TWO ARE KILLED IN A HEAD-ON COLLISION ON HIGHWAY EARLY SUNDAY

Two youths were killed almost instantly when the cars in which they and several others were riding crashed head-on at the eastern city limits of Ranger on Highway 80 early Sunday morning.

The dead are Catarino Rodriguez, 21, of Ranger and William Horace Brown, 23, of Lipan, Hood County. Vasquez died about two hours after the accident, which occurred at 2 a. m., while Brown died upon being received at the West Texas Hospital in Ranger. Funeral services for Vasquez were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the burial in Evergreen Cemetery. The Morris-Stone Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

The Mexican youth was a member of the Catholic Church, and an employee of the Texas and Pacific Railway, working in the section gang. Survivors include his widow, Santos Vasquez, and his father.

The body of Brown was sent overland to Lipan, where funeral services were to be conducted. He was born in Lipan July 22, 1919, and had been a resident of Lipan all his life. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edward Brown of Lipan.

Officers reported Monday that about an hour after the accident a car in which two women and two men were riding stopped in a filling station in Eastland, and told officers there that they had witnessed the wreck. One of the women was reported to have gone into a rest room to clean up, as she said she had helped move the injured men, and her hands were bloody.

After the four left the filling station an attendant found a wallet in the rest room, officers said. Later it was identified as belonging to one of the accident victims, and the four were arrested.

The four were being questioned Monday, officers, who did not reveal their names, reported, although no charges had been filed at the time. The four denied having left the wallet, officers said.

Scott Tugdal of Lipan, who was riding in the car with Brown, was injured slightly. He was released from the West Texas Hospital after receiving treatment for his injuries. Four others riding in the car with Vasquez received only minor injuries.

Navy Air Cadets Slated To Receive Training In June

DALLAS — Applications requesting the new pre-flight training school announced last week by Lieut. Comdr. Barry Holton, of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board in the Allen Building, are coming in rapidly and the first class of men slated to leave Dallas in June, is expected to be filled within a short time.

These men will undergo a vigorous physical training program at the University of Georgia that is intended to make American naval air fighters harder and tougher than anything the axis powers can produce.

While in training, the men will receive along with regular daily drills, instruction on how to swim five miles under full pack, how to swim in oil burning water, how to kill or cripple a foe with bare hands, and how to use knees, arms, and feet as well as brains, to overpower the enemy.

Commander Holton pointed out that the new physical program is exactly what is needed to harden our flyers to withstand the hardships of war. He also pointed out that each flyer forced down behind enemy lines, who was eventually able to return to his own unit, represented a savings of approximately $12,000, the cost of his training.

"This step is necessary", Holton stated, "in order that our naval aviators may be able to withstand the gaff of rough fighting. Many of our men have grown soft in the last 20 years due to the easy American way of living and this program will definitely make fighters that will push forward to battle and not veer away from any encounter with the enemy. This sort of action is what it takes to win wars."

CHILDREN SHOULD BE SAFEGUARDED DURING WARTIME

AUSTIN, Texas.—"In any war the future of the children must be safeguarded so that they can live and share in the freedom to follow," declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"They must be nourished, sheltered, and protected, even in the stress of wartime production, so that they will be strong to carry forward a just and lasting peace. Our American Republic sprang from a sturdy people yearning for tolerance, independence, and self-government. The American home has emerged from the search for freedom. Within it the child lives and learns through his own efforts the meaning and responsibilities of freedom.

"Both as a wartime responsibility and as a stepping stone to our future and theirs, all citizens should join together to—

1. Guard children from injury in danger zones.
2. Protect children from neglect, exploitation, and undue strain in defense areas.
3. Strengthen the home life of children whose parents are mobilized for war or war production.
4. Conserve, equip, and free children of every race and creed to take part in democracy."

POULTRY FORMS ARE BOOSTING EGG PRODUCTION

AUSTIN, Texas.—Texas chicken farms are still boosting production to meet the increasing demands for eggs, as 1,301 carloads were shipped to market in April, almost three times the shipments of a year ago, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Of the total April shipments, 447 cars were intrastate movements, while 854 cars went to other states.

