EASTLAND JERSEY AND BEEF CATTLE TAKE TOP HONORS AT LIVESTOCK SHOW IN RANGER

Eastland dairy and beef cattle carried off all the grand championship honors in the annual Ranger Livestock Show, held Thursday, while Ranger garnered the grand championship in two types of goats exhibited, and the grand champion jack.

The show had the largest number of animals exhibited in its six year history, because of the large number of fine dairy cattle shown.

The Eastland Chamber of Commerce Jersey bull took top honors as grand champion, while Billie Henderson, Eastland, won the grand championship with his Jersey cow. The grand champion beef bull was exhibited by Terrell Harbin, Eastland Route 2, and F. L. Wheat of Eastland exhibited the grand champion beef cow.

J. F. Donley won top honors with two grand championships in the goat division with both Type B and Type C goats, while a jack exhibited by Hall Walker won the grand championship.

Mustache Saved a Flying Cadet From A Firing Squad

WICHITA FALLS.—A mustache put Benzon Frieden in the army air corps.

Frieden is a private at Shepard Field, the army air corps' big technical training school here. His newest job adds to a role that includes university student, world traveler and guerilla warrior.

It was while fighting Arabs in Palestine that Frieden's mustache kept him alive, ultimately to enlist in the U. S. Army.

When anti-Jewish riots broke out in Palestine in the late 1930's Frieden dropped his school books and joined a guerilla army of Jews who banded together to protect their homes. He and a companion volunteered to undertake an espionage mission and were captured by the enemy.

His comrade was immediately executed, but Frieden, who spoke Arabic and wore his mustache in the long, flowing Arabian style, was able to convince his captors he was not a spy. They grilled him for days, finally releasing him. He rejoined the guerillas, but kept his mustache. And he's still wearing it.

"Those were not easy days," he recalls. "We would drill during the day and fight at night. It was the grimmest kind of fighting. You fought in small bands and either killed or were killed."

His moments of the hand-to-hand conflict—besides the mustache—include a bullet scar on the side of his head where he was created by a bullet and a scar from a bayonet wound in his left shoulder.

Born in the United States during the first World War, Frieden went to Palestine in 1920 with his father and began studying agriculture and poultry raising. Twice he returned to the United States for special courses and once to England.

Of that country he says "anyone who is tough enough to stand that climate is too tough for the Germans."

After the civil warfare in Palestine subsided, he returned to the United States on a trip that took him through Singapore and the Dutch East Indies.

Nazi treatment of his Jewish people was instrumental in his enlisting in the U. S. Army.

Number Of Insane In Jail Is Still High

AUSTIN.—Reporting that the number of insane persons in Texas jails, kept there because of a lack of state hospital facilities, now is 345, Chairman Weaver Baker of the state board of control said that the board has filled all available space in the hospitals on the theory that an insane person is better off in a hospital no matter how overcrowded the hospital may be, than the patient would be in a county jail.

Twenty-one applications for priorities for building materials and equipment are pending while the 1942 hospital building program provided for by the legislative appropriation waits. A $800,000 expansion program next year also has been authorized if the state can get the materials.

Minerals Needed By United States Will Be Sought In Texas

AUSTIN.—Urgent need for strategic war minerals has resulted in certification by the U. S. War Department of a $220,579 grant from the WPA for a state-wide survey of vital mineral resources in Texas, to be sponsored by the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology.

Minerals to be sought include manganese, barite, iron ores, tin, celestite, fluorite, high alumina, graphite, tungsten ores, lead and zinc ores, titanium ores, dolomite for magnesite, and mercury ores. The survey will be conducted by counties, about eight or twelve county units operating simultaneously, using an average of 12 WPA workers for each.

Justice of the Peace Nat Ingo returned an inquest verdict that Davis had shot and killed his 43-year old wife, who recently filed suit for divorce, then turned the gun on himself and committed suicide.

Second Fire On The Normandie Put Out

Street Beggars Are Changing Tactics

SAN ANTONIO.—Even the beggars have been changed by the war. An old mendicant usually found on North St. Mary's street no longer asks passersby to give him five cents for a cup of coffee. Now he salutes smartly and says, "Lieutenant, can you loan me a nickel?"

