with colored trimmings for more conservative buyers. This means that builders can find units to harmonize with practically any color scheme that is requested.

Homemakers themselves are the best "boosters" of eye-level oven and broiler cooking, which eliminates the need for stooping over to peer at food or to clean up spills.

Another popular built-in is the space-saving combination washer and clothes dryer, which usually is installed beneath a counter top in the kitchen for "sit-down" handling of the laundry between cooking chores.

By popular demand, the automatic gas water heater too is now standard kitchen equipment and can be built into a closet that matches the broom closet, where it is readily accessible for adjustment of the temperature control according to the hot water needs of the homemaker, all day long.

Of interest to builders is the fact that there are models for installation on either a counter, in a wall or cabinet. Several manufacturers are presenting ovens with the new "heat-jacketed" construction, which pre-heats in record time, yet can be maintained at a 190 degree temperature. Many have time and temperature controls now so much in demand.

The broiler sections too are obtainable in many designs, including the new "luminous flame" that starts to broil as soon as the burner is turned on. This up-to-the-minute broiler "sells" itself on sight, also it makes possible indoor charcoal-type broiling any time and at any season of the year, regardless of weather.

Despite the intense heat of which both the "heat jacket" oven and the "luminous flame" broiler are capable, they release one-third less heat to the kitchen due to their new burner design.

Top burner units are equally modern. Among their features are the sensational "potwatcher," which makes top-of-the-range cooking entirely automatic, and the "hypodermic needle" pilot, which insures never-fail ignition of the burners from any position.

Top Engineering Behind Today's Gas Kitchens

There's less premium on wall space in a kitchen with an oven built into a cabinet, a range built into an island or folding out of sight, and the exhaust fan boldly reaching down from the ceiling. Flexibility, warm colors, often with exposed or simulated brick, and open planning with snack counters joining the kitchen to the new-style family-dining room are the newest trends.

Beneath the colorful exteriors of today's kitchens is some keen engineering: the new "hypodermic" pilot which gives off 50-60 BTU of heat against the old 200; thermostatic top-of-range cooking which keeps the cooking vessel at constant temperature; robot controls which bring it to a boil, then change to simmer; clock controls with alarms, so even dad can cook.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

In this issue: Thanksgiving Is Every Day!

AS YOU WERE SAYING...

Our Parents Are Helpers, Not Spoilers

LIKE MOST young-marrieds, our first two years have been ones of great happiness—and struggle. Through all the ups and downs of beginning a home, our parents have given us real help, both materially and spiritually. Besides such things as secretly slipping a ten-dollar bill into my purse occasionally, helping us furnish our home by "accidentally" remodeling the front bedroom just as we moved in, and praying with us that our baby wouldn't need an eye operation (she didn't!), they've helped us, too, by being silent at the right times.

They let us settle our own spats and bring up our baby in our own way. Unlike most of my friends, I don't have two maddening weeks of "straightening out" the baby after a couple of days with the grandparents. That's because they respect the schedule she's on, treat her calmly and firmly and lovingly, and permit me the right to say "No" without argument or hard feelings.

I'm sure ours are not the only parents who are thoughtful and willing to help when they're needed most, and I'm tired of hearing them all grouped together and labeled "the spoilers." Some are beau-tifiers and helpers and should be appreciated for the wonderful people they are!—Mrs. D. A. Messer, Neosho, Mo.

The Everyday Kindness Society

When a girl who had just reached young womanhood died, her widowed mother was inconsolable. But her grief was lessened when friends of her daughter formed a little society and named it the Everyday Kindness Society, after the daughter's initials. Each member pledged to perform some act of kindness every day.

At first no dues were assessed, but soon many members were voluntarily donating to the society. Since her daughter had been exceptionally fond of children, the mother used this money to help them—by endowing a child's hospital bed, or by donating to a children's home.

This society was a great source of comfort and gratification, both to the mother and to her daughter's friends, for it perpetuated the name and spirit of this girl by works of human kindness.—Mabel M. Sturgis, Boise, Idaho.

"Carbon-Copy Letters" Bring Us Together

While my children were growing up, we were a close-knit family. Then they left home for different colleges and jobs all over the country, and I felt that they were drifting apart. They always wrote regularly to me, but not to each other. That's when I started my "carbon-copy letters." Every time I wrote, I made several copies and included news from my children's notes to me. Now my children really share the lives of one another, and that wonderful "family feeling" is maintained.—Mersel D. Nickerson, Austin, Tex.

Secret of a Happy Marriage

On radio programs, a couple married many years often is asked by the master of ceremonies, "To what do you attribute your long, happy marriage?" I am always sorry when I hear someone answer, "Plenty of hard work," or some equally uninspiring reason. My own answer would have been, "The secret of a happy marriage is for each one to be more concerned with the other's welfare and happiness than with his own."

A few years ago, however, our older son was married, and our daughter-in-law was given some advice by one of her college professors. His advice, which I think covers everything, was, "Each for the other, and both for God."

If that were the motto of every young couple, there would be few divorces.—Mrs. B. S., Florence, S. C.

I was just thinking...

... IT MUST BE about time for a Thanksgiving column.

It shouldn't be time at all.

Not that I believe the year is passing too swiftly. I believe rather that there should be no need to remind us to be thankful. I guess that's a pretty trite thought. Like Mother's Day should be every day and patriotism oughtn't to be hauled from mothballs only on the Fourth.

But I don't advocate sitting around like a certified public Pollyanna and noting in a ledger every ray of sunshine.

In a way, it's a shame anybody has to be reminded to be thankful or happy or proud. I imagine there are moments in my days when the sense of thanksgiving is deeper than when the aroma of turkey hits my nostrils.