The out-of-state shipments went in greatest numbers to the Eastern state of Massachusetts, Rhode Island received 395 carloads—almost half of the inter-state shipments.

Contrasted with the increasing shipment of eggs was the sharp decline in poultry shipments. The number of carloads of dressed chickens fell from 43 a year ago to 11.5, and of dressed turkeys from 10 in April, 1941, to 3.5.

SEBASTAPOL, Cal.—W. S. "Bill" Borba believes he is a natural born "stayer." He is the only resident of the city who has lived in the same house and never changed address in 50 years. He is also the only one of a family of eleven children who has remained permanently in the city.

DEPENDENT'S ALLOWANCES ARE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—The Senate Military Affairs Committee today unanimously approved a bill to establish a system of allowance for dependents of men in the armed services. The bill would provide $50.00 a month for a wife of an enlisted man.

Sen Johnson of Colorado, co-author with Sen Josh Lee of Oklahoma, of the bill, told reporters that the committee voted to report the measure, although there were technical changes in its language that still must be made.

He said that he would press for action on the measure as early as possible.

The committee approved an amendment which would authorize the Selective Service System to establish categories of dependents and to defer from service men with bonafide dependents, even if they could support their dependents, from other income, if they were in service.

But such deferments would be subject to proof of "bona fide" family relationship and to marriage prior to the war.

COST OF LIVING ITEMS ARE FILED WITH LOCAL BOARD

DALLAS—Retailers were reminded today by Max L. McCullough, region OPA administrator, that their lists of cost-of-living commodities are to be filed with their local county rationing board and not with the Regional OPA office or with the OPA field office.

Mr. McCullough said that many retailers are mistakenly sending and bringing their lists to the Dallas office. He also reminded them that the deadline for filing the list of cost-of-living commodities has been postponed from June 1 to July 1.

"There is no set form for listing these commodities," Mr. McCullough said. "The Regulation says only that the retailer shall file a statement showing his maximum price for each cost-of-living commodity which he handles, together with an appropriate description or identification of it."

DETROIT FEARS EXHAUSTION OF LABOR SUPPLY

By ANTHONY G. DE LORENZO
United Press Staff Correspondent
DETROIT—This vital war production area soon may be face-to-face with a serious shortage of workers whose skill is necessary to out-produce the Axis.

The situation has become so critical, according to one important official of the War Production Board, that it is discouraging officials at Washington from earmarking any large war orders requiring new plant facilities to this area.

"Although the industrial 'know how' to turn out difficult war production jobs is here," he explained, "we've got to be careful that we don't overburden the available labor supply. The outpouring of war contracts to Detroit industries since Pearl Harbor has been terrific."

According to the best estimates of federal employment service experts, the unemployment problem created by suspension of automobile production last Feb. 1, virtually has disappeared. They predict that by August, Detroit will have exhausted the present supply of idle labor and will be forced to recruit and additional army of 165,000 workers, chiefly from outlying areas and by shutting off of non-essential manufacturing activity.

Approximately 505,000 men and women were engaged in factory work in this area during April, an increase of 15,000 over March and 7,000 over the June, 1941, peacetime peak. An additional 50,000 probably will be in the factories by June.

These experts, forecasting on the basis of reports from 512 manufacturing firms in this area, believe that some 755,000 workers will be required when industries in this area hit capacity output during late Spring or mid-summer of 1943. Net labor supply now available is 170,000 persons, of whom 90,000 are idle workers and 80,000 are women and others 'not previously in the labor market.'

It was estimated, however, that at least 70,000 men will be removed from the Detroit area labor supply reservoir during the next year, leaving only 100,000 men and women actually available for war work. These workers, statisticians believe, should be absorbed in the quickly-expanding war plants by August.

