FOOTE FLYING SERVICE TO START TRAINING BOYS IN RANGER THIS SATURDAY

Flight instruction at the Foote Flying Service, successor to the Ranger Flying Service, is under way Saturday with youths from Eastland, Gorman and Comanchero to take the flight and ground work necessary to complete their flying this summer.

Foote, well known flight instructor, who also is a United States Army school at Stamford, and schools at Dallas and Grand Prairie will be the contractor who will be in charge of the flying.

Johnson will be chief pilot of the Lou Foote Flying Service. Sam Barnett as associate. They will instruct the boys registered, giving them flight instruction. Ground school subjects will be held at the Ranger High School.

Lanier, auditor for the service, stated today that the increased enrollment in the Junior College and the being shown in the summer courses, it was possible that 20 students, and there is a possibility of securing advanced training class.

Two alternates, who have been named to replace any failures of the course, are Donald Ham, Eastland, and Frank P. Breckenridge.

Locations In Eastland County

New wildcat and an outcrop of the Carbon pool, both in Eastland county, were located Thursday with filings at the railroad company office in Abilene.

John Thomason of Denver, Ariz., staked No. 1 J. B. Busbee as a 3,000-foot cable tool well four miles east of Rising Star the center of the east section 7-2ETRR survey.

Ariz. staked No. 1 Mrs. White, a cable tool project 700 feet on the northwest side of the Carbon pool. It is 330 feet on the northwest side of the Carbon pool. It is 330 feet on the southeast corner of a 20-acre tract in A. J. Grigsby survey a west offset to C. L. M. of Dallas No. 1 White.

THE WEATHER

TEXAS — Considerable rain tonight and Saturday with scattered thundershowers over lower coast tonight.

Defense Quiz

What is the reason for buying a Defense Bond? To keep America free. To our faith and pride in your country. To warn foreign dictators that the United States is the greatest country in the world. If I have not enough to buy a Defense Bond, how do I do it? Buy Defense Postal Stamps, wherever they are sold. Your office, bank, department store, drugstore has them, or can order them for you, at 10 cents up to $100. Buy enough stamps to equal a Defense Bond. To purchase Defense Stamps, go to the nearest office or bank, or write to the Treasurer, United States, Washington.

ARMY TO SCAN ELMIRA GLIDER TESTS JUNE 25

By HERBERT K. LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
ELMIRA, N. Y.—The 12th annual gliding and soaring contests will begin on Harris Hill near here June 28 with representatives of Germany—whose motorless aviation experts were principally responsible for establishing this center of the sport—virtually barred from participating.

The Chemung County Board of Supervisors, which has jurisdiction over the Harris Hill area, recently banned use of any of the soaring facilities to aliens "of Axis inclinations" unless they have written approval of the War Department or Federal Bureau of Investigation. The ban was enacted to safeguard secrecy of any developments in soaring science which may be demonstrated before government officials here.

It was an expert from Germany, Dr. Wolfgang Klemperer, whose investigations brought attention to Harris Hill as a "perfect" starting point for motorless flights. During the first soaring meets here, Germans and German-trained pilots predominated entry lists.

One of the most outstanding contestants in recent years has been Peter Riedel, attached to the German Embassy at Washington. Riedel, however, has announced that he will not seek permission to compete this year because, he says, "it's a national meet, not international."

The new military importance of the soaring art, as perfected by Germany and recently demonstrated by the Nazis in the Crete conquest, has quickened military interest in what once was regarded as merely sport. The War Department has assigned six officers to observe the forthcoming contests to determine the value of soaring planes in training power-plant pilots as well as an arm of defense.

Major awards awaiting winning pilots this year will be the $1,500 Edward S. Evans silver trophy carrying with it the title of "national soaring champion," and the Warren E. Eaton Memorial trophy, of equal value, to be awarded for the most outstanding contribution to the art, sport or science of motorless flight. The Evans trophy is the gift of Edward S. Evans of Detroit, who was instrumental in introducing soaring in the United States after the World War.

Events in which points will be awarded to determine championships and awards at the conclusion of the two weeks of competition include altitude, distance and duration flights, and flights to pre-announced destinations.

Officials for the contests will be Prof. R. E. Franklin, University of Michigan, head timer; Gustav Scheurer of Maplewood, N. J.; John Novak of Detroit, George Law of Nutley, N. J., and Elliott Hood, Elmira, assistant timers; Prof. C. W. Terry, Cornell University, barograph department chief, and Bernard L. Wiggins, New York, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorological expert.

Robert J. Lancaster, Elmira Soaring Corporation manager in charge of the contest, reports that advance entries indicate that this year's meet will attract as many participants as in the past despite the alien ban, selective service and increased equipment.

Among early entrants were the University of Michigan Gliding Club; Frank Shelhorn and Herman Kursawe, Long Island City; Ypsilanti, Mich., Glider Club; Theodore Bellack, Chelsea, Mich.; Alvin D. Yates, Brooklyn; P. C. Fellows, Jr., Newark, N. J.; Parker Leonard, Osterville, Mass.; McGill University Flying Club of Canada, and the Buffalo, N. Y., Glider Club.

Test In Stephens For 4,200 Feet

T. G. Shaw No. 1 S. P. Stroud was staked as a Stephens county semi-wildcat this week, seven miles south of Bunker.

The test, due to be spudded on rotary by July 23, will drill to 4,200 feet. It is 330 feet from the north and 660 feet from the east lines of the east half of the southwest quarter of Green Newton survey.

