Fleeing Convicts Make Way Into Oklahoma

WPA Activity Is Halted As Period Ends

Some Projects Unfinished. Will Be Revamped Under New Program

Work in progress since the first project was begun October 9 last, ceased in Howard and other counties of the 18th WPA district Tuesday evening as the first period of the Works Progress Administration came to an official end.

While a large majority of projects undertaken in 11 of the 13 counties in the district since October have been completed, a few were halted short of their goal.

To Be Revamped

District Director R. H. McNew, uncertain as to the exact set-up under which the new program will operate, said that these unfinished projects would be hastily revamped and given preference to all others when the new period started.

Probably next in line for action will be those projects which were given approval under the first period administration but which were not started due to lack of workers, the district director indicated.

McNew said that there was no reason to believe that any other worthwhile community project where labor was available would be considered for approval and execution under the new set-up.

He spent part of Tuesday morning behind closed doors with members of his staff, closing out old projects and making ready for the new federal works program.

Although there was little information on which to base any prediction, McNew said that he anticipated only a slight delay between the end of the current period and the beginning of the new.

Recovery Pace Strong At Half-Year Mark

Surge Of Domestic Trade And Industry Ignores Floods And Politics

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Clockers putting the stop-watch on the 1936 economic race at the half-way mark generally felt the country had taken some of the toughest barriers since the depression lows without a serious break in the recovery stride.

War in Africa, touch-and-go threats to peace and recurring economic crises in Europe and, at home, the worst floods of a decade, distractions of a "political" year and prolonged debate on higher taxes—all flashed past in a fast-moving six months.

Yet the end of a potentially disturbing period found automobiles and steel operations highest in seven and six years, respectively, and markers of still depressed heavy industry like freight car buying up 325 per cent over the first half of 1935, machine tool orders 71 per cent ahead and building construction to the good by 58 per cent.

Market Off Temporarily

Even Wall street, its fingers necessarily more accustomed to counting the world pulse than other sectors, came off well in its contest with threatening outside forces, buoyed by the steady surge of domestic business life.

A generally threatening European outlook as observers awaited the late April French elections, which resulted in a swing to the radical parties, and increased Wall street fears of a French gold embargo, played an important part in touching off the first major share price recession in more than a year.

Equally a factor in the short but sharp interruption to rising prices, stock market observers generally thought, was the duration and extent of the preceding rise which induced many holders to cash par profits.

Stocks Demonstrate Resiliency

As the mid-year approached, however, stock prices had demonstrated their resiliency by almost wiping out the April break. The reputedly shrewd traders of Wall street were showing their wariness chiefly in sharply curtailed activity in the markets.

Department store sales topped the same period in 1935 by about 8 per cent and were about 22 per cent ahead of the worst depression levels, while some large mail order and chain merchandisers reported late spring volumes as best in their histories.

Farm Boy Is Kidnaped But Freed Unhurt

Youth's Car Seized, Later Abandoned For That Of Garage Operator

BUCK CREEK, Childress Co., June 30. (AP)—Luik Trammell and Forrest Gibson, Retrieve prison farm escapees, kidnaped Hugh Pogue, 14-year-old farm boy, last night, and released him at Reed, Okla., today.

The escapees, who fatally shot a prison guard in their break eleven days ago, took possession of the youth's automobile at a filling station here. The fugitives fired bullets into the gasoline tank of their car and commanded Pogue, warning the filling station attendant not to tell officers. The attendant did not report the incident until 11 p. m.

Released Unharméd

Pogue said the men drove to Wellington, 15 miles north of here, then to Reed, where the youth was released unharméd.

Sheriff F. D. Anderson of Hollis, Okla., identified the fugitives through descriptions.

They singled Pete Whittaker, Lugert, Okla., garage operator, after releasing the boy, and fled in Whittaker's car. Oklahoma officers were searching the highways for the pair.

The desperate pair had apparently, for the time being—again eluding posess, as they worked their way westward and northward through the rough ranch country of North Central Texas. Trammell and Gibson continued to escape traps set by officers by abandoning cars, making their way on foot for a time, and then stealing another automobile.

Wreck Their Car

Trapped between Matamor and Paducah last night, the fugitives dashed madly across ranch country in a stolen automobile, wrecked their car, stole another, and disappeared, until they turned up at Buck Creek.

Sheriff A. A. Payne reported he spotted the two convicts at a filling station five miles west of Paducah. He drove on to Paducah to notify officers and when they returned the fugitives had driven toward Matador. Another party of police flushed them near there.

The convicts wheeled the car, drove through a barbed wire fence and sped over a pasture. They wrecked the car in an arroyo and ran to a ranch camp about a mile and a half off the highway. There they stole another car. It was believed to be the one abandoned at Buck Creek when the desperadoes seized the youth.

Furnishes Bond On Charge Filed In Girl's Death Fall

Waco Man Asserts His Fiancee Plunged Off Cliff

WACO, June 30. (AP)—Owens Haynes, 26, Southwestern Bell Telephone company cableman, charged with murder in the death plunge Sunday of Leta Mae Tekle, 23, was released today on bond of $1,500.

Haynes was charged yesterday in connection with the fatal fall of the girl from a lonely spot atop a cliff known as "The Devil's Backstone." He told police the girl, his fiancée, plunged to her death when she broke from him as they conversed near his car.

They had parked on the hill, he said, after visiting night clubs Saturday night.

