Aluminum Collection In County Is Planned

LINE TOOLS MINUTES SECONDS

Anthony G. De Lorenzo, Staff Correspondent. — Airplane engines are off production lines faster than ever before. America's soldier today is better equipped than in the war.

Developments may be in part to the use of purpose machine tools, San Francisco, as a production time-saver. 30-50 years ago was foreseen by the ships at the industry.

What designing special for a specific job has meant higher engine production. Remarkable months ago it took many hours and 40 minutes to produce the 280 holes in the main frame of the airplane engines being intensively by the American governments. Today the job requires only 65

Service Hailed
 Of Destroyers
 Traded Britain

By United Press. — AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT. — American destroyers, traded to Britain last fall, are doing an excellent job in the Battle of the Atlantic, according to an English sub-lieutenant who has served aboard them.

"You come across them off the English coast all the time, he said. "They're doing a grand job of patrolling for subs and raiders."

"I came to Canada toward the end of last October," the young officer continued. "We took one of the 'Yankees' back two weeks later, and I must say I found it very good."

"They did a quick job on her as soon as we got her to an English port," he said. "For one thing we fitted her with more anti-aircraft guns. There were a few other changes as well, then we got out to sea as fast as we could."

"That new ack-ack armament was a good idea. Several times in later weeks we were attacked by German planes and were able to drive them off. Those old ships are right on the job."

"After we'd had her for a couple of months, our destroyer was taken over by a complete Norwegian crew. The last I heard of her she was still going at it over there."

Earlier, this young sub-lieutenant had sailed in a British destroyer of the "V and W" type. They are ships comparable in age to the former American vessels.

"It wouldn't be quite fair to compare the British destroyer I was in, with the 'Yankee,'" he said. "This particular British ship had been supplied with a lot of the latest equipment for experimental purposes."

"But as far as accommodations go, you couldn't want anything better than the American ship had."

Defense QUIZ
 I would like to provide a income for myself when I die. Can this be done by the Defense Savings Bonds? If you purchase a take $87.50 each month, each will mature in exactly 10 years. Thus at the end of 10 years you will have $50 payable each as each of your Bonds reach maturity. But I will need more than $50. Then you should invest a amount each month. Every put into Defense Bonds pay you $100 ten years from now. Meanwhile, your money goes to the Government during the national emergency. Buy Defense Bonds go to the nearest bank or write to the Department of the United States, D. C., for an order

Feetotaler, 80, Slips
 But Judge Is Kind

By United Press. — VISALIA, Cal.—Theo Laurel, 80-year-old inmate of an old people's home, told Police Judge Gareth W. Houk he had been in a driver's seat on the temperance wagon for years and years until a friend told him a pint of rye would cure a cold.

"It's too late to begin curing colds that way now," Houk said, "and as you've never drunk before and never were arrested I'll suspend a three-day jail sentence."

VITALIZED FOOD
 TESTED TO AID
 'CHUTE TROOPS

By ROBERT INNES, United Press Staff Correspondent. — MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — University of Minnesota physiologists are conducting diet experiments in an attempt to supply army parachute troops with a day's rations weighing only a pound.

The experiments are being made on soldiers from Fort Snelling, Minn., by Dr. Ancel Keys, a professor of physiology at the university who is in charge of diet research for the army.

Contents of the streamlined rations are an army secret, but the food resembles biscuits and tablets.

"Each ration weighs about a pound to 1 1/4 pounds," Keys said. "They are being developed with the idea that they are to be used for a 24-hour period. After that it is to be assumed that other rations would be dropped by parachute to the troops."

Soldiers Volunteer for Tests
 The soldiers participating in the experiments come from Fort Snelling to the university laboratories where they eat the special rations and then are put through drills simulating actual combat conditions. Returning to the laboratories, the soldiers receive complete physical examinations in an attempt to determine the value of the special foods. Each of the soldiers, all of whom are volunteers, make one visit a week to the laboratory for 12 weeks.

The experiments are sponsored by the National Research Council, with the authorization of the quartermaster's department and the army surgeon-general. The experts are trying to find an army ration more nourishing than the famous "D" ration provided during the World War.

Food Research Lapsed
 "In 1917, the army developed the 'D' ration, consisting of a chocolate bar weighing about a quarter of a pound and containing certain other food qualities," Keys said. "It was unsatisfactory, but a short time later the war ended and food research experts discontinued their attempts to find rations suitable for troops in combat."

Keys said preliminary experiments indicated that the army has over-emphasized the fat content in the rations.

"What we are looking for is a ration that will keep a soldier in good physical condition but is not bulky and weighs little while also being palatable," he said.

Several months ago Keys and his assistants tested the standard army post rations and found them entirely satisfactory for garrison troops.