I hate to sound like a do-gooder. I dislike having anyone think I'm a smirking hypocrite. But I have learned the hard way that man must find it in his heart to be piercingly aware of small favors in this life, lest he die for lack of what he considers the great ones.

I will give thanks this Thanksgiving, but not for the reminder to be thankful. I will be grateful that somehow I have discovered how to find deep pleasure and reward in the little delights of my little life. I will give thanks that there is a door in my heart open to the certain kind of perception which is never unique but often overlooked.

I intend to bow my head humbly to the fact that I don't need a remembrance of pilgrims in the snow or a flag in the light of battle to love my country. And to realize that love in ways less spectacular perhaps, but more personal.

I will be thankful that I can love my fellow man, not always wisely or well, but deeply on occasion. Not for Father's Day or Memorial Day or Christmas, but because a child smiles or a mother cradles her arms or an old man looks wistful in the twilight.

I think it's a fine thing to set aside a day for Thanksgiving.

I think it would be even finer to set aside each year.

25 QUESTIONS FOR AMBITIOUS SECRETARIES by Marilyn French	18

There are many things for us to be thankful for this Thanksgiving: a world at peace, our loving families, our health, and perhaps above all, for the fact that we're Americans. Maybe the little girl on our cover is thinking about all of these things—along with turkey 'n all the trimmings, of course!—as she waits for Daddy to say grace. At homecoming ceremonies, Daytona Beach's Seabreeze High School band forms a wheel saluting Rotary International's "Four-Way Test."

These service-minded men are helping to build character with their "Four-Way Test" for young men and women.

Rotary's Guidepost for Teen-Agers

by Hal Levinson

Kenosha (Wis.) High students talk over the four questions between class periods.

Kenosha debating coach, John D. Davies, measures his team's ethics by the test.

Athletic teams at Kenosha High apply the test in all contests with other schools.

Hot-rodders find it "more beneficial to all" to impose regulations on themselves.

WITH SOME members of the younger generation making unsavory headlines, it's refreshing to learn about other youngsters who are making news of an entirely different sort.

Boys and girls in the school systems of Daytona Beach, Fla., Kenosha, Wis., and El Dorado, Ark., have a simple method for checking the things they think, say, or do. It involves no flashing lights, hissing noises, or clanging bells. It's a set of four character-building questions called "The Four-Way Test,"* and it's an important part of Rotary International's "ideal of service."

Originated by Rotarian Herbert J. Taylor of Chicago, the test is as simple as its wording:

- Is it the truth?
- Is it fair to all concerned?
- Will it build good will and better friendships?
- Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

Rotary members, who are leaders in the business and professional life of their communities, apply this test in their everyday relationships with their fellow citizens. They've also started introducing this simple standard of human conduct into our educational system.

For example, the Rotarians presented the test to local schools and Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach. Following a speech by a Rotary member, posters bearing the four questions were placed in school buildings, stickers were given to students to paste in their notebooks, and placards were distributed to teachers for their desks. Since introduction of the Four-Way Test early this year, cheating in exams, malicious gossip, unruly conduct, and discrimination have decreased considerably, principals say.

Similar results are reported from Sarasota, Fla., Grand Rapids, Mich., Towanda, Pa., Santa Maria, Calif., Eugene, Ore., Canfield, Ohio, and Marion, N. C., where the test has been introduced. Interest has been stimulated by essay, oratory, and poster contests. School newspaper editors have written articles applying the test to current school problems. Classes in social problems and in driver training have used it as a guide with equal success.

One school displayed a banner bearing the test in its gymnasium during basketball games—and better sportsmanship resulted. Another made the Four-Way Test the theme of half-time ceremonies at its homecoming football game. Still others used the test as the theme for commencement exercises or, in a lighter vein, for student skits at school assemblies.

The Savannah (Ga.) Rotary Clubs recently introduced the test to a complete county school system. More than 30,000 students—third-graders to high-school seniors—heard Rotarians explain its meaning and application.

What of the personal impact of the test on boys and girls?

Since the project became a major Rotary activity only a year ago, it's a little early to say, but individual reports are sufficiently encouraging to warrant continuing the program. To Rotarians everywhere, it seems a more constructive approach to teen-age behavior than shaking one's head over the younger generation.

Thanksgiving

A 20th century pilgrim teaches an American family the oft-forgotten significance of next Thursday's holiday.

Is There an Extra Place at Your Table?

Your table may be crowded this Thanksgiving, but won't there be room for a guest who really needs something of the holiday's true spirit?

Remember, "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unaware."

Below: Father tells his rapt audience the story of the first Thanksgiving feast. Right: The children, dressed in Pilgrim costumes, recite proclamations.

by Enid Smith

Day IS EVERY DAY

WHAT DOES THANKSGIVING mean in your family?

For years John and I went through a hectic holiday routine: shopping, summoning the family, preparing food and mixing dressing late into Wednesday night. On Thursday we'd welcome a dozen relatives, but often our spirits would be wilted; we'd be out of sorts with the children and dismayed that all our preparations should be demolished in little more than an hour or two.

After the meal, of course, older guests complained of overeating and wandered off in search of empty beds. Younger ones idled around the living room, periodically chirping, "Well, what can we do now?"

But for John and me all this was changed two Thanksgivings ago, when a new friend came to break bread with us. Someone from our church had called to ask if we could include a displaced person at our dinner party.

"Why, of course," we replied. But secretly we wondered how some senior members of our family would feel about an "outsider" at the festive board.