Called Officers

Haynes called officers shortly after the woman dropped 75 feet into a dense undergrowth at the precipice's foot her lungs punctured and a leg broken. She died Sunday of her injuries, saying she did not remember what had happened.

Haynes told police the pretty brunette fell over a sheer drop but the investigators said indications were that the woman went over a steep slope, and slid down the incline. At a distance of about 25 feet from where Haynes said she fell, portions of her blue dress and the heel of a white shoe were found on rocks and bushes in an examination.

Assistant District Attorney Joe Trippett said the state was basing the murder complaint on two theories, one that Haynes struggled with the girl, knocked her unconscious in some manner, pushed or threw her off the cliff.

Argument Heard

A fisherman, L. L. Hewitt, said he had heard a man and woman argue on the cliff the night of the plunge. He said that after some time there was about a five-minute period of silence and then he heard the sound of a heavy object falling—what he thought at the time might be a rock.

Haynes drove three miles to the police station to notify officers, saying he knew of no way down the incline.

The searching party had to push through dense undergrowth to find the woman's body.

The accused man said that before the fall, he had told Miss Tekle he did not have enough money on which to get married. He had been ordered to Greenville, he said, and Miss Tekle wanted to go with him.

DESPERADO

A picture of Luke Trammell, West Texas desperado who, with Forrest Gibson, was the object of a widespread man hunt in southern Oklahoma. Trammell and Gibson escaped the Retrieve prison farm more than a week ago after killing a guard. Sunday they appeared at Sweetwater and officers have been hot on their trail since.

Group Here To Discuss Plans On Air Derby

City To Be Control Point In Event Sponsored By Ruth Chatterton

The official pathfinder plane of the Ruth Chatterton derby, bearing Clifford W. Henderson, managing director; Bob Blair pilot, and M. F. Gannahill of Los Angeles, stopped in Big Spring Tuesday at noon to confer with chamber of commerce and other officials of the city relative to the coming derby to be staged prior to the National Air Race September 4th to 7th, in Los Angeles.

Henderson told of plans in connection with the derby, which originates in Cleveland and terminates at Los Angeles September 4th, with Big Spring as a control point.

According to plans, the first leg of the western division of the air race, is from either Fort Worth or Dallas to Big Spring. Men and women pilots of the nation are invited to participate in the races, for which Miss Chatterton, who will accompany the group of fliers, is offering a cash prize of $2,000 plus a beautiful trophy. Control points of the western division and western division are also to offer cash prizes for the fliers.

Henderson, in charge as managing director, said interest in the cross-country races was gaining rapidly, and he expected at least 100 fliers to participate. After conferring in Big Spring about an hour, the party left by plane for Los Angeles. They were traveling in Miss Chatterton's private plane.

Rotary Closes P. O. Work To Start Monday

Committee Reports Heard; Retiring President Is Given Pin

Rounding out their club year, which ends on June 30, members of the Big Spring Rotary club, in luncheon session at Hotel Settles Tuesday, heard reports on activities of the past year from various committee chairmen.

The program also was marked by presentation of a past-president's pin to Marvin K. House, who this week retires from the club presidency. Next week, the new state of officers, headed by Elmo Wason as president, will assume duties.

The pin was presented to House by R. T. Piner. The retiring president gave a report on directors' activities of the year, and these committee chairmen made reports:

Tom Ashley, boys' work; Dr. M. H. Bennett, crippled children; Dr. E. O. Ellington, students' loan fund; W. C. Blankenship, youth service; Joe Ogden, rural-urban relations.

Speaker for the day was Roger C. Prialstad of St. Louis, representative of the life saving service of the American Red Cross, who has conducted classes here for life savers.

Plaiestad discussed various phases of first aid work as sponsored by the Red Cross.

Visitors for the day were Glenn Myer, Rotarian from San Angelo, and Grover Dunham and H. G. Burrows.

SELAISSE GREITED BY HOSTILE CROWD AT LEAGUE MEETING

GENEVA, June 30. (AP)—Halle Selassie of Ethiopia faced a hostile demonstration by spectators at the league of nations assembly today to declare that he had been fighting for the cause of small countries faced by powerful invaders.

His first words were drowned by an uproar which threw the assembly into confusion. Police in the galleries arrested a number of alleged fascists.

MONTGOMERY WILL BE HERE SATURDAY

Friends here were notified Tuesday that Julian Montgomery, state director for the Public Works administration, will arrive in Big Spring Saturday morning for the city's Fourth of July celebration. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Montgomery and their daughter, Betty Ann.

Montgomery, with Rep. George Mahon, will be a speaker at ceremonies dedicating the new municipal swimming pool.

Two Are Fatally Beaten, Two Others Hurt; Man Sought

OGDEN, Utah, June 30. (AP)—Adam Snyder, 32, and his wife, Mabel, 32, were beaten to death with a pick handle today and Mrs. Scott Rose, 80, Mrs. Snyder's mother, who also was beaten, was not expected to live.

Mrs. Grace Mortensen, 35, of Salt Lake City, a visitor in the Snyder home, was badly cut and bruised.

Betty Becker, eight-year-old deaf-mute granddaughter, of the Snyders, witnessed the slayings and beatings.

Police were seeking George Mortensen, 37, husband of Mrs. Mortensen, for questioning in connection with the wholesale assault.

