

YOUTH IS HELD AS LEVELLAND LOOT IS FOUND

LEVELLAND, May 23.—Sheriff Ed Hofacker today announced recovery of "more than $20,000" loot, taken from the First National Bank of Levelland in a daring daylight robbery which occurred yesterday and the arrest of a 20-year-old suspect, son of a prominent farm family.

The youth was apprehended at his home early today on a tip by another youth who subsequently fled from Levelland, the Sheriff said, "for fear of the consequences."

The mother of the suspected youth, the sheriff revealed, found the currency taken from the bank yesterday, buried on their farm. The sheriff said that charges of robbery would be filed soon.

A second youth is the object of an intensive search in Texas and New Mexico. Authorities want to apprehend him to obtain his story.

The bank was robbed yesterday morning by a gunman who had gained entrance to the bank during the night, and then met the employees of the bank at the door as they reported for work. He locked them in the bank vault after the teller had opened it, and the youth then fled, after locking all employees inside the vault.

The nine were rescued, after telephoning the sheriff from within the vault, where a telephone had been installed, and a search for the bandit was started.

that reminds me...

Everything worthwhile for the benefit of humanity as well as destruction was termed a contraption at the beginning by the skeptics. So, for the sake of language which we all understand, let's call the thing that the King Ball Motors has just received for the benefit of motorists, a contraption.

Well here it is... just a couple of nights ago we had the agony of having a battery go stiff stark dead... due of course to negligence because it showed signs of weakness on a few other occasions... it snapped out of it... But this time it didn't... and it happened one night... not too late however... but too late when only one attendant is on the job at certain battery service stations.

We can't make a long story short because we went to several stations before we got to the King Ball Motors and it just happened that there was more than one attendant... in fact the boss was on the job. Mr. Ball said "where is your car"... we said "down the road a piece"... He said "that's easy, I can charge it in thirty minutes and not even take the battery out of your car"... We just thought he was crazy, but anyhow we let him get to the car, give us a shove and get to the King Ball station.

Well sir... here comes a fellow in a nice clean white suit dragging out a machine... all white and a lot of gadgets in it... and it had a long plug in line... he plugged it in a socket... fiddled around a little with dials like on a radio... slapped some clamps on our battery... turned her on... and lo and behold in just exactly twenty-eight minutes our battery was up... hotter'n a firecracker... that's all there is to it... it's the truth so help us hanna... We don't know what the name of the thing it... didn't take time to find out... but what's the difference... it does the job... and King-Ball Motors has it... why folks... heretofore... we have had to have someone take our battery out... put a rent one in the car... wait from twelve to twenty-four hours to have the dead one charged... Just goes to show how the King-Ball outfit are doing things to keep ahead of the times... so don't worry about delays hereafter... this machine does the job in a jiffy... go down and get a look at it... and they may even maybe explain it to you... and if your battery goes dead within earshot of an electric plug... there you are... off with a flash.

Speaking of Morals... Morale or whatnots... how can a soldier who is being trained to kill keep those things... everything points to the serious business of sacrifices from the folks at home from child to old age... including all of the feminine sex... Men or women who are brought to the peak of so called superhuman endurance are not in position to swing into the atmosphere of nonchalance... yet at the same time the time of relaxation certainly must be of an exciting nature to keep...

Business Fared Rather Well In the 47th Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas.—Business fared rather well at the hands of the 47th Texas Legislature. The new tax bill estimated to levy from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 additional payments is offset in part by the bill passed at the opening of the session to reduce the payments required under the state employment compensation act.

The saving to employers under the act is estimated at around $10,000,000. It was effected by amendment to the old law that permitted application of credits for god records of continuing employment over a three-year period.

Chief complaint being heard is out the new franchise tax rates. The law levies $1 per $1,000 of capital investment and does away with former brackets by which investments of more than $1,000,000 took a lesser rate. It was reported that some corporations are being dissolved to avoid the increased franchise tax and will operate as private enterprises.

Oil operators were generally pretty well satisfied to have gotten off with less than a five-cent barrel oil tax—advocated a "nickel for grandma." Effect of the increased natural gas rates still is subject of disagreement. Sulphur took its usual increase.

The trucking industry got increased load allowances in exchange for the added registration tax put on trucks, and the big companies won an exemption from their filling stations from the store tax.

