NELSON MADE HEAD OF BIG WAR PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16. — President Roosevelt, in an executive order, today formally set up the new War Production Board, and outlined sweeping powers being granted to its chairman, Donald M. Nelson.

The order directed Nelson to "exercise general direction over the war procurement and production program" and to "supervise" the Office of Production Management.

President Roosevelt thus gave Nelson and the new board over all authority to guide the huge war production program.

Nelson's duties are specifically detailed in the order signed by the president, although he was not mentioned in the detailed order by name.

Directorate For WTCC Is Changed

ABILENE. — Nine changes in the directorate of the West Texas chamber of commerce, with net gain of two, were announced by the regional chamber's election committee as 1942 opened.

The two additions were in the WTCC's southeastern district 10, where Albert L. Clifton of Waco presides as district director. At Gatesville, J. A. Painter was certified as director for 1942, while Harry T. Pinson joins the board as Hico's representative. Other new directors are Cameron Benn, at Wellington; Morris Higley, Childress; A. J. Mayfield, Dalhart; J. F. Tolar, Idalou; Fred Robb, Lorenzo; A. M. Jackson, Slaton; and J. Dan Goodgame, Stephenville, home town of WTCC's president, J. Thos. Davis, who is also a director. The regional organization opened the new year with 195 directors in 166 towns.

Heading the elections committee is Glenn R. Mabry, Plainview, dealer in automobile products. Vice-chairman is Tom Garrard, lawyer and stockman of Tahoka. Serving with them are H. C. Custard, Cleburne; C. P. Hodson, Decatur; and H. A. Walker, Sweetwater.

Fourth Charged With Murder In Frome Killings

EL PASO, Jan. 16.—A fourth person has been charged with the murder of Mrs. Watson G. Frome and her daughter Nancy, it was revealed here today by officers.

Judge Birch Carlson disclosed that Mrs. Naomi Reeves, a farm wife arrested last Sunday near Mexia, is the latest suspect to be accused in the murder case.

Mrs. Weston G. Frome of Berkeley, Cal., and her 22-year-old daughter, Nancy, were tortured and then slain on the desert near Van Horn, Texas on March 30, 1938. At the time they were enroute from California to South Carolina.

Loans For 1942 Crops Available

Loans for the production of 1942 crops are now available to farmers in Eastland County, and applications for these loans are being received in Eastland by Mrs. Mae Harrison, according to Murray Nolte, Field Supervisor for the Emergency Crop Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

A recent announcement by W. E. Farwell, Regional Manager of the Dallas Emergency Crop Loan Office, which administers these loans, states that the loans are being made available somewhat earlier this season to meet the emergency caused by short crops in certain areas and to permit early preparation of the land.

These loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain loans from any other source. As in former years, the money loaned will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in preparing the land, and planting and cultivating his 1942 crops. Borrowers are required to give as security a first lien on the crops financed.

Commonly known as "seed loans," these loans have been made in this county for the past ten years and the Emergency Crop Loan Office at Dallas appreciates the fine attitude of the farmers here toward their obligations. Mr. Farwell's announcement states:

This Agency is lending full cooperation to the Government's vital Food for Defense Program by financing the planting and production of marketable food crops, including vegetables, peanuts, citrus fruits and melons.

The Dallas agency has also cooperated during the fall in a campaign fostered by the Extension Service to cut cotton stalks early in an effort to control boll weevils. All borrowers have been urged to cooperate in this for their own benefit and the welfare of their communities. According to the statement announcing the opening of the loan program, farmers who apply for a 1942 crop loan will be asked about their progress in cleaning up their fields.

Aged Resident Of Scranton Is Dead

Mrs. J. D. Stell, 90, a native of Tennessee but for the past 36 years a resident of Scranton in this county, died at her home last Wednesday. Funeral and burial took place at Scranton Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

One Week's Crude Output Is Equal To First 11 Years

Crude oil production in the United States in one week of November 1941 exceeded the entire production of petroleum in the first 11 years of the American petroleum industry, from 1859 through 1869.

The average daily rate of production during that November week was 4,336,850 barrels, the greatest daily average ever recorded. At that rate, the production record reached in the United States in the all-out effort in 1918, the first full year of World War I, could be exceeded now in 82 days.

The entire annual production of crude petroleum now under Japanese control in the Far East is equal only to about one day's production in the United States. In Europe, Germany and all the occupied countries have a total production of crude oil equivalent only to about 11 or 12 days' production at the United States November peak. These Japanese and German figures do not include the large output of synthetic and substitute fuels, but the record U. S. average was made with thousands of the most prolific wells producing substantially below their maximum.