Detroit's ability to recruit 165,000 additional workers will be determined partly on its success in providing housing and adequate transportation. Federal officials believe that 10,000 to 15,000 workers could be drawn into the labor market if satisfactory transportation to and from outlying areas could be provided.

Actual employment estimates of the manufacturing plants armed with war orders indicate that peak wartime production will require 830,000 workers by September, 1943. However, officials of the WPB believe that 75,000 fewer factory workers will be needed because of time-saving production methods developed by the automotive industry.

USED EGG CRATES MAY CREATE NEW BOTTLENECK SOON

COLLEGE STATION.—Don't hoard egg crates and create bottlenecks in the movement of eggs to market, the Texas USDA War Board advised this week.

The increased production of eggs makes it necessary that every effort be made to keep all egg crates in circulation, the board informed the 254 county USDA war boards in the state.

The state board warned that egg cases should not be held for speculation or for anticipated use over more than a reasonable period of time, pointing out that "this type of hoarding is to be deplored as much as the hoarding of other commodities vital to an all-out war effort."

The unprecedented production of eggs this year has made it difficult for some producers, farmers and dealers to obtain sufficient egg crates, the USDA group declared. At the same time the board urged that crates be handled as carefully as possible to avoid damage.

Olden Youth Being Trained For Navy At Geat Lakes, Ill.

Woodrow Williamson, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Williamson of Olden, is now receiving United States Navy training at the training station at Great Lakes, Ill.

Young Williamson was received at the U. S. Naval Training Station at Great Lakes recently, and is now undergoing training. The new recruit will be given a series of aptitude tests to determine whether he will be sent for further instruction at one of the Navy's many service schools, or will be assigned for duty at sea or at some other naval station, according to word received here today from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

The first error any of us commits is not likely to prove very serious unless we follow it with the error of denying it.

MORE PHYSICANS TO BE TURNED OUT FOR UNCLE SAM

AUSTIN, Texas.—A science-packed War Emergency Program to turn out physicians for Uncle Sam in 20 months will be opened this summer by the University of Texas physics department, Dr. M. Y. Colby, department chairman, has announced.

Urgent need for trained radio technicians and other physicists in military service, civil service jobs, and in war industries has caused the department to set up a new schedule of courses eliminating all "frills" and getting down to hard technical bed-rock in the shortest time possible.

The 75 semester hours of work embraced in the program—about 25 courses—are all in the fields of physics, mathematics and chemistry. No other academic work is included, so no degree will be awarded on completion of the program, but the work is all of college level and carries full University credit, Dr. Colby explained.

It offers a wide open field for all students—both men and women, freshmen straight from high school, college transfers and students now enrolled in the University who want to take a rapid-fire war-service training program for immediate vital use, he said.

A year ago, he pointed out, estimates showed only 6,000 qualified physicists were available in this country, while today there is a need for perhaps as many as 100,000.

Students may start the program at the beginning of the summer session, June 4; the second summer term, July 14; or the first or second term of the long session.

Young Hoffman To Graduate At N. Mexico School

William Hilton Hoffman, son of Mayor and Mrs. C. W. Hoffman of 903 South Seaman, Eastland, will receive a high school certificate from New Mexico Military Institute on Tuesday morning, June 2. He has been enrolled in the High School division for two years, and is completing the Basic Course in the Senior Cavalry Unit of the R.O.T.C.

Sixty-eight per cent of the cadets receiving high school certificates enroll in the junior college division, and may become graduates of New Mexico Military Institute after completing the two-year course. Governor Miles will present diplomas to 142 graduates at the June 2 ceremonies.

Enrollment at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, is limited to 620 cadets. Of this number, 138 are from Texas.

U. S. Destroyer Damaged By Sub

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—The 1,900-ton World War type destroyer Blakeley has been damaged by a torpedo from an enemy submarine in the Caribbean Sea, the Navy announced today. The Blakeley reached port with 10 members of its crew reported missing and six injured.

The injured men have been hospitalized and the next of kin of both the injured and the missing have been notified.

THE WEATHER

WEST TEXAS—Little temperature change tonight. At some time in his life, each man can prove he is right if he will but have the courage to stand for his convictions.