The automobile industry was right with a one per cent sales tax but to offset that the session passed a more rigid drivers' license law which has the backing of motor manufacturers, and ended the certificate of ownership act which is a protection against sale of stolen cars and shipment.

Shoeless Soldier Not Seen After Army Shoe Found

BILENE, Tex.—Abilene police seek a shoeless 8-1-2 foot and 60 officers strongly suspect foot belongs to Uncle Sam. At 8, the shoe left by the owner the foot was a government issue.

Recently an intruder entered Abilene home and crept about; in hand. A girl in the house awakened and she screamed, "prowlie dropped a shoe and a soldier at nearby Camp Seely have been discovered in one shoe."

THIS MIGHT BE YOU GOING TO WORK NEXT MORNING IN LONDON

This picture of bomb destruction in London isn't as spectacular as some, yet it will come straight home to every man and woman who hears an alarm clock in the morning, gets up and goes to work. It shows working people of London—ranging from stenographers and day laborers to highly-paid executives—making their way along a down town street after one of the great city's heaviest raids. Terror of bombings and weariness of sleepless nights shows plainly on the faces of these people. But, war or no war, they must get up in the morning and go to work. Just like you and I.

BRITISH HAVE CONTROL OF CRETE AGAIN LATE COMMUNIQUE DECLARES

Good Neighbor Policy Is Urged In Legislature

AUSTIN—Texans who are familiar with Latin-American affairs have remarked upon the evident sincerity of the present campaign to improve relationships between Mexico and the United States.

Gen. Maximino Avila Camacho, brother of the Mexican President and a well-known public figure in his own right, pleaded before the Texas Legislature for a Pan-Americanism that extends further than mere diplomatic handshaking.

"Let us teach in our homes and our schools that we shall be good friends and good neighbors," said Gen. Camacho. "Mere conversations between public officials is not enough."

The general commended, and U. S. Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico agreed, that one principal test of our friendship with the Latin-American nations is the treatment accorded Latin-Americans who live in the United States.

Archbishop Robert Lucey of San Antonio, who spoke to the Legislature several weeks ago, noted the same problem. Persons who would sow mistrust and enmity of the United States in Latin-American nations will use as their propaganda reported ill-treatment of Latin-Americans inside the United States, the Archbishop said.

Senator Chavez said that Mexican-American relations might easily be improved by increased use of citizens from border states, such as Texas and New Mexico, in the diplomatic service.

In addition, it's quite a job to transform a field of grassburrs into a modern, first-class junior college. But, that also is what Dean Davis has done.

Born on a small Georgia farm, Dean Davis has risen to the top at one of Texas' largest junior colleges and recently was elevated from the office of vice-president to president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Besides, he is president of the American Association of Junior Colleges and president of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

After teaching at a number of secondary schools, the University of Texas, Texas A. & M. College, and the College of Industrial Arts, Dean Davis was slated to go to Tarleton as head of the school. He realized his academic degree was not sufficient for the head of an agricultural college, so he enrolled at A. & M. and lived in a dormitory as an ordinary student. When he received a degree in agriculture he moved to Stephenville and assumed his duties as dean.

Under Dean Davis' supervision, the growth of JTAC has been little less than phenomenal. In the 20-year span of his supervision, the field of grassburrs that once was Tarleton has been transformed into one of the prettiest campuses in the country. Instead of two or three dilapidated structures there are now 26 well-equipped buildings and where there were but a handful of faculty members there are now eighty.

Camp Bowie Boys Favor Johnson As Senate Candidate

AUSTIN, May — The boys in Camp Bowie, giving their years in training for defense of America Won't readily forget all those speeches in which Gov. O' Daniel called talk of war and preparedness "silly," a captain in the U. S. defense army wired Lyndon Johnson's senate campaign headquarters here today.

Edward A. Clark, captain in the National Guard and a former secretary of states, reminded that the governor had told the soldiers at Camp Bullis in 1938 that he didn't even know there was a Texas National guard until that year.

"Last night I sat in my tent here in Camp Bowie," Clark said, "and listened to Gov. O'Daniel. After hearing him I was happy still to be for Franklin D. and Lyndon B. I can not help but remember that I heard O' Daniel say in August, 1938, at Camp Bullis near San Antonio, that he did not know until that day Texas had a national guard."

"O' Daniel said to the Austin reserve officers on army day in April, 1939, that he did not believe in war, preparedness, or a standing army, that talk of war was silly and that spending money in arming this country was foolishness."

