CASUALTIES IN AMERICAN RAID CALLED HEAVY

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A sudden surprise raid by American and Filipino troops—now fighting under Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright—has inflicted heavy casualties on Japanese concentrations near Zamboanga, principal city of the Philippine island of Mindanao.

A War Department communique told of "extremely heavy shelling" of American harbor defenses of Manila Bay by Japanese artillery located on the South shore of Manila Bay.

"Very little damage of military consequence was inflicted on our installations," the communique added regarding the shelling. "Our guns effectively returned the fire."

Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, U. S. Air Corps, has been formally appointed head of the air forces of Australia and the United States operating in Australia. The communique said the appointment was made by Australian Prime Minister John H. Curtin, "with the concurrence of our government."

Dispatches from Australia had indicated that Brett would be given command of all air forces operating in that area, under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Brett has been in the continent for several days, supervising aerial operations and development of ground installations.

The communique said that the Mindanao raid was accomplished with only "negligible" losses to "Wainwright's forces."

A report of this action was made since March 9, when the department reported "brisk skirmishes" in the vicinity of Digo, on Davao Gulf. Earlier communique had recited several Japanese attempts—apparently vain—to clear American and Filipino units from that island.

The size of the American force on Mindanao is not known. It has engaged in intermittent actions with the enemy around Zamboanga and other points on this island. The last reported ground action at Zamboanga was on March 7.

Today's communique was the first report of fighting in the Philippine area since Tuesday, when the enemy launched a sudden raid on our Bataan lines—a raid which was "easily repulsed."

The Tuesday raid apparently was an effort to feel out the strength of the American-Filipino lines under the leadership of Wainwright, who assumed command of the Philippine area when MacArthur went to Australia to become generalissimo of the Allied forces there.

Tire Thefts In South Texas To Be Investigated

HOUSTON, March 21.—Police and federal agents, investigating theft of more than 1,000 new tires, questioned more than a score of individuals today but names were withheld pending filing of charges in a widespread "black market" ring.

Lieut. Arch Spradley, head of the police auto theft bureau, said that the tires were stolen from a warehouse of a major rubber company here and were sold "all over Texas."

The officer said that charges will be filed in federal court at Dallas and indicated that several prominent Texas business men would be named. He said an official of the company whose warehouse was looted was enroute to Houston by airplane.

"We have recovered more than 100 casings and have hope of finding at least that many more," said Spradley. "We are pretty sure that more than 1,000 new casings were stolen from the warehouse and the number may run more than double that."

Police detectives R. R. Taylor and R. H. Johnson made the first investigation of reports that new tires were being bootlegged here and Spradley then called for the assistance of federal agents stationed in Dallas.

Spradley said the company was not involved, other than being the "innocent victim" of tire thieves. When evidence justified it, the officer said, search warrants were obtained from Justice of the Peace W. C. Ragan and the raiders found stolen tires hidden in residences in widely scattered sections of Houston.

The tires taken from the Houston warehouse were sent to other Texas cities and sold on "black markets" at high prices, usually more than double the retail price in effect before the federal government stopped sales, Spradley said.

One report to police said that the usual "black market" price on a 600x16 tire, the size for the average light car, was $25 for a tire and $5 for an inner tube, compared with normal prices of about $10 and $2.

Texas Projects For War Materials Ahead Of Schedule

BEAUMONT, Tex., March 21.—(UP). A. S. McBride of Houston, president of the Texas Federation of Labor, said today that all war projects in Texas were being completed ahead of schedule and he condemned anti-strike legislation proposed in congress.

McBride asserted that Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, D., Tex., was creating disunity and attempting to disrupt the morale of laborers "who are producing ahead of schedule," in seeking suspension of the 40-hour work week.

He spoke at a mass meeting here last night and cited the record of organized labor in Texas.

"In Orange, ships are being launched six months ahead of schedule—the work of organized labor," McBride said.

"In Freeport, two units for the Dow Chemical Company were completed far ahead of schedule," McBride said, adding that every other war project in the State had a similar record.