Well, early Thanksgiving afternoon, the aunts, uncles, and cousins began arriving. So did Hans. He was a gaunt man with a long face and large, sorrowful eyes. Quietly he sat among us, listening while the women talked about hats and babies and their husbands discussed politics and football.

Then, as the platters of turkey and cranberries were being passed, Hans suddenly cleared his throat and spoke in broken English:

"Mr. Smith," he said, turning to John who was at that moment carving an enormous bird, "tell me: when did this Thanksgiving time start? And why? What does it mean to the American people?"

Slowly John put down the knife. I could see he was struggling for the right words to tell this new American a little of the meaning of this holiday which we were celebrating. Every now and then as John spoke, a great-aunt or a small cousin would interrupt to correct a date or to describe a Pilgrim.

The stranger understands

The explanation was short, but when it was over and John started to carve again, Hans nodded his head. "Ya, thank you, now I see," and then, to no one in particular but to all of us, "Ya, a day of rich meaning. But all days in this land have rich meaning."

A solemnity had come over our table. As the story of the Pilgrims had unfolded, young and old alike had set down their forks to listen. In that moment, we, as a family, had recaptured some of the joy, the faith, and the hope of the grateful Americans who had gathered centuries before on the shores of Massachusetts to give thanks to God. And now a tired man, a 20th century pilgrim to new shores, had returned our American heritage to us.

Later that evening, as John and I were putting away the leftovers and scrubbing out the pots, we knew that this had been our most meaningful Thanksgiving. "You know," John said, "for years we've been cheating ourselves and the children out of a real Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving isn't just a day to eat your head off; it's a red-letter day in America's spiritual life, too."

Yes, our Thanksgivings have changed since Hans came to our table. Now, in addition to preparing a bulging bill of fare, we also prepare for the spirit of the occasion.

Last year, for instance, I made simple Pilgrim costumes for the younger children. As Miles Standish and Priscilla Alden, the children seemed to fall into the character of the day. They understood better the story their father told them. My sister read Governor Bradford's Declaration of Thanksgiving, and a cousin opened the meal with his own prayer of thanks for all the family.

How we're teaching the children

For us, Thanksgiving has come to mean far more than a feast. Turkey, pie, cranberries—these are merely the trimmings. The centerpiece of the celebration, gratitude for the Lord's blessings, is what really counts.

The children are older now, and there is rich new material we hope to offer them this holiday. John has copied the letter that Edward Winslow, one of the original Pilgrims, wrote his people back in England after the first Thanksgiving:

"... and although it be not alwayes so plentifull, as it was at this time with us, yet by the goodnesse of God, we are so farre from want that we often wish you partakers of our plentie."

We hope that when John reads Winslow's letter this year, our children will sense what the author was really saying: We hope they, too, will realize that this day is symbolic of the full table which America would gratefully, joyfully share with others—the whole year round.

I plan to tell why Thanksgiving turned out to be a time of gaiety. Our sober Pilgrims would never have had such a rollicking time had it not been for unexpected guests. For when Indian Chief Massasoit was invited to the Pilgrim party, signals got crossed and 90 other braves came with him.

Moreover, the Indians arrived in high spirits, thinking their white friends were asking them to a Green Corn Dance (their own ritual to celebrate the ripening of the harvest). So thanks to misunderstanding all around, the occasion was merrier than anticipated, and that spirit of mirth has become Thanksgiving tradition.

Throughout history, in China, in ancient Rome, in Palestine and Chaldea, men and women of all races have celebrated the harvest as the time for man to turn to God in gratitude for earth's abundance. If today we understand the meaning of Thanksgiving—whether celebrated with a Green Corn Dance or a Succoth Arbor, with a prayer to Ceres, goddess of grain, or with a stuffed turkey—we will realize that our holiday symbolizes man's ability to sow, to reap, and to harvest... not alone seeds of grain, but spiritual crops as well.

If we can teach our children—and foster within ourselves—the faith and hope possessed by that small band of thankful colonists some 300 years ago, we will help make manifest the real meaning of Thanksgiving and, indeed, of America itself.

Thanksgiving means more than just "turkey 'n trimmings" when you ask a lonely stranger in.

How to make your turkey tastier

Shake plenty of Ac'cent in the cavity and on the bird before roasting to bring out all the fine, natural flavor of turkey! Add some Ac'cent to dressing and gravy, too, to boost and blend all the flavors. If you don't notice a definite flavor improvement, you aren't using enough Ac'cent.

Ac'cent makes all foods... vegetables... meats... poultry... seafood... soups... salads... gravies... taste better. Ac'cent is the only widely available brand of pure monosodium glutamate... the only seasoning that brings out and restores natural food flavors.

Be sure to use enough Ac'cent to taste the flavor improvement.

It is so easy to use... simply shake it on like salt and pepper... when you cook, or at the table.

It's a favorite seasoning of chefs, dietitians, gourmets.

Roast Turkey

A shallow roasting pan with a rack will be needed.

Thaw according to directions on package
1 turkey, 10 to 12 lbs., ready-to-cook weight

As soon as turkey is partially thawed, remove the neck and giblets.

Rinse neck and giblets thoroughly. Put into a saucepan, cover with water, and simmer 2 to 3 hrs., or until tender when pierced with a fork. Cool; put into refrigerator until ready to use.

When turkey is thawed, rinse, drain, and pat dry with absorbent paper. Set aside.

Prepare

Herb Stuffing (See recipe on this page)

Rub neck and body cavities of turkey with

1 to 2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon Accent

Lightly fill body and neck cavities with stuffing. To close body cavity, sew or skewer and lace with cord. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Tie drumsticks to tail. Bring wing tips onto the back. Thoroughly brush skin with

Melted fat

Place turkey breast-side up on rack in the roasting pan. (If roast-meat thermometer is used, place it in center of inside thigh muscle.) Place fat-moistened cheesecloth over top and sides of turkey. Keep cloth moist during roasting by brushing occasionally with fat from bottom of pan.