"Even through vitamin supplements," he said, "we are unable to increase the efficiency of the soldiers."

Anti-Tank Unit At Fort Bliss First

By United Press. — FORT BLISS, Tex.—The first anti-tank troop in the United States is being organized at this Southwest border post.

Organization will be completed when a sufficient number of selective service draftees have been assigned to the troop to fill out the enlisted personnel of 138 men. First Lieut. Jack Berg, of El Paso, Texas, will command the unit.

Practicing over the desert terrain in this section, the troop will be outfitted with 17 scout cars. Each car will be armed with two 30-caliber and one 50-caliber machine guns.

Principal weapons of the troop will be the 37millimeter anti-tank guns, towed. There will be 12 of them. The fire power of the unit will be augmented by 30 Thompson sub-machine guns and 26 30-caliber M-1 rifles. Each man will carry an army automatic pistol.

For scouting purposes, patrolling and communications, five of the scout cars will be equipped with two-way radio sets.

TRIP WON, 17-CENT RIDE

By United Press. — VENTNOR, N. J.—City Treasurer Byron Jenkins won a vacation trip contest—but he isn't very proud. The trip was to Atlantic City—a 17-cent trolley trip from here.

ICELAND—Hot Spot
 On the Arctic Circle

ICELAND, 1001-year-old republic whose greatest defense until the bomber came along was 700 miles of water between her and Europe, is now an outpost for forces guarding the Western Hemisphere. Map shows principal towns and geologic structure of the railroad-less island, now occupied by the U. S. Navy.

NAZI REINFORCEMENTS EXPECTED TO END BIG LULL ON SOVIET FRONT

The Soviet Union put its three most famous military heroes in command of the Red Army fronts protecting Leningrad, Moscow and the Ukraine today as German armies, jolted to a dead stop for 24 hours, were reported to be striking with fresh power on the Stalin Line.

Although Moscow continued to report that the Nazi blitzkrieg had been stalled and Berlin avoided any definite claims, Nazi reports filtering through London said that German reserve strength was being brought up and communication lines were being prepared for another assault designed to find the soft spots in Russia's defenses.

The outcome of the next Nazi explosion against the Stalin Line was not indicated, but it "might be serious," London reported. The British are eager to prevent over-optimism in regard to Russian successes on the Eastern Front, because they desire to avoid any let down in British morale in event Russia is beaten.

Appointment of the three marshals to command the fronts was broadcast in the Russian language by a Moscow radio station at a time when Moscow dispatches said that the Red Army was mustering its greatest strength along the Stalin Line to stand off the new German thrusts. Russian mobilization, ordered at the outbreak of the war with Germany, should be virtually completed, presumably placing the army at around 10,000,000 men in the field.

The French reported, under German pressure, that they would fight to the last in Syria, because the country's position is on the British flank in the middle east.

Meanwhile British sources speculated on the possibility as to whether the United States would establish air and naval bases in Northern Ireland.

KNOX DENIES
 U. S. NAVY IS SHOOTING NOW

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Members of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee reported today that Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox had denied "categorically and emphatically" the charges that United States naval vessels had been engaged in hostilities with German raiders in the North Atlantic.

Earlier Senator Burton Wheeler had charged that American and British officials are discussing a plan to pool the naval resources of the two nations under an arrangement whereby this nation would patrol the North Atlantic and the British Navy would patrol the English Channel and the South Atlantic.

There was no comment from the Navy Department on the more recent charges hurled by Sen. Wheeler.

War Tragedy Puts No Curb On Singer

By United Press. — LONDON.—One of the saddest and loneliest people in London, 18-year-old night club singer Carole Kenyon, carries on for the sake of others who like herself are lonely and sad.

Few of her audience at the Cabaret Club, Beak St. W., know that the beautiful girl who sings and dances for their entertainment is lonelier than any of them.

Her father is dead and her brother is a prisoner of war in Germany, and when Carole went home early one morning from the club she found her mother had been killed and her home destroyed by a bomb.

Investigators Are Ready To Hear Of Election Claims

AUSTIN, July 11.—Chairman Rudolph Weinert of the Senate's general investigating committee, telephoned a statement to Austin from his home today, saying that the committee was ready to hear Washington columnist Drew Pearson, "under oath" in connection with a recent radio comment on the Texas election to choose a United States Senator.

Weinert said that the committee had no authority to compel non-residents to come to Texas for an investigation.

Zam Zam Survivors Will Be Released

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles announced today that arrangements have been completed for release of the 21 American ambulance drivers, who were rescued from the torpedoed Egyptian liner, Zam Zam and landed in occupied France.