"Now he wants to go to Washington to save the world."

The captain declared "the 20,000 officers and enlisted men of this camp are for you (Johnson), because we know what you have done for national defense, and we also know that no one can stop Hitler with second grade poetry and fourth grade music."

Indian Speech Is Believed Trumped As An Army Code

TULSA, Okla. — Government agents in this Indian country aren't overly-optimistic that the Indian languages are going to be very helpful to the army signal corps in the transmission of secret messages.

The reason is that they don't believe the Indian languages and dialects would fool enemy agents any more.

Twelve Comanche Indians are being trained at Fort Benning, Ga., to work as relay men for the signal corps. The Indians are supposed to relay messages to each other on the telephone in their native tongue—a gasping, grunting language which relatively few persons outside the Comanche tribe are supposed to understand.

The trick worked in the latter months of the first World War. Wire tappers were amazed to hear on their telephones a kind of gibberish and like of which they had never encountered. Federal men aren't so sure it would work nowadays.

G-men here admitted that someone may have "pulled a fast one." Several months ago, a crew of "scientists" came to Oklahoma home of countless Indian languages and dialects, and worked for weeks, recording the various tongues with a portable transcription machine.

Since then, authenticity of the "scientists" and "students" who accompanied them has been questioned. Some sources believe the men may have been recording Indian languages to meet just such an eventually as planned by the signal corps.

From Cotton Patch To College Dean Is a Long Step

STEPHENVILLE, Tex.—It's a long way from a Georgia cotton patch to the presidency of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the office of dean of a Texas college. Yet, Dean J. Thomas Davis of John Tarleton Agricultural College, has made that journey.

In addition, it's quite a job to transform a field of grassburrs into a modern, first-class junior college. But, that also is what Dean Davis has done.

Born on a small Georgia farm, Dean Davis has risen to the top at one of Texas' largest junior colleges and recently was elevated from the office of vice-president to president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Texas Schools To Get Big Slice Of Federal Money

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas schools should receive $36,632,838 from a proposed $300,000,000 national appropriation for improved school conditions, the Texas Department of Education has notified the backers of the plan.

"Since Texas is curing for a large part, probably one-sixth, of the National Training program, it seemed only fair that we should ask for a large part of the proposed appropriation," a bulletin from the office of the State Department of Education said.

Needs set out in the compilation are: To eliminate inequalities, $12,838,956; salaries for Negro teachers, $2,000,999; teachers for children of migratory workers, $240,000; and educational facilities in defense areas and reservations, $21,549,883.

Equipment Built In Ranger For Army Is Delivered To Camp

Five army truckloads of equipment, built in the Ranger NYA wood shop for Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, has now been delivered to the camp, and other equipment is now in the process of manufacture.

The equipment sent to Camp Wolters this week included 60 rapid fire targets and 350 rifle rest boxes. Also completed, but not yet delivered, are 38 latrines.

The shop is now building 600 pistol rests, 1,000 sighting bars and 1,500 sight discs, all for Camp Wolters.

State Being Sued Because Her Health Has Been Injured

AUSTIN, Tex.—The function of the State Health Department is to improve health, but Mrs. Mary Lou Kirk says exactly the opposite was done and her health injured by the department. A resolution to permit her to sue the state for $15,000 damages has been passed in the Texas Senate.

The injury of which Mrs. Kirk complains was suffered in connection with the department-supervised construction of a sewage disposal system for the City of Temple. To reach the disposal plant a line was constructed across Mrs. Kirk's property. It was so constructed, she says, that there was leakage with vile obnoxious odors and seepage into the ground that intermingled with water streams injuring her health and that of members of the family.

Anti-mosquito campaigns are another part of the department's normal activities. The resolution authorizing Mrs. Kirk's suit complains that the construction of the line caused gnats, flies, mosquitoes and other germ-bearing insects to congregate and accumulate.

Camp Meeting Is Planned At Dublin

Rev. J. A. Lovell, formerly pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, Abilene, and the Calvary Baptist Church, Ranger, is to have an old-fashioned one-day camp meeting for the benefit of all his former radio listeners, church members and friends at Dublin, Sunday, June 1.

There will be dinner on the grounds, several outstanding quartets, trios and musicians from various parts of the country on the program throughout the day and night services to be held under the great out-of-doors open-air natural arbor.