Naming a Newsmen To Office Popular With The Newsmen

AUSTIN.—Appointment of Harry Bengé Crozier of Dallas to be a member of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission was hailed by newspapermen as the first appointment of a man of their profession to a state job with a good salary—at least for many years.

Numerous newspapermen have been appointed to state boards and commissions but most of them found they had an empty honor so far as pay was concerned, and a whole lot of free work and worrying to do.

Crozier's position is one that pays $5,000 a year. It expires in November of this year, but re-appointment then would be for a six-year term.

Crozier naturally was submitted to considerable "hazing" by fellow newspapermen, co-workers with whom he is highly popular. They expressed surprise when he produced the dollar that must be paid for filing of the oath of office.

Crozier entered into the spirit of the occasion and with unsmiling face inquired where the office of the Unemployment Compensation Commission is located.

Four Suits Filed In District Courts

The following suits have been filed in the Eastland county district courts: Ernest Warren vs. Premier Oil & Refining Company, damages. J. H. Reynolds, Piff., vs. Mrs. M. M. King (was Mrs. M. M. Dabney). Emma Frederick vs. W. H. Frederick, divorce. Jacob Lyerla vs. rs. Berdie Reid, suit for debt.

Three In Family Have Heart Attacks

GILMER, Tex.—Several weeks ago Joseph Palter, a brother of Mrs. William Herring, died of a heart attack. A week later, Mrs. Herring died and relatives who had come from long distances to attend the first funeral had to make the trip over again. Mrs. Herring died of a heart attack. The following week Herring, 64, died. His death also was caused by a heart attack.

Being a Rationing Officer Proves to be No Bed of Roses

AUSTIN.—In the comparatively short time Stevenson has been governor, he has had an opportunity to name a majority of the membership of two state boards. The six-year term plan for boards with the terms staggered usually keeps a new governor from having a majority of his appointees on a board until near the end of his second term.

Besides the Unemployment Compensation Commission to which Stevenson has named Robert McKinley and Crozier, he has named a majority of the Public Safety Commission.

Being a rationing officer is not all a bed of roses. Mark McGee, non-paid rationer for Texas, has discovered that. McGee has to travel quite a bit in his work. Because the tire rationing caught him like other citizens, he does his traveling by train or bus.

Like the ruler in "Arabian Nights," McGee has found that traveling unknown gives him information he never would otherwise get.

"I've heard myself called complimentary names," McGee admitted.

McGee attended a meeting of a local rationing board in West Texas. A second lieutenant was insistent that he had a right to get tires for a car to use in going between Abilene and Camp Barkeley. When the board found no such provision, the officer insisted he could have the tires because his colonel said so, and was indignant.

"But that didn't bother me," said McGee. "I was a Second Lieutenant once myself."

More disturbing is the complaint being made in parts of the state that the restrictions on tires for ministers' cars is strict while beer truck operators are having an easier time getting tires. Amended regulations authorize tires for pastors without other means of carrying on their religious duties, such as pastors in rural areas where public conveyances do not afford facilities. Generally, city ministers cannot get tires.

Terrace Building Was Demonstrated At Rising Star

Building terraces by use of small equipment was demonstrated on Dr. J. R. Dill's place at Rising Star Saturday.

Three terraces were constructed. One was built with a "Whirl Wind" terracer. This is a special moldboard plow which loosens and raises the soil to a conveyor, making a cut 18 inches wide and 8 to 10 inches deep, by means of a three speed transmission on the terraces, and a variable speed on your tractor power take-off the distance of from 2 feet to approximately 20 feet, and to a height of 4 or 5 feet, according to George Smith with the Service Equipment Company who demonstrated the plow.

Another terrace was built with a disc attachment known as a "Murray Terracer" demonstrated by Lloyd Haynes, representative of Ford Tractors of Dublin.

Another terrace was built with a "Texas Terracer." This was demonstrated by Brown Tool Company of Breckenridge.

Thirty-six people attended the demonstration.