WHY WE ARE FOR JOHNSON AND UNITY

(AN EDITORIAL)
Granting to everyone the right to express his political preferences and opinions, and retaining the same privilege for ourselves—that is the essence of democracy. And, granting to everyone the right to vote as he pleases and for the man he deems best qualified for the office, we would like to point out some of the qualifications of Lyndon Johnson, as compared to the qualifications of other candidates, in the hopes that it may aid some in deciding which of the four leading candidates should be the next United States Senator.

Lyndon Johnson is a young man, but he has had plenty of experience in public affairs and has shown himself not only to be of Senatorial timber but a man of rare ability and wisdom in statecraft.

We are for Lyndon Johnson because we believe he is the right man for the place.

He alone has the complete confidence of the President of these United States. He alone has legislative experience coupled with the backing and support of the men high in public affairs of the United States who are guiding the destinies of our Government in a time of grave national emergency.

Lyndon Johnson is a man who will work for the good of the nation and of Texas and who will go into the Senate with full respect and the kind of reputation for sound judgment that mean so much in a position of that importance.

Governor O'Daniel has the respect of many Texas voters; but his sphere of influence does not reach beyond the borders of Texas, and he would be an unknown in the halls of Congress. Hill Billy bands are beneath the dignity of the United States Senate, and any one elected with such fanfare would immediately be branded and relegated to his proper place in that august body. The supporters of Governor O'Daniel—and we do not question their sincerity—should know that his power will not follow him to Washington and that he can help them only in Austin.

On the other hand, those who would support O'Daniel for Senator in order to get him out of Texas should think more of their duty at the ballot box than to use their sacred right of voting to send a man to Washington in whom they have no confidence.

Gerald C. Mann, the Attorney General of Texas, is a capable Attorney General and should be kept in that position until he serves out his term. He knows nothing about national problems except what he has learned by reading the newspapers, and should not expect the people of Texas to go over the heads of men who

Young Texans Are Securing Licenses To Operate a Car

AUSTIN, Tex.—Young Texans between 14 and 16 years old are taking full advantage of the new drivers' license law provision which permits them to secure drivers' licenses under authorization of the county judge.

All such applicants are being given a driver examination. Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., State Police director, said today. Approximately 15 per cent of them have been refused licenses because they were not qualified as safe drivers, he said. From June 2 to June 12, 138 licenses were issued to such minors.

Big War Fund Goes Back To The House

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The Senate today passed and sent to the house a $10,000,000,000 war department appropriation bill for 1942, the largest in the history of the United States, after 80 minutes consideration.

REDS CLAIM VICTORY OVER NAZIS BUT THEN SAY THEY RETREATED

Age Also Serves

Men of Westminster, England, between 18 and 60 must register for fire watching but Henry Clements, 73, says he's as spry as any of them as he volunteers to spot incendiaries.

Adolf Hitler's armed forces drove the prongs of its military pincers deeply into Russia toward the communications center of Minsk today after an unprecedented battle of tanks and air-planes with the Red Army.

Apparently aiming straight toward Moscow but attempting to crack up and trap the Red Army en route, the Nazi panzer and mechanized forces drove back the Russians on the Northern Baltic flank and on the Central Polish front as much as 120 miles to a point near or beyond the pre-war Soviet borders.

Retirement of the Red Army forces from most of Lithuania and from the Baranovichi area of former Poland and to new positions was reported by the Moscow radio in a special communique, which said that a "heavy defeat" had been inflicted upon the Germans before the withdrawal.

The communique said, however, that the Russians were fighting back powerfully on land and in the air.

Big German tank losses were reported to have resulted from Red dive bombing attacks along the front, including the sector near Brody, protecting the road to Kiev, and Russian planes also were credited with damaging Bucharest and Ploesti, in the Rumanian oil fields.

The new positions taken up by the Russians on the North and Central sectors was not specified, but the communique admitted the loss of Vilna and Siauliai, in Lithuania, and of Baranovichi in former Poland.

German sources in Berlin claimed that the bulk of the Russian tanks and motorized equipment already had been largely put out of action while the Luftwaffe claimed air superiority all along the front, thus leaving the main Russian defense in the hands of the infantry.

British coastal observers reported today that Royal Air Force bombers roared off for another heavy attack on the French invasion coast after long distance planes had pounded Kiel, Cologne and Duesseldorf during the night. Soon after Royal Air Force planes took off explosions were heard in the direction of Dunkirk and Boulogne.

PROCEEDINGS 11TH COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS

Joe Pittman vs. Cecil Stephens, motion of appellee suggesting appellant's motion for rehearing was not filed within time prescribed by law.

Motions Granted: Herman O'Leary, et al. vs. State of Texas, appellee's motion to advance. Warren S. Cook vs. Harrie Winston, et al. appellee's motion to affirm on certificate.

Motions Overruled: Joe Pittman vs. Cecil Stephens, appellants' motion for rehearing. R. O. Gibson, et al. vs. John A. Couch, et al. appellants' motion for rehearing. Warren S. Cook vs. Harrie Winston, et al. appellant's second motion for rehearing. Joe Pittman vs. Cecil Stephens, motion of appellee suggesting appellant's motion for rehearing was not filed within time prescribed by law.

Night Rider Scare May Bring Out Big Force of Deputies

KEY WEST, Fla., June 27.—Sheriff Berlin Sawyer said today he would deputize 100 men, if necessary, to provide day and night protection on the $400,000 defense housing project here after workers had been terrorized by a mob of about 500 hooded night riders.

