Senator Declares Capitol Building Is a Fire Trap

By Gordon K. Shearer AUSTIN, Texas.—Terrifying descriptions of the condition of the state's big red granite capitol, once seventh largest building in the world...

The building can not be made fireproof, Sen. Joe Hill of Henderson told the senate. He urged on a committee that made investigations of the condition of the building several years ago...

The huge glass ceiling over the senate chamber is another danger, Hill said. Sen. Kyle Vick of Waco looked up apprehensively as Hill described how a portion of the glass once fell on the desk...

Hill predicted that the great granite walls of the capitol would crumble in a fire of any great size. The granite, he said, has veins of carbon running through it.

Mrs. Annie Edwards Buried In Ranger Mrs. Annie Edwards, formerly of Ranger, Texas, and mother of Tom Edwards, died in Odessa, Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Brilie.

Funeral services were held at the First Christian Church in Ranger by Rev. H. B. Johnson at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Edwards was born in Indiana in 1865 and came to Texas in the early eighties and settled near Mineral Wells. She came to Ranger in 1920.

She is survived by wife children, two boys and three girls: Tom Edwards of Ranger; Dewey Edwards of Odessa; Mrs. Myrtle Brilie of Odessa; Mrs. Lula Swafford of Odessa, and Mrs. Lydia Martin of Amarillo; 21 grandchildren, five great grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn her death.

Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

Last Rites For Ranger Girl To Be Held On Wednesday

Kenneth Jean Kirk, six and a half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Kirk of Ranger, died in Ranger Monday.

Funeral services are to be conducted Wednesday afternoon, March 5, at 2 o'clock at the First Baptist church of Ranger, with Rev. David M. Phillips, pastor of the church, in charge. Burial will be in the Colony Cemetery, with Killingsworth in charge of arrangements.

The child was born in Ranger, August 22, 1934 and had lived in Ranger all her life.

Survivors, in addition to her parents, are two brothers, Lusby and Charles Kirk and two sisters, Lillian Jo and Hattie Lou Kirk, all of Ranger, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Kirk of Ranger.

Dictatorship and the Childhood Urge

Psychologists hedge their ideas in a thicket of big words. They invent and use words of their own; words which have a different meaning to them than to you and me.

Sometimes it is hard to discover what they are driving at. Nevertheless, some of their ideas are quite simple, and equally sensible, when you break through the verbal bushes.

Psychologists have an explanation of the appeal of dictatorship in these days, and it was well stated by Dr. Margaret E. Fries the American Orthopsychiatric Association. Don't let the association's name scare you; follow the argument:

Deep down in every person, no matter how old or how experienced he becomes, there lies buried a memory of childhood. Even if we don't realize it, some part of our consciousness remembers the time when we were warm, protected, dependent. We didn't have to think much then; our thinking was done for us. We weren't held very strictly responsible for our little misdeeds. We didn't have to worry—things were done for us.

Men and women grow up. They have to struggle for a living. They have to think, always a painful and resented process. They have to bear responsibility for their acts. Nobody sees to it that they are warm, and protected, and safe.

Down deep underneath the welter of mental struggles over personal responsibilities and public cares, lies still that hidden, perhaps forgotten, impress of a time when all was safe, secure, unthinking, warm.

And so, when someone comes along and offers conditions to the adult which are a little like that, the hidden childhood impress comes to the surface and responds. The grown man or woman welcomes a situation in which he is told what to do, told what to think, relieved of responsibilities and of guilt for cruel desires or acts.

Thus there is a certain amount of appeal in dictatorship for all of us. But it does not dominate. Most Americans are grown up. They are men and women. They welcome the chance to stand on their own legs, think their own thoughts, bear responsibility.

Freedom is a condition which only mature, strong, independent men and women can maintain. To relapse, by turning over affairs to a dictator, into a condition of adult childhood, is a horror to most Americans. The child has no doubts. Even the mental doubts and turmoil we are going through are a mark of maturity.

Every lover of freedom today should set as his slogan the iron words Paul wrote to the Corinthians:

Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.

MORE LIVESTOCK MAY BE EXHIBITED MAR. 6 AT RANGER STOCK SHOW

Dr. Ross Hodges, general chairman of the Ranger Livestock Show, which will be held Thursday, March 6, expects more livestock entries this year than ever before, although the total number of entries may be slightly smaller than last year. This is because last year prizes were offered for chickens, ducks, geese, rabbits and other farm animals and fowls. This year no prizes are being offered for poultry, though the total number of cash and ribbon prizes has been increased in anticipation of larger livestock entries.

Judges of the show will be G. G. Gibson, assistant extension dairyman of Texas A. & M. College; Guy Powell, county agent of Coryell County; T. G. Caudle, Cisco; W. R. Lacey, county agent, Stephens County, and Mose Miller.