Mrs. MacArthur and Son Praised By Gen. Casey For Heroism In Face Of Trial of Running Jap Blockade

By DON CASWELL
UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, March 21.—An American officer who accompanied him today told how Gen. Douglas MacArthur broke through the Japanese blockade of the Philippines by speedboat and airplane to reach Australia.

It was one of the most stirring adventures of the war. MacArthur with his party of 20, including his wife and their four-year old son, shot past a Japanese destroyer in their four PT-type mosquito boats to reach a secret rendezvous with the planes that brought them to Australia.

They not only eluded the Japanese fleet and the Japanese air force which rules the skies over the South Seas but made landings in their relays through the Philippines at points held by MacArthur's own men. It was made plain that the Philippines even outside Bataan have not been conquered.

Brig. Gen. J. H. Casey, chief of United States Army Engineers in the Philippines, who made the trip with MacArthur, told the story.

In their 70-foot speed boats, the 21 veterans of the Bataan campaign, officers and men and MacArthur's wife and boy, planned to make all their stops by day and travel by night until they reached the rendezvous where the American Flying Fortress planes were to pick them up.

On the first night one of the motorboats was disabled. It took 40 minutes to get it running again and the time schedule for the break-through had been worked out almost to the second.

The result was that the party, trying to make up for the lost time, took the risk of traveling part of the way by daylight in Japanese controlled seas and under Japanese controlled skies.

During this part of the journey MacArthur and his party were rocking along at 60 miles an hour or better, the motors of their craft roaring wide open.

"We planned to spend the first daylight period at a hideaway in Mindanao Island south of Luzon," Gen. Casey explained, "but the mishap to one of the boats disrupted the schedule."

Then came the crisis moment of the entire voyage, when a Japanese destroyer was sighted. "It was just at dusk on the second night," Casey said.

"We sighted the destroyer on the horizon but we were small and low-lying and it did not see us."

"We halted until the destroyer had passed and then crossed in its wake."

"Near the end of the second night, just before dawn, we reached a secret island rendezvous."

Survivors Of U. S. Freighter Landed Safely

NORFOLK, Va., March 21 (UP)—Two crew members of a large American merchant ship apparently lost their lives when their vessel was torpedoed and sunk off the Atlantic coast early Wednesday morning, survivors from the ship said today.

Twenty-three survivors from the crew of 38 were landed here, while 13 others were taken to Morehead City, N. C.

The ship sunk after being struck by two torpedoes fired about 10 minutes apart, survivors said.

Harold Rew, an oiler from Weyanoke, La., bemoaned the fact that the torpedoing broke up a poker game in which he was winning. He didn't even have time to pick up the money.

William B. Reber, 2nd assistant engineer from New Orleans, said the crew abandoned ship between the time the two torpedoes struck. He said the lifeboat he was in drifted for five hours before being picked up. It contained the 26 survivors who were brought here.

He said flares were sent from his lifeboat immediately after it hit the water and "several ships passed by who saw us, but I understand this is navy regulations." A freighter picked them up after daylight, he added.

Names of the two missing were not available.

Texas Truck Crop Takes Bad Beating

AUSTIN, Tex., March 21 (UP)—Texas truck crops literally took a beating this month, the bureau of agricultural economics reported here today. High winds the week of March 7 reached all areas, the bureau reported. The night of March 8, winds subsided and temperatures dropped rapidly, reaching almost to freezing as far south as the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Damage to snap beans is expected to be mainly in the yield. Beets came through with little loss. Cucumbers and onions were retarded. Tomatoes were hurt in all parts of the State. Plants already out were damaged and delay was caused in areas where the plants had not yet been taken from cold frames.

The carrot season is closing but potatoes will be moving from the Rio Grande about April 1.

Red Star said rebelling partisans and guerrilla forces were aiding the major soviet push by killing German occupation forces.