The mob beat up two carpenters and threatened others in the sleeping quarters.

Committee Refuses Navy Request For Continued Service

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The Senate Naval Affairs Committee today rejected the Navy Department's request for emergency legislation to enable it to retain men in service throughout the national emergency, regardless of the termination date of their enlistments.

Aged Minister To Be Buried Today In Gordon Cemetery

Funeral services for Rev. James L. Havins were conducted at the First Methodist Church of Gordon Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The deceased, who was 96 years of age, died at the Confederate Home in Austin, after an illness of several months. He made his home in Ranger for a number of years, living with his daughter, Mrs. Lee Mitchell.

He was a Methodist minister and preached in this section of the state and in Oklahoma for many years, beginning his service in the pulpit in 1878. He had been unable to preach for the past few years. His membership was in the First Methodist Church of Ranger.

As a youth he enlisted, when only 17 years of age, in Thomas Green's Division of Texas Cavalry and served throughout the Civil War.

In 1865 he was married to Miss Laura Tugley and to this union six sons and six daughters were born.

Those surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Lee Mitchell, Ranger; Mrs. C. C. Manning, Weatherford; Mrs. Verbena Preslar, Houston and four sons, W. H. Harvins, Holtville, Calif.; M. D. Havins, Weatherford; J. M. Havins, near Childress and A. M. Havins, Glen Rose.

Aid For Erie May Be Offered By U. S.

HYDE PARK, June 27.—President Roosevelt indicated today that the United States may send rifles to Erie, but he declined to amplify the pledge of all possible American aid in the Soviet nation's struggle against Germany.

While the picture of defense production was not discouraging, the president said, a critical delay in munitions production exists, and will make it impossible to dispatch ammunition to Erie.

WHY WE ARE—

are more experienced in national affairs to elevate him to the U. S. Senate. He would do well to follow the course of others to the national capital, and might make a good Congressman or Governor.

Congressman Martin Dies has done a service to the nation as chairman of the Un-American Investigating committee of the House, to which position he can be re-elected next year. But he does not stand well with the President or other administrative and congressional leaders and would be a dead weight for Texas in the Senate of the United States. In any event, the time for the investigation of Un-American activities by a Congressional committee is rapidly passing. It is now a matter for the police.

Surveying the field of these four candidates—one of whom will be elected Senator of the United States tomorrow—there can be but one conclusion as to the one who is best fitted, as we see it, for the multiple duties of that high office.

By training and experience, by association and habits, Lyndon Johnson of Johnson City, Texas, is the best man for Junior Senator for Texas.

The State of Texas is loyal to Franklin D. Roosevelt and his foreign policies. It can show that loyalty only by supporting the President's choice for U. S. Senator. In doing so, the people of Texas surrender no initiative but simply say that they believe that unity is the best policy in the present emergency and that a unified Texas is backing Roosevelt's policies and sending him a man who will represent Texas in supporting those policies in the Senate of the United States.

Let us stop and think before we vote. Is it not true that Texas is indebted to the national administration for many honors and many favors? Is it not true that Lyndon Johnson is the President's choice for Senator? Is it not true that Texas has a right to expect its new Senator to be a man who will at once be able to speak with authority and backing? And is it not true that Congressman Lyndon Johnson is the type of young man that the people of Texas are accustomed to giving promotion?

Recent statewide polls show Johnson leading, after coming from fourth place in the race. Eastland county and Central Texas should join with the rest of Texas in saying "we approve" to the President next Saturday.

Eastland county cannot afford to waste its votes. By giving Lyndon Johnson a lead, the people of this county will prove their loyalty to the administration. To do less would seem ungrateful in the light of all that has been done in Washington for Eastland county.

Let us not be confused by the claims of the rival candidates. All who have observed the situation closely know that the trend for some time has been strongly toward Lyndon Johnson throughout Texas.

This is no time for a novice in statecraft to be elevated to the high position of United States Senator. We must have a man who, from the day he takes office, will be able to serve Texas fully and adequately.

Lyndon Johnson can so serve Texas, with dignity and honor. His friends and associates are the best men in public affairs in Washington and in Texas. He has a clear record and a clean reputation. He is not a fly-by-night or a flash-in-the-pan. He has no political scores to settle and no radical program of unattainable promises.

English Poacher Is Offering Skill As a Home Guard Now

LONDON.—An officer of the Home Guard, one of whose jobs would be looking for parachutists in the event of an attempted invasion was told: "You want poachers. They're the best. They move on velvet—and they can almost hear silence."

"Where can we get one?" he asked.

Soon after, a man who applied to enlist, said: "In peace time, I'm a poacher."

"But we can't have poachers," said the officer. "Who sent you along?"

To his amazement, the would-be recruit replied: "The police."

in U. S. defense efforts is training of glider pilots and use of the sail-plane as a military weapon, according to Lewin B. Barringer, authority on motorless craft and holder of the world altitude record for gliders.

Glider training, he said, would provide at minimum expense a huge reserve of young men, well grounded in the fundamentals of flying, from which could be drawn fighting pilots, gunners, bombardiers, and observers for the regular air corps as well as other flying personnel.

He urged establishment of government-operated training centers for glider pilots, similar to ones used to train cadets in fighting planes. In addition, he advocated formation of glider clubs by youths interested in aviation.