The position of the Soviet armies on the Ukraine front, particularly at Kharkov, was obvious serious today, but Moscow dispatches said the Russians still were holding their positions and breaking up persistent, big-scale German counterattacks on their southern flank.

The Berlin radio continues to claim that the trapped Russian armies had been unable to break out and were being crushed by air and mechanized attacks.

London experts said the German forces had apparently achieved some success, but that it was unlikely that there were more than four to seven Soviet divisions on the south flank, instead of 400,000 men which Axis-inspired broadcasts reported trapped.

Berlin radio also reported that German, Italian and Japanese Naval Forces had adopted a joint plan for intensified operations against United Nations on all sea fronts, but Moscow said Hitler was having trouble with his generals again and that a showdown was about to come between Axis and Vichy.

On other fronts — China—Chinese hurl back Jap attacks on allied base of Kinhsu, from three sides. Heavy enemy casualties are reported in battles still in progress. Jap warships concentrate around Formosa for invasion of Fukien Province.

Australia — Allied bombings in attacks on Rabaul and Lae damaged runways and buildings and destroyed four enemy planes bases of Japs.

Four Injured In Auto Collision Near Eastland

Mrs. Jim Wood, who lives a few miles east of Eastland, and her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Taber of Sager-ton, were painfully injured about 4:00 p. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding and one driven by J. A. Hood of Eastland, collided.

D. E. Childress and Butch Griffin, who were riding with Hood were also more or less painful injured. All four of the injured parties received medical treatment.

We Won't Starve

Approximately a year ago we went overboard, in the desire to be cheerful, and promised there would be no gasoline shortage in this country.

We argued the matter learnedly, starting from the fact that we alone of all the great nations possess more petroleum and more refining capacity than we and our allies could use.

Something — perhaps a Washington rumor — tells us we were wrong. For 17 states and the District of Columbia there is a very distinct shortage of motor fuel, and the rest of the country probably will not escape.

About the same time we were certain, but the notion was too silly to dignify with even passing mention, that the United States never would face a troublesome food shortage.

The reasoning was similar to that in the case of gasoline. Well, now we're drinking coffee with only one lump of sugar. Many restaurants are refusing second cups to patrons. Pepper and paprika are rationed to the trade. Bananas are six cents each, and the fruiterer wonders whether there will be any soon. Tea is on the way out. So is pineapple.

All these, of course, are imported. The premium upon shipping space makes them hard to get.

Just to clear our conscience of the bad advice on gasoline, however, let us record today that we are going to meet up soon with scarcities in a lot of foodstuffs that do not have to be brought into the United States by sea—things that we raise on our own mainland in huge quantities.

We shall find these foods scarce for two simple reasons that didn't occur to us a year ago.

First, because the Army, the Navy and war manufacture are drafting our manpower so heavily that the farmers can not get enough help to plant, cultivate and harvest the crops.

Second, because our railroads are coming close to the limits of their carrying capacity.

Soon, the movement of foodstuffs will be regulated strictly so they will not impede the movement of military material. Then we shall wind less variety on grocers' shelves.

But — and this is the important thing — we can still be certain that we are not going to face starvation or malnutrition. Up to that point, foods will have to give way to war freight. At that point, war freight will give way to foodstuffs.

Why? Merely because only a properly fed nation can meet adequately the production demands that will save democracy.

The Payoff

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

Because young ball players of today evidently consider catching paraphernalia the tools of ignorance, Lamanno and his fellow Californian, Clifford Dapper of the Brooklyn, are exceptional athletes.

Eyebrows were raised when the Reds let lumbering Ernie Lombardi go to the Braves with payment to be made at a later date.

What if Ralston Hensley should fall apart like the one-hoss shay? it was asked.

But now it is apparent that Wily William McKechnie knew what he was about. There was a kid from Birmingham named Lamanno. He batted .294 in 120 games and swatted a long ball.

Deacon Bill McKechnie brought him up in the fall to be sure.

