RESTRICTS SPOTTING HURRICANE

By United Press
ONVILLE, Fla.—War planes, which have silenced the sky, are seriously impairing the effectiveness of the federal hurricane spotting service this summer. Service hitherto has depended largely upon radio reports from plotting and predicting paths of tropical disturbances. This year the service is being almost entirely supplied from 30 land stations throughout the Caribbean.

past, radio reports from plotting in the neighborhood of the Verde islands, have the service to spot a hurricane's earliest stages, and to check, to warn vessels of its path. Today the Verde region is reported in the hands of German raiders and a single radio signal ship passing through the area is an invitation to

Blue Stamp Food List Is Issued For Next Month

The list of foods available during July for purchase with blue stamps by families taking part in the Food Stamp Plan in Eastland County was announced today by Homer Breleford, Jr., Area Supervisor. These foods are obtainable in local stores throughout the month of July.

Fresh peaches and fresh vegetables (including potatoes, all fresh vegetables, except those processed, frozen, canned, dried, or pickled, but does not include melons) have been added to the list of food which will be available nationally during July, while fresh grapefruit and fresh apples obtainable during June in all areas are not included in the July list.

With these revisions the complete list of "Blue Stamp Foods" for the period July 1 through July 31 in all Stamp Plan areas is as follows: Fresh oranges, fresh peaches, fresh vegetables (including potatoes, all fresh vegetables, except those processed, frozen, canned, dried, or pickled, but does not include melons) pork lard, all pork (except that cooked or packed in metal or glass containers), corn meal, shell eggs, dried prunes, hominy (corn) grits, dry edible beans, wheat flour and whole wheat (gramah) flour, and raisins.

Long Session May Result In a New Regulatory Law

AUSTIN, Tex.—The long, long session of the 47th Texas Legislature doubtless will be used as an argument for placing legislators on year-around salary, like members of Congress.

Several feelers in that direction have been put out by legislators in the past but there is little chance of popular adoption of the plan until the state has somewhat forgotten what happened when regular session-time was increased from 60 days to 120 days on the plea all the work would be done in 120 days and prevent special sessions.

A review of the votes on numerous proposals to recess or adjourn the 47th Legislature shows that many of the members voted both ways and can answer criticisms of the long stay in Austin by pointing out that on such and such a day "I voted to go home." But if the voters look up all the votes they probably will discover the same member voting on other occasions to stay in session.

One Senator announced in the Senate that he had voted both to recess and to adjourn and was for either plan to end the session. He voted against recessing on the next ballot, because the date he suggested had been rejected.

BOND SET FOR MEN ACCUSED OF A RACKET

Bond in the amount of $1,000 each was set by Justice of the Peace J. N. McFatter in Ranger against three men charged with being conspirators in a coin machine racket, and the three have been turned over to county authorities, it was announced by Chief of Police Lee Ames of Ranger.

According to Chief Ames the three were discovered in a car on a side street in Ranger, and were arrested on suspicion by Patrolmen Johnny Boyd and Oscar Parrish. One of the trio, Chief Ames stated, made a statement to the arresting officers, in which he said that the three had planned to take coin machines from the Porky Pig stand on Highway 80.

The men gave their names as LeRoy Lovely, Emmett Gowdy and Anthony Waggoner, all of Fort Worth.

Chief Ames stated that their regular procedure was to rent a car for 24 hours from a drive-yourself rental agency in Fort Worth, bend the license plates back so the numbers could not be read, drive to some nearby town and await an opportunity, when there were few customers and few employees in a cafe, enter and order something, snatch the machines and flee in the car.

Similar tactics have been employed in Strawn, Ranger, Weatherford and other towns in this part of the state, Chief Ames said his reports showed.

Boat Owners Are Rushing To Join A Reserve Unit

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The rush of owners and experienced operators of small boats to enlist in Class M-2 of the Merchant Marine Naval Reserve already has resulted in the acceptance, at Eighth Naval District Headquarters here, of 115 qualified men, and recruiting officials are examining an additional 250 applications to add others to the growing list.

The response of our Gulf coast seamen to this branch of the service is most gratifying," Captain T. A. Thomson, Jr., Acting Commandant of the District, said. As the word spreads throughout the coastal areas that the Navy needs the distinct contribution that can be made by these men, scores of applications arrive daily at the District Headquarters.

If called to active duty, the reservists of Class M-2 will serve on coast defense vessels, such as mine sweepers, repair tenders, and various types of patrol craft. Should they be called to active service in their country's preparedness effort, it is contemplated they will continue on this status only for the duration of the national emergency, and Navy officials assert every effort will be made to return them to civilian life as soon as their services can be spared.