Proved As Weapon
The glider, although it looks harmless in comparison with a 400-mile-an-hour fighter plane or a heavily-armed bombing plane, is used successfully as an offensive weapon by the Germans, Barringer said.

It was first tried by the Nazis in the invasion of Belgium and later in the battle of Crete, he said. The glider was directly responsible for the capture of the key forts in the Belgium line of defenses and probably was the "secret weapon" which the Nazis boasted they used in conquering Fort Eben Emael, according to Barringer.

Barringer, who still holds the world's altitude record of 14,000 feet for sail planes, visited Germany in 1933-34 and inspected their glider and soaring schools.

"The Germans even then were forming the nucleus of a gigantic glider force," he said. "Today it is not improbable that they have trained 250,000 men to fly with gliders."

Nucleus of Luftwaffe
It was from these men, trained in flying motorless craft, that the Nazis developed their Luftwaffe, which has proved one of the dominating factors in the European war thus far, Barringer said.

He described the German use of the glider as an offensive weapon and stressed that its chief success lay in the inability of ground forces to detect its approach.

"The German method, insofar as we have been able to ascertain, is to tow several large gliders, each holding five to eight men armed with light machine guns to a great height of about 20,000 feet just before dawn.

"Their chief value is the element of surprise. It has been proved that the key Belgian forts were taken by this method and that gliders are one of Hitler's chief 'secret weapons.'"

Barringer has spent much time flying military airplanes as well as gliders. He has had eight forced landings since he began flying motor-powered craft in 1929.

"But I've never cracked up a plane," he said. "I attribute this to the landing technique I learned in gliding."

EASTLAND TELEGRAM, EASTLAND, TEXAS

Open House Is Held By N.Y.A.

(By CARMEN FAGG)

The girls Homemaking and Production Center located on the 4th floor of the Eastland National Bank Building entertained their many friends by holding open house on Thursday of this week. For a true picture of a visit on this day, we shall accompany Mrs. Jones to the project center. Mrs. Jones is a typical citizen of Eastland and vicinity who really knows very little of what is being done for the youths around here.

Mrs. Jones arrives at the center and is carried up to the 4th floor on the elevator which is operated by one of the youths. Just as soon as she steps from the elevator she receives a hearty welcome from another youth, and is very impressed by the beautiful lobby which has been converted into a reception room and decorated with many pot plants and cut flowers. She registers here and is told that this is the Sixth Birthday of the National Youth Administration and the youths of this project will serve as hostess for the day. From here she is directed to the main work room where she is shown an exhibit of the work that has been done by the girls, included in this exhibit were many types of garments that had been constructed for the Red Cross. In the line of arts and crafts there was shown knitting, weaving, tapestry, sampler, pencil sketched portraits, and many other things of interest.

She was then directed to the cutting room, before reaching the room she passed by the twenty muffines sewing garment actually being constructed by the youths. Upon reaching the cutting table she was shown the lay-out plan for cutting four garments at one time. She also observed many patterns cut from heavy craft paper which had been labeled according to garment size and number of pieces.

Of course this was very interesting but she was anxious to see the completed garment and the way it was stored. Adjoining the cutting room was the storage room in which she found garments bundled into groups of five according to size.

There a girl goes with her back to their cottage where the girls are given related training and the actual work of home-making. This is given through the State Board of Vocational Education. Mrs. Jones finds the arrangement to be just as a home, for there is a living room, bed room, dining room, kitchen (which had recently been equipped), a room for construction, and a storage room.

Before leaving she is served lemonade and cookies which had been prepared by the youths.

Red Cross Give Aid To Eastland Flood Victims

The local Red Cross Chapter, with the cooperation of the National organization, completed their work this week of giving aid to those in Eastland who suffered losses during the recent flood.

Fifty families were aided by the chapter with distribution of rugs, sheets, pillow cases, mattresses, quilts, pillows, towels and clothing, and number of chickens were bought to replace losses.

The local chapter set aside a sum of money which was added to by the national office to aid these people. R. C. Kinnaird is the local Red Cross chairman and R. V. Galloway is the disaster chairman for the organization. A committee, composed of Mrs. Bert McGlamery, H. J. Tanner and E. E. Freyschlag, was appointed by Mr. Galloway to assist in the work. Earl Woody is treasurer of the chapter.

The Red Cross was assisted in their work by the NYA sewing project, under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite. They aided in making sheets, quilts and several articles of clothing. The home making classes of Eastland High School, under the instruction of Mrs. Frank Switzer, made pillow cases, and dresses. The City of Eastland furnished materials for the quilts.

A summary of the items distributed follow: 57 linoleum rugs, 29 mattresses, 75 sheets, 54 pillow cases, 51 quilts, 15 blankets, 7 pillows, 75 towels, 62 chickens, 10 pair men's shoes, 22 women's shoes, 7 pair children's shoes, 26 men's shirts, 11 pair pants, 13 infant's dresses, 72 women's dresses, 14 children's dresses.

July celebration at Eastland.

Complete details for Tuesday's trip have not been made, but according to Secretary Tanner of the Chamber of Commerce, the trippers will start from the Chamber of Commerce offices on East Commerce street at an hour yet to be designated, and go to Cisco, Moran, Albany, Breckenridge, Caddo, Strawn, Ranger and back to Eastland.

Full particulars regarding this and other motorcades for the same purpose, will be announced later, Mr. Tanner said.

Work on the program for Eastland's Annual July 4th celebration is nearing completion and shows that the affair this year will be the greatest yet held.