COUNTY FACES POSSIBLE BIG TAX INCREASE

Unless the governor calls the legislature into special session and unless the legislature then passes, or rather re-passes—the "County Road Bond Assumption Bill" passed originally in 1933, but which has to be re-passed each two years, Eastland county, like many other counties in the state, is faced with one of two propositions. One of which is to default in the payment of interest and principle on its road bonds and the other is to increase the county tax rate approximately $1.30 on the $100 valuation, according to County Judge W. S. Adamson.

When the State Highway Department, some years ago, took over highways that had been constructed by the state by individual counties, 1 cent of the 4 cent tax levied by the State on gasoline for highway purposes, was set aside to pay or re-fund such counties the money spent on these highways. Eastland county, according to Judge Adamson, last year received $185,000 from this source, but since the bill was not re-passed by the legislature this year there is no fund from which this money can be paid.

NYA Shop Opened To Girl Enrollees

By United Press. — BUFFALO, N. Y.—Mechanical-minded young women are receiving NYA work shop training for the first time here as protection against an expected shortage of manpower in key local industries when the defense program gains greater momentum.

The initial group of women numbered 100, and was assigned to the machine shop, sheetmetal, welding and radio work. Transfers from other NYA projects and new assignments continued until a total of 250 girls were employed.

Gerald V. Finnegan, NYA area director, said the move to give girls work experience along industrial lines was made partly to offset the lack of male workers in national defense plants.

"There is no doubt that Buffalo is facing a shortage in man power which is essential for national defense industries," Finnegan said. "From information which has been received, there are clear evidences that Buffalo's importance as a key defense industry center will be increased as the defense program gains even greater momentum. Therefore, every possible effort should be made to prepare girls for entry into defense work before we actually reach the point where production must slow down because not sufficient men are available."

"Already in Connecticut, Detroit, Chicago and other parts of the country, the National Youth Administration has demonstrated that girls can do industrial work efficiently and satisfactorily. In all probability, there are many operations being performed by men now which could be handled as well or better by properly prepared young women."

The girls assigned to the NYA work shop will make up one to four shifts a month.

Hogan Has Lead In Denver Tournament

CHERRY HILLS CLUB, Denver, July 11.—Little Ben Hogan fired two under par 33 at defending champion Byron Nelson today was 1-up at the turn in the first round of the 36-hole quarter finals match in the Professional Golfers Association tournament.

Hogan stymied Nelson on the 15th to go two-up.

40,000 Are Idle As
 1,000 Go On Strike

DETROIT, July 11.—An 11-day strike of 1,000 employees of the National Automobile Fibres today forced closing of two more automobile plants, forcing a total of 40,000 workers into idleness.

Hay! Cut It!

Not since Henry VIII had the grass in London's Parliament Square gone uncut, but wartime neglect allowed it to grow waist-high. So these men got scythes and started making hay in the shadow of Big Ben.

Mexican Police To Stage A Big Show

By United Press. — MEXICO CITY.—Mexico's "daredevil squadron" of motorcycle police and a 75-piece band will head a delegation of 125 Mexican police officials to the International Convention of Law Enforcement Officers at Portland, Ore., July 14-16.

The delegation will stop two days in Hollywood, enroute to Portland.

Gen. Miguel Z. Martinez, chief of the federal district police, is scheduled to address the convention on the role of police forces in continental defense. Manuel Ferrusquia, secretary of the Mexican delegation, will give a talk on international espionage.

Besides the police band, led by 79-year-old Velino M. Pressa, the roster of entertainers will include a marimba troupe, 10 brilliantly costumed minstrels from the state of Jalisco, the singing duo of Pepe Gutierrez and Elvira Rodriguez, the Hector and Lucha dance team, and Renato Fregoso, Mexican radio baritone.

An eight-man police pistol team, headed by two international medalists, Col. Marcelino Inurreta and Capt. Juan Chavez, is included in the delegation.

The "daredevil squadron," consisting of eight special officers of the Federal District traffic department, will give exhibitions of trick and formation riding which have made it famous throughout America.

Office Hours Of Local Board Are Given By Austin

Officials in charge of the County Selective Service board office in the Courthouse at Eastland are in receipt of a bulletin from State headquarters at Austin governing the office hours.

This bulletin sets out that the work day for federal employees consists of not less than seven hours of actual work on week days and four hours on Saturday.

The County Board officials announce that due to the above mentioned bulletin the Eastland County office, beginning Monday, July 14, will be open week days from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and on Saturdays from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.

SEVEN MAYORS TO ORGANIZE
 MAJOR DRIVE

Three Phases of Collection Plan Are Outlined At Meeting Held In Eastland

Representatives of the towns in Eastland County met in the county courtroom in Eastland Friday morning and began an organization for collection of old aluminum for national defense in the county.

The seven mayors of the seven incorporated towns in the county have been named as heads of the committee in their respective towns, and they are to name other committeemen and to organize the drive in their communities.