Roast uncovered at 325°F for 4 to 4½ hrs., or until turkey tests done (thickest part of drumstick feels soft when pressed with fingers; protect fingers with cloth or paper napkin), or until roast-meat thermometer registers 190°F. Remove from oven.

Remove roast-meat thermometer and keep turkey hot. Allow to stand 30 to 40 min. before serving. This permits turkey to absorb its juices and become easier to carve. This also allows time to prepare gravy and garnishes.

Remove cord and skewers. Serve turkey on a heated platter. Garnish with

Parsley

Serve with

Cranberry Sauce
Stuffed Acorn Squash

About 16 servings

Herb Stuffing

Mix together

¾ cup melted butter or margarine
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sage (or ½ teaspoon each of thyme, rosemary, and marjoram)
¼ teaspoon pepper

In a large bowl, lightly toss butter mixture with 2 qts. (8 slices) soft bread cubes

¾ cup milk
½ cup chopped celery with leaves
½ cup chopped onion

Just before roasting, spoon stuffing into neck and body cavities of turkey—do not pack. The last hour of roasting time, extra stuffing may be put into a greased, covered baking dish, or wrapped in aluminum foil, and baked with the turkey.

Stuffing for 10-lb. turkey

Note: Immediately after the meal, remove stuffing from turkey. Store stuffing in a covered bowl in refrigerator. If only one side of turkey has been carved, wrap remainder in waxed paper or aluminum foil; if more than one half of the meat has been carved off, remove remainder of meat from bones. Store, covered, in refrigerator until ready to use.

Cranberry Sauce

bring to boiling; boil uncovered without stirring about 5 min., or until cranberry skins pop.

Cool and serve.

About 2 cups sauce

Combine in a saucepan

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
½ teaspoon salt

Set over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Bring to boiling; boil uncovered for 5 min.

Meanwhile, rinse (discarding imperfect berries)

2 cups (about ½ lb.) cranberries

Add cranberries to the sugar sirup and

Note: For Spicy Cranberry Sauce, add 1 3-in. piece stick cinnamon to the sugar and water. Remove stick cinnamon just before serving.

Stuffed Acorn Squash

2 medium-size acorn squash

Place squash cut-side down in baking pan. Pour boiling water to ¼-in. depth in baking pan.

Bake squash halves at 350°F for 25 min. Using a fork, turn squash cut-side up and bake 25 min. longer, or until tender when pierced with a fork.

Carefully scoop out squash with a spoon, without breaking shells. Put squash into a bowl and mash.

Blend thoroughly into squash

3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

2 tablespoons cream

and a mixture of

1 tablespoon brown sugar

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon pepper

½ teaspoon Accent

Pile squash mixture lightly into shells. If desired, garnish with

Nuts

Bake 8 to 10 min. longer, or until the squash is reheated and lightly browned.

4 servings

Roast turkey—crisply browned, tender, juicy, plump with savory stuffing—your pride and joy on Thanksgiving Day!

Pumpkin Pie

Prepare, but do not bake

Pastry for 1-crust 9-in. pie (see recipe for Lattice Mincemeat Pie)

Set in refrigerator to chill thoroughly.

Put into a large bowl

2 cups (1-lb. can) canned pumpkin

Combine

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar with a mixture of

$1\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoons ground cinnamon

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground ginger

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground nutmeg

$\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground cloves

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

Add to the pumpkin and blend until the mixture is smooth.

Mix together

$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups (14 $\frac{1}{2}$ -oz. can) undiluted evaporated milk

Add to the pumpkin mixture and mix until smooth. Pour into the chilled pastry shell.

Bake at 425°F for 10 min. Reduce temperature to 325°F and bake about 50 min. longer, or until a silver knife comes out clean when inserted halfway between center and edge of pie.

Serve with slices of

Cheddar cheese

One 9-in. pie

Traditional yet modern! Spicy-rich pumpkin pie is creamy-smooth every time—when you follow this failure-proof recipe.

For Mincemeat—Set out a large, heavy skillet.

and enough cooked beef without excess fat to yield

$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups ground cooked beef

Set aside suet and beef.

Wash, quarter, core, pare, and chop

4 medium-size apples (about 3 cups, chopped)

Put apples and meat into skillet; add and mix thoroughly

1 cup firmly packed brown sugar

1 cup apple cider

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup fruit jelly

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup raisins, chopped

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup currants

2 tablespoons molasses

and a mixture of

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground cloves

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground nutmeg

$\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground mace

about 1 hr., or until most of the liquid is absorbed. Add

1 tablespoon grated lemon peel (grated through colored part only; white is bitter)

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Blend thoroughly.

Note: If mincemeat is not used immediately, pack hot mincemeat into sterilized jars and seal. Cool away from draft; label and store in a cool, dry place. (This recipe yields about 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups mincemeat.)

For Pastry—Set out a 9-in. pie pan.

Sift together into a bowl

1 cup sifted flour

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

Cut in with pastry blender or two knives until pieces are size of small peas

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup lard, hydrogenated vegetable shortening, or all-purpose shortening

Sprinkle gradually over mixture, a teaspoon at a time, about

2 $\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons cold water

Mix lightly with fork after each addition. Add only enough water to hold pastry together. Work quickly; do not overhandle. Shape into a ball and flatten on a lightly floured surface. (If dough is not to be used immediately, wrap in waxed paper, moisture-vapor-proof paper, or aluminum foil and put in refrigerator.)