Chalk Up Decision For a Pedestrian Over Automobile

WARE, Mass.—An automobile came off second best with a pedestrian here. Clarence Potter, unhurt, picked himself up, doffed his hat, bowed politely, and said to Driver Lyndon Wilson: "My apologies for bending your fender." The automobile was a midsize delivery car. Potter weighs 230.

Hunts U-Boats Off U. S. Coast

Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the eastern sea frontier of the United States, has the task of hunting down U-boats raiding along our Atlantic seaboard.

NAZIS GROUP SOLDIERS ON NORWAY AREA

LONDON, England, Mar. 13.—Concentration of a number of German vessels, as well as land reinforcements on the Norwegian Coast, was reported today in connection with the recent British aerial attacks upon the Nazi Battleship Tirpitz, and on the crippled dreadnaught Gneisenau, which is berthed at Kiel.

Reliable sources said that the Tirpitz was accompanied by "other vessels" when she was attacked by British flying boats Monday "fairly close to the Norwegian Coast."

It was revealed, meantime, that a British convoy had arrived safely in Russia with a consignment for army. The convoy presumably was the intended target of the German warship concentration.

The Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Stockholm quoted the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet as saying that "considerable" German troop reinforcements had arrived in Stavanger, Norway. The dispatch said that Norwegian schools had been requisitioned to provide housing facilities for these soldiers.

(There has been much speculation recently on a possible allied counter attack on Germany by way of Norway.)

Eastland Team Is Winner Over Camp Bowie

Eastland All Stars, basketball, scored over the team of the 174th Field Artillery of Camp Bowie, last night in a game played at the high school gym. A score of 39-38 was rung up after an exciting game between the two teams.

NYA of Ranger team, and the 174th second team played the first game of the evening with a score of 37-17 with NYA topping the score.

Following the games, the National Defense committee, headed by Mrs. Marene Johnson, were host for a dance at the American Legion clubroom for the visiting teams. The 174th orchestra played for dancing and their band played during the games earlier in the evening.

PLANES RAID AIRPORT AND NAVAL BASE

Japanese Forces Are Sighted Near Solomon Island Group On Australian Route.

Japanese invasion forces across the approaches to today, but on the European front the allies were battling to the initiative against the Axis.

Despite damaging and continuing bombing attacks by Axis Flying Fortresses and Axis Aircraft, the Japanese were reported to be pushing one enveloping attack toward the sea route over which sea and reinforcements come America.

The fate of the enemy force which was sighted off the island in the Solomons was known, as Allied bombers reported over the approaches to Australia but it may have prompted the closure that Prime Minister Curtin was awaiting a formal reply to a message to President Roosevelt.

The Australian Government wants powerful Allied concentrations in the southwest to take the offensive against the Japanese, but at last reports both men and material, especially planes and tanks, still were needed in large numbers for the defense against the expected soon by way of Moresby, on New Guinea Island.

American planes and submarines, however, have been playing an important role in the offensive blows designed to slow down or shatter the enemy drive into the southwest.

A Washington communique reported the smashing bombardment of Japanese-held airdromes in New Guinea and the submarine sinking of four enemy ships in Japanese waters.

In the American Flying Fortress attack that destroyed buildings and runways at the Salamaua and Lea airdromes, five enemy planes were shot down without the loss of a single plane by American forces.

An End to Rent Profiteering

An all-out offensive against rent profiteers apparently will start rolling any day now. Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson, never one to be timid, promises he will act unless abnormally spiraling rents are reduced within 60 days.

Henderson asserts his office will not permit any landlord to profiteer in rents at the expense of defense workers, families of men in the armed services, and civilian residents of defense areas. To meet the situation—Bureau of Labor Statistics reports rents have risen from 1 to 20 per cent in some places—Henderson has established defense areas. In these, his office will apply the curbs if rents continue higher than a cat's back.

Few property owners will oppose Henderson's stand. Landlords are entitled to a fair return on their investment, and most of them get it. But at a time of national emergency when it is either hang together or hang separately, no one should be permitted to gouge a fellow citizen. Especially is this true in areas most vital to the victory drive. Workers making the tanks, guns, planes and ammunition must have healthy, comfortable living quarters if they are to do their best work.