Legislators Are Sounding Out The Campaign Pace

AUSTIN. — Numerous state legislators came to Austin this month to sound out the political situation before beginning their 1942 campaigns.

Most expressed belief that the war will divert attention from the Texas political races. State Rep. Lester Boone of Fort Worth predicted that 1,000,000 votes will be cast in the Democratic primaries next summer, compared with the 1,900,000 ballots in the first primary of 1940 when W. Lee O'Daniel was re-elected governor.

The visiting officials report that interest is picking up in local political races and, cited an axiom that "good business usually increases the number of candidates for office." Business is booming over most of Texas this year.

Speaker Homer Leonard of McAllen was among those who returned to Austin this month. Asked why so many legislators were in town — with no session of the legislature in sight before the 1943 regular meeting — Leonard said:

"They come back every January through habit, like the swallows fly back to Capistrano."

Regular sessions are convened in January each even-numbered year.

Tank Ship Built In 100 Days Sets Building Record

A world record for the construction of a petroleum tank ship — 100 calendar days from keel-laying to completion — was set early in January with commencement of acceptance trials of the 12,700-ton Sinclair H-C.

Construction of the tank ship prior to launching required only 63 working days, or 76 calendar days. Workmen at the Fore River shipyard had set a goal of 90 days from keel-laying to launching, to beat the previous record of 119 days, but they were able to speed up work to such an extent that they clipped 14 days off even this high goal. Completion and fitting out of a tank ship of this size after launching usually takes about two months, but that time also was cut tremendously to 24 days.

U. S. shipyards completed about 30 tank ships during 1941, almost all for oil companies without government financing, and are building and have on order for 1942 and 1943 delivery about 200 more, for oil companies and the Maritime Commission.

Country Club To Elect Officers At Meeting Jan. 22nd

Because so few of the members were present at the meeting of the Ranger Country Club, held Thursday night, election of officers was postponed until the night of Thursday, Jan. 22.

A round table discussion was held on the prospects for the coming year, and the consensus of opinion of the members present was that 1942 would be a good year, possibly surpassing that of 1941.

Reasons given were that people would be doing less traveling, because of the rubber shortage, and daylight saving would give all more time in which to participate in outdoor sports, with golf coming in for its share of the recreation time.

Because so many people are expected to have to give up other things that have occupied their time, it was pointed out, more time likely will be given to golf.

Tire Rationing Has Effect On Travel And Road Funds

AUSTIN. — Tire rationing is giving Texas state officials more to think about than how to keep state cars operating under the tire shortage.

More serious problem to the state is an expected drop in highway funds and other revenue.

A decrease in use of automobiles already has become apparent as owners conserve their tire mileage. The less the cars are run, the less gasoline is bought to operate them, and the less money the state receives as motor fuel tax.

Approximately $25,000,000 a year for highway purposes is raised normally by the gasoline tax. The legislature placed a sales tax on automobiles. Income from that source, estimated to run about $1,000,000 a year, is out off temporarily by the new car freezing order.

Tire thefts are reported to have increased greatly since the tire restrictions were put into effect. State and local police are redoubled efforts to prevent these thefts and in many places automobile owners are being warned not to leave their cars outside overnight.

Hall Walker Is Again Named On State NYA Board

AUSTIN.—Aubrey Williams of Washington, D. C., national NYA administrator, today notified J. C. Kellam, state administrator, of the appointment of eighteen Texans to make up the membership of the State NYA Advisory Board for the coming year.

Weinert of Seguin; Miss Nita Hinds of Texas State College for Women, Denton; D. H. Perry of Robstown; Joseph S. Myers of Houston; C. E. Doyle of Beaumont; and Carl White of Port Arthur.

Four additional members were appointed to the Board and include the Reverend Patrick Duffy of Austin; Dr. A. C. Scott Jr. of Temple; and two youth members, Harry M. MAKES TOTAL OF SIX SUNK IN TWO DAYS

At Present Rate Effect Upon Japanese Land Power Is Bound to Be Felt.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — The United States Navy today ran its bag of Japanese warships, transports and supply ships up to 24 with the sinking of five more vessels in the Far East, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men fought off a fierce assault of special Japanese shock troops, attack planes and dive bombers.