NOW Lamanno has made a dugout decorator of the veteran Rollie Hensley, still recognized as one of the slickest receivers in the dodge.

Lamanno and Cliff Dapper are 22 and sizable, the former standing an even 6 feet and weighing 190, the latter spreading the same tonnage over a frame two inches higher.

Dapper batted .277 in 125 games for the Hollywood Coasters and belts the ball into the left field stands.

Lamanno and Dapper possess throwing arms as strong as any in the business.

The Reds and Dodgers are fortunate.

Capable young catchers are the rarest of baseball ivory.

Surprise! Maj. Elliott Roosevelt Flies Home; More Save and Salvage Campaigns Slated Soon

BY PETER EDSON
N.A. Service Washington Correspondent

MRS. ROOSEVELT came back from the hairdresser's and was surprised to see some bags in the hall . . . son Elliott had come home unexpectedly from Africa . . . wasn't she surprised . . . not even the President had known he was coming.

That's the gist of what Eleanor wrote in her column, anyway, and the news she gave out surprised a lot of other people, too.

It was known that Elliott was in Africa, where he had been on duty as a major in the Army Air Corps. What Mrs. R. didn't tell was how the major got back in such a hurry, which is a story in itself, and it might as well be told since—(a), the flight of one major hardly constitutes a troop movement; (b), the news of his arrival was given out by a recognized White House spokesman and authority; (c), the information can't possibly be of any aid or comfort to the enemy.

Major Roosevelt came back from Africa in a flying boat that was traveling exceedingly light—just a few other passengers. The route was—well, maybe the route is military information. But it was a route not ordinarily flown and it is believed the flight broke all records for speed in passage between Africa and the United States.

Mrs. Roosevelt's column ended with a statement to the effect she was afraid Elliott would have to spend some time in a hospital, for he had picked up some kind of a germ.

If you will put together the pieces of this story, you can make out of it whatever you can make out of it. Maj. Elliott Roosevelt was taken sick in Africa—but not too sick to fly 6000 miles, or so. He was rushed home by special flight, down under emergency orders, necessary because of the variation from the courses usually followed by the Ferrying Command.

NEXT thing on the program will be national campaigns on saving and salvaging rubber and saving gasoline.

In spite of all the extra authority granted to the President under the emergency war powers acts, there is one type of law he cannot set aside—any law passed by one of the 48 states.

AUSTIN SCRAP DRIVE A MODEL FOR ALL CITIES

AUSTIN, Tex. (Sp)—The City of Austin has adopted a plan in its drive to "get in the scrap to whip the Jap" which George B. Butler, executive secretary of the Texas Salvage Committee, suggested to other cities today as a means of raising funds for the USO.

"Austin has designated concentration points in various parts of the city where scrap metal and rubber — two vital materials needed in war production—can be brought and stored," he said. "These concentration points generally are located on school yards, and school children are making a house-to-house canvass, asking for scrap iron, scrap metal, and all types of scrap rubber. This scrap rubber and metal is being given to the city."

"Where a piece of metal, such as a stove, is too large for the volunteer collectors to move it arrangements have been made for it to be picked up by a city garbage truck, which takes it to the nearest concentration point."

Arrangements also have been made with junk dealers, he said, to weigh the scrap. Then it is sold to the dealer making the best bid and is shipped immediately to mills needing scrap.

"The USO local committee receives credit for the money," Butler explained, "and since the USO has volunteer workers in each town in Texas, attempting to raise money, we suggest that other cities may find this plan helpful in raising the local USO quota. We suggest the USO as a beneficiary for this scrap revenue because Texas, within the next few months, will have many additional soldiers in its camps. However, other cities may choose to see the money go to their local defense council, the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Navy Relief, Salvation Army, Army Relief, or some other charitable cause."

Butler emphasized that the state committee is not trying to dictate local policy in the salvage drive—that it is principally interested in seeing that war production plants get badly needed scrap metal and rubber.