BRITISH GOVT. LOSES ON EDUCATION VOTE

LONDON, June 30. (AP)—The British government was defeated today in the house of lords. The defeat, which has no immediate practical effect on the status of the government, came when the Archbishop of Canterbury moved for an amendment to an education bill.

MAN IS ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

MIDLAND, June 30. (Sp1)—Roy Cain, charged with the murder of Jack Denton, was freed here at 10 p. m. Tuesday after a 10th district court jury had deliberated little more than 15 minutes.

Cain pleaded self-defense to killing Denton an ex-pugilist in a Midland beer parlor April 28.

Forsan Group Is Back From Western Trip

Party Of 34 Gone Since June 8; Visited Many Interesting Points

Thirty-four weary members of the Forsan vacation tour party Tuesday morning completed a several thousand mile swing to the Pacific northwest and wrote the fourth annual school trip into history.

Departing here June 8, the group traveled west to El Paso, touched most of the places of scenic interest in New Mexico and Arizona, swing west to the coast, veered north to visit the national monument, tried the pasty waters of Salt Lake, drove to Denver and then south to home.

The party traveled in a large Forsan school bus and was made up of members of the junior and senior classes of the Forsan school and special guests, among them, Miss Sue B. Mann, deputy state superintendent, and Miss Anne Martin county superintendent.

Leland L. Martin, conducting his ninth trip and fourth for Forsan, was in charge of the group. Miss Mann, who will remain here for a few days, was high in her praise of the tour and complimented the efficiency of operation and dispatch with which passengers carried out the program.

Bonus Money Helps Trade In Some Areas

Veterans For Most Part, However, Use Checks To Pay Debts

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The soldiers' bonus has so far proved only a moderate stimulant to business, excepting in a few isolated cases, according to reports to the department of commerce from the leading cities of the country. Many cities reported that the veterans were making good use of their compensation checks in the payment of debts. In New York, few store executives were able to trace any appreciable direct connection between the current increase in retail sales and the bonus payment. Some of these store officials expressed the belief, however, that possession of the bonus bonds had resulted in less hesitancy in spending money.

In Chicago, where bonds were reported to have been cashed to the extent of 50 per cent, purchases with such funds were reported to be extremely conservative. Much the same conditions were found to exist in Philadelphia, although retail trade in that city during the week was swollen to abnormal proportions by the presence of the democratic convention. Cleveland reported that bonus checks have had very little influence on retail sales.

Drouth Discouraging

On the other hand, trade was understood to have been stimulated considerably by the bonus in Detroit, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Jacksonville and Charleston.

While there has been some improvement in the drouth situation in isolated areas, the general run of reports from the drouth districts were far from encouraging. Mississippi reported that the drouth area was being enlarged in the northwest with rain badly needed all over Minnesota and the Dakotas. From St. Louis came the report that crops in the growing stages suffered deterioration in areas comprising about half of the state. Cleveland reported that the Ohio apple crop will only run about 26 per cent of normal while the peach crop will not turn out better than 10 per cent. Oat wheat, however, is running above the average. Throughout Alabama and much of the Tennessee valley, corn and cotton crops are withering in the fields, according to the report from Birmingham. More favorable reports have come from New York state, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Washington state. St. Louis reported that grass hoppers and chinch bugs were doing considerable damage to crops.

The reports from industrial centers indicated that manufacturing activities are holding up well, notwithstanding the fact that we are rapidly approaching the mid-summer period when declines are the usual order.

Gov. Lehman To Run Again

New York Executive Yields To Requests Of Roosevelt And Farley

ALBANY, June 30. (AP)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman announced today he would yield to party resurre and run for a third term as chief executive of the state of New York.

Lehman announced some time ago that he would retire at the end of his current term, but it was known that President Roosevelt and National Democratic Chairman Farley insisted that Lehman seek office again. Staunch new dealer, the New York governor has been a key figure in the Empire state in behalf of the Roosevelt administration.

Lehman's decision came after another conference today with President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Sam Salm's mother, Mrs. Dannie Walton of Beaumont, who has been a guest of the Salm for the past three weeks will leave Wednesday for her home, Miss Dorothy Salm, her grand daughter, will accompany her home for a month's stay. They will visit the Centennial enroute.

Steel Firms Declare War On Unionizing Efforts

Are Ready To Protect Employees From Any Intimidation

NEW YORK, June 30. (UP)—Steel companies employing 500,000 men and capitalized at $5,000,000,000 declared war without quarter today upon attempts to unionize their workers.

Through the American Iron and Steel Institute, the corporations announced they were prepared to withstand strikes and riots and to use all their resources to "protect" employees from intimidation, coercion and violence, and to aid them in maintaining collective bargaining free from interference from any source.

The proclamation directly challenged the new committee for industrial organization, composed of 10 of the largest unions of the American Federation of Labor, headed by President John L. Lewis of the powerful Mine Workers of America. Lewis' organization has raised $500,000 or more to make the third great attempt in 30 years to unionize steel.

Phrasings of the corporations' statement indicated that they expected disturbances of the industry from Lewis' attempts.

The Iron and Steel Institute called attention to a statement by a speaker at the communist national convention, just ended, that "a serious steel strike will be an almost inevitable result of efforts to organize the industry by the communist for industrial organizations."

Leaders on both sides felt the threatened war might spread far beyond the steel industry, it may, many observers felt, have important political aspects.