The new sinkings were achieved by "Units of the United States Asiatic Fleet," the Navy Department communique reported, indicating that surface warships as well as submarines may have participated in the attack upon Japan's tenuous sea lines, which are vital to her operation of campaigns over 1,000 miles of ocean water.

The bulk of the previous Navy sinkings have been achieved by submarines, naval aircraft and the gallant Marine defenders of Wake Island.

The latest toll on Japanese sea power included two large cargo ships, presumably 6,000 tons or larger, two large transports, probably about the same size and one medium sized transport.

If the Navy is able to continue the rate of sinkings and the Dutch and British forces maintain equally heavy attacks upon Japanese sea forces, the punch of Japanese attacks on Singapore, the Dutch East Indies and Gen. MacArthur's men on Luzon will be weakened considerably.

The Navy sinking indicate that despite the concentration of Japanese naval power in the Southwest Pacific and the constant operation of fleets of Japanese bombers and observation craft there, Admiral Thomas C. Hart's far smaller United Nation's fleet still is able to challenge Japanese control of the ocean.

In the last two days alone the United States Naval Forces have sunk six Japanese ships, including the crack 17,000-ton liner of the Yawata class, making a total tonnage for the two days probably close to 50,000 tons. The effect of the sinkings has not yet been noted in Japanese land operations, however.

An army communique today reported that Gen. MacArthur's men are undergoing "incessant" attack by Japanese land and air forces in the Bataan Province.

Governor Should Be Notified of Any Blackout Plans

AUSTIN.—Mayors of Texas cities desiring to hold practice blackouts will contact the Governor, in his capacity as chairman of the National Defense Committee for Texas and director of civilian defense. The Governor will immediately transmit these requests to the Regional Office of Civilian Defense and that agency will notify the Third Interceptor Command of the Army Air Force.

This plan was outlined in a bulletin to all County Judges and Mayors, issued today by the Governor's Office, following consultation with the Regional Office of Civilian Defense.

The Civilian Defense Office transmitted to the Governor instructions from the Eighth Corps Area, U. S. Army, regarding air raid precautions measures and called attention to the provision that plans for practice blackouts would be submitted to the Third Interceptor Command through the Regional Office of Civilian Defense.

It was agreed that, in conformity with usual procedure, the contact between the local officials and the Civilian Defense Office would be through the Governor.

Yes, Hitler, Danzig Was the World!

The voice of Hitler was querulous, petulant, as he cried out "Was Danzig the world?"

He was trying to intimate that had the Poles yielded on the Danzig question, and the British and French repudiated their pledged word to support the Poles if invaded, all this would not have happened. Plainly, the conqueror of France, Norway, Belgium, Holland, Greece and Yugoslavia intimates that he would have been satisfied with Danzig, and lift the rest of the world in peace.

Danzig? So long ago it seems, that night of Aug. 31, 1939, when the peace of the world trembled in a balance hanging over the Polish Corridor. Hitler wanted changes in the Polish Corridor arrangements. The world, fearful of war, was inclined to agree to them. Poland appeared willing to compromise if approached without threats. But Hitler had worked himself into one of those maniacal rages in which there was no longer any place for negotiations. The Poles must yield completely—or else.

Let us never forget that one crucial point. This war is an effort to wipe from the world's face the "or else" kind of relationship between nations. Because Hitler could not wait; because, intoxicated by the might of his waiting legions, he had to attack Poland rather than wait to see what reason could accomplish, the war came.

"Die for Danzig?" the cynical French left was asking. No, not for Danzig. Danzig was only a symbol. There were many men willing to die for something bigger than Danzig. They have died and are dying to create a world in which "or else politics" will no longer dominate the world's peoples.

"Was Danzig the world?" comes Hitler's petulant voice one again. Yes, Hitler, Danzig WAS the world, in a sense. Danzig, a small city in itself, stood for the pledged word, for decent sanity in negotiations between peoples, for the eternal question of whether Strength or Right shall prevail.

First the British and French only stood on the side of reason and the pledged word. Then France fell, and Britain stood alone. But the taste of the morsel Danzig got under the Hitler tongue, and one by one other conquests followed it—and each time the world became more and more concerned. Allies began to range themselves on the side of the things of which Danzig was only a symbol.

Today 26 countries stand pledged to the ending of what Hitler began at Danzig. Those 26 are not the world, but they are a good representative slice of it, and there will be others to join before they are through.

Danzig did not seem like the world, in the days when Hitler's military machine was rolling over Poland. But it is beginning to look more like the world every day.