Butter Production Shows A Slump

AUSTIN, Texas—While Texas butter production slumps, ice cream and American cheese manufacture is on the boom, according to records compiled by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Ice cream production in the state in April went up 23.1 per cent above April, 1941, and cheese was up 22.5 per cent. Creamery butter production declined 24.1 per cent.

"I suppose you want to dance?" "Oh, yes, I love to." "Swell! That's better than dancing."

After all is said and done—we keep on saying and doing.

Half Of The State's Engineer Students Study At A. & M.

AUSTIN — The board of professional engineers said that 50 per cent of all engineering students in the state were enrolled at Texas A. & M. and that 21 engineers from the 1941 A. & M. graduating class were engaged in the defense of Bataan and Corregidor.

The board's order directed that the operation of the library give special attention to military, aeronautical and naval engineering books.

"An Electrical Appliance Repairman Will Make You as Good as New"

DOCTOR REDDY KILOWATT'S prescription for ailing electric appliances is—Take them to an Electric Shop for repairs. Not only will you save money and have the use of your time-saving and work-saving appliances, but you also will be co-operating in the program to conserve vital metals needed for war production.

Your electric appliances will last longer and give you better service if you'll take a few simple precautions.

Avoid letting lamp and appliance cords become twisted or frayed. Oil fans, cleaners, food mixers and other motor-driven appliances regularly.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for June

The above map of the country shows the War Bond Quota by states for the month of June totalling $800,000,000. Everybody every pay day is expected to invest at least ten per cent of his income in War Bonds to aid in financing America's offensive against the Axis powers.

The ultimate quota for the nation will be on a basis of one billion dollars per month effective in July. This sum is necessary to provide for all-out production of planes, guns, ships and munitions adequate to arm our fighting men with the tools necessary to win the war.

LETTUCE CROP TO BE MUCH LARGER THAN DURING '41

COLLEGE STATION — The current lettuce crop is estimated at 8,000,000 crates, or one and one half million crates more than at the corresponding time in 1941, according to Hazel Phipps, specialist in food preparation of the Texas Extension Service.

Nutritionists think so well of the family of lettuce beings, that they recommend a serving of at least one green vegetable each day. Green lettuce is a good source of caroten, which the body can change into vitamin A. Miss Phipps says. It contains also some vitamin B-1, riboflavin, and vitamin C, and is a good source of iron and calcium. In general, the thinner and greener the leaf, the better source of iron and caroten lettuce is. Bleached lettuce contributes most of these same food values, but it rates considerably lower than does green lettuce as a source of the vitamins and minerals mentioned.

After lettuce is brought into the kitchen, wash and drain it, and store in a covered vegetable pan.

Put about one quarter cup of fat, or bacon fat, into a heavy skillet, adding to the hot fat a small chopped onion. Cook the onion until it turns yellow, then add one cup of vinegar. When heated, add two quarts of garden leaf lettuce and shredded head lettuce. Cover and heat until the lettuce is just wilted. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot, with bits of crisp bacon added if available. Or try it cooled and served as a salad.

CRAFTY BALDY

CHAPTER XXI

"IT'S like this," Nigel had found out all he could from Baldy before calling a meeting. "She wanted a chance. Baldy thought she was at least as good as average from what he saw last night and that there was a possibility she might be better. She wanted a break and he's spotted a job in the chorus line of some dump in New York."

"Did he tell you the name?" "No. Some cheap place, probably on the East Side."

Fay was thoughtful. "Baldy knows every joint in town, the good as well as the dumps, but I don't see how he could get her anything as easily as that unless it is a hole in the wall. I'll find out about it."

Michael turned to her with a slow smile. "He's after your blood too. Maybe Baldy isn't bad on the surface, but underneath he's just plain parasite."

"You read my thoughts," muttered Myra. Her face was gloomy. "I knew I was taking a risk when I brought her out of the cotton-wool, but who'd have thought she could find trouble up here?"

"Wait till Danny hears about this," said Michael with a rueful smile. "He'll go after Baldy with a gun."