Behind Lewis and his 400,000 mine workers are 10 unions, comprising the committee for industrial organization. They include steel and tin workers, printers, clothing workers, smelter workers, oil and gas field laborers, and glass workers.

Corporations enlisted on the other side of the war through their statement yesterday include the Bethlehem Steel corporation, United States Steel corporation, Republic Steel, Jones and Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Inland Steel and National Steel. They represent 85 per cent of the industry.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit
By Tom Heasley

ADDITIONAL TOURNAMENT ribbons awards, miniature gold, silver and bronze balls, have arrived and are on display at the chamber of commerce.

EDGAR HENNING, coach of the Sweetwater high school Mustangs, is recreational director at Sweetwater during the summer months and will bring a group of boys here Saturday for the swimming and diving events. Henning is also planning to enter the Mundy golf tournament.

AT LEAST half a dozen local sportsmen are expected to take part in the rifle and pistol shoot here Saturday.

IF LOOKS could kill, Paul Derringer would be fatal to a lot of batters, according to the major league baseball scribes. Whenever an opposing batter makes a bit of the delivery of the Cincinnati Reds' big right hander, Derringer turns his head and glares at the runner with a look that says: "You got a lotta nerve."

ENTRIES FOR the softball tournament have been slow to get in, but apparently there'll be enough teams for a very successful tournament. Lubbock sportsmen will send their strongest softball club.

LOCALLY, SPIKE Henninger's Cosden Oilers should stand a good chance in the tourney. The Cosdenites have been undefeated in league play.

COSDEN, WEST TEXAS MOTOR TIED FOR LEAGUE LEAD
Spike Henninger's Cosden Refiners Have Busy Week-End Schedule

NO MATCHES SCHEDULED THIS WEEK

Cosden and West Texas Motor Mundy league golf teams are tied for the circuit lead as the result of terrific seventh round matches this week.

For the past several weeks the West Texas team has been trailing the Refinery golfers by a single point, but they gained a notch this week to go into a deadlock with the Oilers at 71 points. Cosden decided to take a 9 to 6, and West Texas Motors won from Carter, 10 to 7.

Big Spring Laundry won from Collins Drug golfers, 9 to 0, the Collins team failing to show up for the match. Mundy Pro Charles Akay said the Collins team would either be reorganized or would be dropped from the league.

N'west Fans Steamed Up Over Steele

Tacoma Boy Expected To Bring Title To Evergreen State

TACOMA June 20 (AP)—Northwest fans are steamed up over the chances of a Tacoma boy—Freddie Steele—to bring a world championship to the Evergreen state.

On the night of July 10, in the Seattle baseball park, at least 30,000 spectators will watch the Tacoma "wonder boy" attempt to knock the middleweight crown off the sturdy head of Eddie (Babe) Risko. The fight will be the first bona-fide title bout in the history of the state. If Steele is victorious, he will become the Washington boy to hold a world title. Tod Morgan, former junior lightweight champion, is the only Washington product ever to wear a boxing crown.

Steele won his crack at the crown by whipping Risko in an over-weight match. Although his victory was not sensational, the rangy, hawk-eyed westerner, by virtue of this showing, shortly he was successful in his bid for middleweight honors. Boxing faithful who are unacquainted with Babe Risko's failure to attract crowds in the east, and Freddie Steele's tremendous drawing power on the Pacific coast, wonder how a Seattle promoter invited Gabe Genova's charge into risking his title against a fighter who only recently gave him the beating. The time-worn remark, variously attributed to insurance salesmen and professional athletes, namely: "We aren't in the business for our health," just about answers that query.

GIRL SEEKS OLYMPIC BERTH

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Helen Stephens has her heart set on making the Olympic team just so she can get the chance to race against Stella Walsh.

"I'm gonna beat her," the Fulton (Ga.) Flash drawled. It sounded more like a prophecy than a promise.

"I'd rather beat Stella Walsh than do anything else at the Olympics. But, of course, I'll take anything they're giving away."

The feud between these two outstanding girl sprinters dates back to about a year and a half ago when Stella Walsh allegedly refused to match strides with the big girl from Missouri after signing Helen to run. A short time before, Miss Stephens, completely unknown in track circles, had upset Stella to win a national indoor sprint title.

Team Scoring Honors To Go To Americans

U. S. Olympic Teams To Be Well Balanced In All Divisions

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—America's ability to develop specialists, if not world record smashers, in every branch of track and field competition is the main reason why this country generally has monopolized Olympic team scoring honors.

Rival nations, by choice or necessity, narrow the range of their athletic guns. The result is that the U. S. A. bumps into one collection of specially developed athletes after another. Britain, disregarding the field events almost entirely, concentrates on the short or middle distance foot races. Finland's distance running class is proverbial. Japan's agility in the jumps is paying dividends. The Scandinavians, as a group, have produced more and better all-around performers than any other part of the world.

Trout To Match Holds With Flashy Matsura

Two Very Tough Men On The Semi-Final

Dick Trout, rugged ex-navy boy, and Matsuda Matsura, slippery Oriental who has mastered the jujitsu and other wrestling specialties, will perform in the main event at the Big Spring Athletic club tonight.

PLAY SAN ANGELO ON SATURDAY

Skipper Spike Henninger and his Big Spring Oilers have a busy weekend scheduled. On Independence Day, they play the San Angelo Sheep Herders on the East Third diamond, and Sunday the Coahoma Bulldogs will be entertained here.