Information regarding enlistment in Class M-2 may be obtained from any Navy Recruiting Station, or at the Naval Reserve Armory, 823 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Construction Activities In State In Past Five Months Reach Total Of $125,000,000 A Survey Shows

DALLAS, Tex.—Construction activities throughout the state of Texas accumulated a five-months' total of more than $125,000,000 and left the corresponding 1940 record far behind. Each of the three major classifications advanced and there are no signs of a let-up in the highly accelerated pace.

F. F. Kueny, the Texas manager of Dodge Reports, the daily construction news service, completed his monthly summary of the contracts awarded for materials and labor, yesterday, and pointed out that the May record nearly doubled the figures for that month of last year.

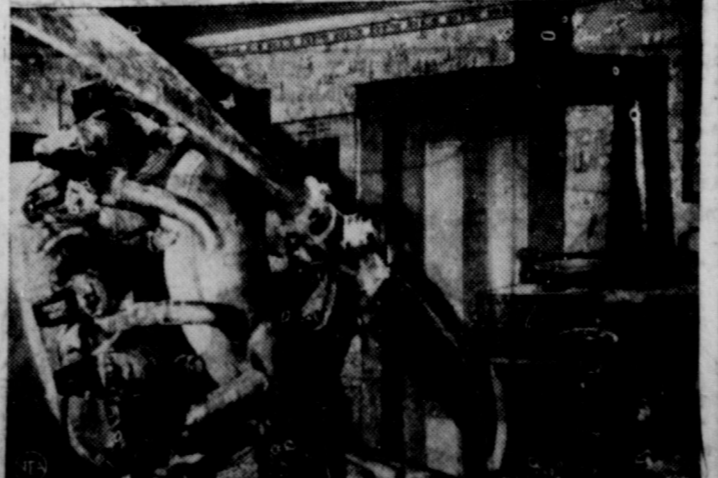

Residential and non-residential building combined with engineering construction to establish a Texas contract total of $127,786,000 during the January-through-May period. A year ago, the comparable valuation was $74,141,000. Most recently, May had a total of $26,681,000, completely overshadowing the 1940 valuation of $14,318,000.

Non-residential building had the largest classification total, $49,555,000, in the five-months' period. That was substantially more than double last year's $23,654,000. Most of the activity was in the commercial and manufacturing groups. The contracts awarded during May went to $11,275,000 from last year's corresponding $4,879,000.

Residential building in Texas was valued at $42,415,000 in the January-May period. Mr. Kueny continued. Here again, a heavy increase was noted. The corresponding total in 1940 was $28,201,000. The greatest increase was in one-family houses built for sale or rent. Contracts awarded in May for residential building materials and labor were valued at $8,850,000. A year ago the month had $5,559,000.

The federal, state and local governments and the utilities awarded construction contracts for heavy engineering work.

ALUMINUM TO BE GATHERED FOR DEFENSE

AUSTIN, June 30.—Machinery was set in motion here today for the participation of The State of Texas in the nation-wide collection of scrap aluminum for national defense purposes.

In response to a telegraphic request from Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, United States Director of Civilian Defense, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, chairman of the National Defense Committee for Texas, formulated plans for an organization in each of the 254 counties of Texas to sponsor this movement.

Each county judge of Texas will be asked to act as the leader of the undertaking in his particular area. The county judges will, in turn, invite the cooperation of the mayors of incorporated towns and cities and will organize the movement in the unincorporated towns and rural areas.

The campaign will begin on July 21, Mayor LaGuardia said, and will last for several days.

"I am anxious that you take charge of the campaign in your State since it is only through the cooperation of the states and the various political subdivisions that the campaign will be completely successful," the Mayor wired Governor O'Daniel.

Mayor LaGuardia advised that detailed suggestions would be forwarded by mail, upon receipt of which the Governor could send a complete outline of the plan to the local leaders. Governor O'Daniel announced that these suggestions would be forwarded to the county judges as soon as received from Washington.

"You may be assured of a wholehearted response from this State," Governor O'Daniel wired the Mayor.

Habits Scored As Being Too Wasteful

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—That limp-looking necktie in the middle of July is not only "senseless," says John H. Sherman, economics expert at Notre Dame University, but an "economic waste."

Outmoded customs and habits hurt America both socially and economically, this educator argues. Take the American habit of buying, he said, "if you want your full money's worth consult the home economics bulletins of your state universities and the United States labor and agricultural pamphlets," he advised.

The custom of observing holidays in the middle of the week is another social and economic wrong, according to Sheehan, who advocates attaching all holidays to the close of the week-end.