The whole world is realizing increasingly every day that Danzig-ism, "or else politics," must go.

Other characters are Lorea Oliver, Weliver U. prof digging for Indian relics; Dolf, Mom's pet skunk; Old Swoby, slovene refugee; "Doc" Oliver, harboring football star Angel Todd, who is making strong play for Juddy, dislikes "Doc" whose course he is flanking. Mom and Juddy consult lawyer Maurie Sears about building tourist camp at Tambay. He tells them Sheriff Hollister Mowry, distant "left-handed" cousin of the Mauries, believes in Tambay gold legend. Mom wonders if Juddy is falling for Angel, observes both "Doc" and Sears also interested in her.

GOLDBUGS FROM BROADWAY

CHAPTER IX

EVERYTHING went cockeyed, that misty Saturday. First, Dolf got loose and scared half a bus-load of convention-bound schoolmarm off the premises. Floozy goes fifteen lunches, good for forty cents average, making six dollars the establishment couldn't afford to lose. When I told Dolf where he got off, he turned sulky on me and crawled into a bush, and wouldn't come out until Old Swoby showed up and took him fishing.

Along about five o'clock a load of Florida grapefruit rolled in and Marty Spurgeon, an Ohio boy that I hadn't seen since 1938, climbed down.

"Marty," I said, "you're sick." "So what?" he said. "This car-go has to be in Raleigh tonight."

"That's as may be," I said. "Stick out your tongue." He hid. It looked like a second-hand mink tiptop. I dug out my clinical thermometer and pushed it into his face.

"One hundred and four," I said, adding half a degree to impress him.

"O. K., Mom," he said. "Trot out the old medicine chest." "Marty," I said. "It's the hospital."

Well, he started to beef, and then he started to cough and in a minute he had both hands to his chest, and his eyes got scared. The chills had struck him. It was pneumonia, all right. They fall for it heavy, these 24-hour drivers. So I boosted him in and wrapped him up and delivered him at Leverton Hospital.

"Who's going to guarantee his bill?" the little punk at the desk wanted to know.

"I am," I said, and I stuck a fistful of bills under his nose, and the fist. "Satisfactory?"

WELL, I'd done my good deed for the day, and what did I get for it? Trouble. Because if I'd been on the job, maybe I could have headed off that mixed party of four. They came in a five-thousand-dollar limousine dragging the flossiest kind of trailer, a regular plush-rt, and made themselves at home. I didn't like the kind of sounds coming from the outfit. Before looking into it, I made the rounds. Dolf was back in his box, smelling of fish as usual after a spell with his pal, Old Swoby. Doc was inside the stockade checking up on his day's take. Juddy was in the Feederia talking with Maurie Sears, who had developed a Tambay habit.

A swell-dressed bird was looking under the hood of the high-priced car. He turned around and looked me up and down, and said in a voice to match his dead pan:

"Got anything fit to eat?" A blonde floozy with marcelled hair stuck her head out of the trailer.

"Hey, Bernie! Ask that fat, gray witch can't we get some service here," she said.

"Look," I said. "I'm running this ranch. You aren't our line of trade."

"Yeah? I'll take a look after dinner. If we like it we stay. Then he handed me a fishy stare. "You wouldn't want to start anything in the line of trouble, would you?"

Well, I wouldn't. Not with his kind. I've seen plenty shooting in my day. And I knew this lad was bad. If I'd had a bunch of my truckies there to back me, now, I might have felt different.

Bernie and his flat-faced friend Fick strolled over to where Doc was standing outside his stockade. Bernie said: "We're a couple young mining men from Broadway and 42nd Street. Ever hear of Broadway, fella?"

Doc pointed to his 'keep out' sign. "You'll be wasting your time," he said.

One of the broads in the trailer began to yell for Bernie. Back of her, the other frilla was using language like it don't do a camp a bit of good.

Juddy came out of the Feederia with Maurie Sears after her. "What awful people, Mom!" she said. "You're not going to let them stay, are you?"

Maurie Sears said quietly: "May I handle this for you, Mrs. Baumer?"

"What would you do?" I asked him.

"Haven't you a pistol on the place?" he asked.

"I have, but you don't get it. Why? It's a cinch that those two gorillas have got an automatic apiece, and likely or not a tommy-gun stowed away in the trailer. They'd dot you up like a sieve before you got near 'em." Doc came out of his stockade and joined us.