ARRIVAL OF GEN. MacARTHUR IN AUSTRALIA SEEMS TO BE SIGNAL FOR STRIKING BACK AT JAPANESE IN PHILIPPINES.

JAP CRUISERS ARE BATTERED IN AIR RAID

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT
CANTERRA, Australia, March 21.—Allied heavy bombers, fighting off enemy pursuit planes, battered two Japanese heavy cruisers at Rabaul Harbor on New Britain Island, leaving one sinking, Prime Minister John Curtin said today.

A communique was said by Curtin to indicate that the "successful allied attack" on Friday seriously damaged one of the enemy cruisers and probably sank another. American planes reportedly led the attack.

This presumably raised to three the total of Japanese cruisers sunk or damaged in the Rabaul sector this week. U. S. Flying Fortresses set a 10,000-ton cruiser afire there on March 18 and later reconnaissance showed it had vanished and presumably was sunk. It was pointed out, however, that each cruiser could not be definitely identified in the circumstances.

In any event, the toll of enemy ships sunk or damaged in the islands north of Australia was raised to 25 or 26, including at least 14 warships.

Allied and Japanese air forces were slugging it out for air superiority over the approaches to Australia.

Japanese planes again raided Port Moresby on the South Coast of New Guinea, but were "driven off by allied anti-aircraft fire."

The Melbourne radio indicated a third enemy cruiser had been hit but this was not confirmed and may have been due to confusion.

The Japanese also were striking hard in the battle for air control over the approaches to Australia. Japanese planes attacked Broome and Derby, on the northwest coast, dropping 50 bombs at Broome, where one person was killed, but failing in their raid on Derby.

On New Guinea Island, indirect Axis reports said the Japanese were extending their land invasion and one German broadcast claimed they had crossed the 110-mile wide island arm to the Gulf of Papua on the south coast, west of Port Moresby.

If this Axis report is confirmed—it had not yet been even indicated in dispatches from Australia—it might mean an early land and sea attack on Port Moresby, which the Japanese want to use for an invasion base against the north Australian coast.

In this connection, Axis broadcasts again reported Japanese naval operations allegedly directed toward the Australian coast and toward the Solomon and Fiji Islands which dominate the supply line from America to Australia.

The Vichy radio claimed that Japanese warships were "within one day" of the west Australian coast, while Rome said that Japanese fleet operations were in progress 120 miles off San Cristobal, in the Solomons. Neither report was confirmed.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Port Moresby said that headhunters and cannibals in northern New Guinea had started a fierce new tribal war as a result of withdrawal of Australian authorities due to the Japanese invasion. The fighting was reported in Sepik river area, about 275 miles west of the Japanese landing at Huon Gulf.

First of The 1942 Election Suits Is Filed In Austin

AUSTIN, Tex., March 21 (UP)—The Texas supreme court has received its first election suit of the 1942 campaign. It was set for hearing on April 8 a case involving changes made by the last Texas Legislature in the 30th State Judicial District.

The application for hearing was filed by Henry J. Anderson Jr., of Wichita County against S. A. Penix, Democratic party chairman in Young County.

Anderson said Penix had refused to accept his application for a place on the party ballot next July in the race for District Attorney of the 40th district. The petition cited a ruling of the attorney general holding that the new law has the effect of electing a man by voters in Young and Wichita Counties to serve as district attorney only in Wichita County.

Australia thundered a welcome to Gen. Douglas MacArthur today and Allied bombers echoed the cheers with attacks on Japanese warships and invasion bases.

As if to join in the celebration of MacArthur's arrival in Melbourne, American and Filipino troops under Gen. Jonathan Wainwright in the Philippines reported they had made a surprise attack on the Japanese troops on the island of Mindanao, inflicting "heavy casualties" near the naval base of Zamboanga. American guns at Manila bay also replied to "extremely heavy" Japanese artillery fire.

In a spreading battle on the northern approaches to Australia, Allied airplanes knocked out a second 10,000-ton Japanese cruiser at Rabaul on New Britain Island and battered the enemy-held base at Saumlaki on Yamen-da Island, in the timor group, 225 miles north of the "down under" continent.