The seven mayors who are to head the committees are Hall Walker, Ranger; C. W. Hoffmann, Eastland; G. P. Mitchem, Cisco; J. E. Gilbert, Carbon; Herman Rushing, Desdemona; Ed. C. Blackwell, Gorman and A. N. Searly, Rising Star.

Three organizations are to be formed, with the first being for collection of old aluminum defense. This will be known as the Aluminum Collection Committee. The second will be the Aircraft Warning Service of the State of Texas and the third will be mobilization of police resources for defense purposes. This plan follows the outline suggested by the governor of Texas to the county judges of the 254 counties in the state.

The aluminum collection program will have three phases. The first will be from July 21 to 24 when all residents of the county are to be contacted and pledges obtained to donate any aluminum they can spare.

The second phase will close from July 24 to 28 when a house-to-house canvass is to be made to collect as much aluminum as possible.

The third and last phase of the aluminum collection program will be from July 28 to 30, when a cleanup drive will be made to secure all aluminum that might have been overlooked in the previous canvass and collection, in an effort to obtain all the material possible for national defense purposes.

In addition to the mayors of the county heads of committees for each of the rural communities were named. These are:

Keep the Silly Season in Its Place

Before we know it, the dog days will be upon us, and the silly season will encompass us about as the thermometer bursts its bulbs and reason flies out the open windows.

These are pretty grim times, and a little silliness won't hurt any. The danger is in taking some of the silliness seriously.

Observe what the heat has been doing, even before the summer is well advanced:

Governor O'Daniel of Texas, he of the biscuit-and-banjo campaign, demands that Texas be allowed to set up its own private army and navy to defend itself against O'Daniel knows what.

Out in Oklahoma several persons stand in danger of 10-year penitentiary sentences, on "criminal syndicalism" charges, not because they did any overt act against the government, but simply because they sold certain books, like Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath," which are to be found in any civilized public library.

In Toledo, a man faces a five-year sentence if convicted of sending nagging postcards to the President.

A man is campaigning for public office in Texas wearing only a barrel.

Germany and Russia are each winning their war twice a day—in their own dispatches.

A Cleveland girl tells a story of being beaten by two robbers, gets national publicity, then admits she dreamed it all.

In short, the stage is being set for the 1941 version of flag-pole-sitting, guppie-gulping and marathon dancing. Nothing is better to while hot weather tedium than a little foolishness. But personally, we'll take ours straight.

When silly-season stuff is blended into a political cocktail, the result may be dynamite.

Migrant Rush to California Starts

FRESNO, Cal.—Migrant families are arriving in the Fresno district of California's San Joaquin Valley at the rate of approximately 100 families a month, Austin V. Harper, district supervisor of the rural resettlement division of the farm security administration reported.

Harper found few if any of the migrant workers with sufficient training to qualify them for defense jobs.

per cent of applicants for aid came to California from Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Missouri. He declared nearly one-half of the families applying for aid had spent from one to three years in Arizona before continuing on to California.

Harper said he believed the continued flow of migrant families to California was due to widely circulated reports of a boom in California's defense industries, with consequent high number of available jobs.

If Professor Einstein has nothing better to do these warm days, we wish he would try to find out why wives have more relatives than husbands.

Barbecue Pit Now Yields Ruggedness; Goes Streamlined

HUGHSON, Cal.—Mechanization, which in recent years has meant electric lights and running water for Western ranches and automobiles for cowboys, at last has overtaken that traditional stronghold of the rugged, outdoor life, the barbecue pit.

For most persons, the barbecue pit means a ditch in the ground or a crude stone fireplace, a heap of glowing coals and a couple of pounds of meat that must be turned and tended constantly by hand. But Leo McNamara, a local merchant believes in progress, even in barbecue pits, and has built one that has a sink for washing dishes, a winch-operated brazier for even cooking, and an electrically-operated spit.

On each side of the huge fireplace is a four-foot square concrete table, one of which has a built-in sink. Under this is the motor and mechanism of the spit. Under the other table is fuel storage space. A large brazier is hung back of the double spits to furnish additional heat for the barbecue. It can be raised or lowered and swung backward or forward by means of a special winch. The main fire will be in a large brazier directly below the cooking top. This also may be raised and lowered. The cooking top is designed in two sections, one an open grill work for broiling and a semi-solid top for frying. An additional top is provided to make the entire top available for broiling.

The fireplace is a part of a summer house which will be completely screened. It has a smooth concrete floor and is located in a screened section of the garden. When the place is furnished it will seat 16 persons.

U. Of T. Naval Cadets Get Summer Cruise

AUSTIN, Texas. — Forty-six University of Texas Naval R.O.T. C. students have completed the first summer cruise training in the State school's history, Captain H. W. Underwood, commandant, announced today.