Roll dough from center to edges to about $\frac{1}{4}$ -in. thickness and about 1 in. larger than over-all size of pan. With knife or spatula, loosen pastry from surface wherever sticking occurs; lift pastry slightly, sprinkle flour underneath.

Loosen one half of pastry from board with spatula and fold over other half. Loosen remaining part and fold in quarters. Gently lay pastry in pan and unfold, carefully fitting it to the pan so that it is not stretched.

Trim edge with scissors or sharp knife to overlap $\frac{1}{2}$ in. Fold extra pastry under at edge and press index finger on edge of pastry, then pinch pastry with thumb and index finger of other hand. Lift fingers and repeat procedure to flute around entire edge. Set aside.

Wash, quarter, core, pare, and chop

1 large apple (about 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ cups, chopped)

Put apple into a saucepan with the mincemeat; heat mixture thoroughly. Fill pastry shell with mincemeat mixture.

Meanwhile, prepare hard sauce for the lattice top.

For Hard Sauce—Cream until butter softened

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter

1 tablespoon vanilla extract (or 1 teaspoon almond extract, if desired)

Add gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition

2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

When pie is cool, force hard sauce through a pastry bag and a No. 27 star tube in long strips to form a crisscross design over top of pie.

Serve immediately.

One 9-in. pie

Appetizers

Thanksgiving dinner is traditionally for the entire family and all from grandparents to the littlest angels participate in the festivities. Plan your menu with the enjoyment of each one in mind.

Keep the appetizers light so that all may enjoy the bountiful meal that follows.

And many will enjoy the pumpkin, mince, or cranberry pie even more if you serve a dessert salad with the turkey dinner and serve the pies with plenty of hot coffee later in the afternoon. Here are a few suggestions for your Thanksgiving dinner.

Vegetable-Juice Cocktails—Season tomato juice with salt, lemon juice, and celery leaves; chill; strain; pour out the children's servings. Add grated onion, pepper, and Worcestershire or tabasco sauce to the remainder for the grownups. Serve vegetable-juice combinations seasoned with lemon juice and salt, topped with a small mound of whipped cream or sour cream and a sprinkling of finely chopped parsley or chives.

Try vegetable-juice cocktails steaming hot with a puff of whipped cream.

Fruit-Juice Cocktails—Serve one or more fruit juices (apricot, cranberry, orange, pineapple, or grapefruit) either straight or mixed with an equal amount of ginger ale, and with plenty of cracked ice. Mint sprigs, maraschino cherries, orange and lemon slices add both color and flavor.

Canapés—The easiest-to-serve canapés are "dips" or spreads which are scooped up with crisp crackers, potato chips, or squares of Melba toast. Set out the dips in a small bowl, the canapé bases in big ones, and everyone will help himself to favorite combinations.

Make the Liver Canapé Spread (below) using the cooked turkey liver, supplemented by chicken livers. It's a fine way for all to share the delicious turkey liver if you do not make giblet gravy.

Liver Canapé Spread

Put enough cooked liver through medium blade of the food chopper to yield

1 cup ground, cooked liver

Prepare, peel, chop, and mix thoroughly with the liver

1 hard-cooked egg

Blend in

3 tablespoons finely chopped celery

2 tablespoons minced onion

1 teaspoon prepared mustard

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon Accent

Moisten mixture to spreading consistency with about

¼ cup ketchup

Cover and set in refrigerator until serving time.

Spread on toast rounds or crackers.

Brussels Sprouts in Herb Butter

Wash

2 lbs. Brussels sprouts

Soak 20 to 30 min. in cold salted water. Rinse thoroughly.

Cook, loosely covered, in a large amount of water for 15 to 20 min., or until just tender.

Meanwhile, put into a saucepan

½ cup butter

1 tablespoon grated onion

1 tablespoon lemon juice

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon thyme

¼ teaspoon marjoram

¼ teaspoon savory

Set saucepan over low heat until butter is melted, stirring to blend in the herbs and seasonings.

When Brussels sprouts are tender, drain thoroughly and turn into a warm serving dish. Pour the seasoned-butter mixture over the Brussels sprouts and toss gently to coat sprouts evenly and thoroughly.

About 8 servings

Frozen Cranberry Whip

Set refrigerator control at coldest operating temperature. Put a bowl and beater in refrigerator to chill.

Rinse (discarding imperfect berries)

2 cups (about ½ lb.) cranberries

Put into a saucepan and add

1 cup water

Bring to boiling and cook, uncovered, until cranberry skins pop.

Meanwhile, cut into quarters with scissors dipped frequently in water

24 (6 oz.) marshmallows

Put into top of double boiler and add

½ cup orange juice

½ cup pineapple juice

Set over simmering water and heat, stirring occasionally, until marshmallows are melted.

Force cooked cranberries through a sieve or food mill to make a smooth pulp. Immediately add and stir until sugar is dissolved

2 tablespoons lemon juice

Remove marshmallow mixture from simmering water and blend into the cranberry pulp. Pour into refrigerator tray. Put into freezing compartment of refrigerator and freeze until mixture is mushlike in consistency.

Using chilled bowl and beater, beat until cream is of medium consistency (piles softly)

1 cup chilled whipping cream

Gently fold whipped cream and partially frozen cranberry mixture together until blended. Turn into a 1-qt. mold which has been rinsed in cold water and drained. Put into freezing compartment of refrigerator and freeze about 4 hrs., or until mixture is firm.

