The March of America

Why work? Because there is something in man that makes him not content to live like the beasts of the field. Man wants more than that, and seeing the broad world and all its opportunities for producing the things he wants, he works, and produces them.

The work system, the economic system, that we have developed here in America during the past 300 years has come in for heavy criticism, for it has developed grave defects.

But it also has shown remarkable achievements, and it is scarcely wise to concentrate so fixedly on the faults as to overlook entirely, and take for granted, the achievements, some of which were recently summarized by the New York Sun:

In 1900, for instance, there were 8000 automobiles in use; in 1941 there are 25,000,000.

In 1900 there were 1,000,000 telephones; in 1941 there are 20,400,000.

In 1900 about 4,400,000 people owned securities; in 1941 there are more than 16,000,000 such owners.

In 1910 there were 16,372,000 savings accounts; in 1941 there are 46,000,000.

In 1920 some 10,581,700 Americans owned their own homes; in 1941 there are 14,000,000 home-owners.

In 1920 there were 10,000 electric refrigerators; in 1941 there are more than 14,000,000.

If the purpose of an economy is to produce goods and get them into the hands of people who can use them, then this is a record without parallel. True, we have had a virgin continent to exploit, and many natural advantages. But when one thinks that material achievements of this magnitude have been attained by free men living under a system of free government and economy, he is less likely to be impressed by what dictator-ridden governments promise. The Germans are still waiting for the Volksauto.

An economy which has produced these fabulous floods of goods and distributed them so widely has something more substantial than the promises of dictators.

We have not come far enough. But having come so far, we can't be on the wrong road entirely. The future course of that road may not be straight ahead on the line of the past. It may have curves and dips. But it has carried us too far through too green a country to encourage indiscriminate straying into bypaths.

Albanian report says Italians are mounting guns that will shoot 16 miles. Right over the Greeks' heads.

Wives Favor Love Stories While In Reno Waiting for Their Divorces

By NICK BOURNE United Press Staff Correspondent RENO, Nev.—The widows-to-be of Reno while away their six weeks reading:

About the psychology of marriage? Sanctity of the family? Social consequences of divorce? The family as the unit of society?

Not at all. They really take home a box of chocolates and read love stories by Faith Baldwin and Kathleen Norris, according to Henry W. Miles, who has completed 27 years as Reno public librarian and who caters to the reading whims of Reno's divorce colony.

Reno divorcees take out about 250 books a day to pass their time in winter, when horseback riding is chilly and everybody's gathered about the fireplace in the swank dude ranch houses.

It requires six weeks' residence before divorce actions can be filed here, and during winter, sports except skiing are limited to a little night-climbing, gambling and reading.

The night clubs are quiet during the long, snowy winter.

Many divorcees find love stories more exciting, Miles said.

"About 25 per cent of our business at the library is with divorcees," he explained. "You can tell one a mile away. Of course I know about everybody in Reno, but when the customer comes in wearing an expensive fur coat, a Pekinese tucked under one arm and a box of chocolates under the other, I know just what she wants."

"Today she wants Kathleen Norris or Faith Baldwin, or, maybe, Ernest Hemingway's 'For Whom the Bell Tolls'—that's going strong now. They used to ask for Elinor Glyn," Miles chuckled.

Some of them take out books on horses. One clamored for one on gold mining and enrolled in a mining course at the University of Nevada in Reno as a result. Books about Nevada's famous Comstock Lode at Virginia City, the subject of the motion picture "Virginia City," too, are popular. Divorce-seekers as a rule bring the books back; are easy to please if you know what to give them, and they don't ask for "Gone With the Wind" any more, Miles said.

"Gone With the Wind" has gone the way of "Anthony Adverse," Miles recollected. It was a spellbinder but doesn't make conversation any more.

Among the prominent patrons of Reno in recent months have been Mary Elizabeth (Liz) Whitney, who divorced multimillionaire sportsman John Hay Whitney; Constance Bennett, of the movies; Mrs. Oetje J. Rogge, who divorced the former assistant U. S. attorney general; Priscilla St. George Duke, who divorced Angier Biddle Duke, of the tobacco family; Whitney Bourne of New York society, who divorced Stanton Griffis, chairman of the board of Paramount Pictures.

But those who have been unlucky in love and don't particularly care about trying their fortunes at Reno's cards and legalized roulette tables, as a rule, like to read just straight romances with a little Hawaiian flavor or mercy. Airplanes alone should not be able to give sufficient help to the troop ferries especially since the British Mediterranean Air Force has shown such high efficiency in recent encounters with the Germans and Italians.

Palm Beach frosting, according to Miles. "Maybe they like to compensate their own romantic misfortunes by reading the happy ending variety," he said.

Possibly some battered troopships might succeed in running the Sicilian Strait gauntlet and reaching Tunis under cover of darkness. They would undergo air bombardment in port and while disembarking, suffering some damage.