Flights in naval aircraft from the Corpus Christi Naval Air Base, short cruises in district craft and intense classroom instruction marked the three-weeks' period, Captain Underwood said.

The University unit was quartered at Corpus Christi with contingents from Oklahoma and Tulane Universities.

THE PAY OFF

LARRY MacPHAIL has kicked the Dodgers out of Ebbets Field.

Not even the unpredictable MacPhail would give the team that played close to a million paid admissions at home—in less than half a season.

The orphans at the moment are the professional Dodgers.

The trouble dates back to last winter when a New York paper wanted the Brooklyns to combat Eastern College All in an annual Fresh Air Fund game on the night of Sept. 1 at the Polo Grounds.

Though he is a Flatbusher transplanted from Grand Mich, the day he took over the baseball Dodgers, MacPhail formed a violent dislike for the Polo Grounds and every attached thereto.

He can't see Brooklyn having anything to do with the Grounds, except when the schedule of the National League Professional Baseball Clubs forces the Dodgers to keep agents in the lee of Coogan's Bluff.

MacPhail told Daniel R. Topping, millionaire owner of football Dodgers, that if his athletes appeared again All-Stars at the Polo Grounds, they never again would set on Ebbets Field turf.

Dan Topping withdrew his outfit from the benefit game Polo Grounds.

But MacPhail is mad about a Brooklyn owner as flirting with the idea of taking a band of Dodgers out of Ebbets field in favor of the Polo Grounds. He is not sure he was football party back.

With the Dodgers out, the New York newspaper says champion Chicago Bears, but a MacPhail ultimatum George Halas to call the whole thing off. Red-headed advised Halas that the Bears also would be off the list.

Junior College Is Offering Students Fine Opportunities

In another section of this paper is an advertisement relative to Ranger Junior College. A large attendance for the college seems very evident for another year.

The Junior College has a unique and distinct place in the education field, for students who attend a standard Junior College may find their field from three distinct possibilities, that is: university preparation, semi-professional, and general or terminal courses. Also in addition to the above possibilities Ranger Junior College offers courses in National Defense. (The Texas Outlook, June 1941, page 37).

Students may select courses from eight departments, taught by teachers who are interested in developing character, stressing social efficiency, and exemplifying a democratic and wholesome atmosphere under a cultural influence where college cost is within reach of all students. Ranger offers to students many very attractive programs. It has 13 churches, fine theatres, one of the largest and best equipped NYA centers in America, an ideal swimming pool, a fine golf course, and many extra curricula advantages may be found here.

The college will stress debate, public speaking contests, plays, music and other college affairs which will give good training and at the same time help the student to become a leader, for in the small well-balanced college program, the student will know and be known.

High school students who are interested in furthering their education may contact Junior College officials at Ranger relative to college work.

A small well-organized college will come more nearly meeting the needs of high school students than a large college for there will be a very democratic spirit displayed in the small college.

YOUR CHEAP ELECTRICITY

MAKES SUMMER MORE LIVABLE

Have you ever counted the many ways that your economical electric service contributes to your comfort and happiness in hot weather? There are dozens of them, but just a few pennies a day for electricity is what it costs you to enjoy these modern conveniences that help banish many of the discomforts of hot days and nights.

Your favorite electric dealer will be glad to show you appliances which make summer more livable. If you are building or remodeling your home, make provision for electrical equipment that will bring you years of comfort and convenience.

Electric Cooling Equipment drives away summer heat and gives you cool, pleasant days and restful nights, even in the hottest weather.

Electric Cooking eliminates one of the unpleasant features of hot weather, because your kitchen stays cooler and you spend less time in watching food cook.

Electric Refrigeration makes summer meals more appetizing by providing you with cold foods and refreshing beverages, while actually saving you money.

Electric Washers and ironers, electric cleaners, mixers and other labor-saving and time-saving appliances save you from hours of hot, tiresome work.

Yard Lights supply a flood of illumination so that you can enjoy summer evenings outdoors, playing games, entertaining friends or just working around the yard.

The Radio helps pass away the summer hours, bringing you news and entertainment that takes your thoughts away from hot weather.