The 58 classes in which prizes are offered, and the first, second and third prizes in each are as follows:

SERIAL STORY

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

BY RUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Ann decides on a... wedding to be held within... week, the day following... appearance in court. Dad... to defend April, believes Win... is paying off an old grudge... Kent insists upon testifying... April on an important errand.

KENT SPRINGS A SURPRISE

CHAPTER XXI
April Burnett had it... straight and clear in her mind... now. If she could see Kent alone... she would persuade him not to... testify in court tomorrow. This... would spare Ann; this would pre... vent a fresh flood of gossip in the... town.

April drew a deep breath as she... reached the top of the hill where... the Carter mansion stood, big... gloomier than ever in the first fall... of dusk. And then she stopped... quickly. The roadster, hers and... Ann's, was parked outside the... Carter gate.

Scarcely aware of what she did... April pushed through the gate and... came to a standstill almost directly... in front of the parlor windows. In... the semi-light, she could see Ann... sitting there, Ann and Kent and... Great Aunt Elizabeth Carter.

Quickly, she walked back, grateful... for the shadows which concealed... her.

She had reached the Carter... home too late. Her chance to see... Kent alone before the trial, was... gone. Worse, perhaps she'd lost... her last chance to spare Ann. Auntie Carter, imperious, Spartan... person that she was, might at this... very minute be telling Ann of... April's visit there in the hall-storm.

Nothing to do now except wait—... wait until court opened tomorrow... morning at 9 o'clock.

AFTERWARDS, whenever she... thought of that Friday in... court, April would remember one... strange part of it. That morning... she wore a plain black dress and... a tri-cornered hat. Dad, eying her... critically, remarked, "Why, you... look almost judicial, Daffy."

She came into the crowded... high-ceilinged courtroom, not seeing... anyone. But somehow, she and... Kent stood up together to be... sworn as witnesses.

Yes, on Friday, she and Kent... promised to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the... truth.

On Saturday, Kent and Ann... would stand together, hands... linked, to make a vow even more... solemn.

Winkle Appleman took the... stand first, hobbling as he went. He... told a story that grew more... damaging to April with every... word.

His eyes watered, his back... hunched. "Yes, I was coming out... of the Pattonville railroad station... that night, where I spend con... siderable time not having much... of a place I can call a home," he... said.

"No cross-examination," Mr. Burnett snapped when Winkle had... finished.

Then April was called. She... walked to the stand erect, chin... high. Yes, she admitted that in... the flying snow she hadn't seen... the complainant, Winkle Appleman. She... admitted he had stumbled... to his feet and accused her of... knocking him down. Her testi... mony was brief under her father's... questioning.

And then it was Kent's turn on... the stand. So far, even when they... had taken the witness' oath, he... had not looked at her. He didn't... look at her now. Instead, he made... a few preliminary answers on the... time and place of the accident.

Then he turned directly to the... judge. "Your honor," he said, "I... was in the roadster with Miss... April Burnett that night in the... storm. Something did strike... against her car. At that time, I... was temporarily blinded from an... accident at camp and couldn't see... what had happened. But I can tell... you one thing—"

The judge nodded for him to go... on. "Winkle Appleman was... drunk!"

The state's lawyer was on his... feet. "I object!"

The objection was overruled. Kent... continued in the same forthright way. "Yes, your honor... the complainant was very intoxica... ted. He reeled with liquor.

Even blind, I knew he was reel... ing. There's another witness here... one who had his eyes and saw it... all. I think he can confirm what... I say."

Then for the first time, April... saw the big-headed, freckle-faced... rookie whose life Kent had saved... at near cost of his own.

Private Estes told bluntly how... he had been at the station waiting... for Capt. Kent Carter and had... seen Winkle staggering from the... platform and falling in the snow... heap before April's car.

"She'd stopped her car even... before he fell," Private Estes testi... fied with magnificent contempt.

"Case dismissed," his honor... ruled.

Winkle began to blubber. "It's... a put-up job," he said. "I've got... lots more I ain't told yet. This... April Burnett—I got witnesses—"

An officer had him by the arm... silencing him.

April stood up, realizing now... her knees were quivering, her hands... shaking with a veritable palsy of... shakes.

"Thank you, Dad," she whis... pered to her father.

He was wiping his horn-rimmed... glasses, the ones that made him... look so ferocious. His smile was... as beaming as if he'd just won an... appeal to the Supreme Court.

"That's all right, Daffy," he said. "You... run home now and help get... ready for the big doings tomor... row at our house."

AFTER that, she pushed her way... through the crowd, not looking... at anyone—not even at Hal who... had been watching intently from... a seat in the rear. Outside the... courthouse, safe and alone at last... she pulled off the perky tri-cor... nered hat, held a handkerchief... pressed close against her mouth. In... a minute, she would call Mother... and Ann at home to tell them... the case was over. In a... minute, but not yet.

"April!"

She turned slowly, unwilling. It... was Kent Carter.