"Not only does industry lose approximately half a billion dollars yearly in the one-day shutdowns, but millions of people lose socially in the work interruptions," Sheehan said.

He blamed human inertia, ignorance and a general lack of courage for the future of Americans to throw off the outmoded customs.

Even love goes on, dewy-eyed and saddled with "useless and outlandish" habits, Sheehan asserted. "This diamond-ring giving and honeymoon business work economic hardships on many young couples," he said, "although they are really non-essentials."

Jessie C. Hathcock Makes Honor Roll At John Tarleton

STEPHENVILLE, June 30.—Among the students making the honor roll at John Tarleton Agricultural College for the second semester of 1940-41 was Jessie C. Hathcock of Ranger. The honor roll was announced by the registrar, T. V. Crouse, on a recent date. To be eligible for this honor a student must make at least 80 per cent every subject for the semester.

Out of over 1300 students enrolled last semester, 219 made the honor roll. Mr. Crouse noted that the size of the honor roll was larger this semester than last.

JOHNSON IS HOLDING TO SMALL LEAD

Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson clung to a 4,117 lead over Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel in the race for United States Senator today, but election of administration-supported Johnson still remained somewhat uncertain.

The latest count, including ballots from all of the state's 254 counties, 124 complete, gave Johnson 167,699 votes, O'Daniel 163,582, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann 135,582, and Congressman Martin Dies 77,694.

The Texas Election Bureau count late today will probably make known for certain the outcome of Texas' hottest special election in years.

Thunderstorm Is Safecracker's Aid

BIG SPRING, Texas—A rumbling thunderstorm worked to the advantage of local safecrackers. It was while lightning flashed and thunder rolled that they blew the doors from safes of two local bakeries and obtained a $350 loot. The safecrackers used old-fashioned explosive methods to open the safes, rather than the modern knob-knocking system. It made more noise but the thunder covered up for them.

Eyes Straight Ahead

The people of the United States have their eyes fixed on one objective—the defeat of Nazi Germany, which has repeatedly proved that in victory it would be a desperate menace to everything we hold dear.

People will shout at us on either side now. On one hand will come the cry, "Turn your eyes to the left—give your energies to aiding the Soviet Union, that great citadel of democracy!"

To this America will answer, "Bosh!" and keep its eyes straight ahead.

On the other hand will arise the cry, "Turn your eyes to the right!—let up now on those things which help to defeat Hitler; after all he now fights the Great Red Menace!"

To this America will answer, "Bosh!" and keep its eyes straight ahead.

Straight ahead lies the first order of business. It is to supply to Britain the sinews of war, the aid, the support of every kind that will bring victory over the man and the system which plunged the world once more into the fiery furnace of war.

Nothing else matters right now. The President promises such aid to the fighting Russians as can be given without hindering pledges already made to Britain, not because he thinks any more of the Stalin dictatorship today than he thought three weeks ago, but simply because that helps the straight-ahead cause, the defeat of Hitler. Any such aid as is given will not be on a basis of helping Russia, but of helping to beat Hitler.

Communists in the United States are not one whit better than they were three weeks ago, not one whit more trustworthy, not one whit more devoted to democracy or to American institutions than they ever were. Their policies now, as always, will be determined by what they are told is best for the Stalinist regime in Russia.

Russia itself fights today, not to destroy Nazism because that system is repugnant to it. After all, Russia had no violent objection to Nazism three weeks ago. Russia fights simply to save its skin.

It happens that that fight is serviceable in what we want also—the downfall of Nazism. So that fight will be supported, for that reason, and to that extent.

It is along that line that the United States should continue to march forward, eyes straight ahead.

Strange, but after college commencement exercises are over is when graduates are ready to commence.

The fellow who loafs all the time misses all the fun of looking forward to vacation.

Relax! The only Friday the 13th of 1944 has passed—and if you're reading this you got by.

Murder In Soho Is Eclipsing Blitz

By United Press

LONDON.—It took an old-fashioned murder to take the attention from the blitzkrieg in London's Soho.

When the news spread that Harry Distleman—"Scarface Hubby"—had been stabbed to death outside a night club in London's Bohemian quarter, all Soho, agog with excitement, flocked to the scene of the crime.

People stood outside the premises in Wardour Street and watched police arrive in a van to search the place. Everyone knew that Harry was the victim of an internal war between gangs that has run through Soho despite the blitz.

The first thing the police brought out was a broken billiard cue, carefully held in a cotton handkerchief. Then they emerged with a foot-rule.