Morton Valley H.D. Club Meets

The Morton Valley Home Demonstration Club met in the Methodist church in Eastland May 22 at 2 o'clock for the area meeting. During the meeting program Miss Ruth Ramey cannot meet with each club so she planned to meet with four at one time, once a month.

Miss Ramey gave a talk on the value of eggs in the diet. Also demonstrated several dishes with the use of eggs as the foundation.

One of the recipes she gave was deviled eggs, as follows:

- 12 eggs, 2 tablespoons cream or mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1-2 teaspoons mustard, 1-2 teaspoons Worcester sauce, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Cut hard-boiled eggs in half. Remove yolks and put through sieve. Add seasonings and whip or beat until very smooth and fluffy. Refill shells. Garnish top if desired with chopped chives or parsley, paprika, etc.

After everything was prepared it was served to the following: Mrs. Tom Utey, Opie Lowry, John White, Tom Lowry, T. L. Wheat, O. D. Dabbs, Clint Jones, R. W. Gordon, Jake Smith, Thad Henderson, W. A. McMahon and the hostess, Miss Ruth Ramey.

Traffic Deaths In State Increase In April Over Year Ago

AUSTIN, May — Overshadowing the 34 per cent reduction in the number of Texas traffic fatalities recorded in March of this year over March, 1940, the month of April this year showed a disheartening increase of 24 per cent over April, 1940. Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., State Police director pointed out today.

The number of deaths last month was 141, compared with 114 the same month last year, showing an increase of 27 deaths.

However, the number of traffic fatalities for the first four months of this year as compared to the same period last year, shows 573 persons were killed in 1941 and 563 in 1940, for only a 2 per cent increase. The total fatal accidents for the first four months of this year over last year increased 9 per cent, for a total of 42. The greatest number of these accidents showing increases occurred in towns with populations under 2,500, and on the open highways. Fatal accidents in towns with populations under 2,500 increased 79 per cent, while fatal accidents on the open highways increased 20 per cent. Larger cities decreased their fatal accidents 2 per cent, and county roads showed a 23 per cent decrease in accidents where fatalities occurred.

Colonel Garrison attributed a large portion of the increase of the increase in fatal accidents to the wet and muddy conditions of highways and streets prevailing in Texas during most of April.

Strong Outposts— And a Duty

In June of 1939, just before the second World War broke across the world, the whole United States army had only 187,886 men in active service. Today, more than 200,000 American soldiers are manning the outer ramparts of American defense in the outlying bases.

The United States has today, in other words, more soldiers manning the outlying bases, from Kodiak Island to Guam and from Greenland to Guiana, than the total force available for defense in 1939.

That, among other things, has been brought about by those who chose to plunge the world into war instead of seeking civilized ways to keep civilization afloat.

In Hawaii, the Philippines, Alaska and Newfoundland, in Panama, Greenland, Bermuda and Trinidad, thousands of American boys have taken their stand in places most of them had never heard of—for a single, simple reason: to protect the United States from any danger that may threaten, now or later.

They are gone from the camps they knew in the United States, but they must not be forgotten. Means must be devised for keeping these American soldiers in touch with the home country.

Such a dispersion of forces, with nearly a fourth of the available soldiers stationed outside the continental limits of the country, is something new, and therefore something we never have thought much about. Britain, with its far-spread empire, was accustomed for decades to having its sons scattered from Burma to the Falkland Islands. But it is new to Americans, both to those who go and to those who stay.

With such large detachments of American soldiers serving in faraway posts, every effort must be made to see to it that they are not forgotten, and, more important that they do not feel forgotten.

Will American newspapers go to them regularly and by the fastest practicable route? Will they have recreational facilities in posts which, interesting at first, may grow dull and boring after a short hitch? Short-wave broadcasting firms have already indicated that they are aware of the problem, and are attempting to adjust programs so that American boys in the outposts will be in regular touch with home via the ether waves.

Letters, athletic equipment, gifts appropriate to the seasons, vital little links with-home are going to be more and more important as the overseas garrisons grow in strength. They must not be forgotten.

A pleasant smile goes a long way, and the best part of it is, it almost always comes back.

The chronic kicker is usually the slowest to kick in.