Patriotic landlords in many communities already have met the challenge by co-operating with fair-rent committees, moving voluntarily to adjust their charges to the July 1, 1941, level. This will bring rents in most towns and cities into agreement with the price control bill.

Authoritative and hard-handed imposition of strict rent ceilings will result. Washington hints, unless property owners and local committees handle the situation. Henderson does not now have absolute rent-control power, but there is little reason to think he could not get it.

Of interest in this respect was the early action of the legislature of Hawaii. Many believed Washington, D. C., was the first to do something other than complain about rents, but Hawaii got a rent control bill in October, 1941. Shortly thereafter rent control became a fact in Honolulu.

Thus the first American city to feel the blast of Japanese bombs apparently was the first to feel the shock of bounding rents and take action. Remember Pearl Harbor, yes but for renters, landlords and roomers, Remember Honolulu!

If tire shortage would stop the misuse, instead of the use, of autos, we'd be strong for it.

There's little satisfaction in coming out on top when it's due merely to baldness.

Cooperatives Of Farming Areas In Texas On Increase

COLLEGE STATION.—Farm cooperatives are on the increase in Texas.

During 1941 the number of farmer cooperatives increased by 51 to a total of 855, C. E. Bowles of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service reported today.

Of the new business organizations, 21 were cooperative gin associations, six were established primarily to buy farm supplies, four were cooperatives of dairymen, three were for marketing fruits and vegetables three were cotton marketing associations, and the remaining 14 were organized to handle a variety of agricultural commodities.

Outstanding in the year's development was the consumers purchasing associations, Bowles said. New ones were organized at Dallas and Corpus Christi during the year, whereas the movement had been confined almost entirely to the western part of the state for two decades.

"Farmers are finding their cooperatives helpful in stepping up production of foods and vital fats and oil in an all-out war effort," Bowles said. "Nine are producing cheese and other high quality dairy products, and others are concentrating on processing poultry and eggs. Others are furnishing electricity to farmers, ginning their cotton, crushing their cottonseed, providing fire protection, producing credit and otherwise increasing the efficiency of Texas farmers."

Bowles believed that the spirit of farmer cooperatives is typified in the Plains Cooperative, Inc., of Plainview. In 1941 it manufactured 1,260,000 pounds of high quality cheese for home food and

Tobacco Here, Smokers There
 NEW ORLEANS, La. (UP)—The French government owns 3,500,000 pounds of tobacco which is stored in a New Orleans warehouse. Deterioration, however, is reported less than in tobacco similarly stranded here in the last war. So if the French smoker is patient . . .

SERIAL STORY

KINGS ROW

BY HENRY BELLAMANN

THE CIRCLE NARROWS
CHAPTER XX
"DRAKE, we might as well have this out right now. Pa doesn't like me to go with you. I guess Ma wouldn't either if she was still living. But I'm going with you anyhow, whenever you ask me."
"Well, what's got to be cleared up?"
"Only why Pa doesn't want me to go with you. I'm going with you as long as you want me to, but don't get mad when I tell you how things are."
"Well, if I married you—"
Randy shrank away. Instantly her face went blank and cold.
"I wouldn't marry you, Drake."
"Well, why not?"
"Let's don't talk about it, ever again. Will you remember that?"
He did not answer at once. His face, too, was as cold and hard as Randy's.
"Where do you want me to let you out?"
Drake took a long way around so that he would not have to pass the Monaghan house. He drove back of the asylum and to a dead-end road that overlooked the bottoms Randy had mentioned.
He shrugged his shoulders in a gesture he had taken from Parris, and tightened the reins which had fallen slack across the dashboard. He drove as fast as he could back the way he had come. In a few minutes he stopped at the Monaghan house, and hitched his horse to the whitewashed paling fence.
He walked to the short boardwalk to the front door, and knocked.
BENNY SINGER made industrious transformation in the Skeffington vegetable garden. He stood about in a kind of bewildered waiting while the Colonel and Mrs. Skeffington fought at bitter length over the location of the bean patch, or the best place to sow radishes this year.
Benny felt that he was a citizen of the town in full and honorable standing.
One day Fulmer Green passed. Fulmer was looking very fine, Benny thought, all dressed up as if it were Sunday.
"Well, if it ain't old crazy Benny!"
Benny grinned, and nodded. He hardly noticed the old nickname.
"Well, well, old Benny working for the Colonel. Good idea, Benny. The Colonel might come in handy keeping you out of jail." Fulmer laughed, and Benny laughed, too. But later in the day when he thought of it, he didn't like Fulmer saying anything about jail. It was Fulmer Green's fault that he got put in jail one time, and it was Colonel Skeffington who got him out. Vaguely he felt a troubling sense of old, old injuries and slights.