VETERAN FLIER WILL SPONSOR CIVILIAN CORPS

By NEIL BURKHARDT
United Press Staff Correspondent
LOS ANGELES.—Col. Roscoe Turner, speed flier, has issued a call for all civilian aviators unable to qualify for the military air corps to enlist in a national civilian air force.

The former majordomo of American speed fliers, who still holds several flying records, urged all trained civilians to form an auxiliary to the nation's combat forces and serve as pilots for ambulance and supply planes as well as to pilot planes from factories to depots.

Pointing out that the physical standards for the American navy and army air corps are exceptionally high, Turner said that failure to pass the strict military medical tests should not disqualify a man from serving his country in aviation.

"The civilian flier has a definite place as an auxiliary to our combat air forces, and, if properly trained and directed, he can be of great value," Turner declared.

The dapper, dare-devil pilot who was an army flier in the World War, said he intended to devote a large part of his time to forming an air corps which would train men and women to pilot warplanes from factory to airfields and combat supply bases in time of war.

"If a flier is trained and directed, the non-military aviator can fly replacement planes to bases and also can serve as an aerial courier between our far-flung air, army and navy posts. He also may pilot ambulance and supply planes which do not see actual war service," Turner said.

"By taking the place of the military pilots, who are needed for the more strenuous duties of combat flying, coast and border patrol and troop transportation, the civilian pilots can be of great service to their country."

Turner pointed to the valuable work done by non-military men and women fliers in Britain in ferrying planes from assembly plants and factories to squadron bases and also in piloting planes across the Atlantic.

"Planes will still have to be flown across to Britain and with the speeding up of the national defense program and the huge influx of young men into the army and navy air arms, American civilian fliers will have a greater responsibility in maintaining the regularity of deliveries of planes to British and United States air bases," Turner declared.

The noted aviator said the civilian fliers also could serve an admirable cause by being equipped to do the members' office.

Eastland Loses Softball Game To Stephenville

The Eastland girls softball team went to Stephenville last night and brought back the short end of a 6 to 5 score.

The entire game was played in drizzle that was almost a rain and when it was all over both teams looked like they had been pulled out of a lake. The rain slowed up the infield and made visibility poor so that the "jillion or so boots" made by both teams were entirely excusable.

The intense rivalry that has always existed between these two teams is only exceeded by the feeling of good sportsmanship and hospitality they show to one another before and after the game.

The feud will be resumed next Wednesday night when the Stephenville girls come to Eastland.

Vitamin Needs Are Ignored By Many

CHICAGO.—More than 4 per cent of the population never heard of a vitamin and 8-12 per cent does not know a protein from a carburetor. Therefore, experts on nutrition agree that people should allow science—not their appetite—to govern diet.

A nationwide survey shows that 48 per cent of the people admit the scientific diet is better, but 40 per cent still hold out for the decision of their stomachs. Science as a food selector is advised by 56 per cent of the doctors, 64 per cent of the dentists and 85 per cent of the home economics teachers.

Other facts brought to light by the survey are:

- Only 30 per cent of the people actually do something to insure getting sufficient vitamins.
- Only three-tenths of 1 per cent of all doctors say that wish is "brain food."
- Rural people eat three times as much meat as those in the city.
- In voting for the most tasty foods, 35.7 of the people chose meat, 21.7 chose leafy vegetables.
- Forty-one per cent of the men named meat as their favorite food. Women are divided between meat and vegetables as a favorite.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, backaches and dizziness. Frequent or empty passages with annoying and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give speedy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Building bring sales volume to every line of business..

Did you think that the only ones who profit financially from building a new home were the employers? They do profit considerably, but so do the workmen, and the lumber supply companies and their employees—in fact, everyone, who has any direct contact with the building, profits. They all have money to spend for their needs.

Of course, the home furnishers and landscape gardeners and decorators make direct sales to the man who owns the new home. But the businesses that profit the most are those who sell merchandise and services to the workmen, the architect, the furniture store delivery man, and all the others who take part in helping to build and furnish a new home. In turn the butcher, the baker, the grocer, and the laundry man are able to buy new clothes from the man who lives in the new home.

That is business. You can prepare to get your fair share of all this business by planning an intelligent and thorough advertising campaign. Advertise in the Eastland Telegram.

CALIBAN FROM CALEB

DRMAN KAHL

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

With Castaloni from the house back to the truck pull away, when he hears the truck driver French window's sunroom. Castaloni in a doorway...

"Wrong, am I? I suppose the license number doesn't check with the report we got? I suppose you didn't steal this truck?"

"Well, maybe I did, but—"

The patrolman grips his gun tighter. "Okay. That's enough. I gotta warn you that you better keep your mouth shut, 'cause anything you say can be used against you."

"What's your name?" he asks Adoreen.

Adoreen is quivering. "Adoreen Margate," she says, forgetting she has decided to be just plain Adoreen Micketlidge again.

The cop takes a step back. "I thought so. Come over here, Miss Margate. Put your hands down. You're safe now. You must have had a terrible experience."

He turns to somebody in the crowd. "Call Inspector Callahan. Tell him Officer Krinkel told you to call and tell him to rush down here because I've got a dangerous kidnaper covered."

ANGUS and Adoreen are still arguing with Officer Krinkel and with two other cops who have come up when an avalanche of police cars come roaring up. In two seconds, the street is jammed with policemen and detectives, and there are more Tommy guns aimed at Angus than the whole A. E. F. had in the Argonne.

Angus is relieved to see Inspector Callahan.

