Whose Advantage?

Every business man worth his salt knows that only a deal in which both buyer and seller are satisfied, by which both profit, is worth making. The deal in which one party gains an advantage at the expense of the other is no good in the long run. No permanent business, no permanent system of trade can be built on that basis.

That goes for trade between nations as well as for trade between people. We have found out that no country can continue indefinitely to buy more than it sells, to be placed at a permanent disadvantage. International trade never comes out exactly even. There are always some odd balances to be settled. But as a permanent matter, exchange between countries must come sooner or later into something like a balance.

That general principle throws light on Herr Hitler's recent speech in which he outlined his principles of international trade. He was not going to be restricted by money considerations, he said; he was going to buy for the German people, not money, but goods. So far, so good.

"We are going to do business," he added, "solely on the basis of German advantage. If it's good for Germany, we

The Colombians found out about German advantage. They "sold" huge quantities of coffee to Germany for blocked marks, "money" which was good only in Germany -in short, for a credit against German goods, when, as, and if German goods they wanted should be available. The Germans then took the coffee, and, instead of drinking it themselves, sold it around Europe to Colombia's regular customers at trick prices. Colombia lost the coffee, lost its regular markets, and got nothing but credits in den by Mrs. Cora Wilson, was Germany. Because that credit was good nowhere else, they had to take what Germany offered at Germany's prices. They didn't like the deal much, though it was certainly "on the basis of German advantage."

Mark the difference between this and sheer barter. There is nothing wrong with a straight barter deal. Had Colombia swapped so much coffee for an equal value in roadscrapers, no one would have been the worse off.

But it wasn't like that Colombia was forced, in effect, to mortgage a large chunk of her future purchasing power to Germany, which is something else again.

Had she received money instead, she could have gone anywhere in the world and bought what she needed. That's the advantage of money. It's not that barter, in an were given by Mrs. Tucker's individual or an niterantional deal, is wrong. It is simply that it is a makeshift, limited system which restricts rather than facilitates trade.

Hitler now wants Italy and Greece to bury the hatchet. We're pulling for Greece to swing first.

New Prison Board Member a Student Of Social Reform

By United Press AUSTIN, Tex .- Velster M. Haile of Hereford, Texas, new member of the Texas Pardon Board, is mildly amazed that there was opposition to him holding Texas office on the ground that he was a "Kansan."

When Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel named Haile for state tax commissioner in 1939, Haile was pictured as a "carpet-bagger." iegislature abolished the job to which he had been appointed.

This year, he was nominated for the pardon board and his appointment was confirmed with ne apparent opposition.

Haile, who lived in Kansas for a time, says that he was a Texan for so long before he went to Kansas that he never could understand why his northern residence was given as a reason why he should not hold Texas office. Long a resident of Collin County, his wife is a niece of Former Governor Throckmorton.

The new Pardon Board member does not step into a task that is w to him altogether, in theory at least. He was a student of sociology in Chicago University and has always been interested in such problems.

No member of the senate asked his views on capital punishment while his confirmation was under consideration. Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, who appointed Haile, is an outspoken opponent of the death penalty and exerts his maximum clemency power to delay executions.

The governor can grant but 30 days stay without Pardon Board approval. Without going into his personal views on capital punishment, Haile says that its use is a matter for the courts and juries under Texas law.

State Fair Film Is Now Being Shown

DALLAS, Tex.— Two short films of the 1940 State Fair of Texas are now being shown in schools, at meetings, and in Texas theatres, it has been announced here by Harry L. Seay, president of the State Fair, and bookings to date, are far in advance of the picture shown last year.

The two films are in sound and color. One of the films is a ten minute reel and the other is a twenty minute reel; both cover the high spots of the 1940 State Fair, and both feature the Livestock, 4-H Club and Future Farmer activities, the Agriculture Show, and many of the hundreds of exhibits which were shown in

It has been estimated that more than 3,000,000 people saw the State Fair film in 1940, and predictions are that more than twice this number will see the two films in 1941. In addition to showing the new films, many requests are being received for the old film.

Restaurant Men To Meet On Mar. 26th

By United Pres

DALLAS, Tex.—More than 4,-500 restaurant operators are expected here March 26 for the fourth annual convention of the State Restaurant Association of Texas.

How to stay in business despite the instability of food and commodity prices will be the principal discussion topic, according to W. E. Gibson of Houston, association president.

Gibson said the European war has made it difficult to predict the course of the commodity market.

First night interest will center on the selection of "Miss Texas Waitress" during a "uniform and personality" contest. Gibson said each restaurant operator is allowed to enter one employe.

Convention guests will include Miss Grace E. Smith of Toledo, Ohio, president of the National Restaurant Association, and A. A. McVittie of Denver, immediate past president of the association.

Scheduled to speak are Capt. Everett G. Smith, professor of marketing at the University of Texas at Austin, and Al B. Carder of Chicago, author of "The Third Commodity," so-called Bible of the restaudant industry.