With U. S. flying fortresses again taking the lead, the Allied bombers fought off repeated enemy pursuit plane attacks and smashed at the cruiser until she burst into flames and was seen coming down.

Previously, a heavy Japanese cruiser attacked by flying fortresses had been reported vanished and presumably sunk, raising this week's toll of cruisers to two at Rabaul and boosting to 25 the toll of enemy ships sunk in the Island area.

The Melbourne radio indicated a third enemy cruiser had been hit but this was not confirmed and may have been due to confusion.

The Japanese also were striking hard in the battle for air control over the approaches to Australia. Japanese planes attacked Broome and Derby, on the northwest coast, dropping 50 bombs at Broome, where one person was killed, but failing in their raid on Derby.

Two Kinds of Courage

Chief stock in trade of most professional patriots, Fourth of July orators and rocking chair Nathan Hales is the word "courage." With tears in their eyes and sweat on their brows, they wear themselves into a frenzy extolling the fearlessness of American heroes.

It takes no artist to gild the heroes of American wars. We know they were heroes, endowed with the greatest courage, who made it possible for this country to survive. Most of us, at least in our hearts, thank God for them.

But there are other kinds of courage, just as important, just as laudable. Read this calm excerpt from a letter written by a mother to her son with the Army guarding the Panama Canal.

"All we can do is to be as courageous as we can, under whatever circumstances. Our main thought, to save our cause even though we ourselves die. We all die sooner or later. A soldier can give but little thought to his actual life. What really counts is how he acquires himself during the few moments, days, years he does live during conflict.

"And so, if and when you do engage yourself in conflict, do not waste a moment or thought in preserving your own life. Instead, see how much you can accomplish for your own cause, how calmly and courageously you may do your task, be that great or small."

Thus wrote an American mother to her soldier son. No general encouraging his men to make a last stand, no squadron leader before a bombing attack, no captain as the ship went down.

No mention of the sacrifice she is willing to make.

She will win no Distinguished Service Cross for writing it, yet it took as much spirit and fearlessness as any hero requires on the battlefield.

Such qualities bred into American fighting men supply that weapon without which tanks, guns and planes are useless—courage.

And the letter contains no squawk about the rubber shortage, sugar rationing and high taxes.

Happiness really isn't scarce—it just isn't used enough.

The Japs have large teeth, but it's possible for anyone to bite off more than they can chew.

Being an air raid warden has advantages. You can stay out late at night and it's a military secret.

It won't be long now till we'll be going to picnics to forget everything — including the salt and pepper.

State To Sell Many Tracts of School Land for Bids of $1.50 An Acre Up On Sealed Bids To Be Opened Apr. 8

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP). — If you want to own some land, buying it at your own price, get in touch with Bascom Giles, State Land Commissioner.

Giles is going to sell 230,000 acres on April 7. It will go to the persons making the highest offers in sealed bids. A minimum price of $2 an acre is set on most of the land. Some will not be sold at less than $10 an acre, but some has a minimum of $1.50 an acre. One tract in Oldham county of 80 acres will not be sold unless somebody offers at least $15 an acre for it.

To buy an 80-acre tract, or a larger one, the purchaser will have to pay one-fifth of the total price in cash. After that he will have 40 years to pay out the balance, making equal annual payments on Nov. 1 of each year. Interest on the deferred payments will be five per cent a year. All cash must be paid on plots of less than 80 acres.

The purchaser will get the surface rights and most of the oil, gas, sulphur or other minerals that may be found. The state will retain a one-sixteenth royalty on oil, gas and minerals other than sulphur. It will retain one-eighth on the sulphur.

Largest single tract to be sold is a parcel of 733 acres in Culberson county. It will not be sold for less than $1.50 an acre. If you want just a little bit of land there is a six-acre tract in Hale county that you can get for $3 an acre if somebody else doesn't offer more.