Triplet Girls Are Emma, Ebba, Elma

YALE, Okla.—Triplet girls born here to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edge have been named Emma Bell, Ebba Nell and Elma Dell. The babies were born within an hour. They are in apparently good health. Mrs. Edge is 32, the mother of three other small children. Her husband is 35, a farmer. Kansas City man trucked 425 sacks of onions all the way to Chicago and they were stolen. It's a crying shame! A cynic is all right in his place—but he never goes there till he dies.

SERIAL STORY THREE TO MAKE READY

BY W. H. PEARLS

YESTERDAY: Tony advises Paula to keep close check on Chris, shows her a note threatening trouble unless his fraternity cancels its farewell. When Chris breaks their date, Paula goes to the party with Tony. A stench bomb is thrown into the house. Tony rushes out, down the steps. Men fall to the ground.

A KISS—A PROMISE CHAPTER IX

PAULA went to her knees at Tony's side, grinding the sea-green formal into the wet grass. She struggled until she rolled him over. His face was bloodless, quiet. "Tony! Tony!" Paula whispered, shaking him. "Say something, Tony! Are you hurt?" Then, realizing the absurdity of the question, she fought down her panic and called for help. But already the entire party was streaming into the wet, murky night to escape the fumes of the stench bomb. Hal Bascomb, president of the chapter, took charge. "Tony's hurt!" he shouted. "Come on, we'll move him to the porch." "No, don't touch him," Paula commanded, remembering that she had read never to move an injured person. "Call the hospital, get an ambulance." Gathered in a circle around her, the fraternity boys talked in low tones. Paula heard Hal say: "Fellows, we know who pulled this dirty stunt. I don't know how you feel about it, but I'm not leaving Cardman until I get a crack at that bunch!" "We're with you, Hal!" "All the way, kid!" "Wait till they hold a meeting!" In the distance Paula heard the wall of an ambulance siren, and a few moments later the big white car lurched to a stop in front of the house. Tony was lifted inside and Paula followed. Four or five boys clung to the side of the ambulance. AT the hospital they remained downstairs, but Paula waited outside the door while Tony was being examined. Presently a young interne came out and smiled at her. "Slight concussion," he said. "Nothing to worry about, but we'll want to keep him under observation a day or two." "M-may I see him?" "As soon as they get him settled in a room." The interne slipped his hand under her elbow. "Now suppose you relax before we have to put you to bed, too?" "I—I'm all right," Paula murmured, grateful for his support. He opened the door for her and withdrew. Paula was alone with Chris. He lay very still, his eyes closed. A large, purple bruise discolored his forehead. Paula seated herself on the edge of the bed, taking his hand. Tony shifted his head from side to side, mumbled. Paula bent close to catch his words. "Don't fret, Tony dear," she soothed, brushing his hair from his eyes. "Just try to rest." For the first time Tony seemed aware of her presence. His fingers curved around Paula's hand, clung. "Paulie... he said faintly. "Yes, Tony?" "Paulie, I—I love you so. I know how you feel about Chris, but... I've got to tell you. I've wanted to before... I—I didn't have the nerve." "Oh, Tony..." His name was almost a sob on her lips. Dr. Lud had warned her, of course, but still she was not prepared to hear the confession from Tony's own lips. Her pulses pounded insistently with the sure knowledge of his love. "Tony's hurt!" he shouted. "Come on, we'll move him to the porch." Paula bent, pressed her lips against Tony's. She told herself that it was only nerves that made the room whirl. She told herself that it was only to humor a sick man that she kissed him. But when the interne knocked and entered he saw a flushed and lovely Paula. "Young woman," he said, "we can't keep you here all night." Paula gave Tony's hand a final squeeze. "Good night, Tony," she said softly. "I'll see you in the morning."

SERIAL STORY THREE TO MAKE READY

BY W. H. PEARLS

YESTERDAY: Tony is rushed to the hospital. He has a slight concussion, will be all right in a few days. As Paula sits beside his bed, Tony tells her he loves her. Chris meets her at the hospital door, asks about Tony. Paula is surprised that she has found out about the incident but Chris refuses to explain. He begs Paula to help him and she promises.