From Hays, who leads off for the Cocho crew, to the Sheep Herder pitchers, the Angelo aggregation presents a strong array of power and may be tough to handle, but Allen Wiggins should be ready to take them, since the speedy right-hander has had more than a week of rest.

Either Spoons or Hobough will throw them over for the Angelo team. Both of the fingers marked up victories Sunday at the expense of a Lovelock team, allowing a total of 11 hits in 18 innings.

The Oilers will probably do the receiving for the Angelenos.

A. A. U. Field Events Will Start On Friday

Princeton Championships Top Track Programs

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)
PRINCETON, N. J., June 20 (UP)—A dress rehearsal for America's Olympic team will be held in Palmer stadium July 3-4 when the country's foremost athlete: compete in the 48th annual National A. A. U. track and field championship.

It will be the last big meet before the final Olympic tryouts at Randall's Island, New York, July 11-12. A majority of the athletes who will bid for places on the Olympic team will compete in the National A. A. U.

Eighteen champions will defend their titles in the A. A. U. meet, including Eugene Peacock, Temple negro who was a double winner in the 100 meters and broad jump at Lincoln, Neb., last year. Peacock pulled a tendon in the Penn relays, and the injury may prevent him from reaching top form.

Owens in Two Events
Jesse Owens, Ohio State's great negro athlete who recently scored a "grand slam" in the National Collegiate A. A. meet at Chicago in winning the 100-meter dash, 200-meter dash, 200-meter low hurdles and the broad jump, will compete in two events—the 100 meters and broad jump.

Larry Snyder, Ohio State coach, reversed his first decision to keep Owens out of the A. A. U. to save him for the final Olympic tryouts, feeling that the layoff might do him more harm than good.

Ralph Metcalfe, former Marquette negro flash, will seek his fourth consecutive triumph in the 220-meters, which he won last year in 21 seconds. Metcalfe, who finished second to Eddie Tolan in both sprints at the 1932 Olympics, also will attempt to regain the 100-meter crown he held in 1934.

Glenn Cunningham, Kansas, Gene Vanke, Pennsylvania, and Bill Bontrouf, former Princeton star, will renew their keen rivalry in the 1,500 meters. Cunningham is the defending champion.

Team Title in Doubt
The battle for the team title promises to be one of the closest in years. The New York Athletic club, which has held the title for the past four years, will enter its strongest squad in history, numbering 40 athletes.

Led by Ben Eastman and Walter Marty, won't record holders, the Olympic club, San Francisco, will be represented by 20 of the Far West's finest athletes. Southern California, boasting the strongest college team ever developed, will make its first 1936 eastern appearance. The Trojans ran away with the N. C. A. A. meet, scoring 103 1-3 points.

Oilers Beat Shell, 8 To 7

League Leaders Almost Upset by Shell Red Raiders

(By HANK HART)
Before succumbing to a frantic Cosden attack in the eighth stanza, the Shell Red Raiders almost gave the Mundy league its biggest upset of the year last night, but the Oilers jumped in to take advantage of numerous Shell errors in that frame and won out, 8-7.

The Raiders fought all the way, making a game battle of it until Pepper Martin, who had homered in the second, started an uprising in the eighth. From that point the Cosdenites could not be stopped.

A poor fielding exhibition on the part of the entire Cosden infield gave the Raiders a chance to push the Oilers. They combined six Cosden miscues with 11 base hits to count their seven runs.

Able Burrus, on the hill for the Forsan team, gave up a total of 13 hits, including Martin's home run, circuit clout by Jack Smith and Dutch Moxley, and a trio of licks by Skeets West.

The Oiler-West game, scheduled for Friday night of this week, has been postponed due to its conflict with the invitational softball tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Bailey and children of the Shell camp are on an extended trip to points in southern Texas.

Mrs. Wilbur Dunn of Forsan left Sunday for a month's stay in San Angelo.

Mrs. Bob White of the Magnolia camp is recovering from a major operation performed about a month ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson were in Hobbs, N. M., the past week.

The Church of Christ of Forsan will hold a revival the latter part of July. Melvin J. Wise of Abilene, a former minister in Big Spring, will have charge of the services.

Mrs. Vera Harris, postmaster of the Forsan post office, wishes to announce that beginning with the first of July the post office at Forsan will be rated as third class instead of fourth class.

Mrs. Doehner of Waco, who has been visiting in the M. M. Kennedy home, left for Waco Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leonard and two sons of the Continental camp returned Friday from several months stay in Lyons, Kans.

Rev. Walter Devers and Mrs. Devers left after church services Sunday evening for their home in Snyder. Rev. Devers has had to give up his pastorate on account of ill health.

Miss Dorothy La Fever entertained a few of her friends with a swimming and dancing party at her home Friday evening.

Jimnie Bell of Oklahoma is in Forsan for several months stay. He is employed by the Amerada company.

Mrs. W. M. Alkire and children, formerly of Forsan now of Odessa, Texas, left for Ardmore, Okla., the past week-end to visit Mrs. Alkire's parents.

Those enjoying the swimming with a picnic afterwards at the park in Big Spring were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson and Jimmie, Bebe and George Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spratt and Harold Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gardner and Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Leonard and Billie and Bobbie, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Williams, Mrs. Vera Harris and Myra Neil, and Mr. Dallas Childers.