About 1 qt. whip

WORDS ABOUT

Music

BY JOEY SASSO

Fred Astaire

Popular: THE BEST OF FRED ASTAIRE. Epic Album. Here is an aptly titled collection of 12 nostalgic tunes from the many popular Fred Astaire movie musicals which were recorded by him in the thirties. The debonair dancer exhibits vocal charm and superb musical taste in his offerings here of "Cheek to Cheek," "A Foggy Day," "They All Laughed," "A Fine Romance," and other tunes from his films. The orchestras of Ray Noble, Johnny Green, and Leo Reisman supply excellent background music.

MABEL MERCER SINGS COLE PORTER. Atlantic Album. Mabel Mercer, song stylist popular with theater audiences, sings 13 tunes taken from ten Cole Porter shows. They range from "Looking at You" from the 1929 revue, "Wake Up and Dream," to "It's All Right with Me," from "Can-Can." Miss Mercer's intimate style, warmth, and understanding are just right for the sophisticated Cole Porter lyrics.

Jazz: JAZZ AT THE METROPOLE CAFE. Red Allen, Cozy Cole, and Charlie Shavers. Bethlehem Album. Here is an on-the-spot recording session that effectively captures the music and crowd sounds of a typical night in this famous jazz mecca. The music is exciting, much in the nature of a jam session, with all artists improvising freely. Such tunes as "Kiss the Baby," "Cotton Tail," "When the Saints Go Marching In," and "Trumpet Conversation" generate excitement and reflect the uninhibited atmosphere of the recording site. Jazzophiles who have never made the pilgrimage to the fabulous Metropole Cafe will find this album a wonderful substitute.

Classical: GRIEG: LYRIC PIECES, BOOKS 1 & 2, OPUS 12 & 38. Menahem Pressler, Pianist. MGM Album. The beautiful miniatures of Grieg are etched out in fine detail by the probing, sensitive fingers of Menahem Pressler, young Israeli pianist. The Grieg pieces, overflowing with warm melody and feeling, are given a studied reading by the artist, who performs with great depth and tenderness.

Folk Music: RAMBLIN' MAN. Hank Williams. MGM Album. When Hank Williams passed from the folk-music scene, the country lost one of its most talented artists. Fortunately for us all, some of his best works have been preserved on records. This album can be considered a lasting memorial in that it contains a collection of his finest songs and best performances. Included are "I Can't Escape from You," "Nobody's Lonesome for Me," "I Can't Help It," and "Lonesome Whistle." Any collector of folk music will want this album for his library.

Dress Up Game Jane McHenry

During the Thanksgiving holidays if you and a group of relatives or friends are gathered together for an afternoon, here is a game that will entertain everyone.

Ask the adults present to write the names of various occupations on small, separate slips of paper. Give one to each child and allow him 15 minutes (or more, if you want) to assemble from everyday things around the house and attic, objects and articles of clothing that suggest the person he is trying to represent.

For instance if "Artist" is on your slip, you might use an upturned saucepan lid for a palette. Arrange a few mounds of different colored left-overs from the icebox on it for paint; put on a tam and assume a dreamy look!

At the end of the time limit, contestants assemble but none of them may speak until the others have correctly guessed their occupations.

Here are some dress-up ideas! Chinese laundry man, ballerina, queen, pilot, farmer, pirate, spaceman, jailbird, knight, coal miner, baseball player, judge, plumber, symphony orchestra leader.

For making plants to grow our food,
Dear God, we give our thanks to You.
We'll show our thanks by being good,
For we are glad You made us, too!

Dear Miss Barrows:

I am now in the Land of the Midnight Sun and the Northern Lights, which is Alaska. However, I was born in Florida and lived there until I was eight years old.

Since then I've been in 44 states, the District of Columbia, and Mexico. We are now living in Anchorage, which is just like any other city in the United States. In some ways, though, Alaska is different.

I've seen a lot of unusual sights, such as Eskimos, sled dogs (which are Malamutes, Huskies, and Siberians), moose, king salmon, caribou, reindeer, mountain goats, mountain sheep, and ptarmigan! I've also seen glaciers!

In Winter we have five hours of daylight, and we have to go to school when the snow is as much as three to six feet deep and the temperature is 25° below zero.

Sincerely,
Rick Bergwin
Anchorage, Alas.

Dear Miss Barrows:

My hobby is collecting things concerning Indians, such as pictures, written information, and Indian jewelry. Last Summer when I was in New Mexico, I visited Maria, the famous potter who rediscovered the secret of black ware. She lives in a hogan about an hour by car from Santa Fe. She is wonderful, and she is very skilled in her work. While I was in New Mexico, I saw the Eagle, Snake, Rain, Corn, and the Apache Devil Dances.

Sincerely Yours,
Beatrice Warren

Dear Miss Barrows:

When we were coming from Europe on a ship I was four years old. A storm began two hours after we left the port. The captain said we must put on our safety belts and go up on the deck. Here all women and children had to stand by their boats. All men went to other boats.

The wind was very strong. The waves went high. The sky was black and it was very cold. Our ship went up and down. My father could not be with us. The captain said we must be ready to go to the boats any time. We worried about Father. We waited with fear. We stood on the deck for an hour, then the captain said we might go back to our cabins. We were happy.

After eight days at sea we came happily to Boston. I am eight years old now and I like America very much.

Sincerely yours,
Valentina Radzimovsky
Age 8 Champaign, Ill.

Dear Miss Barrows:

I gave a party May 23rd. I had looked in books for games to play. When I read the Junior Treasure Chest page on May 22nd, I found the riddles and the picture of "Peculiar Percy." We guessed at the riddles and tried to find the 20 things wrong with the picture. We also made parachutes from our napkins. We all had fun.