FOUND—A BLUE SCARF CHAPTER X

IT was still drizzling next morning. Paula dressed hurriedly, trying to shut out the melancholy burble of the rain in the spouting. Several of the girls were having late breakfast and talking excitedly of the stench bombing. Eagerly they turned to Paula for information, but she refused to be helpful. "The less said about it the better," she murmured. Paula gulped her coffee and left. Protected by a transparent green rain cape, she walked to the hospital. Tony was sitting up in bed. Except for pain shadows under his eyes, he looked fit. He greeted Paula a bit shyly. "I was hoping you'd come, Paulie. I tried to talk them into letting me out today, but no go. I feel swell." "I'm glad you're okay, Tony," she smiled. "I—I guess I was a little out of my head last night. If I said anything I shouldn't..." "You needn't worry about that," Paula said, and changed the subject abruptly. "The weather's nasty." Tony said, "Chris was here early. He seemed to want to talk about last night, yet he acted as if he were afraid to. Do you think he might be protecting someone?" Paula started. "Who, Tony?" He shrugged. "The League crowd, maybe. Chris met some of the boys from the house in the hall. They almost got into a scrap. I tried to cool them down. If they go after the League now they'll play right into Big Barney's hands..." You know, Paulie, I've been lying here thinking and I've got Jenks doped out. Ever wonder why that shot of Kilo was light-struck? If Big Barney hasn't an interest in the scandal sheet Jenks works for, I'll eat it!

"You think Bill was sent here to make trouble?" "It's just another hunch. At any rate, we don't want him to get hold of this story." Tony, tossing restlessly as he spoke, had disarranged his pillows. Paula moved to plump them back into shape. Tony protested, but she rolled him over and lifted the pillows. Beneath them was something that made her gasp—a bright blue scarf. "I think you're wrong about the Doctor. But even if he doesn't do anything, Tony's friends will be sure to give Chris a beating or run him out of school." Kilo's face lost color. "You... only trying to frighten them wouldn't dare harm Chris. They wouldn't dare harm Chris, girl," Paula said quietly. "Tell the truth, Kilo." Kilo arose abruptly. "It was work," she said. "I just got frightened that easily. Come again when you can stay longer." BACK at the Gamma Tau house Paula found a letter from her father. He had been called to Orleans on important business and wouldn't be able to come to Cardman for Commencement, but enclosed a check to compensate for his absence. The following morning Paula went to the hospital. The captionist told her that Tony had been discharged. "He left just five minutes ago, Miss Jefferson. I think he has an appointment with Dean Larson." Paula flung herself out the door. Half way across the campus she found Tony. "I'm kind of wobbly yet," he grinned. "Why, where are you going? Her staid eyes saw the strip of blue silk that protruded from his pocket. "Why, to tell Dean Larson about the bombing. He sent word to hospital that he wanted to see me." "But the scarf, Tony?" Paula asked. "You're not going to show that to Dean Larson?" Tony said kindly. "Look, Paulie, I've talked everything over with Dr. Lud. Confidentially, of course. We figured it was best to let Larson see the facts." "And put all the blame on Chris?" Paula asked. "No, I wouldn't do that. I'd tell Dean Larson." Tony said gravely. "Larson and Van Horn are trying to get to the bottom of this trouble. We're it to them to give them all the information we've got." "And you call yourself Chris's friend?" A furious expression boiled within Paula. "Years of appointment burned her eyes. She had looked up to Tony, admired him, and now... " "Don't be sore," Tony begged. "I'm only doing what I think best. Chris is bitter over the suspicion that's fallen on him. We either got to clear him or... " "Oh!" Paula choked. "I calmed herself with a start. "Tony, you turn that scarf to Dean Larson, I'll never see you again." Tony said slowly. "I've got to it, Paulie."

ROCKFORD, Ill.—War in Europe threatens a shortage of walnut and mahogany furniture, according to Rockford furniture manufacturers.

An imminent dearth of mahogany in the United States, the furniture makers explain, is due to the lack of ships to transport the wood from South America to Africa, where it is produced.

The present supply of walnut has been seriously depleted by a large government order for use of the wood in the manufacture of gun stocks.

One manufacturer said that he had been lucky in receiving two shipments of mahogany recently, but expressed doubt that he could obtain additional carloads.

Eighty per cent of the higher grade furniture made in the nation's furniture centers has been of mahogany. Fortunately for the furniture men, oak, birch and maple are easily adaptable to the light-finished and modernistic

"Clinic" Urges A Foresight On Job

By United Press
JUNICY, Mass.—More than 100 job-seekers have been aided in finding their proper niche by a group of nine successful business men who formed a "job clinic" here a year ago.

It was the idea of a wealthy Quincy banker and philanthropist who invited a board consisting of a newspaper editor, a power company official, the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, the superintendent of schools, the city librarian, two business executives and two vocational directors, to undertake the project. This group meets once a week and interviews applicants for guidance.