"Hello, Inspector," says Angus. "Make these fellows put their guns away. This is all a mistake."

A couple of husky patrolmen grab Callahan because it looks as if he is going to pitch forward in a dead faint. Then he pulls himself together and looks murderously at Angus.

Adoreen walks over to Callahan. "This is all a mistake, Inspector. Angus didn't do anything, except maybe steal that truck."

Callahan explodes. "Except that truck! Young lady, may I recite to you, as well as my shattered mind will permit, that section of New York state's criminal code which provides—"

"I mean," says Adoreen, "he had to steal that truck. You see, some men were going to kill him, and they took him out in the country. So he had to beat them up a little, and then he had to steal the truck to get back."

Callahan is still skeptical. "So he comes back and kidnaps you?"

"No, Angus didn't do that. Mr. Fitzwater did. He's the man who gave me the job at the Purple Pelican. Only his name isn't Fitzwater—it's Castaloni, and he's a crook."

"All right, boys—hide 'em," Callahan orders. The officers put away their guns. "Now, Miss Micketlidge, I'm beginning to get interested. Maybe this story is on the level. Anyway, we'll try to pick up Castaloni, now that we know who he is, and question him."

Angus leans against the truck. "You won't have to do that, Inspector," he says. "He's right here—in the back of the truck. The three fellows who wanted to kill me are in there, too. They work for Mr. Castaloni."

IN a flash, all the guns are out again, and they are pointed at the truck. Callahan grabs the doors and swings them open, and everybody jumps back. When they see the four squirming men, tied up neat as Christmas presents, they put their guns away.

When the Inspector is finished with the racketeers, he gives some orders and looks around for Angus and Adoreen. He finds them standing in the shadow of a building on the sidewalk. Angus' arm is around Adoreen's slim waist, and they don't seem to be interested in any further technicalities of the law.

"I don't like to interrupt," says Callahan in a kindly sort of gruff voice, "but Spike Mudge is ready to speak his piece, and something tells me Castaloni won't be hard to crack. Spike already told me enough to convince me that the brocoli racket is nipped in the bud. I hate to admit it, Mac-Phillips, but you did a pretty thorough job."

Angus is flustered. "Aw, it ain't much, Inspector. Addie here did most of it."

"Just one more thing," the Inspector interrupts. "I've been thinking, Mac-Phillips, that if you're gonna be hanging around New York, I'd feel safer if I knew just where you were all the time. Now I know a few people around town. I can get you a good job. And after you satisfy the residence requirement, maybe you can pass the exams and get on the force. If you're gonna stick around, I'd just as soon have you on our side. How about it?"

"Gosh, Inspector," says Angus. "That sure is nice of you." He turns to Adoreen and reaches out for one of her hands. "Addie, do you suppose you could marry a guy what's gonna be a cop?"

"I guess so, Angus," she murmurs. "I guess if the New York police department can get used to you, so can I."

THE END.

Dam Will Enrich Valleys of Utah

PROVO, Utah.—The approach of summer has brought renewed activity to Central Utah—where the $15,000,000 Deer Creek reclamation project is being rushed to completion to modernize water distribution facilities.

The 1,300-foot dam, largest construction unit in the three-phase project, was originally scheduled for completion by March 29, 1942. However, E. O. Larson, construction engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, predicted it would be finished by this fall "at the very latest."

Other units of the project are also months ahead of schedule. The entire project was designed to provide for the storage and delivery of a supplemental water supply for 100,000 acres of farm lands in the rich central valleys of Utah—the valleys known as Utah and Salt Lake.

The water to be stored behind Deer Creek dam, located on the Provo river about 16 miles northeast of Provo in the heart of the towering Wasatch mountains, will come from the Weber, Provo and Duchesne rivers.

The dam will impound a reservoir that will have a storage capacity of 150,000 acre feet, extending up the Provo river canyon for 6 1/2 miles from the face of the 155-foot high, earth-filled dam.

The dam will be more than 1,000 feet thick at the base and thick enough for a 35-foot roadway across the top. It will contain around 3,000,000 cubic yards of earth and rock—making it the third largest earth-fill dam ever constructed by the bureau of reclamation.

A concrete-lined tunnel was blasted through solid rock at the left abutment of the dam to divert the river during construction operations. Later it will serve as an outlet for storage water and will be used in conjunction with a spillway over the top of the structure.

One of the major tasks in connection with construction of the dam was construction of new grades for a state highway that

Persons To Operate Fourth Wont Return

Four hundred and persons will start out on the Fourth of July this year. They won't come back, but they are celebrating a day of life, liberty and happiness.

The highways of the nation will carry the greatest traffic load over the holiday that they have ever borne, the Council said. They will be jam-packed with throngs taking advantage of the three-day vacation.

The Council predicts that more than 30,000,000 vehicles will travel four billion miles during the Independence Day week-end. Add to this all-time high the fact that traffic deaths have gone up steadily for many months, that the vacation season will be at its peak and that everybody will be in a hurry—and the stage is set for a record-breaking toll.

Thirty national organizations are joining with the Council in a determined effort to cut this toll as much as possible by bringing home to their millions of members and to the public the fact that individual effort by every person can save tragedy and suffering.

These organizations are: National Congress of Parents and Teachers, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, International Association of Chiefs of Police, General Federation of Women's Clubs, American Red Cross, National Grange, American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, Automotive Safety Foundation, American Automobile Association, American Association of State Highway Officials, Institute of Traffic Engineers.