Most of the big tracts are sections. They should contain 640 acres each but in the days when they were surveyed a little land more or less made no difference, so some are smaller than 640 acres and some, like the 733 acre tract, run way over 640.

The land is what is known as "school land." Some of it has been sold before and has been forfeited back to the state because the purchaser failed to meet his annual payments. Most of the small tracts are this sort, or tracts that have been created when more recent surveys showed the area was not included in a former grant.

When Texas entered the United States, part of the agreement was that the land it owned as a republic should be retained. Parts of this land were set aside for a "university of the first class." Part was set aside for schools, and in come from it created a "permanent school fund." Interest on bonds in which the school fund is invested becomes part of an available school fund.

The bids are not opened until 10 o'clock the morning of April 8. Then the School Land Board, consisting of the governor, land commissioner and attorney general will have to accept the best bid for each tract or reject all bids on the particular tract.

The land has been classified as "mineral and grazing," as "mineral, grazing and timber." Two tracts in San Augustine are classified as "mineral, grazing and timber," and on these the timber rights will be retained by the state.

Plane Markings

These wing and tail markings of allied and axis planes will help you identify any that fly low enough for their insignals to be visible.

Wise; Zapata and Zavala. A few of the tracts are situated in two counties. Four are in Culberson and Reeves counties; two in Dallas and Hartley; one in Hays and Travis; one in Kinney and Uvalde, and one in Ward and Loving Counties.

BY HARRY GRAYSON

DELAND, Fla.—Ted Williams was a bit too choosy about his uniforms to suit a lot of people who at the moment are interested in something vastly more important than baseball.

Two years ago, Williams wanted to be a fireman. But this spring the Red Sox's young 400 hitter, after first being placed in IA, wanted another year to straighten out his affairs before entering the service.

A year is all Hitler and Hirohito ask in which to straighten out the United Nations. The reaction to the Williams case should have been a tip to Joe DiMaggio, who should have taken the $40,000.

With the country up to its ears in war, Joe DiMaggio and all other holdouts look bad enough in their particular kind of uniform without making themselves even more conspicuous in an unflattering light by asking more for the privilege of continuing in a soft profession.

ALTHOUGH Gilbert Dodds may have learned very little track while attending little Ashland College of Ohio, he was nevertheless trained by George Donges there for three years and everybody in Ashland did the best they could for the current winter distance phenom with the facilities at hand.

As a result of that in ignoring those who helped him on the trip, Gilbert Dodds is being unfair. You aren't the kind to let the big time go to your scholastic head. ## Rubber Equipment On Farms Should Be Properly Used

COLLEGE STATION.—Motorists—and aren't we all?—have been so busy worrying about the tires on their cars that rubber on the farm has not received much attention.

Rubber has played an increasingly important part in food production in recent years. Rubber tires for tractors and farm implements; rubber tubing in milking machines; rubber rings for canning in glass jars—the list is almost endless.

The following suggestions for care of rubber on the farm are offered by M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service.

Block up the wheels to keep weight off the tires when implements and machines are out of the fields for any considerable period. If rubber-tired implements are stored on cinder floors, block up the tires or place planks under them. The sulphur in the cinders breaks down the rubber.

Excessive slippage of tractor tires causes heavy wear, just as skids and quick stops do on automobile tires. Over-loading the tractor is one cause of slippage, and pulling in snow or mud without chains is another.

Keep rubber-tired implements out of the sun when not in use. Under-inflation damages both rubber and fabric in the tires.

A solution of calcium chloride to prevent freezing is recommended for northern areas of the state if water is used in tractor tires to add weight.

SERIAL STORY

KINGS ROW

BY HENRY BELLAMANN

A LONELY LIFE CHAPTER XXVII PARRIS slipped quietly into the work of the hospital. The place seemed at once familiar and a refuge.

Dr. Nolan had welcomed him so warmly that he had almost a sense of coming home. Dr. Nolan, he found, was intelligent and progressive.

Outside the "asylum" as Kings Row continued to call the State Hospital, he was less happy. He had no points of contact with old acquaintances.