"And he'll blame me," said Myra. "Danny is the father of the Mack family," she announced to the others. "Noted for his impulsiveness rather than his forethought when it comes to disciplinary action on his family."

"What shall we do?" said Nigel. "Simple enough," said Michael. "Spike his guns. Stop him and we stop her. But why shouldn't she have her chance?"

"A chance is all right." Fay's voice was serious. "But she is only a kid and she'll be starting the hard way. Believe me, I've seen so much of it. I was lucky and went the easy way, but I wouldn't want a sister of mine to have the hard road. Baldy is straight enough. He does his best according to his lights. But I don't like his lights. Neither would you."

"The point is," said Nigel, "we ought to solve this thing so that nobody is hurt—pleasant feelings all round and all that kind of thing."

Michael grinned at Nigel. "You and I could fix Baldy."

"What about Peggy?" "She'll have to lump it," said Myra. "Why do I always land in other people's troubles? They chase me even when I'm trying to get a vacation."

"Can't be helped," said Michael. "Any suggestions for a plan?"

IN the house Baldy wiped the perspiration from his brow. It gave him a sense of power and fulfillment to be working over an act again, even if it was with the greenest of green kids. The idea was glimmering in his brain that through Peggy he could hold on to Fay. How or why he did not as yet know, but since they all were up here together they must be linked some way—maybe relatives—and if he was going to get Fay over this run-out spell he would have to play every card in his bag of tricks.

"That's swell, kid," he said at last. "In that line-up that Benny's got you'll stick out like green grass in a bunch of dried hay. He'll have to pull you out in your own act or fire you, and that's your funeral. Come on, let's go over that again."

Then Marie came in and Peggy paused. "Have you seen any of the others, Marie?" she asked.

Marie said that she thought she had seen them all going into the rockery.

Peggy stopped. A warning signal flashed in her brain. At home, whenever the family gathered in conference it meant trouble for someone.

"Wait for me, Baldy," she said, and slipped out of the room, through the kitchen and out of the back of the house. PEGGY made her way cautiously to the back of the rockery which was screened from the house by bushes. Here she looked and listened. She ran back to the house a little later and grabbed a surprised Baldy by the arm.

"Quick, Baldy, let's get out of here into the woods. There's a plot on foot to stop you getting Fay back."

Baldy had begun to acquire a grudging admiration for Peggy's shrewdness and felt that if she didn't start using it too much on him, he might be able to use it to his own advantage.

"I know," she said. "We'll go to the island! They won't be able to see us there and they won't think of looking there."

A quarter of an hour later, Peggy tied up the blue canoe on the farther side of the island and led Baldy to a shaded rock where he could sit down and smoke one of his long cigars in peace. Then she told him what she had overheard. True to her own nature she only told him the part that applied to Fay, that they were conspiring to cheat him of his legitimate prey. She did not mention that they were apparently much more concerned about preventing Peggy from going to New York. But Baldy was no fool when it came to cunning, and he read between the lines. He gathered that there was probably more to the conference than Peggy had confided and he began to figure that if he could use Peggy as a bargaining point he might be able to persuade Fay to change her mind—on condition that he cancel his offer to Peggy. It was up to him, therefore, to add fuel to the fire of Peggy's enthusiasm for a chance in New York.

He led her on, let her speak, encouraged her with a question here and there, and before long had a fair picture of the situation.

Briefly, it was that they were all against him—not personally, but as an influence; that at all costs, Peggy was not going to New York and that he must be kept away from plugging Fay until such time as she left. In other words, he was to be strung along and ditched.

Baldy rolled his cigar from one side of his mouth to the other and laughed to himself. If they could put on an act he was pretty sure that he could put on a better one. They were a nice bunch of kids, but when it came to fooling a man like Baldy Brien, they were up against something not included in their nursery rhymes. "That's fine, sweetheart," he said to Peggy, when he had found out all he needed to know. "What we need now is a plan. You want to swim. O.K. You have your swim, and I'll do some thinking."