Every Method Of Transportation Is Carrying Crude

NEW YORK.—Every available method of transportation, and some which the industry itself has developed and now operates, is utilized by the American petroleum industry in moving its products from source to consumer. Railroads, steamships, motor trucks, drays, and even airplanes carry packaged goods. Pipe lines, tank ships, barges, motor tank trucks, and railroad tank cars transport liquid products in bulk. Every method of transportation must be utilized by an industry which handles such huge volumes of commodities; volumes on the order of 1,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil a year, 24,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline, 500,000,000 barrels of fuel oil, and 23,000,000 barrels of lubricants. The necessity of moving 180,000,000 gallons of gasoline every 24 hours gives an idea of the time element involved. Pipe lines are unique features of the petroleum transportation system. They are economical, safe, and speedy. Other factors being equal, distance has little effect upon capacity. Once they are filled, two pipe lines of the same size, one 100 miles long and the other 1,000 miles, will deliver about the same cargo at their terminals every day. And when the cargoes are not moving, which is seldom, pipe lines make excellent storage facilities. A pronounced effect is wrought upon pipe line capacity by a change in product carried, however. The same line will carry up to 30 per cent more gasoline than crude oil, the exact percentage being dependent upon the gravity of the crude. Capacity of a given line with the same product also is flexible within fairly wide limits, depending upon the number and the power of pumping stations along the line. Few pipe lines larger than 12 inches in diameter ever have been built by the industry. Until recently, at least about 10 per cent of the 58,000 miles of crude-oil truck lines in operation have been 12-inch lines. About 17 per cent were 10-inch, 50 per cent eight-inch, and the rest less than eight-inch. Through fairly level terrain, pumping stations may be up to 60 miles apart. Under an average 40-mile spacing of pumping stations, however, an 8-inch crude-oil line will deliver 16,000 to 20,000 barrels a day, a 10-inch line about 40,000 barrels and a 12-inch line about 60,000 barrels. These capacities might be increased 50 to 75 per cent by the use of additional pumping stations, perhaps one every 20 miles. Similarly, if gasoline were run through the line rather than a medium crude oil, capacity might be increased up to 30 per cent. The recent Atlantic-Coast emergency has focused attention on large pipe lines, never before needed. Calculations differ somewhat, but it has been estimated that gasoline transportation capacities would be: 14-inch line, about 95,000 barrels a day; 16-inch, 125,000; 18-inch, 175,000; 20-inch, 235,000; 22-inch, 270,000; and 24-inch, 300,000. The same size lines carrying crude oil would have a lower capacity, depending on the gravity of the oil, down to about 75 per cent of the gasoline capacity for a medium heavy crude oil.

WHITE DUCKS FLOCK
CAZADERO, Cal.—A flock of white ducks that long has made its headquarters in Austin creek has two methods of building up its numbers. Their facility for picking up additional members seems to indicate that "white ducks flock together."

GUARDSMEN ARE TO REGISTER ALSO

Men who have served in the Active National Guard are required to register immediately upon expiration of their service, even though they are not, under certain conditions, liable for further peace time training and service under the Selective Service Act. That fact was stressed today by General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, who said that all such men should present themselves to a local board for registration immediately upon their discharge. "The act is specific," General Page said, "in requiring registration of men within the age group of 21 to 36 who have served in the National Guard. Men who were members of the active National Guard on October 16, 1940, and who have completed six or more consecutive years, are relieved from liability for peacetime service and training, but they must register. Those who were members of the National Guard and have served less than six years are relieved neither from registration nor training." General Page said that his attention has been called to the fact that some men in the National Guard in federal service who have been discharged because of expiration of their service have not registered. They should do so immediately, he declared, and added that the War Department has now issued instructions that such men shall be notified by their organization commanders at

GOLF TOURNAMENT AT BRECKENRIDGE

J. T. Hammett, Breckenridge star, and Iverson Martin, Fort Worth ace, may resume their tournament rivalry in the Breckenridge Invitation which starts today. Hammett downed Martin, 3-1 in a match at Abilene Sunday to win a championship. Martin will be the defending champion at Breckenridge, having defeated Morris Norton last year. Claude Thompson of Breckenridge is the general chairman of the tournament. Other officials are: L. P. Clarke, E. D. McDowell, C. K. West, J. D. Sandefer, Jr., E. V. Green, Bill Pitzer, A. L. Chastain and W. J. Rhodes. In addition to the qualifying Friday, there will be a long driving contest, a barbecue and the Calcutta pool. Match play starts Saturday. Semi-finals and finals are carded for Sunday.

A DEAF MUTE FAN FOLLOWS ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA.—Although a deaf-mute, Daniel W. Beachey, a brother of the pioneer aviator, Lincoln Beachey, is one of the Philadelphia Athletics' most faithful fans. Beachey is a close friend of Earl Mack, son of Connie Mack, whom Beachey has taught the sign language so that they might "discuss" the game more fluently without recourse to pad and pencil. Beachey arrives among the first at Shibe Park and when the A's are playing at home and remains in the stadium long after the game is over. He has been following the Mackmen during their ups

BIBLE SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED AT CHURCH

The Vacation Bible School held this week at the First Methodist Church, has an enrollment of 76 for the first week. Classes are held each morning from 9 o'clock until 11 in the three departments, the beginners, primaries and juniors.

Mrs. F. L. Drago is the director for the study and had 14 full time workers to conduct the classes. Periods of worship, recreation, study, craftsmanship and Bible study make up the class periods, which open with song services.