These units that might eventually be able to land would certainly be far less than the original number starting from Sicily. Once in the city of Tunis they would be faced with strategic and tactical difficulties of the first rank.

The port of Tunis is 400 miles away from the boundary of Libya's western province of Tripolitania. That frontier is, itself, 600 more miles distant from the port of Benghazi, in Cyrenaica, which is the present objective of the British Libyan offensive.

If the British decide to make the capture of Benghazi the terminus of their drive, any German force in Tunis would have 1,000 miles to go to challenge the British offensive. The route is difficult and if the coastal road were followed, the British fleet would be invited into devastating action. The alternative inland route would make the line of communications hazardous in turn because of poor roads.

All these problems would seem to suggest that Hitler can have no expectation of rescuing his totalitarian ally in Africa. Indeed, the difficulties are so obvious as to suggest that any German plan to get into Tunis is not really aimed at the British. Its real underlying purpose might be to prepare to oppose General Weygand's French North African army if a formal break comes between Vichy and Berlin.

tion of the British Navy and control of either the Pacific or Atlantic by an axis power "would be the signal for a totalitarian government to be installed in one or more states of Latin America."

"The movement of totalitarian control toward the Panama Canal would be rapid," Bullitt emphasized, pointing out that the United States will not have a two-ocean navy before 1946.

"If the Panama Canal should be closed by bombardment from the air or sabotage, our one-ocean navy would be fixed in one ocean and the other ocean would become the pathway for invasion," he told the committee. "We are not prepared today to meet an attack by the totalitarian states that are leagued against us."

"A Japanese iron ring around Asia and Australia and a German iron ring around Africa and Europe, including Great Britain and Ireland, would cut us off from trade with so great a portion of the earth that we—in a mutilated stamp of the Western Hemisphere—would be thrown into economic disorder," he said of the possible results.

Six More Licenses Obtained By NYA Radio Shop Youths

Six youths who have taken instruction in the Ranger National Youth Administration radio shop have secured their licenses, it was stated Saturday, and these, together with the supervisor and his assistant, gives the shop eight licensed radiomen.

The youths who have secured their licenses are Dick Pickett, Ray Blocker, Eddie Steyer, Lawrence Thompson, William McCreary and Truman Williams.

At present the Ranger shop is constructing four 40-watt phone and code transmitters to be used in the Ranger Youth Administration shops in Mineral Wells, Wichita Falls, Vernon and Haskell.

They are also constructing inter-office communication systems, to be used in the Ranger barracks.

THE NEWS Behind The News

What do you find in the newspaper you are holding in your hands?

On the front page, headlines; history bursting into shape before your eyes...

Then, on the inner pages, news you might not at first recognize as such... pages of advertising from your local stores. Pages of merchandise... an assortment of wares so varied and so complete it would take you weeks to inspect it in person!

News? Yes! Not to shake the world, perhaps, but important to matters you care about. The new dress Mary wants for the Prom (here is one illustrated — and you had no idea it would cost so little). Or Junior's new bicycle (you could not very well have guessed that the sporting-goods store was having a sale!)

Newspaper advertising saves you money — you can compare prices better than you could by store-to-store searching. It saves you time — you can decide just where to go before you start. And it saves you mistakes — these goods are sold exactly as advertised!

So read all the newspapers! Sometimes the advertisements can mean more to you than all the foreign dispatches on Page One!

men and the sharp commands of the trooper. She wanted to ride to the hospital in the ambulance with Paul. They wouldn't let her. The man who had first bent over her helped her into a black sedan. "I'll take you. Your bruises and scratches better be looked over, too."

She could hear him, talking to Eugene, as she undressed slowly. Her arm, she found, was black and blue, and there was a nasty welt on her hip. Her right leg was scratched and bruised under the indine they'd painted it with at the hospital. The mirror gave her back the image of a pale, big-eyed girl with an angry scratch on her cheek and tumbled hair. Wearily, she slipped into bed. Her head was banging cruelly.

BUT the must have slept. She must have slept as only the exhausted can sleep, for it was long past breakfast time—she could hear Genie and Sis shouting outside her window—when she awoke. Eugene was home. "Had to stay," he said matter-of-factly. "One day more isn't going to matter."

"Don't bother about it, please." "I want to. A man I never saw before went to a lot of trouble for me, in an accident once, and I'm only paying it back." It was then that she saw the scar which reached from his ear along his throat and down into his collar. The man signaled a nurse and spoke to her. She went away, to come back with something in a glass for Martha. "Drink this. It will help you."

PORT WORTH, Jan. 25.—Disarmament of law abiding citizens through legislation restricting or outlawing firearms weakens national defense, McLeod A. Greathouse, president of the Texas State Rifle Association, declared today in announcing a meeting of the organization's executive committee in Austin Sunday.