OFTEN Drake McHugh drove out of town—sometimes out Federal street, sometimes out the asylum road, sometimes by a less frequented way—always with Randy Monaghan beside him.
The town talked. Drake McHugh, after all, came from "nice people." He belonged to the best. Everyone saw how the Gordons handled the question when Drake looked in the direction of Louise. That little slap in the face should have taught Drake McHugh something of a lesson. For a while it looked as though it really had. But now it was this Monaghan girl from the lower end of town. Railroad people.
One afternoon Drake and Randy flashed out Federal street at a conspicuous clip.
Mrs. Henry Gordon, sitting in her south bay window, busy with her crocheting, saw them. Drake's back was turned her way as he talked, but she caught a glimpse of Randy's face as she made some laughing response. Mrs. Gordon frowned. The girl was really pretty—probably common-looking if you saw her close, but at that distance she was decidedly pretty.
Randy Monaghan certainly looked frank and happy. And she was certainly out in the open with whatever it was she was about. The girl surely couldn't be setting her cap for Drake McHugh. That kind of a girl to marry into the Union street crowd—for, no matter how you looked at it, Drake McHugh belonged to that crowd and, moreover, he'd have money.
There was another person who had noticed Drake and Randy. That was Louise herself. She had been standing at the open window directly above her mother's sitting room.
Louise, like all of Kings Row, felt that this affair with Randy was different. It was quite possible that Drake might want to marry Randy. And, of course, Randy Monaghan would jump at the chance to marry Drake. Who wouldn't? Heaven knows she wanted him herself. More than ever now. If only she had some way of calling him back.
She thought of Parris Mitchell. If Parris were here, she believed she'd try to get him to help straighten things out. Parris could do anything with Drake, it seemed. Downstairs Mrs. Gordon had a sudden intuition. She went quietly to Louise's room and opened the door. Louise was crying now. Louise did not turn. She dropped her head, and was silent.

"What are you crying about?"
"Does it make any difference?"
Mrs. Gordon's face hardened. She was angry at Drake, and still angrier at Randy Monaghan.
"Don't answer me like that!"
"Why can't you let me alone?"
"Oh, I know what you're crying about. I saw Drake McHugh going by with that little—nobody from downtown. Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"
Louise stood up. Her eyes were dry now, and she was trembling.
"I wish it was me!"
Mrs. Gordon dropped her crocheting and struck Louise across the mouth with all her strength.
Louise stood perfectly still. A little streak of blood showed on her lips. Mechanically she wiped it away with the back of her hand.
"Mother, don't you ever do that again! Don't you ever touch me again as long as you live!"
Mrs. Gordon was shaken and somewhat abashed by the suddenness of her own rage. But she felt she must keep face.
"And what will you do about it, Miss?"
"I'll kill you," Louise said calmly. Then, shouting, she pushed Mrs. Gordon toward the door.
DRAKE'S horse clop-clopped softly along the sandy road. The wheels made scarcely a sound. The buggy top was down and the late sun glistened on Randy's thick shining hair.
"Why don't you come home and have supper with us?"
"You want me to?"
"Of course. I think Pa likes you, ever since that time you walked in and asked him right out if you could take me out buggy-riding."
"Gee, that's nice."
"What's new from Parris?"
Randy asked as they neared town.
"Just short notes. Seems to be getting along."
"I think people talk more about Parris now than they did when he was here."
"Yeh, He's somebody you don't forget, somehow. But I think this old town's proud of having him over in Europe studying medicine."
"Yes, I think so, too. Like Vera Lichinsky."
Randy laughed shortly. "Aren't we the old stick-in-the-muds?"
Drake's glance was deeply serious. "It's good for me that you're here."