Sincerely,
Lawrence Washington
Age 11 Athens, Ala.

Dear Miss Barrows:

Here is an interesting game that is fun as well as exciting.

For everyone that is playing, you should have a magazine. The person who is "it" asks questions, such as, "What do we wear on our feet?" Then the first one to find the word or picture that answers the question gets one point. The first one to get ten points is "it" for the next game.

Sincerely,
Janice Stokes
Age 11 Janesville, Ia.

Dear Miss Barrows:

We have a papa goose named Dandy and a mother goose named Lady. Early in the spring Lady laid a nest of eggs. Then she sat on them day and night. She came off only once each day to get food and water. When Lady left the nest, Dandy would honk and flap his wings.

Journalists

After four weeks the eggs began to crack. Then after two full days ten little goslings were hatched. During the hatching period old Dandy was sure upset. He wouldn't let anyone near her nest.

I love to play with the goslings. They are so soft and fuzzy and are a beautiful shade of yellow. We like to have them for they help to keep the grass and weeds from our yard.

Your friend,
Age 11 Mike Miller,
Texarkana, Tex.

Dear Miss Barrows:

Here is my story about the Pueblo Indians. The Indians in the Southwest are not like most Indians you have read or heard about. They live in houses of adobe, which is mud and straw mixed together. The Taos Indians were the first people in this country to think of apartment houses. They build their pueblos one on top of the other.

They are famous, too, for their weaving and pottery-making. They were never fighting people. They were interested in growing crops and they still are.

If you came to Santa Fe you would see many Indians selling their goods—blankets, rugs, baskets, pottery, and jewelry. A lot of them make necklaces out of corn. First they dye the corn pretty colors. Then they punch holes in each kernel and string them.

Sincerely,
Age 10 Tina Holmes
Santa Fe, N. Mex.

MYSTERY OF THE

by William T. Brannon author of "Yellow Kid Weil: America's Master Swindler"

LOMBARD, ILL., a few miles west of Chicago, is a quiet suburban community whose main form of excitement is the annual lilac festival. Chief of Police John D. Biehl has even fewer law violators than the average small American city.

And then, one day in the spring of 1955, business suddenly picked up. The chief became aware of it when an angry man strode in and tossed a traffic ticket on his desk.

Chief Biehl glanced at the ticket. It had been written by Patrolman Richard Kahl and charged that the car had overstayed its parking-meter time.

"When I found this ticket on my car," the irate caller said, "the meter showed I still had 10 minutes."

"There's a mistake somewhere," the chief said. "Kahl is one of my best policemen. He's very careful about parking tickets."

"Well, he wasn't this time. I was in front of a drugstore, and I called it to the attention of the pharmacist. Ask him."

"Let's see what the officer has to say."

Patrolman Kahl came in. "The red flag was showing," he insisted. "As I always do, I looked to see if anybody was coming toward the car before I wrote the ticket."

The pharmacist backed up the motorist:

there was still 10 minutes on the meter.

Obviously, somebody was wrong; Chief Biehl didn't like to doubt his officer, but he couldn't overlook the testimony of the complainant and the druggist, either. At the time it seemed a minor matter, easily adjusted.

The complaints pile up

But Chief Biehl soon found out he was mistaken. Indignant car owners began beating a path to his door, complaining they had returned to their cars to find tickets for over-parking on their windshields while the meters showed plenty of time to their credit.

Patrolman Kahl refused to back down; he insisted he had ticketed only cars beside meters that showed the red flag.

The complaints piled up, and Chief Biehl was in a quandary. Many of the complainants were personal friends whose word couldn't be doubted. Yet he knew Patrolman Kahl was honest and fair.

There seemed only one answer: either his friends were lying or Kahl was overzealous.

Weeks later, the harried chief came up with the solution that should satisfy everybody: the meters must be defective; maybe the red flag showed when the officer wrote the ticket, then the needle jumped back.

"Which one?" he asked. "I don't see any red flag."

CAPRICIOUS MINUTES

If the parking meters weren't faulty and the patrolman was honest, why the stream of irate motorists to police headquarters?

Chief Biehl culled out six locations where there had been repeated complaints. The six meters were returned to the factory.

They were thoroughly tested by the manufacturer, who reported that they were all in perfect working order. The meters went back into service.

But the complaints continued to come in—not only about the six but about many others in the main shopping district.

One clue discovered

Baffled, Chief Biehl and Patrolman Kahl sat down and studied a big pile of tickets. Only one pattern emerged: they had all been written between 3 and 5. Was there some significance in that?

"I don't understand it," said Kahl. "I found the same violations at all hours. But this business only happened between 3 and 5."

"There's only one thing to do," Chief Biehl advised. "When you write a ticket between those hours, have a witness."

That afternoon, shortly after 3, Patrolman Kahl brought his motorcycle to a stop beside a car parked at a meter with the red flag showing. He wrote the ticket, then strode into a barbershop. "I'd like you to see this," he told the barber. "I just wrote a ticket for that car because the red flag is showing."

The barber came outside. "Which one?" he asked. "I don't see any red flag."

Kahl looked at the meter in astonishment. The needle showed 12 minutes!

Then he felt a tap on his arm and turned to look into the serious eyes of a teen-age boy. "You can't give that car a ticket because there's still time on the meter."

Kahl grinned. "How would you like to take a ride over to the station?" he asked the boy. "I think you can solve a mystery."

The boy, who said he was 13, confessed to Chief Biehl: "I felt sorry for the people when I saw they had a ticket, so I put a penny in the meter to cancel out the ticket."

The youth repeated his story to Magistrate Richard Schwartz.

"What's your allowance?" the judge asked. "Two dollars a week."