Distleman had been slain by a knife thrust in the back at 5 A. M. This is what happened: In the early hours, he was playing smoker in the club with a friend, Edward Fletcher, when a group of men came into the room and shouted abuse at Distleman. Then they slit the green baize of the table and slashed Fletcher with a razor.

Distleman was led outside, and people in the club heard his shout: "Help! I've been stabbed." There was a sound of running feet, and then silence.

Out in the street, they found him dead, opposite the heap of blitz rubble.

There followed the biggest police drag net in a murder mystery since the beginning of the war. By night-fall, six men had been taken to Scotland yard for questioning.

Distleman, 35, had had a varied career. He had been a racing man, bookmaker, "strong-arm man," for betting clubs, and then, when his money was gone, commissionaire at a club.

He obtained his job with the boast that he knew every detective in C.I.D.

NEW U. S. ARMY SEEN AS BALL TEAM THAT HASN'T YET PLAYED A

"Grueling" is the counterpoint of current army maneuvers—and the foot-slogging about will have many a long march, many a night alarm. They're part of the 2d Army, picture chester, Tenn. In the new war games, motorized and mechanized forces will be massed on a grand scale. Ready for "The Battle of Tennessee" are the motorized artillery units parked at Tullahoma.

BY THOMAS M. JOHNSON
NEA Service Military Writer

WASHINGTON.—The newly expanded U. S. Army is like a new baseball team that has had batting and fielding practice but has not played a game. They don't know how to work together in the pinches.

So they are being put through the stiffest course of training sprouts in our military history. That is the real meaning of the nationwide field maneuvers, now in their opening stages, which will continue through summer and autumn. By the time they get through with that little job of work, the 550,000 regulars, National Guardsmen, reserves and trainees are expected to be welded into the closest approach to a formidable, unified fighting force the country has ever had in peacetime.

Still an agglomeration of individualistic smaller units, they are now being assembled into larger ones. First, into Corps, which presently will be grouped within four Field Armies for the biggest war games this country or probably, any other, ever played.

For seven months, in ten states, mainly southern, there will be a series of fourteen exercises in which will contend not only the classic arms—infantry, cavalry, artillery—but the newer ones—aircraft, tanks and parachute troops, along the lines developed by Germans and British.

For the first time, an American armored division's full 11,000 men will operate its full 2000 vehicles in the "Battle of Tennessee" beginning June 13. Also it will act as spearhead for the "Rolling Fourth," our sole completely motorized infantry division, as German Panzerdivisionen acted in France and the Balkans. Modernized cavalry divisions will carry horses in vans.

There will be no old-fashioned "sham battles" with cocktail parties betweenwhiles. One officer has even urged the use of some "live" cartridges to keep the boys from getting slipshod in "action." Our new soldiers may shed no blood, but they will shed sweat and mayhap, tears. "Grueling" is the counterpoint: long marches, night alarms; they've got to take it, as the Nazis took it to become the world's toughest soldiers.

Beginning with smaller tactical exercises using regiments as the basic units, the operations will build up to a climax, involving all four areas into which the country is being divided: Texas; now comes Tennessee's composing Corps fight one another. September, comes the big smash of Army (of the Midwest) against the (of the South) in Louisiana; then the First Army, of the Northeast, moves Corps in the Carolinas. This will be moved Corps of two divisions, large formation over held, of tanks and seat of command. It will be "first time" that Army have learned these tricks, now old rope. Our maneuvers have been run up affairs, "stove-pipe cannon wars." Although the Army has three times as many machine guns for them all. Also it has tank, anti-aircraft and other types of weapons were virtually absent last summer.

But it has not enough for all September before the Air Corps takes and shipments to Britain can spare for the maneuvers, and heavy trucks too. Yet the Army plans eventually mechanization and air power. Only in autumn will there be full practical training between bombers and armored fighters protecting the bombers, while anti-tank guns attack both.

800,000 TO GO

So the maneuvers as a whole will be fully realistic and advanced. And a third of the force now mobilized will benefit of them. While 550,000 men will be a team Army, there will be more still going through basic training of independent smaller units.

By autumn the maneuvers will be the shape of a potential fighting force. The fantrymen know what a tank can do and they know what a plane can do at a line.

To increase their knowledge, and of the whole Army of 1,418,000 men the task that still remains; a task finished this autumn, nor this winter much before next summer.

Jerry seemed very far away. Ken's kisses against her lips were sweet. "You're crazy," she said. She wanted to escape, but there was no escape. Ken's arms drew her back.

Behind them there was laughter and music. Before them a million lights twinkled. Below them the city roared. But they were away from all of it, alone in the exhilarating October night...