Old Razor Blades Sought By a Nurse

By United Press
FORT CUSTER, Mich.—From the busiest person at Fort Custer comes a request for old razor blades.
The call is issued by Miss Nancy Jane Grubb, director of "occupational therapy" at the Base Hospital. It's her job to see that idle fingers in the fort's hospital wards are occupied.
Currently Miss Grubb has approximately 100 patients cutting leather bill folds, carving wood, making ash trays, lamps, pounding metal, building tables, puppets, marionettes, and painting water colors.
"We beg, borrow and steal things for our projects," Miss Grubb says, "but most of all we would certainly like to have all the old razor blades we can get."

THE PAY-OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

HIALEAH—Foot or any other kind of trouble fails to stop Market Wise, which ran over the country's best handicap horses for his second victory in eight days to become favorite for the $50,000 added Widener, March 7.
Market Wise, conqueror of the mighty Whirlaway in the Jockey Club Gold Cup last year, is one of the gamest and toughest horses in years.
Just two days prior to last season's Kentucky Derby, a pus pocket had to be cut out of one of his feet, yet he ran third to record-wrecking Whirlaway and the surprising Staretor.
Market Wise suffers from a quarter crack, or cut heel.
WHEN foot trouble again interrupted his training, it was feared that it would be impossible for Market Wise to race in Florida this winter.
George Washington Carroll used a bar plate on the ailing foot, managed to return the 4-year-old bay son of Brokers Tip and On Hand to training in time to have him ready for a winning performance in the McLennan Memorial.
Market Wise generally is picked to win the Widener, when he conceivably can pick up a purse of $51,450. That would swell his earnings to $164,000.
George Washington Carroll hustled Louis Tufano, the bankroll man, and had him pick up Market Wise for $1000.
Some pick-up.
WITH four sophomores carrying the brunt of the burden, Illinois clinches its first undisputed Big Ten basketball championship since 1915.
It seems that Doug Mills is getting vastly more co-operation from the alumni than did Robert C. Zupke in football.
One of the complaints about old Bob Zupke was that, while he realized he required football material, he did little about it other than moan.
It is obvious that young Doug Mills speaks for himself, John. Perhaps that's why they made him athletic director.

Women, 77, Is Called Champion Knitter of Nation

By United Press
PALESTINE, Tex.—Grandma Warren just stays home and tends to her knittin'.
And 'cause she does, friends of Mrs. J. N. Warren, who will be 77 a month from now, nominate her as the nation's champion knitter.
Mrs. Warren, nearly everyone hereabouts calls her Grandma, doesn't have much to say for herself. She can't spare her knitting time to talk. But her knitting record during the first World War and thus far in the second speaks for itself. It's something to make a woolen manufacturer sit up and take notice.
Grandma Warran has just finished her 101st men's sweater since the Red Cross started its knitting program for the British in the summer of 1940.
That's not all. In her "spare time" she has turned out many other garments—sweaters, jackets, dresses, scarfs, turbans, and baby shoes, for her children, her grandchildren and for some of

Fur for Farmers

This crossbreed lamb at Beltsville, Md., research center, is result of Department of Agriculture efforts to create a high quality fur-bearing animal for U. S. farmers to raise for pets. It has the black lustrous fur of its garakul father and white markings of its Navajo mother.

When you sign your name to a document what does it mean to you?