MOSES ENTERS RACE FOR SENATE SEAT

CONCORD, N. H., June 30. (UP) George Higgins Moses, 67, tart-tongued old guard republican, will try to recapture his former senate seat in a tight race for legislation that he considers detrimental.

It was Moses who dubbed the senate's western progressives "sons of the wild jackass."

The victor in the September primaries will be opposed in the November election by Rep. William N. Rogers, who will be unopposed for the democratic nomination.

MAKER OF LONE-STAR FLAG TO BE HONORED

ATLANTA, Ga., June 30. (UP)—Joanna Troutman, the "Betty Ross" of Texas Lone Star flag, will be honored by a bronze tablet to be erected at her old home at Louisville, Ga. It was announced here today.

History recounts that Miss Troutman stitched a lone-star to be carried by a Georgia company which had volunteered for service in Texas in 1835. The flag later became the emblem of the independent republic of Texas.

The tablet was cast at the Georgia School of Technology under the supervision of the WPA. It will be unveiled at Louisville at a simple ceremony within a few weeks.

Miss Troutman's body was removed from Crawford, Ga., to the state cemetery at Austin, Tex., in 1913. A monument has been erected to her there.

An unusually fine fight picture, presented in both natural and slow motion, is being shown at the Ritz theater today and tomorrow. It is a round-by-round and blow-by-blow picture account of one of the greatest upsets in the realm of heavyweight fistiana.

Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight champion who was not given a chance in his fight with the black Detroit Destroyer, blasted the bewildered Joe Louis apart in the 12th round.

Louis could take, and a hard looping right late in the 12th beat sent Joe screaming into the ropes and down on the mat for the fatal count by Referee Arthur Donovan.

The picture is complete—and clear is every respect.—T.E.R.

J. W. Phillips, farmer residing two miles north of Moore school-house, suffered a stroke of paralysis Saturday. He was doing as well as could be expected Tuesday.

THERE is a reason why Louis Meyer won the 500-mile Indianapolis race this year—and why he is the only man ever to win this gruelling race three times.

Louis Meyer knows tire construction. He also knows that to drive for 500 consecutive miles over this hot brick track, negotiating the dangerous curves 800 times at the record-breaking average speed of 109 miles an hour, requires tires of super strength and greatest blowout protection, as a blowout on any one of the dangerous curves would likely mean instant death.

When you make your holiday trip this week-end, you of course will not drive 109 miles per hour, but at today's higher speeds you do need tires that will give you greatest blowout protection and will stop your car up to 25% quicker.

Larger Pig Crop Is Seen

Increase Of 29 Per Cent Forecast By Federal Board

WASHINGTON, June 30. (UP)—The federal crop reporting board today forecast an increase of 29 per cent in the 1936 spring pig crop over 1935.

The board also estimated approximately 14 per cent more sows would be farrowed this fall than in the fall of 1935, and that the total farrowing in 1936 would increase about 24 per cent over the 1935 total.

The report said department of agriculture statistics showed a "moderate increase" in the number of hogs over six months of age on June 1 as compared with the number on June 1, 1935.

"Although the number of litters farrowed in 1936 promises to be substantially larger than the abnormally small numbers in 1934 and 1935 it will be nearly 20 per cent below the average of 1932 and 1933 and probably below any other year in the last 20 years at least," the reports said.

The board's report did not take into consideration the severe drought which has encompassed the southwest and which is threatening, if continued, to do considerable damage to the season's corn crop.

GOVERNOR'S RACE IS PROVING COSTLY

AUSTIN, July 30. (UP)—Races for governor are proving expensive this year. Three candidates for the office who have filed preliminary expense statements show $14,000 spent.

F. W. Fischer, Tyler, has spent $5,277; Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls, $4,124, and Sen. Roy Sanderford, Belton, $4,692.

Statements had not been filed yet by Gov. James V. Allred nor P. Pierce Brooks, Dallas.

A statute limits expenses for the whole campaign to $10,000. Excess expenditure bars the candidate from the ballot, the statute said, but that part of the act was held invalid two years ago when Governor Allred's campaign expenses were contested at San Antonio.

Righteousness and virtue should wake up to the evils that threaten our civilization, and begin to take steps to counteract these gigantic evils.—J. E. BLAIR.—(Submitted by the local W. C. T. U.)

ARGUMENT ORDERED ON SOCIAL SECURITY TEST CASE IN COURT

NEWARK, N. J., June 30. (AP)—The government Monday lost the first skirmish in a court challenge of the constitutionality of the federal social security act, when Judge Guy L. Fake ordered arguments to begin tomorrow.

The jurist who already has ruled two new deal acts unconstitutional rejected a government plea that arguments be put over until September. Judge Fake instructed Merritt Lane, counsel for the Newark Milk company, to start oral arguments tomorrow when he will set the date for the government's reply. Lane, asking for immediate argu-

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—With congress and the conventions out of the way, the president is expected to give some quiet study to the international field, especially to the Far East and a common policy with Great Britain.

This was the principal subject of discussion during the recent conference between Roosevelt and Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines. Not much is being said about it, but the situation in the Far East is anything but cheerful for the U. S.

So Roosevelt rushed out an announcement ending the embargo. It came after the British decision on sanctions, but at least it was all of the same tenor.

Chapter 26 THE COSSACK

No clue—nothing. Perhaps Rupert's note held something. Briefly hesitating, Dirk tore it open. She had written:
Dear Rupert:
Thank you for all you have done. It would not be right for me to stay longer. The five thousand dollars you gave me when I came, is simple payment. I accept it as such, and will never trouble you.