In Herr Berdorff, his old music teacher and pastor at the little German parsonage, Parris had a friend. But visits there, evenings with Drake and Randy, and self-

THAT winter Dr. Henry Gordon died, and Parris was surprised to find himself one of the honorary pallbearers. It was the largest funeral Kings

Row had ever seen, with the Presbyterian church crowded to the last seat of the high gallery. Parris endured the penance, for his belligerence, of hearing the Reverend Cole preach a lengthy service on "a great physician who was also a humble man of God."

Parris, certain that most of it was directed at his own head, let his attention wander. He noticed that Louise was not present. Perhaps she was ill. He remembered that she had never cared very deeply for her father, probably had never forgiven him for separating her from Drake.

AFTER the funeral Parris left the cemetery on foot. It was a stony-cold day, and the afternoon was darkening rapidly.

He stopped by the little German parsonage. He rang, and Herr Berdorff himself answered. "Ach, I am glad to see you today. What are you doing out in such weather?"

"I'll be coming around for you to hear me, and help me again." Professor Berdorff was immensely pleased. "I miss you, you and the little Lichinsky."

"Well, she was slated for an appearance at the Mannheim festival during the summer. She came to see me and seemed to be very much upset about something. She cancelled her date there, and one or two others. I thought she was on the very edge of a breakdown—she'd been playing a lot—and I sent her to a doctor. She looked a little wild-eyed, and talked about not playing this year."

"No. Not really. Musical she is, yes, very—talented. And a kind of blind genius for work, but I never found that she could think. I have had fears of her career, always."

DRAKE and Randy prospered during the next year. Parris watched over Drake with an anxiety that was not apparent to anyone except Randy. One thing she noticed particularly: Parris always led Drake away from reminiscence by appearing uninterested.

"You-I can't tell you—I can't say it!"

Shakeup Gives Air Force New Prestige And Autonomy Within the War Department

BY PETER EDSON NEA Service Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The War Department reorganization that became effective this week has been hailed generally as a great step forward in streamlining the Army for actual war and eliminating a lot of the red tape that traditionally has characterized Army procedure in times of peace.

Reduction of the general staff from 300 officers to 98 is typical of the way in which authority has been centralized. This does not mean that the other 402 officers will be packed out of Washington and sent to duty with troops. Far from it, there will still be the thousands of officers and tens of thousands of civilians on duty at the headquarters of what today is the country's biggest business, with the country's biggest office force.

SECRETARY of War Stimson states that one of the primary purposes of the latest War Department reorganization has been to give the Air Corps its proper place in this air war. Steps toward this goal have been gradual and several in number, largely the result of the extension of the air program, partly the result of a desire to quiet the public and congressional clamor to let the aviation branch take care of itself.

Under the pre-war organization, the Air Corps was just another branch of the Army, rating equally with infantry, cavalry, artillery and the rest. Last June, the organization of "Army Air Corps" was announced. Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, who had been deputy chief of staff for air since October, 1940, became chief of the Army air forces as well, and as such, reported directly to the secretary of war. The Army air forces were given their own procurement, maintenance and similar organizations and functions, and their own general staff, with an A-1, A-2, A-3, and A-4 corresponding to the G-1 for personnel, G-2 for intelligence, G-3 for operations and G-4 for supply, sections of the general staff for the ground forces. The Army air force thus became autonomous within the War Department organization, an Army within the Army.

He remained there for a day and a half with his family, resting after the Bataan campaign and his break through the blockade. People at the Adelaide railroad station quickly recognized the American hero and cheered and shouted, "Welcome to Australia."

Don't Lose Your Heads When Mishaps Occur, Speaker Says STAFF, March 20.—When accidents occur, either at home or in public places, one should never lose their head," said Mrs. Cecil Alford in her talk on First Aid, at the meeting of the Staff Home Demonstration Club, at the home of Mrs. Bertha Hazard. Allied Forces—

(Continued from page 1) native outbreaks were not directed against either the Australians or the Japanese but merely were a result of the Japanese invasion. The arrival of MacArthur at Melbourne for conferences with Prime Minister John Curtin and other high officials was cheered by crowds of Australians who have been encouraged by the American military hero's aggressive attitude.