Magistrate Schwartz then imposed sentence: the youth had to change his two dollars into pennies and, escorted by Patrolman Kahl, put 10 pennies into each of 20 meters in the shopping district.

The mystery was solved, and on the day the sentence was carried out, not one person claimed to have more time on his meter than he had paid for.

25 Questions for Ambitious by Marilyn French, author of 'Keys to Etiquette for the Business Girl'

"WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE between a stenographer and a secretary?" is a perennial question. Technically, a stenographer takes shorthand and transcribes letters. A secretary's work includes transcribing correspondence, but it extends far beyond those duties. If you are a secretary or an ambitious stenographer or a student who hopes to become a secretary, the following quiz will help you determine whether you are doing a top-notch job or have the capabilities for this important work. The quiz takes for granted the technical skills of shorthand and typing, which are essential, and concentrates on the details that mark the difference between a stenographer and a secretary.

Are You Reliable?

1. Have you missed fewer than seven days of work in the past year?
2. Have you mastered your filing system so needed papers can be found quickly?
3. Can you handle routine correspondence to save your boss' time?
4. Can you resist the temptation to divulge confidential information about company plans and your boss' personal affairs?
5. When he leaves town, do you keep busy?

Are You Helpful?

6. When your boss makes a mistake, do you correct him tactfully?
7. Do you make suggestions about simplifying his or your own work?
8. Do you usually know where to find information he needs?
9. Do you bring him newspaper clippings concerning items of interest to him?
10. Do you give your boss an honest opinion when asked about business matters?

Are You Gracious?

11. Do you handle telephone calls efficiently but in a friendly manner?
12. Do callers leave feeling they have been treated as courteously as possible?
13. Do you make your boss feel that you would rather work for him than anyone?

Take this quiz and see whether you're doing an indifferent or a top-notch job.

Secretaries

How to Score Yourself

Give yourself four points for each question you answered "Yes." If you scored 92 to 100, why not ask for a raise? If you reached 80 to 88, you're doing fine and are a real help to your boss. If you chalked up 72 or 76, maybe you are too honest! Seriously, a little extra effort could push you into a higher bracket.

If you scored between 64 and 68, you are doing all right, but concentrating on the areas where you missed could pay off for you. If you totaled 60 points or less, you are using only about half your potential. Why not make a real effort to see what a fine secretary you can become? Save the quiz, and take it again in a month or two to check your progress.

How Are Your Human Relations?

14. Are you on speaking terms with everyone in your office?
15. Do you keep your boss informed about events in the lives of employees so he knows who is ill, who is taking business courses, or who has won honors for some special hobby or skill?
16. Do you refrain from "talking up" your favorite co-workers and "panning" those you dislike?
17. Do you have a good disposition that makes it pleasant to work with you?
18. Can you dismiss personal problems from your mind at the office?

Are You "In the Know"?

19. Do you know more about your company's policies and products than the average employee?
20. Do you read any business periodicals?
21. Have you taken a night-school course related to your work in the last year?

Are You Ambitious?

22. Have you performed any special task for your boss in the last month?
23. Have you assumed any additional duties in the last six months?
24. Do you belong to a secretaries' association or other business women's group that can help you improve your work?
25. Have you set a goal for your salary this year—and a plan for making yourself worth more to your boss and your firm?

THE GRAY SICKNESS*

If you feel "old" and worn before the day's work is done, you may be suffering from the GRAY SICKNESS. It keeps millions pale, tired and weak... needlessly!

*IRON deficiency anemia has been aptly called the GRAY SICKNESS. Not only because its victims have lost their once healthy color, but also because life itself has become gray and drab for them. For you simply can't enjoy work or play when you have to drag through day after weary day feeling tired, weak and listless. And sleep doesn't seem to refresh you for you wake up tired.

The GRAY SICKNESS means your blood isn't getting enough iron. It becomes weak, thin, washed-out... just can't supply your body with the full supply of oxygen it needs for buoyant health and radiant color. Signs of the GRAY SICKNESS may be due to other causes so you should see your doctor regularly.

REBUILD STRENGTH FAST

Fortunately the GRAY SICKNESS responds quickly to proper treatment... and normal healthy color, strength and vigor return. In cases like this doctors usually prescribe an iron tonic containing many times your daily iron requirement. Each daily therapeutic dose, 6 tablets of IRONIZED YEAST, contains 10 times your daily iron need... and this iron is fortified with vitamin B₁₂. Now this iron goes right to work... within 24 hours... to start building rich red blood... the kind of blood that soon brings back your normal strength and energy... fills you with your old-time pep... brings healthy color back to your cheeks again.

FEEL STRONGER IN 7 DAYS

Actually in just one week you'll start to feel your old self. You'll begin to enjoy doing a normal day's work again. So get IRONIZED YEAST tablets today. They are very economical to use even when taken in maximum dosage of 6 tablets daily. Just be sure you get genuine IRONIZED YEAST.

SIGNS OF THE GRAY SICKNESS

- PALLOR WEAKNESS
- TIREDNESS NERVOUSNESS
- LOSS OF APPETITE
- FREQUENT HEADACHES

Mr. Sloup has a family plan with Mutual, and he calls it a real "life saver". Eight separate times in the five years previous to the serious illness that left him totally disabled Mr. Sloup was paid cash benefits on his policy. Now a wheelchair case, his monthly checks to cover loss of income are "family savers, too," he says.

Mrs. Sloup with their youngest son John, age 13. Two other fine boys, Louis, 17, and Joe, Jr., 21, were not home at the time. "We used to tell people we were insurance poor," says Mrs. Sloup, "but now we're insurance rich!"