Gone without a trace.
But Hope must be found, for Rupert's sake, as well as his own. Rupert, Graves had reported that morning, had been asking for her, desired urgently to see her, though he would not consent to her coming on to Old Forge.
They would bring Rupert home the moment it was safe, because of his desire to be near Hope. Apparently he had emerged from his illness with some new resolve, some good sense of duty, with even-though Dirk's mind veered from such a conclusion—some new affection. Such change was not unusual after violent illness.
Dirk telephoned to Logan who restrained him from going to the Araby to question Fazzini.
"That's my quarry," Logan said. "But I don't question him."
He asked for Mrs. Joris's home address—"Though it's not likely she's gone there."—And said he would report next morning.
Dirk went into Hope's room. Impossible to feel that it would not furnish some trace, some betrayal of what she had meant to do.
One thing was absent—the guitar. It had lain in its case on the floor of the kas. Dirk thought of the revolver, and opened the wall safe. The revolver was there. She had forgotten, or abandoned it.
He went about the room, knocking on the walls, seeking for some spring, some hollow sound, that might indicate a sliding panel. There was no sign of either.
He could not stay in the house, but got into his car and drove to Manhattan, past the Araby. Opposite the Araby was a Russian restaurant whose doorman, dressed in red coat and Cossack boots, contributed a dash of color to the crowded sidewalk. Dirk, driving slowly, chanced to catch the doorman's eye, and that vivid personage winked, almost imperceptibly. The Cossack, tonight, at least, was Dinwiddie.

So they were at work on what, to Dinwiddie, was something of a lark. Dirk could himself see the grimness of the joke.
Logan found Hope on the day before Rupert was to return. "You were right," he said, as he drove with Dirk to the house in which he was staying, a house in whose neighborhood Dinwiddie was at the moment lurking watchfully. "You were right when you said this Fazzini might not be Tony, but one of his brothers."
"He's not Tony—I knew that as soon as Dinwiddie showed him to me. Dinwiddie bought the doorman's job at the Russian bar, and I've been inside eating caviar or waiting on tables. At ten o'clock this morning this man came out—the one Dinwiddie says Mrs. Joris went to see."
"He and several bags hopped a taxi, and I hoped another. Looked like he was bound for a train, but I figured—since I was pretty certain she wasn't in Fazzini's house—that he wouldn't go without seeing her."
"He didn't. He drove straight to this house in Old Chelsea. She was evidently on the look-out for him, for she and another girl came out as soon as he got there. The other girl looked Scandinavian, or maybe Russian. A blond, ugly and strong looking, with bushy hair and knobby legs. I'd seen her before, coming out of Fazzini's place."
"They got in the taxi with the man, and they all drove to the dock. The man and the blond went aboard the 'Porras,' a Finnish freighter, and Mrs. Joris came back alone, on a surface car. I saw her go into the house, then I phoned you. I didn't leave to meet you till Dinwiddie came."
"That's the place. I don't see Dinwiddie anywhere. She must have gone out."
Logan had designated one of a row of modest gray stone houses that must once have been private homes. They were in Twenty-second Street now, had just turned out of Tenth Avenue.

"I haven't asked any questions in the neighborhood," Logan added. "Don't want to scare the bird away. . . . There's Dinwiddie now."
They had driven across Ninth Avenue, and had come upon Dinwiddie, parrying at a fruit stand, Dinwiddie, dressed like decent American, eating an apple.
Dinwiddie approached them casually, waited for an elevated-train to thunder by.
"She's just gone in that new house," he said then, and with his apple covertly indicated a Gothic doorway further along. "Black suit, red hat. Carrying a guitar."
It was a cold day with unmelting snow piled in the street. Dirk had been at home when Logan telephoned, and knowing he would see Hope, had brought her raccoon coat. He got out of the car now, and Dinwiddie took his place. The two men drove off, and Dirk walked on, waiting near the Gothic doorway for Hope to appear.
"Oh, but you shouldn't! You had no right."
He was certain she would have cried if they had not been on the street. He had overtaken her, had gently but firmly appropriated the guitar-case, managing a low and smiling, "Hello, Hope."
She released the guitar-case, but began to walk fast and faster, as if with some wild hope of escaping him. Presently—perhaps because people were noticing them—she let him put the fur coat over her cloth one. Then, as they walked on,
"What right have you to trail me like this?" she asked shakily, her face still white under the red beret. "I told you in my note not to find me. It was easy, I suppose, but why? Why can't I . . . What right have you?"
"Wouldn't the fact that you left your coat," he said, "give me the right to bring it to you? It's enough to make you ill, going without if, when you're used to it."