"I'm mad about you," His strong arms gathered her close. "I don't want to be, but I am. You're everything I've been taught to stay away from. You're everything I'm not. But I love you. I'm going to marry you."

She listened in stunned silence. She couldn't think. This was something out of a book, something unreal. He made her dizzy and drunk with a new feeling that she had never experienced before...

"You're crazy," She tried to struggle away, fighting against his strength. Instinctively, she knew that this ought not to be. She wanted to escape but there was no escape. His arms drew her back.

"Darling, listen, it's love. Don't you understand? We were meant for each other." "No! No!" Her voice was saying meaningless words and she was swaying closer to him, her lips raised to his, answering kiss with kiss.

"I'm crazy, mad, and so are you. I'm married to Jerry. I love him. He loves me. We are the ones who belong to each other. You don't mean anything. I'm not going to marry you. You're drunk and so am I. Too much champagne. I..." She laughed a little hysterically.

"I've always been able to carry me before. But you hypnotize me. I don't know what I'm doing. I can't seem to think. But you don't count, really. You oughtn't to kiss me like this. If Jerry should find us, he'd kill you. He's frightfully jealous."

"You, darling, don't fight against love." His arms held her close, his eyes looked down into hers. "We belong to each other, and it doesn't matter about Jerry. He can have Ruth, a decent girl, but for us there can't be anybody else, and I'll take you away from all this. You don't belong here in this mad, wild life."

We are glad to see MRS. MICKEY SLOAN back playing golf, after a seige of illness. She was registered Saturday.

Sunday the course looked like a tournament day—81 were on hand and again visitors were few. The local players were right on hand, taking advantage of the nice day. However, we did have some out of town players registered: GARLAND POE and DR. POE of Eastland; R. H. BAKER, Dallas, guest of EUGENE BAKER; D. C. HUMMOCK, Caddo, and the Gorman foursome, BILLY HAMRICK, EARL PITTMAN, WADE SMITH and SPECK CLARK. It would be a strange Sunday without these boys. ERNEST GLAZNER, Breckenridge was registered. ALBERT BLANCHARD, Eastland, and again RED LINGLE of Brownwood. RED is a former member, who played some few years ago. We understand he has only taken up the game again recently. He played in the Brownwood tournament last week and won the third flight. His score Sunday was not available, but we understand his game is good.

And BOBBY SIKES was again with us Sunday. BOBBY is playing a good game, as testified by the score he shot. Playing with JIMMY PHILLIPS, our city champion, ELMER NORRIS, JR., and H. H. VAUGHN, he turned in 36-33 for a pretty 69. Three under par. NORRIS had 78 and JIMMY PHILLIPS 73, only one over par. VAUGHN'S score was not turned in. We have been trying to get members to turn in their scores in order that we can publish them for the interest of all concerned. Todate only a few have co-operated. It is hoped more will leave the cards in the office. Others whose score were available Sunday were ELMER NORRIS, SR., 88; HAPPY HARRISON, 91; RICE HERRINGTON, 85; RAY SNYDER 85.

Again we remind the ladies that the Ladies Oil Belt Golf association's "open" will be held at Cisco, August 6-7-8 and 9th, and urge them all to begin to sharpen up their game and plan to attend. Ranger should send a good quota of its membership of Ladies. And don't forget the meeting of the Country Club members Tuesday night at 8 p. m. at the club house. Important business to come up. So says PRESIDENT LARSON. All members, both certificate and associate members are supposed to be present. Come on, boys, it's your club. Come and have your say.

State Uncertain On Status of Houston

AUSTIN, Tex.—The State of Texas just doesn't know what it is going to do about its new junior U. S. Senator, Andrew Jackson Houston, and the San Jacinto State Park.

Houston was advisory superintendent of the park until he took the senatorial oath recently, then he was scheduled to be taken off the state payroll.

However, the new Senator is the only person named in the departmental appropriation law of two years ago for the job.

Building bring sales volume to every line of business . .

Did you think that the only ones who profit financially from building a new home were the owners? They do profit considerably, but so do the workmen, and the lumber supply companies and their employees—in fact, everyone, who has any direct contact with the building, profits. They all have money to spend for their needs.

Of course, the home furnishers and landscape gardeners and decorators make direct sales to the man who owns the new home. But the businesses that profit the most are those who sell merchandise and services to the workmen, the architect, the furniture store delivery man, and all the others who take part in helping to build and furnish a new home. In turn the butcher, the baker, the grocer, and the laundry man are able to buy new clothes from the man who lives in the new home.

That is business. You can prepare to get your fair share of all this business by planning an intelligent and thorough advertising campaign. Advertise in the Eastland Telegram.