LET'S SUPPOSE you have a used lawn mower you don't need. You've heard that your friend John needs one, so you write him a letter. "John," you say, "This lawn mower is O.K. and I don't need it. You can have it for $6.00." Then you sign your name. That's important. When John says "Yes, I'll take the lawn mower for $6.00"—you expect to make good on your word. That's exactly what a business man does when he runs an ad. He, in effect, signs a contract with you that the goods he is offering at the price asked is as he tells you. For instance, if a canner of peaches advertises that his peaches are tree-ripened before canning and that they contain certain vitamins, you can depend on that being the fact. Or when a retail store puts its name at the bottom or top of the ad, that is a guarantee to you that the articles advertised are as represented. This is why advertising is such a good buying guide for you. The one who pays for the ad has "signed his name," just as you did when you wrote John. WHAT TO DO So when you see a product, a store or a service consistently advertised, buy with confidence that you are getting full value for your money. Make advertising your buying guide.

PERSONAL PROBLEMS
The Christian Approach to Personal Problems is the title of a course of sermons being delivered by the pastor on third Sunday mornings. Sunday the topic will be: When Doubts Fall Upon Us. Special music by our great choir and other enriching elements will make the service both attractive and highly beneficial. We shall have as our guests a number of soldiers who will be dinner guests of our people.

VESPER HOUR CHANGED
The best hour of the day for the vesper service is the period ending with the setting of the sun. Our vesper service will be held at that time which at this season is 7 o'clock. Organ music will be given by Mrs. Jeff Haynie from 6:45 on through the 45-minute service, beginning at 7. Old and new hymns will be sung and a practical message will be brought by the pastor. Those attending will return home in the twilight. This joyous service continues to be an inspiration to many.

YOUTH ADULT HOUR CHANGED
The young adults of the church will meet in the Booster Room at 6 o'clock, the hour preceding vesper. The discussion of the Sermon on the Mount will be continued. If you are a young adult you might find this fellowship and study be of genuine worth to you.

YOUTH FELLOWSHIP
The Youth Fellowship will meet either at the church or at a home to be announced Sunday morning, immediately following vesper service, that is, 7 o'clock. How God Works With Men will be the forum subject led by the pastor. The discussion will be followed with a fellowship period of refreshments and recreation.

BOARD OF STEWARDS
Raymond McDaniel will preside at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Stewards at 8 Monday evening. Earl Bender, treasurer, announced that if the members were generous with their contributions Sunday and a few who were behind caught up on their offerings, the church for the fourth straight month would be able to pay all its obligations on time. That is a splendid record we believe all the good members of this great church will not permit to be broken. A large attendance for a brief session of the Board is expected.

9-49 ELECT OFFICERS
Sunday morning the 9:49 Bible Class elected George Cross to be its president, with Dr. L. C. Brown serving as vice-president. A. L. Agate was continued as secretary treasurer of the class, with Cecil Sylvester as his assistant. Mrs. T. J. Haley was re-elected pianist. W. C. Campbell and John W. Turner were chosen song leaders. Virgil T. Seaberry and C. W. Geue re-elected teachers. John Jackson retired as president.

A COMPLIMENT
Chaplain of Camp Wolters, in town Tuesday, said that Eastland, led by Mrs. Marene Johnson, had meant more to the men in his camp than any other town in the country had meant to any other camp. "They have been lifesavers to us," he said.

CALL RIGHT NOW
You are not too late to get in your order for a soldier or soldiers to be in your home for lunch Sunday. We shall invite to our morning service the number the members notify Mrs. Marene Johnson they will have as their guests. Invite one if you must, two or

CHURCHES

BAPTIST REMINDER Rev. Franklin E. Swanner

This is to remind you that our revival meeting will start Sunday March 15th. We are using our local talent in the leadership of this revival. The Pastor will do the preaching. I sincerely hope that we may have the cooperation of all those who are interested in a revival coming into the city. I especially urge all of the membership of our church to start with us Sunday. Come and be with us in the Sunday School hour in order that we may start the day off well together. In these days of trouble and suffering only a revival of religion can give us the peace of heart that we desire. Thomas Edison who was not accredited with being a Christian said, "America must first advance spiritually if she is to advance in any worthwhile way. We plan our services to last just one hour both in the morning at 10:00 o'clock and in the evening at 8:00 o'clock.

PLANTS CONTRIBUTED
Additional yard plants for the parsonage grounds were given by Mrs. John W. Turner, Mrs. Earl Bender, and Mrs. W. H. Mullings. Thanks to you.