STORY HOUR AT BAPTIST CHURCH BEGINS TODAY

A story telling hour, from 4 until 5 o'clock, will be held this afternoon at the First Baptist Church for all children from 4 to 12, of Eastland who wish to attend. The hour will be held each Friday afternoon during the remainder of the summer on the lawn east of the church.

Mrs. R. A. Lerner is general chairman with the assistance of Mrs. Earl O'Brien and Mrs. Jones Weathers.

Mrs. Victor Ginn and Miss Marjorie Murphy will have charge of the music and Miss Lila Ann Love, Elaine Atom, Beulah Faye White, Lois Lerner will have charge of the story telling period. Helen Lucas, Lila Ann Love, Mary Ruth Gillum, Gertrude Smith, Nelda Bishop, Marjorie Murphy will have charge of the games, and Billy Gustafson will conduct the object lessons.

All children living in the Hillcrest district, who wish to attend these periods, meet at the R. A. Lerner home and the Eastland High School Club will furnish transportation to the church. Children living in the north part of Eastland meet at Mrs. Frank Lovett's and transportation will be furnished. Children in the south part of town meet at South Ward school. All are asked to meet at these places a short while before 4 o'clock.

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Parrish announce the birth of a six and three-fourths pound baby boy born Wednesday morning, July 9, in the Ranger hospital. The baby and its mother are doing nicely, it was reported.

Just a Bit Personal . . .

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Teatsorth had as their guest this week Judge and Mrs. J. B. Banks and son Gilbert, of Weatherford. Judge Banks is the county judge of Parker County.

Terrell Coleman of Palestine visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coleman, over the past week-end. Other guests in the Coleman home during the Fourth of July holidays were Mrs. J. C. Creamer and two daughters, Virginia Ann and Jackie Coy, of Waco; Miss Maxine Coleman, who is taking practice teaching in N. T. S. T. C. this summer, and Miss Billie Jean Hayes of Dallas and Taylor Jackson of Denton. Miss Coleman, Miss Hayes and Mr. Jackson left Friday for Stamford for a house party for N. T. S. T. C. students.

Jean Kay Stover is visiting in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wolf and Leo Wolf have returned from a vacation trip in California. Mrs. Wolf has been visiting there for several months.

SERIAL STORY

ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE

BY DONNA ASHWORTH

YESTERDAY: When Ann asks Ken to take her to hear Jim Coon's orchestra, Ken refuses, saying Coon would publicly recognize her as a dancer and that the incident would be humiliating. Ann hears rumors about Ken being seen frequently with Janet, but she refuses to believe them. One day, when she sees Jim Coon walking down the street toward Ken, she decides frantically to avoid him.

JERRY HELPS OUT

CHAPTER XI

ANN turned into the first door. The Kit Kat Tea Room. She gasped as she looked at the mellow lighted interior and hurried toward a booth.

"Like old times, isn't it, Janet, having afternoon cocktails here together."

Ken's voice.

A wry little smile twisted itself about Ann's mouth, and she swallowed a lump in her throat. Sally had been right. Ken was with Janet. Had he been coming every day? Had he been dining with her every night, when he told Ann he was working?

"Where are we going to dinner tonight, Janet? Coon's orchestra is playing at the Strathmore. We could dance together to the grandest music in the world. We used to have grand times together at the Strathmore."

"Before you became engaged to Little, ladylike Ann. Don't forget, Ken, you are engaged."

"But not married, Janet, and there's many a slip—We can still dance together and dine together and no one can stop us."

Other words came to Ann, but they did not register on her stunned brain. She watched them leave the room so interested in each other they did not notice her.

"He's double-crossing you, telling you he has to work at night when he's dining and driving with Janet."

That was what Sally had said. Sally had been right. A thousand things were leaping up to taunt her—Ken's scorn of her dancing, her wanting her to pretend to be something she wasn't, his arrogance, and now his unfaithfulness.

But suddenly she knew that it did not matter, because all at once, for no reason that she could understand, she did not care. She no longer wanted to be the lady the sedate person he wanted her to be. She no longer wanted to be the background of aristocracy which meant so much to him, and now his unfaithfulness.

She had called Jerry crude, but she knew that real, rough quality in him was what she loved. There was no veneer about Jerry. He was just what he was and she loved him.

JERRY. She thought of him breathlessly, skimming the floor.

She wanted to dance with him again to Jim Coon's orchestra. He had told her that when she called him he would come no matter when. She'd find out from Jim Coon if he was still in New York. She couldn't get to the telephone fast enough.

At last . . . "Jerry." Her voice was high and shrill as she flung the words over the telephone to him. "Jerry, this is Lita. The veneer has cracked just as you said it would. Jim Coon's in town. He told me where to find you. And I want you to come to me tonight to dance with me."