They advise the job-seeker to know exactly what kind of a position he wants and if he wants to do that type work 10 years later. They suggest he arrange all his assets, line them up and prepare an intensive campaign to sell his services.

And finally they advise an application to "spread himself" through every available agency that might assist him in locating his proper place.

Their five principles of job-hunting follow:

- Don't look for a job — offer a service.
- Appeal to the self-interest of the prospect.
- Be specific.
- Be different.
- Be your own self — be sincere.

styles for which there is a decided trend.

A recent survey by one manufacturer revealed that one-third of the furniture makers were asking an increase of 2 to 5 per cent, one-third was asking increases of 5 to 7 per cent, and the other one-third had made no increase.

Young Stylists Work In Cotton

By United Press
RALEIGH, N. C.—Once each year male textile students at North Carolina State College and women students from colleges throughout the state put on a fashion show that brings out the SRO sign.

It is a home show. Every piece of cotton material adorning the 100 or more models is a product of the different schools—from raw cotton to finished frock.

Beach togs, pajamas, street dresses and evening gowns are designed by girl students from fabrics created by the textile students, and as each girl parades across the stage at least two boys in the audience are highly interested spectators.

The anxious eyes of the boys of Miss Shields' victory was doubt-

Fresh Produce Is Speeded By Trucks

CLEVELAND, O.—The shipment of fresh produce by refrigerator truck is a new high-speed industry growing in impetus here.

Motor express has been used to ship produce before in place of the common refrigerator freight cars, but the new fast delivery of fruits and vegetables in controlled temperature motor trucks is gaining in popularity with food brokers.

Are even more critical than the eyes of the judges, for the textile designers are seeing how their creations look in real life.

Preparations for the show begin months ahead of time. The young designers start planning the fabrics, selecting patterns and dyes, combing the yarn, making the threads, then setting up the modern looms and running off the fabric.

The finished product then is turned over to a college girl dressmaker and the boys turn out en masse for the fashion shows to see how well or how badly the amateur dressmakers have utilized their materials.

Honey Is Oldest Sweet; Popular For Every Meal

Delicious And Healthful It May Be Used The Clock Around

Honey is the oldest known sweet—and one of the most versatile. You can actually use it around the clock serving it a different way at every meal. It's healthful—delicious—and the ladies like the fact that it is not fattening as other sweeteners are. Men like it because it gives new flavor-taste to every day meals. Here are some suggestions for every meal of the day:

Breakfast
Burleson's Honey Waffles
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons tartrate or 2 teaspoons double acting baking powder baby has been named Barbara Ann.

Mrs. Leon Bourland and Mrs. Pearl Bourland left early this week for a vacation at Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Jess N. Taylor, Miss Lillian Caldwell, and Miss May Taylor left Thursday afternoon for a short stay at Kermit and El Paso.

1/2 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup melted fat
1-3 cups milk
1-4 cup Burleson's Honey
3 eggs

Add honey to beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add, alternately with milk to honey and egg mixture. Add melted fat last. Bake in hot waffle iron until brown. Yield 6 waffles. Burleson's gives the waffles added lightness, added moisture, added flavor.

Honey Orange Breakfast Muffins
1-2 cup sifted flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 cup whole wheat flour
1 egg well beaten
1-4 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1-2 cup Burleson's Honey
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift flour once, measure, add salt and baking powder, and sift again. Add whole wheat flour and mix thoroughly. Combine egg, orange juice and rind, honey, and shortening. Add all at once to flour, stirring only enough to dampen all flour.

up the spirit of the implication of the nature of the thing in hand. That simply means that legislation . . . regulation or anything else you may wish to call it, is of no avail if you want to get the job done according to the standards of man's possible annihilation.

When the order is given out to "do or die" . . . we wonder what passes in the minds of those whose duty it is from the standpoint of loyalty . . . to follow the order. Who could deny them any privilege if they survive. This is war folks . . . it calls for the fittest. In times of peace . . . that was the time to prepare our youth . . . and ourselves for that matter to meet any occasion . . . but when a person is hurt . . . and hurt deeply . . . whether physically or of the heart . . . nearly every time the first thing the doctor does is to give a shot of something to stimulate or give strength . . .