"Thank you, thank you for... helping me," she managed to say... and held out her hand.

He took it, kept it imprisoned in... his. "You've been trying to run... away from me a long time," he... said.

"Oh, no, Kent. It's just that I've... been busy, on the sick list, too... with a game ankle."

"That night at the station, one... of my bags fell on you. Young... Estes told me later. You were... very plucky about it, April. And... I won't be put off any longer. You've... got to talk to me now."

C. G. Fairchild Speaks To The Junior C. of C.

C. G. Fairchild of Fort Worth, supervisor of vocational rehabilitation for the State Department of Education at Austin, spoke to the Eastland Junior Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Monday night, giving a very interesting and instructive talk on the aims and methods of that department in its work along these lines. The speaker went especially into the methods used and results obtained in helping cripples confined to their homes. This was because the Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a campaign in Eastland County by which wheel-chair women are assisted in becoming more or less self-supporting. The Eastland County project is known as the Handicap - Hanky organization, originated by Mrs. Marene Johnson.

W.P.A. Recreation Project Program At Legion Hall

Tonight will mark the thirty-sixth night recreation program sponsored by the Eastland W.P.A. Recreation Project at City Park. These programs are not only a means of entertainment for the older persons in Eastland, but they also offer recreation for the younger set. On tonight's program there will be a string band. Also, the star guest of the evening's entertainment program will be Master Charles Lucas, with his unusually well-trained voice. Everyone is most cordially invited.

Healthy Family Is One Benefit of Cooking School

It takes a hard driving pace to keep up with this swiftly moving world. And this fast tempo of our American life makes the importance of keeping the family healthy a very vital factor. For this reason we are bringing the noted food expert, Mrs. Cora Wilson, to the families of our area, so that we may learn first hand the important new discoveries on the subject of keeping the family healthy. Mrs. Wilson will stress the health giving properties of various foods during the course of the lectures and actual cooking demonstrations of the Happy Kitchen Cooking School to be held March 13, 14 and 15. In addition to this feature, there will be presented for the first time, new and varied recipes to tempt the appetites of the family. There will be new wrinkles in the preparation of dishes, new ideas on marketing and budgeting, and many other helpful suggestions to make the Happy Kitchen Cooking School an event you will long remember and profit by. According to Mrs. Wilson, "Little as one may think, the health of a family or a nation begins in the kitchen of the home. For that reason I will present in my lectures certain factors that will aid the women of this territory in

Deathless Days On Texas Highways Are 12 Out of 366

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas enjoyed 12 "deathless days" during all of 1940, the Texas Safety Association revealed today, after a day-by-day review of traffic fatalities was compiled.

February 29 and March 1 were listed as the only two consecutive "deathless days" during the entire year.

The "blackest day" in the year was on March 14 when 31 persons died from traffic accidents. This was the date of the traffic train-truck crash at Alamo, Texas, when 26 persons were killed in a single accident. Two other fatal accidents on the same day killed five more persons.

The "peak" in accidents came during 7 days at the Christmas holiday season when 92 persons were killed from December 26 and including December 26.

IS HONOR ROLL STUDENT

Miss Louise Flack of Eastland, senior in Texas Christian University, is included in the list of "Honor Roll" students for the fall semester, as announced by Registrar S. W. Hutton, Fort Worth.

To be included on the Honor Roll, the student must make at least a "B" average for the semester.

keeping themselves and their family physically fit." The lectures and demonstrations are free to all housewives of this area, so avail yourselves of this splendid opportunity to attend a real homemakers' event. The dates are March 13, 14 and 15.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT

The Eastland colored girls basketball team, champions for West Texas, will play the Eastland colored boys starter team at the High School Gym tonight at 8:00 o'clock. A small admission is charged. Proceeds from the sale of tickets go to charitable causes.

CALL FOR RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP

During the Annual Roll Call last November more people in Eastland were not called on to join the Red Cross than were solicited. Since membership in this organization is voluntary, and one overlooked can still join by seeing E. E. Frey, chief at his office on North Side of the square or H. J. Tanner at the Chamber of Commerce.

Building

bring sales volume to every line of business . . .

Did you think that the only ones who profit financially from building a new home were the builders? They do profit considerably, but so do the workmen, and the lumber supply companies and their employees—in fact, everyone, who has any direct contact with the building, profits. They all have more money to spend for their needs.

Of course, the home furnishers and landscape gardeners and decorators make direct sales to the family who owns the new home. But the businesses that profit the most are those who sell merchandise or services to the workmen, the architect, the furniture store delivery man, and all the others who take part in helping to build and furnish a new home. In turn the butcher, the baker, the grocer, and the laundryman are able to buy new clothes from the man who lives in the new home.

That is business.

You can prepare to get your fair share of all this business by planning an intelligent and thorough advertising campaign. Advertise in the Eastland Telegram.