MARTHA DORCAS AGAIN
The Martha Dorcas Class brought still another heater for the parsonage. Thanks again.

EASTER ACTIVITIES
March 22 is Decision Day, the day on which we expect a considerable number of our children and youth to express their desire to be Christians and assume the obligations of church membership. Then during the week of March 22 the pastor will meet with these children for instruction and receive them into the church on March 29, which is Palm Sunday. Then during the week of March 29 the church will be calling on those who might be interested in becoming members of the church and they will be received on Easter, April 5. The week following Easter special services will be held each evening with the pastor preaching.

CHURCH SCHOOL
We take our faithful church school teachers for granted like we do other great things that serve us richly. Occasionally we are thoughtful enough to express to them something of our appreciation for what they do for us and our children. Most of the religious instruction most of our children get is received from this loyal group of noble spirits who labor unobscurely. The most we can give them in praise and cooperation is too little. An efficient Christian teacher is the church's greatest asset. Our church has men and women of this quality. Therein lies its strength.

CONGREGATIONS
Members continue to observe that the congregations from Sunday are comparatively large. One of the big causes for this encouraging fact is that so many of our wholesome people say constructive things about the services of the church. That builds up church-mindedness. It creates an atmosphere in which the church can live and grow. A kind word about your church to someone may be one of the kindest things you can do for him.

Your FEEDING ADVISOR by TRUSTY GEIGORY

Most dairymen used to give very little thought to the care and feeding of their cows when dry. This seemed to them reasonable and natural.
When a cow is producing she is called upon to give large amounts of milk daily, one requires good care and feed to do the job. When she is dry they reasoned, she is under no strain and can take care of herself easily while "loafing." Modern research has found, however, that the cow goes dry because she is an expectant mother, and is not loafing by any means. This places a heavy strain on the cow's body and her bloodstream is diverted away from her udder and goes mainly to carry materials to the unborn calf.
All cows should have a period of 60 days without giving milk before they freshen, so they can rebuild their own bodies, produce a vigorous good calf, and be in shape to do well for another 12 months of milking.
Feed the best hay to dry cows. If a dairyman has shucks, fodder, or grass hay, and only a limited amount of good legume hay (alfalfa, or bean hay), the common hay, should go to the milkers and the best hay to the dry cows. Feed all the hay your cow will eat, not less than 2 lbs. to the 100 lbs. of weight—20 lbs. a day to a 1000 lb. cow, plus a good feed that will get her where she can produce more milk for the family.
With the milk shortage that is threatening the country and the resulting promise of high prices it is vitally important to dairymen that their cows produce, the maximum of their ability.
So lets go "all out for defense" by keeping our cows in condition. Next week: (the baby calf).

Monday, March 16, To Be 4-H Club Day At Fat Stock Show

Monday, March 16, will be 4-H Club Day at the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth. This is an annual affair which 4-H Club Girls and Boys all over the State of Texas enjoy. Last year nearly two hundred boys and girls went from Eastland county. However, the number will be smaller this year because of present transportation facilities.
Clubs which have already made arrangements to go are: Young School in Ranger, Alameda, Gorman, Carbon, Colony, Olden, Lone Cedar and Desdemona.
Beside seeing the general exhibits and show, the boys and girls will also see the famous ice skating.
Members of the 4-H Clubs will be admitted by a letter of authorization from either the assistant county agent or the assistant county home demonstration agent. Tickets will also be furnished for ice skating and secured from the same source for 4-H Club members and sponsors.

Getting a Portrait Painted Does Not Take Time of Gov.

AUSTIN—Gov. Stevenson is not permitting the chore of having his portrait painted to interfere with his routine duties.
Seymour Stone of Fort Worth, the artist, files into the Governor's private office and works on the picture while Stevenson goes ahead at his work.
It is not even necessary for the governor to wear the same suit of clothes and tie for the different sittings. That part can be attended to after the face is finished to the satisfaction of the artist.
Stone, a painter of reputation, was artist for the recent portrait of former Vice-President John Nance Garner that has been placed in the Hall of Remembrance in Texas Memorial Museum.