Greathouse, who also mentioned the fact that the destruction of the normal market for firearms results in the closing of plants for their manufacture. As a result, the facilities for the manufacture of rifles, shot guns, and pistols are not available when a crisis arises.

ALIEN REGISTRATION WILL BRING U. S. MANY NEW CITIZENS; APPLICATIONS SHOW BIG JUMP

BY BRUCE CATTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Most striking immediate result of the registration of the 4,700,000 aliens in the United States has been a vast increase in the number of applications for citizenship.

Present indications are that the Department of Justice isn't going to get too tough with the aliens, but will try to make about 4,000,000 new citizens out of them. Earl G. Harrison, D. J. official who had charge of the registering, believes this new jump in applications comes because a great many aliens learned for the first time that they were not actually citizens.

WPA DOES BIG DEFENSE JOB

ONE of the biggest defense programs in the whole country can be chalked up to the credit of WPA's relief workers—who right now are on the last lap of a $500,000,000 set of additions to the nation's defenses. Some of this work was begun five years ago, and some of it, was begun only yesterday. Some of it has been done under the direct supervision of army and navy men, and some of it has been done under WPA supervision with army and navy approval. It has included the building of air corps airports, the construction of hundreds of barracks, the building of rifle ranges, erection of machine shops, armories, the reconditioning of army posts in preparation for the new draft army, additions to the facilities of navy yards and the erection of army hospitals.

CALL us incorrigible old fogies if you will, but we who have long idolized Piggy Lambert as the most fascinating fust-budget among basketball coaches bitterly resent all attempts to confer that coveted distinction on Branch McCracken. No one will deny that McCracken in his short tenure as instructor at Philadelphia has displayed admirable ingenuity and resourcefulness, but Lambert is too well established to permit any serious challenge to his superiority. Impartial observers agree that Lambert during his many years at Purdue has set up standards for emotional outbursts which may never be equaled.

Recycling Plant to Be Built at Alice

ALICE, Tex.—Building of another recycling plant here was forecast when H. H. Howell and associates completed drilling their Howell No. 1 Cummings in 25-foot of rich distillate sand.

The well is located a mile northwest of the Ben Bolt field and a half mile south of the outcrop wells of the old Alice field on a 1,000-acre lease linking the two fields.

Operators said that if production from the well and others to be drilled in the area justify, a recycling plant in the vicinity will be constructed. Geologists indicated resources in the ground "virtually assure" need for the plant.

Convict Is 17 Years Under Death Verdict

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—For 17 years Guido Grassi, 61, has been an inmate of the Washington state penitentiary here under sentence to be hanged—when sane.

Grassi was booked in at the penitentiary in December of 1923 following conviction of shooting and killing John Ricci, Joe Werich and G. Talomic.

Grassi is called a "good prisoner" and works about the lawns and flowers inside the prison walls.

Prison doctors examine Grassi regularly to determine if he is yet "sane," but say that they doubt if he will ever be judged mentally balanced.

Cameras Are Used To Catch Rustlers

OLYMPIA, Wash.—Cameras helped the state send 18 "gasoline cowboys"—cattle rustlers using trucks to haul away their booty—to the penitentiary so far this year, Agriculture Director Walter J. Robinson reports.

The state's seven livestock inspectors all were equipped with small cameras to carry with them on their inspection trips. They use them to photograph truck license numbers, suspected stolen cattle, brands and other evidence to use in convicting the cattle thieves.

January Clearance and this time it's real estate . . .

You have heard of Clearance Sales before. Merchants get too many goods on shelf, and sellers of automobiles have more cars on hand than they need, so they put on an old-fashioned Clearance Sale. There is nothing wrong with a good Clearance Sale. Both the seller and buyer usually profit as both are benefitted in the sale or transaction.

But did you ever hear of a Real Estate Clearance? There is one going on now at our office. We didn't exactly put it on, but prospective home buyers did for us. In that respect it is different from other Clearance Sales you have read about. The figures show that we have sold more Eastland properties in the past week than we have sold in any one year before. One out-of-town buyer purchased five of our best properties this week. And Eastland people are buying, too. The big sale is now on! It's a real January Clearance Sale!

Building bring sales volume to every line of business . . .

Did you think that the only ones who profit financially from building a new home were the builders? They do profit considerably, but so do the workmen, and the lumber supply companies and their employees—in fact, everyone, who has any direct contact with the building, profits. They all have money to spend for their needs.

Of course, the home furnishers and landscape gardeners and decorators make direct sales to the family who owns the new home. But the businesses that profit the most are those who sell merchandise services to the workmen, the architect, the furniture store delivery man, and all the others who take part in helping to build and furnish a new home. In turn the butcher, the baker, the grocer, and the laundryman are able to buy new clothes from the man who lives in the new home.

That is business.