"But I've got to talk to you, Hope," halting too, and adding at once, "Don't worry, I'm not going to ask you any questions. I haven't trailed you, as you say, to find out why you ran away—though how you could do it when you know how I cared, and what it would do to me—No matter. Can't we go somewhere and have lunch? It's about Rupert," he added.
She looked at him for the first time since that shocked and startled glance.
"Rupert?" she repeated. Then, consulting her watch, "it will have to be somewhere near."
They found a neighborhood restaurant where they sat in a booth, eating they scarcely knew what, while Dirk explained to Hope that Rupert was asking for her, was straining to get better and come home, that he might be with her. She seemed puzzled, slightly incredulous.
"Why? Why should he want to see me?"
"That I can't tell you. I'm merely quoting Graves."
He paused, and she said, "I can't understand it. Can you?"
"No. Sick men have their vagaries. But it may be serious for him if you're not there."
Presently she said, "It's decent of you not to say it's my obligation to come back; not to remind me that I married him, and all that. I'll go back with you, but . . . It's only fair to tell you I can only stay awhile."
"Fair?" he repeated. "It's good to hear you say that word. Won't you be fair again, and tell me when you leave? Not sneak off the way you did this time, and let me go to the devil, if I wanted to?"
"I know," she said. "But . . . I love you. You know it. You would have stopped me. I had to go. You would have made it hard."
"Will you tell me, Hope . . . if I promise to let you go?"
"Do you promise that?" she asked.
"I do."
"Then," she said, "I promise to tell you."
"And you're coming back with me," he had risen.
"Yes," quickly. "But not this minute. I've got . . . There's something I must see to first."

RISE EXPECTED IN WHEAT PRICE

WASHINGTON, June 29 (UP)—Higher prices are in prospect for a number of farm products, according to a report of the bureau of agricultural economics.
These commodities include wheat, corn, hogs, butter, eggs, wool and the better grades of steers, the bureau said. Seasonal price declines are expected for the lower grades of steers, lambs, potatoes and poultry.
"Supplies of heat for the 1936-37 season may be larger than would be required to provide for the annual domestic consumption and to build up reserve stocks within the United States," the report said. "This would result in prices above export levels."
"Corn prices may be expected to continue at about present levels, and changes in the price of oats and barley will be determined largely by crop developments. Prices of better grade steers, wool, eggs and butter will probably rise to levels above those of a year ago."

As to commodities on which lower prices are in prospect, the bureau said:
"Prices on lower grades of slaughtered cattle are expected to follow the usual downward trend in the last half of the year. Lamb prices have reached the highest levels since 1930; slaughter supplies are expected to increase rapidly in the next few months and prices probably will decline as receipts increase."
Despite a sharp reduction in potato production, the bureau said that potato prices are expected to decline irregularly from the recent high levels."

GALVESTON BIDS FOR PORT HONOR

HOUSTON, June 30 (UP)—Galveston will win the title of the world's largest cotton port from Houston by Aug. 1 when it completes handling 300,000 bales for the American Cotton Cooperative association, according to local port officials.
Port Houston has held top rank in cotton shipping and handling since 1924. Recently, however, the Cotton Concentration corporation of Galveston contracted with the cooperative to handle its 300,000 bales on a non-profit basis.
The cotton will start moving through Galveston on July 1. Arrangements for handling the cotton were made by George Sealy of the Galveston firm and E. E. Creechmore, New Orleans, vice-president of the cooperative association.
Association officials here said the new route would effect a large saving on port and compress charges.
Since Aug. 1, 1935, Houston has exported 1,549,625 bales, with total receipts of 1,718,799 bales, compared with Galveston's exports of 1,380,150 and receipts of 1,356,122 bales. Shifting of the 300,000 bales would place Galveston at the top.
Houston took the lead in 1924 when favorable rates were given the city because its location inland boomed the cotton and steamship industries at Galveston's expense.

Funeral Held For Mrs. J. F. Berry

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Roberta Berry, 57, wife of J. F. Berry, well known Glascock county ranchman, were held at Garden City at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with Dr. Everett, minister of Sterling City, officiating. Burial was made in the Garden City cemetery.

Mrs. Berry, long-time resident of Glascock county, succumbed at 12:30 a. m. Monday at Glen Rose, where she had gone a short time ago in search of a climate more beneficial to her health. The body was returned here and taken to Garden City in an Eberly funeral coach.

Survivors besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Cox and Mrs. Myri McWhirter, and a son, Clyde Berry, all of Garden City; three grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Georgia Zimmerman of Stanton, and a brother, Joe Morris.

George Raft And Joan Bennett Seen In Film At Ritz

George Raft, who first won honors in gangster portrayals, reverts to this type of characterization in "She Couldn't Take It," comedy romance in which he is teamed with Joan Bennett and which plays Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ritz theater.

Raft is seen as the ex-rum runner, Ricard, repenting his sins in the federal penitentiary, where he meets Walter Connolly, millionaire financier serving time for tax evasion. Connolly is impressed by the young man's earnestness and determination to go straight, so that when death comes to him in the prison cell, his last words are a plea to Raft to act as executor of his estate and guardian of his petulant family.

What happens when Raft takes charge of the family and fortune, despite the vigorous protests of the tempestuous Miss Bennett, her playboy brother, James Blakely, and her count and poet patronizing mother, Billie Burke, accounts for many amusing sequences. Others in the cast are Lloyd Nolan, Wallace Ford, Alan Mowbray, Donald Meek, and William Tannen.

The Ritz Tuesday-Wednesday program also features the round-by-round films of the Schmeling-Louis fight.

traffic, private building and plant modernization, promoted by better business profits, and the ease with which big industry could obtain funds in a glutted money market.

The crux of the situation, observers said, was mirrored in Standard Statistics' index of capital goods production, the latest compilation of which stood at 71.6 with 1926 being calculated as 100, while the consumers goods industries index on a similar base was 101.9.

At the same time, optimism was derived from the fact that the first half of this year showed a lift of 38 per cent for capital goods from the first half of 1935 and of 98 per cent from 1933.