"Can I be of help?" he said. "Another Christian martyr," I said. "Do you want to qualify for an epitaph?"

I sent Nollie to crack up some ice and put it in a pitcher. I carried it over to the push cart, myself. The two rats got sociable, after a couple of drinks. As soon as I could break away I came back to my gang.

"Just what I hoped," I said. "The youngest frilla is country bred. That's liable to help."

I GOT Dolf out of his box and gave him a little soothing talk. Bernie met me at the door. He took a gander at Dolf, snuggling quiet and peaceful in my arms.

"What's that?" he said. "A friend of mine," I said and I set him carefully down on the floor, hoping that he wasn't going to get hurt. His gal let out an awful screech.

"It's a skunk!" "Nuts!" Bernie said and made a back-reach. The doll's shriek near tore a hole in the roof. Well, the bullet struck the floor close enough to jar Dolf. He was used to polite company; all the fuss and yelling didn't go so good with him.

Did he knock that bunch for a row of shambles? It was worse than a fire panic. They got stuck in the door, all yowling and clawing like a tangle of cats.

Bernie was waving his gat around like crazy, until Doc took it away from him and tossed it over the palings. Then Doc held his nose with his left hand and took the gangster's arm with his right, led him out to the road and advised him to keep going. The ape had fallen over the bank, which was all right, and was swimming across the stream.

We towed the trailer half a mile downwind and left it in a clearing. The camp wasn't too pleasant that night, on account of the breeze being wrong.

"What shall I do with the gun?" Doc asked me.

"Keep it," I said. "A tourist camp is no Sunday school. It might come in handy. I'll give you some lessons." He nodded and put it in his pocket.

We saw no more of the couple young mining men from Broadway, but we heard plenty about that night's work. It was a swell ad for the Feederia and it made Dolf the best known character in the county.

Drive for Scrap Iron Is Urged

Associated Press News Story WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—A group of responsible Government officials Wednesday saw the Nation's huge war program threatened in 1942 by a possible shortage of from four to six million tons of scrap steel—the very metal which Japan bought up so avidly here in the prewar years.

Accordingly they urged an immediate rummage of the Nation's vacant lots, backyards and cellars for all available scrap. In a special memorandum for circulation among administration leaders, these officials asserted that unless scrap collection were stimulated the 1942 production of steel—so urgently needed for munitions—would be smaller than 1941's.

The supply of scrap steel—as essential to the industry if last year's production is to be surpassed—was said to be so low that at New Year's only one month's supply was on hand.

Collection of scrap, both from industry and householders, was advocated on a scale so large as to build up stockpiles of scrap for use not only in 1942 but also next year. Other recommendations were for increases in pig iron-producing facilities, since pig iron is another major necessity in steel making, and also for increased capacity of the industry. Supplies of iron ore, however, were regarded as adequate.

Record Taxes Are Paid By Motorists For The Past Year

WASHINGTON—Tax payments in connection with motor-vehicle ownership and operation jumped approximately one quarter of a billion dollars during 1941 to reach an estimated aggregate of $2,474,000,000, according to the National Highway Users Conference.

Principal factors in the rise of motor-vehicle ownership and operation taxes above the 1940 total of $2,130,147,000 are more mileage per vehicle, increased registrations and higher federal excise taxes.

The greatest single source of revenue from motor-vehicle taxation is the gasoline tax which yielded $1,290,000,000 from state and federal levies.

County and municipal fuel taxes, local registration fees, etc.

Rats and Possums Had Joint Use Of Henhouse Tunnel

SAN ANTONIO.—Not accustomed to use of profanity without proper stimulus, Dr. Fred A. Mitchell, a dentist, exclaimed "Oh, rats!" when he rammed his foot through apparently solid earth the other day in his henhouse.

The more correct exclamation would have been "possums." The score, you see, proved to be three possums to two rats.

The dentist lives just outside the city and raises chickens. He went to the henhouse for eggs and when he put his foot forward in one section of the structure he amounted to $40,000,000. Taxes for general governmental purposes include $330,000,000 in federal motor fuel taxes; $214,000,000 in federal automotive excise taxes; $105,000,000 in state sales taxes on automotive products; $55,000,000 in personal property taxes on motor vehicles; $160,000,000 in real property taxes on garages, terminals, etc., and $27,000,000 in general corporation taxes on bus and truck companies, etc.

The Conference stated that these figures do not include such general business taxes as income, unemployment and social security paid in connection with ownership and operation of motor vehicles. Neither do they include taxes paid in connection with the manufacture of motor vehicles and tires nor petroleum production and refining.