"You've got to come. Get a plane. If I ever meant anything to you, you've got to come now . . ."

"You can't! But, Jerry . . ."

"Oh! You've got your call! You're ordered to report to camp tomorrow! But, Jerry, you must . . . I . . . I need you!"

It was a rainy, misty June night as Ann sped over the highway to the airport. She had scarcely parked the car when a plane was zooming overhead in the darkness. Then it was bumping over the ground and had stopped.

She ran forward, holding out welcoming hands to Jerry. She could scarcely wait for him to take her in his arms, to feel the warm, hungry pressure of his lips against hers. But he wasn't gathering her close.

Stunned, she realized that he was holding her hands in the same impersonal way that he would hold the hands of any girl he liked—that he wasn't going to kiss her at all. She no longer meant anything. The realization was like a lash cutting her.

The tears spilled over and trickled down her cheeks. She fumbled for her handkerchief.

"Why, Lita . . . what's the matter?" He was looking over at her in the dim light.

"Nothing." She swallowed a sob. "I guess I was just homesick to see you. It's silly of me to cry, isn't it? But it's just nerves. I've had a quarrel with Ken, only I haven't really. I'll explain. Anyway the effect is the same as far as the tears are concerned."

She heard him giving the pilot instructions. He would be flying back about midnight.

Midnight. The word was like a dart of pain through her heart. "But you can't—so soon." She exclaimed sharply.

"I must. I've orders to report to camp tomorrow."

"Oh . . . I forgot."

IN the car beside him, speeding back toward town, she told him about Ken. "And so," she finished mockingly, "they're going to the Strathmore tonight, to dance for old times' sake, and I know I had to go, too, and dance for old times' sake. Jerry, you don't think I'm crazy, do you?"

"No." Jerry smiled a little. He seemed older, strange. "You're acting just as I would expect you to—outraged pride and all that, and it's fortunate that I could come along and help you put your show over."

"I don't suppose that Ken and Janet care any more about each other than you and I do. There's always a time, you know, when you think you're crazy about someone, but you recover eventually."

"I don't think I realized until afterward that it was for the best—our calling it quits. You never do at the time, and our little show tonight will probably make Ken realize."

"But I don't want him to realize. She wanted to about the words at him, but she didn't. "I don't care what he thinks. It's you I really care about and our marriage wasn't a mistake." She held the wheel until she felt as if she must twist it off, staring ahead at the dark, misty night, thankful that he couldn't see her face.

Jerry didn't care. He was talking as impersonally as if she were someone he barely knew. He had gotten over caring about her. She wanted to cry, but she mustn't.

She'd have to go on pretending now. She couldn't humiliate herself before Jerry and let him know how much he meant to her when she meant nothing to him.

"I didn't know love could hurt you like this, Jerry." She spoke shakily. "I thought love made you gay and happy. He must think she cared about Ken. What a fool she had been to throw over someone as worthwhile as Jerry for someone as shallow as Ken."

"It does, darling." His voice was carelessly gay in the darkness. "Love has dancing feet, and it does make you gay and happy, and it is only when we're mistaken that it makes you sad."

"After all you aren't really mistaken in Ken, perhaps. But don't talk about it. Think only about tonight . . . and us, dancing together. You know you'll have to put on an act . . . laugh and as if you're enjoying yourself, Ken will know how jealous we really are."

Eastland Girls Take Game From Ft. Worth Team

In a game at Fireman's Park Saturday night, the Eastland Girl soft ball team won from Sleep-Ezy Mattress Co., team of Fort Worth by a score of 8 to 4. While not yet in their best stride, the home girls showed a marked improvement over their last time out and gave the fans reason to hope that they will soon be clicking in the manner to which they have been accustomed in the past.

Della Lee Maynard (Curtis to most of you) pitched a 4 hit game and struck out seven batters while issuing but 1 pass. The home guns boomed to the tune of 10 hits including doubles by Wanda Looney and Helen Rosenquest. The Fort Worth team had taken a game from our girls just a week previous so the victory was especially sweet and also reassuring.

The Sweetwater girls were to play here tomorrow (Tuesday) night but they wired this morning that owing to illness of some members of the team, it would be impossible for them to be here.

Thursday night the team goes to Stephenville where they have another set-back to even up. If you are driving around that night, go down and help them out with your support.

Battery sets account for about a quarter of current production of radios, says the Department of Commerce.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain thousands of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When these tubes don't work right in the body, some people have to get up at night. For many patients with aching and aching, sometimes there is something wrong with their kidneys or bladder. Don't let this condition keep you from sleeping. When disorder of kidney function, poisonous matter to remain in your blood may also cause nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, puffiness under the eyes, head and dizziness.