Clean healthy environments are necessary to curb the tension that our defense volunteers or draftees are going through . . . but to curb it suddenly is dangerous . . . there is a certain amount of excess energy that has to be exploded from the system of every human from infancy up . . . we have no answer . . . it's the job of the psychiatrists . . . and the government to see that a good supply of them are on hand where men are being trained . . . to kill . . . if necessary . . . In war . . . killing is legal . . . Maybe in that case we won't need any foolish laws . . . It is silly to think that men can be cured by law to fill the desires of a man or woman seeking relief from a high tension of activity which can only be cured by perfect relaxation in an environment that suits the need of the occasion.

We still have faith in humanity . . . and know that the great majority . . . are clean in mind and body . . . the million soldiers now in training are proof of that . . . those who need special attention . . . have a fault not of their making . . . they need special attention . . . not laws.

Nothing is pained more by extreme vanity than a big foot in a little shoe.

All Dogs Must Be Vaccinated; June 4th Deadline

City Manager M. H. Kelly advises that after June 1 any dog found inside the city limits that doesn't have a tag showing that it has been properly vaccinated for the prevention of rabies will be taken up and impounded.

Mr. Kelly states that it is necessary that the City authorities taken this action in order to protect people from a possible outbreak of the dreaded rabies. He stated also that he felt sure that all citizens of Eastland would co-operate wholeheartedly in this matter as they had done in the past.

Rudolf Hess found a new way to "take a walk"—by airplane. Efficiency consists of doing two things at once because you're too lazy to do one at a time. "Packers Unite" — headline. Sounds like a street car conductors' union.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 43 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

 WORTH, Mo.—James L. Sadler, believed to be the oldest man in the United States in service on a single newspaper, has started his 65th year as editor of the Ashland Bugle, which he bought in 1877. The paper is a hand-set publication, and Sadler is the entire office.

PLANS FOR BIG FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION NOW WELL UNDERWAY

Preliminary plans got under way in an enthusiastic manner for the Fourth Annual July Fourth celebration to be held in Eastland at the City Park at a meeting of the Senior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon. Full details have not been completely worked out but tentative plans are to open the celebration Thursday night July 3rd, with a street dance. Friday morning the city lake will be the scene of fast boat races and at 4 p. m. Friday afternoon the program will be switched to the City Park where swimming, greased pig, horned frog races and other contests to be announced later will be held. At 8 p. m. the bathing review will hold the attention of those present in which three classes will be featured as usual. $150 in prizes will be given at the bathing review. Total prizes will be around $500.

The final windup will be on Saturday with plans for a parade Saturday morning and the trades gift event Saturday afternoon.

All stores are expected to be closed on Friday, July 4th. H. J. Tanner stated Wednesday morning that the committees for raising the finances for the occasion have been appointed and will solicit funds this and next week.

Summer Term At Eastland Schools Open May 28

W. G. Womack, superintendent of schools at Eastland, announced today that summer school will be held at High School, Junior High School, and South Ward.

A meeting will be held Monday at 9 a. m., to determine the subjects to be taught, and all who wish to enroll in either of these schools to be present for this meeting.

Germany passed up its customary May Day celebration this year. Not a bad idea to wait until they're positive they have something to celebrate.

4-H Club Dairy Cattle Contest Saturday, May 24

On Saturday, May 24th, there will be a Dairy Cattle Judging Contest for Eastland County 4-H Club boys who have dairy cattle as their demonstration, to see what boys will represent Eastland County in the Dairy Cattle Judging Contest to be held at A. & M. College during the Short Course.

All boys having dairy cattle as their demonstration are eligible to compete, but the team will have to be picked from boys who are 15 years old or older, as this is a requirement of the contest.

All contestants will meet at the county agent's office at 9:30 a. m. and leave from there to judge three classes of dairy cows. Each contestant will have to give two sets of reasons on the classes designated, and it will be necessary that he have a pencil and paper to take notes.

It will probably be two o'clock before the contest is over so all boys must make arrangements to bring their lunch unless they intend to eat in town.

According to John A. Wright, Mr. Charles Bell, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Ranger, will be the official judge.

Summer School Begins Monday At South Ward

Summer school will begin Monday, May 26, at South Ward, it is announced. All elementary studies will be taught with the course lasting nine weeks.

Classes begin at 8 o'clock and will let out at noon and will be taught by Mrs. H. H. Durham and Mrs. C. E. Moore.