In addition to taxes paid in connection with ownership and operation of motor vehicles, the Conference points out that highway users as members of the general public are subject to other taxes such as property taxes, income taxes, retail sales taxes, etc. The Conference 1941 tax compilations are based on available official reports, utilizing estimates for the latter part of the year.

ground gave way, revealing a tunnel. Out popped a rat, then another. Dr. Mitchell saw something gray still in the cavity. He probed.

Out popped—not a rat—an opossum. The dentist stunned it with a stick. Another opossum was extracted from the hole and rapped on the head, and finally a third. Contemplating 'possum meat and baked yams, the good doctor then filled the cavity and collected the hens eggs.

Stamp Rarities In France Bring Big Sums For Collectors

VICHY (UP) — Stamp collectors are paying astronomical prices for two sets of philatelic wartime rarities—French stamps surcharged by the German army when it occupied Dunkirk and British stamps obliterated by French post-offices on Channel island mail which was sent clandestinely to the French mainland at Montmartin sur Mer, near Cherbourg, Aug. 12, 1940.

A pair of red and blue current French stamps, bearing the surcharge by hand stamp of the German occupation forces, sold at Dunkirk any time in June, 1940, for 50 centimes each, at the post-office, now are quoted at 2,500 francs. If they are on letters, their value is from 2,800 to 4,000 francs depending upon whether the surcharge is vertical or horizontal. Blocks of four with dated corners are being sold for 14,000 francs.

When the German forces moved into Alsace and Lorraine, they surcharged stamps which they found in the postoffices, but, by strange contrast, those stamps are worth only four times their face value, instead of 5,000 times the face value, as in the case of the Dunkirk surcharge.

The French surcharge of a British postage stamp is such a freak that collectors expect its prices to skyrocket. On Aug. 12, 1940, German troops came from the French mainland at Jersey. Mail in the pillar boxes had just been collected, and was gathered at the wharf postoffice at Saint Helier.

In the confusion which followed the Germans' landing and their occupation of the island, a postal employe kept calm and ordered the mailboat to slip out with all the accumulated mail and head for the nearest French port 30 miles away. In that way 1,500 letters and 200 parcels arrived the same day at Montmartin sur Mer. There were German troops there and they operated their own "feldpost," but the Jersey Island postmen took their mail to the French postoffice, where it was postmarked and forwarded. Many letters were destined for England, but since there were no mail connections with the British Isles, those letters were destroyed. A few were addressed to places in France and delivered. Of the 1,000 envelopes which passed through the French postoffice with British

Other wartime collectors' items are the emergency postmarks on French mail from the war zone. As the German armies advanced, the French postmasters retreated, taking with them as much of their material as they could carry—including the rubber stamps for postmarking. As a result, when the smaller postoffices were reopened, there were no rubber stamps and

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with burning and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Plywood Trainer Planes Scheduled At 6,000 Annually

NEW YORK (UP) — Trainer planes made entirely of plywood will be coming off the production lines at the rate of 400 to 500 per month early in 1942, Lawrence Ottinger, president of United it was necessary to obliterate postage by emergency means. Some obliterated by hand, others made emergency rubber stamps with children's toy printing sets, others carved oblitterating postmarks on wooden blocks. These emergency postmarks have been catalogued and are being bought and sold as collectors' items at swiftly rising prices.

The stamp market is booming in France, where there is a plente of ready cash which its holders try to invest. The stock market allows almost no room for speculative investments, but postage stamps have doubled and tripled in value in the past year. Like the Florida land boom, stamp prices are skyrocketing despite the warning of legitimate dealers that the expansion of prices is a dangerous bubble and that as soon as international mails are reestablished, stamp prices must descend to the world levels.

States Plywood Corporation, said today.

During 1941, Ottinger said, air-planes fully and satisfactorily tested, were produced with fuselage, wings and stabilizers made of plywood molded to shape under pressure.

Other plywood applications in aircraft, he pointed out, are for furniture, partitions, floor boards navigators' tables, map cases and wheel fairings. And still others are under development.

The plywood industry in 1941, according to Ottinger, produced fully 60 per cent for defense, against an estimate of less than 20 per cent war production for all industry. Among the defense uses of plywood which are permitted to be revealed are torpedo boats, mine sweepers, cargo vessels, army landing boats, defense housing, skis, pipe, chemical vats, pallets and ship containers.