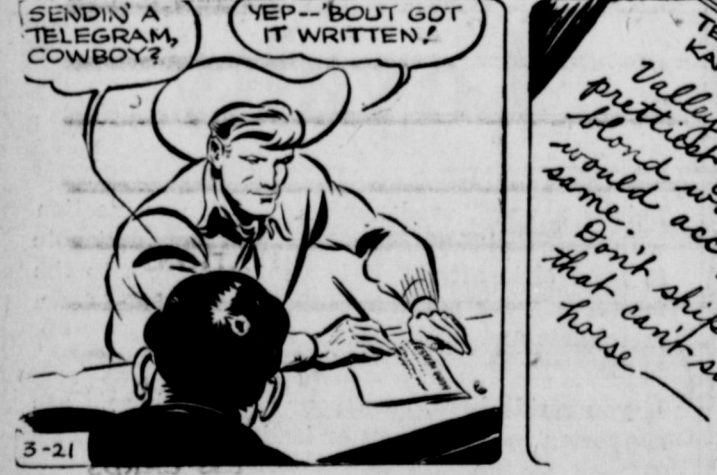

MacArthur issued a statement expressing confidence in victory but warning that more and more men and materials are needed quickly. "I have great confidence in ultimate success," he said. "But success in modern warfare requires more than courage—it requires careful preparation"

Thus the New Allied supreme commander added his words to warnings that the people of the United Nations must not expect a miracle that will suddenly turn the tide of the war. In the Indian Ocean, a Japanese submarine was reported to

Land Use Planning Group Is Active

COLLEGE STATION. — Although Texas county and community land use planning committees engaged in a large number of activities in 1941, their principal work was on local problems with resultant plans put into action wherever possible.

Among those activities was the organization of approved variety wheat counties in the Panhandle area, says C. Hohn of the A. and M. College Extension Service who acts as land use planning leader. County committees sought the varieties adapted to produce the highest quality wheat, and at the same time give a high acre yield. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the wheat sowed in Hansford county, one of the leaders in the movement, was Turkey, Tenmar or Kanred, the selected varieties. A definite increase in cash return to farmers resulted.

Prevention of prairie fires, a prevailing hazard throughout the dormant season, prompted committees to set up fire-fighting organizations throughout the 22 counties comprising Extension District 1. Childress County developed a model organization in which each county commissioner acts as fire chief in his precinct. Ranchmen agreed to carry wire pushbrooms in their pickups and to provide fireguards, especially along main highways. Vocational agricultural students improvised flails of shovel handles, topped with rubber flaps. The school board authorized the vocational agricultural teacher to carry students in the school bus to fight fires. The local siren was used to announce grass fires with a special signal, and the 34 members of the Childress city volunteer fire department agreed to lend aid.

During the year, all counties which employed a large amount of migratory labor organized labor sub-committees which prepared monthly reports on the labor situation. These reports were summarized into a state report by the state sub-committee on farm labor and sent to Washington and the counties. The result was to create a closer understanding between farm people and the state and federal agencies working with farm labor.

A study of the Young County land use planning committee made during the year demonstrated that the people can do something about tax reform. The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, which with the Bureau of Agricultural Economics cooperated in the study, assembled data from tax rolls and other sources. Farmer committees placed assessment value on each property in the county which was then compared with the assessment levied by county officers. After studying a completed report the committee offered its services to the commissioners court on equalization of taxation. As a result of the work done on equalization, the subcommittee on taxation took a leading part in the discussion of the budget prepared by the court for the ensuing year. A consequence of the active participation of the people in taxation problems is that the commissioners court of Young county is considering adoption of the county unit system of road and bridge work. Of the 252 counties which have land use planning committees, 149 have community planning com-