Federal Council of Churches of Christ, Knights of Columbus, B'nai B'rith, National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, National Society for Crippled Children, U. S. Public Roads Administration, National Conservation Bureau, Masons, Shriners, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Elks, Eagles, Loyal Order of Moose, Kiwanis, Lions and Optimists.

When taking a flyer in finance, better save a little as a parachute.

Minorities Issue and Labor Migration Problem Are Two New Headaches for Defense Leaders

By PETER EDSON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—An ex-Missouri Methodist minister, ex-college president, ex-Farm Security administrator who in the last war had the job of trying to instill a little knowledge of reading and writing into illiterate draftees of 30 army camps, has one of the strangest of all the varied assignments in the complex defense effort today. He is Dr. Will W. Alexander, round-faced, blue-eyed and pleasant, and his title now is director of minority groups section in the Labor Division of the Office of Production Management.

If that title doesn't mean much to you, consider a few of Dr. Alexander's pet problems: In the northeastern United States are thousands of second and third generation Italians, native-born citizens whose parents or grandparents came from Italy. For some reason, defense industries have been a little skittish on hiring people of Italian descent, though Germans are generally accepted without question.

The Los Angeles area, which carried the heaviest relief load in the country during the depression, is bringing in thousands of youngsters from the plains states, yet it still has 150,000 unemployed Negroes. The mechanics of Japanese ancestry, idle because the west coast fishing fleet has been immobilized, can't get jobs in defense industries though bearded Russian ship fitters are considered highly valuable in the shipyards.

Four million aliens, including more than 200,000 refugees from territory Hitler has occupied, many of them highly skilled, find it hard to get jobs because they're foreign born.

And so on. Well, you say, what of it? Let the furriners go jobless or go back where they came from!

BUT it isn't as easy as that. At least four million new workers have to be fit into defense production in the next 18 months. Most of them must have skilled trades. To keep men with special skills idle is just as silly as keeping machines idle. Hence the special assignment given the minority groups section to see that there is no manpower going to waste.

Tied up with this minority labor problem is the problem of defense industry migration of labor, keeping men on the job near home, and this migration problem has almost eclipsed the minorities' issue.

Take the case of a northern contractor building Camp Lee, near Petersburg, Va. He raised the labor markets as far north as New Jersey, even though there were many unemployed Negro carpenters in the southern states. Virginia newspapers and the state chamber of commerce got after that one and fixed it quickly.

West coast aircraft plants have come into Philadelphia and from a hotel room employment office taken out many skilled laborers though Philadelphia is going to need 70,000 skilled workers.

Sixty-five per cent of the relief load in Connecticut has been the Americans of Italian descent referred to above, yet Connecticut has an in-migration of labor, some of it none too skilled, looking for jobs in the aircraft and machine industries.

Tenant farmers from all over are leaving the land in what is termed a "perceptible drift" to seek the mythical five-dollar-a-day jobs in town, creating a housing shortage, adding to the relief load, contributing to their own unrest.

BEST estimates now are that some 350,000 workers with special skills will have to be moved, in spite of all the sub-contracting that can be done. California industrial areas will need 30,000. Detroit motors area may need from 60,000 to 80,000. New Jersey 30,000. Fort Worth-Dallas 17,000.

THE PAY-OFF

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Service Sports Editor

JOE MCCARTHY gets a wallop out of headlines such as: "Dahlgren, Ex-Yankee, Hits Home Run." But Marse Joe stresses the fact that he doesn't see them too often.

Bill Werber of the Reds is the most accomplished ex-Yankee, and Ed Barrow got a good price for the third baseman when he moved to the Red Sox. So did Connie Mack when Werber was switched to Cincinnati to help the Reds to two National League pennants and a world championship before pulling up with water on the knee this trip.

McCarthy got Monte Pearson and Steve Sundra from Cleveland for Johnny Allen. After getting considerable pitching out of them, the Yankees sold Pearson to the Reds and Sundra to Washington. Allen dropped down to the Browns. Oral Hildebrand, who failed to stand up even with Yankee support, is with St. Paul.

BUMP HADLEY was well along when the Yankees took him. He got nowhere with the Giants, but seemed to take a new lease on life with the Athletics.

Walt Judych did well with the Browns last season, but never was on the Yankee roster. He was nothing more than a farm hand. McCarthy was first to feel that Ben Chapman wasn't a good team man, and Myril Hoag was run-o'-mine in New York and St. Louis. Bill Knickerbocker was just a filler-inner with the Yankees. Joe Glenn is with Louisville.

Getting better to Dahlgren, McCarthy professes to believe the Yankees are better fortified at first base, with Johnny Sturm, though the St. Louis left-hander does not smack the ball as far as the Babe and a lot of close observers doubt that he covers as much ground.

McCarthy is still toying with the idea of moving Tommy Brerman's hit in practice to become accustomed to it, just in case. There is also talk of Mike Chartak, a converted outfielder recalled from Kansas City.

Dahlgren was hitting no more than .227 for the Braves when peddled to the Cubs. That isn't the kind of hitter the Yankees want.

Joe McCarthy is right. The Yankees haven't let much good material go to perform remarkable feats elsewhere.

Sleepy Hamlet Is Receiving Mail By Pack Burro Now

TUBAC, Ariz. — Streamlined trains and transcontinental transports speed the mails from coast to coast in the space of a few hours, but in Tubac it is transported today as it was 50 years ago—by pack burro.

Ramon Quintero, a native of Tubac, for 20 years has carried the mails twice a day from the railroad station to the postoffice on his pack burro. Often, when the Santa Cruz river is up, Ramon and his burro may have to wait for hours to get across, and he's even held the mailbag over his head and waded the river.

A relic of olden days, Tubac is surrounded by crumbling adobe walls and memories of the past. Ramon lives there with his children and grandchildren, setting the pace for the town, happy in his existence, or as he would put it, "asi es la vida" (This is the life).

Situated in southern Arizona, Tubac is a sleepy little town that has refused to keep pace with modern developments. The Southern Pacific line between Nogales and Tucson passes through, carrying mail to the west coast of Mexico.

Roulette Wheel Is Now Table In Home

HALE CENTER, Tex.—W. H. Kirby, whose farm is located 15 miles west of here, is a resourceful man and that's why his guests always admire that beautiful table that sits in his living room. Kirby, an ex-Texas Ranger, salvaged an expensive roulette wheel from a gambling den raid in Galveston several years ago. He attached legs to the table and covered it with glass and it's a thing of beauty to visitors.

MAKING AMERICA STRONG

INDUSTRY'S GREAT SELF-INVENTORY LOCATES AND REGISTERS PRODUCTIVE FACILITIES OF MORE THAN 20,000 SMALL AND MEDIUM-SIZED PLANTS AVAILABLE FOR DEFENSE SUBCONTRACTING.

APPROXIMATELY 50,000 STRATEGIC MACHINES WERE LISTED

40% OF THESE PLANTS ARE IN THE IMPORTANT METAL TRADES

TODAY MANY COMMUNITIES ARE USING THIS INFORMATION TO ORGANIZE INDUSTRIAL POOLING PLANS SO THAT THEY MAY PARTICIPATE IN THE DEFENSE PROGRAM AS SUBCONTRACTORS.

SOURCE: NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS

This is one of a series of illustrated articles designed to inform the public of the progress being made by American industry in providing the weapons for national defense. The facts presented have been gathered in surveys of leading defense industries and from other authoritative sources.

Perhaps the sharpest stimulus to defense sub-contracting applied to date was the "Preparedness Through Production" inventory of plant equipment and potentialities conducted last Winter by the National Association of Manufacturers and its affiliate, the National Industrial Council.

Searching out plants big and small in every section of the country, this great self-census by industry listed the productive equipment of some 20,000 manufacturing concerns, 40 per cent of which were in the metal-working trades. More than 50,000 strategic machines were listed. Defense officials have stated that the survey findings accelerated production through sub-contracting and the establishment of community pooling plans.

"The survey is of exceptional importance," O.P.M. Director William S. Knudsen said, "because it covers a part of that class of industrial establishments which normally are the hardest type to include in the major defense effort with which we are now faced."

A recent survey by the N.A.M. disclosed that for every primary defense contractor in the country who is "farming out" work, there are 25 additional sub-contractors also producing for defense. More than 60 per cent of those primary contractors, it was shown, were farming out up to 25 per cent of their total volume.

The automobile industry offers a good example of how sub-contracting is accelerating defense production. According to O.P.M. figures, there are more than 3,500 small and large firms supplying parts to the 73 motor vehicles companies in the United States, most of which are doing defense work.

The plant data compiled from the N.A.M.-N.I.C. survey have been made available in regional form at state and local manufacturing association headquarters throughout the country, which have become, in effect, defense information centers.

Such information is proving of great value to primary contractors in search of potential sub-contractors who possess specialized machines or equipment and to communities organizing into single industrial pooling units to fill defense orders.

New Hospital For Criminally Insane Is Being Proposed

AUSTIN.—One of the recurring proposals in the Texas Legislature is that for building a hospital for the criminally-insane in connection with the prison system.

Rep. Ben Sharpe of Paris recently sought to introduce a bill to establish such a hospital, but Rep. W. O. Reed of Dallas, appropriations chairman, doubted about the time grapes are ripe, home-made wine will be the only thing that feels like working.

whether it would be a fine mental patient, past criminal acts, under supervision of authorities. "I am heartily in favor of a separate hospital for the criminally-insane," said Sharpe. "The question has been put in the past. People sometimes want to keep from going to prison, and if a hospital, they would be in prison," although Sharpe said he would not want to provide curing persons, if had shown criminal and to segregate patients at state hospital displayed no criminal Reed explained that patients are being as much as possible.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at the City Pump Station, where Mr. Johnson has been employed for the past eighteen years.

Town Giving Up Its Rented Street

By United Press

DELPHOS, O.—The village of Delphos has been renting one of its main thoroughfares from the state of Ohio since 1907 and now refuses to continue the rental payments. As a result the state may have a city street in its hands.

Canal Street is improved and business houses face it, but the one-block street has never been owned by the city. The state has been collecting $30 a year in rent from Delphos taxpayers and now asks renewal of a contract on a 15-year basis at the same rental.

The city council insists it will not approve such an expenditure, and has threatened to try to collect from the state for maintenance of the street since 1907.

Settlement of the dispute may come by appealing to the state legislature to deed the land to the village.

The problem dates back to days when the old Miami and Erie canal connecting Cincinnati and Toledo was thriving.

A grain elevator was situated on the canal bank, on state property, and the owners needed a lane, to reach their property. The necessary land was provided for $30 annual payment to the state. The granary went out of business in 1907.

The lane had become a street and the village assumed rental payment at that time, but the street still belongs to the state. A garage now stands on the mill site.
